RADIO CALLS PICKED UP BY TWO AMATEURS SAY HASSELL IS DOWN OFF NEWFOUNDLAND

Definite Messages From Hassell And Cramer Indicate Location of Greater Rockford Airplane but Authorities Are Puzzled Over Dispatches From Greenland Which Definitely State Fliers Were Seen Passing Along Greenland Last Sunday Afternoon.

SHROUDED IN COMPLETE MYSTERY.

The fate of the Greater Rockford, missing on a flight to Greenland, was uncertain today.

Well authenticated advices from the governor of Greenland reported that the plane almost beyond doubt the Greater Rockford had been seen flying over the western coast of Greenland on Sunday morning.

The search for the fliers was complicated by mysterious radio messages picked up by amateur operators in widely separated parts of this country, purporting to be from the Greater Rockford, saying the plane was on an island north of Newfoundland.

Since the location of the supposed island is more than 1,000 miles from where the plane was reported seen over Greenland of Sunday, the discrepancy was obvious. It appeared that either the plane seen over Greenland was not that of Hassell and Cramer, or that some "wild cat" radio station was attempting a cruel hoax of the public and the anxious relatives of the fliers.

Two amateur operators in Brooklyn, N. Y., one in Toledo, Ohio and one in Chicago reported picking up the message last night. The Toledo amateur and one of the Brooklyn amateurs reported that the message they picked up asked that the receiver "communicate with the United Press."

A remote possibility was that both reports could be true and that Hassell and Cramer, after finding their way to Greenland, thought they were off their course and over Newfoundland, coming down on an island off the coast. It was pointed out that such a mistake was extremely unlikely for an experienced pilot.

Another discrepancy was the fact that Cramer, who was handling the Greater Rockford's radio, was not experienced enough to handle the radio system by which he had been sending letters to designate the plane's position from time to time. The messages picked up last night were fairly long, and the receivers reported sent with fair skill.

The amateurs also reported receiving the messages on varying wave lengths. The Toledo man reported his message up on 42 meters, while a Brooklyn operator got it on 23 meters. The Greater Rockford's wave length was 32.8 meters.

Down on Small Island

TOLUCA, Mex., Aug. 21.—Joseph E. Williams, an amateur radio operator today advised the United Press he had been in communication with a radio station that seemed like KHAM and the sender reported that the Greater Rockford was down on a small island 100 miles north of Newfoundland.

Williams said he first intercepted a radio S O S on a wave length of 23 meters and immediately established direct contact and talked with the sender.

The sender reported in the general S O S that they were down about 100 miles north of Newfoundland, later according to Williams said they believed the island was 100 miles north of Newfoundland.

Another S O S was received. BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 21.—William Redfern, amateur radio operator, was today in communication with the Greater Rockford at 12:45 a. m. along with the call letter of the airplane Greater Rockford. The United Press was notified that the Greater Rockford to Sweden plane had landed on an island 100 miles north of Newfoundland.

STILL ANOTHER MESSAGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—The radio messages purporting to come from the Greater Rockford were intercepted today by an amateur operator, William Redfern, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who said the message came in weakly and was sent hastily, although the sender was referring to a code book as he went along. The message was the same as the one from an island 100 miles north of Newfoundland, and asked that aid be sent immediately. The sender was using a "D" battery.

Valuation Accepted By State Committee

S. Clard Stewart, county assessor, was called upon to defend tax assessments placed on the meeting of the State Board of Equalization Boise during the past few days, he stated, but the assessments seemed to have been unobjectionable.

Mr. Stewart said that his suggestion to the board was the valuation of $48,000 a mile on the Oregon Short Line property should be reduced to $40,000 a mile. This has been the same for many years with the earnings now being less than in years past. The assessor for the Short Line did not object, providing the valuation of other sections was made to compare.

The valuation placed on Irivick lands in this county was also reduced before the board. Several changes in classification were also discussed.

Figures from the State auditor's office show the reported valuation of Twin Falls county property of $22,805,292, which is a gain of $465,131 over last year's value. There was a slight decrease in the value of livestock and personal property.

The valuation of land in this county per acre was shown to be $55.60. Other counties vary in the valuation, the highest being in Nez Perce county, where the valuation is $100 per acre.

Daniels has since declared for Smith, though opposing the nonpledge resolution stand.

GROWTH OF AIR MAIL INDICATES WHAT IS GOING TO HAPPEN.

