NEW YORK HAS NEW RULING IN FIGHT PRELIMS

More Money and More Fighting Hoped for by New Ruling.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—A ruling which may revolutionize the boxing industry, and which is certain to occasion serious concern among many young men now engaged in the pro-fight or flatfooted, has been adopted by the New York state athletic commission.

Heretofore, it has been a practice of most promoters to give preliminary fights to the four round preliminary contests in the rate of $10 per round. If the fight went the limit, each boxer received $10. If it ended in the first round by a knockout or technical stoppage, each received $5.

Heretofore, the commission had decided, a boxer who is knocked out in the first round by a technical stoppage is to receive $10. The new ruling is to give the boxer who is knocked out in the first round by a technical stoppage $10. If the fight went the limit, each boxer received $10. If it ended in the first round by a knockout or technical stoppage, each received $5.

'Ray for Ray

When Ray Harbut of Syracuse broke the tape in a driving finish of the 400 meter sprint at the Olympic history reported itself. Like Jackson Scholz in 1924, the "Hunky New Yorker" proved the mettle of a true champion.

There has been considerable speculation since the return of the United States team as to the rough way Harbut, never particularly prominent among American quarter milers, should have been most successful track performer at the IX Olympiad.

The answer is found in one short and rather brief word: "Guts." It is to have sport maintained at the apex of public interest, as seemed inevitable, the qualities of sporting character seem to have been in evidence.

There is no prettier word in the English language than "guts." It is a fighter.

Ray is a fighter. In response to the Syracuse football and track star's variations in action. When he won the quarter mile in the spring meet of the I. C. A. A. A. he did so by driving through ponds of water.

The track athlete's attitude when competitors ran wild, seeking safety in fleeing. Watching Harbut that rainy afternoon in the stadium, more than one observer (heated him as a likely Olympic winner, and the confidence with which he won the quarter mile, he fought off the challenge of Bill of Canada in the straight-away at Amherst.

From the time of the arrival of the S. S. President Roosevelt at Amherst in what the Dutch call "Het Jap," Harbut was itching for action.

Tuning In On The Fair

There will always be a chance for a show, and the Twin Falls county fair, if the owners want it," stated President Wilson in his address to the exhibitors of that class who feared that the present lack of exhibition business would result in the discontinuance of this part of the show.

The stock parade, which has always been a feature of the annual exposition, would not be complete unless led by the "unofficial" animals who have been raised to be exhibited by tractors or other "modern" farm machines, and the declaration met with the approval of the owners and spectators as well.

Its automatic self-stopping feature demonstrated that all barbers are right—have been for 2,000 years. Because they always stop their razors before they start a shave.

The reason for this is that after the first shave the cutting edge of the finest blade that can be made is a row of minute needle points which properly stopped. This smooths out and re-aligns these tiny jagged hooks.

Everywhere wise men are turning to the new Valet Auto-Stop Razor because it is the only razor that sharpens itself an assurance you of a super-keen smooth shaving blade.

Beautifully finished models complete with blades and an improved strop in handsome cases at $1.00 to $2.25.

PRAYER—Lord, we seek Thy counsel and Thy wisdom.

STABILITY OF THE MONEY MARKET FULLY DEMONSTRATED

Financial experts on Wall Street who predicted that high interest rates would check the upward trend of the stock market, have been fooled.—The market refuses to be checked.

In reviewing last week's market conditions, an authoritative financial writer explains the present puzzling situation by stating that it is the existence and functioning of the Federal Reserve system that has saved the day, the money kings having confidence that the Federal Reserve acts as a sort of collateral in that ample funds are assured for further undertakings. However that may be, the market continues to show amazing strength.

Particularly favorable is the railroad situation, some 56 of the Class One rail-lines making July reports that show nearly 14 per cent increase in net over July of last year. And now that the fall crop movement is well under way, the railroads are going to be taxed to handle the situation expeditiously.—Official reports of the car service department of the American Railway association show an increase in car loadings of nearly 12,500 cars above the preceding week, attributable in part to an amazing increase in miscellaneous freight, although wheat is now moving to the mills in enormous quantities from the great wheat-producing centers.

Steel and copper continue in strong demand largely because of the market activity in the automobile industry and what is more than passing interest to Idaho is the rumor that there is in sight a serious shortage in the supply of copper.

So business is admittedly good even though we are another week closer to election day.

THEY WON

The news of the finding of Hassell and Cramer alive and well, though hungry, dashed over the wires of the United Press Monday, was one of those real thrillers. The public has become more and more accustomed to tragedy, daring and victory from the lessrepid airman who are doing big scale pioneer work in conquering the air, but there is a real thrill when news comes of apparent defeat turned into victory.

The real reason why we respond so enthusiastically to such news is more or less primitive. Most of us were reigned to the view that the two men probably had been claimed as victims of their own daring. We thought they had been caught, like animals in a trap. But they beat the trap and death, emerged as victors when we thought them lost, and so gave us another example of the will of men to live under extreme risks.

TOURISTS BENEFIT CANADA

Official reports from Toronto, capital of the Province of Ontario, state that up to the middle of August approximately ten million automobile tourists crossed the border line between the United States and Canada, entering Ontario from Fort William and Sault Ste. Marie on Lake Superior to Sarnia, Windsor, Niagara Falls and the upper St. Lawrence region while thousands motored westward from the Province of Quebec. As to the monetary side of the transaction, the estimate also says that these ten million visitors have left around sixty million dollars in pocket change with Ontario hotels, stores and other places of business and recreation.

