THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

To Be Established in Twin Falls Next Month.

A SUBSTANTIAL INSTITUTION

Twin Falls Especially Fortunate in Securing Such a Valuable Addition to Her List of Business Firms—Directors Are Men of Integrity and Sound Judgment.

The organization of the First National Bank of Twin Falls, with a capital of $25,000, has been perfected, the officers of which are as follows: I. B. Perrine, president; Phillip Weisner, vice-president; John M. Maxwell, cashier. These, together with Frank F. Johnson and S. H. Hays, comprise the board of directors. It is anticipated that the bank will be open and ready for business about the latter part of February. A safe has been ordered from the Norris Safe and Lock company of Seattle and a vault has been secured from the same company to be used temporarily until the permanent bank building, which will be located across the street from the Kimberly hotel, is completed. The safe is of the Hall pattern and is a beautiful piece of workmanship, constructed in such a manner as to be absolutely burglar and fire proof and is equipped with time lock and other up-to-date features.

The First National Bank has been organized for the purpose of doing a general banking business, and the officers being composed of good, strong men, possessed with sound and honest business judgment, Twin Falls may be considered lucky in securing such a valuable asset to her long list of substantial business firms. I. B. Perrine, the originator of the Twin Falls land project, and owner of the Blue Lakes fruit farm, who has been selected to fill the office of president, needs no further introduction, as he is well known in business circles throughout the west as a man of keen judgment and possessed with more than the ordinary amount of executive ability. Through his efforts many business enterprises have sprung into existence here which will mean much to the future of the city and the Twin Falls land tract. His unerring judgment has so far prevented the operations here of any fake concern whatsoever, the motto being that anything with which he is connected must be perfectly legitimate and founded on a sound financial basis.

Phillip Weisner, the vice-president, was formerly in the banking business in Arizona, but had to leave that territory on account of his health. He chose Idaho as his place of residence, and wisely, too, for no more healthful climate and no more prosperous state could be found in the Union than the Gem of the Mountains. His long experience in banking lines will be of much service to the company with which he is associated.

John Maxwell, the cashier, who is now teller of the First National Bank of Wallace, Idaho is a man, of excellent judgment, and well qualified to fill the position to which he has been chosen.

S. H. Hays, of the board of directors, was formerly attorney general of Idaho and is one of the most prominent lawyers in the state.

Frank F. Johnson, the remaining member of the board of directors, is president of the First National Bank of Wallace, one of the strongest banks in the state.

In the aggregate, no bank in the state is better equipped with a better set of officials nor is there any on a sounder financial basis. The First National Bank of Twin Falls will in every way be qualified to carry out any plans they may have formulated. The entire business interests of Twin Falls will be greatly benefited by the opening of this bank, and work on the building, which will be located near the office of the Twin Falls investment company, has already begun.

Heyburn on Statehood Bill.

A special from Washington, bearing date of Jan. 16, says: By a vote of 30 to 42 the senate today decided to consider the cross-town street railway bill for Washington, but the measure soon gave place to the statehood bill. That measure was discussed for three hours by Messrs. Simmons and Heyburn, both of whom favored the elimination of Arizona from the bill.

Mr. Heyburn contended that the people of Arizona were in every way capable of making a state for themselves, and he pointed out the marked difference in race, religion and training of the people of that territory compared with those of New Mexico, which should, he said, entitle them to separate states.

Mr. Heyburn said that he would, if necessary, agree to the consolidation of Oklahoma and Indian Territory, but he expressed doubt of the wisdom of even that part of the bill, because his conviction was that the population of Indian Territory would become a "political plaything, an element to be traded, to do business with." As for the effort to unite the other two territories, he could see no reason for it except for a shortsighted desire to shut the door of the senate against the west.

Utah Bounty Frauds Unearthed.

A special from Salt Lake to the Capital News says: It leaked out this afternoon that a former deputy county clerk of the old administration has been in jail since Saturday, together with half dozen others alleged to be connected with frauds on the state bounty on pelts of wild animals. It is said that the gang has defrauded the state out of $75,000 alone for pelts of animals alleged to have been killed in the three months past. In Salt Lake county alone the frauds amount to $17,000. The matter was made the subject of a special message by Governor Cutler to the legislature this afternoon. The scheme was to use the same pelts over again in various counties. In this manner one man collected $1300 in one month. Officers refuse to give the names of men arrested, who are believed to be prominent.

Special Rate on Seed Potatoes.

In order to encourage the importation of seed potatoes for use in Idaho, the Oregon Short Line has issued a new tariff to take effect on January 23, which makes a rate of 50 cents per 100 pounds from Missouri river points to all Idaho points.

THE FARMERS PROSPEROUS

They Do Not Know What to Do With Their Money.

PRODUCTS WORTH FIVE BILLIONS

Their Products Last Year Worth More Than All the Gold Mines in the World—Money Put in Banks and the Bankers Do Not Know What to Do With It.

The Hon. James Wilson, secretary of agriculture, recently said: "It is impossible to overestimate the importance of the farmer to this country. I am delighted to find that the people are just beginning to awaken to this fact."

"It is more evident this year than ever before, since the value of farm products in the last year has reached the greatest point in the history of the nation: More than 65 per cent of our exports today consist of farm products. Of the remaining 35 per cent a large percentage comprises articles which originate on the farm."

"The farmers have so much money this year that they scarcely know what to do with it. As a result they pile it into the banks until these institutions themselves wonder how to dispose of it. The farmer is afraid of burglars and he hands the money over to his banker. The banker is also afraid of burglars, and he sends the money on to New York. An astonishingly overwhelming percentage of the money in New York today which makes possible the great projects of the age, comes directly from the farm. I know one bank in my own little town in Iowa, a town of about 1200 inhabitants, that sent more than $350,000 to New York last year; all farmers' money. The farmers of one state—in fact, one section of one state—could take up the entire bond issue of the Pennsylvania railroad, amounting to $160,000,000, and scarcely feel it. The year's interest on our national debt could be paid by the value of the eggs laid by the farmers' hens in one month alone during their busy season."

COULD PAY FOR MERCHANT MARINE.

"Right here I want to emphasize a point which I made at this time last year: That is the ability and readiness of the farmers to finance any project under heaven that might be conceived by our most ambitious promoter, provided they had the assurance that the proposition was a fair and square one. When we get our new department of commerce and labor organized to a point that it will have supervision over such projects and stand ready to advise the farmers as to the safety of an investment, no worthy project will have any trouble to get all the money it wants. If $200,000,000 was wanted tomorrow to build a merchant marine it could be obtained from the farmers by February 1. I am very anxious to see the department of commerce and labor enter this field. Our national banks are under government supervision and their stock cannot be purchased for love or money. Why should not our great corporations be in the same position?"

