BASEBALL ASS'N ELECT DIRECTORS

Postponed Meeting Finally Secures Quorum.

SEVERAL NEW MEN ON DIRECTOR-ATE FOR THIS YEAR.

The Base Ball Prospects Are Not Particularly Bright for the Coming Season.

Friday night the postponed meeting of the Base Ball Association was held in the Commercial Club dining room, when a majority of the stockholders were present. The meeting was most harmonious and besides electing officers little business was transacted. The following men were elected on the board of directors for the coming year: H. W. Jones, Don Ryan, John J. White, John Chaney and Paul Rutledge. The prospects for a team were discussed and it was decided to endeavor to arouse some enthusiasm for the national sport. A number of the crack players of last year will, of course, not be available, but with the regular home talent players there is the foundation for a good strong team. Propositions for the management of the team have been made by one or two business men but nothing was done toward leasing the grounds to anyone.

EDITOR MARRIES.

Joe H. DeWitt of Soda Springs Takes a Wife.

Joseph H. DeWitt, proprietor of the Soda Springs Chiropractic and Mrs. Purdette Locke of the same place, were united in marriage in this city this forenoon. The couple arrived this morning and are spending the day in the city. The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace Felix Van Rensselaer at the home of the justice in the presence of only intimate friends. The couple are well and favorably known both in this city and the eastern part of the county. Joe DeWitt particularly acquires an introduction. He has published the Chiropractic, one of the best little weeklies in this part of the state, for years and he has a legion of friends. His future partner for life has resided at Soda Springs the last dozen years. She is a lady of charming manners and sensible views. She shares equally with her husband in popularity in the home town, and will help Joe's path to one of pleasure during the years. The "Princess" joins with a host of friends in wishing the couple unalloyed happiness.—Purdette Tribune.

AGED JUSTICE DIES SUDDENLY

Justice Brewer of Federal Supreme Court Dead.

DEATH COMES UNEXPECTEDLY
MONDAY NIGHT.

One of the Best Known and Most Highly Respected Men On the Federal Bench.

Washington, March 28.—David J. Brewer, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, died tonight, aged 73 years. He was stricken with apoplexy and died before physicians could be summoned. The end was altogether unexpected, although he had not been feeling well for the last few days. The aged justice was up and out today, and apparently in good health and spirits. He was in equally good spirits at dinner and spent the evening reading. Shortly before 10 o'clock he retired to his room, and within a few moments Mrs. Brewer heard a heavy fall and went to investigate. She found her husband prone on the floor of the bathroom. He did not regain consciousness and died before a physician, hastily summoned, could reach the house. The two daughters of the aged justice, Mrs. James P. Kerrich and Mrs. H. H. Johnson, were summoned at once, but reached the residence too late.

Justice Brewer came to the supreme court from the federal court in Kansas. He was the second oldest member of the court, and was regarded as being the most moderate of all members of the court.

Another characteristic of the jurist was, he never took any of the time of the court or the public in announcing his opinions. He reached the conclusions probably many years ago that the audience in the court room was so extremely limited it was a waste of time to read opinions there. He would give in a few words his conclusions and then hand down the proof sheets of his opinion, always completely arranged.

Justice Brewer essentially was a western man and his sympathies were always with the west. He was deeply versed in corporation law and will be missed immensely during the framing of the opinions of the supreme court on the momentous questions concerning the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases now under consideration.

In his earlier days Justice Brewer camped regularly in the Rocky mountains. Justice Brewer's death raises a serious question as to the action of the court regarding the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies' suits and it is not improbable the case will have to be retried, since there now remain but seven justices to pass upon the case. He is not having a funeral in the trials by reason of illness.

Justice Brewer was the one member of the supreme court who was in almost constant demand as a lecturer and after dinner speaker.

MINING EXCHANGE HOLDS MEETING

Secretary McMillan Tenders Resignation to Board.

F. G. LENSER ELECTED TO FILL THE VACANCY.

Affairs of Exchange Meeting Smoothly and Demand for Seals Is Increasing.

