HOOPER FORMALLY ACCEPTS TERRIFIC STORMS OF WEEK TAKE TOLL

Nominee Plainly States Policies He Would Follow

Magnificent Gathering in Stadium Stanford University at Palo Alto Hears Republican Choice for President and Program Should Be Chosen to Head This Government Next November.

STANFORD STADIUM, Palo Alto, Calif., Aug. 11.—A home day dedication for prohibition and a definite farm relief program were laid down by Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential candidate, in his acceptance speech delivered today in the vast football stadium of his alma mater.

Taking direct issue with Gov. Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic opponent, Hoover declared strongly against any modification of enforcement laws and promised if elected president to substitute a searching investigation to determine methods for correcting abuses now existing.

The nominee took the position that those opposed to prohibition must first change the eighteenth amendment constitutionally before they can tamper with the Volstead act. It is the position held by the most eminent druggists, George Borch of Idaho and is directly opposed to Smith's contention that the Volstead act should be nullified to permit sale of light wine and beer.

Hoover went even further than the platform of the party, accepting the definite prohibition of farm relief problems as the cause of battle for the presidential election. He was not definite regarding farm relief too. He did not mention the mooted equalization fee theory of the voted monetary system bill, but announced himself in favor of a three-fold agricultural program for the next year.

Hoover announced that the first of primary importance, he proposed first, revision of existing tariffs in order to foster domestic production, secondly, development of cheaper transportation facilities by modifying inland waterways, particularly the Mississippi system, the Great Lakes outlet opening of the St. Lawrence river to the Atlantic Ocean, and, thirdly, reorganization of the marketing system for agricultural products.

Agricultural Relief.
The working out of agricultural relief constitutes the most important situation of the next administration, he said. "I stand pledged for these proposals."

Hoover announced he favored an expenditure of a billion dollars in the next four years for cheapened transportation, irrigation, reclamation, domestic water supply, electric power, public roads and public buildings.

Views on Immigration.
He definitely opposed the national quota system of immigration and declared himself in favor of the present immigration quota system. He accorded as much weight to tariff as to conduct of national affairs in a manner designed solely to manage this country's bare resources.

FORD STATES CHANGE MODEL STORY FICTION

Daily Production 3,500 at Present With Goal Set at Ten Thousand.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 11.—The Cleveland Press publishes an interview with Henry Ford in which the automobile manufacturer is quoted as denying reports that he must shut down his plant and re-design his new model automobile.

"Our daily production is now 3,500," Ford is quoted as telling the Press correspondent, "although one-third of our capacity is still applied to the manufacture of parts for the old cars."

"Our production is increasing gradually by several hundred a day. Our present goal is 10,000 daily. I am entirely satisfied with the way things are going up to now."

Ford said that 200 mechanical operations had to be changed when he redesigned his brake system on the new car.

"The original design was more than adequate," Ford said, "but I had made the change because we now have two independent braking systems."

HERBERT HOOVER

High Lights Hoover's Acceptance Speech Republican Presidential Nominee

STANFORD STADIUM, PALO ALTO, CALIF., Aug. 11.—Following the announcement of the nomination of Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential nominee.

"Our problems of the past seven years have been problems of reconstruction; our problems of the future are problems of construction."

"I shall be an honest campaigner—every point will be publicly accounted for. It shall be a true campaign. We shall use words to convey our meaning, not to hide it."

"The porchtime is vanishing from us."

"At one time we demanded for our workers a full dinner pail. Today we demand larger comfort and greater participation in life and leisure."

"The test of business is not its size—the test is whether there is honest competition, whether there is freedom from domination whether there is integrity and usefulness of purpose."

"Government weakens the moment that its integrity is even doubted."

"There must be no place for cynicism in the creed of America."

"Racial progress marches upon the feet of healthy and instructed children."

"A government that does not constantly seek to live up to the ideals of its young men and women falls short of what the American people have a right to expect and demand from it."

Colleen Moore Has Features That Are "Camera-Fore"

Colleen Moore is fortunate in having features that are absolutely "camera-fore." Her features are so arranged that they photograph themselves. According to cameraman Sid Hickox, who photographed Miss Moore's camera picture, "Happiness Ahead," which opens at the Orpheum theatre tomorrow, she hasn't a single "bad angle." As a result no matter from what angle the director wishes to scene film, Miss Moore will appear at her best on the screen.

