WILL CALL FOR BALANCE OF

Concessions Made By Both Sides to Keep Up Boasting Spirit of

Business men are at present busy circulating a petition among the taxpayers asking the city council to call an election to vote the entire remainder of the available bond issue of the city to enlarge the construction of a municipal water system. At every place the men with the petition have been met with open arms and the signers have been asked to add their names in favor of placing this city out of the grasp of the present private company which has demanded everything it can get.

The petition is the result of a compromise affected between the men who want paving and those who want the water bonds. The city council is now agreeing to support both issues for the sake of the peace and the progress of the city.

The paving bonds having carried leaves the city about $90,000 thousand dollars which can be voted toward the waterworks system. The intention of the men asking for the election is, after careful and full investigation, to make use of the $90,000 to begin work either of getting a water right and the supply and begin the laying of pipes from the supply point toward the city and use what money is voted until the assessed valuation will permit another issue to finish the system and lay mains into the city. Or, on the other hand, lay mains in the city with the available funds and then get the supply and pipe line later. The two plans will be investigated and placed before the public by the present water works committee, which has been quietly investigating the various phases of the water question during the past two months.

American Farm Review Comments On Conditions All Over the Country.

It is but a few years ago that sensational writers raised a great hue-and-cry in the magazines about the abandoned farms of New England; and, when their dire forebodings failed to move Plymouth Rock into the deep, deep sea, they discovered this dangerous war-dreader, microbes affecting the farmers in New York and other eastern states; lately it has appeared in Iowa and Kansas. While farmers of long residence are more or less affected, the disease seems to be especially virulent in the young people of the agricultural communities. Mr. James J. Hill, who is always listened to with respect, has recently considered the question and decided that unless the farmer and his family can be confined on the land and be compelled to do better work than they have been doing the balance of the population must starve to death. The bug-a-boos of impending decadence raised by such talk are based, it is boldly asserted, on a wrong assumption, inadequate statistics, and a failure to comprehend the evolutionary movement in progress in the agriculture of the country.

In the first place, it is assumed by the pessimist that every man who quits farming and retires from active business, does so because there is something the matter with the farm—would it be fair to assume the same regarding the business of every banker, merchant and professional man who retires from active work? Every boy bred on a farm who seeks some other vocation in life is assumed to have done so because conditions at home are intolerable—do sons of men other than farmers invariably follow their father's business? Comparative statistics would show, it is believed, that the farmer sticks to his job longer than any other class; and similar statistics would show that farmers' sons tend the list of youths who tread in their fathers' footsteps.

The assumption upon which most of these articles about "deserted farms" and the "boys leaving the farm" is based upon is the idea that "once a farmer always a farmer". In other words, it is survival of the old feudal idea of serfdom and binding men to the soil, and is degrading to the man and the occupation. If this theory were true, who would have developed the Great Northern Railroad, or who been the "Father" or the "Saviors" of the country, and who would inhabit the cities to be fed by the farms?

The evolution in farming mentioned as being in progress in this country is not a new phenomena. It has been witnessed in other lands ever since the creation. At first the hunter, seeking fish and game to supply his larder; then, the pioneer, plowing with crude implements the lands most easily cultivated; then, a gradual refining of methods in the intensive degree of farming. Though we do not suppose as dense a population as China, and have not yet equalled the intensive agriculture of some portions of Europe, the American farmer will beat the old world in improved methods by a millennium of years when measured by a time limit.

In America we are making more rapid progress in farming than has been made in any other land or time. Farming is becoming more and more of a business and more and more profitable. It is an attractive occupation to the man who wishes to accumulate property. To become a successful farmer requires some capital, education and experience—perhaps more of these than is required to become successful in the learned professions or in most lines of business, but the profits attainable are on the average as large and as certain as in any other industry.

There is no reason to worry over a temporary unbalancing caused by what may, and may not, be an excessive drift of population to the towns. There is money to be made on the farms, and where money is to be made there will be eventually men to make it. The man who has no inclination for country life should not be induced to stay on the farm, for there is really more to be feared from incompetent farmers than from a lack of farmers.—American Farm Review.

PUSHING PAVEMENT DOWN SIXTH STREET
Modern Methods of Doing Hard Surface Street Work—Tends In Attendance.

