BIBLE VERSES AND PRAYER

THE SACRED PEACE—Keep thy foot when thou goest to the house of God, and be more ready to hear, than to give; for the sacrifice of fools, for they consider not that they do evil. Ecc. 5:1
PRAYER—May we ever worship Thee, Lord, in the beauty of holiness.

THE GREATEST STEP YET TOWARD WORLD PEACE

All nations today hail with glad hearts the signing in Paris Monday of a multilateral treaty renouncing war as an instrument of policy.

This treaty is the work of Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State in the United States government and is widely known as the Kellogg peace pact. The signature of Secretary Kellogg on behalf of the government of the United States; was followed by representatives of the "Great Powers" of the Old World, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Japan; by three of the smaller European powers involved in the Locarno treaties, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Belgium and by the British Dominions, Canada, Australia, the Union of South Africa, the Irish Free State and New Zealand.

The next step is ratification by all these governments interested, a step that is practically assured as a foreign conclusion.

Perhaps there never was a treaty quite so simple, so brief and so plain as this agreement to outlaw war. There are only two essential clauses:

Article 1. The high contracting parties solemnly declare, in the name of their respective peoples, that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies and renounce it as an instrument of international policy in their relations with one another.

Article 2. The high contracting parties agree that the settlement of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or whatever origin they may be, which may arise between them, shall never be sought except by pacific means.

That is the meat of the whole matter; agreeing to the proposals are all the potential elements of trouble in war weary world with the one exception of Russia and it is said that Germany has practically been assured that the Soviet government is in thorough accord with the aims and purposes of the Kellogg pact.

The history of the present achievement is interesting. On April 6, 1927, the tenth anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the World War, Aristide Briand French Foreign Minister, declared that "France would be willing to subscribe publicly with the United States to an annual agreement tending to outlaw war." In the American expression, this was between the two countries. At the time there was friction between Paris and Washington over World War debt settlements and commercial treaties and to quote an authority, "M. Briand's olive branch was interpreted by the Coolidge administration as a red herring dragged across the trail of French eagerness to secure cancellation of the French debt and French unwillingness to grant a most favored nation status to American trade."

So there the matter rested, particularly as it was fair obvious that such a treaty between the two countries would amount to a defensive alliance. Then followed conversations between the national capitals at Washington, Paris, London, Berlin and Rome, leading over a long period during which Secretary Kellogg successfully met every objection raised by the European nations. Germany, Italy and Japan made no reservations in agreeing to sign and then followed all the others with the exception of Great Britain which has set up a sort of Monroe doctrine which would declare free front the terms of the Kellogg pact. Egypt, Suez and the Near and Middle East in which regions the British reserve freedom of action in case of emergencies.

Summed up, the new treaty is being accepted as small but very significant step in bringing international society under the realm of law, for, be it remembered, we cancel all obligations of whatsoever nature, social, political, legal and even moral. The Kellogg treaty does not renounce the use of force as an instrument of international policy nor does it eliminate arbitration, retaliation, reprisals, breach of diplomatic relations nor even the supreme act of renunciation of the treaty and resort to arms.

But it does affect the way in which armament, arbitration or self-defense can be utilized as diplomatic means of settling international disputes. As one writer puts it "It partly removes the disguised blackmail and political terrorism by which one nation, strong in armaments, can work its will on smaller powers and in this respect it will tend to develop national policy rather than to act as a curb."

And perhaps of even greater importance to the world at large, is the moral effect this incident will have on the peoples of the earth, more particularly those of certain nations where war is as much a part of the daily routine of thinking as is providing the food necessary to existence. Leadership of the United States will also be construed favorably for the simple reason that we have been under suspicion with regard to our foreign policies which circumstantial evidence might construe as being based on a program of get and keep.

British industrialists think business girls are slackers. Evidently "Tillie the Toller" has made her appearance on the other side of the Atlantic.

CHILD LABOR WEST

New York is the largest and most important manufacturing city in America. With a population of over 6,000,000 people, it has a tremendous manufacturing industry. The city has been publicized as the most flourishing, continuing, interesting and spectacular city in the country. Yet, to our way of thinking, Chicago is really more worthy of the name. It has a vast, unbroken stretch of manufacturing, steel, electrical, chemical, and other industries which make New York a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

Happy Thoughts

The many years of our life are not so long as we think. The days of our youth are not so long as we think. The days of our old age are not so long as we think. The days of our life are not so long as we think.

New York is New York, unlike any other city. Chicago is more than Chicago. It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is rather surprising that a writer has not tried to interpret Chicago in another generation or so. It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

It is a city that is really a city of the future. It has a thousand towers and a thousand chimneys in its obscure byways and it is a city that is really a city of the future.

Daily Poem

PAST YEARS
By T. Collins
Twin Falls, Idaho

There of yonder in the distance
Stands the old home room and fair;
Every spot so sacred provision
When the children all were there.

"Found the porch the vines were Crawling,
"The boys were bounding everywhere,
Only death could spoil our pleasure,
While the children all were there."

Those were happy in the orchard,
Flocks of children left with care,
Cats and dogs and pets a-baying,
When the children all were there.

When the solemn bells were ringing,
Then for hours to prepare,
And the busy times of school days,
When the children all were there.

Happy thoughts to us seem precious,
The many years of our life are not so long
As we think the golden years,
The days of our youth are not so long
As we think.