"The increase in the value of farm products for 1904 over 1903 is more than $400,000,000. This is an increase over the census value of 1899, five years ago, of 42 per cent. What is the limit of this rapid advance? There is no limit whatever, except the demand. The farmers of this country will not produce anything that they cannot sell at a good price.

"There is no field today so inviting to the intelligent man as the farm. The research work being done by the department at its experiment stations in this country and in our island possessions is enabling the American producer to aggregate more than his soil. Each acre yields more now than ever before. This is plainly evinced by the figures. Since 1900 the increase in value of farms and farm property amounts to more than $2,000,000,000.

"When one fully realizes the significance of this great accumulation of farmers' money, the absurdity of any fear of industrial depression, as long as the farmers keep prosperous, is manifest. It is the farmers that have saved this country from the severe conditions of a period of slight industrial depression during the past two years that must otherwise have befallen, in consequence of the absorption of a large portion of the readily convertible capital of the non-agricultural classes into great and prevalent speculations."

"The farmers' rate of financial progress is greater than that of any other class of producers. The farmer may not become a millionaire, but he is surer than a millionaire to retain his wealth and to have independence in living. One of the most conspicuous features of the recent agricultural development is the diffusion of well being among farmers throughout all parts of the country. The Eastern farmer, who was long on the verge of bankruptcy in competition with the virgin soil, and rapid extension of the Mississippi valley, has survived that competition, and now enjoys more normal conditions, owing to the creation and maintenance of many nearby markets by many varied industries. The Pacific coast has long been prosperous with its world-famed specialties, the mountain states are glad with their fruits and promises of irrigation, and in the older prairie states the farmer has seen his land go from 25 cents an acre to $100 and $150.

"I have estimated the total value of farm products for 1904 at nearly $5,000,000,000, or, to be exact, $4,900,000,000. This is my estimate, after excluding the value of farm crops fed to livestock in order to avoid duplication of values.

"In order that the stupendousness of this sum may be fully realized I want, in conclusion, to repeat a few comparisons I made in my annual report. A greater value in gold has not been produced by all the gold mines in the world since Columbus discovered America than the wealth farmers of this nation have produced in two years; this year's product is more than six times the amount of the capital stock of all the national banks; it comes within three-fourths of a billion dollars of equaling the value of the manufactures of 1900, less cost of materials used; our exports and imports for the year are only half as much, the gross earnings from the operation of the railways are only one-third as much and the value of all the minerals produced in this country was only one-fourth as much."

THEY INSPECT THE WORKS

Construction Work Along Canals Progressing Rapidly.

WORK ON DAM SATISFACTORY

General Manager Fyler and Asst. Gen. Mgr. Murtaugh Well Pleased With the Result of Their Thorough Inspection of Construction Work on Canals and Dam.

General Manager W. G. Fyler of Salt Lake City and Asst. Gen. Mgr. M. M. Murtaugh of Milner arrived in Twin Falls Thursday, after having made a complete inspection of all the construction work along the canals. They report everything progressing in a very satisfactory manner, and that a large force of men are working along the entire line.

At the dam the work is progressing with all possible speed, and the rock work will be completed in about three weeks.

The fine weather which has prevailed during the past few months has been especially favorable for work on dam and canals, not a day being lost on account of storms or falling temperature. The grading of the canals and laterals has not even been interfered with on account of the ground freezing or heavy snowfall, an important feature in favor of the Twin Falls land tract, and something that should be taken note of by all prospective homeseekers.

Jos. Dederich of Salt Lake City, who has the contract for placing the large steelsyphon across Rock creek to carry the water of the canal, has a large force of steel erectors at work with up-to-date appliances for riveting, compressed air, being used. At the present writing seventy feet of the syphon have been laid and the first section riveted and in place. The syphon is ten feet in diameter and will carry a large volume of water.

Heyburn Homestead Relief Bill.

The homestead relief bill which

Senator Heyburn has introduced in the senate reads as follows:

"That all qualified entrymen who have heretofore or shall hereafter make bona fide entry upon lands proposed to be irrigated under the provisions of the act of June 17, 1902, known as the national irrigation act, may, upon application and a showing that water is not available for the irrigation of said lands, obtain leave of absence from their entries for a period not to exceed six months during any one year until water for irrigation is turned into the main irrigation canals on the land to be irrigated."

New Rules for Homesteads.

The method of proving up on homesteads has been changed by rules recently adopted by the department at Washington. A special government agent will visit all the principal towns of a land district each month on a specified date for the purpose of taking homestead proofs.

The land office will advertise for proof in the local paper nearest the land, and those having proofs to make will meet the agent on the date fixed. The new rule is designed to prevent fraudulent proof of residence on a claim.

Under the old rule proof could be made to the United States court, commissioner, and the special agent visited a locality only when there was fraud suspected.—Oakley Eagle.

TO AWAKEN WHEN YOU WISH.

Simple Plan Which Requires No Alarm Clock to Be Set.

We hear it frequently asserted that if persons will impress the thought firmly upon their minds and continue thinking about it until they have fallen asleep that they desire to awake at a certain hour in the morning, they will do it without fail, says a writer in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. But how many people have tried this method of insuring a prompt awakening at a given hour in the morning only to find their rest throughout the night disturbed and uneasy.

The brain will usually respond to the will and awaken one in the morning near the desired hour under any circumstances, but to prevent the unbroken uneasy sleep the adoption of only a very simple device is necessary. The last thing before getting into bed, take a watch or clock and turn the hands to the hour at which one wishes to rise and gaze at this just long enough to fix the hour firmly on the retentive memory. Then, if no other absorbing thoughts intervene between that and the moment one is locked in, slumber, the night's rest will be easy and untroubled.

There is no need to keep thinking of the hour continually for a number of minutes, no need to repeat it over and over in the mind; all that makes the brain uneasy and results in the disturbed slumber. Simply look at the watch or clock, as I have indicated, and the influence of the mind over matter will be clearly demonstrated in the morning. Try it some night and observe its smoothly this physiological fact works.

May Sleep in Life Preservers.