Extract taken from the Grant Pass "Courier" of August 26, 1910:

"The paving company is now laying from 700 to 1,000 square yards of finished pavement a day, which amounts to about two blocks along Sixth street in one week. At this rate the contract can not be completed before the latter end of September. There is little danger, however, of any bad weather before that time, and the streets may be in readiness for the fair in the early part of October. No doubt the contract would have been completed by the last of August, had not a series of accidents occurred at the rock plant, which delayed starting the pavement at least a month, but every part of the enterprise is working perfectly now, and no further delay is anticipated. The pavement as it really appears when finished upon our own streets is so nearly perfect that it "shows me" Thomases have been made to see, and the number of our citizens who have worked and worried with so many hindrances are already beginning to see that they have started something which will do much toward the manifest betterment of the city. Property owners along the side lines are showing their appreciation of the work, and petitions are being circulated and filed with the city officials asking for immediate action toward paving alleys and streets carlors."

This movement is by no means premature, or the result of any sudden flash of enthusiasm. It is just what is needed and just what will make this town what it must be to keep in time with irrigation, railway and other similar developments which are upon us.

The statement of President Taft that he will treat every branch of this party alike after the insurgent gains in the name clause with the staid boys who says he will be good after a sound spanking. One question whether it is wisdom or fear which enforces his change of heart.

Secretary of State Lansing is putting the finishing touches to a checked career by doing the one thing needed to take away every vestige of respect the people may have for him by his refusal to certify the state candidate nominations and give them their rightful places upon the ticket. Those who have watched his sinister progress contrary to best interests of the state are not surprised at the last attempt to nullify the rights of the people. Legally Mr. Lansing is wrong for the reason that he is going back of the certified returns of every county canvassing board without the formal act of filing a contest, which he even in his high and mighty position has no right to do. The state made up of county units, cannot step in and interfere with county rights without first alleging fraud and filing contest. Political treachery such as Mr. Lansing is attempting will not work any longer in this state, and Mr. Lansing realizes that his move is his last as far as the voters are concerned.

TIGHTENING THE REIN ON THE RAILROADS.

A remarkable absence of hostile criticism from any quarter marks President Taft's appointment of the commission which will investigate and suggest proper legislation for federal control of railroad stock and bond issues. His choice is being highly praised on every hand, one editor believing it "altogether so excellent" as to "wish it were commissioned to consider the whole question of railroad regulation."

At the head of the commission is President Taft; of Vice, the other members being Frederick X. Judson, of St. Louis, who was associated with Judson Harmon in the Santa Fe Railroad rebate case, Prof. H. H. Meyer of the University of Wisconsin, an eminent authority upon railroads, Walter L. Fisher of Chicago, and Frederick Strauss, of New York. In this commission Mr. Taft is thought to have preserved a balance between progressive and conservative opinion, the New York Tribune (Rep.) settling down Messrs. Judson and Strauss as conservatives and Messrs. Fisher and Meyer as progressives, leaving Chairman Hadley as the impartial referee.

The New York World (Dem.) praises these men as being all exceptionally well qualified as experts, and similar statements are found in the editorial columns of the Brooklyn Eagle (Ind. Dem.), the Troy Record (Rep.), and the New York American (Ind.). If the problem of national control over railway capitalization shall be solved through the work of this commission, the chief credit, according to the Philadelphia Public Ledger (Ind.), will be due to the "wise guidance and to the incomparable tact and good judgment" displayed by "the silent, patient, capable man who fills the Presidential chair." The New York Press (Rep.) likewise congratulates him "on having appointed a conspicuously non-political commission which is likely to search for a conscientiously after the truth than the cost-of-living committee when it was sent to seek out facts." The Press goes on:

"If the committee is not too closely cramped with instructions from the White House—and it is unlikely that such gentlemen would be so bound—its quest must take it into more or less intimate with the question of physical valuation of railroads as a basis for charges against the public."

"Altogether the personnel of the commission appears to be a disinterested body which is sure to enlighten the nation more than the addresses of the president, the speeches of Colonel Roosevelt, or the rantings of three-quarters of the members of congress who presume to educate the people on a supreme question with which they are densely unfamiliar."

