Doheny Settles Navy Oil Lease Case for 13 Millions

HUGE PAYMENT ENDS CONFLICT ON ELK HILLS

U. S. Is Victor in Long Litigation Over Alleged Fraud Deal.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 9.—Litigation over the Elk Hills naval reservation leaves the Pearl Harbor contracts was virtually at an end today, following the payment of $13,500,000 by the Edward L. Doheny interests.

Mr. Doheny, president of the Doheny interests, and his son, Edward L. Doheny, Jr., had been engaged in a long and difficult battle with the government over the rights to the oil fields in the Elk Hills area.

After a trial in Los Angeles, the court awarded the lease to the U. S. government.

The Doheny interests had been fighting to retain the lease, and the government had been fighting to get it.

The case has been appealed to the Supreme Court.

A check for more than $2,000,000 and a bank draft for approximately $11,500,000, the former from the Pan-American Petroleum company and the latter drawn on the Doheny trust, paid Paul J. McCormick had under advisement today the attempt of the government to collect interest on the sum paid from May 10, date of the filing of the judgment of the United States circuit court in San Francisco.

McCormick had under advisement today the attempt of the government to collect interest on the sum paid from May 10, date of the filing of the judgment of the United States circuit court in San Francisco.

With the decision of the court, it appears that the Doheny interests should pay interest on the sum turned over to the government, although no definite amount has been determined.

The Doheny interests have obligations still to fulfill, including the payment of the leases and the recording of the mandate.

Seek Tax Relief.

A petition was filed with the government in the attempt of Rear Admiral H. C. Rousseau and J. Crampton Anderson to recover their deposit for the return of the oil fields to the government, to obtain a refund of taxes paid on oil produced in Kern County; also been filed.

The amount, amounting to approximately $12,000,000, were paid under protest by the receivers and before the validity of the leases had been "brought up" and the land returned to the government.

YIELDS UP LAND.—Washington, Sept. 9.—Upon cancellation of the oil lease, the ground of fraud, the United States government was awarded nearly $14,000,000 for oil taken from the Elk Hills area by the Doheny interests' companies, the Pan-American Petroleum company and the Pan-American Petroleum & Transport company. The payment was made in accordance with this judgment.

The Elk Hills reserves, leased to Doheny by former Secretary of the Interior, were held by the Doheny interests until the recent oil investigation several years ago, have now reverted to navy control.

Coolidge Is Given Gala Farewell by Rapid City

Old Home Town Turns Out En Masse With Band and Flags As President's Vacation in West Ends; Will Leave for Washington Tonight.

By PAUL H. MILLION,

United Press Staff Correspondent.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Sept. 9.—The arrival of the impromptu speech of his car, President Coolidge, today, 1,500 western citizens for a "wonderful vacation" and expressed the hope of returning to the Black Hills many times in future.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Sept. 9.—The whole town of Rapid City closed down today to welcome President Coolidge and his traveling vacationing party, shouting in a big way.

Every merchant shut up his shop promptly at 10:45 a. m.; schools dismissed, and the entire population deserted. Everyone went to see Mr. Coolidge's school house office to shake his hand and to tell him how much he enjoyed the country and here for the first vacation in a generation of the United States ever spent—without a child.

Leave Big Parade.

AVIATION STRAWS.

Another aviation enthusiast with an airplane, a family man, uses recently a 1,500 mile trip to France and Belgium, taking a passenger with him. The total transportation expense, including gasoline, oil, landing charges, clothing fees and housing for the airplane was less than $70, his small machine making better than 15 miles to the gallon of gas. The average cost was only four and one-half cents a mile, ground measurement, or two and one-half cents per person.

Barrois, it is true, is better equipped with landing fields than is America, but it won't be a long while until America is better equipped than Europe. And we buy our gasoline very much cheaper.

When it becomes possible to fly the family air flyer at three or four cents a mile and there are ample accommodations for stops, it suggests out to think what the week-ends will be like, overhead.

As another aviation note of interest, it is reported that the Standard Oil Company of Indiana has purchased a high-priced, high-powered and luxurious plane for the use of its executives, which it is figured, will pay for itself and earn 16 thousand dollars a year through its normal life.

This plane is equipped with berths, observation seats, desk for a secretary, and is built to carry eight passengers and two pilots. No special clothing is necessary, its walls are sound-proof, and conversation in the cabin is not more difficult than on a train. It will carry Standard's executives, 16 miles—Wyo., in 35 hours instead of 38 hours required by train, and is generally used by two executives for a round-trip for business. It is this saving of the time of directors and executives' values, salaries ranging from $30 thousand dollars upward that the plane is expected to earn handsome dividends.