The days of our old age are not so long
As we think. The days of our life
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our life are not so long
As we think. The days of our youth
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our youth are not so long
As we think. The days of our old age
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our old age are not so long
As we think. The days of our life
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our life are not so long
As we think. The days of our youth
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our youth are not so long
As we think. The days of our old age
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our old age are not so long
As we think. The days of our life
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our life are not so long
As we think. The days of our youth
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our youth are not so long
As we think. The days of our old age
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our old age are not so long
As we think. The days of our life
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our life are not so long
As we think. The days of our youth
Are not so long as we think.

The days of our youth are not so long
As we think. The days of our old age
Are not so long as we think.

Southern Branch Counting on Boys From Twin Falls

BOCATELLO, Aug. 28.—Coach Felix A. Pinedon, who comes to the Twin Falls, Idaho, southern branch with the opening of the school term, expects to have a strong lineup of boys from Twin Falls to attend the State Normal in the initial class of the year at Pocatello. With 12 other boys from Twin Falls, he expects to have a successful season here.

Charles Anderson, Twin Falls, will be the center player; Albert Brown and Francis Craven, Rupert, for guard; Lloyd Sullivan, Twin Falls, and Hank Lewis, Meridian, fullback.

Lighter Side

Boey—My mother was born in Paris, my father was born in St. Louis and I was born in New York.

Hille—My mother was all right, but she didn't like me.

One boy greatly amused the spectators by his answer: "Something which covers but doesn't hide."

Here's one reason man often lets his hair hang down:
To keep his eyes from seeing things that he doesn't want to see.

A small boy was told by his teacher to correct his sentence:
"I am a boy and my mother is a woman."

In the field? Ladies should always be in the field.

AVIATION MAY BECOME TWO-EDGED SWORD UNLESS RESTRICTED SOME

Air Disarmament Should Come About Gradually Says Sir Samuel

(Copyright 1928 by United Press)
LONDON, Aug. 28.—Aviation may become a double edged sword unless some restriction on the private life and power of destruction, and some limitation given to its use for peace, a United Press correspondent writes from Paris, the secretary for air, Sir Samuel Hoare.

The statement was made during a conversation in Sir Samuel's office at the air ministry, in Whitehall, when the minister was induced to reveal some of the details of the private life and some of his opinions on the future of aviation.

The fear of major the greatest air forces in the world spoke enthusiastically of the progress of aviation. If, only he explained, the civilian population, the airplane could destroy its destructive uses, aviation will become a great instrument of peace and not of war.

"But," Sir Samuel said, "aviation today has reached a stage at which it becomes comparable to a two-edged sword. One of the blades is a symbol of the airplane as a formidable weapon of destruction in time of war. The other is a friendly blade which, by offering the friends and distances which separate the various nations of the world, links their peoples together.

Thus, Sir Samuel explained, modern progress in aviation has created great advantages, but equally great, if not greater disadvantages. Among the advantages, he pointed out, were an improvement of intercourse among the peoples of the world which was being brought about by the airplane, and the increasing rapid postal services over tremendous distances. But, he pointed out, they overlooked the disadvantages. They included the fact that nowadays frightful destruction could be done with a few hours' flight upon the capitals of Europe.

Sir Samuel expressed the opinion that the time had come when the league of nations should use its influence in the forthcoming disarmament conference for restricting the number of machines that are capable of reaching these attacks.

As a matter of fact, the minister said, the matter has been under consideration for some time, but those interested have found certain difficulties on account of the immense scope of the proposed measures.

"I believe," he continued, "that air disarmament should begin along the simplest lines. It seems to me that the first thing to do would be to restrict the number of machines which range would be great enough to make these attacks.

"Such a reduction of armament would have to be accomplished step by step, and it would only add a difficult complication to try to include air machines in the general disarmament. The problem is gradually to reduce the power of air destruction and to encourage the use of air among nations by increasing commercial airways."

Sir Samuel was well acquainted with the details of both civil and military aviation. He has a mind numerous flights in air machines in both peace and time. During the war he served at the front in France and Italy. He stated as a former aviator, and emerged from his experiences with the rank of colonel.

SENATE MIGHT REJECT TREATY IS NEW BELIEF

Naval Arrangement Between the French and English May Nullify Act

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—United States Senate rejection of the Kellogg-Briand pact in Paris was regarded as a possibility among many observers and some officials here. However, a new belief has been fostered in certain quarters as "the treaty," particularly the reported act of the French and English, may nullify the purpose of the treaty. It was said, and perhaps lead to Senate rejection of the pact.

The French interpretation of the pact as guaranteeing the status quo of the present situation, and not a pledge to maintain the status quo in the future, was considered an obstacle to ratification. France's interpretation of the pact is believed to have been rejected by the United States Senate.

More pertinent, however, is the second naval treaty, which is believed to be a threat to the pact. Secretary Kellogg and other officials here are believed to be in a state of mind to support the pact, but they are believed to be in a state of mind to support the pact, but they are believed to be in a state of mind to support the pact.

The many semi-official explanations of the naval treaty emanating from Paris and London have not been accepted here. It is believed that the whole situation is looked upon with such suspicion that, according to the present current theory, the United States has instructed the state and navy departments to do nothing with respect to the naval agreement until it turns to Washington to take personal charge of the problem.

During the year the treasury made refunds of $12,242,577 for taxes illegally collected, bringing the total refunds for the last 12 years to $957,317,000, Blair said.

Popularity of clearcut bromide increased revenues from this source to the treasury while increases were also reported on documentary stamp and playing card taxes.

Fear Seventh Is Lost on Seattle Passenger Plane

By United Press
VANCOUVER, B. C., August 28.—Fear that a seventh person, P. W. Swartzell, of Grand Rapids, may have been a passenger on the Vancouver-Seattle airplane which crashed Saturday morning was expressed today by the British Columbia Motor Transport company.