The Twin Falls Jarlville Mining Exchange held a meeting on Monday of this week, called by the president, to act upon the resignation of M. H. McMillan, the secretary, and to discuss the work on the road into Jarlville from this city. Reports from the road committee elected the information that the road was completed into Jack Hole and that considerable money would have to be raised to complete the road to the Jarlville camp. Mr. McMillan's resignation was accepted upon the board of directors and F. G. Lenser was elected to fill the vacancy. Reports from the secretary showed that the demand for seals had increased considerably, owing to the number of piling men who are making their headquarters in this city.

Sheriff Dyer has been in communication with Utah officials and has secured evidence that Philips, the man wanted at Buhl for stabbing John May, has a record for two murders and that the much wanted man was but recently released from the Utah state prison after serving twelve years for murder. As near as can be determined Philips is a general, all-around bad man, who will stick at nothing and for this reason a reward of $100 was put up by the county this week as extra incentive to get him back. Mr. Dyer has received a wire from a small town in Washington that a suspect was held there without identification and it may be possible that the assassin of May will be brought back speedily for trial in this county.

The debate between the local high school and the Oakes Academy of Rexburg, Idaho, postponed for the past two weeks, will positively be held in the auditorium of the High School tomorrow evening, April first. The victors in the coming debate will represent Eastern Idaho in the "inter-scholastic finals" and stand a good chance for the championship of Southern Idaho. The citizens interested in the public schools should attend and give the local debaters every bit of encouragement possible. The championship and the notoriety gained by the victory will advertise our school system more than any other means.

Odd Fellows and Rebekahs Show
Worth of Their Orders.

Last Saturday evening the two children of B. B. Payne, aged 5 and 7 years, left on their long journey to the Indiana Old Fellows' Home for orphan children, at Greensburg, Indiana. Mr. Payne, being a member of Saxton Lodge, No. 952, Forest, Ind.

The mother of the children died last spring in Twin Falls. Mr. Payne has tried to keep them with him, but found he could not do for them what would be done in such an institution as was open for them at the home for orphan children of Odd Fellows.

Primrose Rebecca Lodge, No. 76, with the assistance of Twin Falls lodge, No. 23, I. O. O. F., deserves much credit, having aided Mr. Payne and the children in many ways not only appreciated by him but his Indiana brothers, as well. The Rebekahs have started the children off with a fine basket of goods, as well as a nice rosette of ribbon of the colors of the order pinned to each, with card attached, showing who they were and were going. They also wired ahead where they changed cars for a committee of Odd Fellows to meet and assist them in making changes. In other words, the Rebekahs and Odd Fellows have spared no pains to assist in making sure of their safe arrival at the other end of the line.

Hendricks Sagebrush Grubbers IN THE LEAD.

The Hendricks Grubber is the best on the market today. Our many years' experience in the field with other machines has put us in the lead. We guarantee the Hendricks Grubber in any and all kinds of sage brush. It makes no difference how thick or how large or how difficult it is for the horses to get through, the Hendricks Grubbers do the work. Every owner of a Hendricks machine is more than satisfied. We have never had a single word of complaint from any purchaser of our machine.

The Hendricks Grubbers with six horses, will clear six or seven acres per day in any kind of sage brush, and cut it out cleanly. The all steel machine at the price is equal to two ordinary machines.

We have manufactured the Grubbers from original designs in this section until the acme of perfection has been reached in the machines now placed on the market. The cut of the first machine, shows the solidity of the parts and it is a matter of pride with the maker that not a single purchaser has been dissatisfied with the work of the Grubbers.

The working principles of the machine are simple and strong, so that there is little chance of even an inexperienced man having trouble. The knives are placed so as to cut below the soil surface, thus taking out the tougher sage brush roots and leaving the land ready for plowing. Descriptive circulars and detailed information will be gladly given by Body of Ferryman Lost in Snake River Recovered.

Fruitland, March 27.—The body of an unknown man was found by the river here today. Coroner Lang was summoned and an investigation made. There was nothing on the body that would identify him and his condition, owing to the length of time it had been in the water, greatly hampered the work of the official. The body was dressed in a blue flannel shirt, vest and overalls. A common watch with a gold chain was found in the pockets. Both lips were split in down the middle and the face badly bruised. Coroner Lang expressed the opinion that the body was that of the ferryman who was knocked from his boat by the wheel about two weeks ago. Further efforts will be made to establish the identity of the unfortunate man.