Definite provision for the regulation of the stock and bond issues of the interstate carriers was omitted from the railroad law passed at the last session of congress, the New York Tribune notes, only because of the difficulty of adopting a workable system. Some of these difficulties are thus suggested:

"One difficulty regarding the regulation of stock and bond issues by the interstate commerce commission is constitutional. The companies engaged in interstate trade are state corporations, and they are engaged in interstate as well as interstate commerce. Another question Mr. Taft's commission will have to consider is the practicality of imposing upon the interstate commerce commission the great task of passing on the securities issues of most of the railroads of the country in addition to the engraving list of duties the commission already has. Yet another service Mr. Taft's appointees will be expected to perform if a report favorable to regulation is adopted will be to provide for regulation in language that is simple and clear and with a system that is free from complications."—Literary Digest.

APOSTLE OF HIGH FINANCE

Salter's Methods Surely Would Have Brought Him Much Money on Stock Exchange.

"He was a jolly old tar of the first water, and what he didn't know about boating and boating parties wasn't worth considering. He was never at sea for any idea how to make money or get the most out of those who patronized his boat; so when he roved out a party of ladies to 'the Smugglers' Retreat,' as he pleased to call it, small care that you could hardly turn a little boy into, he paused on his own and smiled affably at his fair customers."

"New, India," he said, with a baneful smile, "we've reached 'Consideration point.'"

"How, interesting," murmured the ladies.

"What does it mean?" asked one.

"Well, mum, it's just like this," said the old salt. "Between the cave and this boat we're in there's a lot of hidden rocks—big, jagged things that will rip up this old craft like a bit of candle if it touched 'em. This is 'Consideration point,' 'cos parties always stop and say whether they'll pay 50 cents to go the safe and long way round or whether they'll only give 25 cents each and risk being drowned. Which way shall it be, ladies?"

And once again the jolly old tar assured his 50 cents.

BRADY INDORSSES PLATFORM.

Republicans Secure Harmony In Closing Hours—Hollman, Chairman.

With the election of Charles L. Hollman as chairman, Addison T. Smith secretary and the promulgation of a party platform which is personally endorsed by Governor Brady and other leading Republican politicians the Republican state central committee yesterday met at 10 o'clock in the morning, not due to business and last evening had practically completed its work after a day when harmony in the party ranks is said to have formed a sharp distinction with the conditions which prevailed during the preceding day and evening.

The platform in its entirety does not differ materially from the forecast of the principal planks as published in Tuesday morning's Statesman. The Carey act amendment is one of the principal of these. In this plank the party is pledged to the enactment of the Carey act, to be enforced by the legislature, for any official or state employee or appointee, indirectly, by the state or by any hands, to receive or to acquire any interest directly or indirectly in any lands disposed of by the state or to accept from any person, association or corporation any reward, compensation or thing of value for any services rendered to the state for any purpose in connection with the disposal of said lands.

Conservation of Resources.

The conservation of natural resources comes in for a full share of attention, the position taken being that such rights and powers as belong to the national government should be exercised by the national government and such rights and powers as come properly within the authority of the state should be exercised by the state.

Belief in a protective tariff is set forth as well as the belief of the party in the wisdom of retaining this policy at all times.

In addition to the provision for a conditional amendment in the matter of the liquor question the party is pledged unequivocally to maintain strict temperance and to enforce the provisions of the head option law as it is at present stands. The party also as it is at present stands.

A ratification of the amendment to the constitution of the United States of 1910, which gives the state the power to levy such a tax.

In the matter of good roads, the plank is a strong one and the legislature is urged to take the most prompt and comprehensive consideration and provide for the taking of such action as will result in the improvement of the roads best adapted to her needs and conditions.

Direct Primary Upheld.

The direct primary law is upheld and a revision of the laws on taxation and revenue is urged.

The amendment to the state railway commission to be composed of three appointed men chosen with special regard to the interests of the work is urged by the party.

The residence period for home-steaders is to be shortened to three years and the homestead law is urged to be amended.

Amendments to the grain commission law are also urged to the end that the work of the commission be made fully effective and become of real benefit to the people of the state.

The integrity of the educational system of the state is dealt with at length and the party is pledged to exert its power to keep it intact and to support such legislation to the full extent of the financial ability of the state.

FIVE CANDIDATES ONLY OBEY LAW

Puzzling Question Confronts County Auditor.

ALL SAVE FIVE MEN REMISS IN SOME POINT OF NEW LAW.

County Auditor Will Wait Upon a Decision from the Supreme Court.