According to officials of the company, Swartzell bought a ticket for the Seattle trip Saturday and took a cab to the airport. His name does not appear upon the plane's books, however.

Although search for the plane has continued today, hope for the life of the occupants had waned.

Hoover Plans to Conduct Campaign From His Parlor

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—"I am going on Herbert Hoover as a candidate for the Republican nomination. There have been 'front porch campaigns' in the past where presidential nominees received delegations and made speeches from the portico of their homes. There have been 'back porch campaigns' where candidates received their friends quietly by the rear entrance.

But there have been a large drawing room campaigns except by presidents who used the east room of the White House to their candidates for election.

Setting up his office in the Frothingham mansion on fashionable Massachusetts avenue today, Hoover found he has neither a front nor a back porch. There is only a large drawing room, furnished in the accustomed style of a millionaire's living room.

There, it is announced, the nominee will receive delegations of men and women, workers from all parts of the country. There he may make a speech over a radio hook-up labor day.

Hoover's plan, however, to make short west-coast trips from Washington for various speeches, only that which has not been announced. He is believed to be in a state of mind to support the pact.

Specific statements of the two men, apparently contradictory, were: Hoover: "By rigorous economy, federal reserve banks, and a 2 to 4 (two billions per annum in eight Republican years), taxes have been reduced four successive times. The

TAX REDUCTION NOW AN ISSUE OF CANDIDATES

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Herbert Hoover and Alfred L. Smith, matching economy and tax reduction declarations to the American voter, had fresh new figures they could use today.

The Republican presidential nominee could point to a $46,379,311 increase in income tax collections during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928.

The Democratic nominee could show that the administration spent $149,925,356 more during the same fiscal year than during the first year of the Coolidge administration.

In using these figures, Hoover would be quoting from a preliminary report issued, and Smith would be citing Director Lord's equally fresh report on the actual expenditures for government activities during the fiscal year ending in 1929 were just $246,000,000 more than in President Coolidge's first year. Total taxes collected are $35,000,000 more than in the first year of the Coolidge administration.

Thousands Suffer From Dengue While Avenues Deserted

By United Press
LONDON, Aug. 28.—Athens today was reported by Daily Express dispatches to be a vast hospital with thousands of people suffering from dengue and virtually all civic life at a standstill.

The reports said that 15,000 of 50,000 persons were suffering from dengue while 100,000 others are recuperating after weeks of illness.

The avenues are deserted and social life is at a standstill, the reports said. Telephone service is disrupted, railroad schedules are disruptive and public service has been paralyzed. Merchants were reported to be closed. Much of the city has been evacuated and special trains and steamers have been chartered to transport ice from Salonika. Corps and other officers to the capital.

The government, the Express dispatches said, has divided the city into twelve sections, each one of which is in charge of doctors.

County Fair Is Accorded Distinction STARTS ON RAMPAGE AND KILLS FOUR BEFORE THE CAPTURE NEAR STOCKTON

HUGE CROWDS EXPECTED IN ATTENDANCE

Secretary States Exhibits are Rapidly Coming in from All Parts of the State Making It Evident Every Inch of Display Room Will Be Taken

By reputation granted by those in position to know whereof they speak, the Twin Falls County Fair has been accorded the distinction of being the best fair of its type west of the Rocky mountains.

The remarkable thing about this exhibition is that it is so young and yet so vigorous. Next Tuesday will see the opening of the thirteenth annual show on the fair grounds at Filer.

Given favorable weather conditions next week it is reasonable to expect a crowd in excess of 25,000, because there were more than 23,000 attendees last year with other conditions entirely but equivalent.

Year by year the fair organization has been coming up in its operations, this being amply demonstrated when it is realized that the extent of exhibits and the amount of money today represents an actual outlay of probably anywhere from $40,000 to $100,000.

During the past season three new buildings have been completed and will be put into use next week. The first is the spacious Merchants' Building, in size 60x70 feet and containing 40 display spaces, all of which have been taken.

The other new building is that just completed for the exhibits of poultry and rabbits. In size it is 40x70 feet and there have been provided modern types of pens for the exhibits.

The third building is the new room for women, which to be comfortably furnished with chairs and lounges and will be placed at the disposal of women children and their exclusive use and convenience.

Exhibits pending in accordance to the program of the fair secretary, exhibits are pouring in from all parts of the state, making it evident that the fair exhibit space will be occupied. This is true with regard to the cattle building as well as those for hams, sheep and swine. The produce building will be another place of interest because of the many makes of cars that seek display space this coming week.

The automobile building was new last year but it is even now not large enough to serve the purposes for which it was erected.

A worthwhile feature of the fair this year will be the baby clinic which will open Tuesday morning and continue during the entire duration of the exhibition. This feature will be under the general direction of David Barrall of Boise, County Commissioner. Public welfare for Idaho who will be present.

Football will be the grand opening day, followed on Wednesday by Opera and Twin Falls day. Thursday will be Grand and Truck and Friday will be children's day when all children under 14 years will be admitted free of charge.

Horse Races.
The program of horse racing this year will be exceptionally good because of the large number of entries. Already made there are at least 14 harness races now on the ground and about 15 running horses, the race track being in use every day for the season.

The excellent condition as the result of faithful labor every night for a period covering the past 10 days. The entries already in are from famous racing stables of Denver and other points in Colorado, Utah, Oregon, Washington, Montana and Idaho in the United States and Alberta and Saskatchewan in western Canada. The Twin Falls fair is the first to be held in Idaho this year and for that reason its attraction to the community is not only locally but throughout the section of the country.

