RASKOB MADE SMITH CAMPAIGN CHIEF

President Approves Minidoka Enterprise

MILLIONAIRE MOTORS HEAD ACCEPTS JOB

Like Governor, Democratic Director Rose From Poverty to Power and Is Roman Catholic in Faith; Also Favors Revision of Prohibition Laws By Congress; Leaders in Session Today.

By United Press

NEW YORK, July 11—John J. Raskob, who rose from a $7.50 a week stenographer to the status of a giant in the world of finance, was selected today to direct the presidential campaign of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, former newsboy.

The chairman of the finance committee of the General Motors Corporation was Smith's own choice for the chairmanship if the Democratic national committee, which ratified his selection at its meeting here.

Raskob's election marked a climax in the organization for the campaign by leaders of the Democratic party. They met here with Smith and his running mate, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, who opposed Smith for the presidential nomination at Houston.

There is a striking parallel in the careers of Smith and Raskob. Both rose from humble beginnings to positions of leadership in their respective fields; both are born leaders; both are Roman Catholics and both believe that the prohibition laws should be changed.

While Smith was working his way through the Tammany school of politics, and selling fish in the Fulton market, Raskob was starting his career as stenographer in Lockport, N. Y. In 1900, Raskob asked his employer for more money and was turned down. He then heard of a man named P. S. du Pont in Lorain, Ohio, who wanted a secretary and applied for the job, asking for a salary of $1,000 a year.

He got the job and the salary.

Thus began Raskob's relationship with the du Ponts, who now own such large blocks of stock in the General Motors Corporation.

He became a believer in General Motors when it was organized by William C. Durant in 1908 and induced the du Ponts to invest.

JIM REED IN CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, July 11—With hope in their hearts and $200,000 in their treasury, leaders of the Democratic party met today with Gov. Alfred E. Smith, their nominee for president, and placed themselves at his command for the ensuing campaign.

The governor's first conference of the day was with Senator James A. Reed, who campaigned against Smith for the nomination at Houston but who now has agreed to use his political acumen and his lashing tongue to promote the interests of the party's candidate.

Senator Reed was called into the governor's suite at the Biltmore hotel for a breakfast conference before any of the national committeemen or other leaders had left their rooms.

After the meeting with Reed, whom Smith said he came here from Missouri, the governor will meet with members of the Democratic committee to name a chairman to direct the campaign and to set a date for the official notification at Albany.

Reed Promises Missouri.

Reed told reporters he would give the governor "my most complete cooperation" and that he was certain that he could deliver his home State, Missouri.

Smith is said to have decided on a non-political business man to serve as chairman of the national committee and director of his campaign and it is likely that the committee will respect his choice. Among those mentioned as probable choices of the governor are John J. Raskob, chairman of the finance committee of the General Motors corporation and Owen D. Young, an executive of General Electric.

According to present plans Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming, will be named vice-chairman.

REED BITTERLY ANTI-BRITISH

NEW YORK, July 11—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri indicated today that his part in the presidential campaign will be bitterly anti-British.

SCORE INJURED WHEN BUS AND TRUCK COLLIDE

Huge Stage Coach Sideswipes Seattle Garbage Carrier.

By United Press

SEATTLE, Wash., July 11—A score of passengers were injured today when a huge stage coach bound from Portland to Seattle crashed with a city garbage truck at First and Spokane street here.

Six of the injured were taken to the Seattle General Hospital. They were: Henry H. Derksen, Robena, Sask., a hardware merchant, cut about the head.

Mrs. S. J. Wagner, 210 West 93rd street, New York City, severe cuts and bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Hutson, St. Charles hotel, Seattle, cuts and bruises.

John Enos, Seattle, cuts on the head.

W. Davida Yucaina Calif. cuts about the face.

With the exception of Mrs. Wagner and Derksen, the injured were treated and released.

The crash was said to have been terrific. The stage coach sideswiped the truck, tearing entire side of the bus. Cause and blame for the accident have not been established.

HOOVER HEARS NEW JERSEY IN RIGHT COLUMN

By United Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—The Hoover-Curtis ticket will carry New Jersey by a substantial majority, according to a statement made by Herbert Hoover, stenographer in Lockport, N. Y. OFFICIALS ALLEGED TO HAVE TAKEN BOOZE BRIBE

By United Press

HASTINGS, Minn., July 11—C. W. Smallen, mayor of South St. Paul, and Charles Zeman, alderman, were named in an indictment returned in Dakota county court today on ten indictments charging acceptance of bribes.

The cases of both men were continued until July 20. Bonds of $2500 each were furnished for both officials.

The indictments are a result of a months investigation by a county grand jury in which acceptance of protection money from bootleggers is charged.

MALMGREN IS LOCATED WITH TWO OF CREW

Soviet Aviator Chuknosky Flies Over Position of Three Men Who Left Nobile Party to Walk to Land and Who Have Been Given Up As Lost; No Word From Ice Floe Group.

By United Press

MOSCOW, July 11—The Russian ice ship Krassin today belatedly reported that the Soviet aviator Chuknosky, Tuesday night circled over the position of Professor Finn Malmgren and two other men from the dirigible Italia who long had been given up for lost.

Professor Malmgren, Swedish physicist, Capt. Alberto Mariano and Capt. Filippi Zappi, both aviators of the royal Italian navy, were in the gondola of the ill-fated dirigible when it crashed May 25 on its return from a flight over the North Pole.

Malmgren remained with Gen. Umberto Nobile and five others of the Italia expedition when they left the gondola until May 30 when he set out with Mariano and Zappi in an effort to walk to land.

General Nobile advised against the attempt but Malmgren had failed to establish any radio communication with the world and was insistent. Nobile saw them disappear in the direction of Foyn Island. That was the last seen or heard of them until the Krassin report, which did not state their position.

Chukhovsky it was stated, sighted the three men at 10 minutes past midnight, Greenwich time, in latitude 82.45 east, 20-east-ward of the Krassin.

Two men in the group, it was said, were standing and signaling to the plane while a third was lying on the ice.

RUSSIAN AVIATOR A HERO

(Copyright 1928 by United Press).

KINGS BA, Spitzbergen, July 11—A Russian aviator, unknown to the world, sent news today that he had located three men of the dirigible Italia who had been given up for lost.

Their survival, in a 42-day fight for life against terrible Arctic weather must be rewarded as one of the high spots in this epic of the north.

On May 30, Professor Finn Malmgren, physicist, of Sweden, and Captains Adalberto Mariano and Filippo Zappi, of the royal Italian navy, joint navigators, started out with a farewell wave of their arms from the ice floe encampment of the Nobile party off Nortacast Land.

They refused to wait, as they thought, for an inexorable death to overtake them, but preferred to meet it half-way in a last drop into the trackless Arctic wastes which had already engulfed the dirigible Italia and her crew of 16 men.

Then came the long, weary days of struggle, of exposure, of cold and hunger, of fear and of hope.

RADIO CALLS GROW WEAKER

VIRGO BAY, Spitzbergen, July 11—Four haggard, unkempt and disconsolate men remained on an ice floe off Northeast Land today, the fate of which they were stranded when the dirigible Italia crashed May 25, as all northern radio stations were tuned to catch signals that might indicate their fate.

Radio calls from the ice encampment have been few in the last 24 hours. Among the last was the one from Giuseppe Biagi, which had a most disconsolate note:

"Rescue is so near and yet so far."

Thirty-two Saved From Drowning Off New England Coast

By United Press

ROCKPORT, Mass., July 11—Although handicapped by darkness and a choppy sea, coast guards succeeded early today in rescuing 32 persons, including 15 young women, after the excursion yacht Quada had crashed into submerged rocks off Sandy Bay about two miles from here.

The wrecked yacht quickly filled with water and became virtually unlocated on the rocks, but red flares brought it over from the Manchester coast patrol station in time to save all on board.

HERO AVIATORS GIVEN WELCOME SAN FRANCISCO

Lyon and Warner Arrive on Malolo From Australian Flight.

By United Press

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11—Two American adventurers of the air who set forth a little more than a month ago with two Australians on the conquest of the Pacific, returned in triumph to their native shores today.

The liner Malolo, bringing Harry W. Lyon, Jr., navigator and James Warner, radio operator of the Southern Cross, back home from their long flight, docked here shortly before 9 a. m.

A squadron of army planes from Crissy Field rallied over the Malolo as it entered the Golden Gate and an official welcoming party from the Sea Scout boarded the liner just outside the harbor.

A similar escort of craft in the harbor sounded a noisy welcome as the Malolo moved slowly up to its pier, where hundreds were waiting eagerly for a sight of the two airmen.

The squadron of army planes took off as soon as the Malolo appeared through the fog outside the Golden Gate and escorted the vessel into port.

Drop 10,000 Carnations.

A few moments later several civilian planes led by Frank A. Flynn of the National Aeronautics Association flew over the Malolo, dropping 10,000 carnations in the path of the ship.

James D. Phelan, former senator, and chairman of the citizens' reception committee, boarded the Malolo from the Sea Scout, with members of his committee, and greeted Lyon and Warner.

Mrs. Irma Meyer Lyon, wife of the Southern Cross navigator was one of the party that boarded the Malolo from the Sea Scout. She ran up to her husband and threw her arms about him.

The skinnigram at the ferry building and whistles and bells on shore took up the chorus of welcome as the Malolo nosed into its slip.

Large crowds gathered on Lands End, watched the official reception for the Southern Cross, while another throng was packed around the pier.

At the pier the municipal band struck up a martial air but it was scarcely heard above the general din.

Families Greet Fliers.

The first person on the gangplank of the Malolo was Mrs. Leila Lyon of Paris Hill, Maine, mother of Lyon.

Mrs. Mey Herzog and Mrs. Stella Hagh, sisters of Warner and their three children were also there.

Major James C. Fitzsimmons, Jr., of San Francisco, and Mayor John Davie of Oakland and other officials followed the relatives of Lyon and Warner on board the Malolo and greeted them.

A parade led by a platoon of mounted police formed at the dock for the parade up Market street and over to City Hall.

Lyon and Warner sat in a flagdraped automobile, smiling almost embarrassment at the shouts of the crowds along the streets.

Two hundred blackskirts from the U. S. S. New ork and cars bearing members of the reception committee followed behind the two airmen. Most of those in the thousands lined Market street had watched the Southern Cross with its crew of Lyon and Warner, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and Capt. Charles T. P. Ulm sail out across the Golden Gate early on the morning of May 31, bound for Sydney, Australia, nearly 8,000 miles away.

The flight was made in four hops, with stops at Honolulu, Suva and Brisbane.

Last Applause For Circus Performer

By United Press

CHICAGO, July 11—Two of her feats teeth grips and Mrs. Daisy B. Gunn, circus performer, swung high above a crowd at a circus here and Mrs. Gunn plunged to the ground. Mrs. Gunn, advertised by the Robinson circus as "the woman with the iron jaw," was gripping her body as she swung above the crowd, clinging solely by her teeth.

Two teeth suddenly loosened and then broke off. She suffered four fractures of the jaw, her right arm fractured and four ribs broken.

ALLEGED TRAITORS ARRESTED

BERLIN, July 11—Police here today arrested three employes of the governmental experimental aeronautical station who were suspected of selling secrets to the Russian government.

Extensive investigations it was alleged, had proved the men had sold designs for new airplanes.

RESOLUTION URGES PROHIBITION PARTY TO RALLY SUPPORT HOOVER

Incidental Tribute Paid to Senator Borah for His Stand for Drys.

CHICAGO, July 11—A resolution praising that the Prohibition party select Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis as its standard bearers was placed before the national convention of the Prohibition party today.

The resolution was presented by Charles H. Randall of Los Angeles. It declared that Hoover was personally and undoubtedly politically dry and it cited Curtis as one of the first men to prosecute dry law violators in Kansas.

The resolution was received with enthusiasm by many of the delegates to the convention, although much opposition was expected. No vote will be taken on the matter until after discussion of the platform.

Randall was elected to Congress as a member of the Prohibition party. He served three terms in the House of Representatives. He was author of the Randall amendment in the lower house and wrote numerous other dry measures.

The resolution declared the Republican party has committed itself to the greatest forward movement since adoption of the 18th amendment.

Tribute To Borah

That peerless statesman, William E. Borah, led his party to an unequivocal declaration not only for prohibition enforcement, Randall's statement said, but also for personal observance of law by the members of the party.

"In view of this moral act, the prohibition party should with enthusiasm accept this proof of the cooperation of the Republican party.

"Mr. Hoover is personally dry and he is undoubtedly politically dry. Charles Curtis was one of the first men to prosecute dry law violators in his state. In the six years I was associated with him in Congress, he was a supporter of dry law legislation."

Former Teacher Here Given Warm Welcome

Interesting visitors in Twin Falls are F. A. Morse and daughter, Miss Florence Morse, of Los Angeles.

Miss Morse, who was one of the speakers at the Business and Professional Women's Club picnic Monday evening, was formerly a teacher in the Hansen school and later in the Twin Falls high school before removing to California. She is now the teaching staff of the University of Los Angeles and is prominent in business and Professional Women's Club work in that city. She helped organize the club in that city in recognition of which she occupied the office of president for one year.

Her visit to Idaho is being greatly enjoyed by many old friends of other days.

Dashing Revue and Clever Acts At Orpheum Tonight

The quintessence of artistic dancing is exemplified in the Ramsdell Ballet Revue headliner on the Ackerman Harris vaudeville show for the last times tonight. At last night's performance this act received generous rounds of applause well deserved. A combination of beautiful girls, beautiful costumes, special scenic effects and clever dancing is sure to attract the most discriminating patron. The Variety Girls, vivacious and clever interpreters of blues, formerly with the Velvet Beauties revue, have a snappy act that brings cheers. You have to take your hat off to Frank Evans, the comedian on skates, and Al and Flo Chopp, black-faced comedy and song skit, are unusually entertaining. Bobby Jackson's dancing act, in full of big thrills.

A picture as happy and as free as the great outdoors is which it was given to "Wild Beauty." The spectacular wild-horse story.

Rex, the famous Morgan stallion, is the star of the picture, which is the same thing unusual in theme and in treatment.

The mountain country of the Great West furnishes the beautiful and elaborate setting in which this dramatic picture takes place. "Wild Beauty" is probably more general in appeal than any motion picture we have seen for months. The sportsman, naturalist, dramatist, and the exacting motion picture fan are a few of the classifications for which this picture will certainly especially appeal.

A horse who can get just like a man is a marvel in itself. The story is built around Rex and Rex has his rivals, but he is the undisputed champion of the wild horse herd. Rex's supremacy, with the heart of a Kentucky mare, from an Indian pony rival, play a lion in mortal combat and a stallion fight for his love. The picture is intensely gripping.

The human part is well-chosen and the animal and human plots are cleverly interwoven by Director Henry MacRae. June Marlowe is a beautiful and empathetic fascinating heroine, while Hugh Allan makes a satisfactory hero.

The supporting cast consists of real troupers: Scott Seaton, Hayes Robinson, Willis Bailey and J. Barney Sherry.

Jun... Says—

The Bertha has collared the fashionable fancy snap and seems to be assured of remaining for a while. I am glad for there is nothing more becoming more feminine or alluring in its softness if worn by the right type. But I should never be worn by the stout—or the sahorn and stout, or the short unless very slim. Many letters from the thin and tall and fluffy has made us make this sketch for their particular problems, for they can wear the Bertha to perfection. It makes the tall look graceful and the big not so thin. I have picked a white chiffon with a navy dot for the sketch but a flowered chiffon would be equally lovely. As you see it has a bloused waist, the snug bisline and the skirt is pleated. With or without sleeves. And a word about hats for the tall and thin. It is the heritage of the tall girl to wear the large hat. She is marvelous in it. But on the tiny Miss or Mrs. it is grotesque! And hats. If one can believe the signs are getting larger and larger—that is for certain occasions.

Thousands of Acres of Land to Get Water

ment have been apportioned to the different classes of land and duly confirmed by court with the new limits assessed to pay $94 an acre, and the old lands to be provided with a partial water supply at $51.70 an acre, this representing the cost of construction of the project above and below the proposed canal.

"And on the contract the district is obligated to repay construction costs on new lands within a period of 40 years and for the lands having a partial water supply within a period of 20 years. This would make the average annual payments of construction costs for new lands $2.35 per acre per year and on the lands now irrigated and having a partial supply $2.50 per acre per year. These costs, together with costs for operation and maintenance of the project system and other district costs, will make an annual water charge of around $4.50 per acre. This is higher than prevailing charges on projects of similar productiveness after readjustment of repayment contracts under the act of May 25, 1926. In view, however, of precautions being taken to curb land speculation, to obtain qualified settlers, and to create conditions which will hasten and cheapen the improvement of farms, it is believed the charges can be met.

Return of Cost.

