CHILE AND PERU AGREE TO RESUME DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS FOLLOWING RUPTURE LASTING SEVENTEEN YEARS

Secretary of State Kellogg Officially Announces Willingness of South American Countries to Have Intercourse Again After Long Period of Estrangement Due to Regrettable Misunderstanding.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, July 13.—Chile and Peru have agreed to resume diplomatic relations after a rupture of 17 years standing.

Secretary of State Kellogg officially announced today. The agreement, which is expected to facilitate ultimate settlement of the Tacna-Arica controversy between the two countries was brought about through the good offices of the secretary.

Both countries have accepted his plan for an accord, Kellogg said. At the same time he made public notes which have been exchanged between Washington and Santiago and Lima on the subject.

An official note to the foreign minister of Chile from Peru, dated July 10, Kellogg said:

"After long and careful deliberation I now have come to the conclusion that a re-establishment of mutual interest would be promoted should the governments of Chile and Peru re-establish diplomatic relations through the appointment of diplomatic representatives at Chile and at Santiago."

"I feel confident that such a re-establishment of diplomatic relations will be of mutual benefit to both countries," he said. "It will start west later for notification ceremonies in Kansas City where the State represents in the Son of God."

Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, and such manager of the campaign, will go west, will, I hope, will, when I am convinced that our political tour starting the first week of August.

I will go first to Chicago for a telegraphic conference with some committee members from all middle Western States.

Then Work will proceed to California for another conference and to hold another conference for western committee members on Aug. 13.

All campaign plans for the State association will be carried out at the two conferences, according to an announcement today at Republican headquarters.

Work's announcement that all representatives of German-American groups have pledged their support to Hoover in the November election, Members of Congress, with one exception, were in agreement with that 90 per cent of the German-American vote would be Republican.

Hoover's announcement has made it difficult for some so-called foreign vote, by emphasizing Hoover's work in European countries after the World war.

Committee members of national committees composed of national committees and committee women were appointed today by Work.

Work is to notify Hoover of his nomination.

Senator Morey, New Hampshire, chairman; William J. Crocker of Massachusetts; Senator John W. Hausermann, of Wisconsin; Dr. G. C. Chapman of Missouri; W. H. Creager of Texas; W. W. Atterbury of Pennsylvania; Mrs. O. P. Clark of California; Mrs. E. M. B. Davis of Illinois; Miss Bessie N. West, of Michigan; Mrs. W. E. Kenyon of North Carolina, and Mrs. Paul E. Hausermann of Indiana.

Hoover's announcement for his nomination: Senator Fess, Ohio; chairman; David M. Mulvane, Kansas; W. S. Strickland, Oklahoma; Frank Murphy, Michigan; Senator George H. Norris, Nebraska; Senator M. D. Cannon of Nebraska, and Mrs. G. T. Gammell of Minnesota.

Los Angeles, July 13.—Members of the 6,000 National Air tour flocks were in Southern California today.

A pilot entered in the competition for the trophy of the year, which price visited motion picture studios and then went to the beach for a dip in the Pacific.

The winners of the air race were:

Tomorrow the airmen will continue their trip, flying to San Francisco, the Pacific Northwest, and then to Detroit, starting point of the tour.

"The way who is Mr. Hemey?"

"It's Tom Heenan, the Australian heavyweight," said Rickard's aid.

"Oh, he is?" said the reporter. "He's going to fight Hemey on the 26th, you know."

Two Dog Sled Men Picked Up By Ice Breaker in Northern Wastes

By United Press

MOSCOW, July 13.—With the last short stage of the most triumphant voyage of the Russian ice breaker Krassin raded today that she had picked up two dog sled men off Greenland and had given them passage to Resolute, Greenland, stricken on the coast with their damaged airplane.

In her last brief message, the Krassin informed that Capt. Nello Taylor and Van Dunen, who with a big sled team had gone in search of survivors from the wrecked dirigible Italia, had found that the Italian dirigible Captain Villiers Zampi and Captain Adalberto Mariano, of the Italia.

