J. J. WILLIAMS OF UTAH DIES DOING STUNT

Flying Upside Down When Motor Failed; Crash in Front of Grandstand

By United Press. MINNES FIELDS, LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11.—J. J. Williams, 35, perhaps the most daring of army fliers, died early today. His death was the first of 129 others all across and tonight from injuries received when his last plane crashed with him standing here last night.

Williams was flying 150 miles an hour, 100 feet above the ground and upside down, when the motor of his plane wedged under his cockpit and covered with wreckage. He was taken to the Kaiser City hospital where he died.

Hoover Learns Of Maine Vote, Says He'll Go Fishing

By United Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Herbert Hoover concluded the advance copy of his Newark labor speech today and indicated he would start tomorrow on a two-day fishing trip down the Potomac river and Chesapeake bay. His calling list was vacant for the day so he might go; the address he would deliver, Newark, opening his eastern speaking campaign. Returns from the Maine primary were scanned by Hoover.

The nominee now believes everything is in shapeliness for a brief vacation. He will have a fortnight after the Newark speech to prepare his next address at Elizabeth, Tenn. This week little remains to be done. Practically all of the important speakers and leaders have seen Hoover recently and have been assigned their work.

Headquarters has taken scant notice of published reports that Hubert H. Hoover, secretary of the republican national committee, was selected to carry out his instruction.

French Fliers Will Try For World's Record in Flight

By United Press. PARIS, Sept. 11.—Léonel Le Moine and Louis Pavane started at 8:42 a. m. today on a flight to break the world's long distance flight record now held by Major Arturo Ferrarin, who with his partner, the late Major Carlo del Prete, flew 7,056 kilometers.

The fliers used a single-engine Caudron monoplane equipped with a 300-horsepower motor. The tandemly seated fliers used its full load of 4,500 liters of kerosene.

A number of newspapers placed on race, again so the aviators might read on the way, which will be made over a closed circuit.

Twin Falls Placed On Important Route

The Atlantic Yellowstone Pacific Highway association, which has a well-marked highway system from Chicago to Pacific coast points, has designated Twin Falls as a major junction. The second follows, according to word received by Newell Smith, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

The association recently projected their route west from Yellowstone national park to Twin Falls and divided it into three routes to the coast from here. One goes through Idaho to Missouri; the second follows the routing of the Old Oregon Trail to Oregon points, and the third passes through Reno, Nev., San Francisco and California cities.

The action of the association demonstrates the decision of Imperial judges of the importance of Twin Falls in the highway system of the northwest. The association has already marked the route as far west as Turley.

By United Press. PARIS, Sept. 11.—The "Flying restaurant" has been discontinued by the company which organized the first and healthful air tour with its own cars to be substituted with lunch-baskets obtained before leaving the aerodrome for an occasional sandwich served cautiously on route.

Stock Exchange Seat Sells For $410,000

By United Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Stock exchange seats went in a new record high price today when arrangements for a sale were announced at $410,000. The previous sale was at $375,000 and the previous high $355,000.

Jarrett Putting Up Stiff Fight On Extradition

By United Press. OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 11.—Whittier Earl Jarrett, Oklahoma gangster, will be returned to Colorado to stand trial for the Lamar bank murder and was today declared by Governor Henry S. Johnston. Colorado officers and witnesses opposed by two attorneys for Jarrett were to appear at the state house for a hearing on the extradition request at 10 a. m.

The Colorado accusers who identified him as one of four gangsters sought for the murder of four men in the Lamar robbery incident charge Jarrett boasted he had "40,000 horses" ready to spend in his fight against extradition.

Mother Seeks Babe Given Away Thirty Yrs. Ago in Chicago

By United Press. CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—Mrs. J. J. Heise, wife of a police officer in San Diego, arrived here today to seek her daughter, who was given to the care of a Chicago dentist, 31 years ago.

Mrs. Heise's name then was Anna Maude Lammann. She was unable to care for her 3-year-old daughter, Vern, and turned the child over to Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Gould, seventeen years later, Mrs. Lammann came to Chicago and tried to get her daughter. She and Mrs. Gould quarreled and Mrs. Lammann returned to San Diego.