"It will be seen that this schedule provides for the return of the cost, not only of the new work to be done, but value of storage in American Falls reservoir which has been provided by the government at an expense of $2,000,000, and upon which the United States is no appreciable return, and will receive no return until a irrigation system is constructed for the utilization of the stored water. The returns from the 50,000 acres of new land may be somewhat delayed, awaiting settlement, as the repayment does not begin until after the land is entered. An offset to this, the interest on the new land contracted to cost around $500,000 will not be constructed until prompt settlement and profitable cultivation are assured."

After a conference with Smith at the Biltmore hotel Reed issued a caustic statement, criticizing Hoover as a "pro-English."

"I don't think," Reed said, "that the people of this country are going to elect a man who has spent his entire adult life abroad and whose interests were all in Great Britain, a man so close to the British government life and one who refused the post of minister of munitions and later offered a title.

Knights Templar Idaho Guests On Special to Detroit

Harry Brown, editor of The Times, left this afternoon for Denver Colorado, in acceptance of an invitation from Grand Master Vesey of the Grand Encampment of the United States, Knights Templar, to be one of the party accompanying the grand master to the thirty-seventh triennial session of the order to open in the city of Detroit next week.

The grand master's special train will leave Denver at 11 o'clock Thursday night for Detroit, stopping en route at Chicago Saturday morning where the grand master's party will be the guests of the Grand Commandery of Illinois at breakfast, afterwards proceeding to Detroit where a magnificent reception has been planned for the distinguished visitor and his staff. Saturday night will see the turning on of a marvelous illumination system erected by Detroit in honor of the occasion. Sunday's program includes a great church service in the new Masonic temple and on Tuesday will take place the Templar parade, in which it is expected more than 100,000 Knights Templar from all parts of the United States will have a part. The sessions of the Grand Encampment will last through Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Prominent Idaho Knights Templar invited to ride on the special include Deputy Grand Commander Matles Matison of Cambridge, Past Grand Commander William Wallin of Pocatello and Grand Secretary Enoch Bone.

Past Grand Commander Brown of the Grand Commandery of Florida, will be joined in Chicago by Mrs. Brown who leaves Florida Thursday night, meeting the train Saturday morning for the ride to Detroit. After the Triennial Mr. and Mrs. Brown will enjoy a brief vacation with relatives in Niagara Falls, Hamilton, Welland and other cities in the St. Lawrence district in Ontario. At the conclusion of the holiday Mrs. Brown will leave to resume her duties as superintendent of the general hospital in Bartow, Florida, while Mr. Brown will return to Idaho.

PADDOCK SAILS FOR AMSTERDAM

Name Is Cleared of Charges of Professionalism By Committee.

By United Press

NEW YORK, July 11.—Charley Paddock has been cleared by the A. A. U. of charges of professionalism and sails today with the American Olympic team, but the memory of the Paddock charges lingers on with the Olympic committee.

George W. Wightman, Boston, vice president of the committee, resigned because he felt he could no longer remain on the committee with the Paddock ruling in the air. Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, president of the committee, mentioned that men of "complete integrity" often saw things "in different lights."

Wightman criticized the committee for permitting Paddock to be a member of the team after the hearing over eligibility. In calling attention of the throats of withdrawal, in case Paddock was not a member of the team, as "horse trading."

General MacArthur said he knew the facts against Paddock case but that he had received no evidence which would warrant doubting the decision of the A. A. U.

"It is my understanding," MacArthur's statement said, "that no concrete evidence ever has been submitted at any time in substantiation of the charges made against Paddock. Men of complete integrity of thought and purpose sometimes see the same thing in an entirely different light. This seems to be the situation in regard to Paddock.

"I deeply regret Mr. Wightman's resignation. He is a splendid and outstanding sportsman and has added strength and stability to the Olympic movement. His loss will be severely felt."

The United Press presents herewith a day with "Scarface Al" Capone, leading figure in the machine gun and bombing war for control of Chicago's gambling, vice, racketeering liquor traffic.

(Copyright, 1928, by United Press)

CHICAGO, July 11—It is midnight. Chicago's famous "Soul Mich" is not yet deserted.

The dingy rain-beaten gray of a stone structure at the corner of Michigan Boulevard and Twenty-third Street mingles with the drabness of its environing structures on the edge of Chicago's "black belt."

An electric sign suspended over the doorway of the stone building announces the Metropole Hotel.

A lanky person at a loafing post for three men whose careless posture in no way conceals their furtive, ever watchful stances up and down the Boulevard. These are the outposts of "Scarface Al" Capone's stronghold, wherein resides the lord of Chicago's gangland, whose death long ago was decreed by his rivals, but whose cunning and power of organization has retained for him a dominant position in gangland.

Entering the hotel one faces still more furtive glances, and shortly the curt questioning of serious appearing individuals.

Four flights up Al Capone is preparing for bed. In a suite of rooms, off a wide, areaway, Al enters his room, but only after his trusted bodyguards have inspected every openings, have fastened securely the steel sheetings at the windows and the steel sheets against the door. The lights are dimmed, and Capone dons his silken pajamas and climbs in bed.

In his bedroom are more armed bodyguards. They are never from his side. At length, after fitful slumber he is awakened, after the day is well along. He goes about his toilet, dresses himself to a princely degree.

Al Capone is a gentleman in appearance, a meticulous individual and one who is even 'bid-maidish in his habits.

Always the Bodyguard

After breakfast, surrounded by the same bodyguard, he journeys to a nearby barber shop and, always surrounded by the bodyguard, some inside, some outside, Al takes a seat in his accustomed chair.

At the slightest move of another customer, Capone sits upright in his chair. His bodyguards swarm about him.

Capone returns to the "throne room" of the Metropole. Here he meets his men, salesmen, runners, rookies, collectors and lieutenants.

Often these conferences continue throughout the day. More often, however, Capone prepares to leave with his bodyguard for the residence of his wife and children on the southwest side. He goes with his bodyguard to the home, enters and blends himself with a home life not altogether in keeping with his gangster habits.

Before dark, Capone returns.

Six days out of seven, Capone is back in the Metropole before dark. Moneys collected from gambling concessions and other activities are brought to the Metropole. Al Capone's beer salesmen, his collectors are the most highly trained specialists of any sales profession in existence.

Noted for Subtlety

His conferences over, Capone dines. only habit is that of shooting lowly. He is noted for his subtlety and his clear Havana cigars. He then retires again to the throne room, where as is customary, he sees friends, who constantly seek him for aid.

The "friend" may be a little newsboy, with papers left over the day. He sells a bill several times the value of his papers. Or it may be a black shawled Italian woman. Al Capone is generous. A few years ago he was reputed to be worth $2,000,000. Most of that has gone to charity of the type described above.

Once a week Al journeys to a private golf course, accompanied, of course, by his armed bodyguard. He likes golf, and chafes under the strain which works upon his nerves as he seeks to "just live like a human being."

There is a note of disappointment in the conversation of Al Capone. He seeks to "step out of the racket." He is disgusted and wants to "raise his kids up to be gentlemen," and to live with his wife in happiness like he knew before he became Chicago's gang ruler.

He will admit it was lust for money and power that drove him, a native Neapolitan of mean antecedents, to strive for a power which, gained, he cannot relinquish except by death.

"If I were left alone and allowed to pursue my own life, I'd retire; spend my days with my family."

But Al Capone prays, while twice before he has tried to step down, and each time he has been made the mark of an assassination attempt and he must "stick" until as have all others of his type and power, the sentence of death which gangland has decreed for him is fulfilled.

CLEO BUSH IS BOUND OVER TO HIGHER COURT

Defense Calls No Witnesses in Preliminary Hearing of Assault Case.

Cleo "Slim" Bush was held to answer in district court on charges of assault with a deadly weapon upon the person of George Jasper following a preliminary hearing yesterday in probate court. His bond was fixed at $1000.

Prosecuting attorney O. W. Winn, in presenting the case for the state, presented an amended complaint. The defense demurred but the demurrer was overruled by Judge Bailey and the defendant pleaded not guilty. The state called George Jasper as the first witness, who testified as to the fight and the alleged assault. He claimed that on the night of May 10 at Filer Bill Bush and Marvin Cole were fighting in the street and that Cleo Bush interfered trying to kick Cole while the two men were rolling on the ground. Jasper claimed that Cleo Bush did kick Cole a few times and he, Jasper, received his brother Bill in the face by mistake. Jasper is alleged to have attempted to keep Cleo Bush out of the fray with the result of being stabbed in the side. Cleo Bush is alleged to have drawn a pistol at this time. Jasper said that Bill Bush got between him and Cleo Bush and requested Cleo Bush to shoot Jasper then slipped away and went to a doctor to have his wound dressed.

Marvin Cole testified as to the fight and other phases of the fight. Dr. F. A. Dwight of Filer testified as to the nature of the stab wound in Jasper's side. Dr. Dwight said the stab was a clean cut wound on the left side about an inch long and deep to the ribs. He said the rib had been roughened by the instrument used to make the stab. The wound was opposite the lower part of the heart, according to Dr. Dwight.

The state rested and then defense attorney, W. L. Dunn, rested for the defense, but made a few statements, arguing that the testimony showed that Jasper had tried to prevent Cleo Bush from assaulting the fighting boys. Mr. Dunn maintained that there was no evidence that a deadly weapon was used.

Judge C. A. Bailey held that the evidence was sufficient to warrant the holding of the defendant to district court.

Grange Discusses Anti-Theft Work And Weed Control

BUHL, July 11.—The turkey and chicken Anti-theft Association plans and contemplated work, together with the control of noxious weeds, was the subject used by County Agent, R. E. Broussard in his address before the members of the Lucerne grange at their regular meeting July 6. Due to the busy season there was only a fair attendance at the meeting.

Following the address a round table discussion followed on the subjects spoken of. The ladies brought a basket lunch; the baskets being auctioned off at the close of the lecture hour.

There was also a fair attendance at the meeting of the Northview grange Friday evening. A short business meeting was held and roll calls responded to by telling of the most interesting personal experience of the Fourth of July. A general discussion was held for the Question Box. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hunter and daughter, Juanita, gave a musical number. Mrs. Ruth Brooks gave a reading. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Shaub and Mrs. and Mrs. L. Rouhlack were the refreshment committee.

The entire choir of the Nazarene Young People's society, numbering 35 is to attend an all day district rally in Twin Falls July 15.

The Nazarene missionary society is meeting for an all day meeting at the home of Mrs. Draper July 13. A covered dish luncheon will be served at noon.

P. W. Joyce left Sunday for a business trip to Boise. He expects to return Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gibbs, together with their children, Beatrice and Louise, left by motor Sunday on a camping trip to Ketchum.

Juvenile Escape —Still At Large

Wallace Gourley, 16, is still at large following his escape with Leland Almain, 16, from the juvenile ward at the county court house this week. Almain was captured by W. J. Young shortly after the escape, but the two boys had separated Mr. Young was unable to locate the other lad.

The boys made their escape from the ward in the basement of the court house by working their way through a nine inch wall with a table knife, which they had hidden following breakfast. Mr. Young had seen the boys from the coal room and set in his car to pursue them. He was forced to follow Almain on foot when the boys separated.

Almain was arrested in connection with a burglary at Rogerson and George has been in trouble frequently. He had secluded Almain when Almain was first wanted on the burglary charge.

Blindness Spread by Flies

The prevalence of blindness in Egypt is probably traceable to the fact that the fly is favored in that country. It is said that a mother will not kill a fly nor even brush it from the eyelid of her child. Infection is often carried from one child to another, and in the case of diseased eyes the malady is spread in this manner.

Greatest Silver Mines

The silver mines of Guanajuato, Mexico, which have yielded from $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 in silver, since they were discovered in 1558, are said to be the richest silver mines in the world. Since 1810, they have been almost continuously operated for over four hundred years.

'Ma' Kennedy Now In Seattle Hotel Looking For 'Job'

By United Press

SEATTLE, Wash., July 11—Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy is looking for a job.

The mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, reluctantly admitted today that she was "looking for something to do."

"I thought it best to go to some other city away from Los Angeles," she said at the New Richmond hotel here where she is regaining.

"I had others to remain there but I thought it best to go away."

Mrs. Kennedy had chauffeured much since she was forced to "resign" after 10 years' hard work at Angeles Temple in Los Angeles, according to those friends of hers here who knew her in the early days.

In those days when Aimee and Ma were busy recruiting financial backing, saving people, building up the temple, "Ma" was always handsomely rewarded.

Today she looked the part of a middle-aged woman out of a job.

There is no reconciliation between Aimee and Ma in sight. Now the fight that has gone on between them has resolved itself around ownership and control of Angelus temple in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Kennedy would make no comment upon the fight for the property, it was understood that Aimee is trying to obtain a contract for sole occupancy between her self and her mother, or the breach between mother and daughter.

"If Aimee had only continued her work as evangelistic work all would be well," Mrs. Kennedy said. "It hurt me when she married Mr. McPherson. I felt that he was not the right element for her. I felt that my instincts in these things was best.

"For ten years I have kept her sweet spirit pure. She is a darling girl you know. I hope here will find a very happy home."

Mrs. Kennedy would not divulge the nature of the work she is seeking.

"Me and the boy friend"

You know them, bless their hearts. A pair of youngsters, really, in spite of their self-reliant air and their fast-vanishing 'teens. The girl—slim, clear-eyed, merry; the boy—flippant, a bit arrogant, full of secret, earnest plans for success.

They like each other. They go to the movies together, dance, quarrel a bit. They don't believe in early marriages. But her eyes shine when she speaks of him. "Me and the boy friend."

One of these days, suddenly, they'll be grown up. Man and wife, those fearless youngsters. A home to plan, life to face. A budget, a savings account, economies.

They'll make mistakes, but they'll learn quickly. She'll begin to be canny in the spending of money—to question prices and values. She'll begin to read about the things she plans to buy, to find out all she can about them. She'll become a regular reader of advertisements.

They'll help her to become the capable, wise housewife she wants so much to be. They'll tell her what clothes are best and what prices to pay for them. They'll tell her about the foods to buy, the electric appliances, the linoleums and draperies. They'll help you, as the advertisements in this newspaper can help you.

And she'll meet her responsibilities and fulfill her duties easily and well. She won't become a tired, flustered, inefficient drudge. Because her home will be modern, attractive, well-run, she'll keep young through the speedy years she'll retain much of that shining-eyed, merry freshness. She and the "boy friend."

PRAYER—We thank Thee, Lord, that Thou hast made of one blood all that dwell upon the face of the earth.

WHY DO WE TOLERATE BLIND CORNERS?

Twice on Sunday, the public had sharp lessons on the dangers attendant on the "blind" corner. Two wrecks, both serious, one involving a fatality, resulted from this safety handicap which is daily impressed on the mind of any thoughtful motorist who travels the highways.

The careful driver stops at the signal before entering the highway, but it would be safer to stop a car length beyond the stop signal, for at many of the intersections, it is impossible for approaching drivers to see each other. Sweet clover provides an impenetrable mask, trees and shrubbery about the farm houses and yards accentuate the condition, and with the engine of the car running, it is impossible to hear an approaching automobile. We have tragically demonstrated that under certain seasonal conditions, stopping before entering the highway is not a sufficient precaution.

Doubtless the Department of Public Safety or the State Highway Department will take cognizance of the condition, but in the meantime, we will not soon forget that complying with the law is insufficient protection. The object of stopping before entering the stream of traffic is to permit the driver to see conditions and act accordingly. The driver who uses his head as well as his hands and feet in piloting an automobile, will make this survey from a point of safety, whether or not the law requires it. There is no reason for being a niggard in the use of common sense and caution.

Sympathy is everywhere expressed for the family so tragically afflicted by the Sunday disaster. If it is not to be repeated, many drivers will need to adopt increased caution.

JIMMY WALKER GETS SAUCY WITH PICTURE LEADERS

So Mayor James Walker of the big city of New York thinks that the leaders in the motion picture industry in this country should be minus all political interest and activity—in other words, that they should not be privileged to exercise the rights of free citizens.

Be became downright peeved while in Hollywood the other day to discover that two or three of the Big Boys in the motion picture world had actually traveled to Kansas City as delegates to the Republican convention. What a horrible thing to do and how terribly careless of these men to allow the outside world to ascertain their party allegiance and political beliefs! And Jimmy says that is all wrong, so what Jimmy utters must be true.

However, the motion picture business is not getting into politics, according to a statement issued today by Louis B. Mayer, producer, in answer to a warning from Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York that the picture industry should stay out of politics.

Mayer spoke on behalf of himself and Joseph M. Schenck, who were delegates to the Republican national convention, and who seemed to consider that the New York mayor's remarks were addressed to them.

We cannot help but feel Walker is all wrong. Of course he is on thin trigger edge because of the candidacy of his friend, Al Smith, and perhaps is super-sensitive regarding what might seem to affect Smith's interests, either favorably or adversely, but Jimmy might just as well become accustomed to things as they are for he has ruder jolts than the one from Hollywood coming to him.