Died.—Steve Connor, March 26. The body is being held at Claus J. Walker's undertaking parlors until word is received from relatives, who live at Vicksburg, Ark.

Wanted.—To hire a man with teams and tools to work on 80 acres. H. R. Gilson, Real Estate, Twin Falls, Ida. Mar 21 Apr 7

DIAMONDS SHIPPED IN POTATOES

A most ingenious method of packing diamonds for shipment between the South African mines and London is now being resorted to. It is none other than placing them in potatoes and adds one more item to the list of uses that vegetable is adapted to outside of its quality as an edible. Increased in potatoes, there is no danger of the precious stones cracking on the voyage as is often the case otherwise. The idea is worthy of a diamond smuggler.

We do not get our diamonds in this way, but receive them by registered mail direct from the diamond cutters in New York. We buy the BEST on the market. We sell them for less than you can buy them for in New York.

Attorney D. W. Zent, who indulges in agricultural pursuits on the side, has been experimenting with sagebrush and has found it good for road-making purposes as well as for hair tonic. Last winter Mr. Zent built a short stretch of road by mixing sagebrush and mud, and the resulting road proved even better than he had anticipated.

Now the New York Sun, added and abetted by the Dallas Optimist, comes to his assistance and in the movement for the uplift of the sagebrush. Says the Sun:

It is good to speak well of the despised, even if it is sagebrush. We quote the following from the Dallas Optimist, published in the very heart of the north-west:

"The sagebrush in recent years suggested as having a commercial value for a number of purposes, today is being put to an entirely new use, that of road building, and so far has proven a great success."

This is not much, but it is more than most people, except poets, have ever said of one of our most widely spread weeds. Savers have found it worse than useless, for it costs $15 an acre to destroy it. Prospectors have called it "sagebrush plagues" have talked of the mud and dirt it grows; it has for rattlesnakes to coil in and strike, or for coyotes to blend their tawny hide into, and so on.

Even the most ardent Nevada hunter complained that he should be dubbed the "sagebrush state." The hunter hates it because the bitter flavor it imparts to the game, the stock man hates it because it furnishes so little nourishment to the cattle or sheep. Even for fuel it is almost worthless.

The national and state governments have been experimenting with it for years to find out if it can be used to advantage as a source of fuel or any chemical value to its leaves or stems. The success of a simple means of action which would render sagebrush material seem to have solved the problem of its usefulness for the Optimist continues.

"It was found it was readily crushed into a pulp and formed a perfect mud, dirt, sand and silt, and so on, and gives promise of long wear. So the factory was the trial that this spring many values of sagebrush roads will be laid on the highways."

A few years ago a man of Idaho with some poetry in his soul, at least, as he called upon the sagebrush people of the northwest to meet and have a great sagebrush festival in one of the valleys of his state and lift the curse from the north-west which he knew so well and should love. Many, however, were forewarned. Now, however, when it is used in the art of which the Romans were masters, may not the despised plant yet be acclaimed blessed in all the Rattlesnake-Gooding Herald.

Firm Soil for Strawberries.
Forty years ago this spring I planted an acre of strawberries in a blue grass pasture that was plowed the fall before. The soil was so tough that there was a hollow place under each furrow, which in harvesting only partially filled up. Even a season's cultivation and being filled to make the whole bed solid. A year later I planted several thousand plants to set where they were to be grown in hills. This was after the blossoms appeared. I found a sort of hard soil over the field and decided to use them instead of those that would bear a crop. In taking up the plants I found that every one grew over a hollow place. The new bed was filled with these barren plants, but every one fruited well the next season.

Since then I have learned over and over that plants, grown on loose soil, are not so hardy as fruit like those. I always advise people to harvest the soil for strawberries until every square foot has been tramped, or else use a heavy roller. For several years we discontinued plowing for strawberries altogether, simply digging the land. We finally went back to plowing again, because it was much harder work to dig plants and most of cars are dug.