This is a valuable asset, for less fortunate players must take great care to avoid giving the camera certain views of their features, which makes sincere dramatic work much more difficult. Miss Moore, on the other hand, never gives the camera a thought, but concentrates on the scene in which she is working.

Edmund Lowe plays opposite Miss Moore in "Happiness Ahead," which John McCormack produced for First National. The picture was directed by William A. Seiter with a supporting cast including Lillian Gish, Boyce Chapman, Charles Sollen, Virginia Sale and Diane Ellis. The story is by Edmund Goulding. Benjamin Glazer having prepared the scenario from which "Happiness Ahead" is drawn.

Tom Mix Picture Ending Run Tonight

A western photo-drama that has been playing to enthusiastic audiences at the Orpheum theatre, "The Arizona Wildcat," is nearing the end of its run and will have a final showing tonight. Tom Mix and his great horse, Tony, show that they can always create something new in the way of thrilling. The story was written especially for them by Adela Rogers St. Johns, author of many best sellers, Dorothy St. Johns and a fine cast support Tom. Others in the Mix cast are Ben Bard, Joey Fitzgerald, Dorothy St. Johns, Monte Collins, Marcelita Italy and Gordon Elliott.

BIBLE VERSES AND PRAYER

THE LAW OF THE LORD IS PERFECT—Whose keepeth the law is a wise son; but he that is a companion of fools hath no understanding. PRAYER: O Lord, we would make the law our duty, meditation and delight.

VIEWING WITH ALARM AND CONSTERNATION.

We are already beginning to hear the roar of the approaching tempest of eloquence which will mark the campaign, to-witness the lightning flash of determination from both the wets and the dries who are, quite evidently coming to grips in November.

Gentlemen of the campaign committee may cry peace, peace, but there will be no peace according to the faction leaders, until the question is decided by popular vote. And whatever parties and platforms may declare, in the public mind, the issue is now defined, with Hoover on the one side and Smith on the other. And the action will be taken along those lines.

We hear from the platform, vigorous attacks on the laws which tend to curtail that human liberty, that right of personal action which the makers of the Constitution sought to guarantee to the citizenry. Being themselves the last to claim that infallibility of rightness and consistent vision and appreciating perhaps that they might have overlooked something which would command subsequent attention, those early builders concluded their labors with the statement that

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited to it by the states, are reserved to the states respectively or to the people." Also evidently suspecting that the times might change, and new questions and new conditions arise, they made provision for amendments to the document which they had just prepared.

It is no lack of reverence for the remarkable work which they did to say that no law made by human minds under the conditions which prevailed in the world a century and a half ago, could cover the conditions which characterize the present day economic and governmental situation. The principles of government are still sound, and under them we can and will safely function. But the applications of these principles must vary to suit the condition.

Speakers tell us that the great underlying principle of human liberty, which made the Constitution the tremendously important thing that it was at the time it was written, is being assailed by present day laws, though not one of the laws, even the one which every speaker presumably has in mind in making that statement, the Eighteenth Amendment, could have been made in any manner other than by the will of the people as expressed through their elected representatives.

If the exercise of human liberty is to be construed as the right to act in a manner independent of the good of the social order, in accordance with personal convictions, then we shall have to take a long step back again to win that desired state of freedom. We shall have to abandon our stand for compulsory education, for sanitation and public health and most of the enactments for the public welfare.

We are told that we have too many laws, and orators affectionately hark back to the days of simplicity in government. Government was simple because living was a comparatively simple matter. As the complexities of life increase, laws will of necessity also increase, and the problem is not to make them less than are needful, but to enforce them in a manner that brings the results desired when they were enacted.

However, the present election may be decided, the country will owe a debt to Alfred Smith for taking a clean-cut personal stand on what the country believes to be the outstanding issue, regardless of political mandates, and for making it possible to decide at the polls whether or not the populace regards the Eighteenth Amendment as a pernicious infringement against personal liberty, or a beneficial measure to insure the general welfare of the country.

And no matter how often during the next few weeks we may have to witness the alarm and consternation awakened by our legal infringement of our own rights, we are going to vote for a return of licensed sale of intoxicants or for a continuance of the present law, according to our own personal convictions in the matter, formulated by our own experience rather than by the violent propaganda that is due to be loosed.

program that will give to one-third of the population the fair share of the nation's prosperity. Nor does this proposal put the government into business. It is a plan to put the nation upon a financial basis which will enable it to furnish the farmer to the extent of his own desire and to solve the problem of agriculture today which will arise in the future, to do so by using the human being as any group of human beings can determine in accordance with the laws of nature and not a vast and complicated industry over a term of years. The first step is to create an effective agency directly for these purposes and to give it authority and resources. There are many ways in which this can be done by the Republican party in a definite plan of relief. It needs only the demonstration of legislative and appropriations to put it into force.