Prosperity continues to dog the steps of the Pocatello Tribune which has recently moved into a new home, said to be one of the most completely equipped in the entire Inter-mountain country. Rendering service in season and out over a period of more than thirty-four years, The Tribune rightfully has a high place in the esteem and affections of the community it covers. Fitting editorial tribute is paid the faithful staff who had charge of the actual moving operations from the old to the new home, there being provided on that eventful occasion further evidence of what loyalty means in a newspaper family.

There may be some local golfers who can provide a satisfactory answer to the problem in human psychology propounded by Dr. Earl Brooks, president of the park board at Boblesville, Ind., who recently reported that on a certain day this month he had visited the park where he observed thirty-five persons playing on the golf course. A heavy shower came up but the players continued their game as though the sun had been shining. Dr. Brooks then noted that there were sixty-three persons in the bathing pool when the rain began and that everyone of them rushed out of the water to the shelter house. What's the solution?

Paradoxical as it seems, it always makes a man hot to be treated with coolness.

JUST IDAHO

By GUY FLENNER

BY GUY FLENNER

ALL'S WELL

The executive secretary of the state chamber of commerce recently completed a tour of a large part of the state. He said he found business men and people generally filled with confidence and bending their energies to numerous activities. Such a man as Ralph Thomas is quite apt to look at everything through optimistic eyes. He could not be in the position he holds, successfully, without bristling over with buoyancy as to present and future. He might even see in his mind's eye some things non-existent. Nevertheless his spirited viewpoint, though possibly at times exaggerated is needed to keep folks encouraged, cheerful and moving.

To get down to the facts, however, Mr. Thomas has not overdone the picture for the purpose of setting up a falseworks of soundness and activity to stimulate the sick and further actuate the well. The truth is that conditions in Idaho are sound.

View them through bank statements, or from the roadside, and the conclusion is inescapable that in Idaho all's well.

Agriculture, mining, timbering, livestock are on a sounder basis than ever, with the prospects most encouraging, notwithstanding some backsets that are always emphasized, like the few miles of bad highway as against hundreds of miles of perfect going.

The state is not rolling in wealth, but it is not depressed by any degree of impoverishment. If we are not quite sure that all is well from the evidence of our own eyesight, let us consider the opinion of the various new institutions that have recently come into the commercial life of the state from the outside—rather cold-blooded concerns that seek no unpromising field. Let us ask ourselves why there is so much investigation as to new and extended railroad routes and power lines in Idaho. Why has the Mountain States Telephone company practically decided to build a line north from New Meadows to connect at Grangeville and give more direct communication between the two ends of the state as against a line long in operation via Spokane?

While it is true that it is a forward looking corporation and has always evinced the highest degree of faith in this state, at the same time it is not so unbusiness-like as to even consider the construction of such an expensive line unless it could see something of a compensatory future.

We might go on with other illustrations, but it ought not to be necessary in order to convince our own people as to the present stability of Idaho and as to the brightness of its future.

Now, we are coming into the political season, the once-every-four-year disturbance. We shall hear many overdrawn statements as to conditions over the nation and in our own state. We should not permit any of these political representations to influence us away from the fullest confidence in our state and our nation, nor yet to innoculate us with germs of injustice or recklessness.

Industrial perfection will never be reached. But there is nothing radically wrong. With that as a basic fact, only purposefulness and faith are required to move the program of Idaho development nearer the goal. In that spirit only can we maintain such a measure of prosperity as we may reasonably expect, can we rear the superstructure a little higher and make it more ornate, can we provide a better state for those yet to come, can we approach the problems that confront the people of any state that is alive and worth while.

The Great Outdoors

Metropolitan newspapers devote pages to recreational opportunities in their respective fields. In a smaller way every newspaper is doing the same thing. There is a reason. The wise publisher senses the growing interest of his readers in outdoor life.

Idaho, with its timbered areas, its mountain streams and lakes, presents innumerable super-attractions for such people. These vast stretches can not be rendered valuable through tillage. From the commercial angle the returns from them are limited to operations in mining, timbering and grazing, which are confined to acres as against square miles.

They can be made highly productive, however, as recreational spots, for it is a fact that people spend ungrudgingly more money for camping trips than for any other form of diversion. It is because of the wonderful combination of pleasure and healthfulness.

The national government in recent years has been alive to the desirability of supplying suitable camping grounds, parks, etc., approached by good roads. There is little profit to it in dollars and cents but large in the knowledge of a more contented and healthful people. From the hills and mountains come strength and courage.

States should follow the lead of the national government and aid in the development of at least their outstanding recreational sections. In Idaho we have wonderful lakes, surrounded by land held for educational purposes in part. Aside from the thought of supplying playgrounds for our people, there is an element of commercialism in the enhancement of state property.

Idaho has neglected its recreational side too long. It is time the state took an active interest in that important feature of life within its borders, for our own people and for the thousands who will come from the outside and spend large sums of money here providing they can find suitable accommodations and be freed from many of the annoyances of the present time that have been allowed to become more and more acute.

Private capital will be quick to provide the accommodations, but it cannot be induced to perform the allied service. Here is an opportunity and a duty for the state.

Daily Poem

ETCHING

I know a hill where a blue tree perches
On a rocky ledge, in a grove of birches—
Silver birches, that seem to listen,
Leaning aslant. Their long trunks glisten,
Touched by nature, the magic tinter,
Pale harp-strings for the winds of winter;
Which, swaying, hold exquisite traces
Of delicate twigs, like filmy laces
On the amber sky, where sunset lingers.
Hemlocks point, with grave, dark fingers
Where gleaming Vega, pale amethyst,
Keeps, near the zenith, her ancient tryst.

Why He Lost the Case.
(From Forbes Magazine)

A young lawyer, pleading his first case, had been retained by a farmer to prosecute a railway company for killing twenty-four hogs. He wanted to impress the jury with the magnitude of the injury.

"Twenty-four hogs, gentlemen. Twenty-four; twice the number there are in the jury box."

Evolution
(New York Evening Sun)

At a recent first-night I met a prosperous New Yorker named Salmon, who confided that when he lived on the East Side his name was Solomon.

"It is much better for Broadway," he added. "That's why I changed it."

"When you get enough money to live on Park Avenue I suppose you will call yourself 'Mr. Fish'," suggested my companion.

Quite So.

Jimmy—Say, uncle, is a man a bigamist when he has one wife too many?

Uncle—Not necessarily. Now I have one wife too many and yet I'm no bigamist.

Why Not?

OPERA DRAWING GREAT CROWDS CITY ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 11—For the tenth consecutive season the world famous St. Louis Municipal Theater association is launched upon a 12 weeks' summer program of light and grand opera in the natural amphitheater of Forest Park here.

More than 600,000 persons, its sponsors estimate, will witness the successive productions of "Princess Flavia," "The Merry Widow," "The Vagabond King," "No, No, Nanette," "Rose Marie," "The Student Prince," "The Lady in Ermine," "The Song of the Flame," "Countess Maritza," "The Love Song," "Mary," and "Aida."

Although backed by a $70,000 guaranty posted by public spirited citizens of St. Louis, the "muny opera" today is financially a success with an unencumbered cash profit of $40,000. The first and only loss of the venture was suffered the first year, when the season closed $11,000 "in the red." Its financial record is believed unique in civic enterprises.

The growing popularity of the open air opera movement here is shown in the steady increase in attendance, from 100,000 in 1919 to 528,679 in 1927. Seat prices ranges from 25 cents to $2 with 1,000 seats free. The amphitheater has a capacity of 9,750, with covered adjoining pergolas of equal capacity to avoid "disaster" in event of summer storms.

Stage space in the amphitheater measures 120 feet by 90 feet—the largest in America. Massive oaks towering 70 feet from the proscenium arch. Back of the stage flows the River des Peres, across which foot bridges lead to shrubbery hidden dressing rooms and scenic studios. An orchestra pit in front of the stage accommodates 150 pieces. Amplifiers insure perfect audition.

This year's jubilee cast includes Alice McKenzie, Patricia O'Connell and Lennore Allen, sopranos; Dorothy Seegar, ingenue; Bernice Mershon, contralto; Sam Ash, tenor; Joseph Royer, baritone; Florenz Ames, comedian; William J. McCarthy, comedian; Charles E. Gallagher, bass; and Lee Daly, dancing juvenile.

During the nine years of its existence, the "muny opera" has played to 3,054,845 spectators, producing 61 different light operas in 80 weeks, or a total of 566 individual performances. "Rose Marie" scored the attendance record of the association's history last year, when more than 10,000 witnessed one performance.

45,000 MAN POWER

"WHAT OF IT? . . . What if the Dunlop team is 45,000 strong? What does that mean to me and my car?"

More VALUE in the tires you buy . . . that's what the immensity of Dunlop means to you.

Dunlop engineers have continually blazed the trail in tire inventions. They have pioneered in practically every major tire improvement, including the drop-center rim as used on the new Fords. Eighteen world records confirm Dunlop's engineering skill.

Combine 40 years' experience with 45,000 craftsmen and you have the world's greatest tire knowledge. Combine this knowledge with the finest materials . . . what do you get? Extra VALUE, as evidenced by the fact that 26 million Dunlops are now in use.

Those millions of motorists, and those 45,000 Dunlop workers—they all know from experience that it will pay you to put Dunlops on your car.

OLYMPIC TEAMS OFF FOR GAMES

268 Athletes Board Roosevelt to Conquer the World Athletically.

NEW YORK, July 11—An army of men and women boarded the S. S. Roosevelt today intent on conquering the world athletically at the Olympic games which begin in Amsterdam July 29.

There were 268 persons in this modern U. S. expeditionary force from polite and sun-bronzed Martha Norelius on up to the veterans to whom Olympic games are but another contest. It is by far the strongest team the United States ever has sent to the Olympiads [illegible]

There are numerous world record holders in the group aboard the Roosevelt. Frank Wykoff, the 18-year-old Californian, ran the 100 meters four times in record time one afternoon; Lloyd Hahn, the Nebraskan, flashed off 800 meters at Cambridge last week in new record time; Eddie Hamm of Georgia holds the record for the broad jump; Lee Barnes and Sabin Carr, the vaulters, have equaled the record, and so on.

There is a girls' track and field team of 19 members, the first woman's track team ever sent by the United Sates to the games. There also is a women's swimming team.

The California eight-oared crew, Poughkeepsie champions, will defend their honors won by Yale in 1924, while the Harvard four-oared team also was aboard today.

I. D. Store Team to Face Electricians

The second game of the Twilight league will be played tonight at 6:30 when the artists of the I. D. Store cross bats with the Electricians. The I. D. team has been playing for a slightly longer time this season than the Electricians but as to how the talent is divided will be decided tonight.

The Twilight League has scheduled games for every Monday, Wednesday and Friday evening for the remainder of the summer and has agreed on a charge of ten cents for each admission. This sum will be used to pay for the balls used to play with, not for profit.

Since the Bruins dropped from the Utah-Idaho League there has been a greater interest taken in the Twilight League and the players are endeavoring to make the quality of ball played of a higher standard.

Arrest Many For Intoxication Here

There were 268 arrests for intoxication by Twin Falls police during the years 1923 and 1924 and only 107 arrests for the same cause made during the years 1925 and 1926, according to records made by Police Judge H. D. Read. During the fiscal year of 1927, from April to April, there were 95 arrests due to intoxication, which is almost as many as during the two years just previous.

The New Zealand Licensing Reform Association has written asking for the number of arrests made here for intoxication during the years of 1923-25-26-27. It was to supply this information that Judge Read checked up on the number of arrests from this single cause.

During the month of April this year from this cause there were six arrests, six in May and 12 in June.

P.A. and a pipe—that's all I ask

I DON'T mean that I am easily satisfied. As a matter of fact, I'm as critical as they come about smoking-tobacco. There are certain things I demand in a smoke, and I declare here and now that P.A. has 'em. Has 'em and to spare, if you ask me.

Fragrant as spring blossoms. Cool as "The boss wants to see you." Sweet as "I'm going to raise your pay." Mild and mellow and long-burning, with full satisfaction in every wonderful puff. It seems that there are not enough hours in a day to suit your Prince Albert program. You'll start in early and stay with it far into the night.

But all this conversation won't do you any good, unless you try out the tobacco itself. When it comes to speaking for itself, P.A. is the best little talker you ever listened to. Go get yourself a tidy red tin and get some of this pipe-joy I've been picturing.

More in quality, more in quantity—TWO full ounces in every tin.

CROP REPORTS START GRAINS UP THE GRADE

By United Press

CHICAGO, July 11.—The bearish government crop report was the leading factor in wheat, and all deliveries closed sharply lower on the Board of Trade. Corn and oats gained fractionally.

Wheat closed 2⅝@3c down; corn was up ⅝@1¼c; oats ranged from unchanged to ½c higher. Provisions gained 10c.

Wheat was unsettled most of the day. A cablegram from Germany described the grain situation in Russia as tense and predicted more Russian purchases. Receipts were 8 cars with the cash market unchanged.

Reports from all sections of the corn belt were favorable and induced heavy selling. Receipts were small. Short covering was responsible for the early gain. The cash market was ½@1c higher. Receipts were 96 cars.

The strong cash market was the dominant factor in oats. Trading was light, due mainly to favorable crop reports. The cash market was unchanged with receipts at 22 cars.

REYNOLDS TOP TODAY'S STOCK MARKET DEALS

By United Press

NEW YORK, July 11.—Sweeping declines were scored by stocks today following the rise in the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank rate late yesterday and the advance in call money to 7 per cent from a renewal rate of 6 per cent.

General Motors was the principal target fo rshort selling, breaking more than 5 points, while substantial losses were scored by Steel, General Electric, Radio and the Airplane issues. Reynolds Tobacco B. was the sole outstanding feature of strength, running up more than 5 points on bullish statements by the company.

Mail order shares were under severe pressure. Substantial losses were registered by Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward. Railroad shares were featured by sharp breaks in the New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio issues, while oils were quiet at small declines.

The market closed lower.

Ask Release For Woman of Gooding

Application for a writ of habeas corpus was made today by H. L. Reynolds of Jerome on behalf of Gertie Hull of Gooding, being held in the women's ward at the court house here. Gertie Hull was committed here at the request of Gooding county authorities as there was no accomodation for women there.

According to the application for a habeas corpus, Gertie Hull's home in Gooding was searched without a search warrant. She went to the probate judge, E. E. Brandt, next day to ask what the charges were. According to the application Judge Brandt told her she was fined $300 and sentenced to six months in the Twin Falls county jail, there being no warrant of arrest or giving of a plea. Furthermore, allege Mr. Reynolds, Gertie Hull had no opportunity to appeal the case during the prescribed ten days following as the probate judge was in Yellowstone park for a vacation.

The hearing on the writ will be held July 16 at 10 a. m. before Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here. Gertie Hull's residence was searched June 30 and she has been in the Twin Falls jail for about six days.

Smith Acclaimed By Elk Convention

By United Press

MIAMI, Fla., July 11—A proposal to create a $20,000,000 endowment fund for charitable works was expected to come before the executive session of the 64th annual convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in session here.

A second proposal, expected to come before the order today involves creation of a boys' organization, to be known as the Antlers, sponsored by the California delegation.

Observances last night smacked more of a Democratic jubilee than anything the city of Miami ever witnessed. Bands blaring "East Side, West Side," accompanied by shouts of "Hurrah for Al Smith," featured a demonstration.

SAN DIEGO NEXT STOP

TUCSON, Ariz., July 11—Entrants in the National Air tour left here today to fly to San Diego with a stopover at Yuma. Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, hopelessly out of the money, after a bad time yesterday when she finished last in the flight from El Paso here, was the first to take off today. Johnny Woods, flying a Ford tri-motored monoplane, held the lead for the tour with 5155 points when the caravan left here.

AMERICANS FLY TO TOKIO

TOKIO, July 11—John Mears and Charles B. D. Collyer, Americans trying to circle the world in 23 days, arrived at 7:45 p. m. today in their airplane City of New York from Seoul, Korea, after an 11½ hour flight. The tourist racers plan to catch a fast steamer for San Francisco and then fly to New York, their starting place.

Horses' Origin Unknown

Dubose Heyward says "marsh tackies" are the "poor horse trash" of the Carolina coast country's swamps and sea islands. Early tradition says these horses were found by the English when they first came and that they are the descendants of runaways from the Spanish settlements to the south about St. Augustine, or horses turned loose by De Soto upon his ill-fated march to the Mississippi.

The Only Good Joy

It is wonderful that any man can wholly rejoice in this life who considers and weighs his banishment and the many dangers of his soul. Through levity of heart and the little thought we have of our defects, we feel not the sorrows of our soul, but often vainly laugh when in all reason we ought to weep. There is no true liberty nor any good joy but in the fear of God with a good conscience.—Thomas a Kempis.