HUNT ASKING RE-ELECTION FOR 7TH TIME

By United Press. PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 11.—Arizona voters went to the polls today to cast their biggest primary vote since the canyon state was admitted to the union. A total of 166,835 voters were registered in the state's 14 counties. Chief interest in the primary race centered on the gubernatorial contest. Governor George W. P. Hunt, serving the Democratic term, for re-election, was seeking re-election on the Democratic ticket on a platform of efficient government, and the Republican ticket was headed by James H. Kirby, secretary of state, who has assailed many features of the present state administration.

BACK TO SCHOOL AGAIN

WITH the opening of school one of the most important elements of local government again comes into play. Youth resumes the task of studying systematically the knowledge the past has to offer in its efforts to prepare for the big task that lies just ahead when the duties of citizenship and leadership will pass into its hands.

The resumption of school creates a double obligation that falls on the shoulders of both adults and students. The tendency to take things for granted is as old as human history, and the easy thing to do is to turn the job of school work over to experienced staffs and trust them with the whole job. As a matter of fact, the public has so vital an interest in this business of educating youth that its assistance in sensible ways is not only desirable but indispensable if the school work is to be most effective.

An active, not passive, interest on the part of parents in the work of schools is an essential requisite to the biggest kind of success. A new traffic problem is created again by reason of the presence in large numbers of children and youths on city streets, and motorists owe it to themselves and society to drive carefully when young lives are in danger. Aid may be effectively rendered by parents in insisting on certain standards of accomplishment being maintained by their children.

The obligation on the part of children and youth/his several angles. For one thing, it should be borne in mind by them that the opportunity afforded them of studying under modern conditions is a definite heritage from the past, and they have come into this heritage because the parents of today and of the past have made some real sacrifices. Schools are possible because we pay for them, and the cost is sufficiently heavy to constitute a real load in many cases. The people of the Greater Twin Falls Empire have always insisted on the best obtainable in the way of education, and it is right that these lofty standards should be maintained and improved upon as time passes. It is fitting that youth, mightily intent on the future, pause a moment to consider its obligation to the present and resolve that the work done shall be of such high standards and effectiveness as to justify the expense incurred to provide schools.

What an opportunity is afforded youth to learn! It is a great adventure, this tackling of the job of preparing oneself for citizenship. The challenge is big, and one of the glories of life is the fact that youth accepts that challenge and generally is able to pass the goal set by predecessors.

A DANGER IN ROMANCE

THE quickening of the public's taste for war fiction, as shown by the increasing number of such stories that are appearing in the popular magazines, furnishes food for thought.

We may assume that the horrors of war are losing their grip on the public mind. The nasty, monotonous, irksome phases of war have been forgotten in large measure and the minds of people are now prepared to see the other angles. Humour, whose saving flashes may be found in nearly all situations, undoubtedly can be portrayed truthfully as one of the ingredients of life of armies. Courage, too, has its part, but to many veterans, efforts to glorify war with romance will leave them cold and unresponsive.

The trend toward a less matter of fact consideration of the fighting of war is unavoidable and was confidently predicted by writers several years ago. In one way, such a change is desirable. It is indeed fortunate for all of us, that we may unshackle our minds of many inhibitions that are a part of war-time thinking and doing, but any chance that would banish the picture of war that we formed while in the midst of those desperate endeavors and make it a thing even remotely approaching the romantic or beautiful is assassin.

War is wasteful, cruel, horrible. The fact that it is still used is one of the real proofs of how primitive we are. But we can not make ourselves believe that there is yet an end to it. The public will be foolish if it takes seriously the semblance of romance in which fictionists may dress it.

War is a reality when it does exist. The United States was merely scratched by the world conflict, not bled white as were some of the countries of Europe, and the tendency to forget, as expressed by the return to popularity of fiction treating of war and war situations, should not go so far that we forget to be prepared. Horrible and senseless as it is as a means of doing any constructive work for humanity, we must be always prepared to face the possibility of using it, notwithstanding the breath of romance that the mellowing influences of time may create to soften harsh memories.

Twin Falls police are to be commended for the promptness of their action in tracing clues in the cases of safe robbing here Saturday night. It is prompt action such as pressed in this case that does more than all the theorizing in the world to make law breaking unpopular.

WAS IT PROPHECY?

