SPLENDID WATER SUPPLY FOR BUHL

FIRE PROTECTION—THE FIRST CONSIDERATION.

Perfect system of Storage, Filtration and Aeration, with Abundant Fire Pressure and Ample Number of Hydrants.

Buhl is to have a waterworks system which should make the citizens of Twin Falls envious. The "city of the setting sun" will have hydrants, fire pressure and all the trimmings which go with a first-class system right from the beginning. The water will be absolutely pure, coming from Mother Snake direct, through a perfect system of filtration, aeration and settling. An ample reserve supply will be stored for possible emergencies.

The water will be taken from the low line canal a mile and a half southeast of the townsite and conducted through a six-inch vitrified sewer-pipe for a distance of 4000 feet to a cement reservoir 150 feet square and 15 feet to the water line. Before being turned into the reservoir the water will be thoroughly filtered and aerated. This reservoir, which is now being laid out, will hold a 10 days supply for a city of 2000 people. It will be so built, that it can be enlarged at any time should occasion demand. As a further safeguard, a lateral will be constructed from the high line canal direct to the point where the domestic water supply is taken from the low line.

From the reservoir the water will be conveyed to the townsite, a distance of 6000 feet, in a six-inch main pipe and distributed through submain pipes of 150 pounds to the inch pressure of 150 pounds to the inch, four inches in diameter. Six four-inch hydrants with 2½ inch outlets have the audacity of the supposed smultery. According to the annals west of Rock creek the trouble began with a gay young buck who works as a smultery in Twin Falls. The smultery aroused the ire of some of the husky young men who are engaged in making the desert blossom on the west end and the huskies determined to get even. Arming themselves they took the smultery's trail. Subsequent events proved that they pursued the "wrong" man. The road was very muddy and they failed to follow the tracks of the man with the whiskers on his hands. It terminated in this wise:

Overhauling a traveler who in the dull gray of evening looked like the object of their pursuit the huskies called on him to halt and make amends. At least this is the way the annals tell it. The man who was halted proved to be a meek and innocent ditch contractor on his way to Twin Falls. The contractor was long on cheer and short on patience. He showed a reckless disregard of the mandate to hoist and analogize and instead he dismounted from his mud-splashed and cleared for action. "Branding a buggy whip in his strong right arm he made for the nearest man with hostile stride. The husky stood his ground and breathed threats. His breath was not as strong as that of the contractor, however. The latter kept coming and the husky wasted a couple of shots but hit nothing except the storm laden atmosphere. Still the contractor kept coming with his buggy whip waving like the historic plumes of Henry of Navarre. Just as he closed on the husky for a hand-to-hand encounter the latter surrendered his arms and bowed beneath a shower of lashes. "You are coming too strong for me," cried the husky as he lodged among the sedgebrush. "I'm a going all right, old man," replied the contractor as he cut a few more figures with his whip. The second husky encounter but the names of the participants will probably never be known as they are all unknown to the contractor and he don't care. He is now negotiating with the gun club for the sale of the junk. Moral—Be sure you have the right man tread before you make your play.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Towne were the host and hostess of a delightful masculine party given at their home two miles east of here last Friday evening. The unique and amusing costumes worn were the cause of much merriment. Cards and dancing were the order of the evening and delicious refreshments were served. All pronounced this one of the most enjoyable events of the season.

We have learned to know you, and knowing you has made you our friend. "You have at all times shown an interest in our welfare. You have demanded a just service—an honest service, always, and this being given, you have shown that you appreciated it."

"The company to which you have given such undivided and loyal service during the past year has spoken only in laudatory terms of your work. The people who have benefited by your efforts have only praise for you. And this is right; this is just. There is no higher calling than that of reclaiming the desert wastes of this mighty west. What a spectacle! What an inspiring sight! Men harnessing these great streams of life-giving water and guiding them out over the land, and in the twinkling of an eye, as it were, changing the desert to a garden spot and making this the home of hundreds and thousands of happy and contented people! Surely the pioneers in this great work are deserving of the highest that can be paid them. They deserve a place among the most honored of our fair land."

"My friends, when the history of the reclaiming of the Twin Falls tract shall have been written, when the names of those who have given of their time, service and energy shall have been emblazoned upon the roll of honor, we are sure that justice will be done and that the name of Mark Coffin will be found on the list. And you may be assured that when that time comes, when this shall have been accomplished, there will be none who will be more proud of it than the 'boys'—the skimmers, carpenters, office men, muckers, ditch riders, stable boys and laborers of every description that are here and represented here this evening."

"My friend, you have served the state of Colorado and Idaho well in their reclamation undertakings. Idaho is proud to number you among her

TWIN FALLS MADE GOOD IMPRESSION

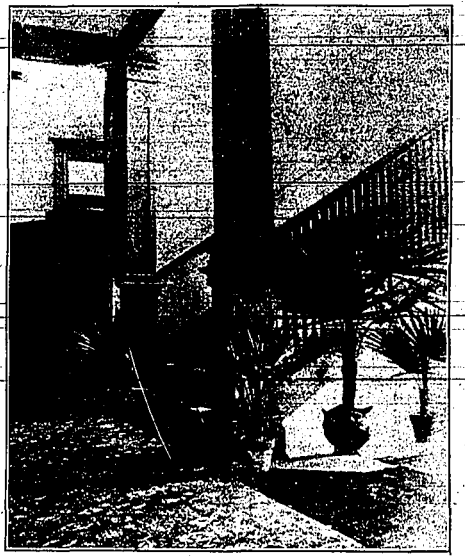

WEISER DID HANDSOMELY BY ITS GUESTS.

Delegates to Convention Which Led to Formation of Southern Idaho League of Commercial Clubs Royally Treated.

President Kimball and Secretary Hill of the Twin Falls Commercial Club are delighted with the treatment accorded them at the recent convention in Weiser.

"We had a splendid time," said Mr. Hill. "A finer lot of men I never hope to meet. I took with me a number of photographs of Twin Falls and vicinity which were displayed at the hotel. They aroused no end of interest and it kept Mr. Kimball and myself busy answering questions. Everybody seemed to have a kindly feeling for Twin Falls, and we had no trouble whatever in securing the next convention. Emmett was the only contender and the Emmett gentlemen yielded gracefully in our favor when the time came. If we succeed in doing as well as the people of Weiser we will have reason to be proud. General Manager Helgoh of the P. & I. N. railway entertained us royally, taking us to Council, the terminus of the road, in his private car. Weiser is a very progressive city and it has a splendid future."

The executive board of the Southern Idaho League of Commercial Clubs will shortly meet in Boise and at this meeting the date of the Twin Falls convention will be determined. The Commercial club met on Monday evening and discussed a number of important questions. A committee consisting of H. P. Allen, H. W. Paris, Dr. Truman O. Boyd, P. H. Smith and George P. Sprague was appointed to

THREE INTERIOR VIEWS OF THE HOTEL PERRINE.

The upper picture shows the hallway at the head of the stairs on the second floor. The ladies' parlor is shown on the right, and the left picture gives a glimpse of the pretty dining room. The Perrine is one of the most handsomely furnished hotels in the west, as the pictures show. In many respects it is the most modern, having long distance telephones in every room and other conveniences not usually found in an ordinary first class house. The Perrine is proving a splendid advertisement for Twin Falls, strangers forgetting all about the mud when they once get inside of the handsome caravansary. The big hotel has been crowded since the day it was opened. Traveling men always make it a point to work the other towns on the Twin Falls and Minidoka tract from Twin Falls in order to take advantage of the superior accommodations at the Perrine. What the Dewey Palace is to Nampa, the Perrine is to Twin Falls, and its value to the city is incalculable.

POPULAR WATERMASTER RE-MEMBERED BY FRIENDS.

Presented with a Beautiful Gold Chain and Charm by Former Employees on the Eve of His Departure for Brazil.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark A. Coffin were delightfully surprised by a large number of their friends who appeared unceremoniously at the Coffin home on Monday night and took possession without so much as a "by your leave."

It is suspected that Mrs. Coffin had an inkling of what was coming, but Mark was taken off his guard and rendered unconditionally. He invited the boys to make themselves at home and they did.

As a starter R. D. Leach handed Mark a box of cigars to smoke on the voyage to Brazil. Mark returned the lead, or rather Mrs. Coffin did, with tempting refreshments and the guests sat down to a stirring game of dices.

Jokes were bandied about, old times recalled and although the game was interesting the guests could not conceal the fact that the meeting was the last they would enjoy with a true and valued friend whom they were about to lose.

