There is no danger of rain in California at this time of the year, local citizens believe, but even if it did rain the trials of the field below the level of the ground would carry the water off in fast channels. The students recall that a track race was held half an hour after an unusually heavy rainfall.

MODIFICATION OF PROHIBITION LAW IMPORTANT ISSUE

Pierre S. DuPont Comes Out Into the Open With a Formal Declaration Supporting Governor Alfred E. Smith for President; Action Backs Up Chairman Raskob in Influencing Employes of Great Corporations for Change in Provisions of Volstead Act and Puts the Question Squarely Up to the People.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Pierre S. DuPont, chairman of the board of General Motors Corporation of E. I. DuPont & Company, came out today for Governor Alfred E. Smith for president, with a declaration that modification of the prohibition law is "the really important issue before the country."

The industrial magnate thus joins his business associate, Chairman John Raskob of the DuPonts, in the campaign for the New York governor. Both men deplore the measures in large corporations with hundreds of thousands of employes, emphasize Smith's modification stand as basic reasons for their desertion of the party with which they ordinarily have been associated.

"I believe that we have in Governor Smith a man who has strength of personality to guide these alterations and to make the recommendations necessary for the solution of the liquor problem," DuPont said in his statement today.

BIBLE VERSES AND PRAYER

SOUL FEAR—The wicked flee when no man pursueth; but the righteous are held as a lion. Prov. 28:1
PRAYER—True, Lord, for "Conscience makes cowards of us all."

THE COMING ELECTION AND THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

Quite regardless of the desires of the political party heads, of the campaign chairmen, and of "statesmen" in general, the determination of the people at large to register an opinion on the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment is becoming evident.

There can be no question but that large numbers of people wholly in favor of prohibition are open to suggestion of some manner in which the present law can be enforced. That this can never be done in its present form, is the contention of one faction, which is openly suggesting government dispensaries and government manufacturers. Their idea is to eliminate the bootlegger, to sell only bottled goods on certificate. They profess to believe that this would bring the traffic into the open, legalize it, and cut off the chances of enormous personal profits which are making it attractive to great numbers of people, under the present system.

There are others who contend that this would merely stimulate other avenues of evasion—that the bootlegger would still have the big field of smuggling open to his activities and that the lowered price would induce expenditures by great numbers of people who now abstain from indulgence because they cannot afford it. Perhaps the greatest opposition comes from that large body who would see in government participation in the traffic an intoxicant a downward moral step, a national disgrace.

The public is awaiting the announcement of one presidential candidate who has stated unequivocally that he favors some change—the details to be announced in his forthcoming speech of acceptance.

Opponents are assuming that the election of that particular candidate would mean the change in the eighteenth amendment. Such assumption is made in ignorance of the manner in which constitutional changes are achieved.

There are two possible ways. One provides for an affirmative vote by two-thirds of the members of both Senate and House, and ratification by two-thirds of the State legislatures. That is the manner in which the present amendment and all other amendments to the constitution became part of the fundamental law. The courts have passed upon it, and the eighteenth amendment is now as much a part of the law of the land as any other part of the constitution, and the only way in which it can be removed therefrom is through the same process used to put it there. Or, the alternative method is through the action of a constitutional convention—such a body as that which made the Constitution a century and a half ago.

Since such a convention would open up the possibility of a complete overhauling of the entire document, many provisions of which have from time to time been attacked by "statesmen," and the likelihood of such a convention being authorized by the people, is remote indeed.

The amendment prohibits the manufacture and sale of intoxicants. The Volstead law defines intoxicants as those containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol. Since a two-thirds vote would be required to change the Constitution, and since it is highly improbable that thirty-six States would vote for the revocation of the amendment it is likely that the point of attack by the "wet" forces will be the Volstead law in the effort to change the legal alcoholic content of beverages. At the most, that is all that the proponents of modification will be able to accomplish during the immediate future, if the popular vote for president is interpreted as a mandate for change.

To assume that the election of the avowedly wet candidate would imply a corresponding and immediate constitutional change, is unwarranted. Such changes are brought about in a manner more deliberate than are presidential elections, and the majority required for ratification, is substantially higher.

What the election will do, however, is to act as a barometer of public sentiment on the matter of enforcing the law now on the books, provided the candidates do not themselves cloud the issue, as the campaign committees seek to have them do.

Even though Shoshone cataract is practically dry because of the utilization of the water of the Snake river for irrigation and power purposes, the Idaho Power Company continues the nightly illumination of a setting that is as weird and interesting as any to be found on this North American continent. The great walls of bare rock are not without an element of grandeur and are certainly awe-inspiring.

