LINDY'S OCEAN TRIP LEADS IN NEWS INTEREST

Non-stop Trip to Paris Eclipsed All Other Events; No Comparison.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The news event—the successful non-stop flight of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from New York to Paris—has eclipsed all other events in the interest of American newspaper readers that the year 1927 held no other item comparable to it in its interest.

The record of news from last New Year's day until this New Year's eve shows that the flight of Lindbergh and his arrival in Paris as the high point in American interest in news events. This explanation is based on newspaper space allotted to the Lindbergh story, reference in the press to his flight around the country while the flight was in progress and the size of the crowds in leading cities following bulletins of the event.

While Lindbergh's flight really only opened an attention holding event, the only Pacific and Atlantic flight successes and transoceanic flights since were in a list of the important events of the year. Thus, grating the Lindbergh flight and other flights as a single section of events, Lindbergh's flight of great interest is the American reading public during the year.

1.—The trans-Atlantic flight of Colonel Lindbergh and other Atlantic and Pacific flights.

2.—May 29-31—Lindbergh takes off from East Island, New York and completes the first non-stop flight to Paris.

3.—May 7—Capt. Charles Guggenheim and Major Francis Coll take off from Paris for New York, and accomplish the first in the Atlantic.

4.—June 6—Gertrude Chamberlain and Charles A. Levine complete non-stop flight from Honolulu, field, Maui Island, to England, Germany, being forced down before reaching Berlin, their objective, because of lack of fuel.

5.—June 29—Louis Leter J. Mattland and Albert Heesberger land at Wheeler Field, Honolulu, after flight from San Francisco which constituted the longest non-stop ocean flight to Hawaii.

6.—Commander O. Thorne and Dr. Bert Acosta, Gen. O. Norvell and Bert Ballantyne, piloting the monoplane land in sea off Versailles, France, their plane being wrecked after an attempted flight from Honolulu, Aug. 10.

7.—Capt. Arthur G. Goebel, Hotterwood, wins in the $25,000 Duke J. Dewey from Oakland, Calif. to Hawaii, Aug. 26.

8.—All hope abandoned for the former "Doris," the Golden Gate and the Dallas Speed, however two contrails in the Duke race and carrying ocean passengers, the latter a rescue plane which carried two persons, Aug. 31—Princess Lavenant, Wertheim-Freutenberg, fleet, Col. Michio and Capt. Howard, being in monoplane St. Raphael, from England, bound for Canada, and apparently lost to Atlantic.

9.—Sept. 6 and 7—The Old Glory monoplane, piloted by J. D. Hill and Lloyd Bartholomew and carrying Phil Payne, New Jersey newspaperman as a passenger, taken off from Old Orchard, Me. for Rome; plane is wrecked and all hands are lost.

10.—Sept. 7—Capt. Terry Tuller and Capt. James Moffatt leave Newfoundland in monoplane Sir John Curlew, for England and apparently are lost to Atlantic.

11.—Oct. 13—The American girl monoplane piloted by George Hallidam, and carrying Miss Ruth Edie, is forced down at sea while en route from New York to Paris; Hallidam and Miss Edie are rescued by a freighter.

12.—April 15—Flood conditions along the Mississippi river become serious; April 23—The Mississippi levee at Portage, La., is cut to relieve pressure of the flood on New Orleans.

13.—Sept. 25—Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti are executed for their part in a South Braintree, Mass., mail robbery and murder, their execution pending, seven months after they have them and attracting attention in all sections of the world.

14.—A. S. President Coolidge in his summer home, provides the political situation, D. C. to Mexico City, A.

Countess Karolyi Has Antique Shop

PARIS.—Countess Mital Karolyi, wife of the first president of the Hungarian republic, is running an antique shop in Paris. The countess is the daughter of Count Andrássy, who was foreign minister during the war, and her husband is a baron from the wealthiest men in the Balkans. Count Karolyi was a friend of the duke but eventually fell a victim to an assassin who he was a duke.