Passengers on ocean liners may soon be able to sleep in life preservers, if the plans of E. Salvador, a New York inventor, do not go awry, says the American Inventor. He sleeps with a jacket on his feet, and the inventor decided to make a preserver that would become effective only by its coming in contact with the water. It works on the principle of a water-generated gas, which fills a belt and gives it buoyancy. Unfastened, the belt is a light thing, which would hardly be felt if worn by a sleeper, but when filled with gas it is blown up to the size of an ordinary cork jacket. The belt is made of rubber, and is about eight inches wide and can be blown up by means of a small cylinder. In this cylinder is placed a composition of acids, which, when acted upon by water, instantly inflates the belt. The belt has been tested in the ocean, and it has been found that the water sets upon the acids and inflates the rubber in less than three seconds. The ingredients in this composition Mr. Salvador keeps secret.

At Night.

Come, Night, upon thy raven wings, Plumed with their rich imaginings, All my dreams are flying away The din and clamor of the day. Fling thy deep shadow over me Till by thy wild necromancy Thou hast dissolved this solid care And moved it shapeless with the air. Come with thy cup of dreams and be An angel ministering to me. As one who, weak from battling lies, Unconscious, but to woe is free. The warrior, Day, has harried me, And through the father's darkness keep The vigil of thy sister, Sleep. —J. W. Foley in New York Times.

Embarrassing Inquiry.

"I don't see anything the matter with your elbow, Mr. Chaser," said Bobby, who had forgotten his mother's injunction to keep still at the dinner table. "There isn't anything the matter with it, Bobby," innocently replied the guest. "What made you think there was?" "Why, I heard papa say that you were a nice fellow, except that you crooked your elbow too much; but it looks all right to me." Then Bobby retired, but not in good order. —Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Reflection in Caricature.

In certain parts of Russia a secretly circulated caricature which has just been confiscated by the police represents the late Admiral Makarov in the head of the shadow. It is telephoned to the czar, and the purpose of his message is: "All is well here. Great numbers of our men are arriving all the time. Up to the present none of the enemy have dared to intrude."

Long Voyage in Canoe.

Capt. Wise recently arrived at Margate, having made a voyage of 40,000 miles from British Columbia in a two-and-one-half ton "dugout" canoe, called Tikikum. The journey occupied three years three months and twelve days.

Memories

First, dear, I loved you like the dawn, A love that trembled like a fawn. Full of shy fear lest love should fall. Then came the noon-love; like a flower That glows in the embryo's air. It made its beauty to be hour And pausing, left a fragrance there. And now 'tis sunset, and the mere is all abouts like blossoming trees; And now my evening love is here, Half sleeping with old memories. —Harper's Weekly.

THE BUDGETT HEIRS

(Copyright, 1904, by Dally Story Pub. Co.)

The forecastle lamp burned with a spasmodic sputter as it swung from the beam to the motion of the bark and cast its dim light on the wrinkled face of Tom Budgett as he fought for the few sands of life that remained in the hour glass of his allotted time. Over the side of the narrow dirty bunk his bony hand hung nerveless, and his waxen face betokened the last stage of illness.

Joe Brent, coming down from his watch on deck, asked him how he did. "Hi wish," murmured Tom, "I could talk with a clergyman."

"Ow would 'Odges do?" asked Brent; "his father's a sexton—him a church-ward and he's a lawyer, a clergyman than any one here the bark."

Tom nodded and Brent proceeded to awaken Mr. Budgett.

"Wake up, you bloomin' lump o' lead," bellowed Mr. Brent, and at the same time hauling the representative of the church irreverently out of his bunk.

"Say somethin' comfortin' to old Tom," commanded Brent; "you know somethin'—about church matters."

"You'll be appy, Tom," began Mr. Budgett, somewhat sleepily; "you'll ave no tangsalls to reef and no decks to 'olystone."

"Ow about 'ell?" interrupted the sufferer, with solicitude. "No 'ell for you, Tom," replied Mr. Budgett, cheerfully; "hit's a straight course hup for you, my boy."

"Hi pushed a man hoverboard in Shields once," moaned Tom; "Joe here knows Hi did. Mebbe 'e was drowned. Hi don't know."

"What that there Pete Bowly?" ejaculated Mr. Brent. "The Halmitgity 'as no grudge ag'in you for that. Hi'll bet my wages 'e was glad to get Pete holt of 'is loaka."

"Hi've a matter o' twenty pun some hodd shilling in the savings bank at Shields," whispered the sick man. "I want you two fellows to 'ave it."

"We'll appreciate hit and take good care hof the money, for your sake," said Mr. Brent, feelingly.

"We'll 'andle it Christian-like," added Mr. Budgett.

"Hi wish," murmured Tom, "I could talk with a clergyman."

ed Mr. Budgett, "but you'd better make a will. Hit 'll ease your mind a lot."

"Who'll write the will?" inquired Mr. Brent.

"Billey," reported the resourceful Mr. Budgett; "he 'll write it."

fresh. Hi, Thomas Budgett, hof Hong Kong, wanted to put my mind to die with Christian fortitude, hof a hunk-known disease, do give, will, devise and bequeath.

"What's the use o' hall that?" grumbled Mr. Brent.

"Hi's law," rejoined Mr. Budgett, firmly. "Go on, Billey—the sum hof twenty pun some hodd shilling."

"What do I get?" asked Billey, laying down the pen, "for writin'?"

"You'll get the hodd shillings," said Mr. Budgett, generously.

"I gets two pun," remarked Billey; "or I don't write no more."

"You ought to be hashamed of yourself, 'azzling at a death bed," said Mr. Brent angrily.

"Let him 'ave it," snapped Mr. Budgett; "go on."

"It's to be put in the will," insisted Billey.

"E'll die afore you get the will mach," muttered Mr. Brent.

"Hall right, now go on—now in the savings bank at Shields, to my lovin' friends Joe Brent and Richard 'Odges, 'alf and 'alf each, and two pun to Billey for writin' being in sound mind. That's all right. Now, Tom, you sign hit."

legatees, managed to scrawl his name to the will, and two seamen were awakened and induced to add their names as witnesses on promise of a liberal spirituous entertainment when the bark reached London. Then the fateful paper was placed in the inside pocket of Mr. Budgett's pea jacket.

"Hi'm going to buy a interest in a public I know hof in Sunderland," said Hodges that night, when he and Brent were on deck again.

"Aven't made up my mind what to do with mine," remarked Brent.

"Hi'm going to take in the play a lot."

The next morning the skipper and chief mate came into the forecastle to see Mr. Budgett.

