TWIN FALLS NOW HAS GOOD FIRE PROTECTION

Building and Two Lots Donated to City by Townsite Company for Fire Station—New Apparatus Has Been Tested and Found Efficient—Village Trustees Advertising for Bids on Sewer System, Which Will Mean a Big Payroll for Local Labor and Benefit to Merchants.

At Wednesday night's meeting of the city council, the townsite company donated a building and two lots to the city for a fire station. The building is a fine structure and is well adapted for the purpose of a station. The lots are also well situated. The townsite company has also donated a new fire apparatus, which has been tested and found to be efficient. The village trustees are now advertising for bids on a sewer system, which will mean a big payroll for local labor and a benefit to merchants.

The board also purchased the building on these lots for a fire station and the same is being remodeled so as to serve the purpose of a station. The hose carts will be kept in the front on Tenth avenue and the remaining portion of the building will be fitted up for sleeping apartments for the hose team. Everything will be done to equip the town with an efficient fire protection as is possible. Tenth avenue will be graded and sprinkled so that an easy run can be made to Main street. Some of the boys made a trial run on Main street on Monday evening and did very well for a preliminary.

The board also made arrangements for the publication of a call for bids to construct the main sewer, and as soon as bids have been received work will be commenced. The lateral sewer district will be operated under the committee provided by statute for sub districts. The contracts for internal will be let by this sewer committee and supervision of the work will also be under the committee.

KIMBERLY PEOPLE PROGRESSIVE

New School Completed and Business Houses Making Improvements.

KIMBERLY, Oct. 18.—Both sides of the political question have been discussed here recently. Judge Ogden of Salt Lake City, spoke in the Democratic interest at the schoolhouse on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday evening the people were addressed by Hon. W. S. Moody of Boise, who put forth a very good argument showing why a Republican ticket should be elected.

The entire building of the Mercantile Co. is being altered, which will greatly improve its appearance as well as its durability.

Monday afternoon, while helping pile grain in the warehouse, Elmer Cunningham met with an accident which laid him up in bed for a few days. He was in the act of fastening the lugs on a sack to be hoisted when the whole pile near which he was standing fell on him. It took considerable work by others present to extricate him from below the pile of sacks. His only injury consisted of a badly sprained knee. At present he is able to be about on crutches.

Merritt Eignor, our itinerant, has made several trips to Rock Creek this week. The roads in that direction, which were becoming quite dusty, were somewhat improved by the recent shower.

The new schoolhouse is now completed so that it can be used. All of the smaller desks have been moved from the old building, thus making ample room for all classes. Considerable new furniture had to be purchased and a very important part of it, the teacher's desks, have not arrived yet.

John Olsson and Clyde Danken left on Monday for Meachem, Oregon, where they expect to work all winter. They promised faithfully that they would return in time to begin practice with the baseball team in the spring.

Alfred McMillan went to Rupert on Friday to bring down some stock that has been working on the canal there.

J. N. Stratton, who has lived on

Frank Prothero's place the past year, is preparing to move his family into a tent he has erected just north of the warehouse.

A. W. Farquy, who rented his place here about two months ago and left for Oregon, has returned. After being rained on for about two weeks straight he decided that Idaho climate was not so bad after all. He is as yet undecided whether to remain here for the winter or return to Portland, where he is in a family.

M. F. Williams, who was our agent here for some time, was transferred last week to Meridian, Idaho. His place was taken by G. H. Truitt, who comes here from Tonsil, Wyoming.

E. W. Tilley of the Supply company is still busy improving their place of business.

H. T. West left on Monday for Oak-

W. S. Starr threshed his grain this week. It is generally conceded that he has one of the finest crops in the vicinity but exact figures are not at hand.

Assurance has been given by the county commissioners that the road leading from here directly north to the Twin Falls will be opened. This will be a great convenience to all wishing to visit these falls and for those living in that neighborhood.