It may not be a wild prediction to assert that within two or three years practically every ounce of first class mail will be carried by airplanes instead of railway mail cars.

The railway service is entirely too slow to meet the needs of modern business.

Significant of the change in mail transportation methods is the announcement which comes from Washington that since the reduction of airmail postage on the first of this month to five cents for the first ounce, airmail business has increased almost fifty per cent.

As further indicating the extent of this growth it need only be mentioned that the firm which has the contract for carrying mail between Chicago and San Francisco has made arrangements for the operation for airplanes capable of carrying eighteen hundred pounds of mail on each trip.

Passengers will not be carried in these planes but will be accommodated in specially built machines that will transport in comfort twelve people.

Interesting statistics are forthcoming this week from San Francisco. The post office in that city has been sending eastward considerably more than six hundred pounds of mail each day and this does not take into account the mail intended for the southern route to Los Angeles and to the northern route to Vancouver, British Columbia. The former is turning around two hundred pounds a day and the latter more than one hundred.

Between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City it has been found necessary to add airplanes exclusively for passengers, thereby making it possible for the planes now in use for both passengers and mail, to handle a much greater volume of mail matter. It is officially said that there is now being transported close to nine hundred pounds of mail over this route every day of the week.

This leaves out of consideration any regard for package mail. Inevitably this situation too will be met for it is not reasonable to suppose that human initiative is going to stop with the handling of first class mail. In all probability we have little dream of what the next decade will bring to pass in aerial transportation.

GIVING THE PUBLIC ACCURATE INFORMATION ABOUT OUR HIGHWAYS.

The Idaho State Automobile Association is to be commended for issuing a weekly bulletin covering the condition of principal highways throughout the State. The Times has endeavored from week to week to reproduce the information given because it is of interest to local people and particularly to those who for business or pleasure may be planning trips here and there throughout Idaho.

In the recent issue of this bulletin appears reference to the Sawtooth highway and under that heading appears this sentence: "Twin Falls to Shoshone, good."

Two ladies who arrived in town last night on the return journey of a tour that has taken them from the Atlantic seaguard across the continent to San Diego, along the Pacific coast to Seattle, and now eastward from Seattle back again across the country, made the statement that the bit of highway from Jerome to the Jerome-Twin Falls bridge is positively the most abominable bit of road that they encountered on their entire trip.

We submit that this is great advertising for Idaho and Twin Falls. This may trample on somebody's toes and we do not pity. We do not know who is responsible and we hope it will be particularly care but we are glad to interject a note of protest over this condition and to make an appeal to somebody in authority to promptly and thoroughly correct an evil that is doing a great deal of damage to this section of the State.

And we most respectfully urge the Idaho Automobile Association to amend its weekly report to read as follows: "Twin Falls to Shoshone by the way of Jerome, about the worst piece of highway on the North American continent."

THOMPSON HOWL-UP

The tremendous power of William "Big Boy" Thompson, mayor of Chicago, is manifest in his recent announcement that it seemed impetuous, the April republican primaries dealt it a blow which it is impossible to over-estimate. Followed the actual job advertisements of the terror on the primary campaign and on primary election day, the Chicago Tribune had a very interesting story on the Thompson howl-up.

THE HEROISM

For heroism in the face of an overwhelming catastrophe, comment is made of Paul Wittgenstein, a young pianist who lost an arm in the field of battle. A severe case of this sort over European musical circles was played a youth and naturally deprived of the results of years of artistic labor. For him it was truly a living death, this extinction of all his professional ambitions.

FRANCE PLEADS POVERTY, BUT

The Paris correspondent of the Associated Press says that the armament industry discloses that the naval program designed to give France a powerful, modern fleet will be completed this year by the construction of three Drottin-class cruisers, 12 flotilla leaders, eight destroyers, 28 submarines and other craft. The flotilla leaders of the destroyers type are the largest afloat. Last year have proved by tests to be the largest ships of their size in the world.