Just as the party was about to break up and farewells were in order, G. H. Hittchmond called on Jack White for a speech. Mr. Coffin seconded the motion, unsuspiciously, and Mr. White said:

"A duty has devolved upon me this evening—a duty which it is hard to perform—the duty of bidding you adieu, and wishing you the best in life, wherever you may be, or whatever work you may be engaged in. The duty, also, of expressing to you in my feeble way the friendship and good will which every one here, and others in the various camps, who have worked under you during the past year, feel. Had we our way, we would not have you go. In our relations with you citizens. She would much prefer to keep you within her borders; but your work has attracted those far beyond the confines of this state, large and great as it is. An opportunity has come to you—an opportunity for larger service, with greater profit to you. Looking to the future, and to what this merited promotion will mean to you, you could not do otherwise than accept the call. You are going to a foreign land, to labor among strangers, but as you go, you want you to forget not us, your friends, who you leave behind. We have tried to think of some way in which we might impress this upon your memory in a way that you could not forget. The best we have been able to do is to procure this watch chain and charm. The charm has upon it the emblem of that grand order of which you are a member—the International Order of Odd Fellows. It represents the three great virtues for which that order stands—Friendship, Love and Truth—all of which you have so well exemplified in your relations with us. Take this chain and charm as an expression of our feeling for you. We have been assured that it will wear well. May our friendship be as enduring.

"And now, in conclusion, after you have fulfilled your mission in Brazil, we hope that you, Mrs. Coffin and the children will return to God's country, enriched in everything that makes a investigate the sewer problem with the view of ascertaining what could be done toward securing a good sewer system for the city. Many plans were suggested, all of which will be given careful consideration. The sentiment in favor of a sewer system is unanimous and the better means only have to be determined.

The club will cooperate with the farmers in promoting the Twin Falls fair next autumn and to that end a committee will be appointed to work with a similar committee from the Farmers' Federation.

The waterworks question was brought up and a strong sentiment in favor of manifest ownership developed. To take time by the forelock it was decided to appoint a committee of three to make a thorough investigation of the sanitary condition of Rock Creek shore the pump house and see that the creek was not being spoiled as a sewer.

An inquiry as to the status of the water rights appurtenant to the Twin Falls townsite drew a promise from General Manager Faris that he would look into the question and report. While it was understood that each lot carried a proportionate water right, the general impression has been that the entire right should be vested in the city to be used under proper supervision for sprinkling, irrigating, road building, sewer flushing or other purposes as desired.

been ordered and will be installed immediately the system is complete, together with the necessary drains, valves, etc. At the center of the town pressure of 150 pounds to the inch will be maintained, which will be ample for fire purposes.

Engineers are now at work laying out the route and surveying the reservoir. The first carload of material for the plant has arrived and will be installed without delay. The waterworks system will be a great benefit to the new town and the installation is strong proof that those interested in the town have abundant faith in it or they would hesitate to spend so much in permanent improvements at the outset.

No Dust for Buhl.

A crew of men is now engaged in grubbing the uncultivated portion of the Buhl townsite, which will be seeded to white clover and true grass in order to form a sod which will prevent dust from flying. The seeded ground will be carefully irrigated all summer and the townsite will present a cheerful, green appearance. Had this been done in Twin Falls it would have been beneficial.

PURSUIT ENDED DISASTROUSLY

He came to town in a mud-covered buggy with a Winchester rifle, a double-barreled shotgun, a six-shooter and a comfortable jag and they say he acquired the load in a peculiar manner. Who held a shotgun, stood amazed at

HOUSE AND SENATE ARE STILL AT LOGGERHEADS

Each Insists That the Other is Responsible for the Failure of Important Measures—Senator Heyburn Receives Many Congratulations Upon the Passage of the Pure Food Bill, One of the Most Mediculous Measures Enacted by Congress in Many Years.

WASHINGTON, March 20.—It is the opinion of all who have given attention to the subject that there have been two debates in the senate this session which will rank with the best that have been heard in the senate for years. One was between Bailey and Patterson upon the right of a caucus to control a senator's vote on a public question, and the other was between Senators Bacon and Spooner upon the rights of the senate and the executive in making treaties. More interest was aroused in the Bailey-Patterson debate because the question was one which involved personalities and politics. However, the contest between Bacon and Spooner is considered of much more importance, and will be of more permanent historic value. It will live because of the great constitutional question that was discussed. Both Senators Bacon and Spooner are constitutional lawyers of high rank in a body of men familiar with everything pertaining to the constitution. The debate was interesting in that it involved what has been done by the president in two cases, first in putting into effect the modus vivendi with Santo Domingo while a treaty between the two countries was pending in the senate, and second, in sending delegates to the European Algeiras conference to participate in the settlement of the political affairs at Morocco. This debate has been compared by some to those that took place when the senate was galled to be composed of giants. It is doubtful, however, if the "giants" ever sat through a better debate than the one in question.

From the constant stream of letters that have been pouring into Senator Heyburn's office since the passage of the pure food bill congratulating him on the splendid fight he has made in behalf of the purity of foods and drugs, it would seem that the whole country is in hearty accord with the provisions of the bill. Labor unions, temperance societies, consumers' leagues, state and national federations of women's clubs, chambers of commerce, boards of trade, medical associations and individuals seem to vie with each other in showing to Senator Heyburn their appreciation for so ably championing the measure. The following is an extract from a letter to Senator Heyburn by the chairman of the American Medical association, an association comprising practically all the physicians in the United States and is a fair sample of the letters being received by him: "On behalf of the American Medical association, I desire to extend to you your hearty appreciation, not only of your noble championship of the pure food and drug bill which recently passed the senate, but for your splendid initiative in fostering a measure of such immense value to the health and welfare of the American people. Your attitude upon this question has won for you the respect of the entire medical profession of the country."

Although "Uncle Joe" Cannon is declaring with characteristic vigor that the house will not recede from its position on the statehood bill, it is thought that it will finally agree to the senate amendments, still line out Arizona and New Mexico, and permit Oklahoma and Indian Territory to be joined and admitted as a state.

In this connection it may be said that a popular belief that the senate is unfriendly to the president's measures is much overdone. It is true that the senate has done nothing with the Santo Domingo treaty, but as the Democrats are solidly against the treaty, there is nothing to be gained by pressing the treaty to a certain defeat. As to the Philippine tariff bill, it was beaten by the loud canons and Johnson interests without any reference to the president, and because it was thought to be detrimental to these two great products. The rate bill has been accepted in the senate—drawn by DeLozier under the inspiration of the president, and while some slight changes in the local aspect of the bill will be made, the principle will be preserved, and it is predicted by leading men on both sides of the chamber that the bill will be passed practically as introduced.

On these measures of vital importance to the country the senate is performing the work that should have been done by the house. If the house of representatives actually performed its constitutional duties and functions by carefully considering and independently passing bills in response to genuine popular demand, the senate would not have the disagreeable work of tearing to pieces the important bills that come to it from the house and in so doing apparently deliberately administer rebuffs to the president and the house. But the house, under the gag rule of the speaker and the committee on rules, did not permit the consideration of the statehood bill as well as other important measures. There was no opportunity for amendment, for deliberation or for popular expression. The senate, of course, has the right to make such amendments as it deems wise, and in so doing it does not necessarily take the position of being anti-administration.

Senator Heyburn's forest reserve bill has not been reported by the committee to the senate, and it is likely that it will be several days before a report is made upon it. The committee on forestry, which has the bill under consideration, will have heard hearings before final action is taken. It is understood that Senator Heyburn intends to appear before the committee and make an argument in support of his bill. The report sent out from here and published in some of the western papers that the bill had been adversely acted upon is without apparent foundation.

Correct Surveys.

Having secured a copy of the original field notes and plans for the entire tract, C. W. Lovison, licensed surveyor for Idaho, is in a position to set all obliterated corners correctly and place same on record if desired.

BUHL TOWNSITE OPENING

BUHL Townsite will be Open for the Sale of Lots on APRIL 17, 1906

TERMS—One-fourth cash, remainder in one, two and three years at six per cent interest. First two corner lots will be sold at auction. Remainder of the lots will be sold by drawing, to-wit: The names will be placed in a box and at beginning of the sale a small boy will draw the names from the box. The first name drawn will have the first choice of lots; the second name drawn will have second choice of lots, and so on until all names have been drawn from the box.

Each person drawing will only be entitled to purchase two business lots and two residence lots. One person will not be allowed to sell his chance or number to a second party.

The center of Buhl is 17 miles west of the center of Twin Falls. Buhl is surrounded by a large territory of choice lands, all of which will be covered with water for this season's crops. A fine $25,000 hotel is already constructed and will be ready for the accommodation of prospective investors. Buhl will be the supply point for Three Creek, Roseworth and Butte, each of which is in the center of an immense stock country; also the market point for the fruit farms at Kanoka.

