NUMBER 36.

SHOULD EXERCISE CARE IN PURCHASING CATTLE

Superintendent McPherson Warns the Kimberly Farmers Against Raising Stock Which are Neither of Beef nor Dairy Type and Will Not Pay for Their Feed.

The conformation and characteristics of dairy and beef cattle were the subjects of discussion at the regular weekly meeting of the Kimberly Farmers association on Wednesday evening. The subject was suggested to Mr. McPherson because of the fact that the settlers in the vicinity of Kimberly are buying cattle at present. The superintendent delivered a powerful and practical address upon the points to be considered in selecting cattle for dairy or beef purposes.

The meeting was, as usual, well attended and the interest was well sustained. Miss Althea Gooding recited a selection from Dickens' "Hard Times"—which seemed to fit the occasion like a glove although the people of Kimberly know nothing and are not likely to know anything of hard times.

The selection, which was delivered with all the ease and grace of a polished elocutionist, was a valuable homily upon the effect of ignorance and stubbornness. Those who heard it could scarcely fail to be impressed with the need of loosening their grip, if they had any grip, upon old fashioned, hard and fast rules and adapting themselves to new conditions and modern methods. Miss Gooding filled the place on the program allotted to Mrs. Frank Burrington who was unable to be present. Her number was greatly appreciated and it hoped she will assist the program committee again. Miss Elsie Wolfe touched the risibilities of the audience with a recitation telling the story of a pickaninny who robbed a watermelon patch and was thrashed the harder by his parents because the melons he stole were green. Miss Wolfe also showed both talent and training and she too will be a valuable contributor to the entertainment program in the future. Ed Tucker was to have played his long promised violin solo but at the last moment it was found that the consignment of resin he expected had failed to arrive. Mr. Tucker is the Ysaye of Kimberly, also the postmaster. He enjoys the perfect confidence of the public but unless he comes forward with a violin solo at the next meeting the members of the association are liable to doubt that he ever handled a violin. It is reported that he saved his strength and resin for the dance on Thursday evening. Next Wednesday evening Mr. Tucker will play his celebrated solo, Eddie Wilkins will sing and Miss Morrell give a reading.

The chair was occupied by Vice President A. R. Moore. Superintendent McPherson told of the steps taken by the Twin Falls association with respect to good roads and suggested that George Herriott, George F. Peterson and James McMillan, the good roads committee appointed by the Kimberly association, act in conjunction with the Twin Falls committee in discussing the question with the county commissioner and road overseer for this precinct and the officials of the Land & Water company. The suggestion was adopted.

On suggestion of James McMillan, the secretary was directed to purchase a book in which the names and locations of all residents of the township might be registered. This book will be left in the postoffice in order that people may use it in ascertaining the whereabouts of settlers.

Mr. McMillan also suggested that it was time to have a justice of the peace and a constable appointed for Kimberly. It was unanimously decided to request the county commissioners to appoint George Herriott justice of the peace and George F. Peterson constable. The names of these gentlemen will be presented to the commissioners by the good roads committee of the association.

At the conclusion of the entertainment program, Mr. McPherson addressed the members upon the cattle question. He reminded his hearers that it cost as much to feed an unprofitable cow as a good one. The first was a drain upon the farmer and the second was a source of revenue.

Over in Oneida county, said the speaker, they were once obliged to close a creamery because of the lack of milk. He inspected the herds and found the average animal resembled a cross between a coyote and a jackrabbit. The cows were worthless as milkers and worthless as beef producers. They had been bred every which way for years and had no breeding left.

Mr. McPherson called attention to the prevailing price of meats, pointing out that a good beef steer was worth seven cents per pound while a range animal was worth less than half that price. The beef steer weighed nearly a ton and yielded sufficient porterhouse, prime ribs, sirloin, round and rump to enable the butcher to pay a good price for him. The scrub steer was deficient in good meat. In prosperous times everybody could afford to buy good meat, consequently prices were high for that quality. There being light demand for the poorer meat, it was cheap. If times were hard, the price of meat would be higher because of the demand for the low grades. It paid to raise an animal that would produce plenty of choice cuts. Such an animal cost no more to raise than a scrub and was worth double in any market. The longer the pedigree of the sire, the better the offspring in cattle, beef and dairy.