Kings of Living A grand and high-stepping monarch was old Louis XIV.—they still talk about him, back in his own home town. Nothing was too good for Louis—in fact, the best wasn't quite good enough. Yet his magnificent palace had neither gas nor electricity and there wasn't a tiled shower-bath in the place. Today the average American citizen enjoys conveniences and comforts exceeding Louis XIV's most extravagant dreams. And many things which we regard as absolute necessities would have seemed the most elegant luxuries to Louis. Advertising has made possible this widespread distribution of the good things of life. Advertising has made possible large-scale production and large-scale selling, resulting in prices that take luxuries out of the "for-kings-only" class. It is well worth your while to read the advertisements. They are largely responsible for the high standard of living enjoyed in this country today. And they are raising it daily, making us kings of comfort—kings for Louis to envy. Read the advertisements—they help you to enjoy life.

The Greatest of Them All is Through

By HARRY FERGUSON
United States—Miami Correspondent
 It is not Devereux Milburn's fault that he is not a national athletic hero. He is an colorful as Ruth, packed as much muscle as Hammer, and moves with all the grace of a ballet dancer. The reason that Milburn is not better known is that he happens to be a polo player instead of a baseball player or a boxer.

Polo is a popular game in some sections of the country and an unknown sport in others. No other athletic event calls for as much elaborate preparation. Strings of ponies must be maintained; large fields must be provided and players are forced to practice incessantly to perfect themselves in the game. It is not without reason that polo is known as the "gentleman's game" when two finished teams face each other the spectator is going to see accurate, clever and the greatest back who ever grasped a mallet. For a decade he has been the best player in the history of the game.

This is Milburn's belief. Horsemanship is the great follower of the world over when the word used recently that Milburn has decided to retire from international play. Everyone realized he was reaching an age at which polo players are considered "old" and that the impression had got around that Milburn would not be in the saddle when he was 30 years old.

He is the greatest center of the polo field, a powerful man who seems to be made of iron. He is a horseman across the field, to block off the best shots of the best players that foreign nations can send to the

Julie Says--

A FAVORITE for town wear this fall will be the cloth dress, usually made up in coat style or in very tailored lines. This is a particularly youthful model, a bit more juvenile and feminine than usually seen when fall comes on the new frocks. It is of black ray, and has a bolero, which gives the effect of a jacket, and a circular skirt. The collar and cuffs are of white motté and the top of black velvet.

Today's Market and Financial News

MORE THAN MILLION SHARES SOLD IN FIRST HOUR TODAY'S SESSION

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—An unexpected decrease of $25,000,000 in brokerage loans caused a sensational decline in the stock market today, sending dozens of issues soaring to new high points in the business-lidled transactions since the June break. Several sales including 10,000 shares were recorded, and sales ranged to 11 points.

Sales in the first hour were at the rate of more than 5,000,000 for a 30-minute session, totaling 1,024,100 shares against 728,000 shares for the first 30 minutes yesterday.

The cream of the bid made substantial advances, including the auto stock, which advanced 10 points on the market's trading since the June break. A reduction of $25,000,000 in brokerage loans, which had been expected, was the primary cause of the decline.

Monday's upward made the most emotional statement of the day, being a new peak at 213, up 10 1/2 points, and leading most of the day. New highs were made by American Smelting at 23 1/2, up 10 1/2; American Cyanamid at 47 1/2, up 10 1/2; and American Lumber at 10 1/2, up 10 1/2.

Wide gains also were made by Adams Express, Curtiss Aero, Wright Aero, General Electric, and several other stocks and several bonds.

Chicago and New York Central, the two general freight lines, were led by Atlantic leading white sugar, the nearly 6 points.

The market closed irregularly.

PROHIBITION DETERMINING FACTOR CAMPAIGN BELIEF EXPERT WRITERS

Editor's Note—Following is the first of a series of articles dealing with the issues of the prohibition campaign as viewed by the two principal candidates, and others. They are intended to be impartial. Today's controversy...

By PAUL FREDERICK. (United Press Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—The Democratic candidate for the Republican will win the presidency of the United States on November 4 because of his stand on prohibition, a question that knows no party lines.

Although both nominees make promises on other issues, the Republican is more traditionally partisan, their contrasting statements on the dry law will hold their political observers to be the determining factor in the campaign.

Smith for State Control. Hoover does not favor the repeal of the 18th amendment. Smith says he favors neither the amendment or the Volstead law as they now stand.

His Silence is Golden. Clayton, Mo.—With the aid of 500 cards and two speeches, one in which he introduced himself and the other in which he only said, "Silence is golden," James G. Cox, chief of work, won the Democratic nomination for treasurer of St. Louis county.