Buhl will be one of the best towns on the Twin Falls tract, and being such a distance from Twin Falls, will in no way be affected by the Electric Power City. The Shoshone Falls Power company will at once construct a line to Buhl for light and power purposes.

Remember that lots in Twin Falls which sold for $500 at the opening have since sold for seven times that sum.

Buhl offers an opportunity for investment which is rarely presented. Don't miss it.

Material for the Buhl waterworks has been ordered and is now on the way. It will be a gravity system with fire pressure and fire hydrants, aeration, filtration and reserve supply. Engineers are now at work and the plant will be ready for installation when the material arrives.

Buhl will have telephones, electric light, electric power, an experimental farm, shade trees, park and other improvements without delay. Be wise and get in on the ground floor.

CHAMPION GILBERT CRIPPLED

World's Greatest Trap Shot May Never Shoot Again.

Fred Gilbert, champion trap shot of the world, will for the first time in 15 years miss the tournaments of the country this year, because he is down in bed at Des Moines with inflammatory rheumatism, from which he may not recover for 12 months. It was for a time thought he would die, but he has sufficiently recovered so that he will be removed from his home in Spirit Lake to Hot Springs, Ark. The hands which have held a gun stender than anyone else in the world are swollen and distorted by the ravages of the disease. He has suffered greatly and has lost all his flesh.

His hours and days of suffering have been brightened by gathering about him his many trophies which he has won. Of course the most notable of these is the British presentation cup which was won by the American team in an international shoot with the champions of England and Scotland, and afterwards won by Gilbert when members of the American team shot for the prize. This team which captured the prize in 1901 was composed of Tom Marshall, captain; Chas. W. Budd, Des Moines, F. S. Parmelee of Omaha, J. S. Fanning of Jersey City, E. H. Tripp of Indianapolis, W. R. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill.; C. M. Powers of Decatur, Ill.; Richard Merrill of Milwaukee, R. O. Hikes of Dayton, O.; L. A. R. Elliott of Kansas City and Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Iowa.

In all Gilbert has 16 loving cups, 25 or more medals, seven watches, an upright piano and numerous other trophies. He is particularly fond of "the shooting game," and has named his 6-year-old son Tom Marshall Gilbert after the famous Ketchikan (Ill.) shot, and his 4-year-old daughter Annie Oakley Gilbert after Buffalo Bill's famous lady shot.

For two years Gilbert has been honored by being elected president of the Iowa State Sportsman's association.

A business man who was in a hurry called up an establishment that had failed to deliver goods as ordered. A small, worldly voice was heard at the other end of the line: "Whom do you want?"

"Brown and hurry," said the boy. "All right," said the receiver who was hung up. In four minutes it was taken down and the small voice said: "Mr. Brown is not in. Can I call you?" "See here, my son," said the man, who was in a hurry. "I want to talk with some one who can do business. When I need the office boy I call him for him. The way for you to get along is to let other things alone and attend to your own duties."

"That is what I am trying to do, sir," responded the small soft voice. "I am the president of the company,"—Hochester Herald.

At the commencement exercises of one of our large colleges a prominent lawyer had been asked to address the graduates. Being very busy about that time, he neglected to give any thought to the subject of his discourse. On arriving at the hall where the exercises were held he was still at a loss for a word. In passing through a large swing door which led into the hall he, with the word "Push!" painted on the door happened to catch his eye. Like a flash it occurred to him that here was a text that he could use very appropriately. When his turn came to speak, he arose and addressed the audience in somewhat the following manner:

"Young gentlemen, the subject of my little talk with you this morning can be expressed in one short word: it is a thing that is especially applicable to you young men who, in one line or another, are going out into life to make your way. It is a thing with which no man is sure of attaining success. Gentlemen, on your door is the word I refer to."

Every eye in the room immediately glanced toward the door indicated, but on the inside the word "Push!" was plainly painted.—Lippincott's Magazine.

The teacher of the adult Chinese in the mission Sunday school had told her class the story of Noah's ark and the deluge.

"I presume none of you ever heard that before," he remarked.

"Yeh!" said Ching Lung triumphantly. "New down there last night he say, 'Big flood! Many lives lost!'"

—Chicago Tribune.

A young lady started her own banking account, and was very proud of her check book. She used it so well that one day there came a notification that she had overdrawn her account. When she had found out what this meant she was full of sorrow for the bank. She wrote a pretty letter of apology and filled up a check for the amount due. "This," she wrote, "will put matters right."—London Standard.

A teacher in a certain Episcopal Sunday school had been impressing on her girls the need of making some personal sacrifice during Lent. Accordingly, on the first Sunday of that penitential season, which happened to be a warm spring day, she took occasion to ask each of her scholars to turn in what had given up for the sake of her religion. Everything went well, and the answers were proving highly satisfactory, until she came to the youngest member.

"Well, Mary," inquired the teacher, "what have you left off for Lent?"

"Please, ma'am," stammered the child, somewhat confused, "I've left off my leggin's."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Teacher—Tommy, what is an avary?

Tommy—A place where they keep birds.

Teacher—Right. Now, Willie, do you know as much as Tommy? Tell me what is an avary?

Willie (triumphantly)—A place where they keep apes.—Baltimore American.

Not long ago a friend dropped in at the laboratory of a young London professor and found him bending over a spirit lamp on which a small pot bubbled.

"What is it tonight?" asked the visitor.

"Guess," returned the professor, indignantly.

"Microcoel?"

"No."

"Sonocoel?"

"No."

"Sprochoeta?"

"No."

The visitor ran the scale of microorganisms as far as he knew it, and then said:

"Well, I give it up! What is in the pot?"

"Sausages," replied the professor, blandly.—London Telegraph.

"Johnny," asked the teacher, "how much is seven times nine?"

"I don't remember."

"Who discovered America?"

"I did know, but I forgot."

"What are isthmuses?"

"I don't remember."

"You don't remember? Take your seat, sir. You'll never amount to anything in this world!"

But he did. He is now drawing $75,000 per year as chief forgetter for a large corporation.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Sammy broke suddenly into the parlor one day, and came upon his aunt Margaret sitting on Mr. Brown's lap.

"The surprised couple hastened to pull away from the youngster's eyes."

"We are rehearsing for a little play," Sammy, explained. Aunt Margaret.

"Samuel," added Mr. Brown, "with a touch of sentiment in his voice, 'I am now holding the queen.'"

"You must be good at it," answered Mrs. Samuel, as she went out of the room.

"I heard Paule Jack say that you held four queens last night."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Ever—there's no use talking, Adam. I can't take care of the children and do the housework, too. You've got to get a girl."

Adam (with resignation)—Oh, very well. I suppose this is where I lose another rib.—Puck.

Mary, the housemaid (to her friend)—We have matins at our church. Please—That's nothing, we have vespers at the altar and they burn incense at both services.—London News.

A family of my acquaintance recently purchased a cow, greatly to the excitement and joy of the children of the household. The following Sunday, as the dog-walked consisted of ice cream, was placed on the table the three-year-old son of the family announced proudly to the assembled guests:

"Our cow made that!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Robert, aged five, was irritated by the crying of Clara, aged two.

"Stop!" he said, with great seriousness. "You don't stop crying? You must be sick. You don't look well, and you don't sound well."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Mamma—What would you like for dinner, Willie?

Willie—Anything but company. I don't get anything then.—Boston Transcript.

Newrich (furnishing his library)—Let me see. Now I've got all the sets of standard authors bound in calf—Dickens, Scott and all them fellows.

Clerk—Yes, sir.

Newrich—Now I'll want something to read. Say, have you got a complete set of "Old Scotch?"—Philadelphia Record.

George—Rather than remain single, I would you marry the biggest fool on earth if he asked you to.

Clara—O, George, this is so sudden.

Chicago News.

Assum—Dr. Price-Price doesn't seem to be helping your sore eye any.

Shirley—No, and he's got me worried about it. I told him today that if he asked me to, I was afraid it was going to give me a lot of trouble, and he said: "Don't worry. It will come out all right."—Philadelphia Press.

"My brother made ugly faces at your brother yesterday, and he didn't dare fight. He pretended he didn't notice 'em."

"He didn't, neither. He thought they was natural."—Cleveland Leader.

The passenger who had come into the street car last found himself regarding with some interest the exceedingly red nose of the man sitting opposite. The owner of the nose also found it interesting that he had been looking forward presently and said, with evident irritation:

"I know what you're lookin' at."

"I beg your pardon?"

"I say I know what you're lookin' at, and it ain't what you think it is at all. It's erysipelas. And what's more, it's none of your business, anyhow."—Youth's Companion.