Countess Karolyi also was accused of helping recruiting for the Red army but she eventually fled for France. After the 1918-19 Russian revolution and the Bolsheviks came to power, she fled to Paris and was obliged to go to work.

"I began dealing old English furniture for a dealer," she told the United Press. "I obtained high prices because I had a reputation. I learned that old French furniture is also sought after, so I began traveling in the provinces to find bargains. I am doing well in that line and I intend now to take up the sale of the best pieces following bulletins of the event."

While Lindbergh's flight really only opened an attention holding event, the only Pacific and Atlantic flight successes and transoceanic flights since were in a list of the important events of the year. Thus, grating the Lindbergh flight and other flights as a single section of events, Lindbergh's flight of great interest is the American reading public during the year.

New Series Pontiac Six Is Coming Soon

The Oakland Motor Car company is planning to present soon a new and improved Pontiac six which will advance over the present base price, it is stated by an executive of the company. Although details of the new car, the Oakland official authorized the following statistics on the new car.

"The Oakland Motor Car company will offer, on or shortly before Jan. 7, the latest and most complete automobile to date, a new series Pontiac six, which will establish new more firmly Pontiac's position as maker of a really "pure car" and the base price has not been increased.

"It is also stated on excellent authority that the new Pontiac six will carry a new power engine, and that the increased power has been obtained without change in piston construction. The car is said to be equipped with the latest in line of several features which have proved their value on the Oakland all-American six. Four-wheel lock are only one of many improvements.

"The new Pontiac six is noted in the matter of heat radiation, a warm "feel" resulting from the new radiators is asserted to have eliminated objectionable amount of such which is characteristic of other models principally in a heavier frame. Two of the present body types, it is even more attractive models.

A THRONE FOR WALES' BROTHER.

Duke of York, Popular and Democratic, Due to Become King of England if Edward Winson Remains a Bachelor

THESE PEOPLE MAY BE GREAT BRITAIN'S NEXT "ROYAL FAMILY"

The Duke of York.

Princess Elizabeth, the Duke of York's bride, possibly a future queen.

The well-dressed man.

The Duchess of York.

LONDON.—The British public is just beginning to wake up to the fact that the second son of King George may some day be the most important man in the kingdom.

All of which is only another way of saying that Albert, Duke of York, has a chance of being elevated to the throne of England.

And a chubby, roly-poly baby girl, the tiny Princess Elizabeth, only eight of the duke, may be destined to rule as England's queen.

In court circles these eventualities have been discussed for some time. It has only been recently, however, that the public at large has begun to think of them.

Wales, Says Single.

Here is the situation that brings the ill-fated Duke of York into the picture.

The Prince of Wales, direct heir to the throne, is unmarried. Furthermore, he has reached the age of 23 and abhors no provision whatever of marrying and providing himself with an heir. Thus, if he remains single throughout his life, as now seems very possible, he will have, when he has no son or daughter to inherit the crown on his death.

In such a case the Duke of York would be next in the line of royal succession. Should the childless duke, his brother Albert would, become king.

This of course, would make the Duke of York the next heir to the throne. But the Duke of York's only child is a girl, the very Princess above mentioned, at the time of her father's death, she had no brother, she would become queen.

Accordingly, the British public is beginning to pay more attention to the coming and going of the Duke of York.

What sort of chap is he, the younger brother of the famous Prince of Wales?

To begin with, it is safe to say that he would be every bit as popular as Wales if he were as well known. He is a modest, rather shy chap of 31, humble in the extreme, fully aware of the responsibilities that are his and his wife's, thoroughly democratic and unassuming.

Doubtless it will surprise most people to learn it, but York is considered the best-dressed prince in England. His sartorial accent is chosen with even more care than that of Wales, and his taste in clothes runs to somewhat sober patterns and colors.

The responsibilities of his position have made him studious and thoughtful. He is deeply interested in labor work, is president of the Industrial Welfare society and is constantly working to bring about a better understanding between employers and workers. It is forever studying factory conditions at first hand, many a factory superintendent has learned that the duke flies to drop in unexpectedly at a manufacturing plant and make a thorough tour of inspection.

