By PAUL H. HALLON.
The Press Staff Correspondent.

Republicans, 47.
Democrats, 46.

Formerly was associated with the Rooseveltian view of the public party. The independent republicans of the Roosevelt group have announced a desire to support the administration in delaying the contemplated tax reduction, whereas democrats want the best in the contemplated expenditures.

THE POTATO SITUATION. With government officials showing Idaho has production of the largest potato crop in her history, and with thousands of cars of tubers yet to be shipped from the state to the various markets, growers and shippers are interested in protecting themselves and the reputation of their product, and are taking steps toward this end.

It is the general opinion of all interested in the marketing of the potatoes that shippers of spuds from Idaho, and this especially at the fests Southern Idaho, must take care to market the potatoes which will command the usual premium paid for Idaho potatoes and at the same time remedy the weakness of the market.

One of the latest government reports issued this week by Gov. H. C. Hildridge of Idaho, when he issued a formal statement in which he believes that a rigid restriction to shipments of only the highest grades of potatoes is desirable and a certainty such as growers themselves may agree upon would have the effect of materially strengthening the market.

The action of the government followed a resolution adopted at a recent meeting of 600 men interested in the industry at Idaho Falls. This resolution calls upon the growers and shippers of the state to consign only the No. 1 grade and to sell the No. 2 grade in the trucks for cash at point of shipment and to stop all shipments in which and to stop the shipment of the commercial grades or cull potatoes.

This resolution was passed, according to the resolution itself, exists in the state. From this study, according to the wording of it after a thorough discussion of the potato marketing situation as it is, the resolution, those attending the meeting were convinced that the market conditions and prices have been damaged and the good name and reputation of the Idaho potato as a product seriously hurt, on the markets, due to the fact that a low grade of potatoes has been permitted to be shipped in plain bags, without brand or specification, the market that the potatoes in question have gone on the market in competition with the high-grade potatoes, to the decided detriment of the latter.

Government inspectors in the Twin Falls area estimate that two-thirds of all the potatoes shipped from this area are shipped in such conditions and as a result the market quotations, daily show that the Idaho Wisconsin White continue at the same price range, whereas in the past the Idaho product has commanded a premium. Government estimates place the marketable potatoes in Idaho, to be moved between Jan. 1 and June 1 at an average of 175 to 220 cars per day. This number of carloads of potatoes estimated to be shipped in this area is 2,000 cars more than last year, was shipped from the state after Jan. 1 in any previous season.

With these conditions existing, it is apparent that some move should be gotten under way toward limiting the potato shipments, and the present move to curtail the January shipments to the better grades in an effort to induce some favorable reaction from the markets and to demonstrate the value of strict grading of the Idaho potato crop, is a step in the right direction.

Explain Health of Fat Persons

The answer is easy, according to Dr. Louis S. McLeister, professor of medicine at the University of Alabama.

He says they carry twice the load of normal persons; the physician explains, "Second the heart has to do twice the work landcarried by deposits of fat."

Healing pancreas are very slow, Mr. McLeister explained. In cases of young children and old persons, he said it was often inadvisable. Sweet, according to the specialist, are no more fattening than carbohydrates such as bread and potatoes.

THREATENED HURRICANE AGAINST CHANGES IN RULES HAS DWINDED

For Most Part Football Coaches Attending Meeting in New York Are Falling in Line and Accepting Assurance of No Important Alterations.

By FRANK GETTY.
 The Presses' special editor, NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—What threatened to develop into a hurricane of protest against the proposed football rules bill, dined today to a few faint protests from individual coaches, met today by the football rules committee, which met today for annual luncheon at the Hotel Astor, for greater representation on the committee.

Many of the coaches who gathered for today's session continued outspoken in their objections to the proposed general code. Here and there loud demands for return of the rule book to their original place on the coat line.

Dr. W. C. Spears of Minnesota led a group of mid-western members who wanted the lateral pass and the forward pass retained to their former places in the game.

By the most part however, the football coaches seemed to be falling into line with the officials and the National Collegiate Athletic association groups, which already have accepted passively the assurance of the Kell, chairman of the rules committee, that no important changes are contemplated.

W. H. White of Ohio State; Ray Morrison, coach of Southern Methodist, and Charles F. Crowley, Columbia coach, representing three sections of the football map, expressed satisfaction with the present rules.

"It's only a personal opinion, but I would like to see a limited lateral pass retained in the present rule book," said Dr. White.

"The playing field is disturbed by your recognition by the present rule book."