ALBANIA WILL SOON RETURN TO MONARCHY

Constitutional Assembly to Be Held Saturday Is Expected to Abolish Republic and Proclaim President Achmed Zogu King; Crown Him December 24.

(Copyright 1923 by United Press)
BELGRADE, Aug. 24.—(Rebelle press.)—The Albanian government today announced that it would recognize Achmed Zogu as king of Albania. There had been serious doubts that this recognition would be forthcoming inasmuch as Achmed Zogu had been considered more as "friendly to Italy."

LONDON, Aug. 24.—The Albanians of the most ancient nation in Europe are to be ruled by a king instead of a president.

After centuries of Turkish rule Albania gained its independence before the World War and recently experimented with a republican form of government, introduced directly after that of the United States.

It did not quit them. On Saturday a constitutional assembly will meet at Tirana, the capital, before it opens it will proclaim President Achmed Zogu king.

Back of the decision of this week increasing and little known race of people live a history both fascinating and heroic. Zogu, still only 32 years old, is called the "savior of the people."

Is Small Country. Albania is a little country, about half the size of the State of Indiana, lying on the eastern shore of the Adriatic. It has a population of perhaps 1,000,000 to 1,500,000.

The arrival of the Albanians in the Balkan peninsula is attributed in the main to history.

They emerged in medieval times as the subjects of the Turks. Yet they never were really subdued, though they lost their independence only for two brief periods.

The character of the people, heroic and their independence only for two brief periods. The character of the people, heroic and their independence only for two brief periods.

Until the World War, nearly all of the Albanians were nomads, and their country and even today Albania is little traveled.

Under the leadership of Ismail Qemal, a brilliant and warlike people, the founding of the Albanian state was proclaimed in 1912. The European powers established for them a republic, but in 1914, when the World War broke out, the Albanians were divided into two camps, one for Italy and the other for the United States.

CONGRESSMAN ADDISON T. SMITH GIVES IMPRESSION OF SPEECH

Washington Gives Curtis Glad Hand

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Charles Curtis, republican vice-presidential nominee, was greeted by more than 100,000 enthusiastic friends when he landed at the Union Station here Tuesday day from his home in Topeka, Kan.

After a short visit in the capital, Curtis will launch his western campaign with a speech at Rocky Point, N. I.

With Curtis when he alighted from his train were six Indians in native costume. They introduced himself to part Kaw Indian.

The unofficial welcoming committee was held by Curtis at the station for several minutes, pressing in upon him to shake his hand and offer congratulations.

Chief of the crowd, he left the station with his Indian escort without revealing his destination, but he was reported to be en route to his office in the Senate building.

LEAGUE PLANS FINAL TOUCHES WORLD PEACE

By United Press
GENEVA, Aug. 24.—The final touches of the League of Nations treaty, experts in putting the final touch on the problem of world security.

League members firmly admit that the Kellogg treaty will constitute the greatest step yet taken, with the possible exception of League, toward solving the problem of security that has to date been the greatest obstacle in any progress toward disarmament.

In the event, however, various nations still feel their security is not sufficiently assured by the Kellogg treaty, the September assembly of the League will be prepared to put into effect a complete program that should overcome all objections to a disarmament conference.

At the League assembly will have at its disposal the complete program as prepared during the past year by the League of Nations, under the direction of Zorin-Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia.

This committee of a dozen neutral industrial and multilateral treaties covering the pacific settlement of all disputes, arbitration, conciliation, non-aggression and mutual assistance. They are based for the greater part on the principles and systems established by the Locarno treaties.

The assembly is expected to give its final sanction to these model treaties among all states that feel they still have need of additional safeguards of security.

Milk Test Shows Variations Among Dairies of the City

The August milk test for Twin Falls shows a varying bacteria content of the milk from the various dairies. The best record was that of the Dairy Stores for pasteurized milk, where the bacteria count numbered 1200 per cubic centimeter. The largest amount of bacteria found totaled 25000 in the cubic centimeter.

The average of the milk analyzed for the past three samples taken are given below. The samples were taken by Dr. M. G. Groves and were analyzed by Homer Saxon.

GROWTH OF AIR MAIL INDICATES WHAT IS GOING TO HAPPEN.

It may not be a wild prediction to assert that within two or three years practically every ounce of first class mail will be carried by airplanes instead of railway mail cars.

The railway service is entirely too slow to meet the needs of modern business.