If that proposed debate between Dr. John Roney Straton and Governor Alfred F. Smith of New York takes place in Madison Square Garden, as now seems probable, the radio audience will probably outnumber the Hoover acceptance speech listeners of Saturday night, large as that audience will undoubtedly be. And it is to be hoped the debate will be void of religious intolerance and bitterness.

Other Viewpoints

BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT

(New York Evening Post)
Instead of continuing to show signs of abatement, the unemployment situation in Great Britain has grown steadily worse this year. The number of persons out of work is now higher than it was 12 months ago. Figures issued by the Ministry of Labor indicate that almost 11 per cent of the 12,000,000 working people registered under the unemployment insurance act were jobless during the week ending July 5.

Public opinion has been somewhat more optimistic than it was a year ago. It might that there has been since March a steady weekly decline of about 20,000 in the number of unemployed. The public opinion has been somewhat more optimistic than it was a year ago. It might that there has been since March a steady weekly decline of about 20,000 in the number of unemployed.

A further increase in unemployment is expected in the textile industry as the Lancaster weavers are being thrown out of work by British losses in the market. Four yards of cotton cloth are now exported for every yard sent abroad before the war and outside the world causes for this decline is the new competition of Oriental mills, especially in China. India also is suffering a serious depression. Several yards have closed on the Clyde and East Scotland.

This is a gloomy picture. It is even further darkened by the report of the industrial "Transference" board that 20,000 of the unemployed might be moved to new homes if they were ever to expect to earn a living. It is pointed out that both Canada and Australia could provide jobs for these men, who are justly indignant. It means could be found to wage these men and provide for them upon landing in the dominions.

Daily Poem

I've made the holiday, and wiped things clean,
And you Dick off by the eight-fifteen,
And mixed the pudding and dinned
Bob's shirt,
And mended the hole in Joan's very best skirt,
And ordered the meat for tomorrow's stew,
And I had three overboard one brown shoe,
And I had a thought in the whole of my head,
Could you lark the day as a prayer instead?
—Dora M. Broome, in The Observer.

Lighter Side

Trying to Place It
It is a well-known fact that circus people place certain episodes in their lives by their relation to other events, such as the year of the big blizzard, or the day of the Priceo quake.
One of the "Laughing Brothers" (tamers) was "hooked" yesterday by a newspaper man. "Who's today," asked "what was the most exciting experience you ever had?"
The lion man then described in detail a thrilling night when a king of beasts and queen at him leaped him down, clawed a great slash in his back, tore open both arms and nearly severed a leg.
"When did that happen?" asked the absorbed scribe.
"I never," replied the lion tamer, scratching his ear and appealing to a companion, "What happened that year, Fred?"

Spilled His Appetite!

A Mexican had rabbit meat in his pot, and he shared his supply generously with his comrade.
One night the American asked: "Where you get rabbit, Jose, I can't find any."
"My wife, she get him," Jose replied. "She very clever, she come round the house and make noise. She shout 'um'."
"You rabbit don't make a noise?"
"Sure," Jose asserted, positively. "Go, now, me!"

Little Girl—Mother, I'd rather pay

A certain salesman was proposing to his best girl:
"I'll buy you a rabbit," he finished, "I'll lay my whole fortune on your feet."
"It isn't a very big fortune," she reminded him.

Most of which is believed to originate in this area. Commander Richard E. Byrd (top), will head the most elaborate party and expects to spend almost two years at and around the South Pole. Another expedition will be led by Captain Sir George Hubert Wilkins (center), an Australian, who was knighted by King George V for his flight from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen. The third party is being organized by Commander Douglas George Jeffery (bottom), Royal Navy, retired. The map shows the route which each party will take. The expedition plans to co-operate with one another in obtaining and classifying their scientific data.

Public To Have Benefit Increased Communication Facilities Soon

A third contract provides that the telephone company's teletype system be available in Western Union stations for handling facsimile messages in cities where the company operates its system of sending pictures by wire.

VARYING VIEWS SOME LEADERS ON BIG BATTLE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—Bristling statements added to the presidential campaign today included:
Mrs. Clarence M. Bush, speaking over radio station WTPF to Bishop's Cannon's "pro- Hoover" Democratic committee meeting in Jackson, Fla.
"I accept the vice-chairmanship of Florida for the coming term. This is not a religious issue but most assuredly a moral one and one that will decide whether our country is to be put into the hands of a temperate, cultured man or into the hands of an intemperate, unscrupulous one. We Democratic women choose Mr. Hoover as tenant of the White House, for we intend to keep it a White House, without swinging doors or a brass ball."
What Edwards Says.
Senator Edward Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, in a press statement:
"If Governor Smith or his managers succeed in forcing out the best of the 'religions' (whispering campaign) now directed against him in certain sections of the country, Democratic presidential nominee will

LOVE THE MOTIVE POWER DRIVING GENE TUNNEY TO CONQUER WORLD

Love Has Given the World Its Most Remarkable Prize Fighter.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
 NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The love of a man for a maid has given the world its most remarkable heavyweight champion pugilist.