Just straws, these items, that show "whoo-saw" the wind—is blowing. Blowing up an industry that bids fair to rival in magnitude and in its effect upon society, the steam railroad, the telephone and telegraph, and the automobile.

MCGRAY AND GARVEY.

Warren T. McGraw, former governor of Indiana, once rated a millionaire, has been released on parole from the federal prison at Atlanta after serving three years and four months of a sentence of 10 years. One of the prison guards, his lawyer, behind the scenes, Marduk Garvey, became visionary, serving time for much the same sort of fraud. He apparently has no friend, palefaced enough to move the public authorities.

The offenses of the two men were quite similar. McGraw secured large sums to finance an failing business enterprise by misrepresentation. Garvey sold stock in a busted black man's steamship enterprise. Both used the mails. Both apparently thought that by throwing good money after bad they could rescue themselves and the enterprises in which they were interested. The chief difference between them is that McGraw did this about precisely what he was doing while it is doubtful if Garvey did.

If McGraw is entitled to his freedom, then so is Garvey.

SYNOPSIS

Tableau, good and handsome youth of France, trains for the army. His mother, Baroness Fabien, a beautiful woman, loves him, but he is bound to serve. His mother sends him flowers on the table and looks up with a smile to welcome Fabien when he comes home. But he has come to visit his pretty girl and she was travestized with terror.

CHAPTER VI—Continued
"I can remember well enough," answered Marie, "but I don't know if you're Fabien's, and I want to return them to him on our first anniversary—tonight." "No, it isn't mine," said Tableau.

"They are Fabien's. You've led me a merry chase—but you won't escape me again."

"I'm sorry, but I've got you this time. Just the same, I think you're a little fool. Marie went out to do some shopping.

It was a relief to get rid of her, because after Fabien's departure, Marie had been unable to bear the look from his window and wave to him. It would be waiting in the street below. Ever since their separation she had been unable to bear the sight of him.

"Well, all right. Give me the jacket. Just the same, I think you're a little fool. Marie went out to do some shopping.

With a cry that expressed both physical and spiritual hurt, she ran across the room to the window.

"This is Fabien's coming back," she said. "How quickly he will turn you over to the devil!"

CHAPTER VII
Marie was surprised to find that Tableau had come to call. He had come to see her again.

Tableau was a good-looking young man, the young lover whom she had seen in the window of the shop.

Marie, perchance high above the scene, was the only one who saw him. The young man, who had come from the vegetable and dairy section, had stopped "around the corner" before the owner of the wreath shop, and was looking at her.

NEW METHOD IN GRAINING WOOD

Another of the old artifacts is passing. Recently the announcement went out that there have been invented for reproducing the grain of fine wood without the aid of the craftsman's brush. No longer will the services of the skilled "grainer" be essential to the production of decorative effects on deal or metal. Hand graining has been too slow and too costly; now it can be done quickly, easily, inexpensively, to keep pace with the growing furniture industry. From 1919 to 1926, according to statistics of the U.S. Bureau of the Census, the volume of output of steel furniture in this country almost doubled, and since it is increasing rapidly, it would greatly outstrip the old hand method.

The concern is now called on to replace the painter's brush, plate tongs, hammers, and other tools of torture to this different hardened finish. The pattern of the wood's grain is etched upon plates, which are heated and pressed over the mold of a given compound of the consistency of painter's ink. The grain impression is then taken from the plate by special die-blocks, which are heated and pressed over the surface of the metal, leaving on it the reproduction of the grain of the wood. The metal has already been treated so that when it is to be reborn and has been dried, another die follows after the grain has been transferred; then the pieces are sprayed with lacquer or varnish, applied under pressure with lacquer or varnish. Finally it's baked out.

The photographic method is also used to produce the same decorative slate and similar materials for soda fountain, tiles and other purposes.

Painted Surfaces

Speaking in a general term, "Lap" is a method of graining or lacquering new pieces of furniture or objects, equipped with oil and a lacquer powder. The method is used where it is necessary to obtain an exceedingly smooth and polished surface, as in the manufacture of ordnance.

Old Flanders

Medieval Flanders, occupied the present provinces of East and West Flanders in Belgium, the northern part of the province of Zealand in the Netherlands, and part of the departments of Nord and Pas-de-Calais in France.