"Ho's about to up anchor, from his looks," whispered the mate.

"I can't think what ails him," mused the skipper. "When he took sick I started forrard in the medicine chest and travelled aft, giving him a dose out of each bottle. Then I turned about and travelled forrard and give him 'em all over again. I don't see why he isn't better."

"He was always obstinate," was Tom's suggested mate.

"I found this here bottle in an old locker this morning," said the skipper. "It has no label on it, but it looks like medicine."

"Smells like varnish," remarked the mate, sniffing at the bottle.

"Maybe it's bug poison."

tent of the tackle the skipper cast it overboard.

"E's better," said Hodges, with deep gloom, addressing Brent.

"Seems one can't trust to hant'ing," grumbled Mr. Brent. "What more he's going to get well. Did you hear him cussin' at Billey this morn'g?"

Two days later Tom was furling top-sails and the will had been demanded from the legatees and burned.

"Hi wish," muttered the skipper, "to keep that there will in 'is bloomin' good medicine, whatever it was."

JUST TURNING THE TABLES.

Captain Had Waited Long, and Made Others Wait.

Col. Henry Cochrane, former commander of the marine barracks at League Island, tells a new story on Rear Admiral Charles D. Sigbee.

Until recently Admiral Sigbee, now president of the board of naval examiners in Washington, was commandant at League Island.

"Speaking of slow promotion in the navy," said the colonel, "reminds me of the report the rear admiral made to the navy paymaster last year. He had been advanced after a long and patient wait from commander to captain. He kept the launch, which was to take him to his ship, waiting considerably beyond the appointed moment—Every expected him to be on the dot because it was his first order to take charge of a vessel under his new title.

"When Capt. Sigbee strolled nonchalantly up, Paymaster Charles W. Siamm, who was in charge of the launch, surveyed the youthful commander with critical impatience:

"Captain," he said, "you—you have just been promoted, and you— you have made a bad beginning. You have kept the boat waiting too—long, sir."

"Be calm, Mr. Siamm," said the new captain, with a tantalizing grin and a look directed at no one in particular, "I've been waiting years for the privilege." —New York Times.

HUNGARIANS CROSS THE SEA.

Town in Wisconsin Founded by Them in 1841.

A work on "Migration from Hungary in the Abrege du Bulletin de la Societe Hongroise de Geographie," shows that, while the history of Hungarians and their ancestors back into the fifteenth century, it has never attained such dimensions as in the last few decades.

In the two decades from 1881 to 1890 the migration from Hungary has amounted to 380,000 souls, or 1.3 per cent of the total population.

In 1887 there were only 58,000 Hungarians dwelling in Austria, whereas in the year 1900 there were more than 270,000, 100,000 of them in Vienna alone.

The emigration to America has set in only since the eighteenth century, and in 1841 the Hungarians founded in the state of Wisconsin the colony of Haraztyfald, which now as Bath City has long lost all trace of the Magyar character.

Not till 1877 did the emigration assume large proportions. It was directed especially to Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, and that in consequence of strikes among American workers. The volume of emigrants attained its first maximum from 1884 to 1892, and its second in the years subsequent to 1898.

Reporter Accumulates Wealth. Henry Weber was a reporter on a Denver daily. For some time he had been interested in mining properties, one of which, in Nevada, has proved to be immensely valuable. Mr. Weber has sold his interest in that mine for $500,000 cash, and holds others which are expected to be worth twice as much. He has promoted eighteen companies, four of which are doing well.

Awaiting Developments. William F. King of the Merchants' association tells a story of a boy who had a faculty for losing one job and getting another almost simultaneously. Meeting him on the street one day a friend said to him: "Well, Jack, who are you with now?"

"I'm with John Smith & Co."

"Is this a permanent connection at last?" asked the friend.

"I can't tell about that yet," replied Jack. "It's only there on memorandum. You see." —New York Times.

Entered as second-class matter, December 12, 1904, at the postoffice at Twin Falls, Idaho, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Now that the supreme court has held the city ordinance respecting frequenting of saloons by women to be invalid, it will be necessary to pass another that will come within the law. The public desires to have immoral women kept out of saloons. No others will enter such places, excepting in some dire emergency, and an ordinance can easily be framed that will cover the case, since the court explicitly holds immoral women may be prevented from going to saloons for the purpose of drink or for immoral purposes. —Boise Statesman.

A dispatch from Washington, under date of January 14 gives the following as one of Dubois's latest moves: "At today's session of the senate Mr. Dubois introduced an amendment to the joint statehood bill prohibiting the practice or encouragement of polygamy in the proposed states of Oklahoma and Arizona. The provision is in the language of the Idaho test oath."

President Roosevelt has expressed himself as favoring an early revision of the tariff. In keeping with his effort to place the affairs of the government on a sound and substantial basis, the president believes that a revision of the tariff will be of considerable benefit. It is possible that an extra session of congress may be called to carry out the plan of revision.

"Fatty" Evans announces that the "Minidoka Herald" will make its appearance the latter part of January. It ought to be a hummer, as "Fatty" has spent the past few months greying up and getting his grey matter unlimbered for action.

Washington Notes.

The president of the United States and the leading men in the nation holding seats in congress were in consultation last week at the White House. They were talking about the necessities of the hour from a political, industrial, financial and civic standpoint. Judging by this conference, it is apparent that the president intends to inject his personality into the affairs of congress and bring about a business session if he can do so. Last week's conference was intended to sound sentiment on matters of importance. The president desires an extra session of congress in the spring, but he is opposed in this by many of the most prominent men in the country. President Roosevelt believes that the tariff should be revised, but he does not want to call an extra session unless there is some probability of accomplishing something in this as well as in other lines. The president is earnest in his desire to bring the railroads under supervision, so far at least as freight rates are concerned. He believes that Senator Heyburn's bill, providing for a national board for the control of corporations, should be enacted into law. Several bills have been introduced in both branches of congress relating to interstate commerce, but it is understood that one proposed by Senator Heyburn comes nearest meeting his views.

The reclamation engineers of the various western states met here last week and discussed with Chief Engineer Newell and several other prominent men, interested in the reclamation service, plans for the reclamation of the desert lands in the different states. Chief Engineer Ross represented Idaho at this meeting. The Minidoka project received its share of discussion, and according to Mr. Ross, plans will immediately be let and the work will be begun this summer on the great project. Idaho's representatives were very much in evidence at this meeting, as addresses were delivered by Representative French and Senators Heyburn and Dubois.

