REFUSE PERMIT FOR LAYING RAILS

Warren Construction Company Blocking Railway.

LOCAL COMPANY IN CONTROVERSY WITH PAYING COMPANY.

Refuse Electric Railroad Right to Lay Rails During Paying Construction.

An interesting situation has developed during the past few days over the franchise granted to the Twin Falls Electric Railway company by the city which allowed the aforesaid company permission to lay rails on Main avenue and Shoshone street before paving was completed in order to save the company extra expense. The street railway company had supposed that everything was satisfactory until the past few days, when it developed that the Warren Construction company, holding the paving contract, refused such permission on the ground that their contract with the city was made before the railway franchise was granted and that the city had no right to grant permission for the rails without stipulation in the contract.

It has since been discovered by the company that the Warren Construction company will not allow the rails to be laid during the paving construction nor will they lay the rails for the railway company. The Warren Construction company demands that the street railway company cut the pavement along its track and put in concrete foundation and brick the outside of the rails for certain distance and in fact do everything toward the paving on the railway right of way. Attorneys for the paving contractors have been employed and it looks like a move to block the street railway.

Section 10 of City Ordinance No. 67 granting the franchise to street railway, explains the reason for difference between construction company and street railway, respectively.

"Sec. 10. The said streets, are to be paved and all additional expenses and charges in the cost of the pavement in Local Improvement District No. 2, shall be paid by the city. The contractor has been awarded to the Warren Construction company, for paving the streets therein with bituminous pavement, caused by reason of the laying and construction of tracks in the streets in said district, and that it is included in this franchise, and before the grantee herein its successors and assigns, shall enter upon or proceed to lay said right of way or do any work or lay any track or foundation for the same in the streets included in this franchise and located in said local improvement district No. 2 in said city, they shall make arrangements with the said construction company for the payment of such additional cost if any and so satisfactory to the Mayor and Council of said city, and whereby the said construction company shall receive and acknowledge the said city from any and additional cost under its contract on account of the laying of such tracks on said streets."

Mr. J. F. Stoltz, secretary of the Twin Falls Commercial Club, called a meeting of the local beekeepers at the club rooms on Saturday last, at which time the Twin Falls Beekeepers Association was organized.

The following officers were elected: E. E. Long, president; Mr. F. W. Sabransky, vice president; G. W. Reels, secretary; and Mr. W. J. Truesdell, treasurer.

Each of vital importance that all parties interested in raising orchards, small fruits, and garden vegetables, should join this association whether they keep bees or not.

The membership fee is one dollar per year, in advance.

The next meeting will be held in the club rooms, Saturday, April 16, at 2:30 p.m. There will be a very interesting talk on bees by Mr. O. E. Carlson, who is a very experienced bee raiser. All parties interested are earnestly requested to attend this meeting. Those wishing to join may do so by applying to the secretary, G. W. Reels.

TO CONVEY IN BUILT.

Fifth Annual Meeting Will Be Held April 18, 19 and 20.

The fifth annual meeting of the Twin Falls County Sunday School association will be held in Buhi, April 18, 19 and 20. The meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church and the local religious organizations are making elaborate preparations to entertain the delegates. The slogan of the Sunday schools of the county is "One Hundred Delegates at the Buhi Convention." The invitation from Buhi last year stated that all the delegates would be entertained free of charge while in the city and the task will be no small one, but will reflect most creditably toward the paving on the railway right of way. Attorneys for the paving contractors have been employed and it looks like a move to block the street railway.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

Girls of High School Promise Splendid Program.

On Monday evening, April 18th, instead of on Friday evening, the girls of the high school, will give a concert for the benefit of the Athletic association of the high school. The concert will be given in the auditorium of the Hotel school, and an admission of 25 cents per seat will be charged.

The fact that this is the first musical entertainment to be given by the high school this year and that it is for the benefit of the Athletic association, should insure a full house. A musical and dramatic program is being created and this will be published in full next week.

RUNAWAY TEAM DOWN THE GRADE

Livery Team Stirs Up Business Section of City.

STRIKES TWO OTHER RIGS AND INJURES OCCUPANTS.

George McKean Kicked From Dray and Run Over By the Runaway Team.