Lumber has already been hauled for a bridge across the Perrine coulee on the road leading due south from here. There is already a bridge across the canal on that line so that it will save numerous people a long drive.

Grain continues to pour into the warehouse so that the new addition will be needed before it is completed. The Western Lumber Co. are unloading another car of lumber today.

Colonel Hamer enthuses voters

SPOKE TO LARGE AUDIENCE ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

Republican Principles Ably Expounded by Notable Orator—Received Encouraging Marks of Approval by Twin Falls Republicans.

Colonel Thomas R. Hamer of St. Anthony spoke at the Ring theater on Wednesday evening. The audience was the largest of any yet gathered during the campaign. The ladies of Twin Falls were out in force and appeared to take great interest in the proceedings. Excellent music was furnished by the Twin Falls band.

The speaker was accompanied to the platform by several prominent Republicans, and was introduced to his audience by Dr. T. O. Boyd. The colonel was in splendid voice and commanded the rapid attention of his auditors from the close of his remarks. He reviewed at length the record of Theodore Roosevelt and the national administration, and spoke in glowing terms of the present Republican state administration. He stated that the Democratic party in Idaho was composed of Senator Dubois, who, for the sole purpose of sending Senator Dubois back to the senate, had attempted to conjure up a fallacious and false issue.

On around the corner we find the Canyon county exhibit, which is practically the Canyon county fair, as far as products of the farm are concerned. Across from this is the Twin Falls exhibit. While the samples shown are not so bulky, yet there is a greater variety and they are cleaner. In the center is a huge pumpkin raised in Twin Falls, which is nearly twice the size of anything of its kind in the building. The grains and grasses show up beautifully, while the fruits are not so extensive but are equal to the best. The exhibits are arranged very nicely and attract a good deal of attention.

Further on is the Ada county exhibit, which exhibits in the production of fruit. Some of the finest peaches that can be grown on earth are shown here.

The dairy interests are very small as far as butter and cheese are concerned.

The exhibit of canned goods and kitchen goods was not nearly so good as in former years. While the ladies department covering the fine arts is limited as to what it was the first year of the fair, ten years ago, some very creditable specimens are exhibited.

The chicken exhibit is large and good. Something like 50 different va-

STATE FAIR RECORD BREAKER

Exhibits Numerous and of Superior Quality.

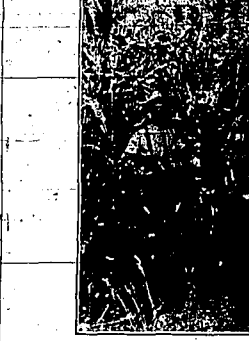

Superintendent McPherson sends us his impressions on the Boise state fair. The remarks of Mr. McPherson will no doubt be read with great interest, especially as he refers to the benefits to be attained by farmers in attending such exhibitions. Mr. McPherson says:

The state fair at Boise this year eclipses any of former years. The exhibits in the different departments, with a few exceptions, are very creditable to the state of Idaho.

In the agricultural building, coming in from its eastern entrance, we see on the left the mining exhibits and exhibits made by pioneers. Some new and curious rollers are shown from the early days of Idaho, while the mining exhibit is simply immense. Although the sheep department is very limited and not as good as of former years, while the hogs are as fine as could be seen in any country. The cattle are better than any of former years. The most prominent animals shown here were the Shorthorn and Aberdeen Angus Holsteins and Jerseys, the Aberdeen Angus being more numerous than any other. Some very beautiful specimens of the Shorthorn of the beef type are exhibited and some splendid individuals of the Holstein breed.

In the horse department are a great many very fine specimens of different breeds ranging from the beautiful and symmetrical trotters to the ponderous Percherons and Clydesdales. The competition is very keen in this department, taxing the utmost resources of the judges to distinguish between the different entries.