Twin Falls county candidates are in a peck of trouble over the direct primary requirements concerning registration and only five of the entire bunch of Republican and Democratic candidates are fully within the provisions of the law. The balance vary in the enormity of their offenses by several degrees. Four failed to file acceptance of nomination within the time specified. One man failed to sign his name to notary acknowledgment. A few others in setting out expense accounts from the ticket, or leave the decision to the joint assembly of the Republican and Democratic central committees.

ROCK CRUSHER HAS LONG RUN

Believe Improvements In La Grande Will Continue For Five Years.

Extract taken from La Grande Star of August 19, 1910.

The big rock crusher machinery of the Warren Construction company has been put in operation and yesterday the dump wagons began making deposits from the intersection of Fourth street on Adams avenue. The newly opened rock quarry above Ore Dell is a night and day enterprise and the crushing plant will handle 200 tons of rock per day. In establishing the rock crushing machinery the preliminary expenditures have been most elaborate and it is the expectation that this plant will be maintained for a long time. There are now something in excess of twenty blocks that are to be hard surface paving and petitions are coming to the council for this same class of improvement on the connecting streets and districts. It is almost a certainty that Jefferson and Washington avenues will be paved the same as Adams avenue, and petition is already before the council for the paving of Fourth street.

A great majority of the property owners realize that pavement work is the best thing that can be done for a city. The difference is about the same as that of a board walk and a cement street. Those who are in the districts to be improved are insisting on the best that is to be had, and this disposition and interest is what will make La Grande the best paved town in the northwest. A. L. Hillbauer Raises Some Fine Tubs on His Dry Farm.

A. L. Hillbauer was exhibiting to-day fine Early Ohio and Early Six Weeks potatoes raised by him on his dry farm in the Poverty-Flat district about four miles from Arvidson City.

The spuds were of good size, smooth and their good qualities are readily attested by all who have tasted them. Mr. Hillbauer planted only a half-acre in potatoes and did that profitably, not anticipating a crop. Thus the yield was about 200 bushels per acre, a record of two hundred bushels per acre was, distinctly a surprise.

Plank endorsing the local option law, declaring for enforcement thereof and of silent as to changes.

Plank praising the principles of primary law, but advocating amendment and holding second choice primary law.

Plank denouncing present employer's liability law as a farce and promising to have a law submitted any member of the state land board or employee thereof from being interested in such a project.

Plank advocating passage of legislation providing for system of more equitable taxation.

Plank suggesting Payne-Adair tax and advocating restriction of schedules, though the latter are not enumerated.

Plank generally attacking state land board and acts of Republican administration with special reference to the holding of executive sessions refusal to admit representatives of the press, alleged suppression of matters of record, and alleged loss of methods of handling state school lands, "the sacred heritage of future generations."

The 14 candidates on the Democratic ticket and the members of the newly elected state central committee of that party, who assembled in Boise Monday to draft a platform and elect a chairman of the committee for the ensuing campaign, finished the making of the platform Tuesday after having chosen John F. Nugent as state chairman. The committee and the candidates were pledged to strictest secrecy; and the findings were continuously afloat as to various controversies regarding several important planks, and nothing definite could be ascertained from those who actually knew the contents of the platform.

The platform, as adopted, signed by the candidates and the elected chairman, was turned over to James H. Hawley, the gubernatorial candidate, who will file the platform in the limit of the time allowed under the law.

Everything published or spoken in public concerning any of the planks in the Democratic platform has been and is founded on mere hearsay and rumor, but taking gossip for what it is, the following is a forecast of what the Democrats have placed in their platform.

The plank handling the party's position in this campaign on the liquor question is short, succinct and of the "stand out" order, simply endorsing the local option law, and stating and favoring its enforcement. It is said.

Compromise Is Effect.

But what is the effect of the candidates by a majority vote originally adopted a plank declaring for the submission of the question of state wide prohibition to the people in form of constitutional amendment; that the vote thereon stand three to five; that Jas. H. Hawley was the only candidate who refused to run for governor on such a plank and threatened to resign his candidacy; and that the candidates, or at least the "drys" reneged and accepted the plank endorsing the local option law.

This rumor was flatly denied by all committee men and candidates who were asked for corroboration or denial.—Statesman.

FEW DIFFERENCES AT MASS MEETING

Waterworks Investigation Committee Report.