Mr. John P. Boyer, of Dayton, Ohio, has long been called the best amateur strawberry grower in the state and he has just tried the soil in a few inches when the plants in the summer and fall.

Mr. Goldborough, of Washington, D. C., who has been all around with four-acre berries, grows them on hard soil with a few inches of top soil.

Mr. Rivers, of England, was wonderfully successful in forcing strawberries, and his berries were the best in the world, running from the bottom to the top. The runner was placed on this hard soil and with a stone back of the body, was rammed in root there. A. Crawford, of Glasgow, Scotland.

The operation of the wireless telegraph plant in the hotel Perrine has attracted hundreds of operators in the past week, but few give the attraction its real value as an advertising medium for this city. At present wireless stations in the inland cities are practically unknown and the one installed in Twin Falls is probably the first public system west of the Mississippi river excepting only the government coast service. That little city like Twin Falls should have such service speaks volumes in the advertising value of its enterprise and progress.

Chief of Police W. G. Thompson and his force have been active the past few weeks in shutting down on the violators of the law and as a result a great many of the tin horns and violins have left for pastures new. Chief Thompson does not seem around with a brass band and few outside of the city officials are aware of the quiet, but determined effort made by him to make Twin Falls a clean city. A look at the increase in the fines for the past two months would reveal record breaking business on the part of the police court, due to his activity.

The gubernatorial campaign will be one worth while this year with three Republicans striving for the honor. The political enemies of Governor Brady have by all of logic at their command proven that he could not get elected for a another term, and now the reports coming in from both north and south show that the defection from him in the south was mainly in the minds of a few disgruntled men who failed to get office. It appears that several of the young men who only supported O'Neil will have to hunt cover before the primaries even begin—present indications of Brady's strength.

The cutting off of the water from the canal next winter is causing considerable uneasiness among many of the ranchers having a great deal of stock. The situation is such that they are having the stock in quantity the same as they have enough feed to care for the animals for five months and are fearing strongly in many cases a selling this fall. The same applies to dairymen supplying milk to the city who claim it is an impossibility for them to supply water from November until April or during the winter season. This city will be also affected by the cutting off of the water and means should be taken to prevent the water company to provide for the city water during the coming summer months. The dairymen and stock men are not in any enviable position, and are more than willing to pay winter maintenance in order to avoid quitting business. Under the canal operating company the water will have to pay additional for winter maintenance which before was carried by the Twin Falls Land & Water company and if they want water badly enough to pay for it action should be taken to bring out such deals before fall sets in.

The hearts of the baseball fans are beating more rapidly each day as the time for the baseball season draws near. The bulk of the Twin Falls population want a team and want it badly, but whether the business men as a whole want a team at all is a question. If they do want a team each business man must be ready to sink not less than fifty dollars during the season in keeping the team running. To expect any manager to take hold of the team and play winning ball and break even is pretty nearly out of the question from the past history of the game in this city. If the advertising which the city gets for having a winning team is worth while then the business men should like to keep it going, and if it is not then let's cut out baseball altogether and not have the annual abandonment of a winning team in midsummer as we have had in the past. Let's either stay in the game clear through or stay in the headlines that we will play on a baseball team every time it starts. The editor of the Times believes that a good baseball team is an excellent advertisement for Twin Falls, and believes that it should be supported. But on the other hand if last summer's performance is to be repeated then the Times is opposed to the season this opened at all. Last year Twin Falls had a team that could not be beaten by any amateur team in the states of Utah and Idaho, and yet at the height of the season a few men sore from betting losses effectively broke up the team and nearly broke up the association. Knives were drawn at the members of the team totally admitted by their records for the year and instead of a loyal support from the fans, record breaking work was given feeble praise. The loyal voter will back his team through victory or loss and it is only the pliers who will refuse such support. Twin Falls needs lots of the former and could not miss a few of the latter if they did not shed their desire on the grounds. Let's have a team this year and if it is not self supporting let each business man dip and share the amount to advertising like all other donations made for public enterprises.

THE PROPOSED COURT OF COMMERCE.