The races they tell me, are very good but not being a race horse man, am not competent to judge. The exhibition made by the cavalrymen and soldiers was very interesting and instructive, while the man that sings "to beat the band" would certainly beat an ordinary band as he has a voice like a foghorn and lungs beyond comparison.

The usual number of side shows and other attractions are in evidence, the crowds good natured and of good nature. Some of the things that are brought to notice is the lack of interest shown by the farmers in the different departments connected with agriculture. When the judges are judging the farm animals, comparatively few farmers congregate to learn or admire the animals under consideration and while the large number of beautiful blooded horses were in the ring there were not 60 men who were interested in looking at them or studying their points of superiority. They will enter the front gate and rush madly through the agricultural building and other interesting things to the racetrack where they but their few dollars on the uncertain results of racing horses. It is not to be wondered at that the farmers are looked down upon by the average business men, as they are to blame for it themselves. Instead of racing around aimlessly, if they would learn to judge farm animals, see their better points, it would be money in their pockets and a greater satisfaction than they can get from their aimless wanderings.

NEST EGG LEFT FOR FAIR NEXT AUTUMN

Association Has a Handsome Surplus Which Will Be Put Out at Interest Until Needed—First Case on Record in State Where a Fair Has Paid Expenses—Reports of Officers Will Be Acted Upon at Next Meeting of Farmers' Federation.

The Federation of Farmers' associations will have a nice little nest egg as a nucleus for next year's fair. This surplus will be put out at interest until it is needed. This is the first instance on record in Idaho where a county or state fair has paid expenses. It is all the more remarkable because an admission fee was charged nor was any revenue received for concessions. The business men of Twin Falls deserve the credit for providing the funds and the farmers are deserving of the highest praise for their efforts to make the fair a success.

There was no quorum at last Saturday's meeting, consequently no action could be taken on the reports of the officers. The reports will be taken up at the next meeting of the federation.

Assistant Secretary's Report

The report of the assistant secretary is as follows:

Federation of Farmers' Associations, Twin Falls, Idaho.

I herewith submit a report of the expenditures in connection with the Twin Falls fair, giving the items, check number and so far as possible each item either for material or for labor. Itemized bills will be found planned to the checks.

With this statement I also turn over the checks, check stubs, receipted bills and vouchers of the federation. Doubtless some bills will be received, which will still show up, although every effort has been made to close the matter by October 1. Both by the publication of notices and by personal interviews, all those having accounts or bills against the fair have been urged to present same prior to that date.

Mr. Carl O. Melges, chairman of the soliciting committee, will present a report of the sums collected. To this report will be added the money which will be collected for material used in the fair, which has been sold; also $10 premium which Mr. P. H. Smith wished to turn in to the fair fund as a further donation.

Payments will also have to be made for special premiums which cannot be awarded until the competitors have threshed or harvested their crops. As soon as possible the that report will be submitted as an addendum to this report. Respectfully submitted,

G. B. SPRAGUE.

Assistant Secretary.

The Studebaker Wagon stands for the quality that makes wagons desirable.
Light-running and easy on the team, durable because the lumber is seasoned right before being finished. Made to stand up under heavy loads.

THE STUDEBAKER WAGON

is built from first-class material down to the minutest detail. The slow-growing, fine-grained, tough-fibered black birch from the rocky hills of New England is used in the hubs, select white oak is made into spokes and fellows and choice second growth, butt cut hickory is used for the axle.
Every other part as carefully selected. The axles, tough and hard, are forced into place on the axles under 100 tons pressure. Studebaker alone shoulder spokes are driven into the hub under the same tremendous pressure. Best and toughest iron and steel strongly reinforces every part where needed. The Studebaker is

OVER IRRIGATION VERY DANGEROUS

WATER SHOULD BE ECONOMICAL-LY UTILIZED.

Excessive Use Waterlogs Soil, Brings Up Alkali and Creates Disease—Has Destroyed Many Valuable Farms in the Irrigated West.