He is fully an ardent sportsman and made a thorough tour of inspection. He is fully an ardent sportsman and made a thorough tour of inspection. He is fully an ardent sportsman and made a thorough tour of inspection.

year record. Unlike the Prince of Wales, he was not knighted before he was a year old and he has not been knighted since. He was knighted in 1901, but he was knighted in 1901, but he was knighted in 1901.

At present the duke holds the rank of commander in the navy and captain in the royal yacht fleet. Military men will tell you that these honors were earned, they said, not handed down on a silver platter. The duke went through the regular British naval training school like any other British youth, and served a long apprenticeship at sea.

The duke has lately devoted considerable time to a novel establishment of his own invention—a summer camp for boys in Kent. At this camp some of aristocrats and sons of factory hands mingle annually for fortnightly periods, with the duke intruding as general supervisor. This camp is, in line with his attempts to promote better understanding between England's rather year record. Unlike the Prince of Wales, he was not knighted before he was a year old and he has not been knighted since. He was knighted in 1901, but he was knighted in 1901.

Of course, it is worth noting that the Duke of Wales always addresses her as "Queen Elizabeth"—"as though she were a queen, she would some day be queen" in other fact.

Pre-Presidential Year Ends With Party Confusion

BY PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The pre-presidential year closes with considerable confusion in both the republican and democratic parties.

In the republican party the indefiniteness centers around the question of whether President Coolidge will consent to be "drafted" into the election and among the democrats there is a strained feeling over the prospective election of Coolidge.

This year's election brought both Coolidge and Smith to a pre-eminent place in their respective parties.

From a January defense of his legislation, an unpromising political situation created by the vote of the McKinley-Haugen farm bill in February, Mr. Coolidge came in December to a place where many republican leaders are all having that he led the party again next year.

Smith started the year in Albany, being elected governor for the fourth consecutive time. His refusal to enter an active campaign; the collapse of his chief opponent William C. Clegg, who retired from the arena; his dett-handling of the ticklish religious issue; by a public letter in support of his critics; and the action of many democrats in their meeting at Kansas City in September, have all combined to place him in the demoralized position he apparently now occupies.

The pre-political position of the year was furnished by President Coolidge, who, without warning, handed down to the party a surprise announcement of his resignation in October. His resignation was a surprise announcement of his resignation in October. His resignation was a surprise announcement of his resignation in October.

Van Eaton Is Held To District Court

Walter "Chuck" Van Eaton, who was charged with assault with intent to kill, "more car" and the base price of $5,000 bond to appear at the district court at the Missouri river. The way, John H. Jenkins, brother of W. H. Jenkins on whom the alleged assault was committed, and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Tolson, at whose house the shooting took place were the only witnesses summoned by the state, while the defense introduced none.

Motion in dismissing the case, on the grounds that the evidence offered was insufficient to connect the defendant with the alleged crime, was denied by the district court.

The assault which Van Eaton is charged occurred at the home of Mr. Tolson, the evening preceding the shooting at the home of Van Eaton, who had spent the day at the W. H. Jenkins home, and were preparing to leave for the home of Van Eaton, who had received a stray bullet in the right part of the head. Van Eaton is alleged to have inflicted a scalp wound on himself. The victims of the shooting were removed to the hospital and Van Eaton was taken to a hospital at a local hotel. He was cared for by a private nurse who was arranged on Dec. 17 to which he pleaded not guilty and preliminary hearing set for Dec. 22, postponement being taken on that date until yesterday.

CROP FOR 1928 IS NOW ASSURED

Special Dispatch to The Times
 HPIH, Dec. 31.—With all irrigation water reservoirs in the state filling more rapidly than ever before, Idaho farmers know that a crop for the coming season of 1928 is assured. Farmers in the irrigated districts do not expect much rain in the coming season. They do, however, wish to control that water and bring it to the crops through ditches and over-heads throughout the growing season. It is estimated that the location of the bureau effected an obstruction to the conduct of the regular business of the court, and that there was apparent collusion with the assessor's office to use the records thereof for private gain. Temporary injunction was issued by Judge H. E. Eason and was made returnable yesterday. Owing to absence from town of the attorney for the defendant, postponement was ordered until such date as may be heard upon by attorneys and Judge W. A. Babcock who will continue court again on Jan. 15.