(Lakeland, Fla.) Tribune
It has been a few years since prediction was made by a newspaperman our flight after the "young" had finished work and had relaxed in a morning paper office, that in 25 years newspapermen and surveyors of news would be out of style and that the nation would be on-the-job. All-fellow night-birds booted at him. He insisted that if newspapermen still were in operation a quarter century later, they would have only such demand as might be created by desire on the part of the public to substantiate what they had heard during the day or night, by the wireless. They said he was crazy in his head. Perhaps he was, slightly. But this Saturday night he was in Dallas, Texas, might be taken by the prophet, if he was, to be bolster up his argument. You can't rent it for yourself.

Radio fans who tuned in on station WJLA Dallas, for broadcast hour program today heard a running eyewitness account of a murder. Mrs. Vera, blonde Grimes, was playing "Moonlight and Roses" on the piano when Dalish Schultz, announcer, heard what she thought was an automobile tire hitting out, but he looked out of the window anyway. Below he saw a man running across the street carrying a briefcase and a woman who was shouting. Cutting "Moonlight and Roses" off unceremoniously, Schultz took the microphone and dictated an account of the shooting of Gracie Mathews, a bank executive.

Armer, who has been disgraced with Mathews over an election bid. The shooting occurred in the city of Dallas, Texas, and a notable scene by the radio over newspapers, because listeners hundreds of miles away got a narrative of the shooting before Dallas newspapermen knew there had been a murder.

ARGENTINA'S FEELINGS HAVE BEEN HIT

(Dallas News)
Somebody somewhere in his broad land of ours, wrote a piece about the president of Argentina and got it printed in newspaper or magazine. Who the author was or what medium it used seems to have escaped the record. But anyhow he is representative having said that President Trigo was a mystery man, and strongly hinted, so it is claimed, that the South American executive was not all he might be in the matter of brains, will power and leadership.

Argentinean, however, even if most of America appears to have overlooked it entirely. So Argentina could not demand credit. At least Senator Borah says she would. And his mission is to clear the name of the illustrious chief. For Argentina can not be happy while the breath of criticism tarries his fair shield.

Trigo is the representative of the Union Civic Radical and Senator Borah feels that ought to be for him, the reputation of a radical. But it is not so. In Argentina "radical" doesn't mean radical. It means "true" or "sincere" or "genuine." And Trigo is all of that, even if his party might be as much in every corner. Senator Borah has come thousands of miles by land and sea to tell us so.

Daily Poem

THE BRAVE HEARTS.
Just a little rain,
Just a little hail,
Just a little sleet,
Just a little snow,
All our strength to test,
But the brave hearts cheer,
Toward the golden west.
None get all the laughter,
None get all the tears,
Joy and grief are portioned
Through the passing years,
Grief seems the pain,
But the brave hearts cheer,
Everywhere you'll meet them,
Patient, gentle, true,
Knowing all you suffer,
For they've suffered, too,
Sorrow has reared a host of them,
They have known defeat,
But they've changed life's bitterness
Into memories sweet.
Pain has kept them gentle,
Sorrow has kept them brave,
They've striven sorrow's roses,
On a little grave,
But with the brave courageous
Still they march alone,
Sincere as the stars,
Their triumphant song.

The next meeting of the organization will be held at the home of Mrs. Scott, Eden in Eden.

Mrs. A. J. Wilson returned home this week from Lynn, Oklahoma, where she attended at the college and improved. Mrs. Elizabeth Aberdon is visiting this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. McNea.

Cassia County Is Set For Big Fair

HILKEY, Sept. 11—All is ready for the biggest county fair Cassia county has ever staged. It will be held at the county fairgrounds, Thursday and Friday. The community booths are put in by the Paul garage, Emerson garage, Claxton garage and the Robert Christian church. The school booth has exhibits by both the high school and the elementary school.

Much stock and produce from the general countryside is coming in to the fair grounds. The county is being a great portion to come. Boy Scouts and Camp Fire girls have a big booth. Some exceptional races are planned. Thirty-five head of racing horses are now selected. Car races and Indian races will be a big feature. The spectators' building is now filled. The business men are all wearing large ten gallon hats in honor of the big rodeo that will be held each day.

Exhibits are now being made up to have a real fair around covered with tin buildings. One of the buildings is now being made up for this year's race. Those in charge are confident the fair will be a huge success. Dancing will be held every night of the fair. Fireworks will be set off Thursday night.

Vital News

Nothing so vitally concerns you in every-day life as the urge and necessity to buy or sell—to give or take—to borrow or exchange. Look through the advertisements of this paper and you will find that they embody the chief impulses of living.