AGITATION FOR MUNICIPAL SYSTEM OPPOSED.

Results Bring Out Opposition to Other City Board Improvements Later.

The waterworks investigation committee was due for a report last Friday and in a mass meeting called for that purpose showed that after careful investigation it would require $155,000 to install a new gravity system, taking water from the foothills from artesian flow or $135,000 for putting in a pumping system with heavy expense for maintenance.

The committee, which has worked hard upon the matter, urged that some steps be taken to organize and start action toward a municipal plant.

In the course of the remarks some talk was made against voting the paving bonds until after the waterworks system was secured, those favoring, however, that good water was worth more than paying toward boosting the city.

This mild statement caused some of the paying enthusiasts to rather lose their temper and the meeting instead of resulting in beneficial argument simply changed to loose for the paving which should not have come up for consideration.

The meeting, with a large number refusing to vote, decided that waterworks was impossible simply on the word of some of the local legal lights, and without due discussion.

The next day the waterworks people were gathering forces to oppose such high-handed action and a mass meeting was held, where the two sides with true Twin Falls spirit, compromised and agreed to wait until paving and waterworks system.

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION

Citizens Express Themselves In Mass Meeting.

At the recent mass meeting held in the Commercial club rooms the citizens present vent on record as favoring the establishment of a state public utilities commission. The idea of such commission being to care for a number of the public service corporations, including the railroads, giving scope enough to insure return for money expended in general over sight of the needed public utilities.

Twin Falls, Sept. 12.—Prosecuting Attorney W. P. Guthrie has rendered an opinion to County Auditor H. T. West against certifying a nominee where there is a discrepancy between first and second choice votes and also against certifying a nominee whose statement filed is not itemized.—

Anniversary Sale and Fair Week Special!

It is now one year since we opened our doors for business. The people have appreciated our efforts, the result is satisfactory and we HAVE PROSPERED BEYOND OUR EXPECTATIONS

To Show Our Appreciation

And give our own townspeople, as well as the many visitors who will be in our city during Fair Week a little special indulgence, we will make on everything in our store, excepting such items as our contract with the manufacturers will not permit us to cut.

For Four Days Only, Sept. 27, 28, 29 and 30, and For Cash Only

We do not do this to boost our sales, as we are already doing a splendid business, and it means an unnecessary loss of profit to us, but rather to boost the Twin Falls Country Fair, and as a means of showing our appreciation of the splendid business we have enjoyed during our first year.

Our Idea of MERCHANDISING

Is to offer the market's best goods at fair prices; to keep our stock absolutely clean and up-to-date, even if necessary to dispose of broken lots at a loss. We would consider it a greater loss to pay rent for room to store them. To keep every customer we get and get as many more as we can keep, by HONEST, STRAIGHTFORWARD DEALING.

Our Idea of ADVERTISING

Is to state the facts plainly and the truth absolutely. You will never find a false or misleading statement in our advertising. We are here to stay, and there will be no deception of any kind. We expect by earnest, courteous and fair treatment to make the name of Ostrander & McCauley in this community as representing the highest standard of business integrity.

That Our Policy is Winning Out

Is evidenced by the fact that we receive more cars than any dealer in the Twin Falls country.

We are the only dealers shipping straight cars of our commodity, such as CHAIRS, IRON BEDS, MATTRESSES, Etc., over the Minidoka & Southwestern.

This Quantity Buying and Commodity Shipping

Enables us to make a price that would be ruinous to smaller concerns.

We are exclusive distributors of Lamberts Arts & Crafts Furniture, made by Holland Dutch craftsmen, and pronounced by furniture experts the best mission goods made in America today.

We have the agency for Wagner Go-Carts, the roomiest, springiest, best balanced and most symmetrical folding cart on the market.

Our mattresses are the Famous McEntire Line, made in the east. Thoroughly dependable in every way and our guarantee of satisfaction is back of every one.

We also have the Study, which is in a class by itself, and the Ostermeyer, too well known for comment.

We would like to mention more of our lines, such as Royal Push Button Chairs, Imperial Dining Tables, Hossier Kitchen Cabinets, Art Bedstead Co.'s Iron and Brass Beds, but space is limited.

In conclusion, let us extend you a hearty invitation to visit our store during the fair. Come in and get acquainted, rest in our easy chairs, and make our place your headquarters.