The following paper on "The Value of a High Duty of Water and the Means of Obtaining It" was read at the National Irrigation congress in Boise by Samuel Forster, engineer in charge of the Pacific district irrigation and drainage investigations. Professor Forster is one of the leading irrigation authorities in the country and his words carry great weight. His advice regarding the duty of water should prove very valuable to the Twin Falls farmers. His paper follows:

There are now used on the irrigated portions of the United States about five million miners' inches of water annually. The cost of this for each miner's inch varies all the way from 50 cents to $150, and would average in the neighborhood of $500 per miner's inch. This represents a yearly expenditure of $25,000,000 for water to irrigate land.

Assuming that the area irrigated is 10,000,000 acres and that the average cost of applying water to each irrigated acre is $250 per acre, the yearly expenditure for this purpose on all the land irrigated would aggregate an additional $2,500,000.

Thus it appears that the farmers of the irrigated districts of America are expending annually about $50,000,000 for water and for the labor and equipment necessary supplying it to cultivated crops. The sole purpose of spending so vast a sum each year is to produce food stuffs for the subsistence of man and the domestic animals under his care. It is, however, no exaggeration to state that, in the accomplishment of this purpose fully 70 per cent of the money and labor spent in securing and applying water is wasted.

We believe this fact has been fully demonstrated that for every 100 miners' inches stored in natural streams and reservoirs, less than 30 miners' inches are utilized by cultivated plants in a beneficial way. This means that out of an expenditure of $50,000,000 a year less than $15,000,000 is put to a beneficial use. How to save a part of the $35,000,000 worth of water which is now wasted is one of the problems connected with this subject of irrigation. If you were to ask me if it were possible to save all of the water which is now wasted and all of the money now used in furnishing and applying it, I would answer—No. It is, however, possible and entirely within the province of feasibility and profitable investment to save a large part of this waste.

Reasons for Increasing the Duty.
Many reasons might be advanced in favor of a more economical use of irrigation water. To begin with, there is the question of cost. If it be a fact that nearly three-fourths of the water taken from streams for irrigation purposes is wasted, then a saving of some kind of this loss would represent an immense gain.

It is likewise true that water is every year becoming more difficult to secure and of higher value. The rapid growth of western cities has multiplied the demand for water for municipal purposes, the development of water privileges for electric transmission lines has utilized the streams for mechanical purposes and the extension of the irrigated area has made increased drafts on all sources of water supply.

Another reason for insisting upon a higher duty of water in irrigation at the present time is that customs soon crystallize into law. Men who appropriate and use water in a slovenly manner for a number of years will lay claim not only to that portion which they use, but to that larger portion which they waste.

Furthermore, the prosperity and material greatness of western America is founded upon the water supply, and every gallon that is wasted detracts that much from the possibilities of this region. The state of Montana may serve to illustrate what I mean.
Montana occupies the crest of the continent, and, compared with other arid states, is well watered. Its total area of 92,000 acres contains some of the finest agricultural lands on this continent. These arable lands would probably exceed 15,000,000 acres in extent, and might reach 20,000,000 acres.
Yet the total area that is ever likely to be irrigated from streams, fencervoles and wells will not exceed, we believe, 6,000,000 acres. On account of the limitations of the water supply, the short period of vegetable growth and the long distance between many of the irrigated tracts and the nearest rivers, only a small part of the arable lands of Montana can ever be irrigated.

This estimate of a total of 6,000,000 acres is based on an average duty of two acre feet per annum. The average use of water in that state is now over four acre feet and if no improvements in the use of water are brought about the limit will be reached when three million acres are irrigated. This shows what the ultimate difference in one of the western states will be between a low and high duty. It is the difference between 3,000,000 irrigated acres and 6,000,000 acres. It is the difference between a total yearly revenue from irrigated agriculture of $5-000,000 and $30,000,000.

