BIBLE VERSES AND PRAYER

A SORE EVIL—There is a sore evil which I have seen under the sun, namely, riches kept for the owner thereof, to their hurt.
PRAYER—Lord, give us neither poverty nor riches.

GERMANY PURSUES A VERY SENSIBLE POLICY

There has been ample time, since Chancellor Mueller of Germany, Socialist, made his declaration as to the government's foreign policy, to catch the reaction from the press of the world.
His outspoken opposition to a colonial policy for the German republic may be viewed from two aspects, one being the obvious determination of the German people to develop their own country to the highest point of efficiency and production possible; the other, to avoid the squabbling and troubles incident to ownership or control of lands beyond the seas.
When the great German statesman, Count Bismarck, succeeded in consolidating the separately insignificant units into what became the German empire, he was slow in adopting a so-called colonial policy, the taking of territory in other parts of the world that would require enormous expense in protecting and perhaps maintaining. But the defeated and dethroned Kaiser William was not so wise for he proceeded to load Germany with foreign possessions, a condition that could have had much to do with bringing on the World War. Now all those colonies have been taken away by the Allied nations so Germany is left to pursue her own national policies unhindered by cares and worries incident to colonial ownership.
That Germany is prospering industrially is quite evident from the official reports made to the United States Department of Commerce. The records show a steady growth in both agricultural and industry so that presently the German people will be back to normal under a far different leadership and with probably changed ideals than those which prevailed before the World War.
Students of the situation declare that a new Germany is being born.

BUSINESS GOES ON DESPITE HIGH MONEY RATES

The most interesting feature of last week's stock-market activities was the fact that high interest rates for brokers' loans, imposed by the federal reserve system for the purpose of putting a curb on speculation, failed utterly in its intent. Leading stocks showed a disposition to utterly ignore the program of the banker for practically all of the leading issues not only showed tremendous activity but substantial gains.
And there is a background for all of this, to be found in satisfactory crop conditions and an excellent railroad outlet. The only fly in the ointment is the declining wheat market which is causing some anxiety in political circles to say nothing of its effect on the farmers themselves. However, those familiar with marketing conditions, believe that the situation will soon adjust itself and that the wheat farmer will continue to be a potential customer throughout the autumn and winter. The same may be said of the cotton grower in the south.
Of special local interest is the excellent showing made by the Union Pacific in its July statement. (This railroad's leading gross operating revenues for the month of July amounted to $10,882,876 or an increase of $1,162,960 over the corresponding month of last year. The Union Pacific also reports an increase in net operating income of 27.1 per cent over July, 1927. This showing is accepted as evidence of the tremendous expansion of the agricultural industry in the vast territory served by that railroad line.
Evidently the presidential year bogie has been knocked on the head.

DESTRUCTION AS A REMEDY FOR OVER-PRODUCTION

Newspapers throughout this section of the country are indulging in somewhat severe criticism of a program announced by certain groups of potato growers in Idaho that twenty per cent of this year's crop is to be destroyed in order to prevent the glutting of the potato market.
On general principles the proposition is all wrong inasmuch as it reveals a weakness in our agricultural system. Evidently we have not reached that point in our progress toward perfection of methods whereby it is possible to put into practice a system of equalization in distribution. There may be good reasons for avoiding an over-stocked market so far as this country is concerned but there ought to be a way to get the surplus crops of the United States into foreign markets where food shortages are reported. Only yesterday the news-dispatches told of many starving in the neighboring island of Haiti in the West Indies while far across the Pacific millions are said to be undergoing suffering in China.
So the question naturally arises as to why these inequalities should be allowed to exist, particularly since the result is that all parties that might be involved, suffer. The hungry go hungry, with ample food supplies to take care of their needs and necessities; the filled remain filled with possibly little or no thought for their less unfortunate fellow beings elsewhere.

RESCUING JIBAOH WITH SUGAR BEETS

The upper Snake River valley stands in an enviable position, ready to choose its route to great success or misadventure and regret.
It is successful in large measure it will be because it adopts the right standard and rotation of crops. If it chooses partial failure it will be because it keeps on inviting disaster as it is doing and as it has been doing for years.

The great popular cry for farm relief may soon be placated with the murmurs of new disaster due to a trio of handicaps that are already challenging, the near future—weeds, insects and drought.