The champion, of course, is Gene Tunney, now retired, and the maid is Mary Josephine Lander, daughter of one of the country's first and richest families. They will be married this autumn or winter, probably in New York.

The retired manager of the champion and the Greenwich, Conn., society girl was confirmed last night in an announcement made by friends of Tunney and Miss Lander. Mrs. Lander's request, only with that announcement did it become possible to tell the true story of how Gene Tunney not only became a champion and a millionaire, but also how he became a Philadelphia resident, a man of culture, and a man outside of all precedent of both society and the prize ring.

According to the Buhl Herald the section of the Old Oregon Trail between a point two or three miles northwest of Buhl and the Salmon River bridge has been completed. The work was done by the Buhl Highway Commission under the supervision of the Buhl Highway Commission. The work has been in charge of A. C. Wolfe, and oiling has gone on at the rate of a mile a day.

The only obstructions that were in the way of the work were the logs which were piled up in the road going down into the Salmon river valley. These logs were removed by the Buhl Highway Commission. The road is now in good condition and is open to traffic. The work was completed on Thursday.

A score of well-known executives who comprise the most important part of the industry's development pleaded, more than before, making any statement on the probable result of broadcast screen production.

WOMAN KILLED BY BLOW FROM FIST OF BRUTE

By United Press
SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 10.—All available police of Seattle and nearby cities sought today for a man who last night struck Mrs. B. H. Brown of Tukwila so hard with his fist during a traffic altercation that she was killed several hours later at the City Hospital.

Mrs. Brown and another young woman, attending a carnival in West Seattle, had started the murderer's automobile after climbing permission from a woman occupant, so they could park their own car near the pavement. Three policemen questioned the driver and then released him. He drove away in a coupe with a license plate number 1-1-1-1.

Miss Brown's condition was so serious that after the attack she was pronounced dead. Mrs. Brown was still unconscious, the physicians ordered their assistants held by all individuals," he said.

Warner declined to comment further until he learned more of the incident.

First National, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Paramount officials would issue no statement.

Up earlier than usual, he cleared his desk of correspondence, completed the form which he is to deliver August 21 and then gathered his campaign managers together for lunch and a private discussion of the presidential campaign.

In the conference with Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican national committee, Senator George Moses, chairman of the notification committee, Gov. John S. Foster of Pennsylvania and some of the national committee men here for the notification ceremonies tomorrow, J. Edgar Hoover declared a birthday dinner to be given him by the Washington newspaper correspondents.

Tonight Hoover is to attend a birthday dinner to be given him by a little private party at his home to relatives and close friends.

All arrangements are completed for the big notification show in the stadium of Stanford university tomorrow. His speech is scheduled to start at 4 p. m. Pacific time. How can we improve it?

"How can we make it better?" is the constant cry of manufacturers of advertised merchandise.

Why?

It might well be pride in the product that bears their good name. Often it is. But not always.

It's just good, hard-headed business, mostly. The improvement of a product that is already considered satisfactory makes that product play a more definite part in the life of the user. It wins and holds an added loyalty, and, of course, added business.

Every product being advertised in these pages is studied continuously by its maker in order that it may be more and more useful and helpful to you in your daily life.

Isn't that the sort of merchandise you want? It's all presented in a straightforward, honest way here in the advertisements, day after day. Read them for economy's sake!

at the stadium. Those in charge do not know how many people will come. They have attempted such a rally in former years may now prefer to listen in on the radio whose trite tongue is expected to describe the ceremony to 30,000 listeners from coast to coast and even beyond the sea. They have been furnished estimates that there are 100,000 persons within automobile distance. But they are afraid their estimate but officials charge arrangements for handling the jam may disintegrate some who might come to see the ceremony but officials at that greatest ceremony.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of the university, named various members of the faculty to head the committee which have had charge of various phases of the arrangements. They consulted experts. The proposition of getting the crowd into the stadium has been put up to Al Marsden, general manager of the board of athletic control, who handled the football crowds.

Masters has for days been drilling his corps of 1,000 students who will work under his direction. Only a few of the choicest sections will be reserved, and the rest of the stadium which seated 57,000 before an additional 33,000 seats were placed upon the football field will be filled in a first-come first-serve basis.

