Coach Basler Hates Mention of Armistice Day Game

BOISE AFRAID OF TWIN FALLS TEAM IN COMING FRAGAS

The Boise-Twin Falls armistice day football game at Twin Falls will draw a large crowd of football fans from both cities, as the Boise-Twin Falls football championship, as the Idaho football association has decided to withdraw from the state association because of the great distance between the two cities.

Boise and Twin Falls have romped through all opposition with huge scores and are rated steadily even on the home sheet, each having beaten Pocatello, the only team they both have met, 39 to 0.

Coach Loren Basler of Boise is gloomy whenever the Twin Falls game is mentioned, as his star quarterback who is rated as the best full general and inter-collegiate runner in the state was dramatically shelled by broken ribs received in the Pocatello game last Saturday.

In Willis Smith and Hugh Odess, Basler has a scoring combination never before established in Boise. Smith ran 50 yards from the bleekers for a score on both occasions. It did Baker little good, however, as he scored 72 points in his two games. The Boise game, to date, with the scores made follows:

Boise 6, Pocatello 0.
Boise 27, Boise 72.
Boise 12, Boise 72.
Pocatello 0, Boise 39.
Twin Falls 14, Boise 22.
Twin Falls team scores to date are:

Alhamb 0, Twin Falls 18.

CUBS FORFEIT TO KIMBERLY ELEVEN

Umpire Causes Disturbance by Too Frequent Application of Heavy Penalties.

KIMBERLY, Nov. 1 (Special) - What otherwise was a very close and interesting football game between the Twin Falls Cubs and the Kimberly high school team yesterday was marred by persistent penalizing among players and the umpire. In the last few minutes of play Coach Platt of the Twin Falls team kept the game on a knife edge to the Kimberly team after the umpire had inflicted several penalties for reasons unknown. The score stood 6 to 6 when the game was forfeited.

The first quarter of this game was marked with foul-penalties, passes and penalties with play being held in addition. The referee was not only and the players had frequently to explain their feet on the ground. Neither team seems to be interested seriously in the game.

The second quarter was more interesting. Kimberly executed a barrage of passes and the game was marred by several foul-penalties. The game was marred by several foul-penalties. The game was marred by several foul-penalties.

BRUINS CRIPPLED FOR GAME FRIDAY WITH CALDWELL

Tooley, Shoemaker and Lincoln Are Injured; Poor Weather Holds Up Practices.

Coach R. V. Jones says that a crippled team that has had no practice in a week could not play a high school team on Lincoln field tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The Bruins are faced with the toughest luck they have had all season. Poor weather has allowed but one good practice this week. Tooley, but with a badly wrenched shoulder and Coach Jones stated yesterday he would probably start "Caldwell" in Friday's game.

Shoemaker, brilliant halfback, is expected to start in Friday's game and is quite likely to see the game from the bench with either Smith or Stamp playing the game. Lloyd Lincoln was badly lacerated and wrenched in the Piler game and will not start. Caldwell, who has not done any practice, is expected in Twin Falls this afternoon with the strain of laceration.

The Caldwell boys, but a hard game to the Bruins, and are out for a victory over Twin Falls. Caldwell has in his lineup a powerful forward wall, Huns, and back has, rated as a possible Johnny Farrell, the professional all state man and is expected to lead his record and be the noddy play at Utah.

College Lads Use Wits to Get Free Lunch in Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1 (AP) - The old question of the value of a college education versus ordinary business research was being put to the test here today. The solution was being demonstrated by a local cafeteria proprietor, who placed this announcement in his window:

"Every 25th customer enters free."

The academic ride was being taken care of by a group of college boys in front of the cafeteria. The leader had a small pair of field glasses perched on the cashier in the other hand he held an automatic camera.

Every 25th customer for over an hour had been an undergraduate and every 25th tray had been filled with free food.

It is at the back of the proprietor's mind that it is apparent that the college education proposition had won. He is making this decision at least a temporary decision.

OUR GREATEST MEN? TEN BILLION DOLLARS set down at dinner together in New York the other night, and a reverent country-guest's amazement. The ten billion was represented by nine men: such leaders as Henry Ford, Cyrus H. K. Curtis, Eastman, Horsey, Forestone and Charles M. Schwab. They sat at a banquet, it seems, at one of regular places such as the rest of us, handled forks and knives in the normal way, chatted amiably and acted quite as lesser mortals might.