The nation's life is clearly depicted in the national advertising. Our individual lives depend upon this advertising to a remarkable degree.

A newspaper is a clearing-house for ideas and commodities. Reports of the shifting phases of life come to you through its news and editorial columns. But reports of the material things upon which you depend for sustenance, comfort and happiness come through the advertisements.

If you read only one side of the paper, you gain only a half-knowledge of the activities, the aims, the character of the community. Read all and learn all.

... who have entered a field thus far dominated by men, and also in a success.

There are various reasons why women are not directors, she said.

"Women don't want to be directors. They would rather do some thing else, such as write or act. I always wanted to be a director and just worked along those lines; I never entered my head that I wouldn't do."

Women, too, lack the technical background for "they have been held in bondage too long."

There are qualities usually attributed to women, however, that will make them successful directors, she believed.

"There's something of the woman in all the best men directors. Woman is primarily creative and the men who succeed best are those with the characteristics of creativeness, often associated with women, although that doesn't mean they are lacking in masculinity."

She added that many of the finest artists in other fields have the same characteristics.

"The ideal directing combination," in Miss Arner's opinion, "would be a man and a woman working together. If it were possible for two who had the necessary ability to work in harmony."

She said she never experienced difficulty in working with men and in giving orders to the army of technical experts required on every scene. "I never consider myself as a woman in connection with the work," she explained.

As the time arrived for her to return directing her play, Miss Arner arose from the camera chair on which she had been sitting and walked toward the camera. In a few seconds all was business on the lot.

Her voice could not be heard above the click of the camera and the hum of the lights, but efficiency was there and the little busy actress, the land's same villain and all the technicians listened attentively.

She is a western woman, a native of San Francisco. During her youth she drove an ambulance in Los Angeles and New York. She then became connected with the film industry, first as a script typist. Step by step, she literally worked her way from the bottom to the position of director. She has done some writing, including original stories and continuities.

Mrs. J. H. Chirlean and Ruth Chirlean left Friday night for Boise to hold their first class in the Twin Falls.

BOMBAY, Sept. 11.—The high court insisted today on trial of a man accused of the murder of a Hindu woman and her beautiful daughter charged cruelty, perjury and abduction. The former maharajah's appeal disputing the court's jurisdiction. The justices said the man they would be for Tukol to appear and defend himself. The court implied that Tukol had nothing to fear since the native Indian government appeared to be granting the defense.

The former maharajah was given until October 10 to decide whether to defend the case.

Cities Stand In Awe As Gangsters Bury Their Dead

Three cities watched anxiously today as the bodies of slain gangsters were borne to the grave, awaiting the next outbreak of underworld fighting in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

In Chicago flowers were piled high on the Bier of Tony Lemardo, who was slain recently in the inter-city war. Scarface Al Capone, emperor of the underworld, was expected to pay homage to Lombardo, his lieutenant.

Two men were shot down in New York shortly before dawn and their companion was wounded as four gunmen slipped up to their ten feet of floor and emptied pistols in their backs. The dead are Michael Vitello and Joseph Perrella, the wounded man is John Berella, their uncle. Aelio Scaramo is dead in Philadelphia because he is said to have tried to hold up Poley Leavy, Leavy said he opened fire with a pump gun, killing Scaramo and wounding James Flors.

TO ESTABLISH FEED PLANT
The Ruston Purina company, reputed to be the largest manufacturer of animal stock feeds in the world, is establishing a $500,000 plant in Denver to serve the inter-mountain states, according to word received here today from W. T. Price, assistant general freight agent of the Union Pacific with headquarters in Denver.

'City Built on Islands'
America in the northern lands is a city built on islands, which are connected by 350 bridges.

HOLLYWOOD FILM SHOP

By STANLEY BAILEY
United Press Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 11.—In the land of make-believe, where femininity commotes frills and flounces, a woman, dressed in a gray skirted business suit, went about her business in a businesslike manner. She has an unimpaired mind.

Miss Dorothy Arner, director for Paramount studios, in a quiet voice that is never raised even in her capable moments, said:

DOROTHY ARNER
She is one of the very few of her sex who have entered a field thus far dominated by men, and also in a success.

city as megaphone executive, discussed the general proportion of women in business and women as directors in particular.