Finally, the excessive use of water on irrigated lands waterlogs the soil in low lying places, brings up alkali and creates disease. Nearly every irrigated district the west has its abandoned farms which have been rendered non-productive by an excessive use of water. Alfalfa fields which were at one time worth $100 per acre, vineyards which sold readily for $350 per acre, and orange groves that gave large dividends on a valuation of $1000 per acre, may now be purchased for from $10 to $20 per acre. The accumulation of seepage waters caused by over-irrigation and leaky ditches with all its accompanying evils has already damaged about 10 per cent of the irri-

Moisture Requirements of Plants.
The thirst of the plant must be satisfied in order to maintain a vigorous growth, but this does not mean a complete saturation of the soil around its roots. Plants absorb as much water as water, and if other conditions are favorable a comparatively small percentage of moisture in the soil will suffice. Ten pounds of free water in each 100 pounds of soil is ample for most crops. By "free water" is meant the soil moisture which the fibrous roots absorb and which a hot sun is capable of evaporating from the soil. The application of four inches of water over the surface of a field on which plants are growing fairly well furnishes sufficient moisture for four feet of soil, providing it is evenly distributed without loss. Most of the troubles of the irrigator arise from water not being able to other apply or distribute this water evenly and without loss. Good soils and subsoils are never water tight. If they were impenetrable to the downward passage of water they would not produce crops.

The irrigator is thus obliged to spread water over a more or less porous mass which may pour a large part to pass through it. If he attempts to keep the water for any length of time near the surface, it will speedily pass off as vapor into the atmosphere. His task, therefore, approaches in difficulties that of keeping water in a vessel with both ends open. On the one side is a layer of warm, dry air, ever ready to steal up moisture; on the other is a porous subsoil through which water is drawn by force of gravity. To guard against these and numerous other losses of irrigation water, the western farmer must possess more accurate knowledge of the frequency and extent of the chief sources of waste. It is not enough, for example, to spread a certain volume of water over a field.
He should endeavor to find out how much of this volume passes through the subsoil and collects. It may be, in his neighbor's low lying tract where the alkali salts are rising to the surface, and how much passes off into the atmosphere from the surface of the soil during the interval between irrigations.

Chief Sources of Water Waste.

By beginning with the losses which take place on the irrigated field and tracing other losses back through the network of ditches and canals to the source of supply, I hope to convince you that for every four gallons taken from the source, but a little more than one gallon subserves a useful purpose in nourishing crops.

You will admit, I believe, that water is more skillfully applied and more economically used in southern California than in any other portion of the west, and perhaps of the world. The office of experiment stations at Washington is now repeating some results of experiments in evaporation losses conducted last year in the vicinity of our investigation of the lands under the large canal, which irrigated last year 5,000 acres of orange and lemon orchards, and was chosen for our experiments as being the most skillfully irrigated tract in that large area.

I may say in passing that the average duty of water on the orchards under the large canal for the next seven years has been 25 inches and the irrigation water combined with the rainfall has averaged 33½ inches. This

FRANK R. GOODING.

Reasons why the present state administration is receiving and on election day will receive the support of practically all the business men of the state, the great majority of the farming population and of the labor and mechanic vote, are not hard to see nor difficult to specify. Simplified in statement, it may be said that both the man and his career are worthy of recognition. Governor Gooding has been the chief executive of this state somewhat less than two years. The only other public office ever held by him was that of state senator at the Fifth session of the legislature. He came to Idaho a boy, whose opportunities of education had been limited. During his first years in the state he toiled with his hands among the men who he employed, and at times was himself an employee. He has worked ever since his advent into the state as few other men have done. Employing hundreds of men, he has worked with those men, and all over the southern part of the state are former employees of his who swear by him who know him as a man and employer and neighbor, and who have only words of praise and commendation for him. Governor Gooding during these years of hard work has prospered as men deserve to prosper who are willing to live frugal and industrious lives—helpful to themselves, their neighbors and their state.