Our country rewards its leaders quite handsomely. Never in history were such huge fortunes amassed. Never before could ten billions in gold sit at one table in a small room. The power and the glory that were centered in that hotel dining room were of staggering dimensions.

Yet one may wonder how the thing will look a couple of centuries from now. To whom will our grandchildren build statues? How many of the names on the guest list at that dinner will be remembered?

There is no denying that such men have influenced the country profoundly. America, doubtless, would be a different country today if Ford had gone in for stamp collecting instead of automotive experiments back in the '90s. The great advertising business, so big a force in modern life, would be absent if Curtis had not lived. These men have put their impress on their generation.

But the man posterity delights to honor are not always the men who can marshal an army of dollars. The man who deals in material things sometimes appears in retrospect to have been less influential than had been thought.

Mankind is a whole is not moved greatly by changes in the outward forms of its existence. It exchanges Roman palimpsests for automobiles and uses rubber, heat and smoky freeways; but these things do not bring any essential change. Something within remains unaltered by them, waiting for the real leaders who can strike the note that will call it into action.

When HEADLIGHTS BLIND DAZZLING automobile headlights, evident in altogether too great numbers on streets and highways throughout the country, are a distinct and growing menace to motorist safety, declares a statement from the National Association of the American Automobile association calling upon all motorists to do their utmost in curbing this evil which has taken a high toll of human life and property.

Figures compiled by the National Automobile organization show that from three to five percent of all night-time accidents are traceable to faulty headlights, and usually the defect was found to be glare caused by improper focus.

zazzling for the drivers of approaching cars. It is to court trouble for oneself and jeopardize the safety of all other motorists," declares the A. A. A. statement.

"Traffic authorities are well agreed that headlights are an aid to safe driving only when they are in proper condition. Otherwise they defeat their purpose and are a hindrance rather than an assistance. To say that headlights are in proper condition means that they must be bright enough to light up the road way and at the same time be so focused that the beams will be both downward and kept out of the eyes of approaching drivers.

Every car owner should subject his headlights to periodic examination. Proper adjustment calls for a certain degree of expert knowledge and if the owner does not know how to make the adjustment himself, he should see to it that it is done.

Best Editorial of the Day PITY THE CANDIDATE (Baltimore Sun)

PITY the poor candidate. He can't please everybody and he does so much of the time. If he is popular, he is accused of not being human kindness. If he is inflexible, he is held unworshipfully of the high office he seeks. If he promises the farmer, he irritates the city man. If he indorses big business, he irritates the farmer. If he favors labor big business scorns him.

If he refuses to reply to attacks, he is accused of being afraid. If he replies to attacks he is charged with giving too much attention to unimportant details. If he doesn't speak for a platform, he offends those who have come to applaud him. If he does speak from rostrum platforms, he loses his voice and can not speak at all.

If he is a practical politician, his enemies declare that he will be controlled by the bosses. If he is a practical business man, his enemies declare that he can never handle Congress. If he is a simple campaign fund raiser, he arouses suspicions of corruption.

If he declares against bigotry he offends the bigots. If he says nothing at all, he is accused of not understanding the bigots. If he is a good public speaker, he is dismissed as a rattle-brain. If he is a poor speaker, he is said to lack color. If he uses untimely gestures, he is said to be an actor. If he just reads his speech, he bores his audience. If he has no speech, he is criticized as being vulgar. If he has a speech, he is suspected of being an Englishman in disguise.

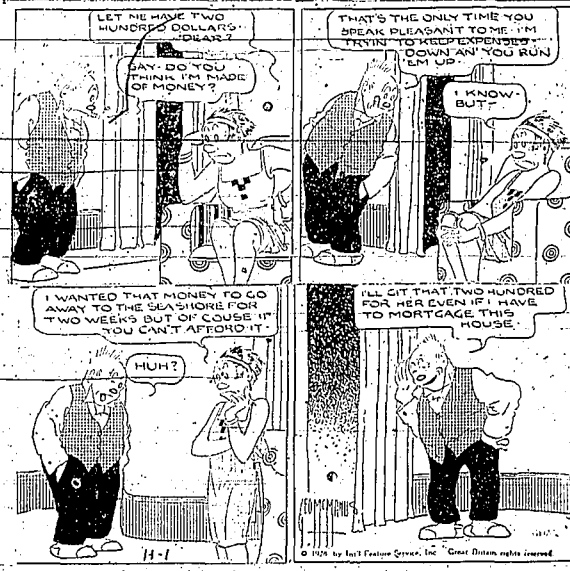

If he has lived all his life in America, he is regarded as knowing nothing of foreign affairs. If he has lived much abroad, he is thought to be too little of an American. If he has never said anything in the past, he is regarded as being stupid. If he has said anything in the past, some one is sure to find out that it conflicts with what he says today.