A head man in a manufactory was watching a drayman tugging at a heavy case one day. The drayman's face was red and the muscles of his neck were bulging. The overseer thought it was the right moment to offer practical assistance.

"Wait a minute there," he said. "Let me show you how easy it is when you use a little brain with your muscle." And he grabbed a hook, stuck it into the case, gave a yank and went sprawling into the gutter under the dray. He got up, looked at the hook, and said: "Confound it, this handle comes off!"

"Yes, sir," said the drayman, respectfully, "my brain told me that, and I didn't use it."—Baltimore Sun.

An army examiner once had a very stupid candidate before him, who apparently was unable to answer the simplest question. At last the examiner lost his temper, and with sarcastic emphasis, quite lost on the youth before him, queried:

"Suppose, sir, that you were a capitalist and owned a company of infantry that in your rear was an impossible abyss; that on either side of you towered perpendicular rocks of not favorable height; that before you stood the enemy, 100 men to each one of yours. What, sir, would you do in this emergency?"

"General," said the aspirant to military honors, "I should resign."—Titbits.

Rufus—Wanna buy dis heah haund fob a quatch?

Rastus—Look heah, Rufus, you done wince ter sell dat dawg fob a quatch now when you can buy a heaher dog? He mus' hab de rheumatiz or somethin'.

Rufus—Ain't dat. Whenebber I shant out to go any place he beats, I fret fer Pashon Jollying's chicken coop an' I feels it mus' plit to sicken him.—Minneapolis Star.

Some young brides take the married state seriously indeed, and little Mrs. Nixon is of the order. She was not a good cook, and she knew it, but after a fashion she was a good one.

To such good effect that in due course she carried off a diploma.

"Yes," she said enthusiastically that evening. "I've got the highest diploma. It's on sheepskin parchment, with a big red seal. And just in honor of the occasion I cooked that fish you're eating now. It's my own recipe. Now, just you guess what it is."

Nixon—swat on masticating in silence for a moment. Then he looked up with a wry grin.

"It is—er—is it the diploma?"—Punch.

"Farmers" announced the fair visitor from the city, "are just as dishonest as city milkmen."

"How d'ye make that out?" asked her host.

"I saw your hired man this morning water every one of the cows before he milked them."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Reliable information regarding the city and county generally and especially pertaining to the news publishing industry, Twin Falls, Idaho.

REPAIR THE STREETS.

The condition of the principal streets of Twin Falls is disgraceful. The condition of the crossings is worse. Strangers are coming in every day and the first thing they encounter is mud and the next more mud. Building operations necessarily block the sidewalks but not to the extent to which they are blocked in Twin Falls. Pedestrians have a right to a passage way at least. No excuse can be offered for the condition of the crossings and the streets. It is all very well to talk about storming and frost and wet weather and lack of funds but the strangers who are coming here to invest take no stock in such nonsense. A short time ago the streets were surveyed and the grades established but the mud is just as deep and sticky as ever and the pools are just as numerous. It might be urged that since the grades were established the weather has been such that work was impossible. Maybe, but the crossings should have been attended to long ago. Surveys and the streets too for that matter. Surveys and excuses are all right, but in the words of the illustrious Major Road of Burley: "The way to fix up the streets is to do it, do it, do it." Merchants are suffering because of the condition of the streets; women cannot do their shopping without wading through small oceans of mud. To quote Dr. Tanner, another distinguished authority: "What kind of gosh hangd management is this?" Get busy, fix the crossings; drain the streets; if nothing better can be done; the warrants will be taken care of; play ball. The streets should be named, too, as this is not a penal colony.

ROCKEFELLER'S PLIGHT.

If the reports concerning the condition of John D. Rockefeller, which have been telegraphed broadcast by the Associated Press, are true, the oil king is in a pitiable plight. It is possible that the stories of his condition have been colored for the purpose of creating sympathy for him in his unenviable condition. The spectacle of the richest man in America, a supposed pillar of the church, engaged in dodging the service of legal process is humiliating, to say the least. Men who aim to do what is just and right do not evade the law. Mr. Rockefeller is charged with having evaded the law all his life. He has used his colossal fortune to stifle competition and crush those who would not surrender unconditionally to the gigantic oil trust. In recent years he has been subjected to a censure such as few men could withstand. The millions he has given to educational institutions have been stigmatized as tainted and his name has become a byword. Right or wrong, he stands in a wretched light. A man endowed with the nerve to do what Rockefeller has done might be able to stand the deluge of reproach which Rockefeller has stood without collapsing under the strain but he would have to be almost superhuman. The way of the transgressor is hard, and if Rockefeller is not a transgressor he has been greatly misled by the American people for many years. His hundreds of millions cannot purchase peace of mind nor immunity from attack, and only dark and gloomy colors are reflected from the sunset of his eventful life.

NOW THEY KNOW ABOUT CHINOOKS

DIRECTOR WELLS ENLIGHTENS KIMBERLY FARMERS.

Tells Them Where the Storms Come From—Young Folks Are Learning to Dance Under Ed Johnson's Instruction.

KIMBERLY, March 22.—The Farmers' association had the unexpected pleasure of listening to an address from Mr. Wells on the subject of "The Chinook winds" last Wednesday evening. Mr. Wells is in charge of the weather bureau at Boise and is visiting on the tract studying conditions here. He spoke of the origin of storms, the isothermal lines of the state and briefly explained the chinook winds that sometimes sweep over the tract. The lecture was very much enjoyed as it is seldom we meet one so well posted on that much abused subject, "the weather." Mr. McPherson also spoke for a few moments on farm topics generally. He advised the farmers to obtain two or three good works on agriculture, as it is impossible for them to carry all the knowledge that they should have in their heads, and our salvation lies in being up to date.

The Modern Woodmen of America organized a camp here last Friday evening. A. J. Smith, the local leader, and A. A. McDermid clerk. The Twin Falls team will be present on Friday evening, March 30, to exemplify the work.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Fisher of Salt Lake arrived Saturday to make their home here. They brought a carload of stock and household goods and for the summer will be located on George Horvath's place north of town. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Smith and family, also of Salt Lake, who purpose settling in the vicinity of Kimberly.

Church services will be held in the schoolhouse on Sunday as follows: Sunday school, 2 p. m.; preaching, Rev. R. H. Schenck, 7:30 p. m. All are urgently invited to be present.

There has been no school this week owing to the illness of the teacher, Miss Naito. The school is steadily improving, however, and will again be able to take up her duties on Monday. The only thing to be regretted is that Miss Durbin has not enjoyed the vacation as much as the pupils.

An Arbor day program will be given under the auspices of the school before the Farmers' association and the pupils are hard at work preparing themselves for the occasion.

The school is the proud possessor of a large eighty-day week clock and a beautiful flag. Flag-raising will take place on Arbor day if the weather permits.

C. M. Price of Twin Falls was a Kimberly visitor Sunday.

Mrs. W. S. Starr is in Twin Falls receiving medical attention. She has been ill for some time, but it is hoped that she will soon be restored to good health and be able to resume her place among us.

The Kimberly young people spent a very enjoyable evening in the schoolhouse on Monday when Professor Ed Johnson conducted a dancing class.

The pupils made good progress but the successful result will be the matter of considerable doubt in the minds of their instructor. Another lesson will be given Friday and it is hoped by that time the product will be a credit to Kimberly.

Dr. D. Albee, P. Larson and Walter Drose, all of Rock Creek, were Kimberly visitors Friday.

COLDEST MARCH ON RECORD

So Declare the Pioneers Residing at Clear Lake.

CLEAR LAKE, March 21.—March has been the coldest and most unpleasant month within the recollection of the pioneers.

Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Snodgrass spent last night in the schoolhouse. Mrs. H. Smalley was the guest of Mrs. O. E. Syter at Clear Lake last Sunday.

State W. D. Briggs and family went to Shoshone last Saturday. They will remain there for a few days, visiting.

Mrs. M. E. Syter has received a letter from her mother, Mrs. J. H. Syter, of Illinois. The thoroughbreds seem to take kindly to Idaho climate.

Mrs. Mary Briggs is still on the sick.

Charles Ingersoll is busy hauling wood.

O. E. Syter is clearing the brush from the vicinity of the spring and lake and intends to put several small boats on the lake this summer.

HOW CAPITAL CITY WAS BUILT

Splendid Work of Building and Loan Association.

The magnificent work which can be accomplished by a well managed building and loan association is demonstrated in the annual report of Secretary Clark of the Boise association.