In selecting a dairy cow, said the superintendent, particular attention should be paid to conformation. The dairy type was angular and wedge shaped; head medium and clean cut; longer and lighter and with more dish than the beef breeds; nostrils large and open; eyes prominent, lively full and clear; horns medium; ears medium, thin, active and yellow skinned; neck long and light, oval and flat on the side, fine at the junction of the head making an abrupt junction with the neck vein; back narrow at withers, broad at the loin, slightly swayed with well defined spinal column and well arched pelvic region; fore quarters light and spare; withers narrow on top and spreading; shoulders light and bare; chest capacious; breast wide from side to side; brisket wedge shaped; barrel long, deep and capacious; ribs broad, spaced, downward and backward sprung; girth at heart good, larger at flank; hips light and angular; thigh light and incurving; tail prominent but not coarse; udder long, broad, extending well forward and well up behind, evenly quartered, not pendulous, folding glove like when empty, fine and elastic but not fleshy, hair soft and oily, teats medium and not sharp pointed.

The object in breeding dairy cattle was to produce an animal which would transform every pound of its feed into milk. The beef types transformed their food into beef. Crosses were neither one nor the other.

Mr. McPherson favored no particular breed. He advised settlers to use care in selecting their stock and to pick out the kind they wanted to raise, beef or dairy. One good cow would produce as much milk as three average ones and eat one third as much.

The superintendent confined his address to the conformation of cattle only. He will take up the feeding and care later.

SECOND VICTORY FOR TWIN FALLS

Shoshone Baseball Team Defeated by Irrigators by Score of 20 to 6—Return Game at Shoshone on July 2.

The Shoshone Gladiators were soused by the Twin Falls Irrigators on Bickel field last Sunday in the fiercest baseball game of the season, the score standing 20 to 6 in favor of the locals. To thoroughly enjoy the game it was necessary to look at it through dark, dust-proof glasses. It strained the eye in more ways than one. The Irrigators were stricken with wobbles in the first inning and before they caught their stride the Gladiators piled up four runs. "Poor old Twin Falls!" cried the fat rooster from Shoshone. Then the visitors turned in and blanked the Irrigators and the Twin Falls rooters began to wake up. Shoshone failed to score in the second and the Irrigators accumulated four tallies. Again were the visitors skunked in the third.

In their third session with the willow the Irrigators slapped the ball all over the largest irrigated tract in the United States. The dust flew in clouds from the base line and the lads in gray chased themselves around the circuit like jackrabbits. Eight of them booted the plate before the third out and the Gladiators were disgusted. The fat rooster crawled into a badger hole. He was roped out and placed on third base as substitute for Morton who was injured. Another umpire was put in commission and after a tiresome delay the game was resumed. It dragged along for the better part of two hours, the Irrigators showing up stronger every inning. Bradford pitched a stout game

ONE IMPOSING SCHOOL HOUSE FOR TWIN FALLS

Citizens Decide That One Handsome and Commodious Building is Preferable to Two Smaller Ones—Mass Meeting on Monday Night to Select Location by Vote.

Twin Falls is to have a school building in harmony with the progressive character of the city. It is to be a structure which will command the attention of every visitor, a monument to the moving spirit of Twin Falls and a lasting proof that the citizens are broadminded and united upon public improvement issues.

At the bond election on Thursday not a single vote was cast in opposition to bonding the school district for $30,000. The vote was not as heavy as it should have been because of the lack of opposition. It was a foregone conclusion that the bonds would carry and many who were aware of this fact did not take the trouble to vote.

After the result of the bond election was determined the citizens gathered in the office of Hon. C. D. Thomas, secretary of the board of trustees, and exchanged ideas with regard to building. They were all animated with the same idea—to give Twin Falls the best school system the city could afford. Men whose property was located in one end of the city spoke in favor of locating the school at the other end because they thought it would be more convenient for the children. Not a selfish word was spoken. Every man had his say and when the question had been thoroughly threshed out the meeting voted unanimously in favor of one capacious and modern school building in preference to two smaller structures.

The question of location will be settled at a public meeting to be held in the school house on Monday evening, July 3, at 8 o'clock. Every citizen of Twin Falls is urged to attend this meeting and vote upon the location of the school. The majority will rule. There will be no friction. Every parent will have a chance to express his or her views and vote on the location.

Blocks 66 and 67 were set aside by the Townsite company for school purposes and it seems probable that the school will be erected upon one or the other of those blocks. To get a central location would be next to impossible as title could not be acquired within a reasonable time and the school district cannot well afford to spend money for lots when free sites are available. In less than two years another school will be required and this building could be erected on the vacant block. In time a high school building could be erected in the park.

Miss May L. Scott, state superintendent of public instruction, has been invited to visit Twin Falls and give the board of trustees the benefit of her advice.