Shakespeareans

G. H. Hale, writing in the Intelligencer, says that the collection of first and later editions of Shakespeare on display in this library "equal that of the British museum."

Part of the water carried by this stream formerly went down in the early spring as the snow melted. So the American Falls dam, near Twin Falls, which created has a shore line of 125 miles and holds 1,625,000 acre feet of water, enough to cover 1,625,000 acres of land one foot deep. This reservoir has been full and running over since the latter part of November. Its companion, Jackson lake reservoir, at the headwaters of the South fork of the Snake river in Wyoming, supplies thousands of acres of Idaho soil. Never before in the history of Idaho irrigation has it contained so much water at this time of the year. At present, says the Intelligencer, the water is being held in the reservoirs throughout the winter months of the growing season. It is estimated that the location of the bureau effected an obstruction to the conduct of the regular business of the court, and that there was apparent collusion with the assessor's office to use the records thereof for private gain. Temporary injunction was issued by Judge H. E. Eason and was made returnable yesterday. WHY NOT 'UNIFORM ACCOUNTING'?

Establishment of criminal statistics bureaus in every state of the Union, is recommended by the national crime commission. Based upon the findings of former Gov. Frank O. Bowden of Illinois, the report states that America has more crime than any other civilized nation and has the world's worst criminal statistics. Annual reports of America are formed little less than riddles. The statistical bureaus recommended by the commission, coupled with central identification bureaus, which are also suggested, would be of enormous assistance to the Federal census bureau in its tabulation of criminal data. In civil affairs, such as operating railroads, public utilities, and national banks, the law requires uniform reports of the most intricate character and private companies have to furnish these reports to state and federal governments so that public officials can report them to the smallest detail. In public affairs and police court records, why cannot the same uniformity and thoroughness be required? Why should the criminal be encouraged in carrying on his work due to lack of public information regarding his crimes. Why not keep as accurate a check on criminals as we do on honest and legitimate business? Why blame the war, the modern jazz age, bootleg liquor, the movies, revolvers, or our large cities for the "crime profession"? Instead of warring on the criminal, we pass more laws further restricting law abiding citizens, in the hope that the criminal will be checked by the new law. He laughs at such tactics, knowing that the more laws we have, the more loopholes there are for him to crawl through and evade punishment. Uniform laws, uniform penalties and uniform enforcement would get the proper results.

COACHES CONFIDENT FOOTBALL IN 1928 WILL SURPASS THIS YEAR

Final Decision of Men Who Run the Game is That It Has Started on Most Prosperous Era and Will Prove a More Vital Factor in Future.

By GEORGE WIRSHKEY
Full Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—While a long wait for the final decision of the men who run the game is over, it is that football has just started on its most prosperous era and that it will prove to be a more vital factor in developing the youth of America in the future than it has been in the past.

After most harmonious and acrimonious debate since the establishment of the Football Coaches' association six years ago, the very representative of the nation departed today confident that football in 1928 would equal and surpass football in 1927, its record year in play.

William Roper of Princeton, now president of the C. F. A., believes football has just started to grow.

"The coaches, officials, rules makers, athletic directors and others connected with the game are now working out in one big family working out the final destinies of the game," he said, "I believe that football will grow larger, greater, and more popular than ever."

Football has not reached its peak. In the opinion of John L. Griffin, commissioner of the Western conference.

Levi Critchfield of Yale said: "There has been less criticism of the game this year than in any other year." "People have come to realize that the so-called ills of football are not inherent."

"I am glad that the game was growing a little too complex for the college youth, but the same complexity has promised to take care of that."

The relationship between football and the press was touched on by both Roper and Griffin.