The speakers' platform was built on the south end of the field. It was covered with American flags and emblems. At the speaker's platform were placed a row of microphones for radio and amplification purposes. The arrangements will permit everyone in the crowd both to see and hear the nominee.

Great Engineering Feat
The stadium which is unique engineering feat, was built by the engineering school of which Hoover is one of the first graduates. Prof. G. W. Hines, head of the engineering department, planned it. The field is 40 feet into the ground. Dirt taken from this excavation was piled around the sides so that the automobile was provided before the work was begun on the concrete.

Pierre S. DuPont Comes Out Into the Open With a Formal Declaration Supporting Governor Alfred E. Smith For President; Action Backs Up Chairman Raskob in Influencing Employees of Great Corporations for Change in Provisions of Volstead Act and Puts the Question—Squrely Up to the People.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Pierre S. DuPont, chairman of the board of General Motors Corporation of E. I. DuPont de Nemours Company, came out today for Governor Alfred E. Smith for president, with a declaration that modification of the prohibition law is "the really important issue before the country."

The industrial magnate thus joins his business associate, Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee, in the opposition to the New York governor. Both men, dominating figures in large corporations with hundreds of thousands of employees, emphasize Smith's modification stand as basic reasons for their desertion of the party with which they ordinarily have been associated.

"I believe that we have in Governor Smith a man who has strength of character to correct the evils of prohibition, to lay all the facts before the people to guide their determination and to make the recommendations necessary for the solution of the liquor problem," Du Pont said in his statement.

Du Pont explained that he has voted Republican, with the acceptance of certain bills for Woodrow Wilson, which is the history known in Raskob's politics.

He attacked prohibition enforcement methods of the Republican administration, saying enforcement has been conducted contrary to the law of the country and to "hurry" the work.

He mentioned killing of innocent citizens and spending of public money in the enforcement of prohibition.

DuPont praised Smith as Governor of New York, declaring that he has proved he can be entrusted with the conduct of national affairs.

He stated that the prohibition law is not a party platform, but a national issue.

Famous Clergyman Says Smith Is Dancing on Red-hot Grid of His Own Kindling; Madison Square Garden Proposed As Suitable Place for Holding of War of Words.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Governor Alfred E. Smith, Democratic candidate for president, today called his record and fitness for office against one of the country's best known political clergymen in John A. Quinn, a Protestant church executive, in a "unpublished" article.

Smith challenged Dr. John Ruch, Stratton, who attacked the record, to debate the issue and Stratton has accepted formally.

The clergyman sent his letter of challenge to the governor last night and Smith will receive it in his letter written last night Stratton said.

Political observers here regarded the debate as unique in American political history in the sense that it called into the country's attention the moral strength and truth political will of the candidates.

The governor had been preparing, it was understood, to defend his record and answer the charges which Stratton had leveled when the Kansas editor withdrew the most objectionable parts of his article.

Stratton urged that the debate be held in Madison Square Garden, but the governor apparently gave the winning the opportunity, he was willing to select.

Stratton also referred to the preparation of the debate and to the possibility of its being held in Madison Square Garden.

HICKMAN AGAIN SENTENCED TO DIE ON GALLOWS

Date Set for Execution Is October 19; No Drama in Court.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10.—William Edward Hickman, "the fox," was sentenced Thursday to die on the gallows October 19 for the murder last December 10 of Marlon Farber.

The hearing was short of all drama attendant upon the first sentencing since Hickman's conviction for the death of San Quentin and members of his family were not in court.

Superior Judge Edmund J. Connelley said in the following words: "It is hereby ordered that on October 19, 1929, at 4 p. m. within the walls of San Quentin, William Edward Hickman shall be hanged by the neck and die."

The second sentence was pronounced by the state supreme court of Hickman's request for a rehearing.

Richard Cantillo, one of Hickman's attorneys, said the case would be carried to the United States supreme court.

Cantillo said he would petition Chief Justice Waite of the California state supreme court within 30 days for an order granting an application for a writ of habeas corpus to the United States supreme court.

In event this petition is denied, he indicated, he would petition the justices of the higher court.

Hickman was originally condemned to die April 27 by Judge J. J. Traill.

COMMISSIONERS PREPARED FOR LEGAL BATTLE

Public Hearing on Salmon Irrigation District Is August 11.

County commissioners are preparing themselves with legal fortifications in expectation of an exciting time when the petition will be filed on the petition of the settlers of the Salmon tract for the establishment of an irrigation district.

The Salmon River Canal company is not operating. The hearing will be held Saturday, August 10, at 10 o'clock.

Salmon Canal company directors have already filed their protest.

The commissioners are urged by the petition to call an election for the establishment of the district, to be known as the Volstead Irrigation district. This establishment would automatically abolish the present Salmon River Canal company.