ARE WORKING HARD ON GOOD ROADS QUESTION

Joint Committee of Twin Falls and Kimberly Farmers and Twin Falls Merchants to Meet With County Commissioner, Road Overseer and Officials of Water Company.

The joint committee of merchants and members of the Twin Falls association, appointed to investigate the good roads question, had a very satisfactory meeting with County Commissioner Jacobs and Road Overseer Tobin, both of whom expressed their willingness to act in harmony with the committee.

It was suggested that the board of trustees of Twin Falls might collect the road tax in the city and apply the proceeds to the betterment of the roads and the sprinkling of the streets. The committee will meet with the trustees as soon as possible and decide this question.

It was decided that the Twin Falls committee and a like committee from the Kimberly Farmers association should meet with the trustees of Twin Falls, the county commissioner and road overseer and the officials of the Twin Falls Land & Water company for the purpose of going over the entire question in all its phases and agreeing upon a plan which would be satisfactory to all interested. There are no obstacles in the way of an amicable agreement. Prompt action is all that is necessary.

for Twin Falls, holding the visitors down to five clean hits. After the fatal first inning he was well supported. The Irrigators showed great improvement. With a little more field work they will be strong enough to hold their own against any of the amateur teams. The fielding feature of the game was a double play, executed by Camp and Robinson.

The Shoshone lads were fagged out after their long drive and could not do themselves justice. They took their defeat manfully and invited the Irrigators to play a return game in Shoshone on Sunday, July 2. The invitation was accepted and while Twin Falls will not be able to present so strong a front away from home they will no doubt make things interesting for the Lincoln county champions.

The teams batted in the following order:

Shoshone	Twin Falls
C. Morton c.	Shank a.
Burnside c. f.	Robinson 1 b.
Swope c. and p.	Osburn c.
M. Morton p. and c.	Dunn 2 b.
E. Gooding 1. f.	Bradford p.
Herman 2 b.	Camp c. f.
P. Morton 3 b.	Leach 3 b.
Adkins 1 b.	Mull r. f.
Murphy r. f.	Kiersted 1. f.

The score:
Twin Falls 0 3 8 1 2 0 5 0 x—20.
Shoshone 4 0 0 1 0 0 0 0—6.

Empire Building.

Empire building is a fascinating task for one who knows how to build. Frequently the builder does not appreciate the magnitude of what he accomplishes. He has no time to sit down and admire his own work. Quite as often the builder imagines that he alone is the corner stone and the empire must stand or fall as he wills. In the first instance the builder lacks proper appreciation of his own importance. He is prone to hold back and allow others to take the initiative in public matters, contenting himself with attending to his own affairs and keeping aloof from his neighbors. In the second instance the builder has an exalted idea of his own worth and arrogates too much to himself. He reasons that if a thing is not done his way it must be wrong. He is set with a hair trigger and he shoots off advice without encouragement. In other words he is what westerners call "windy". He suggests an old clucking hen that appropriates a brood of maverick chickens and imagines they cannot live without her.

The real empire builder is the man who cultivates his brain as well as his land. It is a well established fact that a man cannot make a success of farming in an irrigated district unless he uses his head as well as his hands. His reasoning powers are taxed and unless he can pay the taxes he must go down. If he cultivates the faculty of reasoning he is bound to succeed.

If a grain field is patchy and barren in spots there must be a reason for it. It may be due to uneven ground. The owner of the field should remember that he was warned to level his field before turning on water. The patches may mark ant hills. If so there is an easy remedy at hand. Soil and water may always be depended upon to do their part. The settler who would succeed must do his.

One farmer, whose land is close to the city, insisted that the soil was worthless because his wheat failed to come up in places. On reflection he remembered having left his seeder, loaded with grain, out in a rainstorm over night. The seed was saturated and failed to run. The farmer, who reasons soundly finds out the cause of failure and nine times out of ten he places the blame on his own shoulders. It is folly to assume that water may be turned in at the head of a ditch and gold dust washed out at the wasteway.

Too much importance cannot be attached to the social feature in an irrigated district. The irrigator is his brother's keeper. The water which gives life to his crops comes from the ditches and not from the clouds. The ditches come through his neighbor's land and sometimes the neighbor may be careless or forgetful. It is possible to cultivate neighborly sentiment by association, it cannot be created by legislation. Many an expensive dispute between neighbors originated over a tiny lateral. It started with a shovel and ended in the supreme court. The proper place to settle disputes of this kind is in the institute meetings. There the farmers may talk matters over in a friendly way, decide upon what is right and stick to it. If they do this, the lawyers will soon take to farming themselves. It will not do to say to the man who fails: "I told you so." He should be taken by the hand and encouraged. Induce him to come to the association meetings where he may meet his neighbors on an equality and learn from them how they succeeded or why they failed. Don't be discouraged by every cloud of dust. Plant grasses and trees, keep down the dust and break the wind. Every prize is worth an effort and in Twin Falls the prizes hang upon every twig of sagebrush.