Significant of the change in mail transportation methods is the announcement which comes from Washington that since the reduction of airmail postage on the first of this month to five cents for the first ounce, airmail business has increased almost fifty per cent. Frankly we believe that the railroads should be given permission to substitute air planes for mail-carrying coaches because loss of this source of revenue to the rail lines will become very serious within a short length of time.

As further indicating the extent of this growth it need only be mentioned that the firm which has the contract for carrying mail between Chicago and San Francisco has made arrangements for the operation for airplanes capable of carrying eighteen hundred pounds of mail on each trip. Passengers will not be carried in these planes but will be accommodated in specially built machines that will transport in comfort twelve people.

Interesting statistics are forthcoming this week from San Francisco. The post office in that city has been sending eastward considerably more than six hundred pounds of mail each day and this does not take into account the mail intended for the southern route to Los Angeles and to the northern route to Vancouver, British Columbia. The former is running around two hundred pounds a day and the latter more than one hundred.

Between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City it has been found necessary to add airplanes exclusively for passengers, thereby making it possible for the planes now in use for both passengers and mail, to handle a much greater volume of mail matter. It is officially said that there is now being transported close to one hundred pounds of mail over this route every day of the week.

This leaves out of consideration any regard for package mail. Inevitably this situation too will be met for it is not reasonable to suppose that human initiative is going to stop with the handling only of first class mail. In all probability we little dream of what the next decade will bring to pass in aerial transportation.

GIVING THE PUBLIC ACCURATE INFORMATION ABOUT OUR HIGHWAYS.

The Idaho State Automobile Association is to be commended for issuing a weekly bulletin covering the condition of principal highways throughout the State. The Times has endeavored from week to week to reproduce the information given, because it is of interest to local people and particularly to those who for business or pleasure may be planning trips here and there throughout Idaho.

In the recent issue of this bulletin appears reference to the Sawtooth highway and under that heading appears this sentence: "Twin Falls to Shoshone, good."

Two ladies who arrived in town last night on the return journey of a tour that has taken them from the Atlantic seaboard across the continent to San Diego, along the Pacific coast to Seattle, and now eastward from Seattle back again across the country, made the statement that the bit of highway from Jerome to the Jerome-Twin Falls bridge is positively the most abominable bit of road that they encountered on their entire trip.

We submit that this is great advertising for Idaho and Twin Falls. This may trample on somebody's toes and we hope it will. We do not know who is responsible and we do not particularly care but we are glad to interject a note of protest over this condition and to make an appeal to somebody in authority to promptly and thoroughly correct an evil that is doing a great deal of damage to this section of the State.

And we most respectfully urge the Idaho Automobile Association to amend its weekly report to read as follows: "Twin Falls to Shoshone by way of Jerome, about the worst piece of highway on the North American continent."

Other Viewpoints

THOMPSON BLOW-UP
(Chicago State Journal)
The tremendous power of William Keith Thompson, master of explosives, is crumblike dust. At a moment when it seemed impracticable, the April 29th explosion primed a bomb in a town which it suggested to the coroner. Followed the grand jury investigation of the terrorism of the primary campaign and of primary election day, disclosures by that body have made it plain that the Thompson organization had the police implicated up to their necks. The Chicago Tribune has been investigating in its condition has been in circulation.

The mayor has been pick and chosen in circulation. Now Charlie Fitzgarris, who has now a place to him as any man in the city, Chicago and the city treasury has a deficit of five million dollars. It is not clear how he came to the devolving volves in the city offices who have been exceeding their credit in his office. He is not in charge, and he refused to be held responsible for what may happen. The city government has not been in such a state of demoralization and decay, the factious consequences of placing in office such a crew as Thompson headed and committed a community to such a policy of lawlessness as they impermanently.

TRUE HEROISM

(The Nation)
For heroism in the face of an overwhelming catastrophe command us to Paul Wittgenstein, drawn into the maelstrom of the World War, this rising young pianist lost an arm on the field of battle. A wave of sympathy swept over European musical circles—so gifted a youth and so suddenly bereft of the means of earning his living. For him it was actually a living death, his extinction of all his professional ambitions. But Paul Wittgenstein was not one to accept defeat even when his losses seemed irretrievable. He determined to go on with his music despite his mutilation. He first sought the first place, he found a number of compositions written for the left hand only. In the summer of 1917 he was seen, heeding Richard Strauss, on hearing of his plan wrote for him and dedicated their compositions to him. Chicago and San Francisco called to him and leaders of orchestras engaged him to play with them, not because he was a great and beautiful player as a war hero but because of his superb artistic achievements.