The settlers and the directors of the canal company have been at odds for some time. Recently the directors contemplated purchasing the reservoirs and properties of the Deep Creek Land and Water company, but the settlers instituted an injunction to prevent such a step, alleging that the directors were paying four times the value of the proposed purchase.

The directors replied by saying that the offer of the Deep Creek company had been withdrawn. The courts removed the injunction.

A large number of protesters and agitators are expected to be present with legal counsel at the public hearing before the county commissioners and that they might not be overwhelmed, the commission have not ready given the proposition consideration that they might familiarize themselves with the various ramifications.

DUPONT LINING UP TO BATTLE VOLSTEAD ACT

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—Pierre S. Du Pont offered resignation Thursday as chairman of the board of directors of the General Motors Corporation. The board declined to accept his resignation, granting him instead a leave of absence.

Du Pont's action is in line with the announced policy of the committee to keep out of politics. He is chairman of the executive committee of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, but this fact that is his only major political activity. It is likely that later he will throw his support to Governor Alfred E. Smith for president.

Du Pont was influenced in this step, it is believed, by close friendship with Chairman John J. Raabok of the Democratic national committee, who recently resigned as chairman of the General Motors finance committee and whom he has since then "conspicuously" devoted his time to the Democratic campaign.

Du Pont also is opponent of the Volstead act, as is Raabok.

GERMANY SAYS FRANCE GUILTY OF ESPIONAGE

BERLIN, Aug. 10.—Government officials charged yesterday these had been discovered "an extensive French espionage system, extending through the occupied Rhineland area and reaching into unoccupied Germany."

A Prussian government spokesman told the United Press that the alleged spying activities covered political, military and economic matters.

It is understood that the German government repeatedly complained to Prussia against the alleged espionage in recent weeks.

The Prussian government is anxiously endeavoring to have espionage headquarters set up at Mayence. Not only have French agents sought to hire German operators on the Rhine, in addition, and on the streets it is charged, but they have stationed spies in the Bay Scout and Pathfinder organizations to ascertain whether members receive military training.

The Koestliche Zeitung asserted today that before assignment to Germany, French spies "induced" instruction at a Paris espionage school.

HEAVY GUNS IN CAMPAIGN JUST BEFORE VOTING

Republican Tactics Will Be to Hold Ammunition for Final Assault.

By United Press
PAID ALTO, Cal., Aug. 10.—The storm of the national presidential campaign will be held back until five or six weeks before November 6, and until that time there will be a "hoax" as possible around the headquarters of Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential nominee, a spokesman for the candidate, made clear Thursday.

The statement was made in answer to complaints from newsmen and others that there is no news emanating from the campaign home of the Republican nominee.

The startling lack of official information concerning future plans of actions, announcements, and subsequent denials regarding speeches and even the itinerary of next week's trip back to Washington were thus explained by the candidate's most authoritative source.

Many campaigns have been won in August that were lost in November, many speeches have been made in September that were forgotten before election day. However now is provided to make sure that neither of these two common campaign faults are committed in this campaign.

New Era Breaking In Development Of Pictures By Radio

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—The National Broadcasting company, which effected the first demonstration of picture pictures transmitted by radio, forecast the methods of picture transmission within the next few years.

The motion was demonstrated by the Frank Donald at the laboratories of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company before a group of leaders in the radio and moving picture industry. Westinghouse described the "demonstration" as "the most important development that has ever taken place for the future in the field of electrical transmission of sound and vision."

"None of us can speculate at this time as to the future of the new development," Westinghouse said. "It is but a laboratory experiment that has never been successful in almost every detail but I do not foresee it as a common thing for the radio receiver for a few days to come."

"Certainly, it will be possible in the future to send the picture to a receiver at a remote place and to receive it on a radio receiver at a remote place and to receive it on a radio receiver at a remote place."

THE COMING ELECTION AND THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

Quite regardless of the desires of the political party heads, of the campaign chairman, and of "statesmen" in general, the determination of the people at large to register an opinion on the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment is becoming evident.

There can be no question but that large numbers of people wholly in favor of prohibition are open to suggestion of some manner in which the present law can be enforced. That this can never be done in its present form, is the contention of one faction, which is openly suggesting government dispensaries and government manufactories. Their idea is to eliminate the bootlegger, to sell only bottled goods on certificate. They profess to believe that this would bring the traffic into the open, legalize it, and cut off the chances of enormous personal profits which are making it attractive to great numbers of people under the present system.

There are others who contend that this would merely stimulate other avenues of evasion—that the bootlegger would still have the big field of smuggling open to his activities and that the lowered price would induce expenditures by great numbers of people who now abstain from indulgence because they cannot afford it. Perhaps the greatest objection comes from that large body who would see in government participation in the traffic in intoxicants a downward moral step, a national disgrace.