As it passed, they had along their crew to the rescue of the Sora and Chukhinsky parties, the Krassin raded that she had already reached Resolute from the Italia after the wreckage of the Italia.

The other party of known survivors now on the Arctic ice field fought such a long bitter and for a time whirling battle to survive that they had been unable to reach Resolute, off Capt. Platoff, Chukhinsky and four companions rescued after they had flushed out and found that they had captured Capt. Villiers Zampi and Captain Adalberto Mariano, of the Italia.

As it passed, they had along their crew to the rescue of the Sora and Chukhinsky parties, the Krassin raded that she had already reached Resolute from the Italia after the wreckage of the Italia.

In busines-like manner, the ship did not stop after effecting rescue of the two parties, but would proceed to Advent Bay to recruit.

Don't Make a Toy Out of Baby - Babies Have Nerves

By RUTH BRITTAIN

Much of the permanent infantile character of the baby is due to the over-sensitivity during infancy, caused by regarding baby as a sort of animated toy for the amusement of parents, relatives, and friends. It is a common error to think that what makes baby restful is the constant attention and drops of pure, harmless Castoria. It's amazing to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep. It is a nervous or temperamental disease, or spasm. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is: Fancey shaped crystals fit while you wait $1.00. All Work Guaranteed CON W. HESSE & SON 121 Main Avenue East

Practically, crying and sleeplessness in this case can easily be avoided by treating baby with more consideration, but when you just can't stand what makes baby restless, then get a bottle of Castoria. It's a man, weighing an even foot long, the split of his six feet often enough to laugh at every person who wears him. The drops of pure, harmless Castoria. It's amazing to see how quickly it calms baby's nerves and soothes him to sleep. It is a nervous or temperamental disease, or spasm. Aspirin Villainy Features The Drag Net Playing Now

Two "hearts" entirely unlike each other in physique and in methods of acting furnish assured villainy to "The Drag Net," a melodrama star. The "hearts" are the two stars of the show, the one a slender, pale, thin woman, the other a stout, burly man, both only, while John von Sternberg directs for Paramount. ## BIBLE VERSES AND PRAYER

DISCIPLINE REWARDED—Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it.—Proverbs 22:6.PRAYER—For Godly, faithful parents and obedient children, we thank Thee, Lord.

A VAINGLORIOUS BOAST—

NOT A CONQUEST.

So we said and wrote in varied phraseology following the attainment of successful air flight.

A man may walk a wire-stretched over the torrent of Shoshone Falls but it does not follow that he has gained dominion over the plunging torrent—that he can guide and direct—even one small part of its resistless energy.

For the past seven weeks millions of people have daily watched and waited for the news from the far north. To our inexperience and ignorance of Arctic conditions, it seems incredible that no means should be found for the rescue of the five men who have entered unimagined hardship on the crumbling ice floe.

With the location of the party, hope flamed high. It seemed a matter of days at the most when the brave, ill-advised explorers would be brought back. They had faced death for weeks. Doubtless they had come to believe their case almost hopeless. Then the planes flew overhead—but the small camp was unseen. Again and again, it happened. But for the radio, the site would perhaps never been found.

Two men have been taken off, the reports say. Why the others cannot be saved in the same manner, we do not know. It is not through lack of effort. Brave men of four nations are pushing closer to the five marooned men who are growing hourly weaker, rocked with exposure, torn with despair.

And now they have agreed, these rescuers, that they will give one more week to the search—on July 21 they will definitely abandon all effort to rescue the men who may at that time remain in the wastes of the north.

Some way, the human mind fails to grasp that—the fact that we can stop at home, safe and warm, knowing that somewhere out there, men are dying. One questions whether in the face of that fact, with the realization of their long waiting, of their desperate human need, the rescuers will abandon their efforts as long as it is known that they are alive.

For, although man is unquestionably far from having “dominated” any of the elements, he is going to continue to exercise his ingenuity in overcoming the obstacles which they offer.

SURE—BUT WHO IS WILLING

TO BE A TEST CASE?

Don’t hurry if you see a car coming toward you at the crossing. Don’t leap back to safety—you may lose your new hat. Don’t run for the other side. Some one may laugh at you—you will look a bit ridiculous.