TRANSFORMATION OF SUCKER FLAT

Beautiful Stretch of Land Reclaimed
by Thrifty Settlers from Illinois
Who Accomplish Much While Waiting for Water.

About six miles west and north-west of Twin Falls is a wide strip of land called "Sucker Flat." It was so named because a large number of good people from Illinois, "The Sucker State," were among the first to settle there. But it is not a flat. The land slopes gently and uniformly and can be irrigated with the greatest ease. Judging from the way in which the land is perforated with badger holes, it is strange, the people from Wisconsin did not appropriate "Sucker Flat."

The so called flat is traversed by the old Boise-Kelton stage road. The ruins of Desert station are falling to pieces on the west bank of Rock creek a short distance east of the flat. The sagebrush is stout and the old road is cut so deep in places that portions of it have been used as ditches.

The appearance of "Sucker Flat" has undergone a wonderful change since early spring. Golden colored houses have popped up all along the tract and huge clouds of dust mark the cleared land. Laterals are threading out in every direction and the residents are beginning to enjoy the benefits of water. They have swallowed their share of dust and now that they are reopening their eyes, schools, churches and good roads are talked of. The "Sucker Flat" settlers had faith and courage. They went right ahead without water and several of them have succeeded in growing respectable gardens.

On sections 32 and 33, township 9-south, range 16-east, J. H. Angel, Dr. W. T. McLean, Dr. George L. Crocker and J. O. Angel are located with their families. They are building up a little village of their own and now that water is available they will soon have a pretty garden spot to repay them for the dusty days spent in pioneer home building.

J. H. Angel was the first to build. He came to Twin Falls in April and set about making a home for his family without delay. He has 25 acres cleared and ready for water. His garden bears little resemblance to the one he left behind at Maroa, Illinois, but it is a sure enough garden nevertheless. Mr. Angel said his potatoes were crying for water so loudly of late that they kept him awake at night. But the lamentations from the potato patch no doubt helped to scare away the jackrabbits. His onions are seeding already and a little water will insure him enough sweet peas and beans for the family table. Mrs. Angel vowed she was unable to keep her house clean on account of the dust but the rooms were as neat as a pin just the same. She doubtless tried to make Twin Falls conform to the Maroa standard of cleanliness and nobody but herself will dispute the fact that she succeeded.

Dr. W. T. McLean's family has arrived and they are pioneering in their new home which adjoins that of Mr. Angel on the east. The doctor had a splendid practice in Maroa, Illinois, when he concluded to try farming in the Snake river valley. He has 25 acres cleared and marked for water and has acquired a healthy tan and a good crop of freckles. For a man who was used to comfort he took to "empire building" with a cheerful spirit and it is predicted that he will soon be accounted a scientific farmer.

J. O. Angel is a son of J. H. Angel. He is a broad shouldered young man and, like his father, knows every wrinkle about farming excepting the irrigation feature.

"We want you to come out here and give us a few pointers on irrigation," said Mr. Angel to Superintendent McPherson.

"You bet I will and gladly, too," said the superintendent.

After looking over their farms Mr. McPherson said: "It was worth an eight mile drive in the wind and dust to meet those folks. They are just the kind of people we need in this section. Just think of the courage it took for them to leave comfortable homes and do what they have done without a drop of water. When Mrs. Angel spoke of the trouble she had in keeping her house clean it made me think of home. I know how it is. Most women would have given up in despair. She is over the worst now and her pluck is as strong as ever. In a short time they will have their green fields and their schools and churches and good roads and 'Sucker Flat' will be one of the prettiest spots in the whole district."

Dr. George L. Crocker, who has just arrived with his family from Springfield, Illinois, is the tenderfoot of the party but he is fast qualifying for pioneer honors. He traveled from Twin Falls to the flat in the teeth of the strongest gale of the season without a whimper and his house will be ready for occupancy within a week. Dr. Crocker said he thought he could get along with less dust and would cut down his supply now that the water had arrived. He did not expect to find stretches of clover and rose bushes, he said, but he was perfectly satisfied to take pot luck with his friends and do his share toward making the flat blossom.