The Hoover Side of the Case FORD WRITES OF HOOVER (Orestes A. Brownell)

IN the November issue of the Political Henry Ford has this to say of Herbert Hoover, "Mr. Hoover is not a great and forward-looking leader, not because he is great and forward-looking, but because he is a national engineer who understands the machinery of the world. That is not a political thing. It is an essential thing. It has to do with almost everything except those things in which crowd all the way that he can count for much in the people's lives. He has the ability to turn his good wishes into positive action because he knows what he is doing and he knows how to do it. He has the ability to not only on what I know of his work, but on what I know of his personality. He has a long way to go, when this new state of things is coming, and he has come along with it, understanding the conditions, knowing where it is weak, knowing what he has to do, and knowing all the way that he has to go. He has the ability to turn his good wishes into positive action because he knows what he is doing and he knows how to do it. He has the ability to not only on what I know of his work, but on what I know of his personality. He has a long way to go, when this new state of things is coming, and he has come along with it, understanding the conditions, knowing where it is weak, knowing what he has to do, and knowing all the way that he has to go.

GOVERNOR SMITH'S SPEECHES (Sacramento Bee) WHAT makes Governor Smith's address so effective is not only the evident sincerity, but the fact that it is so direct and so simple. It is concluded in simple, direct language that every man and woman can understand. They are straight from the shoulder and appeal to common sense and common intelligence. As the man himself is simple and free from any pretense and cant, so is his speech. And yet again, it flows to heights of real eloquence and feeling while brightened with rhythmic cadence with every one of which he is a winner. The democratic national committee has made a mistake in seeing to it that these speeches are broadcasted throughout the nation. They are the most effective appeal for the candidate of the party. They are winning for Governor Smith thousands of new adherents. No uneducated person can listen to them without feeling that here is a man of courage, of honesty, of understanding, of the real goods and the most desires of the American people.

ESSEX Super advertisement featuring an image of a car and the text: 'Looks and Acts like a Costly Car because it's built like a costly car'. Price list: Coach $735 and up, Sedan (4-door) 795, Coupe 745, Roadster 850.

The only Essex point in common with cars in its price field—is price. There is little in either appearance or performance to distinguish it from many a costlier car. In size, it possesses the advantage of compactness without sacrifice of passenger quarters or riding comfort. It seems as easily as any car you have ever driven. There is a quickness and nimbleness in its motor action that will make some costlier cars you have driven seem slow and sluggish. These qualities are lasting. With whatever costly car detail you compare Essex, you will be impressed by its high standard in design, material and workmanship. Many exclusive and patented features contribute to these Essex advantages—among them being its high-compression Super-Six motor, which to our belief is the most powerful and efficient automobile motor of its size in the world. Won't you examine and drive the Essex, whether as a prospective buyer or as one interested in knowing why it is the choice car in its price field as proved by sales!

Stowaway Embarassed By Admiring Maidens

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Nov. 1 (AP)—

A young crowd that would not be denied made a hero out of Clarence Terhune, a 19-year-old American who arrived today on a stowaway on the Graf Zeppelin. Stowaway him away from the police who were executing him to a hotel. Many examinations of the stowaway, a girl, including many girls, halted Clarence on their shoulders.

Having matured considerably, the crowd and out of the clear sky came the delightful sight of a girl, Friedrichshafen. The crowd broke out into cheers as it saw the passenger and crew of the Zeppelin waiting for the cabin windows. Spectators were wildly enthusiastic, and occasionally one of them would run to the telephoto and shoot a telegram offering him jobs in Europe and the United States. The offer ranged from the stowaway to a free scholarship in a trade school.

Has No Plans.