A runaway occurred on Main street yesterday which for unfortunate results and half-breath escapes, holds all records. The excitement took place about five o'clock, when Main street and Shoshone was well filled with vehicles, making the performance of the runaway seemingly incredible.

The team which, by the way, was from a livery stable, started bucking on the east end of Main avenue, and the occupant becoming alarmed, jumped out and let the team go. The team, going at a terrific pace, turned the corner and started up Shoshone street toward Blue Lakes Boulevard.

In making the turn the horses struck an automobile near the curb, bounced off from that and struck McKean's dray, threw him out of his rig, ran over him and proceeded unhurt on his career up Shoshone. It turned out Blue Lakes Boulevard and still keeping up its pace struck a horse and carriage occupied by E. N. Day and family and threw them out, upset both horse and buggy and proceeded down the grade to the Blue Lakes at the curb, furious speed and landed safely at the water's edge, practically unhurt.

McKean, who was run over, was taken to Dr. Heyd's office, where it was found that only minor injuries had been received.

E. N. Day and family also escaped with a few bruises. McKean's team after getting over its surprise, started to run, and was caught a few blocks away from the corner where the collision occurred.

TIED FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP

High School Wins and Loses in Debate.

RICKS ACADEMY DEFEATED HIGH SCHOOL IN THIS CITY.

Local Debaters Lose in Reburg in Battle with the Ricks Academy.

In the debates held between the Twin Falls high school and Ricks Academy last Friday, the decision was a tie, Twin Falls winning at home and Ricks Academy winning at home. It is impossible to announce at this time what the result of this tie will be. The matter has been submitted to the executive committee of the Scholastic League and their decision is awaited with much interest. The debate at Twin Falls was very close and by far the most interesting debate held yet. The people from Reburg were well trained and gave the local school the only battle which they have had thus far.

The schools have been increasing more rapidly than for a few weeks past. Fifteen have entered school this week. The total enrollment has reached something over thirteen hundred twenty-five.

An athletic benefit will be given by the pupils of the high school at the auditorium of the Hotel building on Friday evening, April 16th. This will consist of music, several recitations, a drill and a farce, and will be an entertainment of considerable merit. The entertainment is given under the direction of Miss Crocker and no time is being spared to make it one of the most interesting entertainments of the year. The people of Twin Falls do not attend the contests, debates and athletic meets which are given under the auspices of the high school and considerable indifference has been incurred. It is hoped that a large portion of this may be paid by this entertainment. Admission will be 25 cents, reserved seats 50 cents. Tickets will be on sale at the Red Cross Drug store on Wednesday of next week. See posters for full announcement.

Arthur Day will be celebrated next week Friday. A number of trees will be planted at both buildings. Virg Grepper will be planted at the high school. Arrangements are being perfected for the planting of honeyuckle and Virginia Creeper about the temporary building on the Hotel grounds in such a way that the building will appear more inviting.

Miss Nancy B. Vance is expected, back to begin work next Monday. During her absence Miss Fidelity McConnell, a sister of the late Miss McConnell, has been supplying in her place.

The first base ball game of the season will be played with the Albion Normal school at Albion on Saturday, April 16th. A special game will be played on the home grounds with the Academy of Idaho on April 21st. A splendid base ball team is being developed and it is hoped that Twin Falls may be so fortunate as to win the championship of southern Idaho again this year.

Hendricks Sagebrush Grubbers IN THE LEAD.

The Hendricks Grubber is the best on the market today. Our many years' experience in the field with other machines has put us in the lead. We guarantee the Hendricks Grubber in any and all kinds of sagebrush. It makes no difference how thick or how large or how difficult it is for the horses to get through, the Hendricks Grubber does the work. Every owner of a Hendricks machine is more than satisfied. We have never had a single word of complaint from any purchaser of our machine.

The Hendricks Grubbers with six horses, will clear six or seven acres per day in any kind of sagebrush, and cut it out cleanly. The all steel machine at the price is equal to two ordinary machines.

We have manufactured the Grubbers from original designs in this section until the name of perfection has been reached in the machines now placed on the market. The cut of the first machine shows the solidity of the parts and it is a matter of pride with the maker that not a single purchaser has been dissatisfied with the work of the Grubbers.