MANY NATIONS WISH TO SIGN ANTI-WAR PACT

Big and Small Countries to Fall in Line and Sign Great Nations

PARIS, Aug. 28.—Twenty-four hours after the Kellogg treaty had been signed, word was received today that other countries, big and small, would fall in line behind the move to make an eventually universal pact.

More than a dozen nations were reported already to have notified Aristotle Briand, foreign minister of France and Frank B. Kellogg of the United States, who sponsored the agreement, that they desired to adhere to it.

It will not now be necessary for the other nations to sign the treaty, it was explained. Only formal declaration of adherence, backed by parliamentary ratification where necessary, was required.

It was arranged to have Russia and Afghanistan, which do not have friendly relations with the United States, join in the pact.

The plenipotentiaries, with the exception of Gustav Stresemann of Germany, whose health is poor, visited President Briand at the summer palace at Rambouillet today and remained for lunch.

The episode for home was due to begin before night. Secretary Kellogg will be taken to Dublin tomorrow to confer with William T. Cosgrave, president of the Irish Free State, to sign the pact.

TWO SUSPECTED KILLERS TAKEN IN TWIN FALLS

License Plates Connect Men With Crime Committed in Indiana

Thought to have had something to do with a murder at Angola, Ind., Fred Miller, 25, and James A. Miller, 26, were arrested here about midnight last night and are being held pending receipt of further information and identification from Indiana.

Fingerprints were taken from the car this morning as it was parked on Main street, crowds gathering to see the work performed.

The men shown here in a Hudson sedan, bearing Indiana license No. 327215. "Word received from Angola Ind., by Chief of Police, Leighton states that the license plate was stolen from a Ford coupe there on the night of the murder. The Hudson is also believed stolen."

Miller claims to have been working on a farm at Cedar Falls, Iowa, on August 15. He states he was picked up by Floyd White at Waterloo, Iowa, on August 25.

The arrest was made last night on Main street after James A. Miller had been seen in the car of O. J. Caldwell and had attempted to put the blanket in his own car. White was arrested as an accomplice, and investigation made with the uncovering of the other evidence.

The men will be held here until further word is received from Indiana. The photographs of the finger prints on the car will be developed and an attempt made to identify the fingerprints of the two men. Copies of these prints will be taken in Indiana for checking with the official records there, especially those concerning the murder.

Open Inquiry of Prison Systems

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 28.—Members of the prison investigating committee authorized by congress to investigate conditions in penal institutions throughout the country, started their inquiry here today with a tour of the Cleveland county jail.

The committee will visit both state and federal prisons from coast to coast with the view of determining whether additional federal prisons to relieve the burden now borne by city, county and state prisons, should be built.

Members of the committee described the Cleveland jail as "a black hole of Calcutta, an abomination, a relic of medieval penology and a disgrace to the city."

The committee will go to Columbus tomorrow to tour the state penitentiary, situated at Chillicothe, Lancaster, Mansfield and other cities where institutions are located.

STARTS ON RAMPAGE AND KILLS FOUR BEFORE THE CAPTURE NEAR STOCKTON

Trail of Bloodshed Starts on Sidewalk in Front Of Estranged Wife's Home With Shooting of Former Wife's Fiancee; Partial Confession Made to Officers at Sacramento; One Other Man Implicated.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 28.—Confessing to only two of the four murders of which he is accused, Percy Barnes, 36, named L. E. Koburn, 25, railroad employe, as the killer of the others in a partial confession to Captain of Police Ed Cox today.

Barnes admitted slaying Charles L. Curtis, a brother-in-law, and wounded Clarence Muncy, Southern Pacific employe, his ex-wife's fiance. He blamed the killing of Charles Klein and Len Gerhart onto Koburn.

Koburn denied he was even with Barnes last night. It was Koburn who telephoned police of the killing. The "confession" was made to Captains Cox and Brown after hours of questioning in the offices of the police department here.

Koburn was also in jail, pending investigation of Barnes' story. Captain Cox was inclined to doubt the statement that Koburn was a participant in the killing.

NORTH DAKOTA GOVERNOR DIES HEART FAILURE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 28.—Cracked by mental difficulties, Percy Barnes, 25, started on a path of murder, killing four men and wounding one other before he was captured by the outskirts of Stockton early today.

The dead: Charles L. Curtis, a brother-in-law, Charles Klein, brother-in-law, Len Gerhart, a cousin of Mrs. Barnes, Clarence Muncy, Southern Pacific employe.

W. H. Larkin, president of the Large Transportation company, was the first of the mobbed started on the sidewalk, in front of his estranged wife's home when he shot Muncy, wounding him fatally.

Jumping into an automobile, Barnes fled across the city to the home of Curtis, where he demanded his four-year-old child, who was being cared for in the Curtis home.

According to eye witnesses, Curtis refused, and when he stepped outside Barnes fired a shot into his body and fled. Curtis died instantly.

Moments after the escape with the wife's child, Barnes started on his mad hunt for a sidewalk in a residential district of Sacramento. A bullet wound was found in his chest.

Investigator expressed the belief that the child was being cared for in the home of Mrs. H. Larkin was halted on the Prospect boulevard by Klein, Barnes' brother-in-law, who said he had been shot; take me to the hospital.

Hoover Leaders Forced to Meet In a Rear Yard

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Burglar alarm drew Herbert Hoover to change his personal headquarters here today.

His staff, including 100 men, camped in the office of the United States Representative, Prohibitionist of Massachusetts, found the mansion packed and equipped with anti-burglar wires and bells.