During my term as Secretary of Commerce I have actually endeavored to build up a system of cooperation between the government and business. Under these cooperative efforts all elements interested in the problem of a particular industry such as manufacturers, distributors and consumers have been called into council together, not for a single occasion but for continuous work. The efforts have been successful beyond any expectation. They have been accomplished without interference of any kind by the government. We have secured progress in the industry, remedy for abuses, elimination of unfair practices, better production and distribution, lower prices to the consumer, and more stable employment.

The work of the government in this field varies with every different commodity and with every different part of the country. It is necessary to apply the same method to agriculture so that the leaders of every industry can determine their own program of policies and constructive measures. I am convinced that the form of action, as it has done in other fields, is to get the farmer, distributor and consumer.

Appropriation bills. The work of the government in agriculture constitutes the most important obligation of the next administration. Today we demand larger control and larger vision for our agriculture. The object of our policies is to establish for our farmers an income equal to that of the other professions and the farmer's wife the same comfort in her home as women in other professions for the farmer's wife the same opportunities in life as other boys and girls. So far as my own abilities may be of service, I dedicate them to the solution of this problem and contentment in that industry where I and my forefathers were born. I believe that my family will obtain their livelihood.

The Republican party has ever been the party of progress to all our people from competition with lower standards of living abroad. It has been the party of the highest and contentment in that industry where I and my forefathers were born. I believe that my family will obtain their livelihood.

improvement in industrial methods. The largeness of mind has contributed to the advance status of the nation. The whole of our people. They properly have sought to participate by additions to wages—in the result, improvements and savings which they have helped to make.

During these past years we have grown greatly in the natural understanding between employer and employee. We have seen a general realization by the employer that the best practicable wage in the road to increased production and prosperity and we have seen a growing realization by labor that the intelligent employer is not a foe but a friend. We have seen a real wage to lower production costs and in the end to higher real wages. Under these impulses and the Republican protective system our industrial output has increased as never before and our wages have grown steadily in buying power. Our workers with their average weekly wages today have two and one-half times more bread and butter than any earner of Europe. We have seen the development of our own resources and our own power. We have seen the development of our own resources and our own power.

The Republican platform gives the pledge of the party to the support of the principle of cooperation between the government and business. We stand also pledged to the establishment of executive departments in the labor department.

Develop Water Resources. The war and the necessary entrenchment of expenditure during the reconstruction years have superseded the construction of many needed public works. Moreover, the time has arrived when we must undertake a larger vision for our water resources. Every drop which runs to the sea without yielding its full economic service is a waste.

Nearly all of our greater drainages contain within their waters the possibilities of collective harnessing and freedom in irrigation, reclamation, domestic water supply, hydro-electric power, and other uses. The development of our water resources requires a definite national policy to be applied to the systematic coordination of these different water projects.

and of irrigation, else we shall as in the past century errors that will take years and millions of dollars to correct. Congress has authorized and has in process of legislation great programs of public works in addition to the work in development of water resources. We have in progress large construction of public buildings.

All these projects will probably require an expenditure of upward of one billion dollars within the next few years. It comprises the largest and most important program ever undertaken by any government. It involves three times the expenditure laid out in the growth, area and wealth of our country. The organization and administration of this construction is a responsibility of the first order for which we must secure the utmost economy, honesty and skill. CHAMPIONSHIP PRAISE GIVEN GOLDEN BEARS

California Crew, Chucks Coxswain Into Canal According to Tradition.

By United Press.—An undisturbed praise was given today to eight heavy California rowers and a lightweight but powerful young star who have been the leading members of the 1928 Olympic rowing championship at the United States. The rowers were Don Blomquist, coxswain, and his super coxswain, which brought the American crew across the finish line of the 100 meters course three-quarters of a boat length ahead of the English eight, sportsmen here said.

Pete Donlon, American stroke, also received a large share of the credit for the victory. When the American eight started, Donlon responded with marvelous precision.