Water Purification

The use of the ultra-violet ray treatment for purification of swimming pool water is very effective, but it is more expensive to install and maintain than some other methods. An efficient filter must be provided to clarify the water and care must be exercised to prevent the accumulation of scum or sediment in the apparatus, as this renders the treatment ineffective.

Fan and Thermometer

The bureau of standards says that, as a rule, air from an electric fan blowing on a thermometer will have no essential effect on the mercury. If a very sensitive thermometer is placed in front of a fan, it may, however, cause a slight rise in temperature, inasmuch as the air which passes by the motor becomes slightly heated.

Beets Thrive Under Light

By use of intense artificial light that rivals sunshine a biologist of France succeeded in growing three generations of beets in the past year. The powerful illumination caused the plants to go to seed more rapidly and the seed to germinate in much less time than usual.

Postpone Action On Coalition Of Farmer-Labor-Dry

By United Press

CHICAGO, July 11—Action on a proposed combining of forces of the Prohibition party and the Farmer-Labor party was postponed today until after the platform of the two parties are decided upon.

A joint committee presented a resolution to the respective conventions of the parties by which a committee composed of six members of each would be appointed to decide upon a joint campaign.

The resolution decided upon last night stated that the committee favored a coalition of the two parties during the 1928 campaign.

The Prohibition party voted to table the resolution until the platform is decided upon. The Farmer-Labor convention started discussion of its platform without considering the resolution.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other manifestations that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. If grown people want to purge them, no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to your and yours. Just write Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

NO OBJECTIONS TO CITY ZONES GIVEN COUNCIL

Public Hearing Held But No Protests Presented to Council.

No objections were voiced to the city council Monday evening at the hearing on the zoning ordinance. The council had advertised the meeting for the hearing and a few citizens were present, stating that they were interested in the ordinance but had no particular objections to it.

The council decided to take no action until next Monday night, at which time they will give the ordinance its first reading. The three readings will be held a week apart so as not to rush the matter through but give every citizen an opportunity to voice any possible protest.

E. L. Ashton, former mayor, and present secretary of the zoning commission, advised the city council that it would be best to hold a survey of all the buildings in the city, classifying them to avoid trouble in case any of the buildings should be destroyed and reconstruction desired. It was also decided that temporarily at least the fire chief would have the responsibility of enforcing the ordinance. A building inspector may be appointed at some later date.

P. W. McRoberts, former mayor, appeared personally to present his offer to cede to the city a strip of land 20 feet wide at the rear of his resident at the corner of Blue Lakes boulevard and Sixth avenue east to open an alleyway through that lot. He asked in exchange for the property a rebate on the cost of pavement in front of that property. The proposed transfer was considered favorably by the council.

The council voted permission to the Globe Grain and Milling company to remove a portion of a high platform in front of its building at 224 Fourth avenue south and construct a driveway inside the building and to install scales, dump and bin. The cost was estimated at $1,200.

The city council held an informal discussion of the enforcement of the ordinance against shooting firecrackers in the city limits. It was agreed that there was danger from this source but that little effort had been made to stop it as the chief trouble was the result of older people dropping cannon crackers from speeding automobiles.

The city council also voted to pay $7,916 for the new sprinkler and flusher. This sum was voted from the special fund for machinery. Each year the sprinkling district is created anew and turns in about $3000 to the city, this sum being added in to cover these expenses. The amount turned in is practically a rental for the machinery of the city and serves to pay all expenses in the department. It will more than cover the cost of the new sprinkler in a short time.

Robinson Alarmed Over Threatened Revolt in South

NEW YORK, July 11—An organized effort is under way in several Southern States to defeat the national Democratic ticket, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic nominee for vice-president, said yesterday:

Robinson proposed the establishment of a bureau or headquarters at some strategic point in the South for the direction of the campaign there. His statement said in part:

"The subjects of concern to me and other Democrats just now are for consideration and decision by the national committee in its meeting tomorrow.

"The selection of the national chairman and the conclusion as to what organizations are required, and how and where they shall be set up are of very great importance.

"An organized effort is in progress in several Southern States to defeat the national Democratic ticket, and while the force and volume of this movement is not yet known, I am of the opinion that sound policy should prompt our party managers to meet this opposition decisively and promptly."

Prefers Death In Electric Chair To Mosquito Attacks

By United Press

UNION CITY, Tenn., July 11—When Johnny Vaughn, 21-year-old condemned murderer, escaped from the county jail here last Thursday, he left a note which read:

"Will return in the morning."

He returned voluntarily to his cell yesterday.

Vaughn, under sentence to die for the murder of Roland Bell, a rival in a love affair, said on his return he preferred jail and prospects in the electric chair to "being bitten to death by mosquitos."

His face and arms were a mass of mosquito bites which he said he suffered while sleeping in the woods at night.

With three companions, Vaughn escaped from the jail by sawing a 20-inch hole through the wall. His companions were recaptured earlier this week.

Deaths and Funerals

O. C. Coxen, 51, died at his home on Blue Lakes Boulevard at 5 o'clock Monday evening following a short illness which developed into pneumonia. The body lies at the Drake funeral parlors awaiting funeral arrangements. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Hazel Rogers, Graybull, Wy., a son, Robert Coxen, also of Graybull; a sister, Mrs. Leota Esler, Hammond, Okla., and three brothers, O. W. Coxen, Elwood, Ind., O. F. Coxen, Cherico, Mo., and O. H. Coxen, Wellston, Okla.

JACK WILL REFEREE FIGHT

By United Press

DETROIT, Mich., July 11—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, yesterday wired Thos. Bigger, chairman of the Michigan athletic commission, that he will be here to referee the Johnny Risko—Johnny Squires fight on July 19. Estelle Taylor, wife of the former champion, also will be here for the bout.

Coal Bids Taken Under Advisement

The Twin Falls school board took under advisement the eight bids submitted by coal dealers in Twin Falls for supplying 500 tons of coal to the school system for the coming year. Comparison of the figures submitted by the eight dealers showed little difference among the men. The school board will decide upon the contract at a later date.

Approximately $2,000 in contracts for the purchase of books, paper and other supplies were distributed among various dealers. J. Priest was given a renewal contract for the operation of a school bus to carry students to and from school.

Levine In 'Dutch' At Curtiss Field

By United Press

NEW YORK, July 11—Charles A. Levine, first trans-Atlantic air passenger, and Bert Acosta, whose pilot's license recently was suspended by federal authorities, have emerged successfully from a controversy with the government.

Federal officials hurried to Curtiss Field when they heard that Levine and Acosta were planning to act as an aerial escort to Emilio Carranza, Mexican flier, on his non-stop flight to Mexico City.

The officials planned to seize Levine's plans to prevent him from making the flight, but when they reached the field Levine told them he already had canceled his plans.

Boulder Dam Row Comes To Top In University Meet

By United Press

IOWA CITY, July 11—The Boulder Dam controversy which held the attention of Congress off and on the last session of Congress, broke out in the commonwealth conference at the University of Iowa yesterday.

Private power lobbies which feared public competition should power from the dam be used in Los Angeles, halted action on the project in Congress, Prof. A. R. Hatton, of Northwestern University, charged. Hatton denounced hired lobbyists, and "professors who are secretly in the employ of private power interests."

A verbal battle between Prof. Russell M. Story, of Pomona College, Claremont, Calif., and Royal H. Holbrook of Cedar Rapids, flared up in the Boulder Dam discussion.

Need of the project was outlined by Professor Story, while Holbrook declared that from an engineer's standpoint the plan was impossible, unwise and possibly unconstitutional.

Eads Bridge Scene Big Bank Robbery

By United Press

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ills., July 11—Four automobile bandits yesterday forced the car of Claude E. Mattingley, a bank messenger, into the rail of the Eads bridge of the Mississippi river here, and escaped with $47,800 in currency, according to reports to police.

Mattingley, an employe of the First National Bank of East St. Louis, was transferring the money to the First National Bank of St. Louis, Mo., across the river from here, when the robbery occurred.

OBJI IS NO MORE

WASHINGTON, July 11—Obji, official brown bear mascot of the U. S. coast guard, died in the Washington zoo yesterday of lonesomeness. Captured in New England woods several years ago and sent to the coast guard school at New London, Conn., Obji grew up from a cub and eventually became too rough a playmate for the cadets. He was sent to the zoo here, but deprived of his human comrades refused to eat and pined away.

Georgia Federal Job Holders Paid For Their Berths

By United Press

ATLANTA, Ga., July 11—Testimony tending to link the Republican State organization with alleged barter and sale of federal jobs in Georgia was introduced before a Senate investigating committee yesterday by two former small-town postmasters.

One of them, S. N. Thompson, postmaster at East Point, Ga., from 1923-1925, said in his opinion "no one can hold a federal office in this State unless he keeps payments up." He referred to contributions to the party treasury.

The other, L. L. Spence, postmaster at Hall Ground, Ga., until 1920, said that his wife, postmistress there from 1923-26, failed of reappointment "because I refused to make a contribution for her of $500."

The names of Ben J Davis, negro, national committeeman, and John W. Martin, State treasurer of the Republican party, were mentioned in the testimony which came at the end of the second day's hearing.

Spence said Davis came to see him when the matter of reappointment of his wife came up.

"Davis talked round about that there would have to be some money if my wife was to be reappointed," Spence testified.

"He told me to see Martin about it."

Annual State Ram Sale Fair Ground Filer August 8th

BURLEY, July 11—According to announcement of M. C. Claar, secretary, the Idaho Wool Growers' Association will hold its seventh annual state ram sale at Filer, Idaho, on the fair grounds beginning at 10 o'clock the morning of August 8. Over half the entries have been received and with a fine selection of stud rams, yearling range rams and ram lambs for sale. The principal offerings will be Hampshires and Suffolk-Hampshires. There will also be Rambouillets, Lincolns, Cotswolds, Panamas, Corriedales and some other well known breeds.

Seven years ago the Idaho Wool Growers association started holding this sale to aid the pure-bred breeders and the range sheepmen of Idaho. It has well served its purpose by affording an opportunity for the breeders to put their rams up for public auction and supplying a place where sheepmen may see rams from all over the state and compare them before buying. Hampshire rams make up the larger part of the offerings, about 750 head consisting of stud rams, yearling range rams and ram lambs will be sold. The sheepmen know that an early maturing well developed lamb has been the money maker. Hampshire rams have sired a large per cent of the early market lambs that have brought the most money.

In addition to the annual state ram sale serving as an open market to the pure-bred breeders and creating a place where a buyer can see more rams in one day than two weeks of traveling over the state, it has made Idaho one of the leading users of pure-bred rams in the United States. Much credit for Idaho's success as a producer of quality lambs can be given to the use of pure-bred rams.

RASKOB MADE SMITH CAMPAIGN CHIEF

President Approves Minidoka Enterprise

MILLIONAIRE MOTORS HEAD ACCEPTS JOB

Like Governor, Democratic Director Rose From Poverty to Power and Is Roman Catholic in Faith; Also Favors Revision of Prohibition Laws By Congress; Leaders in Session Today.

By United Press

NEW YORK, July 11—John J. Raskob, who rose from a $7.50 a week stenographer to the status of a giant in the world of finance, was selected today to direct the presidential campaign of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, former newsboy.

The chairman of the finance committee of the General Motors Corporation was Smith's own choice for the chairmanship if the Democratic national committee, which ratified his selection at its meeting here.

Raskob's election marked a climax in the organization for the campaign by leaders of the Democratic party. They met here with Smith and his running mate, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, who opposed Smith for the presidential nomination at Houston.

There is a striking parallel in the careers of Smith and Raskob. Both rose from humble beginnings to positions of leadership in their respective fields; both were born workers; both are Roman Catholics and both believe that the prohibition laws should be changed.

While Smith was working his way through the Tammany school of politics, and selling fish in the Fulton market, Raskob was working as a stenographer in Lockport, N. Y. In 1900, Raskob joined his employer for more money and was turned down. He then heard of a man named P. S. du Pont in Lorain, Ohio, who wanted a secretary and applied for the job, asking for a salary of $1,000 a year.

He got the job and the salary.

Thus began Raskobs relationship with the du Ponts, with now such huge blocks of stock in the General Motors Corporation.

He became a believer in General Motors when it was organized by William C. Durant in 1908 and induced the du Ponts to invest.

JIM REED IN CONFERENCE

NEW YORK, July 11—With hope in their hearts and $200,000 in their treasury, leaders of the Democratic party met today with Gov. Alfred E. Smith, their nominee for president, and placed themselves at his command for the ensuing campaign.

The governor's first conference of the day was with Senator James A. Reed, who campaigned against Smith for the nomination at Houston but who now has agreed to use his political acumen and his lashing tongue to promote the interests of the party's candidate.

Senator Reed was called into the governor's suite at the Biltmore hotel for a breakfast conference before any of the national committeemen or other leaders had left their rooms.

Reed Promises Missouri.

Reed told reporters he would give the governor "my most cordial cooperation" and that he was certain that he could deliver his home State, Missouri.

Smith is said to have decided on a non-political business man to serve as chairman of the national committee and director of his campaign and it is likely that the committee will respect his choice. Among those mentioned as probable choices of the governor are John J. Raskob, chairman of the finance committee of the General Motors corporation, and Owen D. Young, an executive of General Electric.

According to present plans Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, former governor of Wyoming, will be named vice-chairman.

REED BITTERLY ANTI-BRITISH

NEW YORK, July 11—Senator James A. Reed of Missouri indicated today that his part in the presidential campaign will be largely confined to the issue of prohibition.

SCORE INJURED WHEN BUS AND TRUCK COLLIDE

Huge Stage Coach Sideswipes Seattle Garbage Carrier.

By United Press

SEATTLE, Wash., July 11—A score of passengers were injured today when a huge stage coach bound from Portland to Seattle crashed with a city garbage truck at First and Spokane street here.

Six of the injured were taken to the Seattle General Hospital. They were:

Henry H. Derkson, Rohern, Sask., a hardware merchant, cut about the head.

Mrs. S. J. Wagner, 310 West 32nd street, New York City; severe cuts and bruises.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Hutton, St. Charles hotel, Seattle, cuts and bruises.

John Enos, Seattle, cuts on the head.

H. W. Davids, Yucaipa, Calif., cuts about the face.

With the exception of Mrs. Wagner and Derkson, the injured were treated and released.

The crash was said to have been terrific. The stage coach sideswiped the truck, tearing outone side of the bus. Cause and blame for the accident have not been established.

HOOVER HEARS NEW JERSEY IN RIGHT COLUMN

By United Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—The Hoover-Curtis ticket will carry New Jersey by a plurarity of not less than 400,000 votes, Representative Bacharach of New Jersey predicted today after conferring with Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

"New Jersey always has believed and always will believe in the policy of a protective tariff and not in a tariff for revenue only," which, under the Democratic platform of 1928, has been changed to a "tariff for politics only," Bacharach said.

"Plenty of work at good wages is the issue in this campaign so far as New Jersey is concerned and that will be the real issue throughout the country."

Others who called on Hoover were Otis F. Glenn, Republican nominee for United States senator from Illinois, Charles Barratt, of the Farmers' Union, Harry Guggenheim of the Guggenheim Foundation, and L. W. Wallace of the engineering council.

OFFICIALS ALLEGED TO HAVE TAKEN BOOZE BRIBE

By United Press

HASTINGS, Minn., July 11—C. W. Smeltzer, mayor of South St. Paul, and Charles Zeman, alderman, were arrested and arraigned in Dakota county court today on ten indictments, charging acceptance of bribes.

The cases of both men were continued until July 20. Bonds of $2500 each were furnished for both officials.

The indictments are a result of a months investigation by a county grand jury in which acceptance of protection money from bootleggers is charged.

MALMGREN IS LOCATED WITH TWO OF CREW

Soviet Aviator Chuknosky Flies Over Position of Three Men Who Left Nobile Party to Walk to Land and Who Have Been Given Up As Lost; No Word From Ice Floe Group.

By United Press

MOSCOW, July 11—The Russian icebreaker ship Krwsin today belatedly reported that the Soviet aviator Chuknosky, Tuesday night circled over the position of Professor Elan Malmgren and two other men from the dirigible Italia, is who long had been given up for lost.

Professor Malmgren, Swedish physicist; Capt. Alberto Mariano and Capt. Filippi Zappi, both navigators of the royal Italian navy, were in the gondola of the ill-fated dirigible when it crashed May 25 on its return from a flight over the North Pole.

Malmgren remained with Gen. Umberto Nobile and five others of the crew of the Italia who were in the gondola until May 30 when he set out with Mariano and Zappi in an effort to walk to land.