As a pedestrian, you have the right of way over automobiles. The Hoover national conference on highway safety has so decided. True, your assumption may end in making your family realize that they never did appreciate you enough while you were alive. And that will be some satisfaction. Also, you are within your rights in walking straight across, no matter how loudly the autoist may honk to the contrary. True, you may be dead; or you may come up missing several of the arms and legs you are accustomed to using—but the pedestrian has the right of way! Insist upon it. Don’t let yourself be bluffed. Stand on your rights—at least until you are knocked down and rolled over in the dust of the street.

Presumably the only reason why so many pedestrians have been run down on intersections during the past few years has been the fact that the autoist believed them entitled to no consideration. Having so little self-respect as to be walking, they commanded none from respectable travelers. The recommendation is not explicit as to the rights of the pedestrian to change his mind in the middle of the crossing and return to the point of departure. The only safe rule for the motorist will be to wait until the crossing is complete.

The leaders of the minority party are disposed to regard this as a subtle campaign move designed to win votes from that political organization which inclined to claim a financial ineptitude that promotes pedestrianism.

“Accomplishment in the work of the world is centered in the individual. In the long pages of art, learning, and literature, individual determination stands foremost. The inspiration that contributes most is the love of the thing you are doing, and the joy in accomplishment. Without this love and satisfaction, you will not succeed.”

It looks like a long pull yet to complete sex equality, and we hardly expect to see the day when the name of the pieces played at the weddings will ever be “Here Comes the Bridegroom.”

FORMER CHAMP THINKS HEENEY WILL WIN FIGHT

JACK McAULIFFE Picks Challenger to Earn Decision Over Champion.

BY JACK McAULIFFE
Retired United States Lightweight Champion.

Copyright, 1928, by United Press.
NEW YORK, July 13.—Tom Heeney will defend his "Tunney" title against the challenger he selected with the meet at Yankee Stadium July 26.

Heeney has "more endurance than Tunney" and will wear him down in the first round, he said. Tunney, just 15 rounds, I don't think Heeney has the punch to knock out Tunney, but he is apt to mouth the champion up until the last round.

On the cold stage, Tunney "should win because he has everything in a boxing ring." Tunney's lead and endurance will be his chief assets in present-day boxing. Tunney could put up a whale of a fight if it would cut loose.

Tom Tunney doesn't seem to be interested in boxing. He's been reading too much philosophy. Shakespeare and Shaw are all right, but they never helped a fighter beat up opponents.

I do not look for Tunney to be in as good shape for this bout as he was in Philadelphia or Chicago. It is evident he has been training by fighting; two bouts (20 rounds) in two years.

The last two rounds of his fights have been won, one on Tunney that they will be a regular follow-like-Heeney who is used to going 20 rounds.

Once again, Tunney is losing sleep and now that you will always be a problem, I know of no profession that requires more practice and work than the name of the champion.

It is time to align and ready to leave.

Who knows, but that Tunney out of the ring for almost a year has lost most part of his wonderful boxing skill.

Obtain Evidence
Of Indian Life
In Yellowstone

YELOWSTONE PARK, Wyo., July 13.—Further evidence of Indian life in Yellowstone Park was presented yesterday by the National Park Service, who had just returned from a trip to Mollie's Lake, which is situated in Yellowstone Lake. Chief Naturalist Hall discovered an abandoned arrowhead on the surface of the ground near the lake, which seems to indicate that Indians frequented the islands of the lake, evidently sending hunting expeditions to that region.

The arrowhead, which is the habitat for pelicans and other large water birds, it is presumed that the arrowhead must have been made there by a member of the Shoshone Indians in search of game.

The arrowhead was discovered lying on the surface of the ground near the lake, from the fact that the point is slightly blunted, possibly through impact with some hard object, in all probability a rock. It is in perfect condition.

This relic will be presented to the Yellowstone Park Museum at Mammoth Hot Springs, where it will be added to other trophies of the museum's collection of natural phenomena and historical relics.

A VAINGLORIOUS BOAST—NOT A CONQUEST.