The department of agriculture says the next great struggle of the ruralists is coming in the three forms mentioned, and scientists predict that if agriculture will it will be the chemists who furnish the ammunition in the form of sprays. Already the local sugar factories store spraying machines along with beet drills and beet seeds and the general beet fields are threatened with destruction by insects in spring time, are termite with tons of beet in August.

Science saved the beet fields and pointed to weeds, trash and unused forage as the breeding places of the insects. As a remedy they recommended fall watering, fall fertilization, fall plowing and plowing to destroy the 1929 crop of insect pests.

Rotation of crops keeps up soil fertility; good meadows choke out weeds; grain crops cleanse the soil of potato blight disease; beet cultivation kills the weeds in their infancy. Beet tops, beet pulp and silage are the chief crops that makes stock rich, all the other feeds.

Beets are the sure cash crop that turns the best country into a gold mine, makes the other crops into meat, dairy and poultry products that will sell for cash and enable the farmer to pocket the freight charges.

In earlier years people hesitated about planting beets because of possible water shortage late in summer. With the completion of our third dam, Sturgis, at American Falls, we have paid the premium on a crop insurance policy that solved the principal water problems, and at the end of the dried, beet growers here have enough water storage above the farms to irrigate them another year.

Water, soil and good farming—these three are outstanding in the resources of the beet grower of tomorrow, but the greatest of these is good farming—good plant diseases and insect control, good soil, good water, and the answer to it is crop rotation, with the sugar beet holding the front line of defense, sugar and no community is well fortified without the sugar beet and the pulp.

ABANDON CHANDEL SWIM

CAPE GRIS NEX, France, Aug. 30.—Two attempts to swim the English channel apparently had been abandoned early today.
Miss Ann Meynell, who started at 8:45 p. m., was forced to stop at midnight. At the same time the flotilla, Alexander Blandin, was reported, three miles out, but was not seen at dawn and it was assumed he had abandoned the attempt.

A WISE DECREE

(Des Moines Tribune-Capital)
A California court has just rendered judgment in granting a parole to a youth on condition that he support two children first-three years who were made fatherless by his reckless driving. He had been convicted of manslaughter.

He could have been sentenced to serve the same time in prison, but that would have done him good, and it is more likely that the child would be much more effective in impressing him and others with the downright wrongness of reckless driving than a term behind bars.

It is ordinarily not wise for judges to make the law out of their own beliefs and to change the penalties provided by statute, but here was a case well known. The offender was young and simply in need of a lesson. He was not guilty of murder, but of manslaughter, a lesser crime. He is not let off, but kept to strict accountability by the conditions of his parole. They are violated he will go to prison. And civil liability is determined to all intents and purposes by the verdict of equity in the criminal court. It is certainly safe to say that he will not again injure another in the same way. That is the end of the criminal law. And he will make some compensation to those who lost by his act. That is the end of the civil law.

THE NEWSBOY, A MERCHANT
(Home Capital News)
It has always been more or less an American tradition that the newsboy is a poor, shabby chap who supports a widowed mother and, probably, a sister or two by the pennies he makes selling papers.

Now comes the census department to announce that very few newsboys are in this class. Most of them come from good homes, it says, and are driven to selling papers by hard need.

It is a good thing for us to realize this. The newsboy is an ambitious young business man, putting in his spare time wisely and profitably. He is learning early in life things about the world of business that most young men do not learn until they reach their majority. Selling papers is an excellent training school. It is not accident that so many of our prominent business and professional men earned their first pennies in that way.

Don't pity the newsboy who sells you your paper. Admire him rather, as an energetic, capable young American who has ambition.

FOOLISH DREAMS

I wish I were a rainbow trout, A swimming in the Dule, And not a common catfish, You'll catch in any pond.

You'll find my profile homely, My skin a silvery sleek; In preference to a gammy fish, The Chief would never pick.

If I could be a quail fish, I'd take no swim at all; I'd take one swim at Salvia's hoop, And leap right into fame!

If I had, half, line and handle bow, I'd take him on the run; The while I have him on his toes, Until the battle's won.

And then I'd get my picture "took," And send it—two-fold— To a right smart scene we two would make.

Fame would share forever, The press would spread the story, World Hero I would be, To dwell upon immortal tide, Through all eternity.