The working principles of the machine are simple and strong, so that there is little chance of even an inexperienced man having trouble. The knives are placed so as to cut below the soil surface, thus taking out the toughest sagebrush roots and leaving the land ready for plowing. Descriptive circulars and detailed information will be gladly given.

ON THE ISLAND OF MALTA

Twin Falls Business Men Visit Historic Island.

To the Tribune: After a nice but rather choppy trip across the Mediterranean we anchored at Valetta on the island of Malta, another of England's great Mediterranean fortresses. The island of Malta was once the reputed scene of such ancient mythology, and natural scene of historical romance and biblical history; as well as containing Maltese knights, cats, and...

I am told that Malta was a house of merchants, which later grew into a military order, moving first to one island and then another and proved to be great fighters, giving the Turks no strong an argument that at last the knights finally surrendered, under most favorable terms and were given the island of Malta by Charles V, which they fortified in a most stupendous manner. After a stormy period leading centers, fighting against Turkey and Algiers pirates. In the year 1800 the last grand master of the Knights surrendered to Napoleon, and the island passed to the French, and the treaty allowed the Knights to retain some control but the Maltese people preferred the English control. There are still local societies of the Order of Knights in Europe. The island has 60,000 acres under cultivation producing three crops per year. The first place of interest to be visited by our party was the church of St. John. Again, my powers of description fail to convey even the slightest impression of the interior, imagine if you can a great chapel, with high arched ceiling, the banners and altars of which were elaborately carved and gilded with gold leaf and between the pillars, beautifully painted biblical pictures by great artists. The farthest end over the great carved high altar, is a statue of the life size figure, representing John baptizing Christ, and out of one large piece of marble. To the right of the nave is another room containing the Chapel of Holy Sacrament, in front of which is an altar railing made of solid silver. This heavy rail and its supports, all of silver, are about four feet high and twelve feet long. When Napoleon's soldiers were pillaging the city, a quick-witted priest painted the altar black and the soldiers overlooked it. The sides of the main room and all the chapels are covered with paintings by the great masters, Michel Angelo at the head. The most impressive work was the beheading of St. John, which was gruesome in extreme. The floor of this immense building was very interesting. Underneath its entire surface were the graves of 400 knights. Over each grave and forming the floor were beautifully carved slabs in the memory of each knight. It seemed interesting to note how solid the foundations must be. After a careful examination I was unable to find a place that was not absolutely level—no space at any place, and the delicate carving and mosaic work seemed worn scarcely at all. I imagined the marble of this country must be much harder than that of the United States. On the wall of the Chapel of the Holy Sacrament were three very large round keys of various shapes which they claim are the original keys of Jerusalem, Acre and Rhodes. In the Chapel of St. Charles, to the left of the main altar, was another round stone from Christ's crown of thorns; also the stones used in killing Stephen, and some bones of the Apostles. Underneath was a crypt containing the remains of former high priests in elegant marble tombs. Great paintings, fine statuary and marble tombs artistically arranged, the sunlight streaming in, high above our heads, the priests chanting, the pious devout kneeling, the smell of incense, all helped to create impressions never to be forgotten. We next visited the governor's palace, in the council chamber of which we found tapestries 200 years old, and considered as fine as any in the world. The armory hall was most interesting and our time was only too short here. The room was filled with implements of the armor worn by a Spanish knight, and hundreds of suits of brilliant steel armor, lances, shields, spears, swords, helmets and all the different styles of war clothing worn when "knighthood was in flower." One armor was worn by a Spanish knight, six feet six inches in height, the helmet alone weighing 27 pounds. However, the average armor is too small to fit the average American. They also had here a cannon 200 years old made of tarred rope covered with leather.