The public is awaiting the announcement of one presidential candidate who has stated unequivocally that he favors some change—the details to be announced in his forthcoming speech of acceptance.

Opponents are assuming that the election of that particular candidate would mean the change in the eighteenth amendment. Such assumption is made in ignorance of the manner in which constitutional changes are achieved.

There are two possible ways. One provides for an affirmative vote by two-thirds of the members of both Senate and House, and ratification by two-thirds of the State legislatures. That is the manner in which the present amendment and all other amendments to the constitution became part of the fundamental law. The courts have passed upon it, and the eighteenth amendment is now as much a part of the law of the land as any other part of the constitution, and the only way in which it can be removed therefrom is through the same process used to put it there. Or the alternative method is through the action of a constitutional convention—such a body as that which made the Constitution a century and a half ago.

Since such a convention would open up the possibility of a complete overhauling of the entire document, many provisions of which have from time to time been attacked by "statesmen" and the likelihood of such a convention being authorized by the people is remote indeed.

The amendment prohibits the manufacture and sale of intoxicants. The Volstead law defines intoxicants as those containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol. Since a two-thirds vote would be required to change the Constitution, and since it is highly probable that thirty-six States would vote for the revocation of the amendment, it is likely that the intent of attack by the "wet" press will be the Volstead law in the effort to change the legal alcoholic content of beverages. At the most, that is all that the proponents of modification will be able to accomplish during the immediate future, if the popular vote for president is interpreted as a mandate for change.

To assume that the election of the avowedly wet candidate would imply a corresponding and immediate constitutional change, is unwarranted. Such changes are brought about in a manner more deliberate than are presidential elections, and the majority required for ratification is substantially higher.

What the election will do, however, is to act as a barometer of public sentiment on the matter of enforcing the law now on the books, provided the candidates do not themselves cloud the issue, as the campaign committees seek to have them do.

Even though Shoshone cataract is practically dry because of the utilization of the water of the Snake river for irrigation and power purposes, the Idaho Power Company continues the highly illuminating of a setting that is as weird and interesting as any to be found on this North American continent. The great walls of bare rock are not without an element of grandeur and are certainly awe-inspiring.

If that proposed debate between Dr. John Roach Straton and Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York takes place in Madison Square Garden, as now seems probable, the radio audience will probably outnumber the Hoover acceptance speech listeners of Saturday night, large as that audience will undoubtedly be. And it is to be hoped the debate will be void of religious intolerance and bitterness.

Other Viewpoints

BRITISH EMPLOYMENT

(New York Evening Post)
Instead of continuing to show signs of abatement, the unemployment situation in Great Britain has grown steadily worse this week. The number of persons out of work is now higher than it was 12 months ago. Statistics published by the Ministry of Labor Gazette show that almost 11 per cent of the 12,000,000 working people registered under the employment insurance act were jobless during the week ending July 9.

Four basic industries account for a great part of this unemployment. British coal mining is in so serious a plight that there has been—since March—a steady weekly decline of about 2000 in the number of employed. The building trades are suffering from the high prices of materials. While the metal working situation is better, it is still not so bright as it appears. The clothing industry is expected in the textile industry as the Lancaster weavers are being thrown out of work by British-made cottons in America. Cotton yards of cotton cloth are now exported for every seven sent abroad before the war. This is the new competition of Oriental mills, especially in India, which is suffering a serious depression. Several yards have closed on the Clyde and in Scotland.

This is a gloomy picture. It is even further darkened by the report of the Industrial Transference board that 25,000 of the unemployed in Great Britain must be moved to new homes if they are ever to expect to start a living. It is believed that both Canada and Australia could provide jobs for these men, but are unable to do so because of means such as coming to this country and providing for them upon landing in the dominions.

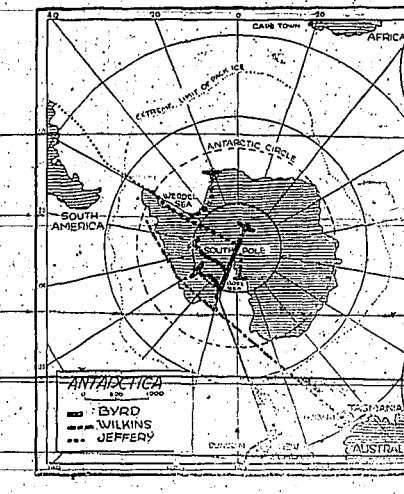

If the economic reforms now under way further the decline in unemployment in Great Britain, it will become a world problem. It is believed that the greater importance than it is today. Labor has now gone to a government, and the government has now gone to its own administration four years ago. It is believed that the government is still to be the cause of its failure to remedy effectively a trade situation which England can not permanently endure.