During all these years of residence he has taken a decided part in the determination of public affairs, both of his county and his state. Succeeding his one term in the state senate, he was elected state chairman and gave to his party a campaign that for thoroughness has rarely been equaled in any state in the Union. In his first campaign he fought a battle against overwhelming odds and reduced the adverse majority. In his second campaign he overcame the opposition and elected his entire list of candidates by majorities of over 6000 each. Himself the candidate of his party for the governorship in 1904, he carried the state by about 15,000 majority over his Democratic opponent, polling the largest vote and securing the greatest majority ever given a candidate for governor in this state.

During the 1904 campaign he canvassed the whole state, speaking in cities and country places, talking with the farmers and ranchmen, and thoroughly familiarizing himself with all parts of Idaho, with the people in the different localities, learning their wants and opportunities. Elected to the governorship, all that he had learned in his canvass of the state was put to immediate and practical use. The legislature was pleaded with to enact needed laws, and in a large number these pleadings were heeded. The 1905 session of the Idaho legislature is entitled to praise for work well done. Many valuable bills were passed and became laws, and so far as can yet be determined not a single vicious or useless measure became a law.

Having carried his point thus far Governor Gooding then began the reorganization of the state government. He believed that a state government could and should be conducted with the same care and business system, with the same desire for efficiency and economy with which any private business must be conducted to be successful. The records show the result of his efforts in these directions. The state government in all its branches will have earned during the two years of his incumbency fully $300,000 more than ever before. In a like period of time, and the total of this earning will be fully four times as great as the earnings of any previous administration, and fully twice as much as the aggregate earnings of all the former state administrations in 14 years since the admission of Idaho.

During his two years' occupancy of the governor's chair the people of the state have had an opportunity to learn something of the man. He was plain Frank Gooding before his nomination as governor—he is still plain Frank Gooding. No man calling at the governor's office during his term has been refused an audience, and a respectful hearing, and no man can claim that any statement he has made has not been given due consideration. Men with complaints relative to their dealings with the various state departments have been given an opportunity to tell their grievances, and wherever a wrong has been committed he has freely and gladly aided in its correction.

At the close of his first year as governor he was confronted with a great crisis. The foremost citizen of the state, who during four years had been its chief executive, was foully murdered in his own door yard. Although of opposing political faiths, Steuenberg and Gooding had been warmly attached to each other. Both as chief executive of his state and as a citizen Governor Gooding at once decided that this base crime should not go unpunished. At the present time there are four men being held for trial on a charge of having committed this murder. Their trial is with the court and the jury that will be selected. The credit for the unraveling of the mystery surrounding this crime can fairly be given to the governor. It is a certainty that one of the men under arrest is guilty. He has confessed to this fact, and the confession has been fully corroborated. In this confession he has implicated the other three under arrest, and the statement has been made by the prosecuting officers that Orchard's statements as to their guilt have also been corroborated.

To sum it up, Governor Gooding has won the admiration of the people of his state because he has advanced himself despite early disadvantages to a commanding position among the men of the west. He has acquired a fair degree of wealth, and in doing so has wronged no man, but on the contrary has assisted and benefited many. Out of office he has been a loyal and helpful citizen of the state, and during his term of governor has been of almost incalculable value to the commonwealth. Through all his years of residence he has shown his enthusiastic loyalty to the state, and his boundless faith in its people and belief in its future. He is now in better position to give efficient service than at the beginning of his term, and those who know the man best, who have been in a position to study his motives and sound his abilities, feel assured that during his second term as governor Frank R. Gooding will give the state of Idaho an even greater opportunity of learning the advantage of rigid honesty, stern integrity and splendid business judgment in the conduct of state affairs.