They could not enter. Neither could Hoover, most of the day, as he had planned to be "commiserate" to hotel campaign associates in the rear yard.

Negotiations were started immediately on the rear yard, and a building was found at 215 Massachusetts avenue, where Hoover and Mrs. Francis B. Moran, prominent society woman, for occupancy were moved last November.

FIGHT KILLED WHEN BUILDING FALLS IN HEAD

STURLEY, N. C., Aug. 28.—An explosion in the business section of Sturley here today, first reports were that several persons had been crushed to death.

Police said eight bodies were found in the ruins of the building which housed the first night bank. It was feared others were buried.

Two adjoining buildings were totally destroyed. The explosion was caused, it was reported, by a gas leak from the ruins of the building.

BIBLE VERSES AND PRAYER

THE SACRED PEACE—Keep thy foot when thou goest to the house of God, and be more ready to hear, than to give the sacrifice of fools: for they consider not that they do evil. Eccl. 1. PRAYER—May we ever worship Thee, Lord, in the beauty of holiness.

THE GREATEST STEP YET TOWARD WORLD PEACE

All Nations today hail with glad hearts the signing in Paris Monday of a multilateral treaty renouncing war as an instrument of policy.

This treaty is the work of Frank B. Kellogg, Secretary of State in the United States government and is widely known as the Kellogg peace pact. The signature of Secretary Kellogg on behalf of the government of the United States, was followed by representatives of the "Great Powers" of the Old World, Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy and Japan; by three of the smaller European powers involved in the Locarno treaties, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Belgium and by the British Dominions, Canada, Australia, the Union of South Africa, the Irish Free State and New Zealand.

The next step is ratification by all these governments interested, a step that is practically assured as a foregone conclusion.

Perhaps there never was a treaty quite so simple, so brief and so plain as this agreement to outlaw war. There are only two essential clauses:

Article 1. The high contracting parties solemnly declare, in the name of their respective peoples, that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies and renounce it as an instrument of international policy in their relations with one another.

Article 2. The high contracting parties agree that the settlement of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature, or whatever origin they may be, which may arise between them, shall never be sought except by pacific means.

That is the meat of the whole matter; agreeing to the proposals are all the potential elements of trouble in war weary world with the one exception of Russia and it is said that Germany has practically been assured that the Soviet government is in thorough accord with the aims and purposes of the Kellogg pact.

The history of the present achievement is interesting. On April 6, 1927, the tenth anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the World War, Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, declared that "France would be willing to subscribe publicly with the United States to an mutual agreement tending to outlaw wars." At the time there was friction between Paris and Washington over World War debt settlements and commercial treaties and to quote an authority, "M. Briand's live branch was interpreted by the Coolidge administration as a red herring dragged across the trail of French eagerness to secure cancellation of the French war debts and French unwillingness to grant a most favored nation status to American trade."

So there the matter rested, particularly as it was fairly obvious that such a treaty between the two countries would amount to a defensive alliance. Then followed conversations between the national capitals at Washington, Paris, London, Berlin and Rome, leading over a long period of time to a treaty which Secretary Kellogg successfully met every objection raised by the European nations. Germany, that and Japan made no reservations in agreeing to sign and they followed all the others with the exception of Great Britain which has set up a sort of Monroe doctrine which would declare free from the terms of the Kellogg pact Egypt, Suez and the Near and Middle East in which regions the British reserve freedom of action in case of emergency.

Summed up, the new treaty is being accepted as small but very significant step in bringing international society under the realm of law for, be it remembered, we cancel all obligations of whatsoever nature, social, political, legal and even moral. The Kellogg treaty does not renounce the use of force as an instrument of international policy nor does it eliminate arbitration, retaliation, reprisals, breach of diplomatic relations nor even the supreme act of renunciation of the treaty and resort to arms.

But it does affect the way in which armament, arbitration or self-defense can be utilized as diplomatic means of settling international disputes. As one writer puts it "It partly removes the disguised blackmail and politics terrorism by which one nation, strong in armaments, can work its will or smaller powers and in this respect it will tend to develop national policy rather than to act as a curb."

And perhaps of even greater importance to the world at large, is the moral effect this incident will have on the peoples of the earth, more particularly those of certain nations where war is as much a part of the daily routine of thinking as is providing the food necessary to existence. Leadership of the United States will also be construed favorably for the simple reason that we have been under suspicion with regard to our foreign policies which circumstantial evidence might construe as being based on a program of get and keep.

British industrialists think business girls are slackers. Twillie the Toiler' has made her appearance on the Atlantic.

CHICAGO IS THE PEP CENTER

House Capital News. New York is the largest and most famous American city. Broadway, Fifth Avenue, Riverside Drive and Harlem are familiar names even to people who have never been closer to Manhattan Island than Buffalo. The town has been publicized as the most important commercial, industrial and metropolitan city of our country.

Yet, to our way of thinking, Chicago is really more worthy of attention. It is a vast, far-reaching, stimulating, challenging, like New York, it is a pulsating with quick life, being a thousand times and a thousand times as big as its absolute size would indicate. And it is even more typical of America.

New York is New York, unlike any other city, Chicago is more than Chicago. It is every other American town and under the magnificent skies, it is the real 100 per cent American city. Its virtues and its faults are a part of its nature. So, Chicago has a Bill Hill Thompson of "Sears-Roebuck" fame, perhaps, yet every other city has industries of this men.