Pursuing the statistical report in further detail, the estimate adds that the gasoline tax collected from the motor tourists amounted to four and a half million dollars alone, that more than six hundred tons of butter was consumed, to say nothing of thirteen million dozen eggs, two million gallons of milk, two hundred and fifty thousand bags of potatoes and four million loaves of bread plus the supplemental fruits, vegetables and confections.

On top of all this is an estimated total of three million visitors from other countries so that Ontario will have netted something more than one hundred million dollars before the summer and autumn seasons come to a close.

Then again, Ontario is only one of the nine provinces, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories, so there is as yet no means of getting at the total for the whole Dominion for most assuredly all the Provinces have enjoyed the benefits of the annual summer invasion to the tune of many millions of dollars.

On the other hand, those who have crossed the border have felt well repaid for the visit. Canada is an interesting country; her people are of our own blood and kin and after all, there is naught but an imaginary line between the United States and Canada, a line that grows dimmer with the passing of the years and would scarcely be recognized were it not for officious customs and immigration officers.

Canada is a land good to look at; good roads have made it possible to seek out the most delightful recreation spots so there is every incentive to cross the border to visit our cousins and friends.

THE KILLER IS DEAD

Legislation Tribune
Because the crime he committed received full publicity in the north-west press because of the frantic and unusual efforts to secure a respite sentence, and because he was executed only a few hours distance from this city, Lewiston residents have followed with unusual interest the progress by which Wallace C. Gaines was tried, found guilty and executed by the state of Washington.

It is very difficult to conceive of Gaines being given that sort of publicity. His murderer, Ben, will not choose to believe, however, that it was a deliberate killing, but that it was the sudden outbreak of a demented mind. A father does not take the life of his child in a moment of anger.

The official inquest into the death of Sylvia Gaines was ended when Gaines consented to a coroner's jury. Stern, that he had killed his daughter. Tried before a jury of twelve, Gaines was found to be the murderer of his child. Then followed two years during which the ponderous wheels of the law revolved. One by one many angles and confirmed the judgment. Appeals were made to the Supreme Court and to the supreme court of the United States, and in both cases these benches found that the conviction made by the jury was true. A long list of appeals to Governor Holman Hartley were rejected. The coroner after due investigation also found reason to believe Gaines guilty as charged.

In the face of such a sadistic investigation, it is not surprising that Gaines was guilty, there is no reason to believe that Gaines was innocent. One who has known the man has commented, but surely not of them. While the world will consider the "murderer of Gaines" for as long as it can have nothing but sympathy and sorrow for the wife and for the brother of the dead and William Gaines. He has given a heart-rending example of the devotion and love of a brother for brother.

BANNING THE BARBEVILLS

Kansas City Post
Considerations of safety and common sense are embodied in the order of the war department prohibiting army aviators from participating in daredevil stunts, such as wine drinking and similar antics, endangering not only the lives of principals in such exhibitions but those of persons who are spectators.

The limited campaign for safety in all forms of transportation has at greater force than the daredevil with a motor car, but the department order is quite in keeping with the conservative trend of the times, to curtail such activities when there are safer ways of accomplishing the same results.

FARM SURVEYS

New Orleans Times-Tribune
Mr. Rashall plans a farm survey. We warn him of the consequences which will befall him if he does not. Farm surveys are even a degree more dangerous than the daredevil stunts. Farm surveys are in vogue, known to be merely a political football. But farm surveys are needed in an earnest spirit by some few who have escaped the superficialization of the age.

I WASTED SYMPATHY
Do not waste your pity, friend,
When you see me weep in grief;
Keep it to some better end,
When I am dead and you are left.
When I was young I was a fool,

By a silent tongue, ah! then
Had you brought it, it had been
Sweet indeed to me; but now
When the depths of my despair
Are unveiled and through the
Of my heart come true as air.

If you read the advertisements, you know definitely how a certain refrigerator will act in your own kitchen; how that furniture polish will improve your own chairs; What is advertised has to do what it is advertised to do. Advertisements are honest. They invite too many thousands of testers not to be honest. Their continued advertising proves them honest! You take advertised facts on faith—as you take the dictionary on faith. You know what the perfume, hosiery, canned goods they describe are the perfumes, hosiery, canned goods widely enjoyed. You read advertisements to know the true meaning of things before you invest in their use.

When you buy, you know it's the use of a product that counts, not merely its pleasing sound. You can learn its uses and all it means—before you buy. SLUGGISH-TONE GRAIN MARKET; TRADING SLOW

By United Press
 CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Speculative buying was at a standstill on the hard of Trade today and wheat futures slipped fractionally lower. Corn showed strength and recovered early. Oats were little changed. Provisions advanced sharply.

Wheat saw little action during the morning. Selling by Northwesters here caused a slight depression shortly after the opening. Trading in the Northwest has not begun to move in volume because of the recent heavy rains, but Canadian terminals reported increasing receipts. Exports were 38 cars with cash wheat unchanged.

Corn also was dull. All deliveries named lower but made little change when September showed strength. The cash market was 1/2 higher. Arrivals were 53 cars.

Oats continued without feature. Receipts were 53 cars with the cash market unchanged.