We then visited the Church of Monks and had our first view of what is said to be quite common in different places over here. This was an underground crypt containing 2,000 skulls, forming a wall around the room four rows deep and the other bones of the bodies arranged most artistically on the walls and covering the arched ceiling. The millstone work, proving that the Maltese something which was a time or rather a long one, can be made artistic. Most of these skeletons were of Maltese soldiers killed by the Turks. A couple stood upright in niches with part of their shrouds still over their grinning heads. Our time was entirely too short in Malta and we were forced to pass up many places of interest. We visited a school and saw native Maltese girls making home made lace and the way they manipulated the little wooden handles suspended from the many silk threads, only shows what can be accomplished by practice. We have been run from 2:30 to 5:30 per day. The women dress in black, wearing on their heads an immense black bonnet made on a large hoop coming far down over one side and called a falbetta. I understand boys and girls marry before the age of twelve and thirteen years and some have large families before reaching their majority. I am writing this article after having viewed the place on the spot. Some of my friends have just left the island. I thought I would include my description of Malta but as it is so long, I will make the article too tiresome. We will be in Constantinople this afternoon. Our program for the next day is not for 10:30 sharp, the day after night. We told you about Athens last week.

THE HUMAN TONGUE.

It is Very Inquisitive, With a Strong Will of its Own.

The curiosity of the tongue does not cause the human being so much trouble as the curiosity of the eye, but the tongue, within its limits, is the most curious of all.

Let the dentist make a change in the month, let him remove a tooth or replace with his admirable artifice one that has long been absent, let him change the form of a tooth by rounding off a corner or building up a cavity, and see what the tongue will do. It will search out that place, taking careful and minute account of the change. Then it will linger near the place. If it is called to other duties, it comes back as soon as they are discharged and feels the changed place all over again, as if it had not explored and remembered there already.

It makes no difference that these repeated investigations presently cause annoyance to its supposed master, the man. The tongue in nothing more than in his master proves that it is an unmy member and will not be controlled. It seems to have an original will and consciousness of its own, and nothing will serve it except the fullest satisfaction of its curiosity. It will wear itself out, perhaps, but it will find out all about the strange change. —Boston Transcript.

CANES IN SPAIN.

Some of the Natives Have a Small Arsenal of Them.

Every Spaniard has a stick, the well to do own several, and the "eldest youth" often has a small arsenal of them. The term arsenal in this case is used positively and not figuratively, as the Porto Ricans, like the Spaniards, have quite a craze for sword canes and dagger canes, and they make these with remarkable skill.

The blades of the finer specimens come from famous smiths in Toledo and other Spanish cities and are forged from the finest steel. Some are damascened and others are inlaid with silver and gold. Some have worked upon them the name of the owner and others the name of a patron saint. The assortment of walking sticks is very varied.

They have knobbies in sticks and canes suited to different ages and professions. There are sedan chairs, elegant and physicians and fanciful bamboo with gleaming steel knobs. For travelers there are stout cane and thorns, rose-sticks, leopard wood cane and orange sticks. —London Chronicle.

Floppant Flings.

Then, too, those Lamentations of Job were written long before anybody ever struck out with the hand full—Atlanta Journal.

Jupiter's eighth satellite has been discovered, and just to think how long and how slowly we got along without it—Lynn (O.) Times Herald.

The short and simple annals of the poor in Georgia now read "Jug, Jug, Jug, fugged," and prohibition goes marching on.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Bring about your "Merry Widows" all you want to, but you just ought to see some of the contraptions men wear on their heads in lodge rooms.—Galveston News.

Flower and Tree.

An orange tree will continue to bear fruit until it is 120 years old.

The leaf of the cocoon tree is nearly thirty feet long, while a single leaf of the parasol magnolia of Ceylon will shelter fifteen or twenty persons.

The palm tree is the tree which is distinguished for having the largest leaves. They often reach a length of fifty feet and are from ten to twelve feet in width.

If you wish flower cuttings to bloom while the plants are small put them in small crocks. At some of the crocks are filled with roots they begin blooming, especially geraniums.

Facts From France.

The Paris prefect of police has decided that in future no more licenses to play barrel organs in that city will be granted.

Twelve couples have just celebrated their golden weddings at Abrest, a small town near Vichy, France. Three hundred descendants were present at church.

A project is being considered for the transference of the Jardin des Plantes to a site three miles outside Paris, where it is intended to create a "zoological oasis" in which the animals can have comparative liberty.

Pith and Point.

No one expects that his grive will be neglected.

Too many men honor women and abuse their wives.