The meeting last week of the American Forestry congress was of much more importance than was generally believed. The congress was attended by scientists and men interested in timber preservation from all parts of the country. The meeting was addressed by many noted men. Among those from Idaho who took a prominent part in the deliberations of the meetings were Major Frank A. Fein, who read a paper before the congress, and Mr. F. J. Hagenbrath, president of the National Live Stock association, who presided at several of the meetings.

Representative French appeared before the rivers and harbors committee of the house of representatives last week and made a very strong argument for the improvement of the Clearwater, Snake, and Columbia rivers. He asked for $25,000 for the improvement of the Snake river between Lewiston and Pittsburg Landing; $25,000 for the Clearwater river above Lewiston, and $750,000 for the improvement of the Columbia at Celilo. In the course of his remarks he said:

"In urging all the above appropriations, I would briefly cite a few general reasons why they should be made. The country that would be directly benefited comprises all of northern Idaho, eastern Washington and eastern Oregon. Indirectly all three of the states would be greatly benefited. The area of tillable land within the counties within close proximity to the rivers is 10,000,000 acres, of which about 4,500,000 acres are being cultivated, and much more would be were freight rates lower. During the last ten years this region has produced from 35,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels of grain annually, about nine-tenths of which was wheat and one-tenth oats, barley, rye and other grains. The same counties have produced annually for years almost 100,000 horses and cattle and about one-half million head of sheep and hogs. They produced last year for shipment $3,252,450 worth of fruits and vegetables; about $3,000,000 worth of hay and $7,000,000 of dairy products. They have produced about $2,000,000 worth of wool and hides annually for years; and immense wealth of minerals. The Coeur d'Alene mines alone in 1904 produced about $14,000,000 worth of ore. Vast copper mines await better transportation facilities and are contiguous to the Snake river between Lewiston and Pittsburg Landing. It is estimated that the white pine in Idaho alone would scale 2,700,000,000 feet and it covers 270,000,000 acres of land. It is said by lumbermen to be the finest body of white pine in the United States today. In eastern Oregon there is a vast forest of yellow pine, which, it is estimated, would scale 3,500,000,000 feet and which covers 250,000 acres. Tributary to these rivers in Idaho, Oregon and Washington are other tracts of valuable timber awaiting the means to reach the markets of the world. Last year 75,000 carloads of lumber were shipped from this region. Besides this there are many other products that I have left unmentioned because I have wanted to be brief—products which are of vast importance to the people of the Northwest.

"The opening of these rivers to navigation would in a very short time save in freight rates the amount of the expense that would be incurred. By way of illustration, it cost about 14c per bushel to ship wheat to the coast markets from these counties tributary to these rivers. The distance is from two hundred to five hundred miles and the rate per bushel per hundred miles is from four to five cents. On the Mississippi river, between St. Louis and New Orleans the rate per bushel per hundred miles is a little less than one cent. In other words, from three to four times as much is paid for freight as would need to be paid could we have water transportation. Could the freight rates be reduced to ten cents per bushel, the wheat producer would still be paying greater rates than he would pay for freighting on the Mississippi river. Could the rates be reduced to one-half only of that or five cents per bushel, and I believe they could be by reasonable improvement of the Columbia, Snake and Clearwater rivers, it would save to the farmers every year the amount we are asking for in this appropriation.

"We ship to Portland alone about 12,000,000 or 14,000,000 bushels of wheat every year. Could we save five cents per bushel it would mean a saving every year of $600,000 or $700,000 to the wheat producers of this vast inland empire. Could we save a proportionate amount on all our other products and on the freight that is brought from the coast points, for home consumption, the benefit would be almost as great again."

It is not considered very likely that the statehood bill will become a law. It is being fought by all the democratic senators, and by most of the western republican senators. With few exceptions the advocates are senators from the eastern states, and especially New England. It is looked upon as a measure to keep down the representation of the west. The territories of Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Indian territory deserve single statehood, if any kind of statehood, and this western senators are determined they shall have.

Harriman Says Moffat Line.

A dispatch from New York city to the Deseret News says: Seven million dollars is mentioned as the price E. H. Harriman has agreed to pay D. H. Moffat of Denver for the Northwestern & Pacific, or Moffat road, which is to be turned to the Union Pacific Jan. 31.

The Moffat road will give the Union Pacific a connection for the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad, of which Harriman is said to own 55 per cent and will shorten the distance between Denver and the Pacific coast about 100 miles. The Burlington and Union Pacific have been trying to buy the Moffat line for some time. The estimated cost of completing the line from Denver to Salt Lake, including a $5,000,000 tunnel, is $25,000,000.

The above dispatch, if true, explains a number of mysterious moves in the railroad world. It explains why Mr. Bancroft's team was shipped to Colorado last summer and Chief Engineer Berry of the Union Pacific and Chief Engineer Ashton of the Oregon Short Line, together with other experts, went over the route of the Moffat line, as announced in the "News" at the time. It explains, too, the delay in the completion of the Salt Lake route and the announcement that the Western Pacific is to be built at once. It explains lots of things.

It also means that Harriman has met his opponent in the open field and has outgeneraled them, as he has done in every case to date in the intermountain region when rival lines have attempted to curb his far-reaching grasp on traffic.

Emphatic and strenuous denials are now in order. —Deseret News.

Activity at Twin Falls.

L. B. Perrine and Thomas Costello arrived from Twin Falls Saturday evening. They said the rush of home-seekers showed no signs of abating. On January 11 fillings were made on 2000 acres of land and city lots to the value of $5000 were sold. This was the high water mark for a single day's business up to that time, but the record was shattered on Saturday, when the fillings aggregated 2520 acres and the lot sales exceeded those of Wednesday.

Mr. Costello said that every man who came to Twin Falls took up land and all seemed to be well supplied with money. Some of them were filling on lands which would not be watered for some time. The party of three men from Illinois who accompanied Mr. Costello to Twin Falls selected lands and announced they would send some of their friends out.

Mr. Perrine stated that the gates would be closed in the big dam about March 1. When this occurs Snake river will be dry for some distance below the Twin falls for 24 hours or longer while the big dam fills up. This will be a novel spectacle and will undoubtedly attract a large crowd.

Splendid progress is being made on the Mindoka & Southwestern railway. There is not much snow on the ground in the vicinity of Twin Falls and the weather is mild.—Statesman.

Idaho's New Railroads.