General Nobile advised against the attempt but Malmgren had failed to establish any radio communication with the world and was insistent. Nobile saw them disappear in the direction of Foyn Island. That was the last seen or heard of them until the Krasin report, which did not state their position.

Chukhovsky it was stated, sighted the Malmgren party in latitude 80.42 north, longitude 28 east, 50 miles west of the Krasnin.

Two men in the group, it was said, were standing and signaling to the plane while a third was lying on the ice.

RUSSIAN AVIATOR A HERO

(Copyright 1928 by United Press)

KINGSBAY, Spitsbergen, July 11—A Russian aviator, unknown to the world, sent news today that he had located three men of the dirigible Italia who had been given up for lost.

Their survival, in a 42-day fight for life against terrible Arctic weather must be rewarded as one of the high spots in this epic of the north.

On May 25, Professor Finn Malmgren, physicist, of Sweden, and Captains Adalberto Mariano and Filippo Zappi, of the royal Italian navy, joined navigators, missed out with a farewell wave of their arms from the ice floe encampment of the Nobile party off Northeast Land.

They refused to wait, as they thought, for an inexorable death to overtake them, but preferred to meet it half way in a gallant effort to reach land over the broken ice floes, legged and treacherous, and take aid to their companions.

RADIO CALLS GROW WEARER

VIRGO BAY, Spitsbergen, July 11—Four haggard, unkempt and disconsolate men remained on an ice floe off Northeast Land today, the one for whom they were stranded when the dirigible Italia crashed May 25, as all northern radio stations were tuned in to catch signals that might indicate their fate.

Radio calls from the ice encampment have been few in the last 24 hours. Among the last was the one from Giuseppe Biagi which had a most pessimistic note:

"Rescue is so hard and yet so far. Since then there have been few distinct messages save one from the Russ-

Thirty-two Saved From Drowning Off New England Coast

By United Press

ROCKPORT, Mass., July 11—Although handicapped by darkness and a choppy sea, coast guards answered early today in response to "S" signals, including 14 on board, after the Gloucester yacht Cracie had crashed safely, unharmed, on Sandy Bay, about two miles from here.

The wrecked yacht quickly filled with water and became partially submerged on the ledge, but all three were brought to safety on the Rockport coast guard station in time to save all on board.

HERO AVIATORS GIVEN WELCOME SAN FRANCISCO

Lyon and Warner Arrive on Malolo From Australian Flight.

By United Press

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11—Two American adventurers of the air who set forth a little more than a month ago with two Australians on the conquest of the Pacific, returned in triumph to their native shores today.

The liner Malolo, bringing Harry W. Lyon, Jr., navigator, and James Warner, radio operator of the Southern Cross, back home from their long flight, docked here shortly before 9 a. m.

A squadron of army planes, from Crissy field cruised over the Malolo as it entered the Golden Gate and an official welcoming party from the Sea Scout boarded the liner just outside the harbor.

Whistles and sirens of craft in the harbor sounded a noisy welcome as the Malolo moved slowly up to its pier, where hundreds were waiting patiently for a sight of the two airmen.

The squadron of army planes took off as soon as the Malolo appeared through the fog outside the Golden Gate and escorted the vessel into port.

It took 10,000 Gallons.

A few moments later several civilian planes led by Frank A. Flynn of the National Aeronautical Association flew over the Malolo, dropping 10,000 carnations in the path of the ship.

James D. Phelan, former senator and chairman of the citizens' reception committee, boarded the Malolo from the Sea Scout, with members of his committee, and greeted Lyon and Warner.

Mrs. Irma Meyer Lyon, wife of the Southern Cross navigator was one of the party that boarded the Malolo from the Sea Scout. She ran up to her husband and threw her arms about him.

The giant siren at the ferry building and whistles and bells on shore took up the chorus of welcome as the Malolo nosed into its slip.

Large crowds gathered on Lands End, watched the aerial reception for the Southern Cross, while another throng was packed around the pier.

At the pier the municipal band struck up a martial air but was scarcely heard above the general din.

Families Greet Fliers.

The first person on the gangplank of the Malolo was Mrs. Leila Lyon of Paris Hill, Maine, mother of Lyon.

Mrs. May Herzog and Mrs. Stella Hahn, sisters of Warner and their three children were also there.

Mayor James Rolph, Jr., of San Francisco, and Mayor John Davie of Oakland and other officials followed the relatives of Lyon and Warner on board the Malolo and greeted them.

A police band led by a platoon of mounted police formed at the dock for the parade up Market street and over to City Hall.

Lyon and Warner sat in a flat-drawn automobile, visibly distant with embarrassment at the shouts of the crowds along the streets.

Two hundred bluejackets from the U. S. S. New ork and cars bearing members of the reception committees followed behind the two airmen. Most of them in the throngs that lined along Market street had watched the Southern Cross with its crew of Lyon and Warner, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and Capt. Charles T. P. Ulm, circle over the Golden Gate early on the morning of May 31, bound for Sydney, Australia, nearly 8,000 miles away.

The flight was made in four hops with stops at, Honolulu, Suva and Brisbane.

Last Applause For Circus Performer

By United Press

CHICAGO, July 11—Two of her front teeth pulled out as Mrs. Beasie B. Gunn, circus performer, swung high above a crowd at a circus here and Mrs. Gunn plunged to the ground, life is not expected to live.

Mrs. Gunn, advertised by the Robinson circus as "The Woman with the iron jaw," was spinning her body-as the swung above the crowd, clinging solely by her teeth.

Two teeth suddenly loosened and then broke off. She suffered four fractures of two spine, her right femur fractured and four ribs broken.

RESOLUTION URGES PROHIBITION PARTY TO RALLY SUPPORT HOOVER

Incidental Tribute Paid to Senator Borah for His Stand for Drys.

CHICAGO, July 11.—A resolution urging that the Prohibition party select Herbert Hoover and Charles Curtis as its standard bearers was placed before the national convention of the Prohibition party today.

The resolution was presented by Charles H. Randall of Los Angeles, it declared that Hoover was personally and undoubtedly politically dry and it cited Curtis as one of the dixiemen to prosecute dry law violators in Kansas.

The resolution was received with enthusiasm by many of the delegates to the convention; although much opposition was expected. No vote will be taken on the matter until after discussion of the platform.

Randall was elected to Congress as a member of the Prohibition party. He served three terms in the House of Representatives. He was author of the 18th amendment to the law-house and wrote numerous other dry measures.

The resolution declared the Republican party has committed itself "to the greatest forward movement since adoption of the 18th amendment.

Tribute To Borah

"That peerless statesman, William E. Borah, led his party to an unequivocal declaration not only for prohibition enforcement," Randall's statement said, "but also for personal observance of law by the members of the party.

"In view of this moral act, the prohibition party should with enthusiasm accept this proof of the conversion of the Republican party.

"Mr. Hoover is personally dry and has pledged himself politically so.

Charles Curtis was one of the first men to prosecute dry law violators in his state. In the six years I was associated with him in Congress, he was a supporter of dry law legislation."

What A Frightful Setback To Motion Picture Industry

By United Press

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 11—So far as Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York is concerned, his personal year with the motion picture industry is at an end.

"If the movies don't behave themselves," he said today, "I'll refuse to go into any screen tests when I get back to New York."

That wise crack, the mayor indicated, was to be his last word in the matter. He said it as if he enjoyed thoroughly the brief storm he caused by accusing the films of partisan politics.

The controversy started amusingly enough when the New York executive, speaking before a Hollywood press agent club, advised that the cinema would better keep its nose out of politics."

He intimated that the film industry had been more friendly with Herbert Hoover than it had with his personal friend, Governor Alfred E. Smith.

He concluded:

"It seemed silly to me that motion picture executives would take part in the national Republican convention."

Louis B. Mayer of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, a delegate to the Kansas City convention, answered this by declaring it would "be a waste of valuable time to try to influence the screen colony politically."

To which Mayer Walker answered that he remained "firm in his conviction that the films should remain politically neutral and that to date they have not done so."

The New York executive will speak today at the Breakfast club and is expected to have time for a visit to San Francisco.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 11—Col. Charles Lindbergh arrived at the air mail field here at 7:45 a. m. today in a Curtis Falcon mail plane, took on fuel at 8:10 a. m. for the West.

"Just say I'm going west," Lindbergh told newspaper men who inquired about his destination.

THOUSANDS OF ACRES LANDS TO GET WATER

Recommendations of Dr. Work, Secretary Interior, Accepted by Coolidge Removes Last Bar to Prompt Carrying Out of Enterprise of Great Importance to Idaho.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Secretary Hubert Work of the Department of the Interior announces today President Coolidge has approved his recommendation of the feasibility of the gravity division of the Minidoka reclamation project in Idaho. The approval is the last of a long series of steps which provide for putting stored water of the Minidoka river on 60,000 acres of land before quite without it, or with an inadequate supply. It makes available an appropriation of $1,675,000 provided by the past Congress for this work.

The Minidoka project is of old one of the reclamation service and has already been providing irrigation water for some 120,000 acres. The gravity division, often called the Gooding project, was fathered by the late Frank R. Gooding, governor of Idaho and thus greatly increases the adequately irrigated land of this section. The water to be used is from the American Falls reservoir of the Snake river constructed a few years ago at present there is more water available in this reservoir than is being used but this extension of the Minidoka project will supply much of that excess to the fertile lands of the Gooding project.

In his letter to the President approving the feasibility of this plan Secretary Work said:

What Secretary Work Wrote.

"It is proposed to construct a main canal diverting water from Snake river at Milner dam, 25 miles east of Twin Falls, Idaho, and running north-westerly for a distance of 70 miles to an intersection with a constructed canal now serving lands in the vicinity of Gooding, Idaho. The latter canal is part of a system constructed under the Carey Act 20 years ago for the irrigation of a tract of some 60,000 acres of land with water from Big Wood and Little Wood rivers, and for which the present water supply has been found inadequate and inefficient. The proposed canal will permit the waters from Big and Little Wood rivers now being used below its level to be delivered to the lands of the irrigation of 36,000 acres of higher lands, and will so augment the water supply for these higher lands as to permit profitable cultivation. In addition to this indirect irrigation the proposed government canal would be large enough to irrigate directly 20,000 acres of land, which 40,000 acres are now in a position to be reclaimed and cultivated and 20,000 acres of public land, hereinbefore referred to. The expenditures in connection with the construction and maintenance of the works for this public land will not be made until settlement is assured.

"On the partially irrigated lands to be included in the project and on other lands in the vicinity, the prevailing crops are alfalfa, sugar beets, corn and grain, with an estimated average annual crop production under present conditions of $35 per acre. All of the lands lie within reasonable distances of the main and branch lines of the Union Pacific Railway system. Over 400,000 acres of irrigated land are now successfully cultivated in this immediate vicinity.

Lands All Organized.

All lands to be served by the new construction have been organized under the American Falls Reservoir district No. 2 and a satisfactory contract has been prepared and signed by the owners of the private lands affirmed by court. It provides for payment of a maximum charge, etc. The benefits to the lands

Dashing Revue and Clever Acts At Orpheum Tonight

The quintessence of artistic dancing is exemplified in the Karnimos Angeles Revue headliner on the Ackerman Harris vaudeville, given for the last time tonight. At last night's performance the act received boisterous rounds of applause, well deserved. A combination of beautiful girls, beautiful costumes, special scenery and effects it is certain to attract the most discriminating patrons. The Varsity Girls, vivacious and clever interpreters of blues, forcibly with the Melody Pirates revue, have a snappy act that brings cheers. Now, how to take your hat off to Frank Evans, the comedian on skates, and Al and Flo Cooper, in a chalk talk and song skit, are unusually good. "Wild Beauty," the screen attraction, is full of big thrills.

A picture as happy and as free as the great outdoors in which it was filmed is "Wild Beauty," the spectacular wild horse story.

Rex, famous Morgan stallion, is the star of the picture, which is at the same time unusual in theme and in treatment.

The mountain country of the great West furnishes the beautiful and elaborate setting in which this dramatic picture takes place. "Wild Beauty" probably more fenced in appeal than any motion picture we have seen for months. The sportsman, naturalist, dramatist and the exacting motion picture fan are a few of the classifications for which this picture was seemingly especially made.

A horse who can act just like a man is a marvel in itself. The story is built around Rex and Rex has his wild horse herd and has to battle for supremacy with the head of a Kentucky mare and an unruly young rival, slay a lion in mortal combat and sacrifice the free life for his love. The picture is intensely gripping.

The human characters mingle delightfully with the animal and human plots are cleverly interwoven by Director Henry MacRae. June Marlowe is a beautiful and completely fascinating heroine, while Hugh Allan makes a dashing hero.

The supporting cast consists of real troupers: Scott Seaton, Hayes Robinson, William Bailey and J. Gordon Russell.

Funeral Services For Davies Youth 2 P.M. Tomorrow

Maynard Davies, 16, who was killed instantly Sunday as a result of a collision between two automobiles on the highway two miles south and one mile west of Burley, about 5:30 p. m., will be given final tribute Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Funeral services will be held at the Presbyterian church, the Rev. A. G. Pearson officiating. Interment will be in Twin Falls cemetery. The body is being returned from the Johnson parlors at Burley.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Davies, and his two brothers, Lloyd, aged 22, and Stanley, 13, were seriously injured in the crash as was Mrs. Harriet Linn, the lad's grandmother.

Go Heavy on Sandwiches

Careful estimates claim that 1,000,000 sandwiches are eaten every working day in the Broadway restaurant district of New York.

June Says—

The Bertha has collared the fashionable fancy again and seems to be assured of remaining for a while. I am glad for there is nothing more becoming, more feminine or alluring in its softness if worn by the right type. But it should never be worn by the stout or the short and stout, or the short unless very slim. Many letters from the thin, small and thin have made me make this sketch in their particular problems, for they can wear the Bertha to perfection. It makes the tall look less so and the thin not so thin. I have picked a white chiffon with a navy dot for the sketch but a flowered chiffon would be equally lovely. As you see it has a bloused waist, the snug hipline and the skirt is pleated. With or without sleeves. And a word about hats for the tall and thin—it is the heritage of the tall girl to wear the large hat. She is marvelous then. But on the tiny Miss or Mrs. it is grotesque. And hats. If one can believe the signs, are getting larger and larger—that is for certain occasions.

Thousands of Acres of Land to Get Water

ment have been apportioned to the different classes of land and duly confirmed by court with the new lands assessed to pay $41 an acre and the old lands to be provided with a partial water supply at $61.70 an acre, this representing the cost of lands in the Carey Act, both above and below the proposed canal.

When the contract the district is obligated to repay construction costs on new lands within a period of 40 years and for the lands having partial water supply within a period of 20 years. This would make the average annual payments of construction costs for new lands $2.35 per acre per year and on the lands now irrigated and having a partial supply $2.60 per acre per year. These payments together with costs for operation and maintenance of the project system and other district costs, will make an annual water charge of around $4.60 per acre. This is higher than prevailing charges on projects of similar productiveness after readjustment of repayment contracts under the act of May 25, 1926. In view, however, of precautions being taken to curb land speculation, to obtain qualified settlers, and to create conditions which will hasten and cheapen the improvement of farms, it is believed the charges can be met.

Return of Cost.

"It will be seen that this schedule provides for the return of the cost, the same as in other reclamation projects done, but also of storage in American Falls reservoir which has been provided by the government at an expense of 2,000,000, and upon which the United States is no wreckfully no return and will receive no return until an irrigation system is constructed for the utilization of the stored water. The returns from the 20,000 acres of new land may be somewhat delayed, awaiting settlement, as the repayment does not begin until after the land is entered. As an offset to this, the laterals for the new land estimated to cost around $300,000 will not be constructed until complete settlement and profitable cultivation are assured."

Knights Templar Idaho Guests On Special to Detroit

Harry Brown, editor of The Times, left this afternoon for Denver Colorado, in acceptance of an invitation from Grand Master Salisbury of the Grand Encampment of the United States, Knights Templar, to be one of the party accompanying the grand master to the thirty-seventh triennial session of the order, to open in the city of Detroit next week.

The grand master's special train will leave Denver at 11 o'clock Thursday night for Detroit, stopping en route at Chicago Saturday morning where the grand master's party will be the guests of the Grand Commandery of Illinois at breakfast, afterwards proceeding to Detroit where a magnificent reception has been planned for the distinguished visitor and his staff. Saturday night will be the starting of a marvelous illumination system erected by Detroit in honor of the occasion. Sunday's program includes a great church service in the new Masonic temple and on Tuesday will take place the Tri-ennial parade, in which it is expected more than 50,000 Knights Templar from all parts of the United States will have a part. The sessions of the Grand Encampment will last through Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Frederick Idaho Knights Templar invited to ride on the special include Deputy Grand Commander Mattes Mattson of of Gooding, Past Grand Commander William Wallis of Pocatello, and Grand Secretary Emlen of Boise.