A half mile south of the Illinois village are Nels. Lind and D. C. Sierer. Mr. Lind is an experienced irrigator and sugar beet grower. While in Colorado he came within a few pounds of taking first prize for the largest yield of sugar beets to the acre. He has a neat home and the best potato patch in the district, if not in the entire tract. The tubers are about as large as hen's eggs and did not receive a drop of water until 10 days ago. They are of the Missouri Early Rose variety and Mr. Lind has been eating them for some time. A particular feature of Mr. Lind's potato patch is the fact that the vines are much larger and the potatoes are bigger in the wind swept portion of the patch than they are in that portion sheltered by the house. Mr. Lind also has about 10 acres of splendid corn. Mr. Lind has managed to raise some sweet peas and beans without irrigation. Mr. Sierer has farmed in Idaho before and he knows how to go about it. He has a nice stand of corn and, like Mr. Lind, is going to do some extensive tree planting.

A meeting will be held in this district for the purpose of organizing a farmers' association and forming a road district and school district. The settlers are ready for all three and as they are all good neighbors they will doubtless continue to make the dust fly in more ways than one.

PLANTING OF FAMILY ORCHARDS IS ADVISED

Question is Discussed at Impromptu Meeting of Farmers Association Held on Saturday Evening—Care Necessary in Selecting Locations for Orchards and the Varieties of Trees.

Although no meeting of the Twin Falls Farmers association was scheduled for Saturday evening last, a large number of farmers gathered at the school house. They were unaware of the change in the dates of meeting. Superintendent McPherson spied his loyal friends grouped around the institution of learning and he hastened to meet them. The door was unlocked, the lamp lighted and about 50 stalwart members of the association took their seats and began to learn something.

Location of orchards and varieties of fruit trees were discussed by Superintendent McPherson, by request of Mr. Conway. The subject proved so interesting that it was followed by an animated discussion. The beautifying of home grounds was also touched upon.

Mr. McPherson first took up the thermal lines, or lines of heat and cold, that traverse Idaho, which are largely controlled by the topography of the country. He said the lines most clearly defined in Idaho first appeared in the vicinity of Oakley and approximately followed the Snake river and its tributaries to the Lewiston section, growing warmer in the northern region. These lines could be traced with reasonable accuracy all the way from Oakley to Lewiston. They were distinguished by warm currents of air, usually caused by what is known as dynamic heat, or air under pressure. He also referred to the Chinook winds, which were popularly supposed to be due to the currents from the Japan sea. This supposition, he said, had been proven to be entirely erroneous. The Chinooks were really the result of dynamic heat, caused by air pressure descending the mountain sides, this pressure causing a rise of one degree in temperature in each 184 feet. This explained why, while it might be very cold and stormy in Montana and neighboring states, the air pressure was forced downward elsewhere, resulting in a higher temperature in adjoining localities. Anyone traveling through the Twin Falls tract, especially in the early evening, might observe the alternate currents of warm and cold air. Those tracts swept by the warm currents were invariably more favorable for fruit culture. Instances were cited of orchards two miles apart, where one had borne every year for nine years, and another had produced but one good crop in the same period. This, he said, was a palpable result of the effect of hot and cold air currents. Careful tests had shown, said Mr. McPherson, that almost every variety of hardy deciduous fruits would grow well on the Twin Falls tract, despite the influence of the local thermal lines, consequently every farmer should plant a family orchard. This fact should always be borne in mind when planting a commercial orchard, that eventually, Twin Falls would have to compete in the fruit markets of the world, consequently great care should be exercised in the selection of sites for commercial orchards. The most favorable locations should be chosen to insure the greatest measure of success. Under certain conditions a rocky and uneven piece of land might make a better orchard than a tract which might appear to the casual observer to be ideally located. Each intending planter should observe the air currents and note their presence and direction in order that he might know precisely where they circulated and thus be enabled to locate his orchard to the best advantage.

With regard to suitable fruits for the Twin Falls tract, Mr. McPherson recommended, among others, the following: Apples, summer, Duchess, Yellow Transparent, Red Astrakan; fall, Fameuse or Snow, Gravenstein (the king of fall apples), and the Wealthy were highly recommended; winter, Jonathan, Rome Beauty, Winter Banana, Northwest Greening, Wagner, Aiken Red, Mammoth Black, which should not be confounded with the Arkansas Black which was a handsome appearing apple but possessed very little commercial value. Of course the Gano and Ben Davis apples were included in the list, likewise a number of other well known varieties.