The financial condition of the association is shown in the following statement:

Assets:
Mortgage loans without stock	$210,637.72
Mortgage loans with stock	8,000.00
Stock certificate loans	16,000.00
Interest due and unpaid	324.00
Safe, etc.	256.47
Balance with treasurer	4,077.83
Total Assets	$239,112.71
Liabilities:
Capital paid in	$187,325.70
Undivided profits	35,316.46
Reserve fund	608.00
Certificate of deposit	14,862.95
Bills payable	1,000.00
Total Liabilities	$239,112.71

A Strong Institution.

Emphasis should be laid upon the fact that this statement shows that our capital, accumulated profits and reserve now amount to $239,112.71.

Our $250,000 receipts to March 1, 1906, were $127,555.87.

It will be seen from these figures that we have not had to resort to the courts to secure our collections; we do not own a dollar's worth of real estate and never have done so. We have shown the vigilance and conscientiousness in our dealings with borrowers are sufficient to hold and enforce our contracts.

The total expense of the administration of this business has been less than eight-tenths of 1 per cent; or, deducting fees received—the expense to investors has been only four-tenths of 1 per cent.

There is no means of ascertaining the exact benefit to Boise obtained through this association. We know that the total ownership of this entire city, excluding public buildings and old business houses, has been bought or built with the aid of this association.

As a general educator in economy, thrift and sound business methods it has no rival.

With such a splendid example before it the Twin Falls association should do wonders in this city where the opportunities are greater than they were in Boise when the association there was formed.

ATTEND STRICTLY TO BUSINESS

Newspapers Not to Be Confounded with Charitable Institutions.

Not a great many years ago many people seemed to regard a newspaper as a sort of a charitable institution, and some of the old-time newspapers of today apparently exist in the same line of thought. But it isn't. Really modern newspapers get away from that erroneous idea many moons ago, and with stay away from it, a newspaper of any standing, progress or influence that waives its right as a substantial business institution has no right to live, on charity or anything else. A live paper is a factor for public good and advancement and the up-lifting of every beneficent movement, but it pays its printers, its bills, buys its machinery and patronizes institutions the same as any other business enterprise, and that person is indeed mistaken who figures it is other than a business proposition along the most right, careful and most approved lines imaginable. It can be commercially cold blooded if the occasion requires. It and those existing on charity have small tenure on active life.—Idaho Falls Morning Post.

A young American lawyer was consulting in the jail with his unfortunate client, charged with stealing a stove.

"No, no," he said, soothingly, "I know, of course, you didn't really steal the stove. If I thought for a minute that you were guilty, I wouldn't defend you. The crimes may say what they like, but there are some conscientious men among us lawyers. For of course, the real difficulty lies in proving that you didn't steal the stove, but I'll manage it now that you have admitted me of your innocence. I'll take it all to me, and don't say a word. You can hand over ten dollars now, and pay me the rest."

"Ten dollars, boss?" repeated the accused man, in a hoarse voice. "Why don't you make it ten thousand dollars? I'd pay you just as easy. I ain't got no money."

"No money?" The lawyer looked indignant.

"Now, ner know were I kin git any other?"

The young lawyer seemed plunged in gloom. Suddenly he brightened.

"Well," he said, more cheerfully, "I'll try to help honest men in jail. I'll tell you what to do. I'll get you out of this scrape, and we'll call it square if you'll send the stove around to my office. I need one."—Tit-Bits.

"Mike" McCarty and Jacob Schmidt were fishing from a pier one day, and finally one of them bet the other $10 that he would catch the first fish.

The other took the bet, and the two kept on fishing earnestly until noon.

It was a warm day, and Schmidt, overcome by the heat, fell asleep into the water. This aroused McCarty, who also was dozing.

"If you're going to dive for them fish, get out of here!"

McCarty, who was struggling in the water, Chicago Chronicle.

He—"No, no, I'm not. It's according to the time you set the clock when you came in last night, and dinner will be ready in four hours."—Harper's Bazar.

WORK ON THE MINIDOKA DAM

The artificial channel through which the Snake river will flow around the government dam at Minidoka has been completed and is now in use. The channel is precisely the same as that built at Milner and accomplishes the same purpose. When the coffer dam was blown out everything worked nicely. Work upon the remaining portion of the dam will now be pushed to completion.

"You are from the west, I take it," said the lawyer as he dropped into a seat in the smoking car beside a man wearing a blue shirt and a big sombrero.

"Yes, sir; I am from Idaho," was the reply.

"Do they play much poker out there?"

"Well, not much."

"I thought poker was a western game."

"I believe it is, sir."

"And in some parts of the west they play for very high stakes, don't they?"

"I have heard they did. I have heard so."

"But you must play now and then, don't you?"

"Well, once in a while, but not for stakes. That is, I play a little penny ante game."

"You are not in luck or lack the nerve, maybe?"

"Oh, it's not that, sir. I have a better thing than poker. When I want money I hold up the stage or a bank. There's more cash in it and no hard feelings, you know."—Baltimore American.

BREVITIES

State Mine Inspector Bell is a guest at the Perrine.

F. H. Adams, editor of the Idaho Review, came over on Wednesday, got acquainted and left with a good impression.

The Junior Elworth League meets every Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in I. O. O. F. hall. Good programs are always the rule and everybody is cordially welcomed.

Miss Etta Waddell, daughter of Rev. D. Waddell of Atchison, Kan., is visiting her sisters, Mrs. Martin Foster, on the ranch, and Mrs. George Davis of Twin Falls.

Work has begun on the foundation of the viaduct over Rock creek at the foot of Shoshone avenue. The foundation will be completed by the time the superstructure arrives.

The interior of the new postoffice is complete, with the exception of the ceiling. It is possible that the office may be moved before April 1, if the ceiling arrives in time.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Ferry died on Thursday evening being born March 21. Mrs. Ferry was critically ill but is now reported to be out of danger. The heartfelt sympathy of a host of friends is extended to the bereaved parents.

J. M. Jayne, who took up a nice piece of land west of Twin Falls, has written to J. A. Carpenter of this city stating that a number of Yakima people are planning to come to Twin Falls. The recent storm at Yakima, said Mr. Jayne, was one of the worst ever experienced in that section.

The Land & Water company has ordered material for the construction of a farmers' meeting hall in Idaho. The building will be 24x30 feet and will be used for all public gatherings. The lumber is already on the way and the construction will be hurried as the building is urgently needed.

E. R. Hunt, the popular general agent of the Rio Grande, was in the city on Thursday with his tape line. He came to measure the growth of Twin Falls since his last visit but was unable to do so because the line was too short. He will return shortly and complete the job.

M. Moriawake, a Japanese laborer, was run over by a handcar loaded with rails at Murietta on Friday evening and his left leg was crushed in such a manner as to render amputation of the lower third necessary. He was brought to Twin Falls where Doctors Boyd and Pike performed the operation. The injured man was sent to the hospital at Pocatello.

George Bassett is preparing to cultivate 320 acres this year and will have one of the very best farms on the tract. Bassett is a farmer who has made his farm and cultivate on a large scale. He and McMaster & Smith deserve credit for demonstrating what can be done on the tract in the way of growing. They were careful and successful and their farms have been valuable object lessons.

The Klunna party given yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Robinson by her mother and sister, Mrs. Kennedy Packard and Mrs. Camp, was one of the most successful and enjoyable functions of the season. The house was beautifully decorated in Japanese style and the oriental features were carefully preserved. The feast was novel and the other features were very happily conceived.

The Lenten teas given by the Episcopal ladies are steadily growing in favor. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. McCollum entertained 25 ladies at her cozy home. Several gentlemen called during the afternoon, ostensibly to show their appreciation but really to get a good cup of tea. One of them confessed it was his first offense and it would not be his last. Others threaten to follow the good example.

Edward L. Wells, station director of the United States weather bureau in Boise, arrived in Twin Falls on Tuesday evening and left his home on Thursday morning after establishing an observation station at Buhl. Mr. Wells was piloted by Superintendent McPherson and was greatly astonished at the splendid appearance of the tract. On Wednesday evening Mr. Wells addressed the farmers' meeting at Kimberly on storms, chinooks and thermal winds. His talk was very interesting, though entirely impromptu, and was greatly appreciated.

The following officers were elected by Perrine lodge Robakaka: Noble grand, Mrs. Florence Hoxsey; vice grand, Mrs. Mary E. Hawk; recording secretary, Miss Britton; financial secretary, Mrs. Lillian M. Bonham; treasurer, Mrs. Rose T. Roberts; wardens, Mrs. Nellie Harvick; conductors, Mrs. Emma Stevens; R. S. of G. Mrs. May Murphy; L. S. of G. Mrs. Anna Sheldrick; R. S. of V. G. Mrs. Lillian Stoddard; L. S. of V. G. Mrs. C. W. Hawk; outside guard, G. B. Roberts; inside guard, C. D. Melzer; district deputy, Mrs. A. L. Beale.