So it is that twenty-two years after the catastrophe, Paul Wittgenstein will make his American debut with the new Beethoven-Strauss orchestra in New York next winter, playing in New Stadium concert. "Something new" which we had to read of other than his name. We believe that the American public will be proud to give Mr. Wittgenstein the warm reception his fortitude and ability entitle him to receive.

FRANCE PLEADS POVERTY, BUT BUILDS A HUGE NAVY

(Spokane Spokesman-Review)
The Paris correspondence of the Associated Press reports that the French military department, that the naval program, modern fleet, will be augmented this year by the construction of three battleship cruisers, 12 destroyers, eight destroyers, 29 submarines and other craft. The fleet leaders of the destroyers type are the largest afloat. Two new cruisers built by France last year have proved by tests to be the fastest ships of their size in the world.

France pleads poverty, practically renounces its right to be the United States, and sends hundreds of millions of dollars on military equipment. It pleads that it hasn't the ability even to pay the United States for the money it borrowed after the war was over, money that it took from the United States to restore its industry and build up a navy and subsidize the military establishments of Poland and some other French allies of central Europe.

France—the only fact can not be explained away—is trying to repudiate its obligation to the United States, and France, he is remembered, refused to come into the armaments limitation conference at Geneva last year, called by the United States.

WOTENWANNING COMES FIRST

(Kansas City Post)
We do wish political leaders would frankly discuss the question of admitting polls calculated to win votes. Such conduct makes it appear that our leaders take political success into consideration instead of concerning themselves solely with high ideals. We have long thought the other party would stand to this, but we have believed that our party was actuated by high motives and that the leaders would give no thought to such a thing as securing votes. Now we would like it if it can be possible that both parties actually allow themselves to be influenced by what voters in this or that section may think of a certain issue. It really is beginning to look as if our party thinks twice of victory to where it thinks, one of exact votes are half a nation. We are sure that the campaign without falling out with any of our neighbors who are on the other side.

Kings of Living

A grand and high-stepping monarch was old Louis XIV—they still talk about him back in his own home town. Nothing was too good for Louis—in fact, the best wasn't quite good enough.

Yet his magnificent palace had neither gas nor electricity and there wasn't a tiled shower-bath in the place.

Today the average American citizen enjoys conveniences and comforts exceeding Louis XIV's most extravagant dreams. And many things which we regard as absolute necessities would have seemed the most elegant luxuries to Louis.

Advertising has made possible this widespread distribution of the good things of life. Advertising has made possible large-scale production and large-scale selling, resulting in prices that take luxuries out of the "for-kings-only" class.

It is well worth your while to read the advertisements. They are largely responsible for the high standard of living enjoyed in this country today. And they are raising it daily, making us kings of comfort—kings for Louis to envy.

Read the advertisements—they help you to enjoy life.

PROHIBITION DETERMINING FACTOR CAMPAIGN BELIEF EXPERT WRITERS

Editor's Note: Following is the text of a series of articles dealing with the issue of the present denial campaign as viewed by the two principal candidates, and others. They are intended to be nonpartisan. Today's concern prohibition.

By PAUL FREDERIX,
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—The Democratic candidate, or the Republican who will win the presidency of the United States on November 6 because of his stand on prohibition, a question that knows no party lines.

Although both nominees make promises of the future, none of them traditionally partisan, their contrasting statements on dry laws hold likely by political observers to become the determining factor in the campaign.

The matter is one calculated to stir the hottest fight in the industrial East, chief battleground of the campaign.

It is believed that the States by his utterances are most likely to win a large vote of it from the East, and the Republican will have a better chance for election than any Democratic since Woodrow Wilson.

The cleavage between the two men is so great that thousands of voters in both party lines to support Smith or Hoover. Many dry Democrats already have bolted from Smith in the South.

Smith for Male Control

Hoover's "Anti-Saloon" reputation is the main reason for his support. Smith says he favors neither the amendment or the Volstead law as they now stand. He favors the Volstead law to give a "scientific" definition of intoxicants and let each State establish its own alcohol limit. He would amend the 18th amendment so that each State, by popular vote, might make or cause to be made any alcoholic beverage, sale to be by the State and not for consumption in any public place.