The Fitting of Glasses

Is a science. Not only must the errors in refraction be accurately measured and the lenses ground to correct or remedy that error, but they must be fitted into frames or mountings to hold them properly in front of the eyes.

I have hundreds of patients in and around Twin Falls who are well pleased with my work and to whom I would gladly refer any one who is interested. My success I consider comes from looking after each case myself, personally, and attending to every minute detail.

I have been coming to Twin Falls every six weeks for two years and expect to continue my visits. In fact, I promise each patient that I will be here every six weeks (or more often if possible) and my attention or change in lenses during a period of one year will be made free of charge.

Chocolates as a Stimulant. Chocolate according to Balzac, is even more dangerous as a stimulant than tea or coffee. The Atlantic of Spain from the proud position it once held he ascribes to the introduction of chocolate, and its speedy adoption by all classes as an habitual drink. Its deadliness is further proved by an experiment recorded in the "Traite des Excitants Modernes," and apparently nowhere else. The British government, Balzac tells us, reprimanded three criminals condemned to death, with a view to seeing how long a man could live nourished exclusively on tea, coffee or chocolate. The chocolate drinker died after eight months and the coffee drinker at the end of two years; while the man condemned to subsist on tea survived three years. The experiment was promoted, the author adds, by the British East India company, with a view of putting the sale of tea, and they had every reason to be satisfied with the result.

BRANCH BOARD BUILDING & LOAN

Continental Building and Loan
Savings Established:

LOCAL BUSINESS MEN AS BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF BRANCH.

Opportunity Will Be Given to Small Investors and Borrowers
by New Company.

The Twin Falls auxiliary organization of the Continental Building and Loan Savings Association was established through the agency of H. E. Kyle of Denver on Tuesday evening when a board of directors consisting of seven Twin Falls business men was elected.

The officers and directors elected were E. J. Ostrander, president; A. N. Sprague, vice president; J. E. White, secretary and treasurer; W. S. Hill, W. T. Wood, J. F. Cooney and Griff Jones, directors.

The company of which Twin Falls has only a branch, has its main offices in Denver, and is well known for its financial responsibility. Mr. Kyle stated that his company would loan up to most any sum, which the local board could place in its small, individual loans of from $1,000 to $2,000. Owing to the demand for residences and the lack of capital in every western town, Twin Falls is to be congratulated upon getting a branch in a strong company interested in the investment side of Twin Falls' prosperity.

These dealings alone can make application to J. E. White.

HUMAN LIVES THROWN AWAY

Herein is Stern Indictment of Conditions Which Are Not Creditable to the Nation.

Defective sanitation, impure food, formaldehyde milk, typhoid water, sweatshops, due to unrestricted commercial ambition, gives us an average death rate of over 16 to the thousand, and in certain industrial centers 23 to the thousand, while in the Australian states, where the heathenness of commerce is restrained and the public health preserved, the average death rate is 10 to the thousand, and in New Zealand nine and a fraction to the thousand. If a department of public health could reduce our mortality one to the thousand it would mean a saving of about 90,000 human beings per annum, worth, approximately, four hundred millions. If we shall value human life by a commercial standard, and if we should develop a patriotic intelligence equal to that of New Zealand we would save over 500,000 human beings annually, worth, on a commercial basis, twenty-five hundred millions per annum to the values of the American Republic, estimating Americans as worth $5,000 apiece.

Palestine a Land of Contrasts.

I have often heard it said that Palestine is not a land of much variety, even that it is very monotonous. If one compares it with other countries, the statement may be allowed to be true, but in spring it affords delicious contrasts of cold and almost givens meeting with soft and languorous glance, the contrasts between the heights and the plains. Sad and stony are the hills, or sometimes dull to their rounded nuddy. Noble hier, more, each its glorious crest of snow, excites the spirit. But as one rides through Palestine, the general effect of the hills is one that makes for a monotony not free from melancholy. No mountains, too, are the plains. But therein lies for me their supreme attraction. As one slowly descends into them, picking his way among the brilliant rocks, he has the sensation of being taken as by some green and tranquil sea, full of lulling murmurs, and of movements that suggest passivity to the mind. The wild flowers sit in the breeze, the prairie's corn turn to a delicate purple as the silver vine winds each ear--Robert Heilmann--From Nazareth to Jerusalem, in Century.