The Administration bill for the further regulation of railways was last week held before the Committee in the House of Representatives, and, having been reported by the Senate Committee, was under discussion on the floor of the Senate. In an editorial article two weeks ago The Outlook gave a summary of the provisions of this bill and raised certain questions regarding them. One point, however, which has been mentioned by the minority report on this bill, signed by Senators Cummins and Clapp, and since then emphasized in the debate in the Senate, The Outlook did not refer to specifically. This is the question as to the extent of the court review. As the bill, the question of Commerce is established by this bill, have larger powers in reviewing the acts of the Interstate Commerce Commission than those exercised by the courts as now constituted. In other words, is the Court of Commerce merely to be an instrument for the segregation of Interstate Commerce cases, so that they may be decided expeditiously and properly, and thus relieve the Circuit Courts of such cases, or is it to be a court with new and enlarged powers which can annul and set aside the administrative orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission, as the Circuit Courts, except on constitutional grounds, cannot now do? This question is of great importance. It virtually is the question that was discussed in another form in 1906, and then, apparently, definitely decided. At that time there was an attempt on the part of those who were especially concerned for the interests of the railways to secure in the Railway Rate Reduction Bill a provision for a board of review. Such a provision would have deprived the Interstate Commerce Commission of a great deal of its power, and would have burdened the courts with a multitude of administrative questions which they would have had to decide, not on administrative, but on judicial grounds and in accordance with judicial theories. Although there was a court review provision enacted, it has had the practical effect of assuring to the railways only the right to bring before the courts the question whether their property had, by the ruling of the commission, been confiscated. This right the railways would have had in any case under Constitution. The key to the courts may greater power over Interstate Commerce than this would be to lay upon judges the burden of judging the merits of the decisions rendered by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and would therefore make of the judges administrative officers. Now is presented this Administration measure which materially increases the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is presented in response to a great popular demand that the Government exercise greater control than it now has over the National highways. Incidentally it establishes a Court of Commerce. If the establishment of this new court in the bill should be rejected for four years ago that fact ought to be known. That there is ground for believing that it does so is indicated by what is said in the minority report. There it is declared that when the draft of the bill was revised there was a provision which stated explicitly that nothing in the bill should be construed as enlarging the jurisdiction now possessed by the Circuit Courts and in the bill transferred to the Court of Commerce; but that in the later revision of the bill reported by the Committee to the Senate this provision was omitted. We cannot understand why such a provision should be omitted except on the ground that the bill intended to provide for a board court review. The Senate should not leave this in an open question. The bill should, at all hazards, be amended by the reinsertion of the omitted provision, distinctly limiting the jurisdiction of the Court of Commerce to that now exercised by the Circuit Courts. Greater latitude of appeal from administrative decisions of the Interstate Commerce Commission than now exists would be detrimental to the public interest.—The Outlook.

Farm Level.
Among the minor equipment of the up-to-date farm are many comparatively inexpensive tools which are fully as necessary as the larger and more expensive implements. In fact, it often happens that the intelligent use of the smaller tools in reconstructing the way of labor and repairing expenses the farmer is enabled to materially improve his entire farm. Such an instrument often comes in very handy and in many cases is a necessity in the work in hand is to be properly done. In ditching some kind of level must be used. Going "by guess" will never assure the proper working of a land drain. Many a farmer who has tried to get along without a good level because of a trifling expense or trouble in procuring such an instrument, has learned this to his sorrow. With a reliable level the matter of proper drain construction becomes a very simple operation. One is assured as the start that the grade desired will be had and there is no chance of future trouble in its working properly. And it has very many practical applications. In fact, its uses are so varied and at the same time so important that even the farmer who has no intention to do cannot afford to be without one. They are often wanted in extending a water pipe, locating a tank, providing for surface drainage, land grading, laying cement floors, stable gutters, yard paving, and constructing walks and drives. It offers quick and reliable service in laying out lands, dividing and measuring fields, and many other little jobs about the farm.

A good farm level costs little compared with its worth and usefulness. Frequently it will pay for itself in one season, as it admits of economy in both labor and time and may save additional expense in providing the assurance that the work will not have to be done over again.—Irrigation Age.