The eight crew rowed was the last event on a program which included seven final contests. The United States was first, the second place, followed by Great Britain in pole, and the eight crew race became the deciding factor.

Then came the opening race between the University of California and the University of London, which eight of England. It was not until the 250 meters mark that the Americans were able to overtake their rivals and after that the race revolved close. After the final drive, which carried the American to the championship, the Golden Bears' coxswain, Don Blomquist, was cheerfully and respectfully but successfully checked their coxswain into the canal.

The official time was 5 minutes, 31.6 seconds.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

By United Press.—Yesterday's action in the National League was a dramatic one, which enabled the Philadelphia Athletics to keep within four and a half games of the leading New York Yankees.

Low Gehrig's 20th home run of the year, with Ruth and Gatzert on base, gave the New York Yankees three runs in the third inning and paved the way for their 5 to 2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

A ninth-inning rally by Cleveland was checked by the Detroit Tigers after five runs had been scored, although the Tigers led the Indians 8 to 1. The Indians were trailing, 8 to 2 when the inning opened.

The Chicago White Sox bunched hits in the first and eighth innings and defeated the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 3. The Browns' run came in one at a time in the fourth, fifth and eighth innings.

St. Louis downed the Pittsburgh Pirates in 12 innings, 2 to 1, tomorrow night. Four games and the National League. The Cardinals scored in the first, the Pirates in the second and the home runs were touched until the winning run was scored in the 12th.

Walter Lindstrom drove in five runs for the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Nationals again won in six innings, 4 to 0, as Lindstrom hit a home run for the first time with two men on base and his single won the game, 4 to 0.

Tunney Take Money Into Wall Street

By United Press.—NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Gene Tunney may take his millions dollars and go into Wall Street with him.

While no statement has come from the former heavyweight champion on plans for his career after his marriage to a socially prominent woman, Mrs. Mary Louisa Tunney, there were reports that Tunney had offered Tunney a job.

One offer was said to have come from the firm of C. M. P. Murphy and Company, brokers and financiers. The report lacked confirmation, but it was said Tunney may decide on his business connection before he sails next Thursday for Europe.

Twilight League Season Ends and Leaders Are Tied

The Twilight League baseball season ended Friday night when the Electricians routed the Trojans, 9 to 0. The Trojans never seriously threatened. The Electricians made six hits and a couple of walks. In the second frame they made three more runs from five hits. The Trojans got one hit in the last half of the opening cant. That was all.

Hedrick, who started behind the plate for the Trojans, went to first base in the third inning, after he had muffed a check one out. He had been trying to catch a hot one. Robertson took his place as catcher.

The season itself resulted in a tie between the Trojans and the Electricians. A final game will probably be played tomorrow night to decide the championship pennant winner of the year. This game has not definitely been decided, but it will probably be played Tuesday. A three game series between the two teams was considered, but as the Trojans have won the season, it was decided that one game would be sufficient.

Last night's scores: R. H. E. Electricians 9 9 0; Trojans 0 0 1. Batteries: Blumley and Helbeck; Coswell and Higbee, Robertson.

Forgery Is Found Not To Be Forgery

While hunting for his graduation when he was out of his local friends, Roy A. Parsons went to the bank here yesterday and was told that he was not a forger, although the bank had been notified that his explanation was a good one and charged against him were dismissed.

Parsons stated that he had had a check for $100 which had been cashed at a bank in Chicago. He said that his own mistake had led him to believe that the check was a forgery. He had been registered under the name of H. A. Parsons. The bank authorities had not connected the two names with the account. The matter has been investigated and the check has been returned.

Benefit Game To Be Played Here Sunday

The tucked Twin Falls baseball team is to play the Piler aggregation here Sunday afternoon at 2:30, according to announcement made by H. E. Blumley, manager. Tickets for the game have been under way with Piler for some time and the two teams are now ready to cross bats.

A charge will be made at the gates, the proceeds to be given to H. E. Blumley, whose leg was broken in two places while he was playing in a Twilight League game this week. The manager felt that it should be as much as possible toward paying the expense incurred by Mr. Wallace during his illness, but as sufficient funds are not in the possession of the league, the game tomorrow was scheduled.

WHEAT MAKES GAINS AFTER WEAK OPENING

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A late rush of short covering sent wheat slightly higher today on the Board of Trade after a weak opening.

Regular September showing a sharp loss, oats was up a fraction.

Wheat closed 3/4¢ higher, corn raised from 3 1/2¢ down to 3 1/2¢. Provisions were sharply higher.