Idaho bids fair to be the battle ground of the railroad projectors in the near future. A few months ago an air of ponderous passivity hung over the Gem state as far as railroad propositions were concerned. Today there are all kinds of projects for through railroads in the air. No sooner was it announced that James J. Hill was contemplating an invasion of the rich virgin territory heretofore considered strictly Oregon Short Line domain by squatters' rights, than several other mysterious things happened. On top of the announcement that the Colorado, Wyoming & Idaho railroad and the Butte, Boise & San Francisco were going to build without fail at an early date, comes another to the effect that the Chicago & Northwestern has a corps of surveyors working west from Casper, Wyo., on to the Pacific coast. In this connection the Evening Capital News says:

"The intelligence which was received here yesterday came direct from Kearney, Neb., where one of the division headquarters of the company is located. The letter which the gentleman in Boise received was from a man high in the confidence of the railway company, and stated that all he knew was that the Northwestern people were making big train loads of supplies and filling them up in Casper and the engineering department of the road had a party of surveyors at work surveying for an extension of the road west from Casper.

"The gentleman who received the letter said he had no doubt but that the company intended to extend its line from Casper, its present western terminus, on to the coast. Whether it will pass through Boise it is not known, but as this is the center of the commercial interests of the territory between the two trunk lines now passing from the east to the west, it is a fair presumption that the line will come through Boise and that within a few weeks something more definite will be known regarding the projected road."—Salt Lake Deseret News.

Make Felony of Unlawful Cohabitation.

Judge Richards yesterday introduced a bill (H. B. No. 14) providing for the more serious punishment of the offense of unlawful cohabitation. According to the measure he presented, it is made a felony and is to be punishable by a fine of not to exceed $500 and a term in the penitentiary or from one to five years. The full text of his bill is as follows:

An act to amend section 6812 of the Revised Statutes of Idaho.
Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Idaho:

Section 1.—That section 6812 of the Revised Statutes of the state of Idaho be amended to read as follows:

If any man and woman, not being married to each other, shall live or cohabit together as man and wife, such man and woman are each guilty of a felony, and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 and by imprisonment in the state penitentiary for a term of not less than one year nor more than five years.

The section of the statutes which it is proposed to amend makes the offense a misdemeanor, which is punishable by imprisonment in a county jail not exceeding six months, or by a fine not exceeding $300 or by both.—Boise Statesman.

Miss Rose Hennessy, well known as a poetess and elocutionist, of Lexington, Ky., tells how she was cured of uterine inflammation and ovaritis by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been so blessedly helped through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I feel it but just to acknowledge it hoping that it may help some other woman suffering as I did. For years I enjoyed the best of health and thought that I would always do so. I attended parties and receptions thick and would be suddenly chilled, but I did not think of the result. I caught a bad cold eighteen months ago while menstruating, and this caused inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse. My attention was called to your Vegetable Compound and the wonderful cures it had performed, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me. Within one month I felt much better, and at the close of the second I was entirely well.

"I have advised a number of my lady friends to use it, and all express themselves as well satisfied with the results as I was."—Mrs. ROSE ROSA HENNESSY, 410 E. Broadway, Lexington, Ky.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove beyond a question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such troubles and set organs to normal and healthy condition.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—About two years ago I consulted a physician about my health which had become so wretched that I was no longer able to be about. I had severe backache, bearing-down pains, across the abdomen, was very nervous and irritable, and this trouble grew worse each month. The physician prescribed for me, but I soon discovered that he was unable to help me, and I then decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and soon found that it was doing me good. My appetite was returning, the pains disappearing, and the general benefits were well marked.

"You cannot realize how pleased I was, and after taking the medicine for only three months, I found that I was completely cured of my trouble, and have been well and hearty ever since, and no more fear this monthly period, as it now passes without pain to me. Yours very truly, Mrs. FRANK ACKERS, 827 North Summer St., Nashville, Tenn."

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health more than a million women, you cannot well say without trying it "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, do not hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and ask Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Her advice is free and helpful. Write to-day. Delay may be fatal.

Around Stockholm there are many suburban resorts where sea bathing is indulged in when the weather is warm enough. Traces of Romans in Africa.
Interesting results have been obtained by the exploring expedition in the region of north Africa which was formerly known as the "limes Tripolitanae." At ten miles from the post of Matmata, in the most remote part of the mountainous mass of the same name, Lieut. Pericard discovered a fortified Roman farm, which is the most important of the remains found in this region. The Roman civilization, of which this a true, was established in the south of Tunisia in the second and third centuries, A. D., following the military occupation of the country.

BRAINS SAID TO BE INHERITED.
Not Merely Their Quality but Their Form Handled on From Parents.
The inheritance of bodily characteristics, both by man and the lower animals, is too well known to need comment, says Collier's Weekly. In the same way we are accustomed to think of mental attributes as being more or less hereditary. From a priori consideration we have every reason to expect that the organ which is the physical basis of the mental faculties, the brain, should show in its structure the influence of heredity. It has rarely happened, however, that any comparative study of the brain structures of near relatives has been possible.

A peculiarly fine opportunity for such observations was afforded when the brains of three brothers were given to a competent observer for examination. The boys were those of Writtle, Burton and Fred Van Wagoner, all of whom were executed in New York state. All three brains showed marked similarity in general form, differing chiefly in the matter of size. Some unusual features were present in all three; one characteristic in particular, which is of great rarity, occurred in all three. These facts lend much support to the idea that peculiarities of brain structure are inherited as well as peculiarities of face and figure. In the case of these three brothers no attempt was made to associate the configuration of the brain with the nature of the crimes of the men.

ONE KIND ACTION A DAY.
Happiness That Comes as Result of Making Others Happy.
When you rise in the morning form a resolution to make the day a happy one to a fellow creature, says Sydney Smith. It is easily done—a left-off garment to the man who needs it, a kind word to the sorrowful, an encouraging expression to the striving, trifles in themselves as light as air will do it, at least for the twenty-four hours, and if you are young, depend upon it; it will do you good when you are old, and if you are old it will send you gently and happily down the stream of time to eternity. By the most simple arithmetical sum look at the result—you send one person, only one, happily through the day; that is 365 during the course of the year. And suppose you live only forty years after you commence that kind of medicine; you have made 14,600 beings happy, at all events for a time. Now, is not this simple? It is too short for a sermon, too homely for ethics, too easily accomplished for you to say, "I would if I could."