It is a city so representative of the United States that it is a city which has not only the city will have undergone much of the greatest triumphs and it is a pity that the authors and poets with a few exceptions are not so representative of this city. The city is a city that has a history of interest and almost unbelievable. One young Chicagoan has tackled the life of the city and its history in the "new novel," "Chicago," is the title.

Daily Poem

PAST YEARS By Mrs. Paul H. Huber. Twin Falls, Idaho.

Far off wonder in the distance Stands the old home grand and fair; Every memory is sweet and true; When the children all were there.

Round the porch, the vines were growing; Flowers were blooming everywhere; Only death could spoil our pleasure; When the children all were there.

Happy thoughts to us seem precious; The many years of toil and care; To that home where there's no parting; When the children all were there.

Years have passed, to baby voices; To the first to be a mother there; Golden locks have turned to silver; When the children all were there.

And our steps they seem more feeble; As we climb the golden stairs; To that home where there's no parting; When the children all were there.

And the children will be there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there.

When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there.

When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there.

When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there.

When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there.

When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there; When the children all were there.

Southern Branch Counting on Boys From Twin Falls

POCAHONTO, Aug. 28.—Coach Felix A. Phipps, who comes to the Twin Falls, Idaho, southern branch, with the opening of the school term, expects to have a great lineup of football talent to draw against Montana State Normal in the initial contest of the season at Pocahonto, Oct. 6.

The complete schedule of university games is as follows: October 6, Montana State Normal at Pocahonto; October 13, College of Idaho, at Caldwell; October 20, Utah State Normal, at Boise; October 27, Idaho State Normal, at Pocatello; November 3, Alameda University, at Boise; November 10, Oregon State Normal, at Astoria; November 17, Oregon State Normal, at Astoria; November 24, Oregon State Normal, at Astoria; December 1, Oregon State Normal, at Astoria.

Lighter Side. Baby—My mother was born in St. Louis and my father was born in St. Paul and I was born in New York. Mother—Fanny, how you all got to—You seem to be interested in getting, what? Baby—Mother, I don't know. I don't want any of those atoms over me! I want a watermelon vine on my grave and ten of the kindest girls to look after it.

During a sixth term examination one of the questions was: "What is the difference between a man and a woman?" One boy wrote the examiner by his answer: "Something which covers but doesn't hide."

A small boy was told by his teacher to correct this sentence: "The horse and cow are in the field." He wrote: "The cow and horse are in the field." Ladies should always come first.

SEEDED TEAMS SURVIVE ROUND

Four American Teams Win the First Rounds by Straight Sets

By United Press
CHESTNUT HILL, Mass., Aug. 28—All seeded teams first-round matches were played safely in the first round of the national doubles.

Not a single upset marked opening play at the Longwood Cricket club courts yesterday, although the French team of Jean Borotra and the youthful René de la Roche, seeded 4 and 5, won the foreign invaders had a difficult match against Edward Hogg and J. C. Collingsworth. The match went against them twice, but they finally won, 4-6, 4-6, 6-2, 12-10, 6-4.

All four American seeded teams won their first round matches in straight sets.

The first day's play saw the elimination of four of the 12 foreign combinations participating in the tournament and also of the split combination of Edward McKnight, of Providence, R. I., and John H. Johnson, of New York.

Two French teams, one English team and one Cuban, were called to survive the initial test.

Heber Austin and J. C. Gregory, of Boston, defeated the Cuban team of Brown (Pacific canal champion), 6-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD

By United Press
Yesterday's hero: Bob Meusel, New York Yankee outfielder, who cracked four hits in six times at bat, including two doubles, drove in four runs and generally aided the American league leaders with a double victory over Detroit, 4 to 2, and 6 to 2. The Yankees were out-hit, 7 to 6, in the first game, but Tony Zachary, making his debut in a Yankee uniform, kept the Tiger crew at bay while his own mates came from behind to win. The game hit the Tigers down with eight scattered hits in the second game and the Yanks were never in serious difficulty.

St. Louis chambered an 11 over the Boston Red Sox for two victories. Harry Lord beat the Browns better for five innings in the first game, but they fell on him for five runs in the sixth. Odeen and Schulte shared honors in the second game. Odeen allowed the Red Sox only one hit, but Schulte hit a home run and two doubles in three official at bats. The final scores were 12 to 6 and 4 to 2. Cleveland beat Washington, 5 to 2. Both teams hit the ball hard, but neither was able to get the best of the other, with the score tied at 3-3. Cleveland drove in two runs to win.

The St. Louis Cardinals increased their lead to four games in the National league by beating Chicago 11 to 5. The Cubs made a bid but could not touch them. St. Louis made a 13 hit game. Phil Miska was credited with the victory and Sheriff Blake the defeat.

Pittsburgh climbed a game closer to first place in beating Cincinnati 9 to 4. Laque was wild and allowed Paul Waner three straight home runs before he was finally removed from the game. Waner scored two runs and in his only official trip to the plate scored two of his mates with a long single. The Reds out-hit the Pirates 12 to 6.

The Athletics were unable to get their own chance of bunching their hits.

In Race For Batting Laurels

By MAHLY FEINBERG
United Press Staff Correspondent
 Who will win the batting championship of the two major leagues this season? Paul Waner, best outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has splendid chance to repeat in the National league. He won the National league batting title last year with an average of .380 and is hovering around the top again this season.

Harry Holman, backup outfielder of the Detroit Tigers, already has eliminated himself from the race for the batting leadership of the American league. Holman won the American league batting title last year with an average of .308, but is having trouble staying "ground" this season.

Who would want to win the American league crown this season, on the basis of his past record? He is an over-the-hill hit-woman. He won the batting championship of the American league in 1927. This is his last year.