Reaction topped and then went down at the opening and prices worked slightly lower, although wheat was not heavy. Short covering and commission house buying then added an advance. Receipts were 275 cars with a heavy market.

September corn was weak on scattered selling, but the deferred contracts showed strength after a decline. Cash corn was steady to 1/2¢ lower. Arrivals were 53 cars.

Commission houses were buyers of oats. Corn receipts continued favorable. Receipts were 216 cars with the cash market.

USE AIRPLANE TO HUNT FISH IN SHIZUOKU

Craft Will Locate Schools for Benefit of Japanese Anglers.

By United Press
 SHIZUOKA, Japan, Aug. 10.—The airplane has been called to the aid of Japanese fishermen.

Acting on the belief that if airplanes are valuable scouts in war they ought to be equally valuable as scouts to locate schools of fish, the Shizuoka Prefecture Marine Fisheries Commission has obtained from the government a big scout plane, and early in the morning of "White Dragon" to locate fish schools for fishermen in the vicinity of Hachijo Island.

The plane will patrol fishing grounds through the season in the schools of fishes, for the nets of the fishermen.

Being one of the important industries of Japan as fish form a very important part of the diet of some 80,000,000 Japanese and subject peoples, for centuries the fishing groups in villages all along Japan's extensive coast have utilized various schemes to locate schools of fish.

Power, and telescopes, usually on high promontories near the fishing grounds, are common. The fishermen, watching with patience with glasses throughout the day to detect the fishing fleets the location of fish schools. It is believed the airplane, however, will prove by far the most effective recent yet devised as it can cover large areas rapidly and spot the fish with a much greater degree of accuracy than any shore observation station.

Equal Number Of Boys and Girls Born During July

Eighteen infants were born in the Twin Falls district during the month of July, according to records on file at the office of Mr. H. S. Lott, vital registrar for the district. The sex ratio for the month was equal, eight boys and eight girls arriving during the month just passed.

One infant survived her parturition, selecting the Fourth of July as her birthday day, Vera Alice Andrews, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. George W. Andrews, was born Independence day.

Twin Falls led the list with nine births; Hanson and Piller had four, except place, with a record of three children each; and one birth each was recorded for Harzer, Hill and Kimberly.

ASKS ELECTORS' CONSIDERATION OF AMENDMENTS

W. D. Gillis Says Few Voters Know of the Proposed Amendments.

Voters of Idaho at a whole do not realize that at the November 6 election they will be called upon to vote upon eight amendments to the constitution of the state of Idaho, says W. D. Gillis of Piler, Sunday.

Mr. Gillis has served three terms at the legislature, he had two terms as speaker of the House. The most important of the amendments, he said, was that increasing the length of the terms of governor, lieutenant governor, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, justice of the peace, county clerk, county assessor, and county auditor, from, in many instances, to four year terms instead of the present two year terms.

This amendment has been given every favorable consideration by many of the political leaders of the state. It is thought that the terms of office have just been completed in conformity with the amendments, with the exception of the auditor, who has not yet been elected, and the treasurer, who has just been elected. The two year term does not seem to be the best and most efficient service, he is thought.

Among other amendments are those which would take the terms of the legislature from 25 new days to 30 per cent. Legislators maintain that they would hardly receive the expenses of the trip to the capital.

Two proposed amendments would allow state and county officials to receive their money monthly instead quarterly as is the system now in use. This amendment would not raise the pay of any but would increase the number of pay days.

Limiting of educational funds will also be a matter for consideration in the form of an amendment to the state constitution. The amendment would contain the fund for health funds.

An amendment "proposed" would affect the present system of the collection of taxes and provide what has been called by many as a better collection system.

Another amendment would regulate the control of unimproved lands for forestry purposes. Another amendment would make it possible for the legislature to fix the salaries of county officers. At present the salaries are fixed by the state.

July 20, Mr. and Mrs. John Leo Little, Piler, a son, Jack Leo.

LARGE AMOUNT CUT TIMBER IN PATHWAY FIRE

MISSOULA, Mont., Aug. 10.—Three hundred thousand feet of timber was cut and skidded and shipped into a crown fire, crossing the national track and dipping across Clark's fork of the Gallatin river.