Past Grand Commander Brown of the Grand Commandery of Florida, will be joined in Chicago by Mrs. Brown who leaves Florida Thursday night, meeting the train Saturday morning for the ride to Detroit. After the Triennial Mr. and Mrs. Brown will enjoy a brief vacation with relatives in Niagara Falls, Hamilton, Welland and other cities in the Niagara district of Ontario. At the conclusion of the holiday Mrs. Brown will leave to resume her duties as superintendent of the general hospital in Barlow, Florida, while Mr. Brown will return to Idaho.

PADDOCK SAILS FOR AMSTERDAM

Name Is Cleared of Charges of Professionalism By Committee.

By United Press

NEW YORK, July 11.—Charley Paddock has been cleared by the A. A. U. of charges of professionalism and sails today with the American Olympic team, but the memory of the Paddock charges lingers on with the Olympic committee.

George W. Wightman, Boston, vice president of the committee, resigned because he felt "he could no longer remain on the committee with the Paddock thing in the air. Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, president of the committee, mentioned that men of "complete integrity" often saw things in different lights.

Wightman criticized the committee for permitting Paddock to be a member of the team after the hearing over eligibility. He called certain of the threats of withdrawal, in case Paddock was not a member of the team, as "horse trading."

General MacArthur said he knew very little about the Paddock case but that he had received no evidence which would warrant doubting the decision of the A. A. U.

"It is my understanding," MacArthur's statement said, "that no concrete evidence ever has been submitted at any time in substantiation of the charges made against Paddock. Men of complete integrity of thought and purpose sometimes see the same thing in an entirely different light. This seems to be the situation in regard to Paddock.

"I deeply regret, Mr. Wightman's resignation. He is a splendid and outstanding sportsman and has added strength and stability to the Olympic movement. His loss will be severely felt."

"AT THE COOLEST PLACE IN THE CITY"

The United Press presents herewith a day with "Scarface Al" Capone, a leading figure in the machine gun and bombing war for control of Chicago's gambling, vice, racketeering, liquor traffic.

(Copyright, 1928, by United Press)

CHICAGO, July 11—It is midnight. Chicago's famous "Soul Misfit" is not yet deserted.

The dingy rain-beaten army of stone structure at the corner of Michigan Boulevard and Twenty-third Street mingles with the drabness of its environing structures on the edge of Chicago's "black belt."

An electric sign suspended over the doorway of the ugly building announces the Metropole Hotel.

A taxicab serves as a leaning post for three men whose careless posture in no way conceals their furtive, ever watchful glances up and down the Boulevard. These are the outposts of "Scarface, Al" Capone's stronghold, wherein resides the lord of Chicago's gangland, whose death long ago was decreed by his rivals, but whose cunning and power of organization has retained for him a dominant position in gangland.

Entering the hotel, one faces still more furtive glances, and shortly the cast questioning of serious appearing individuals.

Four flights up Al Capone is preparing for bed. In a suite of rooms, off a wide archway, Al enters his room, but only after his trusted bodyguards have inspected every openings, have fastened securely the steel sheetings at the windows and the steel sheets against the door. The lights are dimmed, and Capone dons his silken pajamas and climbs in bed.

In his bedroom are more armed bodyguards. They are never from his side. At length, after fitful slumber he is awakened, after the day is well along. He goes about his toilet, prefers himself to a princely degree.

Al Capone is a gentleman in appearance, a meticulous individual and one who is even old-mindish in his habits.

Always the Bodyguard

After breakfast, surrounded by the same bodyguard, he journeys to a nearby barber shop and, always surrounded by the bodyguard, some inside, some outside, Al takes a seat in his accustomed chair.

At the slightest move of another customer, Capone sits upright in his chair. His bodyguards await upon him.

Capone returns to the "throne room" of the Metropole. Here, he meets his men, salesmen, runners, "cookers," collectors and lieutenants. Often-times conference, continue throughout the day. More often however, Capone prepares to leave with his bodyguard for the residence of his wife and children on the southwest side. He goes with his bodyguard to the home, enters and blends himself with a home life not altogether in keeping with his gangster habits.

Before dark, Capone returns.

Six days out of seven, Capone is back in Metropole before dark. Moneys collected from gambling concessions and other activities are brought to the Metropole. Al Capone's beer salesmen, his collectors are the most highly trained specialists of any sales profession in existence.

Noted for Sobriety

His conferences over Capone direct only habit is that of smoking heavy. He is noted for his sobriety and his clear Havana cigars. He then retires again to the "throne room" where as is customary, he sees friends, who constantly seek him out.

The "friend" may be a little newsboy, with papers left over the day. He gets a bill several times the value of his papers. Or it may be a black shawled Italian woman. Al Capone is generous. A few years ago he was reputed to be worth $2,000,000. Most of that has gone to charity or the type described above.

Once a week Al journeys to a private golf course, accompanied, of course, by his armed bodyguard. He likes golf, and chafes under the strain which wears upon his nerves as he seeks to "just live like a human being."

There is a note of disappointment in the conversation of Al Capone. He seeks to "step out of the racket." He is disgusted, and wants to "raise his kids up to be gentlemen," and to live with his wife in happiness, like he knew before he became Chicago's gang ruler.

He will admit it was lust for money and power that drove him, a native Capician of not more than 37 years, to strive for a power which, gained, he cannot relinquish except by death.

"If I were left alone and allowed to pursue my own life, I'd retire, spend my days with my family."

But Al Capone must "stick." Twice before he has tried to "step down," and each time he has been made the mark of an assassination attempt and he must "stick"—until is have all others of his type and power. The sentence of death which gangland has decreed for him, is fulfilled.

CLEO BUSH IS BOUND OVER TO HIGHER COURT

Defense Calls No Witnesses in Preliminary Hearing of Assault Case.

Cleo "Slim" Bush was held to answer in district court on charges of assault with a deadly weapon upon the person of George Jasper following a preliminary hearing yesterday in probate court. His bond was fixed at $1,000.

Prosecuting Attorney O. W. Witham, in presenting the case for the state, presented an amended complaint. The defense demurred but the demurrer was overruled by Judge Bailey and the defendant pleaded not guilty. The state called George Jasper as the first witness, who testified as to the fight—and the alleged assault. He claimed that the night of May 10 at Filer Bill Bush and Marvin Cole were fighting in the street and that Cleo Bush interfered, trying to kick Cole while the two men were rolling on the ground. Jasper claimed that Cleo Bush did kick Cole a few times and that he kicked his brother, Bill, in the face by mistake. Jasper is alleged to have attempted to keep Cleo Bush out of the fray with the result of being stabbed in the side. Cleo Bush is alleged to have drawn a pistol at this time. Jasper said that Bill Bush got between him and Cleo Bush and requested Cleo not to shoot. Jasper then slipped away and went to a doctor to have his wound dressed.

Marvin Cole testified as to the pistol and other phases of the fight. Dr. F. A. Dwight of Filer testified as to the nature of the gun wound in Jasper's side. Dr. Dwight said it was a clean cut wound on the left side, about an inch long and only in the rib. He said the rib had been roughened by the instrument used to make the slash. The wound was opposite the lower part of the heart, according to Dr. Dwight.

The state rested and the defense attorney, W. L. Dunn, rested for the defense, but made a few statements, arguing that the testimony showed that Jasper had tried to prevent Cleo Bush from separating the fighting men. Mr. Dunn maintained that there was no evidence that a deadly weapon had been used.

Judge C. A. Bailey held that the evidence was sufficient to cause the holding of the defendant to district court.

Grange Discusses Anti-Theft Work And Weed Control

BUHL, July 11—The turkey and chicken Anti-theft Association plans and contemplated works, together with the control of noxious weeds, was the subject used by Colony Agent R. E. Bonsard in his address before the members of the Lucerne grange at their regular meeting July 9. Due to the busy season there was only a fair attendance at the meeting.

Following the address a round table discussion followed on the subjects spoken of. The ladies brought a basket lunch, the baskets being auctioned off at the close of the lecture hour.

There was also a fair attendance at the meeting of the Northview grange Friday evening. A short business meeting was held and roll calls responded to by telling of the most interesting personal experience of the Fourth of July. A general discussion was held for the Question Box. Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bonar and daughter, Juanita, gave a musical number. Miss Ruth Brooks gave a reading. Mr. and Mrs. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Shuph and Mrs. and Mrs. L. Ronbinck were the refreshment committee.

The entire class of the Nazarene Young People's society, numbering 35 in all, to attend an all day district rally at Twin Falls July 15.

P. W. Joyce left Sunday for a business trip to Boise. He expects to return Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gibbs, together with their children, Beatrice and Louise, left by motor Sunday on a camping trip to Ketchum.

Mrs. S. E. Stonebarner left Sunday to visit at Conrad, Oregon, for several weeks.

Mrs. Lowery of Berkely, California, and Miss Lois Taylor of Weiser, relatives of Mrs. Fred Walker, are visiting here this week.

Raymond Bailey, with Paul and Arthur Cammack, left by auto for a tour of Yellowstone Park.

Billy Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Burke, has accepted a position at Eden for the summer.

Mrs. George Studebaker and Mrs. J. H. Moss and Mrs. Levejoy and daughter, Betty are leaving Sunday for Hot Springs.

Billy Studebaker arrived Monday evening from Los Angeles to spend the summer with his father, Will Studebaker.

At the union church services Sunday evening, the Rev. A. C. Lehman delivered the sermon and the Christian choir furnished the music. Next Sunday the Rev. E. J. Slimp will deliver the sermon and the Methodist choir will furnish the music.

W. W. Ford of Oakland and Charles Ford of San Francisco are visiting Dave Ford.

William Merrick left by motor to visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Pitt of Portland.

Miss Maude Stample of Boise arrived Saturday to visit her mother, Mrs. Rose Stample. Her brother, Charlie Stample, motored down from Boise with his wife to visit over Sunday with relatives.

Juvenile Escape Still At Large

Wallace George, 16, is still at large following his escape with Leland Alman, 16, from the juvenile ward at the county court house this week. Alman was captured by W. J. Young shortly after the escape, but as the two boys had separated Mr. Young was unable to locate the other lad.

The boys made their escape from the ward in the basement at the court house by working their way through a pipe inch wall with a table knife, which they had hidden following breakfast. Mr. Young had seen the boys emerge from the door leading from the cool room, and got in his car to pursue them. He was forced to follow Alman on foot when the boys separated.

Alman was arrested in connection with a burglary at Thorpson and George has been in trouble frequently. He had realized Alman when Alman was first wanted on the burglary charge.

Blindness Spread by Flies

The prevalence of blindness in Egypt is probably traceable to the fact that the fly is sacred in that country. It is said that a mother will not kill a fly nor even brush it from the eyelid of her child. Infection is often carried from one child to another, and in the case of diseased eyes the malady is spread in this manner.

'Ma' Kennedy Now In Seattle Hotel Looking For Job

By United Press

SEATTLE, Wash., July 11—Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy is looking for a job.

The mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, reluctantly admitted today that she was "looking for something to do."

"Although it hurt to go to some other city, away from Los Angeles," she said at the New Richmond hotel here where she stopped.

"I had offers to remain there but I thought it best to go away."

Mrs. Kennedy has changed, said since she was forced to "resign" after 10 years' hard work at Angelus Temple in Los Angeles, according to those friends of hers here who knew her in the early days.

In those days when Aimee and "Ma" were busy securing financial backing, saving souls, building up the temple, "Ma" was always handsomely gowned.

Today she looked the part of a middle-aged woman out of a job.

There is no reconciliation between Aimee and Ma in sight. Now the fight that has gone on between them has resolved itself around ownership and control of Angelus temple in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Kennedy would make no comment upon the fight for the property. It is understood that Aimee is trying to obtain a contract for permanent ownership between her, Dr. Wise and an attorney, before she returns to Los Angeles.

Uncle Eben

"I goes to church," said Uncle Eben, "an finds comfort in seein' some o' my neighbors dat is out o' unbelief, fer at least a couple of hours on Sunday mornin'."—Washington Star.

"Me and the boy friend"

You know them, bless their hearts. A pair of youngsters, really, in spite of their self-reliant air and their fast-vanishing teens. The girl—slim, clear-eyed, merry; the boy—flippant, a bit arrogant, full of secret, earnest plans for success.

They like each other. They go to the movies together, dance, quarrel a bit. They don't believe in early marriages. But her eyes shine when she speaks of him. "Me and the boy friend."

One of these days, suddenly, they'll be grown up. Man and wife, those fearless youngsters. A home to plan, life to face. A budget, a savings account, economies.

They'll make mistakes, but they'll learn quickly. She'll begin to be canny in the spending of money—to question prices and values. She'll begin to read about the things she plans to buy, to find out all she can about them. She'll become a regular reader of advertisements.

They'll help her to become the capable, wise housewife she wants so much to be. They'll tell her what clothes are best and what prices to pay for them. They'll tell her about the foods to buy, the electric appliances, the linoleums and draperies. They'll help her, as the advertisements in this newspaper can help you.

And she'll meet her responsibilities and fulfill her duties easily and well. She won't become a tired, flustered, inefficient drudge. Because her home will be modern, attractive, well-run, she'll keep young through the speedy years she'll retain much of that shining-eyed, merry freshness. She and the "boy friend."

Advertisements are wise counselors for housewives, young and old

WHY DO WE TOLERATE BLIND CORNERS?

Twice on Sunday, the public had sharp lessons on the dangers attendant on the "blind" corner. Two wrecks, both serious, one involving a fatality, resulted from this safety handicap which is daily impressed on the mind of any thoughtful motorist who travels the highways.

The careful driver stops at the signal before entering the highway, but it would be safer to stop a car length beyond the stop signal, for at many of the intersections, it is impossible for approaching drivers to see each other. Sweet clover provides an impenetrable mask, trees and shrubbery about the farm houses and yards accentuate the condition, and with the engine of the car running, it is impossible to hear an approaching automobile. We have tragically demonstrated that under certain seasonal conditions, stopping before entering the highway is not a sufficient precaution.

Doubtless the Department of Public Safety or the State Highway Department will take cognizance of the condition, but in the meantime, we will not soon forget that complying with the law is insufficient protection. The object of stopping before entering the stream of traffic is to permit the driver to see conditions and act accordingly. The driver who uses his head as well as his hands and feet in piloting an automobile, will make this survey from a point of safety, whether or not the law requires it. There is no reason for being a niggard in the use of common sense and caution.

Sympathy is everywhere expressed for the family so tragically afflicted by the Sunday disaster. If it is not to be repeated, many drivers will need to adopt increased caution.

JIMMY WALKER GETS SAUCY WITH PICTURE LEADERS

So Mayor James Walker of the big city of New York thinks that the leaders in the motion picture industry in this country should be minus all political interest and activity—in other words, that they should not be privileged to exercise the rights of free citizens.

Be became downright peeved while in Hollywood the other day to discover that two or three of the Big Boys in the motion picture world had actually traveled to Kansas City as delegates to the Republican convention. What a horrible thing to do and how terribly careless of these men to allow the outside world to ascertain their party allegiance and political beliefs! And Jimmy says that is all wrong, so what Jimmy utters must be true.

However, the motion picture business is not getting into politics, according to a statement issued today by Louis B. Mayer, producer, in answer to a warning from Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York that the picture industry should stay out of politics.

Mayer spoke on behalf of himself and Joseph M. Schenck, who were delegates to the Republican national convention, and who seemed to consider that the New York mayor's remarks were addressed to them.

We cannot help but feel Walker is all wrong. Of course he is on thin trigger edge because of the candidacy of his friend, Al Smith, and perhaps is super-sensitive regarding what might seem to affect Smith's interests, either favorably or adversely, but Jimmy might just as well become accustomed to things as they are for he has ruder jolts than the one from Hollywood coming to him.

Prosperity continues to dog the steps of the Pocatello Tribune which has recently moved into a new home, said to be one of the most completely equipped in the entire Inter-mountain country. Rendering service in season and out over a period of more than thirty-four years, The Tribune rightfully has a high place in the esteem and affections of the community it covers. Fitting editorial tribute is paid the faithful staff who had charge of the actual moving operations from the old to the new home, there being provided on that eventful occasion further evidence of what loyalty means in a newspaper family.

There may be some local golfers who can provide a satisfactory answer to the problem in human psychology propounded by Dr. Earl Brooks, president of the park board at Boblesville, Ind., who recently reported that on a certain day this month he had visited the park where he observed thirty-five persons playing on the golf course. A heavy shower came up but the players continued their game as though the sun had been shining. Dr. Brooks then noted that there were sixty-three persons in the bathing pool when the rain began and that everyone of them rushed out of the water to the shelter house. What's the solution?

Paradoxical as it seems, it always makes a man hot to be treated with coolness.