None of the things described as "heavenly" is to be found in heaven.

A great many people who require "reference" should give them instead.

Few things are ruled by front of fuses, but most men are sufferers from the effects of petty-folly.

Every man who takes a part in your proceedings expects that some day you will blame him in 14s procession.—Aitchison Fibber.

THE DUCKING STOOL.

How a "Beast" Used to Be Punished in Old England.

It is interesting to conjure up a picture of a "ducking" as practiced in England at the end of the eighteenth century.

When the "scold" had been properly tried and convicted, she was escorted by a crowd of her neighbors—in fact, by the whole village—to the nearest pond, and the greener and saltier the pond the better. A long plank was produced, at one end of which was the ducking stool, and in this the screaming, struggling victim was securely placed.

The chair end of the plank was then pushed far over the edge of the pond, and at a signal it was tilted deep into the green ooze until the scold was completely immersed.

When the dripping, half-drowned woman was raised to the surface again to the jeers and laughter of the on-lookers. It can be imagined that her tongue wagged to some purpose. After a second dose she emerged more subdued, and after a third or fourth she was a content woman as the village contained and was allowed to proceed home a sadder and wiser woman until the next time—London Tit-bit.

"Alexandria, Egypt."

All correspondents with Egypt in all parts of the world should be warned that it is necessary to put the word "Egypt" on all communications addressed to Alexandria, as a great deal of trouble and annoyance has been caused owing to communications addressed to the Egyptian city being delivered to Scotland, Canada, New South Wales, Cape Colony, Italy, the United States of America and other countries where towns of the same name exist.—Egyptian Gazette, Alexandria.

The Berlin.

On the theory that night goes before day, the Berlin lights his very first old ladies and first women into crowded train cars and ruthlessly follows from his path the passerby in the streets with an elaborate insolence that sends the older accustomed to the higher civilization of other capitals to impotent fury.—Berlin Cor. London Outlook.

A Good Carriage.

Never neglect to go through some daily exercise which will keep the muscles in order, the head erect, the shoulders well thrown back. Carriage stands you in good stead even in old age.

Not Particular as to Weapons.

The waiter girl knew a thing or two about table etiquette, so she uttered scornfully as she laid, "It's not our custom to serve a knife with pie."

"No?" remarked the patron in surprise. "Then bring me a knife."

SHORT STORIES.

Red haired persons are usually impulsive and outspoken.

The estate of David Valentino has been settled at Fall River, Mass., after having been in the courts 102 years.

A building in Omaha, Mo., now used as a moving picture theater and formerly as a prize fighting arena was originally a church.

Elmer Barnard of Orlando, Me., captured a sturgeon nine feet long, weighing 400 pounds, in its well recently.

It is said to be the first sturgeon taken in the Potomac in ten years. A cune has been presented to the governor of Virginia that is a souvenir of two battleships. The cause is of history and was cut from the famous field of Chancellorsville, and the handle is a deer foot, the animal being killed in the wilderness.

The most remarkable 50 field in the world is at Summerland, Cal., which is really in the sea and where oil is pumped from beneath the surf. There are now about 200 producing wells there, and they average about five barrels of oil a day.

Stolen Bases.

Infelder Shoer of the Detroit is unquestionably the greatest comedian today among ball players.

This is Frank Chance's tenth year in baseball. In all of this time Chance has remained a member of the Chicago Nationals.

Walter Manning of the New York Americans seems to have the right stuff in him to make a success of the big league pitching job.

Pitcher Campbell of the Cincinnati Reds has no love for St. Louis. He says his turn-down by that club in 1905 put him back three years in his advancement in the profession.

When a pitcher gets as old as Cy Young one does not expect him to spring anything new on the batters, but it is claimed Cy is using more curve-balls this year than he ever did.

German Gleanings.

One of the large electrical plants in Germany gives yearly from $1 to $7 to employees who have served for more than a year. The sum this year exceeded $100,000 a year.

The table linen of the Prussian royal family and likewise of the reigning houses of Baden, Saxony, Bavaria and Wurtemberg is made at one particular factory devoted to the purpose at Bielefeld.