One hundred men have been sent to the blaze and are working in cooperation with men from the lumber company and railroad crews. Forest fire fighters of the lumber company were moved to safety last in time to set them out of the road of the "swinging flame," forestry officials of the Lolo national forest have been sent to the fire, which is destroying merchantable timber. Sixteen fire engines are being set by railroad trains every day. T. A. Clark, assistant superintendent of the Lolo forest, stated this morning.

WINTER FORMALLY ANNOUNCES STORMS OF WEEK TAKE TOLL

Nominee Plainly States Policies He Would Follow

Magnificent Gathering in Stadium Stanford University at Palo Alto Hears Republican Choice for President of United States Make Known the Principles and Program Should He Be Chosen to Head This Government Next November.

STANFORD STADIUM, Palo Alto, Calif., Aug. 11.—A formal declaration for prohibition and a definite farm relief program were laid down by Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential candidate, in his acceptance speech delivered today in the vast football stadium of his alma mater.

Taking direct issue with Gov. Alfred E. Smith, his Democratic opponent, Hoover declared strongly against any modification of enforcement laws and promised, if elected president, to substitute a searching investigation to determine methods for correcting abuses.

The nominee took the position that strict change to prohibition must be a constitutional duty before they can tamper with the Volstead act. It is the position held by the most ardent drys like Senator Borah of Idaho and is directly opposed to the repeal of the Volstead act.

Hoover went even further than the platform of the party in accepting prohibition as the cause of battle for the presidential election. He was more definite regarding farm relief. He did not mention the modest reduction in the duty of the cotton.

Articulate Relief
"The wrinkle out of Agricultural Relief constitutes the most important obligation of the next administration," he said. "I stand pledged for this proposal."

Views on Immigration
He definitely declared the national origin clause of the immigration act and declared himself in favor of the present immigration law.

HERBERT HOOVER

High Lights Hoover's Acceptance Speech Republican Presidential Nominee

STANFORD STADIUM, PALO ALTO, CALIF., Aug. 11.—Following are some of the terse epigrams from the acceptance speech of Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential nominee.

"Our problems of the past seven years have been problems of reconstruction; our problems of the future are problems of construction."

"It shall be an honest campaign; every penny will be publicly accounted for. It shall be a true campaign. We shall use words only when meaning to be heard."

"The porch is vanishing from us."

"At one time we demanded for our workers a full dinner pail. Today we demand larger comfort and greater participation in life and leisure."

"The test of business is not its size—the test is whether there is honest competition, whether there is freedom from domination, whether there is integrity and usefulness of purpose."

"Government weakens the moment that its integrity is even doubted."

"There must be no place for cynicism in the creed of America."

THOUSANDS IN STADIUM WHEN MOSES SPEAKS

Chairman of Notification Committee Brief in His Address to Nominee.

STANFORD STADIUM, PALO ALTO, Calif., Aug. 11.—A united and enthusiastic Republican party gathering in the stadium under the leadership of Herbert Hoover will fill confidence of electors.

The notification committee were held in Stanford football stadium, packed with thousands of spectators from California and other Western States.

Your selection was made with unanimity never before seen when this great prize in our public life has been conferred," Senator Moses told the nominee.

In this regard the convention accurately reflected the desire of an overwhelming preponderance of Republicans who were not to be deterred in their purpose to commit our cause to your hands.

The convention which gave to you the nomination now officially presented, also formulated a declaration of principles which constitutes the chart of Republicanism for the next years.

What Platform Contains
"In our platform will be found a reiteration of those fundamental Republican policy which are traditional."

With changing conditions, our party always flexible and responsive to the expanding needs of the nation, we shall continue to uphold the Constitution and within the scope of sound economic law.

"In our platform will be found a reiteration of those fundamental Republican policy which are traditional."

"We have no hates; we wish no further possessions; we harbor no military threats."

"We have fewer men in army uniform today than we have in police uniforms."

"I want to see our government great both as an instrument and a symbol of the nation's greatness."

"We must direct economic progress in support of moral and spiritual progress."

"Our party platform deals mainly with economic problems, but our nation is not an agglomeration of railroads, of ships, of factories, of dynamo or statistics. It is a nation of men, of women, of children."

"Every man has the right to ask of us whether the United States is a better place for him, his wife and his children to live in, because the Republican party has conducted the government for nearly eight years."

"Every woman has the right to ask whether her life, her home, her man, her job, her hopes, her happiness, will be better, assured by the continuance of the Republican party in power."