Visitsitudes of Language.
Some people believe that English will one day be the universal language and look upon the report that the eminent doctress of China has undertaken to learn English in her old age as another proof of this. English has had some remarkable ups and downs in its own home. For 300 years it was suppressed—from the Norman conquest on to 1362, when it was introduced as the language of the law. When the house of Hanover was installed it was anticipated that there would be another suppression of the English tongue. The wife of George II, the eldest son could not speak English, and it was suggested that she should be taught. "That is unnecessary," said her mother, "the house of Hanover having been above twenty years on the throne, to be sure most people speak German as often and as well as English."

Find Old Roman Bread.
The best examples of old Roman bread have been found at Pompeii, a town that was destroyed by an eruption of Vesuvius in the year 79 A. D. Forty-eight loaves were dug out of one bake shop.

HOMELY MAIDS ALL RIGHT.
Extensively Employed to Fix Up Rooms of City Bachelors.
"One of the most sensible things about the lives of young bachelors of the present day," remarked an old bachelor, "is the way they employ young women to look after their rooms and to valet them."

"When I was a young man no bachelor would dream of employing a woman under 50 to do his rooms for him, and as most of these women drank pretty hard, it used to be difficult to get along with them."

"Nowadays a bachelor thinks nothing of having a servant in the twenties to look after his rooms, and no one ever talks about it either. It may be only a concluding day, of course, but I notice most of the servants are homely as sin. Which reminds me of a story."

"A young bachelor of my acquaintance lived with his sister for some years in an apartment where they had an elderly married woman for a laundress. The sister had to go to Europe for several months and the brother elected to run the apartment himself. He asked the laundress to come in every morning, prepare his breakfast, look after his clothes, and clean up the place. When she said it would be impossible he asked her to send one of her daughters. The laundress agreed to this.

"Now it happened she had two daughters, one decidedly pretty, the other decidedly homely. He found himself wondering the first morning after his sister left which one of the girls would be sent. When he went to breakfast the problem was solved. It was the homely one.

"Perhaps from this we may deduce," said the old bachelor, "that in a homely maid servant may a young bachelor find a refuge from gossip."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Perdites.
You were always a bit too good—I never was in your class; You were a saint, sans fault or taint, And I was a rody, sans.

I dared to lift my eye— I dared to hope as well; I dared to think that I had a chance— No wonder I'm in Hell.

I stalked my soul on the chance— I stalked my soul, and lost; But I was a rody, sans a little while, So what reck I of the cost? You looked of the sin I did, You tried to damn me as I strolled; As you foretold that luckless day, I straightaway went to Hell.

You're up in the streets of gold, In the crack of doom and the best At the crack of doom as we came from the tomb.

You took your place with the best, But I was judged to be damned, Eternally damned in Hell— But how to damn is this soul of mine.

That I cannot wish you well, Ah, but I do wish you well, That I do not wish you well, Esmect in New York Sun.

Waiting for a Cent.
The Brooklyn man was taking his friend from Philadelphia home to dine. As they neared the Fulton Ferry the Philadelphian inquired why so many people stood on the outside of the ferry house.

"They're waiting for a 6 cent, when the fare is changed from 2 cents to 1 cent," explained the Brooklynite. "These people would consider themselves foolish if they went in, now. Some of them are laborers, some clerks and some millionaires, but not one buys a ticket till you hear the gong. Lots of them stand around with stop watches and kick if she's a second late. Ah, there she goes." Come on.

"Well, I'll be blessed!" said the Philadelphian; and they joined the crowd, singing inward on the stroke of the bell.—New York Sun.

North China Cools the Best.
Mine owners of South Africa, who have been importing coolies from China to work underground, have discovered that there are great differences between the coolies from the south of China and those from the north of China. A very little experience sufficed to show that the men from the northern districts were of better physique and of better knowledge of mining than those who came from the south and the treaty ports. They are seeking now to get their requirements solely from the northern portions of the empire.

Effect of Grafting on Wine.
Before the Academy of Sciences, Paris, M. Doudouin gave clear evidence of differences in physical and chemical composition between grafted and non-grafted grapes which he had obtained, and the facts observed explain the more rapid aging of wines from grafted vines, and also their greater sensitiveness to pathogenic ferments.

Like Papa.
"My goodness gracious mercy sakes!" his mother exclaimed. "What'll he write? What on earth are you saying? O, O, O! You have broken my heart! O, I never dreamed that my little boy could say such awful things! O dear, dear, dear!"

"Well, blame it, didn't you tell me not to cry any more when I hurt myself and try to be brave like papa is when he pounds his thumb?"—Chicago Record Herald.

India's Increase of Population.
In India the population increases at the rate of 3,000,000 annually.

TEA
Bad tea is almost worse than bad coffee; which is superfluous.

Which is superfluous?
Both.
"Your good returns your money if you don't like Schilling's Best."
Elee Staple Korean Food.
In Korea breakfast, dinner and supper are always the same, the staple being rice. The cultivation of their rice fields takes up most of the time of most Koreans.

Can This Be True?
A girl does not wear many rings at her wedding, because they might interfere with her promising her fingers hurriedly when she promises to obey him always.—Exchange.

TEA
There is no Schilling's Best not in packages, "air-tight" packages.

Nearly five years of Irving's time was consumed in writing "The Life of George Washington," thought it required no more than ten days to write the first 120 pages of "Bracebridge Hall." "The Alhambra" was written during the three months he spent in that palace.

TEA
"Will you come over to tea next Tuesday?"
"Delighted."
Not said:
What sort of tea?
I wonder!

Your good returns your money if you don't like Schilling's Best.

City Child's Idea of Grass.
In one of the London public schools a teacher asked her class what turf was. Nobody could tell. She next asked what grass was. There was a long pause, and then the smartest scholar raised a hand. "Well!" asked the teacher. "Please'm, it's what you go to keep off of." Was the reply.

"Dr. David Hennessy's Powhatan Remedy cured my wife of a terrible disease, with pleasure I testify to its marvellous efficacy." J. Frank Adams, N. Y.

Whistling with the Feet.
In the following notice has just been placed in a prominent position on the walls of a music hall in Glasgow: "Whistling or cheering with the feet is strictly prohibited."

Pae's Cure for Consumption is an infallible medicine for coughs and colds.—N. W. BARKER, Ocean Grove, N. J., Feb. 12, 1900.

Can Strive to Do Right.
Every one of us may do the wrong thing every day of our lives, yet none the less should we get up each morning determined to do the right.

TEA
Do you know the difference of tea and tea? tannin and tea? herb-tea and tea?