One Paul Waner's closest rival for the National league honor is none other than Rogers Hornsby, manager and batting champion of the Boston Braves. Hornsby was runner-up to Waner last year with an average of .357. He is an over-the-hill player, after five years' batting champion of the National league, including in 1929.

Waner's closest rival in the American league is the St. Louis Browns' in the thick of battle for

Walker Knocks Out Emanuel in Seventh

By United Press
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28—Stoney Walker, world's middleweight champion, scored a knockout over Armando Emanuel, San Francisco light-heavyweight, in the seventh round of a scheduled 10-round bout here last night.

Walker plainly outclassed his willful and heavier opponent for the entire fight.

The fight started slow with the first two rounds almost even, then Walker started jabbing his left into Emanuel's face, supplementing large body blows with his right for the remainder of the match.

A hard right to the jaw sent Emanuel down for the count of nine just before he went down for the final count.

Ace Hudkins, "Nebraska wildcat," challenged the winner.

The bout was a non-title affair with Emanuel weighing 176 and Walker 167-164½.

Pocatello Colored Team to Play Here in Benefit Games

Twin Falls baseball fans are being given a chance to see the Pocatello Mountain League colored team play here as this team has been scheduled to play two games with a picked Twin Falls team here Sunday and Monday, 2:30 p.m. and 2 p.m. Both games are to start at 2:30 p.m. in the afternoon. The games were scheduled as 2 means of raising funds to pay the medical bills of H. W. Wallace who suffered a broken leg while playing in a game here in the Twin Falls league. Tickets will be placed on sale this week to be used at either game. Both a reasonable charge being made. Aside from the few expenses of the games and the guarantee given the Pocatello team, the proceeds will be given to the injured ball player.

This is due to be a good game, as the colored boys are rated as first class players, while the Twin Falls team, when the players are willing to come out and play, is a strong squad. The players are heartily in favor of this game and are sure to turn out.

AVIATION MAY BECOME TWO-EDGED SWORD UNLESS RESTRICTED SOME

Air Disarmament Should Come About Gradually Says Sir Samuel

(Copyright 1928 by United Press.) LONDON, Aug. 27.—Aviation has become a double-edged sword unless some restriction can be put on its power of destruction, and this power given to its use for peace, a United Press correspondent was told by Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary for air, Sir Samuel Hoare.

The statement was made during a conversation in Sir Samuel's office at the air ministry, in which the minister was induced to reveal some of the details of his private life and some of his opinions on the future of aviation.

The ideal of one of the greatest advances in the world since Gutenberg's discovery of the printing press, he explained, the civilizing powers of the airplane could outstrip its destructive uses, aviation will become a great instrument of peace and not of war.

"Sir Samuel said, "Aviation today has reached a stage at which it has become comparable to a two-edged sword. One of the blades has been used for destruction in time of war, the other is a friendly blade which is striking the various nations of the world, linking their peoples together."

Thus, Sir Samuel explained, modern progress in aviation has brought great advantages, but equally great if not greater disadvantages. He pointed out, were an improvement of international relations, the development of the world's air traffic and increasing rapid postal services, and the reduction of distances. But, he added, one cannot overlook the disadvantages. They include the fact that modern aviation is a destructive tool in a very short time to be hurled upon the capitals of Europe.

Sir Samuel expressed the opinion that the time had come when the league of nations should use its influence in the forthright disarming conference for restricting the number of machines that are capable of wrecking such havoc.

"As a matter of fact," the minister said, "the matter has been under consideration for some time and those interested have found certain difficulties on account of the huge scope of the proposed disarmament. I believe," he continued, "that disarmament should begin along the simplest lines. It seems to me that the first thing to do would be to restrict the number of machines whose range would be great enough to make these attacks."

"Such a reduction of armament would have to be accomplished stage by stage. It would only add a difficult civil machines in the restriction to be effected. The problem is gradually to reduce the power of air destruction and to encourage the same among nations by increasing commercial airways."

Sir Samuel is well acquainted with the details of both civil and military aviation. He has made numerous flights in military machines during war times. During the war he served at the front in France and Italy. He started as a stretcher bearer and emerged from his experiences with the rank of colonel.

Thousands Suffer From Dengue While Avenues Deserted

LONDON, Aug. 27.—Athens today was reported in Daily Express to be a daily hospital with thousands of people suffering from dengue and virtually all civic life at a standstill. The reports said that 15,000 of 70,000 persons were ill of dengue while 150,000 others are recuperating after weeks of illness.

The avenues are deserted and social life is at a standstill, the reports said. Telephone service is disrupted, railroad schedules are inoperative and public service has ceased.

Most of the supply has been exhausted and special trains and steamers have been chartered to transport ice from Saitouka, Corfu, Patras and other cities to the capital.

The government, the Express dispatches said, has divided the city into twelve sections, each one of which is in charge of doctors.

SENATE MIGHT REJECT TREATY IS NEW BELIEF

Naval Arrangement Between the French and English May Nullify Act

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—United States Senate rejection of the Kellogg-Briand treaty, signed in Paris, was regarded as a possibility among many observers and some officials here, the French newspaper, "Le Matin," has characterized in certain quarters as "indefinite," particularly the reported secret Anglo-French agreement which may defeat the purpose of the treaty, it was said, and perhaps lead to Sen-

The French interpretation of the pact as guaranteeing the status quo in the far east, the British official opinion was considered an obstacle to ratification. France's interpretation in effect holds that the pact is not to constitute definite approval, among other things, of the Versailles treaty, which is rejected by the United States Senate.