WILLIAM HAINES AND ANITA PAGE in "TELLING THE WORLD"

Thousands of voters will participate in the political drama which is being presented by the company of those like you, who maintain purity of heart in association with organized parties actively.

"If this we know you will not seek treatment or desert or nullify any portion of your party's platform or any portion of the Constitution of the United States from which our platform springs.

"We know that your interpretation of fundamental principles in both the Constitution and platform will ring true.

Confidence That Is Real.

"The opposition confronts us with an assumed confidence. We stand in confidence that is real. It is possible to palliate pliant pretenses in procedure which is purely local.

"It is in the larger field of national affairs this may not be. The White House stands immune.

"If I were to say to you: 'When you occupy it, the people will know that it is safe keeping.'

"It is to do with no accident of politics that we come to offer you this distinction. The nomination of which we seek gives you first notice to us from an accumulation of esteem, loyalty and confidence which are the natural outgrowth of the service you have rendered."

Browning's Gossip

In his last London gossip Browning sent a note of news, which he called Edinburgh and Quarterly, after that pair of voracious magazines, Griggs, he said, are being given. They can only excite with their interest and when mischievous. He would admit, though, that the great and better offer. Occasionally thereon a duck dives awfully and brings up a trophy, a sawn sword gracefully to the point—Famous Thoreson, known in "One World More on Browning."

Colleen Moore Has Features That Are "Camera-Proof"

According to cameraman Sid Hickox, who photographed Miss Moore's recent visit to Twin Falls, she is a woman who opens at the Orpheum theatre tomorrow, she hasn't a single "bad angle." As a result, no matter from what angle the director wishes a scene filmed, Miss Moore will appear her best on the screen.

This is a valuable asset, for less fortunate players must make great care to avoid giving the camera certain views of their features, which makes sincere dramatic work much more difficult. Miss Moore, on the other hand, never gives the camera a thought, but concentrates on the scene in which she is working.

Edmund Lewis, plays opposite Miss Moore in "Happiness Ahead," which John McCracken produced for First National. The picture was directed by William A. Wellman with an imposing cast including Lilian Tashman, Elveth Chapman, Charles Selton, Virginia State and Blanche Ellis. The story is by Edmund Goulding, Benjamin Glazer having prepared the scenario from which "Happiness Ahead" is filmed.

YOUTH SHOT IN WET RAID MAY DIE OF WOUNDS

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Aug. 11.—Charles Smith, 16 year old Hardensburg, Ind. farm boy who was shot during a raid on his home by federal prohibition agents, was in a critical condition at a hospital here today. His recovery was declared doubtful.

Prohibition agents said the youth attempted to escape when he was ordered out of bed during a raid at which his father, a brother and two others were arrested. The youth, the agents said, ran against a shot sent him by Charles H. Lebert, prohibition agent, discharging the weapon. Those arrested were James Smith,

Ed. John Smith, 15; Turner Berlin, 16 and Mrs. Frances Lowman, 62, owner of the farm on which the raid was made.

The youth's arm was amputated. Attending physicians fear he may die from loss of blood and surgical shock.

W. O. Johnson, Indianapolis, Ind., who conducted the raid, recalled he had anticipated trouble at the farm home where a 500 gallon still and a quantity of moonshine and malt were confiscated.

Agents had received a threat that someone would be shot if a raid on the farm was attempted, they said.

BIBLE VERSES AND PRAYER

THE LAW OF THE LORD IS PERFECT. Whoso keepeth the law is a wise son; but he that is a companion of riotous men shall bring his father to ruin.—Prov. 28:7.

VIEWING WITH ALARM AND CONSTERNATION

We are already beginning to hear the roar of the approaching tempest of eloquence which will mark the campaign, to witness the lightning flash of determination from both the wets and the dries who are quite evidently coming to grips in November.

Gentlemen of the campaign committee may cry peace, peace, but there will be no peace, according to the factors leaders, until the question is decided by popular vote. Any whatever parties and platforms may declare, in the public mind, the issue is now defined, with Hoover on the one side and Smith on the other. And the action will be taken along those lines.

We hear from the platform, vigorous attacks on the laws which tend to curtail that human liberty, that right of personal action which the makers of the Constitution sought to guarantee to the citizenry. Being themselves the last to claim that infallibility of righteousness and omniscient vision and appreciating perhaps that they might have overlooked something which would command subsequent attention, those early birders concluded their labors with the statement that:

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited to it by the states, are reserved to the states respectively or to the people." Also evidence is suspecting that the times might change, and new questions and new conditions arise, they made provision for amendments to the document which they had just prepared.