SPORTSMANSHIP

By FRANK GETTY
 (Copyright, 1927, by United Press.)

A review of the racing season shows that 1927 was not a particularly good year for the American turf.

Right Britain, writes from Paris that it was a poor year in France, also. American race fans, who occasionally have had cause to complain of small fields will be interested to know, however, that the principal complaint in the racing country is that of "horse racing in France," he says, "is beginning to suffer from a plus of horses, and backers and trainers share that minus handicap will be crushed out of existence beneath a weight of numbers."

"Looking back on the racing season in the Paris region, which closed Dec. 25, it appears that although there was a mass of thoroughbred material, only two real racers stood out.

They were Martine de Haas' Tallman and the Moulins stables' Grand Prix. The latter was the winner.

"Although the calendar of the Paris season now runs over 10 months, it is not long enough to provide for all the horses in training. Each year gives some 100 to 200 horses, and that 2000 there will be 200,000 horses jockeying for places on the French turf.

"Entries were so numerous at Moulins-Laffitte, a training center favored by English students on the Continent, that many races during the season drew 30 to 40 starters. In one afternoon at that track it was not uncommon to have 100 or more horses entered for the six events.

"When the jockey fields were made and the start and often as many as 10 horses are left at the post.

"As the favorite is quite likely to be boxed in such a mob of horses, getting in the unobscured position has fallen off considerably, and the authorities are disturbed. As for the bettors, they feel they do not get a fair run for their money."

IN THE UNITED STATES

In the United States, the horses carried colors on the Jockey Club tracks in the past ten years. The total, however, was only 1,670, which gives some idea of the complete lack of the number of French and American horses.

The two-year-olds of 1927 established three new track records in the United States, but the others are proved to be nothing new.

The French tracks likewise produced some fair two-to-olds, and the prospect for next season is more hopeful. If only the bettors get busy during the winter.

They will be racing shortly on the Riviera course at Nicos, one of the most picturesque and unusual courses in the world.

"Of the half track, the half track, the half track, the half track, makes a sharp turn, skirts the sands of the blue Mediterranean and comes crashing down into the home stretch in the shadow of a railway embankment.

DEATH RATE FOR 1926 IS HIGHER

Department of Commerce Figures Show Heart Disease Leads.

According to figures of the Department of Commerce the death rate for the year 1926 was slightly higher than for the preceding 12 years, the rate being 12.2 per 1,000 population in the registration area of the United States. This rate includes 11 states, 25 cities in non-registration states, and the District of Columbia.

The report embraces a review of 17,000 deaths, 62.5 per cent of the population of the United States.

Heart disease is increasing as a result of the war, advanced from 185 to 190 per 100,000 population. Influenza, pneumonia, measles, whooping cough and cancer also have made gains as causes of death, while tuberculosis and enteric, under two years and typhoid and scarlet fever have correspondingly lost ground, according to the report.

Heart disease stands first among all the causes of death as well as first in percentage of increase, being the cause of 229,279 deaths in the United States in 1926; pneumonia ranks second, though far behind heart disease as a fatal disease, causing 107,752 deaths in 1926.

The seven diseases in the order of their mortality are: heart disease, 229,279; pneumonia, 107,752; influenza, 42,803; and diphtheria, 25,237.

Among the accidental deaths, the report states, those resulting from automobile accidents in 1926 are the most numerous with a total of 20,841, while accidental falls came second, 14,641. Railroad accidents caused 10,411 deaths, or a third as many deaths per year, but all are increasing, especially those due to the causes of death which show during the year of 1926 an increase of nearly 1 per cent.

Deaths were the number of 15,410 deaths and homicides 9,210, both showing an increase over former years.

No disease was shown greater increase according to this survey than cancer, which caused 6,200 more deaths in 1926 than in 1925—except diseases of the heart, which head the list with 13.5 per cent increase.

GRAIN PRICES SCARCELY MOVE IN VERY DULL SESSION

By United Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Grain prices with the exception of corn, scarcely moved today during one of the week's quietest sessions on the Chicago board of trade. Late in the day wheat was practically unchanged; corn had declined a small fraction, and oats were about unchanged.

Slight weakness and erratic movement on the December futures was the only feature in the wheat pit. Receipts were nine cars, closing off 1/4 to 6.

Favorable cold weather over the belt weakened the corn market and checked the fractional decline, closing off 1/4 to 1/2 per cent. Receipts were 136 cars.

Rice was practically steady in a dull market, closing off 1/4 to 1/2 per cent. Receipts were 71 cars.

All cash markets were unchanged. Provisions closed higher.