JUST IDAHO

By GUY FLENNER

BY GUY FLENER

ALL'S WELL

The executive secretary of the state chamber of commerce recently completed a tour of a large part of the state. He said he found business men and people generally filled with confidence and bending their energies to numerous activities. Such a man as Ralph Thomas is quite apt to look at everything through optimistic eyes. He could not be in the position he holds, successfully, without brimming over with buoyancy as to present and future. He might even see in his mind's eye some things non-existent. Nevertheless his spirited viewpoint, though possibly at times exaggerated is needed to keep folks encouraged, cheerful and moving.

To get down to the facts, however, Mr. Thomas has not overdone the picture for the purpose of setting up a falseworks of soundness and activity to stimulate the sick and further actuate the well. The truth is that conditions in Idaho are sound.

View them through bank statements, or from the roadside, and the conclusion is inescapable that in Idaho all's well.

Agriculture, mining, timbering, livestock are on a sounder basis than ever, with the prospects most encouraging, notwithstanding some backsets that are always emphasized, like the few miles of bad highway as against hundreds of miles of perfect going.

The state is not rolling in wealth, but it is not depressed by any degree of impoverishment. If we are not quite sure that all is well from the evidence of our own eyesight, let us consider the opinion of the various new institutions that have recently come into the commercial life of the state from the outside—rather cold-blooded concerns that seek no unpromising field. Let us ask ourselves why there is so much investigation as to new and extended railroad routes and power lines in Idaho. Why has the Mountain States Telephone company practically decided to build a line north from New Meadows to connect at Grangeville and give more direct communication between the two ends of the state as against a line long in operation via Spokane?

While it is true that it is a forward looking corporation and has always evinced the highest degree of faith in this state, at the same time it is not so unbusiness-like as to even consider the construction of such an expensive line unless it could see something of a compensatory future.

We might go on with other illustrations, but it ought not to be necessary in order to convince our own people as to the present stability of Idaho and as to the brightness of its future.

Now, we are coming into the political season, the once-every-four-year disturbance. We shall hear many overdrawn statements as to conditions over the nation and in our own state. We should not permit any of these political representations to influence us away from the fullest confidence in our state and our nation, nor yet to innoculate us with germs of inaction or recklessness.

Industrial perfection will never be reached. But there is nothing radically wrong. With that as a basic fact, only purposefulness and faith are required to move the program of Idaho development nearer the goal. In that spirit only can we maintain such a measure of prosperity as we may reasonably expect, can we rear the superstructure a little higher and make it more ornate. Can we provide a better state for those yet to come, can we approach the problems that confront the people of any state that is alive and worth while.

The Great Outdoors

Metropolitan newspapers devote pages to recreational opportunities in their respective fields. In a smaller way every newspaper is doing the same thing. There is a reason. The wise publisher senses the growing interest of his readers in outdoor life.

Idaho, with its timbered areas, its mountain streams and lakes, presents innumerable super-attractions for such people. These vast stretches can not be rendered valuable through tillage. From the commercial angle the returns from them are limited to operations in mining, timbering and grazing, which are confined to acres as against square miles.

They can be made highly productive, however, as recreational spots, for it is a fact that people spend ungrudgingly more money for camping trips than for any other form of diversion. It is because of the wonderful combination of pleasure and healthfulness.

The national government in recent years has been alive to the desirability of supplying suitable camping grounds, parks, etc., approached by good roads. There is little profit to it in dollars and cents but large in the knowledge of a more contented and healthful people. From the hills and mountains come strength and courage.

States should follow the lead of the national government and aid in the development of at least their outstanding recreational sections. In Idaho we have wonderful lakes, surrounded by land held for educational purposes in part. Aside from the thought of supplying playgrounds for our people, there is an element of commercialism in the enhancement of state property.

Idaho has neglected its recreational side too long. It is time the state took an active interest in that important feature of life within its borders, for our own people and for the thousands who will come from the outside and spend large sums of money here providing they can find suitable accommodations and be freed from many of the annoyances of the present time that have been allowed to become more and more acute.

Private capital will be quick to provide the accommodations, but it cannot be induced to perform the allied service. Here is an opportunity and a duty for the state.

Daily Poem

ETCHING

I know a hill where a pine tree perches
On a rocky ledge, in a grove of birches,
Silver birches, that seem to listen,
Leaning aslant. Their long trunks
 glisten,
Touched by nature, the magic tinter,
Pale harp-strings for the winds of winter;
Which, swaying, hold exquisite traces
Of delicate twigs, like filmy laces
On the amber sky, where sunset lingers.
Hemlocks point, with grave, dark fingers
Where gleaming Vega, pale amethyst,
Keeps, near the zenith, her ancient tryst.

Why He Lost the Case

(From Forbes Magazine)

A young lawyer, pleading his first case, had been retained by a farmer to prosecute a railway company for killing twenty-four hogs. He wanted to impress the jury with the magnitude of the injury.

"Twenty-four hogs, gentlemen. Twenty-four; twice the number there are in the jury box."

Evolution

(New York Evening Sun)

At a recent first-night I met a prosperous New Yorker named Salmon, who confided that when he lived on the East Side his name was Solomon.

"It is much better for Broadway," he added. "That's why I changed it."

"When you get enough money to live on Park Avenue I suppose you will call yourself 'Mr. Fish'," suggested my companion.

Quite So.

Jimmy—Say, uncle, is a man a bigamist when he has one wife too many?

Uncle—Not necessarily. Now I have one wife too many and yet I'm no bigamist.

Why Not!

OPERA DRAWING GREAT CROWDS CITY ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 11—For the tenth consecutive season the world famous St. Louis Municipal Theater association is launched upon a 12 weeks' summer program of light and grand opera in the natural amphitheater of Forest Park here.

More than 600,000 persons, its sponsors estimate, will witness the successive productions of "Princess Flavia," "The Merry Widow," "The Vagabond King," "No, No, Nanette," "Rose Marie," "The Student Prince," "The Lady in Ermine," "The Song of the Flame," "Countess Maritza," "The Love Song," "Mary," and "Aida."

Although backed by a $70,000 guaranty posted by public spirited citizens of St. Louis, the "muny opera" today is financially a success with an unencumbered cash profit of $40,000. The first and only loss of the venture was suffered the first year, when the season closed $11,000 "in the red." Its financial record is believed unique in civic enterprises.

The growing popularity of the open air opera movement here is shown in the steady increase in attendance, from 100,000 in 1919 to 628,679 in 1927. Seat prices ranges from 25 cents to $2, with 1,200 seats free. The amphitheater has a capacity of 9,750, with covered adjoining pergolas of equal capacity to avoid "disaster" in event of summer storms.

Stage space in the amphitheater measures 120 feet by 90 feet—the largest in America. Massive oaks towering 70 feet from the proscenium arch. Back of the stage flows the River des Peres, across which foot bridges lead to shrubbery hidden dressing rooms and scenic studios. An orchestra pit in front of the stage accommodates 150 pieces. Amplifiers insure perfect audition.

This year's jubilee cast includes Alice McKenzie, Patricia O'Connell and Leonore Allen, sopranos; Dorothy Seegar, ingenue; Bernice Marshon, contralto; Sam Ash, tenor; Joseph Royer, baritone; Florenz Ames, comedian; William J. McCarthy, comedian; Charles H. Gallagher, bass, and Bee Daly, dancing juvenile.

During the nine years of its existence, the "muny opera" has played to 3,054,946 spectators, producing 61 different light operas in 86 weeks, or a total of 566 individual performances. "Rose Marie" scored the attendance record of the association's history last year, when more than 10,000 witnessed one performance, July 2.

"WHAT OF IT? . . . What if the Dunlop team is 45,000 strong? What does that mean to me and my car?"

More VALUE in the tires you buy . . . . that's what the immensity of Dunlop means to you.

Dunlop engineers have continually blazed the trail in tire inventions. They have pioneered in practically every major tire improvement, including the drop-center rim as used on the new Fords. Eighteen world records confirm Dunlop's engineering skill.

Combine 40 years' experience with 45,000 craftsmen and you have the world's greatest tire knowledge. Combine this knowledge with the finest materials . . . what do you get? Extra VALUE, as evidenced by the fact that 26 million Dunlops are now in use.

Those millions of motorists, and those 45,000 Dunlop workers—they all know from experience that it will pay you to put Dunlops on your car.

OLYMPIC TEAMS OFF FOR GAMES

268 Athletes Board Roosevelt to Conquer the World Athletically

NEW YORK, July 11—An army of men and women boarded the S. S. Roosevelt today intent on conquering the world athletically at the Olympic games which begin in Amsterdam July 29.

There were 268 persons in this modern U. S. expeditionary force from petite and sun-bronzed Martha Norelius on up to the veterans to whom Olympic games are but another contest. It is by far the strongest team the United States ever has sent to the Olympics.

There are numerous world record holders in the group aboard the Roosevelt. Frank Wykoff, the 18-year-old Californian, ran the 100 meters four times in record time one afternoon; Lloyd Hahn, the Nebraskan, dashed off 800 meters at Cambridge last week in new record time; Eddie Hamm of Georgia holds the record for the broad jump; Lee Barnes and Sabin Carr, the vaulters, have equaled the record, and so on.

There is a girls' track and field team of 19 members, the first women's track team ever sent by the United Sates to the games. There also is a women's swimming team.

The California eight-oared crew, Poughkeepsie champions, will defend the honors won by Yale in 1924, while the Harvard four-oared team also was aboard today.

Riflemen Smashing Targets On Indoor Range Last Night

The Twin Falls Rifle club members did some pretty fair shooting last night on their indoor range shooting at targets with .22 caliber rifles on a 50-foot range.

Sunday morning the Rifle club will hold a target shoot at their range about seven miles south of town, shooting the regular army rifles at 200 foot ranges. The open air range is located so that the men are shooting against the foothills to prevent damage to wandering stock or human beings.

WELCOME GIVEN TO BARRISTERS

"We are here to try and work out something that will be for the good of humanity," said E. M. Wolfe, president of the Twin Falls Bar Association in his welcoming address to the men gathered this afternoon for the meeting of the western division of the Idaho State Bar Association.

Mr. Wolfe stated that the lawyers were not to blame for the lax enforcement of the law generally attributed to them. He advocated more judges of the higher and lower courts, but argued that the tax-paying public would undoubtedly object to such an action.

He extended a hearty welcome and the hospitality of Twin Falls to the visiting barristers.

Jess Hawley then stated that Judge William E. Lee was unable to be present this afternoon because of matters of State. Mr. Hawley introduced Judge Bailey, who stated that the Boise courts had used all expediency and every means to relieve the congested court calendar during the past months, the attempt being successful. He assured the barristers that the courts were thoroughly with the local bar in making any beneficial changes.

Mr. Hawley names as the resolution committee John H. Graham, James Bothwell and Mr. Martin.

In giving his report as the commissioner of the western division, Mr. Hawley opened by explaining the attempt being made to raise the standard of the law associates and create greater ability, honor and loyalty among the members of the bar.

Arrest Many For Intoxication Here

There were 262 arrests for intoxication by Twin Falls police during the years 1923 and 1924 and only 107 arrests for the same cause made during the years 1925 and 1926, according to records made by Police Judge H. D. Read. "During the fiscal year of 1927, from April to April, there were 95 arrests due to intoxication, which is almost as many as during the two years just previous.

The New Zealand Licensing Reform Association has written asking for the number of arrests made here for intoxication during the years of 1923-24-25-26-27. It was to supply this information that Judge Read checked up on the number of arrests from this single cause.

During the month of April this year from this cause there were six arrests, six in May and 12 in June.

Directors to Seek Loan of Huge Sum

Directors of the Twin Falls Canal company will meet in an adjourned meeting tonight to take up the matter of borrowing about $69,000 to pay wages and expenses until the returns come in from the second assessment October 1. They will also go into the budget more thoroughly before making further loans.

The directors voted yesterday to negotiate for a loan of $8000 to pay immediate wages and expenses.

W. R. Hatfield of Buhl objected to the methods employed in letting drainage tunnel contracts without calling for bids. A discussion was held upon this matter and upon the reported failure of a lateral in the west end of the tract to deliver the full quota of water.

Surplus of Men In County At Present

Just at present there is a surplus of laboring men in Twin Falls county, according to Mr. Hart, who is managing the federal employment agency at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. With the closing of the haying for this time of the year a large number of men have been released from work.

The bean fields are requiring what little labor is needed at present, though the work in these fields has not developed as yet into what it will be in a few days. The work will be weeding and hoeing.

Later this fall Mr. Hart estimates that the labor will balance the work to be done as the harvest will require many hands. A good share of the harvest work will open at about the same time, and continue until rather late in the fall, probably closing with the picking of potatoes.

Nazarene Youths To Meet Tomorrow

Young people of the Church of the Nazarene will meet in Twin Falls July 12 for a district rally. Young people from Jerome, Glenns Ferry, Pocatello, and Nampa churches, together with those of the local church, are expected to be in attendance. The Buhl church alone expects to have 35 in attendance. As the public is welcome it is expected the church rooms will be crowded.

The first service will open at 10:30 a. m., following which there will be a basket dinner in the park. At 2 p. m. the meeting will reconvene at Third avenue and Third street north. The evening services will start at 8 p. m.

Miss Myrtle Silvers, president of the local Nazarene Young People's Society, is in charge of the local program, and is being aided in the work by Paul Worcester, pastor of the church.

CROP REPORTS START GRAINS UP THE GRADE

By United Press

CHICAGO, July 11.—The bearish government crop report was the leading factor in wheat, and all deliveries closed sharply lower on the Board of Trade. Corn and oats gained fractionally.

Wheat closed 2⅝@3c down; corn was up ⅝@1½c; oats ranged from unchanged to ⅝c higher. Provisions gained 10c.

Wheat was unsettled most of the day. A cablegram from Germany described the grain situation in Russia as tense and predicted more Russian purchases. Receipts were 3 cars with the cash market unchanged.

Reports from all sections of the corn belt were favorable and induced heavy selling. Receipts were small. Short covering was responsible for the early gain. The cash market was ½@1c higher. Receipts were 96 cars.

The strong cash market was the dominant factor in oats. Trading was light, due mainly to favorable crop reports. The cash market was unchanged with receipts at 22 cars.

REYNOLDS TOP TODAY'S STOCK MARKET DEALS

By United Press

NEW YORK, July 11.—Swooping declines were scored by stocks today following the rise in the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank rate late yesterday and the advance in call money to 7 per cent from a renewal rate of 6 per cent.

General Motors was the principal target for short selling, breaking more than 5 points, while substantial losses were scored by Steel, General Electric, Radio and the Airplane issues. Reynolds Tobacco B. was the sold outstanding feature of strength, running up more than 5 points on bullish statements by the company.

Mail order shares were under severe pressure. Substantial losses were registered by Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward. Railroad shares were featured by sharp breaks in the New York Central and Chesapeake and Ohio issues, while oils were quiet at small declines.

The market closed lower.

SAN DIEGO NEXT STOP

TUCSON, Ariz., July 11—Entrants in the National Air tour left here today to fly to San Diego with a stopover at Yuma. Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, hopelessly out of the money, after a bad time yesterday when she finished last in the flight from El Paso here, was the first to take off today. Johnny Woods, flying a Ford tri-motored monoplane, held the lead for the tour with 9165 points when the caravan left here.

AMERICANS FLY TO TOKIO

TOKIO, July 11—John Mears and Charles B. D. Collyer, Americans trying to circle the world in 23 days, arrived at 7:45 p. m. today in their airplane City of New York from Seoul, Korea, after an 11½ hour flight. The tourist racers plan to catch a fast steamer for San Francisco and then fly to New York, their starting place.

Ask Release For Woman of Gooding

Application for a writ of habeas corpus was made today by H. L. Reynolds of Jerome on behalf of Gertie Hull of Gooding, being held in the women's ward of the court house here. Gertie Hull was committed here at the request of Gooding county authorities as there was no accommodation for women there.

According to the application for a habeas corpus, Gertie Hull's home in Gooding was searched without a search warrant. She went to the probate judge, E. E. Brandt, next day to ask what the charges were. According to the application Judge Brandt told her she was fined $300 and sentenced to six months in the Twin Falls county jail, there being no warrant of arrest or giving of a plea. Furthermore, allege Mr. Reynolds, Gertie Hull had no opportunity to appeal the case during the prescribed ten days following as the probate judge was in Yellowstone park for a vacation.

The hearing on the writ will be held July 16 at 10 a. m. before Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here.

Gertie Hull's residence was searched June 30 and she has been in the Twin Falls jail for about six days.

Two-Year Cruise of World

Smith Acclaimed By Elk Convention

By United Press

MIAMI, Fla., July 11—A proposal to create a $20,000,000 endowment fund for charitable works was expected to come before the executive session of the 64th annual convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks in session here.

A second proposal expected to come before the order today involves creation of a boys' organization to be known as the Antlers, sponsored by the California delegation.