A new German law provides that the German language shall be used at all public meetings in all parts of the empire. This is part of the systematic effort to bring about the Germanization of Alsace, German Poland and the Danubian districts of Schleswig-Holstein. The number of people affected is about 4,500,000.

CADIZ THE BEAUTIFUL.

amus, saw the sunlight shine through the beautiful windows 100 feet from the ground, smelled the incense and heard the chanting of priests. It was hard to realize it was not a dream. A priest kindly guided us into a little room and showed us services of silver, crosses of solid gold, pearls, rubies, diamonds and other precious stones which must have been worth a king's ransom. I could not convey to the reader how impressive the size of these cathedrals are. This one had 35 chapels around the outside and an enclosed highly carved main altar where eighteen priests were chanting. From here we went to the Los Capuchinos, formerly a convent. In the chapel over the high altar was a beautiful painting by Murillo, called "The Marriage of St. Catherine." It was here in painting this picture the great painter fell to his death. I was afraid that, owing to my business life, in depicting artistic designs in cafes, etc., that my lack of artistic education would prevent my appreciating the work of the celebrated master but I did not even the layman can see and feel the beauty of these paintings. Murillo to be in great demand when it came to the painting of pictures for the interior of the large altar room especially over the altars.

We then visited the Academia de Bellas Artes and saw many fine pictures by the older masters. We visited the bull ring, where beginning with Easter Sunday the people commence to enjoy themselves, seeking happiness, blindfolded horses reared by the sharp horns of an infuriated bull and later see the bull himself dispatched by the torero. The ring was a level sandy piece of ground enclosed by an immense circular amphitheater with balconies of equal distance for the ingress and egress of the people. We saw the royal box and the private boxes of the Spanish dms. We visited a large cigarette factory and would like to remark that there is not a cigar to be had in all Spain fit to smoke. The duty, I understand, prohibits the importing of decent cigars. We had a very well cooked lunch at a Spanish hotel, served up in courses, each course being brought to the guest in large dishes, being passed to each person and then taken away. The fish was fine, scrambled eggs good and the roast beef very fine. The waiter said it came from Morocco. I was surprised by the absence of hot peppers, etc., which I understand is very common in Spanish cooking. They charged $1 for the lunch which was a good round American price. After lunch we visited the mansion of the widow of a Spanish nobleman. She is a very old lady and kindly opened her house to the tourists. The Spanish houses open up of the business streets and have marble courts in the center, with palms and statuary on the crowded floor. The centers extend to the full height of the house and are covered with plants. We ascended to the second floor by marble stairs and saw the living room of the late countess surrounding the courts. The walls were decorated with lace tapestries and paintings and one ornate stand was a Spanish style to be very fine. Silk hangings and draperies of soft shades covered the windows and doors; wonderfully wrought. The dcor was suspended from the ceiling and fine marble statuary was tastefully arranged throughout the residence. It took 16 servants to keep up the establishment. We were then shown a private chapel, which was a complete little Catholic church for the family, altar and all. The house was four stories in height. At the back of the court under the chapel and dining room were the stable and carriage house and quarters for the groom and stable men. It seemed to us a great confidence in American tourists. All walls and ceilings of Cadiz are kept white by the energetic use of white wash brush.

Early on the morning of the 18th we were all loaded and walked to the railroad station where I had my first view of an European railroad train. While the engine was waiting at the station I saw in the United States the train itself seemed like a cross between a stage coach and an American train. The coaches are about sixteen feet long with three compartments to each coach. You enter the compartment by a door in the side of the coach and find two seats facing each other, each seat accommodating four persons. Before the train starts employees put in slender train tanks filled with hot water to warm the passengers' feet as the cars are not heated. The coaches are well set up on four-high wheels which are not solid like ours but seem to have spokes in them. The engine is a small affair with a long smoke stack and a whistle like a merry-go-round. They run two different kinds in the station before starting and then the guards go down each side of the train and lock the doors of the compartments. We were standing on the platform and saw the train start. The distance is 80 miles from Cadiz and it took five hours to make it. The first view we had after leaving the city was large and perfectly round pyramids of stock salt. This is the way they store it, and it is so packed that it does not melt. This salt is procured by digging shallow trenches into which the ocean water flows as they want it. The sun then evaporates the water and leaves the salt. They turn in more water and keep going in that way and procure immense quantities of sea salt which is in demand all over the world for salting fish and stock. After passing the marshy district, we passed into a beautiful valley, where we saw herds of goats, sheep and hogs; each herd in charge of a shepherd or herder. We saw rows of men and bullock teams plowing the fields with what looked like a crooked stick. I was told the character of the soil required this kind of an implement to do the plowing and that the peculiar stick had an iron shoe or sharp on it. Instead of many trees we saw hedges of cactus and saw large fields of barley and alfalfa. The country seats of the wealthy