Uncle Allen.
"A good many men," said Uncle Allen Sparks, "are the one of that country fair balloons. They're regular swells, but there isn't anything in them but hot air."

A Rare Good Thing.
"Am using ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE, and can truly say I would not have been without it so long, had I known the relief it would give my aching feet. I think it a rare good thing for anyone having sore or tired feet."—Mrs. Mattilda Holtzner, Providence, R. I. Sold by all Druggists. See Ask to-day.

A House-Building Maxim.
True design is not constructed decoration, but decorated construction.

TEA
Good tea goes far to make common food luxurious. Costs perhaps nothing at all.

Your good returns your money if you don't like Schilling's Best.

Makes Good Income for Italy.
Italy's income from foreign visitors is estimated at $40,000,000 a year. In Rome there are three times as many hotels and boarding-houses for tourists as there were twenty years ago.

Theodore Rowby, a prosperous cheese and butter maker of Tillamook, Oregon, was a visitor to Twin Falls last week. He was well pleased with this locality and purchased considerable real estate.

J. C. Fox, a merchant of Hailey, was a Shoshone visitor last Sunday. From here he went to Twin Falls to look at the new town with a view to entering into some kind of a business proposition.—Shoshone Post.

Send for a free sample copy of The Salt Lake Tribune. It is a complete general newspaper, published twice a week and containing ten or twelve pages each issue, and will be sent to any address one year for $1.50.

Chas. Bowby of Cornelius, Oregon, who has a fine herd of dairy cows, was a visitor to Twin Falls last week to purchase real estate. The Bowby Bros. will no doubt make arrangements to locate here in the future to enter into the dairy business.

C. E. Cole, of the C and B Clothing company of Hailey, is in town for a few days. We understand he is arranging for the opening of a branch house here.

The Odd Fellows met last Friday evening and organized an association with membership of 22. A sick committee was appointed as follows: E. W. Hazen, A. B. Roberts and W. S. Harris. Later on, a regular meeting night will be appointed.

Thos. Costello of Maroa, Ill., who is largely interested at Twin Falls, arrived from the east yesterday. He said a small party would be out in a few days, followed by a large party about the seventh of next month, to buy town lots and invest in lands.—Capital News.

H. L. Hollister of Chicago, in company with Mr. Grant of Cincinnati, Ohio, was in town Monday looking after his business interests here. Mr. Hollister is one of the projectors of the Shoshone falls power proposition and is energetically working towards its materialization.

St. John Skinner has temporarily discarded the land locating business and taken up the work of finishing his contract of laying sidewalks. He, in company with Mr. Records, will endeavor to have most of the sidewalks on Main street and Shoshone avenue completed by February 1.

The basement walls for the new hotel are being rushed to completion, and every effort will be made to have the building completed as quickly as possible. The concrete machine has arrived and will be placed in commission next week and the making of concrete blocks begun.

Samuel Brown, representing the Norris Safe and Lock Co. of Seattle, who are sole agents for Hall's safes, was in town Saturday and Sunday securing orders for his firm. A contract was made with the new bank soon to open for a large specie safe and also for a vault to be used until the permanent bank building is completed.

Drum—Thursday night, January 19, of pneumonia, the two-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. M. Batty. Mr. Batty is one of the freighters plying between Shoshone and this point and resides on Rock creek bottom, near town, and was in Shoshone at the time of his child's death. The parents have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

J. C. Fox got back today from a trip to Twin Falls and Milner. That region is developing rapidly. Where a few months ago were vast reaches of sandy deserts are now hundreds if not thousands of farms, and several thousand of inhabitants. The new Minidoka & Southwestern railroad is graded nearly to the Snake river.—Hailey Times.

Geo. T. Meador and L. M. Lucy, attorneys of Shoshone, have formed a company known as the Twin Falls Realty company. They will do a general real estate, insurance and loan business. Both gentlemen are erecting a handsome dwelling house on a lot they purchased near Shoshone avenue and will shortly bring their families here to reside.

A. N. Sprague, in company with L. F. Molinelli, arrived Wednesday from Pocatello. Mr. Sprague will open his pharmacy about February 1, his goods having been ordered and are now arriving. He will be located in the Messer block on Main street. Mr. Molinelli is a prominent jeweler of Pocatello and is looking over the town with the intention of putting in a branch store.

F. C. Smith and E. B. Williams, who have lots on Main street adjoining, have let a contract to Messrs. Harrah and McGrew for the excavation of basements for business blocks. The buildings will be erected as soon as the excavations are completed and the building material arrives. These gentlemen have unbounded faith in the future of the town and have arranged to build in advance of the railroad, believing their business interests will be advanced by so doing.

One of the men from the grading camps on the Minidoka & Southwestern was in town today and reports that the grade will be completed in about ten or twelve days as far as the river, with the exception of some rock cuts, which will not be finished for another month. It is the intention, however, to build temporary tracks around these cuts in order that the bridge material may be brought in by rail, also supplies for the grading camps on this side of the river. We also learn from the same source that the engineers have about finished their work on the south side of the river, being now working on the tracks at the new townsite.—Albion Times.

Land Locations.

The Twin Falls Land and Water company report the sale of 4754 acres of land from the 12th to the 18th of January inclusive; the number of entries being 46. The total number of acres for the month is 10,702. Sixty per cent of the persons making purchases of land on the Twin Falls tract come from Washington. This is material evidence of the superiority of the land and climate here over that of Washington and the northwest.

Commissioners' Proceedings.

The following extracts from the proceedings of the board of county commissioners, now in session at Albion, relate to parties in this city:

Bond of L. W. Hazen, constable, disapproved because of insufficient sureties.

Bond of C. B. Taylor, justice of the peace, disapproved because of insufficient sureties.

Bond of R. W. Jones, liquor dealer of Twin Falls, not approved because Sec. 1 of Senate Bill No. 38, Session Laws of 1903, page 346, prohibits the board from granting liquor licenses in places within five miles of the construction of certain works, where a certain number of men are employed, and the board believes that Twin Falls is within the zone where licenses shall not be granted by the board.

ON to Twin Falls.

W. W. Dunn and wife came in from the Liberal mines yesterday, Mr. Dunn having resigned his position with the company after a satisfactory service of over two years. He goes to Twin Falls to locate, because of a better opportunity to make money.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunn have made many friends during their residence in this section, and will go to their new field with the best wishes of all persons with whom they came in contact here.—Hailey Times.