Teaching by Practice

Samuel L. Clegg, better known as Mark Twain, and his beloved mother, Mrs. Clegg, taught him the art of the teacher in the first year of our day, when he said: "If you would train up a child in the way he should go, you have got to go to yourself."

Keep Straight

He always kept straight, fair back. He who steps is overwhelmed, outdistanced, crushed; he who goes to grow greater becomes smaller. He who leaves or gives up, the stationary condition is the beginning of the end.—A. N.

Land of Oscillation

When you visit a family in Ireland you must kiss each member, according to their age or rank, beginning with the highest and descending to the lowest. Even, excepting the first kiss, on taking the order is reversed, the servants receiving the first kiss.

IS DISMISSED

Mrs. Nellie Sullivan of Dubuque left the Twin Falls county general hospital this afternoon.

HELP FOR SICK WOMEN

Lydia E. Fincham's Vegetable Compound Has Restored the Health of Thousands.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—Mrs. C. H. Hegeman, 123 Bedford St., Brooklyn, has developed a disease of the skin, could not do her housework. She could not sleep at night, and was unable to work in her vegetable garden.

Her husband, Lydia E. Fincham, is my doctor," writes Mrs. Hegeman. "Mrs. Hegeman also took Lydia E. Fincham's Herb Medicine and Compound, and she has been in full recovery, with good results. She says, 'I am recommending your medicine to all I know who have symptoms, the same as I had. I am sending you a statement to the public, so that others who would like information may write me.'

There are women in your readers' communities who are suffering ten times similar to this and nothing now, much Lydia E. Fincham's Herb Medicine and Compound, and they will be well again.

Lydia E. Fincham's Vegetable Compound is a safe, effective medicine.

SEES WITHOUT EYES

Blind Woman Tours Europe Alone, Visits Art Galleries, Climbs Alps

BY ALLENNE SUMMER
TWIN FALLS, Idaho

(Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)
CLEVELAND, O.—The only person in the world who has ever really "seen" without eyes is a blind, crippled girl, "the old maid almost toucher," who never saw sun or moon, or any living face since she was a nine-month-old baby.

This is the verdict of an old student in the Dresden gallery, where the wonderland of all madame dwells. He judged the hand of the blind woman to be that of a man, and asked her what she saw; wed, he laid the gauges to keep silent and had all the visitors still while a blind woman told them "what the madame said."

Miss Alma Adams, totally blind, "saw" the madame when on a tour of Europe, and when she returned, accompanied All alone, she traveled thousands of miles, trusting to passenger for many necessary help.

She brings home with her not only a memory of hours never before given any human being, but also a strong faith in the power of God.

In 12 months of wandering in strange land and among strange tongues, she had never one second of danger, and very few very dangerous experiences.

There was the time when, in a hotel of Rome, her sensitive fingers found too much dust and dirt about the petticoat room, and she decided to leave.

The proprietor forbade any servant to help her find her way over three flights of stairs and out of the hotel.

"I was too American to stand it," says Miss Davis, whose first trip abroad was a complete success. "I started out by myself, knowing that I did not have the slightest idea where the door was. That frightened me, as they had told me that I would be lost if I left. They almost pushed me into the street and insisted that I give them the key to the front entrance. I told them, 'I'm not afraid of anything,' but that made them even more afraid."

When she was only a baby her mother asked her to bring her mother's towel.

"I can't," she told her mother. "Why not?" asked her mother.

"I can't," she told her mother. "I'm not afraid of anything," she told her mother.

She was born blind, but she can do everything else can do. You're

A cause for alarm, the car followed, and she was worried about

Don't you ever again let me hear

You may that I don't that you can't do anything, that anyone and afraid, ever for herself, or without it's a wonder she can do anything.

Everyone else can do everything else can do.

Old School Mark Will Fall This Year, Is Belief

Principal Terry Estimates That In Twelve Days All Students Will Enter New High School
Teachers Will Assemble

Shattering of last year's "old school mark" movement leaves much to do after U. S. Terry, principal, has plotted another one. Of students enrolled until 2:30 yesterday morning, there were 618 enrolled at that time when enrollment began to register about 200 "foreign" students and, according to Mr. Terry, there are many students who attend the new school who have not yet registered. He estimates enrollment between 750 and 800 will be in attendance in senior high school this year. Last year 113 enrolled.