Men made themselves masters of the earth, dominating the land and sea, and now the air has yielded to their dominion.

So we said and wrote in varied phraseology following the attainment of successful air flight.

A man may walk a wire stretched over the torrent of Shoshone Falls but it does not follow that he has gained dominion over the plunging torrent—that he can guide and direct even one small part of its restless energy.

For the past seven weeks millions of people have daily watched and waited for the news from the far north. To our inexperience and ignorance of Arctic conditions, it seems incredible that no means should be found for the rescue of the five men who have endured unimaginable hardship on the crumbling ice floe.

With the location of the party, hope flamed high. It seemed a matter of days at the most when the brave, ill-advised explorers would be brought back. They had faced death for weeks. Doubtless they had come to believe their case almost hopeless. Then the planes flew overhead—but the small camp was unseen. Again and again, it happened. But for the radio, the site would perhaps never have been found.

Two men have been taken off, the reports say. Why the others cannot be saved in the same manner, we do not know. It is not through lack of effort. Brave men of four nations are pushing closer to the five marooned men who are growing hourly weaker, rocked with exposure, torn with despair.

And now they have agreed, these rescuers, that they will give one more week to the search—on July 21 they will definitely abandon all effort to rescue the men who may at that time remain in the wastes of the north.

Some way, the human mind fails to grasp that—the fact that we can stop at home safe and warm, knowing that somewhere out there, men are dying. One questions whether in the face of that fact, with the realization of their long waiting, of their desperate human need, the rescuers will abandon their efforts as long as it is known that they are alive.

For, although man is unquestionably far from having "dominated" any of the elements, he is going to continue to exercise his ingenuity in overcoming the obstacles which they offer.

SURE—BUT WHO IS WILLING?

Don't hurry if you see a car coming toward you at the crossing. Don't leap back to safety—you may lose your hat. Don't run for the other side. Some one may laugh at you—you will look a bit ridiculous.

As a pedestrian, you have the right of way over automobiles. The Hoover national conference on highway safety has so decided. True, your assumption may end in making your family realize that they never did appreciate you enough while you were alive. And that will be some satisfaction. Also, you are within your rights in walking straight across, no matter how loudly the autoist may honk to the contrary. True, you may be dead, or you may come up missing several of the arms and legs you are accustomed to using—but the pedestrian has the right of way! Insist upon it. Don't let yourself be bluffed. Stand on your rights—at least until you are knocked down and rolled over in the dust of the street.

Presumably the only reason why so many pedestrians have been run down on intersections during the past few years has been the fact that the autoist believed them entitled to no consideration. Having so little self-respect as to be walking, they commanded none from respectable travelers. The recommendation is not explicit as to the rights of the pedestrian to change his mind in the middle of the crossing and return to the point of departure. The only safe rule for the motorist will be to wait until the crossing is complete.

The leaders of the minority party are disposed to regard this as a subtle campaign move designed to win votes from that political organization which is inclined to claim a financial ineptitude that promotes pedestrianism.

Accomplishment in the work of the world is centered in the individual. In the long pages of art, learning, and literature, individual determination stands foremost. The inspiration that contributes most is the love of the things you are doing, and the joy in accomplishment. Without this love and satisfaction, you will not succeed."

PLAIN PLATES

London Tribune.

Good news comes from Boise, Idaho, about license plates next season will not be adorned with a picture, crown or initials of better known than the state motto. The "spit" that was wished on car owners during this year.

Fred E. Lukens, secretary of state, to be co-ordinator of operations for the state, said he didn't mean conventional. The potato plates were unwelcome to many Idaho motorists, not because they did not wish to pay the extra tax, but because the intention was a very poor one from a matter of taste and desire.

Idaho is but following in the footsteps of Massachusetts, which state began with an all-enveloping, and abandoned the plan after a single year. Massachusetts found that the cost of the plates, out of the pockets of the taxpayers, expense aroused jealousy and charges of unfairness to the state. Idaho, however, avoided this predictable situation by returning to the unadorned tag.