Mr. McPherson advised settlers to visit the old orchards in Cassia county in order that they might see for themselves which varieties of apples thrived the best. He suggested the planting of small fruits, such as currants, gooseberries, strawberries and cherries of the sour and semi-sweet varieties. The finest gooseberries he ever saw in his life, declared the speaker, were grown in Cassia county.

The superintendent insisted that no home ground was complete without flowers, shrubs and forest trees, which, he declared, were monuments to intelligence and refinement. These, he asserted, should be planted as soon as possible.

PUBLIC ROADS WILL BE IMPROVED IMMEDIATELY

Prompt Action Taken by Twin Falls Farmers Association—Farmers and Merchants Ready to do Their Part—Will Seek Co-operation of County Commissioners.

Under the auspices of the Twin Falls Farmers association, the good roads question has been brought up in a way which compels the attention of all interested. Roads must be opened and kept in repair. If the present wretched condition of the highways leading to Twin Falls from the farm districts is due to negligence, the responsible person or persons will be taken to task and made to toe the mark. The farmers are willing to pay their road tax, they are willing to labor on the roads if necessary, and the merchants of Twin Falls are willing to pay their share of expense in maintaining the roads.

The good roads campaign was opened in earnest at a meeting held in the Twin Falls school house on Monday evening. While the attendance was not as large as it might have been had the fact that the meeting was to be held become more widely known, the sentiment in favor of good roads was clearly defined. A committee was appointed to confer with County Commissioner Jacobs and Road Overseer Tobin in order to find out the legal status of the township with respect to county roads. This committee will report to the Farmers association on Saturday evening. This same committee will also bring the question to the attention of the county commissioners at their meeting in Albion next month when the claims of the Twin Falls district will be put forward.

The meeting was presided over by W. C. Godard, president of the Twin Falls farmers association. James A. Waters acted as secretary. Alex McPherson briefly explained the purpose of the meeting. He said the roads leading to Twin Falls were not in the condition they should be. In a new country like this good roads were not to be expected at the outset. It was expecting too much to find macadamized highways through the sagebrush. But the farmers had a right to expect roads upon which they could haul their supplies, passable highways at least. The Twin Falls merchants were interested because they wanted to trade with the farmers and if the latter were unable to come to the city because of the bad roads the business of the merchants must necessarily suffer.

Mr. McPherson said he was informed by his attorney that a road which had been traveled for five years was a public highway according to law. If a county road was designated and accepted after ditches or canals had been constructed across it, the ditches or canals would have to be bridged at the expense of the county. If the ditches or canals were constructed after the road was accepted, they would have to be bridged by the person, persons or company constructing them. So far as the Twin Falls Land & Water company was concerned, said Mr. McPherson, he felt sure it would do its part or even more. It had already built many bridges which it was not compelled to build and it could be depended upon to do what was just and right.

A great deal of the trouble, Mr. McPherson declared, was due to careless handling of waste water. Settlers, who seemed unaware of the fact that they were violating a state law, allowed waste water to flood the roads and render them impassable in places. These settlers should be advised regarding what was required of them. They should also be compelled to bridge laterals constructed by them across public highways.

By united effort, the speaker continued, the farmers could accomplish a great deal. They were assured of the cordial support of the Water company and the merchants of Twin Falls and with this backing they might go ahead with every assurance of success. Now was the time to act.

H. F. Allen, of the Allen Mercantile Co., said he was ready to do his part. He did not know exactly what was required of him but he was willing to do anything within reason to better the condition of the roads.

S. H. Young, of S. H. Young & Sons, said he was likewise interested in the subject and would do his share to improve the highways leading to Twin Falls. It was a matter in which every merchant in the city was interested, he stated, because it meant business.

James A. Waters asked if the county had not accepted all roads on section lines in this township and the sentiment of the meeting was that it had.

O. H. Barber suggested that most of the ditches in this township had been constructed before the roads were accepted.

G. W. Hawk endorsed the statements of Mr. McPherson. He said the thing to do was to get busy right away. He lived less than two miles from the city and it was hard for him to come in because of the muddy condition of the road at ditch crossings.

Don C. Bryan said the farmers were ready and willing to pay their road taxes or work on the highways. All they wanted was the assurance that their work would not be wasted.

J. M. Campbell of Boise said he had been calling on the Twin Falls farmers of late and had found that they were unable to visit the city as often as they would like to because of the bad roads.

George F. Spigauke spoke of the necessity of improving the roads. Twin Falls aspired to become a trade center, he said, and such being the case the road question at once became one of interest. If the farmers were to trade in this city they must have roads upon which they could haul their freight. The lands were not hilly and the rocks were not troublesome. If the ditches and draws were bridged the farmers could get in and out without any difficulty.