Shuandras who own the big farms were very pretty homes, nestled in groves of palms and olive trees. The houses for the working people had no more than three rooms. I was told the farm laborers get from 25 to 40 cents per day with bread and olive oil furnished. We saw the orange and olive orchards, grape, sherry and good gardens. It seems as though the Spanish oranges, while not Navals, are sweeter and more juicy than the American article. They will not average as large in size as our oranges. Many fruit trees are in blossom now. We passed through four very pretty cities and finally arrived in Seville, having eaten a lunch on the train from lunch boxes furnished by the host kitchen before we started. We again took the victrola or landaus and started to see Seville which is a city of 160,000 people and about three times the size of Cadiz. Seville is on a navigable river and in the center of one of the most fertile plains in Spain. The streets here are also narrow and tortuous but the houses have courts with marble pavements and fountains and balconies on the roof. Some of its streets are so narrow that the running board along the street car almost touches the curb of the sidewalk. The keys with their leads are as apt to use the sidewalk as the street and you often see the street vendors load their loaded donkeys into a doorway and let the housewife select from her wares. Outside of the carriage I did not feel with a single exception that I was in any kind of all trucking and hauling being done on two wheel carts drawn by mules hitched to them. They rarely reverse our customs. In passing everybody goes to the left instead of the right. The cows and chickens seem to be members of the family. You may see roosters and hens in some second and third story windows of the houses of the poorer people. In Seville, a city of 150,000 people, I saw a barn in one of the principal squares of the city containing twelve million cows while the space in front of the long manner contained round tables and chairs for patrons who desire a drink of fresh milk or to purchase the per glass. It was a strange sight to see cows in the evening being driven from the barn to the city in a bus in the business district, past troglodyte cars and all vehicles of congested traffic, but they did not seem to mind it. To get to something of more interest, we first place of interest to which we were taken in Seville was the cathedral, considered by some to be the finest in all Christendom. It is second only in size to St. Peter's, but in understanding a statement of priceless art gems and jewel studded robes and silver accessories in Catholic robes of worship. It stands first in the world as far as the interior is concerned as hard as I might I could not wish to mention first when I entered the cathedral. I was told that I realized that I stood at the sarcophagus of Columbus. Here before me, resting on the shoulders of four strong arms of former kings of Spain rested a small bronze casket and in that casket are the mortal remains of the great discoverer. The casket and its contents could have been very busy at this point had I had time to spare. Should you take my poor and limited description of the cathedral at Cadiz and hold it by two, you would have a fair idea of this impressive edifice. One of the priests conducted us into a small room and showed us the wonderful reliquary worn by priests, with embroidery of solid gold and silver which passes description. We then passed on to a case which contained the golden jeweled host which is carried in their religious parades, a small golden casket with a glass side which showed one of the 72 thorns which tortured Christ's brow. The cathedral is 280 by 250 feet. It has nine different entrances, all richly ornamented, seven apses, 36 beautiful stained glass windows and 27 chapels. Murillo, Des Vargues, and other great painters are again represented by their most celebrated paintings. In this building is the tomb of Alfonso, the Legist, buried in 1281, and of King Ferdinand, who died in 1252. We were to visit the Alcazar, but King Alfonso had come to Seville the day before we arrived and taken up his residence there for four weeks so we were not allowed to enter. We saw the day before we arrived and taken up his residence there for four weeks so we were not allowed to enter. then sailed to Gibraltar, was there one day and I am writing this on the Mediterranean sea on our way to Algiers. As this communication must be so long as to be tiresome, I will reserve my description of Gibraltar until my next.