More pertinent, however, is the other reported agreement, according to which the British secretary of state and officials view the anti-war treaty as a mere-sine-qualibus pact to build up a world peace psychology. The reported Anglo-French agreement, however, is having the effect and is likely to nullify the intended educational purpose of the Kellogg-Briand pact.

If the reports concerning the naval arrangement are true, the administration feels that Great Britain has been at least indirectly participating in an ostensibly warlike program when preparing to subscribe to a treaty which would build up a world peace psychology. The reported Anglo-French agreement, however, is having the effect and is likely to nullify the intended educational purpose of the Kellogg-Briand pact.

Little Political Significance To Coast Primaries

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—While the coast primaries are being held, political significance was attached to the California state primary election today.

Senator Hiram Johnson, champion of Boulder Dam, had little opposition for the Republican endorsement for return to office because of congressional support. Johnson's opponent, eleven representatives by congress, seemed seized of the Republican nomination and also sought the Democratic endorsement.

Arthur P. Free of San Jose met the strongest opposition from early indications as he before a put a strong fight for Mrs. Cecilia Casper.

With more than 200,000 persons eligible to vote, early reports indicated the total number of ballots cast in one of the largest in recent years.

Johnson was opposed by Charles Handall, Los Angeles prohibitionist, who also asked approval of the Republican nomination. Handall's rival, a local named for his own group, he had no chance of beating Johnson.

Hoover Plans to Conduct Campaign From His Parlor

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—From now on Herbert Hoover is to conduct a "drawing room" campaign. Specific statements of the two men, the two nominees received delegations of "bank breakers" where candidates received their friends "drawing" by the two nominees.

There has never been less "drawing room" campaign except by presidential candidates who used the east-room of the White House in their contests for reelection.

Setting up his offices in the Frothingham mansion on fashionable Massachusetts avenue today, Hoover found he has neither a front nor a back porch. There is only a drawing room, furnished in the accustomed style of a millionaire's drawing room.

There, it is announced, the nominee will receive delegations of middle class workers from all parts of the country. There he may make a speech or a radio broadcast on Labor Day. It is Hoover's plan, however, to make short week-end trips from Washington to various parts of the country.

Hoover also has in mind a plan to make his final trip here, a last Hoover in doing so said he would follow President Coolidge's path along these lines. Smith anticipated to show that total taxes have not been reduced under Mr. Coolidge and that expense have mounted.

STOMACH TROUBLES

There are many symptoms of illness of the stomach, some of which are typical chronic pain which occurs from time to time or three or four hours following the meal. It is a sharp, cutting, cramping type of pain, which as soon as the stomach has emptied itself of food.

Chemically it is usually due to a hyperacid secretion. We also find a great deal of nervous distention, a feeling of discomfort, distress and sometimes nausea which is characteristic of this ailment. The above is an extract from editorial by Philip M. Lowell, N. D.

TAX REDUCTION NOW AN ISSUE OF CANDIDATES

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith, matching economy and tax reduction declarations to the American voter, had fresh new figures they could use today.

The Republican presidential nominee could point to a $46,373,341 reduction in income tax collections during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1928.

The Democratic nominee could show that the administration spent $149,955,256 more during the same fiscal year than the year before.

Using these figures, Hoover would be running from a preliminary report of the American Budget Commission, just issued, and Smith would be citing Director La Follette's recent report of the two nominees equally fresh.

The two nominees already have talked much of economy and tax reduction in the past. Hoover's plan would follow President Coolidge's policies along these lines. Smith anticipated to show that total taxes have not been reduced under Mr. Coolidge and that expense have mounted.

Specific statements of the two men, the two nominees received delegations of "bank breakers" where candidates received their friends "drawing" by the two nominees.

Hoover also has in mind a plan to make his final trip here, a last Hoover in doing so said he would follow President Coolidge's path along these lines. Smith anticipated to show that total taxes have not been reduced under Mr. Coolidge and that expense have mounted.

ADMITS DRIVING WHILE IN DRUNKEN CONDITION

Roy Emory, Delta, Utah, who pleaded guilty in probate court yesterday while intoxicated, was told by Judge C. A. Bailey under $250 bond to action by the district court and was remanded to the custody of the sheriff in default of bond.

A deputy sheriff and police officer arrested Emory Sunday evening soon after the car which he was driving ran into a drinking fountain at a service station on Main avenue.

Emory's tax rolls today show a reduction in income, under $10,000 a year, while they show a reduction of only 25 per cent in revenues from income taxes.

Smith—Asks from interest on public debt, the actual expenditures for governmental activities during the fiscal year ending in 1928 were just $36,000,000 more than in President Coolidge's first year, total taxes collected are $3,000,000 more than in the first year of the Coolidge administration.

While tax rates have been reduced and some wartime taxes annulled, the government actually took from the people in liquor taxes $382,000,000 more during the last fiscal year than during the first year of the Coolidge administration.

Why Count Your Pennies If You Throw Them Away

Could I have bought the same article elsewhere for less? Won't some other make prove more satisfactory? Isn't there some other product that will suit me better?

Unless you can say "No" to these questions, about every purchase you make, there's a good chance that you are not getting the most for your money.

To get the most from every dollar of the family income—for food, clothing, furnishings and the rest—you must know what you want before you go to buy.

Read advertisements. They will keep you from throwing away your pennies—and your dollars. They will help you to live better and dress better at less cost.

Advertisements are the latest news of what the manufacturers and merchants are doing for you. They are interesting and instructive.

Advertisements point the way to economical buying.