A miscare, armed with a 22-caliber rifle, maliciously killed C. O. Morrell's pet cat a few days ago and another wretch tried to put Mr. Waters' dog in time to save his valued pet from the same fate. The men will do such things as beyond comprehension. Every Sunday a squad of reckless fellows bent on shooting everything that comes within range. Dogs and cats seem to be their specialty. A few doses of bird shot, well directed, appear to be the proper remedy for such conduct. The Rod and Gun club will assist the farmers in punishing offenders of this kind and the first dog shot caught will be prosecuted to the limit at the expense of the club.

Rev. John H. Schenck will preach at Kimberly on Sunday evening at 7:30.

The Owl club is settling the public library question. The Townsite company has promised a site and a committee will be appointed to open negotiations with Andrew Carnegie.

M. B. De Long has purchased the sawmill from the Hotel Perrine and is having it moved to his farm and used for firewood. Thus do the economic problems solve themselves.

A. T. Darby and family formerly of North Yakima, are located on Mr. Darby's farm near Twin Falls. Mr. Darby is making extensive improvements, and like many of his Yakima brethren, he will soon have a pretty place.

Services will be held at the old schoolhouse on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock by Rev. John H. Schenck, pastor of the Baptist church. "Love, the Principle of Obedience," a cordial invitation to attend is extended to all.

The bridge over the low line canal directly south of Twin Falls is completed and in use, also the low line bridge south of Perrine. Material is on the ground for the high line bridge south of the city and it will be put in as soon as possible.

General Manager Farris and Assistant General Manager Farris of the Land & Water company inspected the work on the canals at the west end and this morning the water was turned on. The delay had resulted from the cold weather but everything is now moving smoothly.

Superintendent McPherson has disposed of 1200 pounds of year books, bulletins and special works which he recently received from Senator Doherty. The publications were eagerly taken by the farmers, which shows that the latter know good things when they see them.

The Shoshone Falls Power company is stringing copper along the route to the falls. Bob McCollum tapped the water to show the effects of the new regular Fourth of July fireworks spectacle at night. The first evening the lights were turned on his friends were telephoning to Bob to find out if his house was on fire.

Mrs. S. C. Sexton has arrived from Washington and Mr. Sexton is at the hotel. They are here to show the effects of good home cooking. Mr. Sexton has received three registered Jersey cows from Sumas and will keep them on his farm near the city. He is going in strong for fruits and shrubbery, and his farm will shortly be worth a long trip to see.

A local lodge of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen will shortly be formed in Twin Falls. There are a large number of members of the order on the tract and there, together with those who desire to join, are requested to communicate with Mrs. F. D. Raymond, Twin Falls. A meeting will be held at which place for the organization will be perfected.

The trap for the Twin Falls Rod & Gun club has arrived and is located near the edge of the canyon south of the depot, is almost completed. The trap should be in place in a few days and the work will soon be flying. The club is also figuring on a range at Shoshone falls, and if all goes well the most picturesque range in the country will be fitted up there.

John D. Spencer of Salt Lake City will be the guest of the Owl club at a social hour at Mrs. W. C. Spencer's on Wednesday, March 28. Mr. Spencer is a Shakespearean scholar and an entertainer of wide repute. Being engrossed in the study of the classics, he has been unable to appear in public but he consented to spend an evening with the "Owls" because of his fondness for Twin Falls, which he acquired during several pleasant visits.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Newman and Paul, junior, have returned from the trip. Mr. Newman was stricken with the wealthy fever in Tacoma and inadvertently tipped a street car conductor with a $5 bill. Aside from this trifling annoyance he had a pleasant trip. Mrs. Newman and Paul, junior, had a delightful outing, despite the unpleasant weather. The Newmans are guests at the Perrine where Paul, junior, is the idol of the ladies.

Mrs. Annie M. Irwin has arrived from Blue Island, Ill., and joined her son W. Irwin, on the latter's farm on Sucker Flat. Al was a bright smile of anticipation for several days before his mother's arrival and, according to a report brought in by Jack Voorhees, he had all the dishes washed and everything in ship-shape at the farm, even to the grooming of the Bullrocks. Mr. Irwin met his mother at Minidoka. Mrs. Irwin also has a fine quarter section adjoining that of her son.

The St. Patrick's hall was by far the most enjoyable and successful of the season. Splendidly managed from beginning to end, it proved a source of delight to a crowd which packed the hall to the walls. The music was especially good, the floor management excellent and the other appointments perfect in every detail. Every body brought home a universal verdict was that a most delightful dance under more auspicious circumstances was impossible. The management deserves hearty congratulations for their good work.

The first annual convention of the Cassia County school association, which was held in Twin Falls last Thursday and Friday, was well attended and aroused great interest in the public work. Mr. J. B. Bennett, president, and Rev. W. C. Meritt, international field worker, were greatly pleased with the meeting and expressed their unqualified approval of the character of the work in this city and county. The papers were unusually interesting and helpful and the organization was greatly strengthened by the result of the meeting. The program, as already published, was carried out in detail.

CALIFORNIANS GREAT VENDORS OF HOT AIR.

Are Adapt at the Pleasing Pastime of Luring Tourists into the Golden State and Separating Them From Their Money.

That the Montana newspaper men who journeyed to Los Angeles, Cal., as the guests of Senator W. A. Clark had a good time goes without saying. Senator Clark wanted the people of his state to know something about his great railroad which he caused to be built across Death valley, and his invitation to the press association carried nothing further than an opportunity of having a free ride over the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad. The successful ending of that vast undertaking is a thing to be proud of, and Montanians, after enjoying a ride over the system, can appreciate Senator Clark's feelings regarding it. To the citizens of the treasure state it has more than a passing interest, because it was conceived and built by one of our honored and respected citizens.

That the Montana newspaper men saw and heard much on this trip which is of great value and interest to them is also of interest to their constituents. One thing which impressed the editor of the Madrasian more than anything else is the boasting qualities of the residents of California. Every man, woman and child is thoroughly imbued with the idea that there is no town, city or state equal to theirs. Every backslider, streetcar motorman, the fruit vendors, the merchants, the hotel and lodging house keepers and the real estate agents all preach the glories of that beautiful and most favored country. Knockers do not live in that balmy, cheerful atmosphere, how much better it would be for Montana if every citizen became a booster. We have a good city, a county of great resources, and a state equalled by none in mineral wealth; thousands of acres of the best agricultural and grazing lands, a beautiful climate and beautiful scenery.

Every citizen should familiarize himself with the many advantages and opportunities offered by our state, and after having done so let the light shine and talk it. If business happens to be dull, as it is bound to be at certain seasons of the year, say that it is good. Be optimistic instead of pessimistic, and business will be increased in all lines. The population of Los Angeles has doubled in the last 10 years. It is now a city of 260,000 souls. How was this wonderful feat accomplished? With climate as its resource and the "tourist" as its revenue producer, every effort is made to interest the visitors in investments and in business and industrial enterprises. Californians leave no stone unturned to interest the tourist, with the result that business in all lines is booming. San Diego has gained 6000 in five years; Pasadena has doubled in that time; it is the history of San Bernardino, Riverside, Long Beach, Santa Monica and dozens of other places that might be mentioned. With all of our untold wealth and boundless resources Montana has not increased in population as it should have done during the last decade. Every year from ten to twenty-seven thousand people visit Yellowstone park. They see this wonderful pleasure ground and pass immediately on ward east or west. We let them go. We never yet have made any great effort to have them look around and examine our fertile valleys, mines or business opportunities. Let Montanians profit by the example of the Californians and immediately a change will be noticed in all lines of industry and business enterprises.

Montanians have never yet considered its delightful climate, picturesque scenery, its lakes and rivers, as an asset or resource. But that these things can be made a source of income to our people was learned by the Montana newspaper men on their trip to California.