The attitude of Governor Gooding's opponents with respect to his position in the Steuenberg murder case is discreditable. While the Democrats are careful to avoid criticism of the governor's action in this case, the Socialists are berating him from every street corner. Governor Gooding's stand has been firm, dignified, fair and manly in this noted case. He was assailed as no governor of any commonwealth has been assailed in recent years. Infamed by prejudice, many labor organizations denounced him for what they termed the injustice he inflicted upon Meyer, Haywood and Pettibone. Sensational slanders have been disseminated by the press of the accused murderers and Governor Gooding has been the target at all times. For daring to live up to his oath of office and enforce the law against assassin he has been maligned by every Socialist mouthpiece in the country. Sober-minded people realize that the governor did his whole duty and no more in the Steuenberg case. His vindication will come at the polls next month, when the citizens of Idaho will have the opportunity of placing themselves on record for law and order. Despite the publicity given to the Steuenberg case many are unimformed regarding the facts. Those who desire to ascertain the truth should read the statement of W. A. Goulder, who is familiar with the causes which led to Governor Steuenberg's assassination from their inception many years ago. That statement appears in this week's issue of the News. If it will be corroborated by every fair-minded man who has lived in the Coeur d'Alenes and there are many such men on the Twin Falls tract.

BREVITIES

The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church will hold its next meeting on Wednesday, October 24, at the home of Mrs. E. W. Davis.

The ferryboat at Shoshone falls has been repaired and is again in running order, making it possible to "loop the loop." The north side road is in splendid condition.

C. B. Cartwright assumed the janitorial duties of the Twin Falls school building on Monday morning. A better school for the position could scarcely have been made.

The county commissioners have decided to allow the registrars or Cassi county 25 cents each for the first 50 names, 20 cents each for the second 50 and 15 cents each for all names over 100.

Hon. H. W. Wallace proved up on his Twin Falls ranch on Monday and left for home. Mr. Wallace is a loyal and consistent supporter of Twin Falls and it will take him all winter to describe to his many friends in Wallace the glories of the tract.

W. S. Adams, the genial landlord of the Shoshone Falls hotel, is quite pleased with the arrival of the 10-pound son which was born to Mrs. Adams on October 4. Mrs. Adams and son are doing splendidly. Mr. Adams is suffering from a sore arm, the result of many congratulations, but otherwise he is all right.

At the meeting of the Farmers' Federation on Saturday afternoon it was decided to accept the offer of Mr. Butts of Omaha of 50 cents per hundredweight, cash on delivery, for 50 carloads of potatoes in Twin Falls. A sufficient number of growers to guarantee the necessary tonnage were present and Mr. Butts will send a man here to superintend the shipment.

School district No. 34 has been divided by the county commissioners in response to a petition signed by A. A. Duquesne and others of Filer and is now bounded as follows: Commencing at the northeast corner of section 4, township 10, range 16 E.; thence south six miles; thence west six miles; thence north six miles to the place of beginning.

One of the red curtained houses in the southern section of the city was destroyed by fire on Monday morning. For a time it was feared that the Adams-Pilgrim company's planing mill and lumber yard might catch fire but fortunately there was no wind and the fire was confined without difficulty to the building in which it originated. The burned building was insured for $1500 and the contents for $800.

At their last meeting the county commissioners created school district No. 41, the creation of which was asked for by John O. Tice and others. The boundaries are: Commencing at the northeast corner of township 10, range 16, thence south three miles to the southeast corner of section 13; thence west three miles to the west corner of section 15; thence north three miles to the northwest corner of section 3; thence east three miles to the place of beginning.

Judge Ogden Hiles of Salt Lake City addressed a large audience in the Ring theater on Monday evening. His subject was "Mormonism." Judge Hiles is a Grand Army veteran, intensely patriotic and is bitterly opposed to church interference in politics and to the persecution of the persecuted. He traced Mormonism from its inception in the west to the present day and asserted that the priesthood was a menace which could no longer tolerate. The judge was frequently interrupted with enthusiastic applause. He spoke at the Kimberly school on Tuesday night.