"At present I have no plans," Terhune said, "but I intend to return all European offers and return to the dear old U. S. A. within a week."

The crowd hounded Terhune in and he could not be taken to his hotel. He was brought back to the Zeppelin company office where he had been examined. Outside the Zeppelin headquarters a crowd of five through windows or any other way possible. Terhune smiled at the situation by agreeing to distribute his autograph.

"The Zeppelin trip was the most exciting of all my adventures," Terhune told the United Press. "All of my adventures have been exciting," he said, "but this is the most exciting because of this scientific revolution here. It was so unexpected."

When a German pilot threw her arms about his neck and kissed him, Clarence was moved to protest.

"I'm not used to such a libel in front of the camera," he said.

IDAHO FALLS, Nov. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Anna Bennett, 74, died suddenly yesterday from unspecified causes suffered from a coronary artery to help the police maintain order.

A number of spectators tossed flowers at the crew. In the center of the wild collection a valiant

MOSES, RASKOB

Why in the world a fisherman should be so agitated because a southern democrat has written something which he thought to be his own, Raskob asked in a surprising statement.

"He is the chairman of the democratic national committee," whose St. Louis headquarters have been busy for weeks in flooding certain sections of the country with vicious attacks upon Mr. Hoover's religious faith. "These attacks have been sent out officially under the seal and signature of Mr. Raskob's committee."

CONOCO-ETHYL challenges comparison on every count

Split-second starting is the rule with Conoco Ethyl-users. This quality of instant ignition is a great source of batteries—and minimizes crankcase dilution caused by fuels which require the excessive use of the choke.

Conoco Ethyl picks up rapidly—for the reason that its even rate of combustion assures a constant push against the pistons. A most important consideration for traffic driving.

Ethyl gasoline—made the new powerful high-compression motors possible. Before Ethyl Gasoline was developed, motor-car manufacturers could not safely increase the compression ratios beyond a certain point.

In the lower-compression motors, carbon deposits increase the compression by decreasing the size of the combustion chamber. Ordinary gasoline cannot withstand this increased pressure. It explodes prematurely with a resulting loss of power. Conoco Ethyl, on the contrary, performs perfectly under this high-compression condition with a resulting increase in power.

By preventing knocking and reducing gear shifting, Conoco Ethyl is propelling the smooth-running motors on the streets today.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
One of the causes of lowered intelligence, we know is lack of emotional control.

If one is angry, jealous, or hateful, someone nearby, he cannot work with other things such as joy, excitement, worry, shame, fear, or even a more pleasant emotion such as interest, love, understanding, not only work, but the mental processes and health.

A temperamental person with a bad temper nervous system, jumping from extremes of happiness one day to the depths of despair the next, or lost in an abyss of hate or other emotion, is seldom able to do anything but react to the external world.

In other words, the best parents are those who are satisfied and happy and like Emerson's unforgettable motto, are those who "savour excessive joy and complain no more."

Children instinctively respect the mother or father who refuses to give way to petty emotion. Not usually, obedience will follow much more readily in the wake of this respect.

Eden Man Gaining Fame as Air Pilot

WOMEN, Nov. 1.—Friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Williams, of the Twin Falls schools, will be interested to hear of their daughter's success in the aviation school in that city. He began flying and learning the controls at once and after ten hours of instruction took his first solo. Since then he has been training in loops, verticals, spins, and has also been able to accumulate much general information about aviation and aviation, being located at a good place at the airport. He has also worked in the repair shop, getting practical training in the plane, and will continue to work there until he receives a position as pilot.

Last week Mr. Williams had his first experience in "forcing" or delivering a plane. The "Twin Falls" history is on the report and a lady wanted a plane taken to "Twin Falls." There was no other pilot in the area and Mr. Williams, if he wanted the job, he did and went through in the shape of a good pilot and the lady as well and evening. Wichita, very much.

Strong Electrical Storm Hits Burley

BURLEY, Nov. 1.—The worst electrical storm of the year struck Burley Tuesday night about nine o'clock. Lightning clipped off the top of the tall smoke stack at the Jerome Gas-Creanery building, the west side of town. The lightning is a large brick, with a tall smoke stack, cut at the top. The lightning struck the top of the stack, and the force of the bolt knocked one of the men flat on the floor, stunning him for the time.