In Salt Lake they were told by Fisher Harris, secretary of the Commercial club, that the easiest money that any state or city can acquire is the tourist money. It comes steadily and easily to the community which seeks it. Every day, as we gave up our hard earned money to hotels, cafes, the street cars, etc., we appreciated the force of Mr. Harris' words. There is not a particle of sentiment about the tourist business of California. Hundreds of millions of dollars are invested in enterprises that depend entirely upon the tourist for support. Hundreds of miles of electric railways running in every direction from Los Angeles depend upon the sight-seeing tourist, also boat lines and island resorts, and in Los Angeles alone there is more money invested in hotels than in any other line of business excepting the electric railways. There are a half dozen hotels in southern California that cost nearly a million and a half dollars each, and a dozen or more that can accommodate 800 to 1000 guests, and they are all filled at this season of the year. Thus the words of Mr. Harris spoken at Salt Lake to the Montana Press association were verified by sight on observation in California. Montana can use the same methods that are applied in California and reap the same golden harvest. It is seen at a glance that the tourists are building up that state by the investment of millions, and many of them return to make it their permanent home. If the same methods are pursued by our people the population of Montana will double in five years, and many a schoolhouse will be built on the plains, and all will share in the increased prosperity. Virginia City, Montana, Madrasian.

LIFE'S WORK OF NOBLE WOMAN

Remarkable Achievements of the Late Susan B. Anthony.

Miss Susan B. Anthony, whose death occurred the other day, was one of the most noble figures of her generation. Born in Adams, Mass., in 1820, she was educated at the Southwestern Seminary in Andover, Mass. Her early school life was spent in her father's school and completed in a Quaker boarding school in West Philadelphia. She taught school from her 15th to her 20th year, and in 1842 helped organize the first state temperance society, and became active in anti-slavery and woman's suffrage work. During the war she was prominent in the National Loyal League, and at the close of the war devoted herself entirely to the woman's suffrage movement. She was arrested and tried for sedition under the fourteenth amendment in 1872, and participated in a number of state campaigns for constitutional amendments granting suffrage to women. Her last public appearance was at the National Woman's Suffrage convention in Baltimore a few weeks ago.

Although Miss Anthony's life work was devoted to securing suffrage for her sex, it accomplished more, probably in other directions than in the suffrage cause. Her life was a life of sacrifice, and she was not content to persistently and ably was instrumental in extending the rights of women in this country immeasurably. This has been true particularly in the liberalization of the laws affecting a wife's right to hold property in her own name, to have the care of children exclusively under certain conditions, and to have a voice in the management of public affairs by limited suffrage.

Although she had lived to see great progress made in her life work, Miss Anthony expressed regret just before she died because she had done so little. The fact is, she had achieved marvelous things in the face of insurmountable obstacles. She had to overcome the accumulated prejudices of centuries; she had to combat the natural opposition of sex solitism in man; she fought the traditions of civil and religious conservatism, and more than all, she had to struggle with the unwillingness of her own sex to approve of her efforts. In spite of these difficulties, women in America have won the right to unlimited suffrage in four states—Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado. In 18 states they vote on school questions; and in Kansas they vote in school and municipal elections. Montana and Iowa permit women to vote on the issuance of municipal bonds. New York permits women who own property and possess the other qualifications of a voter to hold on property to raise money by tax or assessment. Louisiana has given women the right to vote on questions of public expenditure.

It will be noted that the only states in the Union giving women an unqualified right of suffrage are in the group of four—Utah, Idaho, Wyoming and Colorado—all—western states. Montana states they call them in the east, and to Wyoming belongs the distinction of being the first of American commonwealths to put men and women on the same plane so far as voting power is concerned.

Miss Anthony's influence was attributable largely to her sincerity, earnestness and singleness of purpose. Every purpose was centered in the one object: almost every moment of her waking hours was devoted to the one thing. Sarcasm, ridicule, abuse, the derisives of orators and jests of humorists alike failed to disturb her serene smile or divert her from the ably toward which all her energies were bent. She was a great woman, in herself the best reputation of the ability to encourage her causes and pursue logically to its conclusion an abstract problem involving numerous complicated factors.—Salt Lake Herald.

IRRIGATION CAPITAL COMES FROM CHICAGO

Windy City is Now Willing to Stand Sponsor for Western Enterprises—Capitalists Are Fighting Shy of Promoters and Are Not Ready to Brand Any Enterprise Which Is Not Perfectly Legitimate—New York and Boston Are Trailing in the Wake of Chicago.

In the gigantic movement under way for the reclamation of the arid regions of the west—the breathing of life into a new country—Chicago looms up as the foster mother of irrigation. The west is looking, and has looked, for the birth of private-irrigation enterprises, to Chicago for its money. Those close to the interests of the west say that in the last two years millions of dollars secured in Chicago have allowed private and independent companies to profit by the experience of the government in reclamation work and become players in the game of converting dry, virgin, lands-bearing desert into fertile farm lands, well watered and bearing abundant crops. Chicago financiers more than those of any other city are financing the irrigation enterprises. Both private companies and municipalities look upon this city as the great money reservoir which shall make the desert bloom. What Pittsburgh was to the development of the oil fields, what Boston was to copper and what New York was to the sugar and fruit transportation, Chicago has become to irrigation enterprises. Not an irrigation scheme is launched in the west until Chicago financiers have received the money side of it. Boston and New York handle some of the irrigation bonds, but financiers there know the state of affairs. This venture in some reputable Chicago house, and that Chicago money is the money behind the west. Only after the Chicago enterprises have received the approval of some reputable Chicago house will an eastern financier touch the western securities.

Millions of acres in western land have been watered and settled with the money furnished from this city. The benefit to western states has been almost incalculable. They have become richer by several million dollars. By one venture alone, one of the first financed by Chicago, eight or ten millions were added to the property value of the state of Idaho. This venture was the reclamation of 120,000 acres of sagebrush land into one of the most fertile portions of the west, in the Twin Falls region.

Chicago furnished $500,000 for this enterprise. Six to eight thousand people rushed into the region and became landowners. In Casaca county, three towns sprang up like magic. One of these, Twin Falls, with a population of 2000. A branch of the Oregon Short Line was constructed, tapping a region of 70,000 acres. The accomplishment of the settlers surprised even themselves. It was only 100 days from the time the sagebrush disappeared until the fields were green. This venture was many other such instances that are counted throughout the west. On the other hand, however, many failures have been experienced. These, almost without exception, were fostered by "wildcat" promoters who had no fitness whatever for the development of such land, and who were not even good faith. It is against the prejudice and have resulted from these "fake enterprises," that promoters of legitimate schemes have been "blinded," however, are gradually availing themselves of the safeguards which some of the banks, banks and one large Chicago stamp on it, an irrigation project is taken to be the best there is. Several Chicago concerns have made a specialty of the financial and engineering enterprises and have trained capable field lieutenants who make surveys and go into titles and grants. These lieutenants, who are available for promotion they have attained and are zealously guarding the city's reputation, lest unscrupulous promoters should take the city to be the poison given to false schemes.

Bankers and capitalists of other cities now fully realize that Chicago is virtually controlling the western money situation so far as the big land enterprises are concerned. Tens of millions of dollars will go from this city into the great irrigable section of the country, and the most conservative bankers declare that this new outlet for Chicago energy and Chicago capital will do more than anything else to raise the city to a still higher financial position.—Chicago Daily Journal.

A great deal of truth is contained in this story but the reference to "fake enterprises" might be construed to apply to Idaho and is misleading in that particular. Besides the Twin Falls project there are many private enterprises in Idaho, all of which are perfectly legitimate and meritorious. The American Falls, Canyon canal, Braneau and other projects, are all as sound as a dollar. Chief Engineer Newell of the government reclamation service to the contrary notwithstanding. With all the talk about "fake irrigation enterprises" not a single case has been cited. If there are any "wildcat enterprises" in this state they are being exploited in the east and nothing is known of them in Idaho. It is strange that none of them have been exposed. An investor who puts money into an enterprise of any kind without first investigating its merit runs a risk. It is an easy matter to ascertain the stability of irrigation projects in Idaho. The state land department is always in position to give the desired information, in fact is glad to do so. It might be well for the promoters of private irrigation enterprises in this state to form an organization for protection against the wicked schemers, whoever they are. Meanwhile Chicago need not be a bit bashful or chary about furnishing the capital. We can take care of it and insure good returns.

NEW POINTS IN SCHODDE CASE

Novel Features in the Celebrated Twin Falls Action.

A dispatch from Boise says that the famous case of Henry Schodde against the Twin Falls Land & Water Co. was argued the other day in the supreme court. The case is an interesting one. Schodde owns a placer mining claim and about 400 acres of agricultural land near Starbuck Ferry. He had current wheels set in the Snake river which raised 1200 inches of water—enough for the land and placer claim—a distance of 20 feet. The current wheels, it should be understood, are wheels that are set out into the river with cups attached to them. The current turns the wheels and raises the water to a flume or flumes through which it runs to points at which it is needed.

The Twin Falls company built a dam nine miles below Schodde's place. The effect of the dam was to stop the current, so that Schodde's wheels would not turn. Consequently he was deprived of water for his ranch and placer. According to the papers in the case, the dam backed the water up to a height of 40 feet at the point of construction, this height gradually growing less until, at the Schodde farm the river is at about its normal height, though devoid, as has been said, of current.