BAYONETS AND DISHER PAILS

(New York World)
The bayonet strike in the textile trades in New Bedford has been conducted with admirable restraint by the Textile Association, whose leaders realized that "direct action" methods would do little or no good. But it is not strange that 15 weeks of suffering and sacrifice should have resulted in a strike to force the courts and the courts to enforce the terms of the contract. Following the attempt of the courts to enforce the terms of the contract, there has been an excess of disorders culminating in the arrest on Monday of 25 persons charged with disregarding the rule against picketing. These made a noisy halt of it in jail, and then they were released on bail. The national guard was called out with fixed bayonets. Before the strike the national guard was called out with fixed bayonets. Before the strike the national guard was called out with fixed bayonets.

Map showing the Antarctic expedition routes into which three expeditions will penetrate this Fall to reach the poles of the world's last weather, most of which is believed to originate in this area. Commander Richard E. Byrd (top) will lead the most elaborate party and expects to spend about two years at and around the South Pole. Another expedition will be led by Captain Sir George Hubert Wilkins (center), an Australian, who was invited by King George of England for his flight from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Spitzbergen. The third party is being organized by Commander Douglas George Jeffery (bottom), Royal Navy, retired. The map shows the route which each party will take. The expedition plan to cooperate with one another in obtaining and classifying their scientific data.

Daily Poem

THE DAY
I've made the porch, and wiped the shining glass.
And set the table with the white and blue.
And mixed the pudding and dished
the hot shirt.
And mended the hole in Jean's very best skirt.
And ordered the meat for tomorrow's tea.
And laid the overboard one brown sauce.
And didd some back with one of his colds.
And the laundress tabloothin's torn in the folk.
And a jagged out of Elizabeth's and,
And broke a bowl and my temper stand.
And now, as I set my foot on the stairs,
I remember, this morning, I said
my prayers.
I'm a wicked woman, O Lord,
But my feet are so tired they'll hardly go.
And I haven't a thought in the whole of my head.
Could you take the day as a prayer instead?
—Dora M. Broome, in The Observer.

Lighter Side

Trying to Place It
"I'm a little bit of a philosopher," people place it, "and I've been living by my relation to other things since the year of the big blizzard."
One of the thinking Brothers' Huntamers was being interviewed by a newspaper man who finally asked
"What was the most exciting experience you ever had?"
"The most exciting described in detail a thrilling night when a kine of beasts had sprung at him, kneeing him and tearing at his coat, and back, tore open both arms and nearly severed a leg."
"You say that that all happen?" asked the absorbed scriber.
"Lemme see," replied the Huntamers, looking at the sky and appealing to a companion, "what happened that year, Fred?"

Spotted His Appetite!

A Mexican had rabbit meat in his pantry and he shared his supply regularly with his comrades.
One night the American asked:
"Where you get rabbits, Jose?"
"I can't find any," Jose replied.
"My wife, she get 'em," Jose replied. "She say every night they come round the house and make noise. She shoot 'em."
"Noise?" Habbits don't make a noise you say?
"Sure," Jose asserted, positively.
Go, "mow, mow."

Oiling Completed Buhl to Bridge At Salmon River

According to The Buhl Herald that section of the Old Oregon Trail between a point two or three miles northwest of Buhl and the Salmon river bridge in the Snake river canyon across from Thousand Springs has been fully surfaced and is ready for traffic.

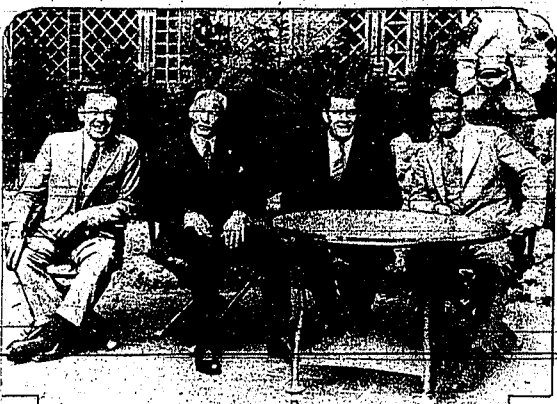

Concerning this bit of highway improvement the Herald of Thursday says:

"With the arrival today of another tank of oil, the last stretch of 11.5 miles of highway west and north of Buhl connecting with the old road at Salmon river bridge, will be completed today or tomorrow. The work has been in charge of A. C. Walker and oiling has gone on at the rate of a mile a day.