It is no lack of reverence for the remarkable work which they did to say that no law made by human mind under the conditions which prevailed in the world a century and a half ago, could cover the conditions which characterize the present day economic and governmental situation. The principles of government are still sound, and under them we can abide safely and contentedly. But the applications of these principles must vary to suit the condition.

Speakers tell us that the great underlying principle of human liberty, which made the Constitution the tremendously important thing that it was a time it was written, is being assailed by present day laws, though not one of the laws, even the one which every speaker presumable has in mind in making that statement, the Eighteenth Amendment, could have been made in any manner other than by the will of the people as expressed through their elected representatives.

If the exercise of human liberty is to be construed the right to act in a manner independent of the good of the social order, in accordance with personal convictions, then we shall have to take a long step back again to win the desired state of freedom. We shall have to abandon our stand for compulsory education, for sanitation and public health and most of the enactments for the public welfare.

We are told that we have too many laws, and orator affectionately hark back to the days of simplicity in government. Government was simple because living was a comparatively simple matter. As the complexities of life increase, laws will of necessity also increase, and the problem is not to make them less than are needful, but to enforce them in a manner that brings the results desired when they were enacted.

However, the present election may be decided, this country will owe a debt to Alfred Smith for taking a clean cut personal stand on what the country believes to be the outstanding issue, regardless of political mandates, and for making it possible to decide at the polls whether or not the populace regards the Eighteenth Amendment as a pernicious infringement against personal liberty, or a beneficial measure to insure the general welfare of the country.

And no matter how often during the next few weeks we may have to witness the alarm and consternation awakened by our legal infringement of our own rights, we are going to vote for a return of licensed sale of intoxicants or for a continuance of the present law, according to our own personal convictions in the matter, formulated by our own experience rather than by the violent propaganda that is due to be loosed.

Even with temperatures around the 100 mark here in southern Idaho, compensating features are the delightfully cool nights when the mercury usually drops into the upper and lower fifties.

California Crew Checks Coxswain Into Canal, According to Tradition.

By United Press
AMSTERDAM, Aug. 11.—(Special prize was given today to eight heavy California college rowers in a preliminary but powerful luncheon dinner who borest them into bringing the 1928 Olympic championship to the United States.

It was Don Blesinger's exhortations and his super exhortations which brought the American crew across the finish line of the 2,000 meters course three-quarters of a boat length ahead of the English eight, sportsmen have agreed.

Pete Donlan, American stroke, also received a large share of the credit for the victory. When Blesinger called for a sport, Donlan responded with marvelous precision.

The eight oared battle was the final event on a program which included seven final contests. The United States, with a first, two seconds and one third place, held a narrow lead over Great Britain in nine and the eight oared race became the deciding factor.

Then came the deciding race between the University of California crew and the Thames Rowing club of England. It was the 500 meters mark that the Americans were able to overtake their rivals and after that the race portion carried the Americans in the championship.

The Golden Bears' victory was not only a triumph according to tradition, checked their coxswain into the canal. The official time was 6 minutes, 14 seconds.

USE AIRPLANE TO HUNT FISH IN SHIZUOKU

Craft Will Locate Schools for Benefit of Japanese Anglers.

By United Press
SHIZUOKU, Japan, Aug. 10.—The airplane has been called to the aid of Japanese fishermen.

Acting on the belief that it all planes are "fish-hunters" for they ought to be equally valuable as scouts to locate schools of fish, the Shizuoka Prefecture Marine Fisheries Association has obtained from the government a big scout plane, especially adapted for the purpose, or "White Dragon," to locate fish schools for fishermen in the vicinity of Harbin Island.

The plane will patrol fishing grounds through the basin, locating schools of fishes for the nets of the fishermen.

During the month of July a very important part of the diet of some 20,000,000 Japanese and subject peoples. For centuries the fishing grounds in villages of all the Japanese islands consist of the fish without previous science to locate schools of fish.

Towers and telescopes, usually on high mountains, are used to locate schools of fish.

Watchmen sitting patiently with glasses throughout the day to detect the fishing boats the location of fish schools. It is believed the airplane, however, will prove by far the most effective means yet devised as it can cover large areas rapidly and "hunt" the fish with a much greater degree of accuracy than any other observation station.