Schodde at once filed suit in the federal court—the Twin Falls company is incorporated under the laws of Utah—for $55,000, claiming that amount as the value of his property. The defense does not deny that Schodde has been injured, but sets up the claim that the greatest pool to the greatest number he is not entitled to recover. The company will, as a result of its enterprise, irrigate and bring under cultivation approximately 600,000 acres of land.

It is set forth that, in order to comply with Schodde's demand for a declaration of the current, it will be necessary for the company to tear out its dam entirely. This because the entire flow of the Snake river is necessary to turn the Schodde wheels. It is pointed out that it is unappreciable and unjust to let one man with a single farm of only 300 acres claim and control an entire river, when hundreds of thousands of acres of land below him can be made tillable through the destruction of the current.

And if Schodde's claim is held to be sound, then the settlers below the dam will have a similar ground for suits against the company and there would be no end of expensive litigation. In fact, the company would have to buy out every Snake river water right between the Shoshone and the junction of the Snake with the Columbia, a distance approximately of 150 miles.

The point is recorded by Judge Beatty and others who are familiar with the litigation as a most interesting one. The judge has said that he will give the attorneys on both sides plenty of time in which to consult authorities and the briefs. It is realized that practically new ground is being ventured upon, and the court is anxious to have all possible light shed on the situation.

The case will, it is announced, be taken to the United States circuit court of appeals, and thence to the supreme court of the nation, no matter how it may be decided in the court of original jurisdiction, as all parties are extremely desirous of having the vexed and vexing question authoritatively settled.

STANDARD OIL KING AT HOME

Is Said to Be Suffering from Acute Melancholia.

John D. Rockefeller, for four months a fugitive from process servers, has been located in his home at Lakewood, N. J.—He was in conference with his personal counsel, S. C. T. Dodd, former general counsel for the Standard Oil company.

It is understood the conference referred to the hearing in the suits brought against the Standard Oil company by the state of Missouri, which will be resumed in five days. Mr. Rockefeller is practically a prisoner in his home. The estate is patrolled night and day by armed guards who have orders to shoot any one found on the grounds after dark.

Searchlights mounted on a tower sweep the place all night. One reason assigned for such extraordinary precautions is that the richest man in the world is in constant dread of kidnappers; he fears he will be taken captive for ransom. Mr. Rockefeller has resigned his office as trustee in the Fifth Avenue Baptist church. The reason given is poor health.

It is stated in Cleveland that Mr. Rockefeller is suffering with a recurrence of acute melancholia, which occurred for the first time 10 years ago.

At that time he imagined himself poor and labored under the hallucination that he was hounded by importunate creditors. He degraded himself and clothing in order to economize and save money. He used to insist that less coal be used and that the water be turned off and tubs be placed under the eaves in order to cut his expenses.

Physicians are in attendance at Lakewood and a strong effort is being made to bring the great magnate back to his right mind.

FARMERS' MOVEMENT IN UTAH

Driven to Protect Themselves, They Are Now Organizing.

That there is an awakening among the farmers in Utah is shown by the following communication to the Salt Lake Tribune:

Editor Tribune—It is very strange but true that every movement for the elevation of the oppressed and worthy laborer is frowned upon. Organized capital and trusts, with all the small children of the state, have set out to whittle from but the farmer and a few unorganized laborers; these constitute a huge, harmless bullock from which the children of the state are fed.

The middle men to whom the producers of the soil have looked for relief have shall we say—rewarded them with a daily and instead of creating ways and means to save themselves and those below from oppression, have willfully patterned after their oppressors, and have allowed the class below them, and so on down the line to the hickman who aims the living for hunting the dead; and while all are struggling and groaning, and their hands in holy horror, hopelessly gazing upon the increasing power of the chief farmers, many are so do—shrunk from a daily and instead of creating ways and means to save themselves and those below from oppression, have willfully patterned after their oppressors, and have allowed the class below them, and so on down the line to the hickman who aims the living for hunting the dead; life complete."

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Coffin was presented with a beautiful gold chain and charm, the gift of the loyal men who had worked under his guidance on the Twin Falls canal system. For the first time in his life Mark was helpless. His lips trembled and his eyes filled but the lump which welled up in his throat would not down and his utterance failed. "It's all right, Mark; we know what you would like to say, and we will let it go at that," said one of the boys. "Our hearts are with you and Mrs. Coffin all ways, you know that, and we know that you will never forget the old Twin Falls crew."

Mark is not sure yet just how he got through the ordeal, happy though it was. In tones broken with emotion he thanked the boys and assured them of his continued good will even though the equator was to separate them for two years at least.

Mr. and Mrs. Coffin are now in Idaho Falls visiting with Mrs. Coffin's father, C. L. Pelot. They will go to Longmont, Colorado, tomorrow to say good-bye to relatives. On April 5 they will sail on the steamship Tennessee from New York for Brazil, where Mr. Coffin will join M. M. Murtough as superintendent of construction of the gigantic dam which the Sao Paulo Tramway, Light & Power company is building there.

J. F. Tenda, an expert carpenter and derrick man, and C. W. Levisse, the well known engineer, will accompany Mr. Coffin to Brazil, having been specially selected for the difficult work in hand there.

SPLENDID BUSINESS BUILDING

To Be Erected by Pioneer Storage & Commission Co.

The Pioneer Storage and Commission company has purchased two lots on Main street, opposite the McCornick bank, and is hastening preparations for the erection of a two or three story concrete block building of ample dimensions. Behind this purchase is a story which well illustrates the remarkable growth of Twin Falls. Only a short time ago the firm was organized as "Craven, Seebeck & Smith." A warehouse lot was purchased and the company began to ship in hay, grain, seeds, wire, etc. The big warehouse was filled in a twinkling, likewise an auxiliary warehouse on the adjoining lot which was purchased later. The walls of the second warehouse soon began to bulge, notwithstanding the constant stream of teams which carried away produce by the carload. Finding that business was growing too fast, the company reorganized as the Pioneer Storage & Commission company and added two more warehouse lots to its holdings. Another huge warehouse went up opposite the first one built and this is already crowded. Having the agency for Western Moline farm implements, Deering harvesting machinery, Schoutler wagons and other implements, the company found itself stumped for display room. The purchase of the Main street lots followed. Until the new building is completed the company will occupy the lower floor of the Craven building, adjoining the Hotel Perrine. When settled in its own premises the company

COME ONE, COME ALL
Look them over on your
Way to and from Buhl
Saturday, April 14, '06Clear Title to Land Guaranteed.
An Abstract with Each Lot. ::

FILER has more fertile acres tributary to its boundaries than any other town on the Twin Falls tract. It is located half way between Twin Falls and Buhl, on the direct road, and is to be the only railroad station between these points. The town stands square with the world, streets and alleys running due north and south, east and west. Midway avenue, the main thoroughfare, is 100 feet wide, all other streets 80 feet, and alleys 20 feet.

It will be the shipping point for a radius of five or six miles; the land is peculiarly adapted for the location of a townsite, the slope being perfect toward the northeast; water and sewage systems can be installed at less expense than at any other town in Idaho; telephone connections with all parts of the world will be completed within six weeks.

LOTS will be sold one-third down at time and place of sale, balance in four annual payments, at 6 per cent interest. The prices range from $50 for choice residence lots (50x125 feet) to $350 for the very best corner business lots (25x125 feet). No auction, no by-bidders to push up flimsy values upon the unsuspecting public.

VERY ONE has the same chance; now is the time to get a home at the right price; here is the opportunity and the opening you have been waiting for to establish that business. FILER already has a postoffice, hotel, hardware and grocery stores, schoolhouse, lumber yards, blacksmith shop, barber shop, etc., but its present needs demand a lot more.

REMEMBER the date, SATURDAY, APRIL 14, 1906. "WATCH FILER GROW" is not enough. Get anywhere in the neighborhood and you can "FEEL-IT-GROW." Why, it's all about you. Ask any one in the vicinity, and catch the fever. Get in on the ground floor. Applications for all lots must be made to the will carry a stock of farm machinery of all kinds, electric motors, devices and fixtures, bicycles, automobiles, sewing machines, etc. It will have the most pretentious establishment of the kind in Idaho. As an illustration of the volume of business, the company received yesterday and today a carload of Moline implements, a carload of Rose of Idaho flour, a carload of mill stuff, including rolled barley, a carload of blue stem wheat and a carload of Swedish oats, a prolific and heavy variety which has thrived well in Idaho. No wonder the company needs room, though it is selling the goods as fast as they are received.