"Publicity has done a tremendous good for football and the only answer I have to make is that more publicity be placed on the game and not on the individual," Roper said.

The Princeton coach said that he wanted to see the game and all other sports put on the same plane, and indicated that his proper place was in the headlines.

Short writers more and more are looking for the things in football to write about rather than the unvarying Commissioner Griffin said.

As for the rules, there is still likely to be any radical change. Most of the objection to the present rules centers around the lateral pass.

The coaches passed a recommendation by a vote of 16 to 10 to restore the lateral pass in the 1928 attitude which would prevent a backward pass from being called dead at the point where it strikes the ground.

Delante Fambled Point heated debate developed on the fumbled punt, but the coaches passed a recommendation by a vote of 27 to 25 that the fumbled punt be returned to its 1926 attitude.

The shift and the position of the goal posts received the unanimous endorsement of the coaches.

These recommendations will come up before the rules committee at a national meeting which probably will take place here on the last Saturday in January.

CANZONERI WINS CHANCE AT TITLE

By United Press
NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Tony Canzoneri, the nice appearing little heavyweight from Brooklyn, earned a right to meet Donny Bird for the featherweight title, Hess now holds, over Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., last night.

It was one of the finest fights the Garden has seen this season, and Canzoneri won only by the margin of one round. From the first tip of the glove the fighters fought and at the last tip the tenth they still were fighting.

Taylor barred Canzoneri frequently with vicious left hooks. He jettied rights and lefts to the body, Canzoneri dodged and came back fighting. His right was working well and he shot it over frequently to make the fight from losing.

The view of the fight was that Canzoneri won four rounds, Taylor three and three were draws.

Taylor, who is recognized by the National boxing association as the best featherweight champion in the 121½ pound class, whereas Canzoneri weighed 125½.

It was the third meeting between the two. In Chicago Taylor won one decision over Canzoneri and one fight was a draw. They fought then at the bantamweight class.

WILDCAT BACK ON N. Y. LIST

By United Press
NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Arvo Haldinen, the Swedish wildcat who is a prominent contender for the heavyweight championship has been reinstated by the New York athletic commission. He was suspended for failure to fulfill a contract to box Jessup last Saturday night.

A match between Haldinen and Joe Dundee, to be held in Chicago, will be conducted for by Tex Rickard when Dundee and his manager, Max Baer, are in town for the middle bout in the 1928 season.

Dundee and Baer were suspended after Dundee refused to appear in a bout in Los Angeles another 1927 fight.

Pittsburgh Favorite In Pasadena Contest

By United Press
PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 31.—The University of Pittsburgh graduate, who plays for the team with Stanford Monday, was the favorite in the light weight session held tonight from the 1927 with a strenuous workout late this afternoon.

The Stanford player, who arrived here yesterday, was to hold his second practice in the Rose Bowl, which will be the scene of the game before the Panthers take the field.

Pittsburgh, one of the strongest contenders for national title honors, is the favorite over the Cardinals. By virtue of eight one-sided victories and a scoreless tie with Washington and Jefferson, the Panthers established themselves in the front ranks for 1928.

From England comes the claim of discovery of a new heavyweight with championship possibilities.

It is an old story, but one to which an Englishman will lend a sympathetic ear. One of his neighbors should discover both poles at one, old England could scarcely grant him more accolades than awaits the discoverer of a British boxer capable of dominating the world.

The identity of the alleged British aspirant is a closely guarded secret. Just why this should be necessary is not quite clear. Perhaps his backers fear that should his name be made public, he will walk up and slap him before he has been properly exploited.

It is hardly possible that they consider this secrecy useful from a publicity point of view. There is no doubt that if there were a real British heavyweight anywhere in Great Britain he would be created and reared by the "Red" and "Black" of the world.

The newcomer is supposed to be a "big" man, and a "big" man has been heard about him. Recently he was promoted to be a junior "chick" in a city office, a position which entitles him to two collared shirts and a little black "straw" hat, with a red band and a blue band.