Enrollment in the Twin Falls school system will meet with Superintendent Smith—in the high school—auditorium Saturday morning at 10 a.m. Enrollment will continue Saturday morning, with their teachers at 2 Saturday afternoon. Instructions on the starting of school Monday morning will be given in each school.

THREE HANGED FOR MURDER

Two Negroes Die for Slay-ing Man, Another Pays for Kidnapping Woman.

By United Press

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 9.—Three Negro men were hanged yesterday for kidnapping and murdering a woman, the first triple execution in the history of the city.

Otto Blumman and Arthur Scott were condemned for the murder of Joseph E. Carpenter during a holdup in Charles county January 8. William H. Ross paid with his life for the murder of Mrs. Anna G. Thompson, Mrs. Tom, Md., this summer.

There were no demonstrations, but a heavy armed guard was posted about the high stone walls of the prison.

CALIFORNIA HAS NEW INDUSTRY

California is developing an industry calculated to render the United States independent in its production of agar and at the same time is greatly extending the possibilities of the product.

The agar is derived from a tract of a species of red seaweed, long known for use in medicine and chemistry. Now it is coming into industrial use.

Finely ground, it is used in baking such candies as marshmallows and jellies.

Formerly all the agar used in this country came from Japan. The sea weed from which it was extracted was washed with fresh water, then broken up and dried.

The resultant liquid was strained and poured into shallow pans, where it thickened as it cooled.

After being cooled, the agar was exposed to the night air, for freezing and then thawed by the sun, the agar evaporating the water.

On account of the evaporation, the agar is dried and becomes more absorbent of water, a quality on which many of its industrial uses depend.

A large plant, recently built, agar is derived native to California waters, not until recently was a factory for its treatment built. Local manufacturers are expected to produce dry and hate it, and from them the new industry purchases its supply.

The seaweed is dried in the open, washed, dried, cut and sorted into wire mesh bags. After being treated for six hours, it is pumped into a mixing vat, through filter press, then packed in a vacuum evaporator. It is folded in four seconds in a nest of horizontal tubes within a cylindrical chamber around which can was circumferential. Glue is forced into the tube, melted, it is cut off in squares, pressed, it is later frozen, crushed, washed, dehydrated and packed in sacks for shipment.

Valuable Compound.

Water glass is derived from silica, calcium and potassium oxide heated together in a crucible. The molten mass is powdered when cold and extracted with water, followed by evaporation of the water. It is used in the manufacture of fabrics, ceramic, paints, fillings for art, dyeing and bleaching, preservatives for eggs, abrasives, etc.

Historic Printers.

The firm of Wyman & Sons is said to be the oldest printing house in London. It was founded in 1687, doing printing for the Royal Society company, with one man as printer. Franklin was once employed as a journeyman printer in this shop.

Tapestry Warp.

Typically the warp is tapestry in texture. The threads are usually made of colored wool threads, although silk, cotton and silver are sometimes added to give richness. Silk is used in China.

HUNT FOR TWO PLANES HALTED

Hope for Men in 'Old Glory'
'Carling' Is Virtually Abandoned.

By United Press

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 9.—Search for the missing Old Glory and St. John Carling by the moonlight. John Whisler was postponed today. St. John Carling was last heard from yesterday, indicated rough seas and waterless caves. The two were 618 enrolled at that time when enrollment began to register about 200 "foreign" students and, according to Mr. Terry, there are many students who attend the new school who have not yet registered. He estimates enrollment between 750 and 800 will be in attendance in senior high school this year. Last year 113 enrolled.

In the Twin Falls school system will meet with Superintendent Smith—in the high school—auditorium Saturday morning at 10 a.m. Enrollment will continue Saturday morning, with their teachers at 2 Saturday afternoon. Instructions on the starting of school Monday morning will be given in each school.

The Carling was presumed to have been lost in the Atlantic.

Two young Canadian aviators, Capt. Terence Tally and Lieut. James D. Macmillan, left Harbour Grace, N. S., yesterday morning, en route to Newfoundland, on an attempt of flight across the ocean.

Metrolife states the theory today that strong southwesterly winds might have forced the plane off course.

Reports of the plane from Scandinavia.

TIBETAN BANDITS ROB AMERICANS

By United Press

CALCUTTA, India, Sept. 9.—Two American families Duncan and MacLeod, including five children were fired on and robbed by bandits in the hills of northern Sikkim, on the Tibetan border, to Rangpo, Burma.

The Duncan family saved the lives of both families.

The party, suffering great privations, reached Atmar.

Must Be Perfect