E. B. Fletcher spoke strongly in favor of immediate and concerted action.

On motion of C. W. Hawk a committee of three farmers and two merchants was appointed to confer with County Commissioner Jacobs, Road Overseer Tobin and the commissioners of Cassia county regarding the proper mode of procedure.

President Godard named C. W. Hawk, Don C. Bryan and James A. Waters to represent the association and H. F. Allen and S. H. Young to represent the merchants. Superintendent McPherson will act with and assist the committee. A report will be submitted at the farmers' meeting on Saturday evening, when further action will be decided upon.

COST OF WATER FOR DOMESTIC PURPOSES

Prevailing Rates in Twin Falls Compared With Those Charged in Other Leading Cities in the Northwest—Various Methods of Basing Rates Make Comparison Difficult.

Now that the waterworks question is under consideration by the board of trustees of Twin Falls, a comparison of the rates charged in this city with those prevailing elsewhere is of interest. It is difficult to make a comparison because of the varied methods of charging for water. In some cities flat rates are charged, while in others meters are used.

The present waterworks system was originally built for temporary use. As the town grew, the system was enlarged until it now covers a large area. It has proved very satisfactory. In no other city of its age can there be found a waterworks system equal to that of Twin Falls.

The present local rate for water for domestic purposes is $2 per month for each dwelling of four rooms or less. This is the only rate which can be used as a basis. In comparing this rate with that prevailing elsewhere, lawn sprinkling should be considered.

In Portland the rate for each dwelling, family of 10 or less, is as follows: Drinking, cooking and washing, 50 cents a month; each person exceeding 10, 10 cents; bath tub, 50 cents; each additional tub, 25 cents; water closet, 50 cents. In other words, the cost for the ordinary family is $1.50 per month. The cost for lawns is from $1.50 for a 50-foot lot up to $3.50 a month for not to exceed four lots. For more than four lots the cost is 87½ cents per lot. Spokane owns its water system and has a pumping plant. The estimated cost to the city for water is 5 cents for 1000 gallons.

Colorado Springs also owns its water system. The residence rate there is $6 a year for one or two rooms, $10 for three or four, $12 for five or six, and $1 a year for each additional room over six. A water closet costs $2 year, and bath tub $1. It costs $8 to $10 a year for each 50-foot lawn.

Butte pays a private corporation $2.25 a day for the water used by each street sprinkler, and $25,000 a year for 310 hydrants, with $5 a month extra for each additional hydrant.

HAVING TROUBLE WITH CONTRACTS

State Land Board Asks Twin Falls Land & Water Company to Execute Duplicate Water Contracts and Record Originals With County Recorder

The state land board has made an order that will interest all who secured contracts from the Twin Falls company. The company is required to execute duplicate contracts, to be filed with the board, and to have the originals, which it is to retain, recorded in Cassia county. This will involve an expense of about $5000, which the Twin Falls company is required to pay. The board took this action on account of the difficulty experienced in securing duplicates from those who have taken land in the Twin Falls section. Many refused to sign duplicates unless the originals were turned over to them, even when it was explained that they were afforded ample protection by filings with the board. Others signed the duplicates in the wrong place, and there were numerous additional complications. The board finally decided to relieve the situation by making the requirement on the company as stated.

The following is a copy of the order: "It appearing to the board that it was impossible to get the holders of contracts for water rights under the Twin Falls Water company for Carey act lands to properly sign and send in their duplicate contracts for approval, it was ordered that the Twin Falls Water company execute duplicate original contracts for water rights under said canal upon Carey act lands and deposit the same with the state land board; that all the water contracts heretofore issued by said company and in the possession of the state land board be recorded in the office of the county recorder of Cassia county, Idaho, the county in which the land upon which said water rights were sold is situated, the said Twin Falls Water company to bear all expense of such recording; that after the filing of said duplicate original contracts with the state land board and the payment for the recording of such original contracts as aforesaid the said contracts shall be given to the Twin Falls Water company and said duplicate original contracts shall be held by the state land board to be delivered to the persons entitled thereto."

Extension of Time Granted.
The board approved several changes in the rules of the land department presented by Register McConnell. Among other things, entrymen on Carey act lands are granted an extension of six months after the water is available in which to begin their residence.

A new rule was adopted authorizing leaves of absence. Any entryman desiring a leave of absence must apply to the board therefor. If it is granted he may leave his land for the period stated, which in no instance shall exceed six months. He is required, however, to conform with all provisions of law as to cultivation and reclamation.