The frying pan may be my fate— I'll stake out in peace; I'll do in right good company, For Hyron died in Greece.

But ah! Dear me! These silly dreams, To swim the famous Brawl, When I'm a homely catfish, You'll catch in any pond!

Grab-bag Buying

Remember your kid days . . . When you went to a bazaar or fair of any kind there was always a grab-bag—one of those mystical things you reached into and drew out a whistle, a lollipop, a doll or a toy of some kind. You never knew what you were going to get—but that was half the fun. You didn't care!

But now when you buy anything, you want to be sure of what you get. You can't take chances on grab-bag methods. You must know that your purchase will fit your need. But, do you?

There is one way you can be reasonably sure of everything you buy. Buy advertised products. Look through the advertisements in this paper. They will give you the information necessary to intelligent buying. They will tell you what is new and best and why it will suit you.

They're After Robbie's Scalp

BY MAX HUCKINGHAM
United Press Staff Correspondent.
A presidential year in Brooklyn without a baseball club fighting for the pennant is discouraging to the chances of Duke Wilgus Robinson.

Steve McKeever, one of the major stockholders, has said that Robinson must go. He has claimed the club needs a managerial change and has claimed that Robbie hasn't extended his full efforts towards the 1928 club.

Robbie points to his contract, which has a year set to run, says he intends to fulfill it and leave the matter to the fans.

But to get back to the presidential year.

In 1928 the Robbies won a pennant. From that time on the Brooklyn team was one of the big leagues of the league. Whenever they got within speaking distance of the first division the Brooklyn fans got excited. The speaking distance was about as close as they ever got.

"Game leader Robinson," once manager of the Baltimore Orioles along with John McGraw, was appointed manager of the Robbies.

Win in '16 and '20
"Two years later—1916—was a presidential year. Robbie chose that year to become one of baseball's master minds and planned a club that had won championships virtually, no stretch, in a championship.

"Then in 1920, the next presidential year, Robbie took another team that appeared slightly less than Class B on paper—and started everyone by directing it into a championship.

"Brooklyn fans were awed. There wasn't anything Robbie couldn't have. And in 1924 they felt sure that Robbie would repeat his presidential year. Indeed on the other National League club and send the Robbies through to a pennant. Robinson tried.

The race was hectic—and it was only by a game and a half that the Robbies beat out the Dodgers for the pennant. The fans had attended well, stood by the party leader, and told how "tough breaks" had deprived the Robbies of a pennant.

"Through the next three years the Robbies were not of a big-league club, but all the fans figured that 1928 might bring a pennant. This spring they pointed to Dizzy Vance, to Jess Pitts, to some hard hitting outfielders and infielders—and they pulled in that, that, again, the "flat-bush club" would coast in.

Brooklyn Law in Hall
"Something went wrong. Brooklyn is in second division. The team has and only one sport all season, and that short-lived. And now Steve McKeever said Robbie should go.

It is understood that McKeever is ready to pay Robinson $25,000 for his contract—a $10,000 as manager and $15,000 salary as club president.

"I have a letter signed by 50 leading citizens of Brooklyn protesting against the firing of Robinson," McKeever said. "We have spent money. The situation is not a new one."

Of course McKeever never has been exactly of Robbie. He opposed the three-year contract in 1926, but he didn't have power enough then to do anything about it.

And Robbie is just as much against McKeever.

"If I had been working for him since I'd have resigned long ago," Robbie chuckled, but continued that he had other employers who desired he be retained.

He has an iron clad contract with the Brooklyn Dodgers to manage the team and I am president of the Robbies. I intend to fulfill the contract," Robinson said.

YOUNGSTERS TO PLAY ALL OVER

Match Called on Account of Darkness and Must Be Repeated Again.

By United Press
CHIBSTANT HILLS, Mass., Aug. 31.—Two youngsters, so far as America's international tennis stars are concerned, held the spotlight of interest today, for upon their shoulders rests the chance of America to hold her own national doubles title.

And these two youngsters, George Lott and John Hennessey, are making the most of their chances.

Yesterday Hennessey and Lott showed the greatest campaign, an American team has shown in years. They faced the team of Jacques Brugnon and Henri Cochet, the Wimbledon by English doubles champion, in the semi-finals of the national championship.

The first two sets went to the Americans 6-4, 6-4.