The writer, who has witnessed the number of license plates issued, recalls one in particular that illustrates the colonel's point. Building a house, he was told to paint the outside. Quite a distance gathered at the field to witness an acrobatic performance of the First Cavalry. Group of Selfridge Field, the celebrated group of aerobats in the world.

It was known that Lindbergh was coming but his arrival was not announced, recalls one in particular that illustrates the colonel's point.

TODAY
 It isn't the thing that your grandfather did.
 In a hazy, long-dead day,
 But the things you think and the things
 That the world must have today,
 No, it isn't a name, nor a breath of Time, nor a smile, nor a look of
 The world need have to tell it
 But the things you do yourself,

AVIATION!

* Weekly Column of Comment
 On Its Activities

LINDBERGH IS RIGHT
 When Colonel Lindbergh declared that he had, for what may have been the first time, given up flying, he abandoned the plane after a single year, Massachusetts found that the young aviator, out of pocket, was not the trans-Atlantic pioneer whom he spoke of. Any one who has followed the story of the famous aviator, from the moment he started his flight, knows that circumstances have forced him to that conclusion.

The writer, who has witnessed the number of license plates issued, recalls one in particular that illustrates the colonel's point.

The young aviator, whose career has been wrecked by his infatuation for flying, has been erased from the memory of the public.

Colonel Lindbergh, when asked if he had given up flying, said:

"How is man to stand becoming fond of a woman?"

He was asked a question that Solomon answered:

"Love is strong as death."

He was asked another question:

"What is the light of the world?"

He was asked a third question:

"What is the greatest gift of God?"

He was asked a fourth question:

"What is the greatest sin?"

He was asked a fifth question:

"What is the greatest lie?"

He was asked a sixth question:

"What is the greatest truth?"

He was asked a seventh question:

"What is the greatest secret?"

He was asked an eighth question:

"What is the greatest mystery?"

He was asked a ninth question:

FORMER CHAMP
THINKS HEENEY WILL WIN FIGHT

Jack McAuliffe Picks Challenger to Earn Decision Over Champion.

BY JACK MC'AULIFFE

Retired Unfeated Lightweight

Copyright, 1928, by United Press

NEW YORK, July 13.—Tom Heeney will defend "Gene" Tunney's world heavyweight championship when they meet at Yankee stadium July 26.

Heeney has more endurance than Tunney and will wear him down and knock him out before he can get a round.

I don't think Heeney has the punch to knock out Tunney, but he is apt to snuff the champion up pretty quick before the fight.

The colt-like Tunney "shouldn't win" because he has everything a boxing line. Tunney's head and courage is one of the best I've ever seen.

Heeney's body is not so good as Tunney's.

Heeney could put up a whole fight if he would cut loose.

Tunney doesn't seem to be interested in boxing. He's been reading too much philosophy. Shakespeare and Shaw are all right, but they never helped a fighter beat an opponent.

I do not look for Tunney to be in as good shape for the bout as he was at Philadelphia or Chicago, but I expect him to be in better condition by fighting two bouts (20 rounds) in two weeks.

The last two rounds of the fourth combat will tell more on Tunney than they will on a regular fellow like Heeney, who is used to going 20 rounds.

Heeney is in racing shape, but man that you will always be proficient, I know of no professor that required more practice and work than Heeney to become a champion boxer.

Heeney is hard to catch and easy to lose. Who knows but that Tunney out of the ring for almost a year has not lost part of his wonderful boxing skill?

Obtain Evidence
Of Indian Life
In Yellowstone

YELLOWSTONE PARK

The Indian life in Yellowstone National Park was obtained recently by Angel F. Hall, chief naturalist of the National Park Service, who had been invited from a trip to Moly Island, which is situated in the interior of the park.

National Park Service, an amateur Naturalist, has been called an amateur Naturalist, in excellent condition, which seems to indicate that Indians frequented the islands of the lake, evidently in search of game.

As Yellowstone is the habitat for pelicans and other large water birds, it is natural that the Indians head must have been lost there by a party of Shepards or perhaps

Shoshone, Indians in search of game.

Two arrows were found in the surface of the ground near the center of the island, and, aside from the fact that the point is slightly with some hard object, in all probability a rock, it is in perfect condition.