State Engineer Stephenson submitted a report, which was approved, stating that all the land in the Twin Falls district between Rock creek and Cedar draw, 34,000 acres, was now under water from the low-line canal. Idaho Daily Statesman.

FACTS ABOUT THE AMERICAN FLAG The Evolution of "Old Glory" From Revolutionary Knicker.

The red in our flag stands for valor, the white for purity, the blue for justice. Our first Revolutionary flag generally used, was called the Grand Union flag. In this the colonists, who we must remember, were still Englishmen, kept the red ground of the old English flag, but striped it with white bars, so that there should be thirteen stripes, as an emblem of the thirteen colonies. Also, they kept the blue field of the English Union Jack, but took out the cross of St. George and St. Andrew, and put instead thirteen stars in a circle. This flag was inaugurated by Washington at his camp in Cambridge, Massachusetts, in January, 1776, though it was not adopted by Congress until the fourteenth of June, 1777.

Some of our flags of about this time show the stars arranged in the blue in the shape of one big star, and some show them arranged in a circle. The permanent present fashion was adopted after 1818, when Congress passed a resolution that a new star should be added to the blue field for every new state admitted to the Union. SALE POSTPONED.

The auction sale of state lands, which was set for July 5, has been postponed until the railroad reaches Twin Falls. Following were the officers elected at the first meeting: President Jennie Prater, first vice president Leslie Williams, second vice president Ethel Burmaster, third vice president Ivery Humphry, fourth vice president Phyllis Sierier, secretary Margaret Conway, Treasurer Lydia Boyd, superintendent Josie T. Power.

Mrs. Adaline A. Garlock, of Boise, superintendent of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, who had been in the city over Sunday in the interest of her work, left Tuesday morning for home. While here Mrs. Garlock succeeded in organizing a very promising union with 15 members, with Mrs. Helen Shank as president, Mrs. Huff secretary and Mrs. B. A. Mitchell, treasurer. At the Sunday evening service at the Methodist church Mrs. Garlock addressed the audience on temperance and especially the conditions and needs in Idaho. The audience gave her close attention throughout the entire discourse of over one hour. The next meeting of the union will be held at the school house at 3 o'clock p.m., Wednesday, July 5, 1905, and everyone interested in the temperance cause is cordially invited to attend.

THE CANTATA PROVES DELIGHTFUL

Little Children Show Surprising Talent and Win Much Applause.

Refreshing in tone and atmosphere was the cantata, "The Carnival of the Flowers", sung by 25 little children under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Camp at I. O. O. F. hall on Monday evening. The little ones were letter perfect and they sang and drilled with a zeal and skill that compelled many outbursts of sincere applause. Not for an instant did one of them falter. Every number was good, some were excellent. Mrs. Camp had her charges under perfect control and the manner in which they acquitted themselves amply repaid her for the trouble she took in drilling them.

Miss Gertrude Rauch greatly strengthened the program with a recitation, "When the old folks are gone", which she chanted beautifully. A score was inevitable and she responded with another little gem which went so well that she barely escaped a second recall.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Camp gave a reading, with piano accompaniment, which was enthusiastically received. Recitations by Leona Bunnell and Ina Hawk and a song by Leslie Williams were the first pleasant surprises furnished by the children. They stirred the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm and prepared the way for the ensemble treats to follow. Mrs. Ring contributed a piano solo which won well merited appreciation. She also accompanied the children in the cantata in splendid style.

The cantata was certainly deserving of the name, "The Carnival of the Flowers", for every little girl was wreathed in blossoms until the entire stage resembled a summer flower garden. A number of the children possess considerable talent and the hall was filled with the music of their sweet voices.

Three boys were in prominence and sustained their parts with equal credit. The various flowers were represented by the following children:

- Magnolia—Verna Cole.
Water Lilies—Margaret Conway and Catherine Hayes.
Daisies—Florence Brunk and Flora Hendricks.
Violets—Leslie Williams and Jennie Pater.
Moss—Marge Stone.
Strawberry Blossoms—Cloe Hayes and Phyllis Sierier.
Trumpet flowers—Leonard Bradley and Guy Mitchell.
Roses—Verna Thomas.

Jasmine—Leona Bunnell.
Little Green Leaves—Lillian Johnson, Mildred Conway and Glee Ring.
Jack in the Pulpit—Ray Downey.
Breezes—Maud Johnson, Ruth Adams and Nora Hendricks.
An effective tableau closed the program, all of which was deserving of the highest praise.