The next two sets went to the Frenchmen, 7-5, 7-5.

Then they went into the final deciding set. It was a repetition of the two previous sets. Every point was hotly contested. The sun kept sinking lower. Finally when the point was called the referee called a halt to the match.

Today the two teams will meet again to play the entire semi-final match again.

In the quarter finals of the mixed doubles, E. H. Moon, Australia, and Miss Ethel Cross of California, defeated Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Chase Jr. of Springfield, Mass., 4-6, 10-8, 6-2.

Miss Helen Wills, women's national singles champion, and Jack Hawkes, Australia, defeated Mrs. E. A. Harper and J. Gregory, England, 6-4, 6-0.

WHEAT PRICES GAIN SLIGHTLY; CORN MODERATE

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Strength at Liverpool and a decrease in hedging pressure accounted for a slight gain in wheat prices on the board of trade today. September corn came tight and advanced slightly, carrying the deferred futures to higher levels. Outrigger in sympathy.

Wheat closed 1/4¢ higher; corn 1/4¢ higher; soybeans unchanged. Provisions were moderately lower. Wheat trade was quiet and prices early in the day drifted within a narrow range. Deliveries of wheat on September contracts tomorrow are expected to be large. Receipts were 120 cars with the cash market unchanged.

Corn trade also was moderate. September was subject to rapid and erratic price fluctuations. Short covering accounted for some of the cash corn to be higher. Arrivals were 123 cars.

Out had a full day, following the other grains. Receipts were 88 cars with the cash market unchanged.

Grain futures ranged as follows:

Cattle, receipts 12500; calves, 1000; head of cattle, 1000; head of calves, 100

By United Press

GENEVA, Aug. 31.—Voldemaras, scheduled to be called on the carpet before the council of the League of Nations tomorrow today.

The session, which is the first since the league was founded, and will begin the last session with its present members, will be closed by the league assembly early next month to succeed Columbia, China and Holland.

The present session of the council is largely for the winding up of all pending questions for final reference to the annual league assembly which begins in London.

The Polish-Lithuanian dispute, which has now been before the council ever since last December, will be the first political question to be handled.

situation for the council, the league assembly will be called to order by

Southern Pacific Buys Half Northwestern

NEGOTIATIONS UNDER WAY CALLING FOR PURCHASE AND EXPANSION FOR ENDING DEADLOCK BETWEEN ROADS

Move Is Considered by Many as a Probable Source of Intensive Development in Northern California and Oregon; Expected To Settle Transportation Disputes and End Strife Soon.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Announcement was expected here shortly of purchase by the Southern Pacific company of the Santa Fe railroad now held by the Santa Fe. President M. Magard of the Northwestern Pacific said today that negotiations were under way which called for the purchase by the Southern Pacific and expansion of present Northwestern Pacific lines into new territory in northern California.

The move, widely discussed as a probable source of intensive development in northern California and Oregon, would mark the end of a long-standing deadlock between the two major roads.

It was interpreted in railroad circles here as being another step toward the amicable settlement of transportation disputes which have delayed development of rich sections of the west.

Jointly owned by the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific, the Northwestern Pacific for many years has been expected to expand. It runs from San Francisco to Reno.

Residents of the Eureka district hoped it would be extended to tap the rich iron ore fields of the Eureka district.

Southern Pacific officials announced the "cost" of extending the line through Eureka via Grantsville, Ore., would be prohibitive.

Many declared the Southern Pacific did not wish to extend the line because this, in effect, would divide its own transcontinental traffic with the Santa Fe.

In any event, the plans were laid aside. Now it appears likely they will be given no consideration if the "split traffic" obstacle is removed by the Southern Pacific's purchase.

District Attorney May Investigate

By United Press
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 31.—The district attorney's office today was asked to investigate the alleged activities of the late Senator Joseph P. McKim.

McKim, a prominent lawyer and politician, was accused of having been involved in a scheme to defraud the state of California.

The district attorney's office is now conducting a thorough investigation of the matter.

The results of the investigation will be reported to the public in the near future.

LITTLE DOUBT OF WINNING IN HOOVER CAMP

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—A subject not on the agenda occupied the attention of the council of the League of Nations today.

The dignified members, engaged in thoughts of disarmament, applied control, conventions, treaties and protocols, learned that the girls are not so much interested in the League.