Observances last night smacked more of a Democratic jubilee than anything the city of Miami ever witnessed. Bands blaring "East Side, West Side," accompanied by shouts of "Hurrah for Al Smith," featured a demonstration.

Postpone Action On Coalition Of Farmer-Labor-Dry

By United Press

CHICAGO, July 11—Action on a proposed combining of forces of the Prohibition party and the Farmer-Labor party was postponed today until after the platform of the two parties are decided upon.

A joint committee presented a resolution to the respective conventions of the parties by which a committee composed of six members of each would be appointed to decide upon a joint campaign.

The resolution decided upon last night stated that the committee favored a coalition of the two parties during the 1928 campaign.

The Prohibition party voted to table the resolution until the platform is decided upon. The Farmer-Labor convention started discussion of its platform without considering the resolution.

Matters of Record

Police Court

C. A. Swenson of Ogden, Utah, reported that his car had been backed into by a car of the Detweiller Mercantile Company. Damages were settled satisfactorily.

Clarence Foreman, who ran away from his home in Caldwell, is being searched for on behalf of his stepfather, Mr. Patrick, who lives at 146 Addison west. The boy is 14 years old, 5½ feet high and weighs 106 pounds.

Jack Johnson bought a motorcycle from a passing man whom he did not know. It was an Indian motorcycle and cost exactly $32.50. The man who sold the motorcycle then took the money and motorcycle and left. Johnson is now looking for the motorcycle and will file burglary charges against the man who took it.

Probate Court

Leo Jewett, arraigned on charges of burglary of the Hahn Mercantile Company May 12, pleaded guilty and was bound over to district court on $500 bond.

Lewis Kacelek was named in a complaint filed by Ward Bullock, charging Kacelek with making threats.

Minnie Clausen and Kathleen Clausen, recently fined $5 for battery, made a statement to the Twin Falls Times yesterday that they had been provoked to battery by Allie Cox, Hattie Cox, Stellie Cox and Ellis Cox.

The two children of Mr. McDonald, aged 4, and 6, and missing for some time, were located by the parents.

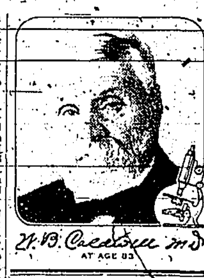
Stave is another word for stanza or verse of a poem or song. Since a carol is literally a song celebrating the nativity of Christ, it is quite appropriate that the subdivisions be termed staves.

Doctor at 83 Found People Preferred His Prescription



The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice, known to druggists and the public since 1892, as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Then, the treatment of constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions that result from constipation was entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is a combination of senna and other mild laxative herbs, with pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their systems. If grown people want to use them, no one can deny them the privilege, but they should never be given to children.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you, and the better for the general health of all. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs? All drug stores have the generous bottles.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.—Adv.

RAYL AIRPORT LANDING FIELD LEASE SIGNED

Eighty Acres Five Miles South Twin Falls Is Site Selected

Lease agreement was signed this morning by Robert Rayl and Nora Rayl Gristwin Falls, and H. J. Boyer, for lease of a tract of 80 acres of land almost opposite the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Rayl on the Twin Falls-Hollister highway about five miles south of this city, for use as an aviation field.

This aviation field is to be known as the Rayl Airport and will be developed by Mr. Boyer but his associates as a combined government and commercial landing field.

The location is said to be exceptionally advantageous since it commands a view of a very large section of the Snake river valley and for that reason both day and night markers can be readily located at a considerable distance.

The terrain is also admirably adapted for the purposes in view, the surface of the field having a gradual slope that will afford perfect drainage. A considerable area of the landing field has been cleared of sagebrush, the surface of the ground being well packed and practically ready for immediate use.

It is the plan of those undertaking this enterprise to eventually erect hangars and provide all the other accessories incidental to a well-equipped and carefully managed airport.

Lions Rap Critics of Luncheon Clubs

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 11—Critics who "make satire, thrusts at American luncheon clubs were described at the annual International Lions club convention today as "unworthy of notice."

Such men as H. L. Mencken and Sinclair Lewis do not merit our consideration, Irving L. Camp, retiring international president, said. "They are at all times destructive. If they can suggest a manner in which we can improve ourselves, then we'll be glad to hear them, but until then we cannot be bothered"

President Camp, in opening the convention, declared that Lions were in favor of the universal draft law as proposed by the American Legion.

He urged better and more amicable relations between the organization and labor unions. In some of the larger cities, he said, he found a wide breach between men who worked in offices and those who labored at trades.

$5,000,000 Value Beer And Liquor Seized In Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont., July 11—Ontario provincial authorities today seized beer and liquor valued at more than $5,000,000 in two of the largest export warehouses on the border.

The move was understood to be the first of a series which will result in seizure of all border export warehouses.

The seizure was made, Inspector William H. Gardiner said, because the opinion of the government the business carried on by the so-called "exporter" is illegal." The government takes the position, Gardiner said, that much of the liquor declared "exported" finds back into the province.

The warehouses of the Darling Brewing and Export Company of London, Ont., and of the Sachansons company, a Montreal firm with warehouses in many parts of the Dominion, were seized. Police would not comment on the report that all warehouses along the border contained approximately $50,000,000 worth of liquor stocks will be seized later today.

Berlin Putting Up Stiff Fight For Ad Men's Meeting

By United Press

DETROIT, July 11—Foreign delegates to the International Advertising Association convention began a fight today to gain for Berlin the 1929 convention of the association.

The foreign delegates led by Andre Kuniker, who represented Etienne Damoir, Paris, president of the Continental Association of Advertising Clubs, carried their plea to the board of governors. The board of club presidents last night recommended Minneapolis as the 1929 meeting place.

Kuniker was undaunted by the fact that the board of governors never has reversed recommendation of the club presidents' board.

Charles Youngerem of Milwaukee is president of the association.

Election of officers will be held at the association at this afternoon's general session.

The Prince of Wales is England's greatest trade ambassador, said Commander H. S. N. Ellis, chairman of the Publicity club, Tuesday, the first foreign speaker to address the delegates.

Following the line has always been one of our great methods of advertisement," Ellis said. "The Prince of Wales, in his visits, and I know he is popular in the United States, has done much to help British industry.

"Then, our government, by means of the trade commissioners in different countries and consular service helps our commerce."

HOOVER OUT IN OPEN ON CALIFORNIA TRIP

By United Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, will not hide-and-seek in the Washington to California trip, his spokesman has announced.

Although Hoover will make no formal speeches until he reaches San Francisco, he will make back platform appearances where his train stops.

Dodge Brothers Standard Six is the fastest car with the fastest pick-up, under a thousand dollars.

HOWEVER

That is only HALF the story. The IMPORTANT point is that this exceptional speed is made practical by Dodge ruggedness of chassis and body construction

OTHERS

Might succeed in building a car at this price with equal SPEED, but to do so successfully they would also have to build a car with equal STURDINESS.

AND

That is where Dodge Brothers, with years of experience in building a dependable low-cost product, are years ahead of the field

YOU

Can buy the Standard Six knowing that it is not only the fastest car in its class but the sturdiest—and the one is every bit as important as the other.

FRANCE READY TO SIGN WORLD ANTI-WAR PACT

PARIS, July 11—Secretary of State Kellogg's anti-war pact will be accepted formally by France in a note to be sent the State Department, it was received in Paris today. This afternoon, it was decided today at a cabinet meeting.

The British and German governments will be sent copies of the note, which Foreign Minister Briand submitted for the cabinet's approval.

The French note, it is understood, will express complete accord with the American pact and at the same time will explain full French views on several questions that might arise in the future, particularly France's obligations to her smaller allies and the necessity of conforming to pledges given to the League of Nations and to World War powers in connection with the Locarno treaties of friendship.

It is said that the explanations do not constitute reservations to the proposed pact, but simply place the French interpretation on record.

Directors Power Company Coming

The directors of the Idaho Power Company will be in Twin Falls late tomorrow afternoon in the interests of the company and to make their annual inspection of the properties of the company here. They will have a dinner meeting at the Park Hotel at about 7:30 and will remain here for the night, completing their inspection the following day and continuing east on their tour.

The directors will meet in Boise tomorrow and hope to conclude the majority of their business by noon, at which time they plan to adjourn for the tour of inspection which will include most of their properties in the entire State.

The Idaho Power Company has planned an expenditure of approximately a quarter of a million dollars on the South Side for this year.

Pneumonia Attacks Accident Victim

BURLEY, July 11—Mrs. R. G. Davies, who was injured seriously in the auto accident near Burley Sunday, is in a very serious condition at the hospital at Burley, according to information received this afternoon. Pneumonia had set in and the condition of Mrs. Davies was declared to be very critical.

Mrs. Davies suffered a crushed chest and shattered femur when the wreck occurred. The injury to the chest has not been healing rapidly and the attack of pneumonia in her present weakened state makes her recovery doubtful.

Mrs. Linz, who sustained a compound fracture of the right leg in the accident, is recovering nicely. The other parties in this car have been removed to the home of Mrs. R. E. Linz of Rupert.

The three persons in the other car, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Rohn of Boise and Homer Wong, Chinese missionary, are doing nicely. Doctor Wong's injured eye is healing satisfactorily and it was thought this afternoon that he would not lose the sight of the eye.

MALMGREN IS LOCATED WITH TWO OF CREW

sian ice breaker Krassin which indicated that one of the men had become insane and walked away from his three comrades.

The long hours have told on the men, Lieutenant Einar-Paul Lundborg, who was trapped with them for several days, said that one of the greatest temptations had been to walk to the Northeast Land shore which glistened enticingly only a few kilometers from their encampment. The men had little or no chance to make the shore as was shown by the disappearance of Malmgren and two aides, and of Captain Horn.

But they thought that the walk might turn out advantageously prayed on the minds of the group.

This may have affected the mind of the one man the Krassin reports walking away from the encampment.

Rescue today was the hope and yet so far, airplanes are held in readiness throughout this vast Arctic area, but they seem useless. Only the smallest of the planes will be able to land even the small machines cannot land as the ice floe rapidly is melting under the summer Arctic temperature.

Captain Thornberg of the Swedish air expedition said that rescue must be within a few days or the four men left on the ice encampment must be given up as dead, just as have two crews of men who participated in the Italia's polar flight or relief expeditions been given up as dead.

Findings of Chest Clinics Reported

Work done at the chest clinics recently held in this vicinity under the auspices of the state tuberculosis Association was told in a report by Dr. Allan Hart, presented to the South Side Medical association which convened for dinner meeting at the Park Hotel at 7:15 o'clock Tuesday evening.

In these clinics and in private consultations a total of 174 chest cases were examined, among these, 32 cases of active lung tuberculosis being found, and 18 more cases of probable lung tuberculosis. Seven instances of tuberculosis in other parts of the body were also found. Six children and two adults were found to have definitely healed tuberculosis. This made 47 instances of active or suspected tuberculosis.

Among other interesting conditions discovered were nine cases of non-tuberculosis infections of the lungs and 35 cases of serious tonsil infection, 42 cases of suspected or active heart disease, and the existence of serious underweight and malnutrition in 30 cases or almost half of those examined.

These results indicate both that more tuberculosis exists in this vicinity than has been suspected and that there is a great deal of tonsil infection and heart disease that is not being taken care of.

Dr. D. L. Alexander read a paper on "Tuberculosis in Pregnancy" and Dr. John F. Coughlin presented a paper on the subject "Chronic Mastitis."

Poultry Culling Schedule Planned

A schedule is being made today by R. E. Brossard, county agent, for the poultry culling demonstration to be held in Twin Falls county July 16 to 20, when Tom Moore, poultry specialist of the extension department, will be in this county.

It is hoped that two demonstrations per day can be held, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. The present schedule as formed calls for a demonstration at the home of Hyrum Pickett at Murtaugh on the afternoon of July 16.—On the morning of July 16 there will be a demonstration somewhere in Hansen. July 17 at 2:30 a demonstration will be held near Castleford.

Mr. Brossard stated that communities desiring these demonstrations notify him at once so that the schedule can be formed or revised to comply with these requests. There will be eight demonstrations during the four days Mr. Moore spends in this county, he being one of the specialists from Jerome county and other counties in the State.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED

The fire department was called to 535 Main avenue east this morning at 11 o'clock to extinguish a small fire caused by a gasoline stove. The fire was put out with a chemical extinguisher, little or no damage being done.

FORMER GREEK DICTATOR NOW TURNED LOOSE

ATHENS, July 11—Gen. Pangalos, former dictator of Greece who has been a political prisoner since 1926, suddenly was released last night by the newly appointed Premier Venizelos.

The liberation of General Pangalos had been unexpected and came with amazing abruptness. Premier Venizelos offered no explanation of the release.

It was believed, however, that Pangalos' release was due to the desire of Venizelos to strengthen his position with the army, which always has been favorable to Pangalos.

Gen. Pangalos' government was overthrown by a revolution led by General Condylis. Chief criticism against Pangalos was that he had ruled tyrannically.

As the revolution became successful, Pangalos fleed Greece, boarding the cruiser Pergamos.

The cruiser had gained only a little headway when it was overtaken by a destroyer and the former dictator was surrendered. Subsequently he was tried and made a political prisoner and sent from one island of confinement to another. There were numerous reports that he planned escape, but the plans, if ever formulated, never were attempted.

Venizelos, former premier, returned to Greece only recently after six years of exile and forced the fall of the cabinet. He was directed by President Coundouriotis to form the new cabinet.

Boy's Release Is Asked By Uncle

Warren Alman, uncle of Leland Alman, applied for a writ of habeas corpus yesterday afternoon for Leland Alman, alleging that his nephew was being held illegally. The case will be heard before Judge Babcock at 10 a. m. July 13.

Mr. Alman charges that the commitment from the probate court on which the boy was sent to reform school was issued without due process of law or legal notice to the boy's parents or guardians. Leland Alman disappeared following the issuance of the decree on which he is now held. He was located in a tent with Wallace George another boy of the same age who was out on parole. Both were put in the juvenile ward but escaped by digging out with a table knife. Leland Alman was recaptured, but George is still at large.

Local Concern Has Branch In Burley

Announcement is made that the Twin Falls Oakland Company has opened a branch in Burley, handling Oakland and Pontiac cars. Parke Motor Company of Burley will conduct the service department. A. M. Howard is manager of the Burley branch and H. S. Hardin is sales manager.

The demand for Oakland and Pontiac cars has become wide-spread, especially throughout this section of Idaho, hence the decision of the Twin Falls organization to extend its activities to a live community such as Burley.

LEAGUE WOULD ELECT HUGHES TO JUDGESHIP

By United Press

GENEVA, July 11—Charles Evans Hughes, former American Secretary of State, probably will be elected to succeed John Bassett Moore as American judge on the League of Nations permanent court of international justice at The Hague, it was said in League circles today.

While the election rests in the hands of the League assembly and the League council, secretariat officials said there is such a world-wide movement in favor of Hughes' election that it is virtually a certainty he will receive the necessary majority vote during the September assembly.

It is now certain that Mr. Hughes will be nominated for the judgeship by at least half a dozen of the leading nations of the world and this fact alone is regarded as almost certain to insure his election.

The general world-wide movement that is developing in his favor is declared by League officials to be a desire to pay him one of the highest tributes of which the league is capable in recognition for the role he played in the Washington conference, in the Havana Pan-American conference, and for his open support of the court itself.

Annual State Ram Sale Fair Ground Filer August 8th

BURLEY, July 11—According to announcement of M. C. Claar, secretary, the Idaho Wool Growers' Association will hold its seventh annual state ram sale at Filer, Idaho, on the fair grounds beginning at 10 o'clock the morning of August 8. Over half the entries have been received and with a fine selection of stud rams, yearling range rams and ram lambs for sale. The principal offerings will be Hampshires and Suffolk-Hampshires. There will also be Rambouillets, Lincolns, Cotswolds, Panamas, Corriedales and some other well known breeds.

Seven years ago the Idaho Wool Growers' association started holding this sale to aid the pure-bred breeders and the range sheepmen of Idaho. It has well served its purpose by affording an opportunity for the breeders to put their rams up for public auction and supplying a place where sheepmen may see rams from all over the state and compare them before buying. Hampshire rams make up the larger part of the offerings, about 750 head consisting of stud rams, yearling range rams and ram lambs will be sold. The sheepmen know that an early maturing well-developed lamb has been the money maker. Hampshire rams have sired a large per cent of the early market lambs that have brought the most money.

In addition to the annual state ram sale during as an open market to the pure-bred breeders and creating a place where a buyer can see more rams in one day than two weeks of traveling over the state. It has made Idaho one of the leading users of pure-bred rams in the United States. Much credit for Idaho's success as a producer of quality lambs can be given to the use of pure-bred rams.