"The only detour that was made during the construction was used early this week when the unit was unable to grade going down into the Salmon river valley. Here cars were routed over the highway and the detour was employed to tow cars that were not capable of making the steep climb.

"The road is part of the state project of oiling and paving on the Old Oregon Trail, practically all of which will be finished this year."

FRANCE LOSES BRAVE AIR ACE RESULT CRASH

PARIS, Aug. 10.— Maurice Dronnia, one of France's best-known pilots and a former holder of the sustained flight record, died Thursday from injuries received in a crash of the plane in which he hoped to fly to the United States.

Mechanic Janet was killed in the crash while Wireless Operator Marcel and Engineer Gineault were injured seriously.

It was the final test flight for the airplane that M. Goussard had created for a trans-Atlantic attempt. The plane was riddled in design. Cabin seats were built around each of the four motors and the motors were embedded in hollow wings. These wings also served as fuel containers.

Dronnia and his three aides took the craft up at Orly airbase yesterday. In fact, the new center motor had had reached an altitude of about 6000 feet when the propeller of the airplane was damaged. The propeller was pulled from the craft in a pitiful condition. One pilot was almost severed, one arm broken and he was suffering from internal injuries.

SHEEPMEN PAY HIGH AT SALE

25 Hampshire Yearlings Bring $92.50 Each at Ram Sale Wednesday.

Twenty-five Hampshire yearlings brought a price of $92.50 each at the annual ram sale of the Idaho Woolgrowers' association at Piler Wednesday. This price was one of the highest ever paid for so many yearlings in one transfer. The Hampshire yearlings were purchased by the Wood Creek Sheep Company from the Wood Live Stock Company of Spencer.

Satisfactory prices were paid at the sale for more than 1000 registered rams. Bidding was lively and expected, many record prices being established for this state.

The high price for the sale was that of $100 paid for a Suffolk yearling ram by Guy B. Priddy of Madison. The ram had been entered by the University of Idaho College of Agriculture. Another Suffolk yearling was purchased by the same buyer for $75. A Hampshire entered by the son of H. L. Finch of Soda Springs brought $275, a top price for the breed.

H. R. Kealey of Burley sold 14 Hampshire ram lambs for a price of $45 each. A Rambouillet and entered by H. S. Crann brought $125.

The lowest price paid at the sale was that of $21 each for three ewes.

The sale was conducted by Earl Whetter of Piler and Dean Sullivan, assisted by Dr. W. S. McClure in the afternoon.

RASKOB QUILTS ACTIVITIES ON RAILWAY BOARD

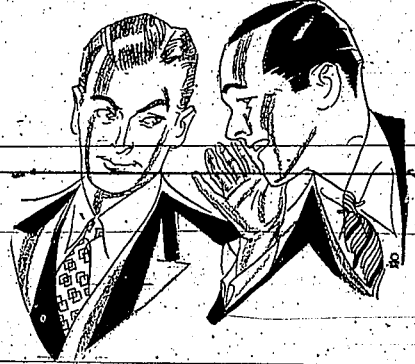

By United Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—John Raskob, chairman of the national Democratic committee has resigned from the executive committee of the Missouri Pacific Railroad and an organization of the members of that special committee appointed to work out a probable dividend policy, the Dow Jones Financial News Agency said yesterday.

Dow Jones said Raskob also had resigned as a director of the Gulf Coast Lines and the Texas and Pacific Railway.

These resignations, it was said, have nothing to do with Raskob's political activities, but were tendered before his recent trip abroad.

Finley J. Sheppard, vice-president of the Missouri Pacific, and Arthur W. Louder, president of the Eutaw Trunk Company, have been elected to the board of directors of the Denver and Rio Grande Western Railway, to succeed Raskob, who resigned, and Alvin Kreck, who died.

ring. Breeders agreed that the sale was the most successful in the history of the Avdo Growers' Association. Among the 1000 rams entered in the sale there were 22 Rambouillets, 10 Panamas, 10 Lincoln and a large number of Hampshire; there were some Suffolk and Suffolk-Hampshire. Other breeds were also represented at the sale.

How can we improve it?

"How can we make it better?" is the constant cry of manufacturers of advertised merchandise.

Why?
It might well be the pride in the product that bears their good name. Often it is. But not always.

It's just good, hard-headed business, mostly. The improvement of a product that is already considered satisfactory makes that product play a more-definite part in the life of the user. It wins and holds an added loyalty, and, of course, added business.

Every product being advertised in these pages is studied continuously by its maker in order that it may be more and more useful and helpful to you in your daily life.

Isn't that the sort of merchandise you want? It's all presented in a straightforward, honest way here in the advertisements, day after day. Read them for economy's sake!