They learned it at first hand. Three fashionably dressed women appeared clothed completely except for stockings.

A scandalized member tried to "let her go," but they presented undeniable credentials from one of the leading delegations to the League.

They went directly into the chamber, and stayed all during the session.

A "respectable" member, looked startled, adjusted his eyes to the "mystery" of the situation.

They may have been "what the hell" about the girls, but they were not so much interested in the League.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS BELIEVE IN CERTAINTY OF ELECTION AND MANY ARE TALKING OF POSITIONS IN CABINETS; FEW WARN LEADERS AGAINST OVERCONFIDENCE

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Herbert Hoover and his campaign shipmates have decided in their conference here that they can cruise into port election day ahead of the Democrats with only such sails as they have already set.

They have their confidence on the fact that normally this is a Republican and dry country, and they do not intend to do any extra maneuvering which might cause the Democrats to what they privately expect will be the inevitable result.

This is the psychology behind their decision to hold the Republican presidential nominee down to three or four speeches and behind their agreement to let each state organization conduct its own campaign.

Their confidence is based on the fact that they believe that Hoover's private reports from the outlying districts indicate the popular vote may be close but, privately again, they claim to feel certain they have more than sufficient electoral college votes to carry the election.

Hoover is known to conduct in this theory the present political situation. He has made no claims for publication. He intends to conduct the personal part of his campaign as if he had no opponent.

This strategy was so successful in the campaign conducted by President Coolidge from the White House in 1924 that Hoover leaders intend to copy it.

This strategy was so successful in the campaign conducted by President Coolidge from the White House in 1924 that Hoover leaders intend to copy it.

The confidence around Hoover is based on the fact that they believe that Hoover's private reports from the outlying districts indicate the popular vote may be close but, privately again, they claim to feel certain they have more than sufficient electoral college votes to carry the election.

Hoover is known to conduct in this theory the present political situation. He has made no claims for publication. He intends to conduct the personal part of his campaign as if he had no opponent.

SMITH HAS PLEDGED HIMSELF TO ENFORCE THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT AND WILL DO SO EVEN THOUGH HE DOES FAVOR A SLIGHT MODIFICATION OF THE PRESENT LAW

By United Press
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Aug. 31.—The basis of the Democratic campaign against the south and to that dry element of the party which has looked askance at the prohibition modification of Governor Smith has been revealed in the address of Senator Joe Robinson.

Robinson, who is the vice-presidential nomination.

The Democrats say to the country: "We are not going to modify the 18th amendment or the Volstead act. We are pledged to enforce the law and the fact that he believes conditions could be bettered by modifying the law is no reason to change his mind with regard to the law."

That was the position as explained here last night by Senator Robinson in a speech before the local Democratic club.

He said he would not seek to reconcile the wet and dry wings of the party.

The circumstances in which Robinson was notified of his nomination constituted one of the greatest demonstrations ever recorded in a political campaign.

Between 16,000 and 20,000 persons heard his speech at the Hot Springs hotel where he was staying.

housewife may take into account in planning her basement laundry. In that a hot water coil may be installed as an integral part of some laundry. This is a practical and exceedingly economical means of obtaining hot water for the laundry.

A warm air radiator may be provided which will supply the warm air as it is desired and will help to dry the clothes during the winter or in rainy weather. The cleanliness of the improved modern warm air furnace is another factor which contributes to the practicality of the basement laundry.

The basement in this house is seven and a half feet deep, which is sufficient for the several purposes outlined for it. As in many homes the basement is long in the center, which is not ideal from the point of view of full utilization of the basement. Yet the plan shown in the illustration demonstrates that, even in such cases, this part of the home holds large possibilities.

YOUNGSTERS TO PLAY ALL-OVER

Match Called on Account of Darkness and Must Be Repeated Again.

By United Press.
TWIN FALLS, Aug. 31.—Two youngsters, so far as America's international tennis stars are concerned, held the spotlight of interest today for upon their shoulders rests the chance of America to hold her own national tennis title.

And these two youngsters, George Lott and John Hennessey, are making the most of their chance. Yesterday Hennessey and Lott showed the greatest seriousness an American team has shown in years. They faced the team of Jacques Brugnon and Henri Cochet, the Wimbledon champions, in the first round of the national championship.