Foltin Tries To Escape His Jailor

By United Press
SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 24.—Frank Foltin of Texas cut across the chest of the man he imprisoned.

Overcome by fear of the hangman's noose and the greater fear of the specter that had haunted him for five long months, the 22-year-old youth from Houston yesterday attempted to escape his jailer.

When, however, he saw the "devil's" reason behind a direct one of the trigger, he stopped, collapsed and started whimpering.

"God, I might as well die here as in the cell," he yelled. "They'll kill me just the same."

Tuesday night Foltin walked into a jail cell in Seattle and was ordered a man in Houston, Texas, to die.

"I don't want to die," he said, "but I don't want to live in the cell."

The suit charges that Clark promised to pay $50,000 in four installments if an additional $100,000 was made available to the university. The suit declares that Clark refused to meet the payments and has since fled to the State.

Verdant Pastures of Western National Forests Lure Millions of Sheep From Valley Ranches

When the snow has disappeared from the mountain sides and Spring brings tender shoots of grass, the great herds of sheep from the valley ranches of the West begin to migrate to the verdant pastures of the national forests.

Idaho is one of the States where the migration is most noticeable. In the Payette forest in particular the sheep are numerous. It is estimated that over 1,000,000 head of sheep are in the forest at this time.

The migration is a seasonal one, and the sheep are driven across the Deadwood river.

SENATOR BORAH MAY OPEN RALLY

Letter From Senator States He Would Like to Be Here If Possible.

If claims of the Republican national committee will permit, Senator William E. Borah will open the Republican campaign in southern Idaho with a talk at a rally here soon, according to a letter received from him.

The Republican national convention voted to invite Senator Borah here and the invitation was accepted by him by about 100 delegates at Boise. The letter states:

"John Graham, Twin Falls, Idaho, my dear Graham:

"I have your letter handed to me by Slim."

"I am leaving for the north tomorrow afternoon and my plans are unchangeable. If I could get to Twin Falls, I should like to see you on my return south. But the probability is that I shall have to go east before I can get to Idaho on my return south. It all depends upon the insistence of the national committee. At any rate, I will do my best to get between the 27th and the 1st. I would have to be at a later date."

"I am sure that you will write or wire me."

Very sincerely,
W. E. BORAH

BANDIT HOLDS UP HOME AND KIDNAPS GIRL

By United Press
LOS-ANGELES, Aug. 24.—Brought from under the eye of her parent in her Detroit home Aug. 10, Elizabeth Daulton, 15, was kidnaped by a bandit, subjected to numerous attacks and finally released by her kidnaper here today, according to her father.

According to the girl, her captor took her from her home "BIRCH" and hid her up and robbed her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James Daulton, 2600 Springdale, Detroit.

The bandit first took Elizabeth to Daulton and then, preparing to leave, said "I guess I'll take the girl home."

She then began a cross-country trip in the bandit's automobile. The girl said he kept control over her by constantly threatening her with death.

"I was afraid to yell or cry, but when the girl told police, 'I did just what he told me to do, he attacked me several times."

According to the girl, they arrived in Los Angeles last night and drove around the streets until early morning. The bandit stopped at a railway station and told the girl to go inside and wait for him. He then drove away.

She described her kidnaper as an American, about 30 years old. She said his name was "Mike."

The girl was taken to juvenile hall and Detroit police were notified.

DETROIT, Aug. 24.—Juvenile authorities here were strongly inclined to doubt the story of 15-year-old Elizabeth Daulton who told Los Angeles police she had been kidnaped from her home and carried to Los Angeles.

The girl was returned to her parents three weeks ago after an attempt to run away from home and she appeared again on the night of August 11. A note, supposedly signed by the girl, explained that she had taken $150 with her.

Several discrepancies in the girl's story were noted by juvenile authorities.

It will be the City of New York; the first craft of Commander Richard E. Byrd's South Polar expedition to get under way for the two-year scientific study of the "last of the world."

SEES NO RAY OF LIGHT IN SMITH'S PROPOSALS

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—Governor Smith's position on prohibition offers no possible hope of eliminating the drink habit or the liquor habit, said Stuart Melville, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League in a statement last night.

Melville charged Smith's proposals were "simply those of the Association against Prohibition." He said Smith's proposals to enforce the dry law if elected president is "a sorry unprincipled effort of his failure to enforce prohibition in New York."