Friends of Henry Howes of Wallace are concerned over what appeared to be an attempt on his part to purchase the Shoshone Falls dam. The dam is a Grand Army veteran, intensely patriotic and is bitterly opposed to church interference in politics and to the persecution of the persecuted. He traced Mormonism from its inception in the west to the present day and asserted that the priesthood was a menace which could no longer tolerate. The judge was frequently interrupted with enthusiastic applause. He spoke at the Kimberly school on Tuesday night.

On petition of Fred Cressy and others of Buhl the county commissioners have created school district No. 38 bounded as follows: Commencing at the northeast corner of section 24, township 9 S., range 16 E.; thence south three miles to the southeast corner of section 36; thence west three miles to the southwest corner of section 34, township 9 S., range 16 E.; thence south three miles to the southeast corner of section 16, township 10, range 16 E.; thence north six miles to the northwest corner of section 22, township 9, range 13; thence east nine miles to the place of beginning.

A new school district, known as District No. 40, has been created from a portion of District No. 34, with the following boundaries: Commencing at the northwest corner of section 3, township 10 S., range 16, thence east along township line to where said line intersects Rocky creek, thence southeasterly along said Rocky creek to where it is intersected by line between ranges 16 and 17 E.; thence due south along said line to the place of beginning. The new district is bounded on the north by the line between ranges 16 and 17 E.; on the east by the line between ranges 16 and 17 E.; on the south by the line between ranges 16 and 17 E.; on the west by the line between ranges 16 and 17 E.

Carl J. Hahn left last Saturday for an extended eastern trip.

T. J. Woods & Co. are now located in Perrine hotel on Shoshone avenue. Mrs. Wm. Young has returned from a visit with relatives at Rocky Ford, Colo.

The school attendance is rapidly increasing every week. The enrollment Thursday was 445.

The ladies' sewing circle of the Baptist church met with Mrs. Richmond Thursday afternoon.

J. C. Feeney went to Milledale yesterday to meet Mrs. Feeney, who has been spending some weeks in Colorado.

Mrs. Pike entertained Saturday afternoon, having a novel sewing contest. Among those present were Mesdames Eastman, Wall, Clousch, C. M. Hill, W. Hill, Taylor, Conway, Newton, Wm. Young, Ramsey, Channell, Spackman, and Misses Young and Gourley.

John Janney has returned from an extended visit through the northern part of the state. Mr. Janney is the Democratic nominee for state senator, and will devote the remainder of the time until election day campaigning at home for the Democratic ticket.

Mrs. W. D. Garlock, son and daughter, left last week for a six-months' tour of the East. While away Mrs. Garlock will attend the world's congress at the W. C. T. U. at Boston as a delegate from Idaho.

The ladies of the Methodist church will give a musical and literary entertainment at the W. C. T. U. on October 26. The program is being arranged by Misses Robison and Manker, and a performance of the highest order is anticipated.

John McDonald of Rosworth was in Twin Falls this week on his way to visit his former home in Scotland. Some of John's old school friends are out on the range to the south of Twin Falls but no doubt be envious when Mr. McDonald returns in the spring as it is quite likely that he will not return alone.

The family table at the Perrine has been much busier the past week. The P. H. Smiths, having gone to house-keeping in the Boyd block, Mr. and Mrs. Tush having rented the Garlock house, the Smiths have gone to Mr. Smith's ranch and the George Smiths will move into the Hamilton cottage on Monday.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. J. E. Hayes gave a delightful card party. Mrs. Tush made the highest score, receiving a gold pen, while Miss McCollum secured a souvenir spoon. Those participating were Mesdames Williams, Tush, McCollum, Harris, Barrett, Alken, Perrine, Robison, Clousch, Baker, Seebek, Tase, Booth and Miss McCollum.

J. H. Olmstead, superintendent of the Idaho division of the O. S. L., and James Wood, supervisor of bridges and buildings for the same division, spent Wednesday evening with Mr. and Mrs. George Alken. They have been attending the meeting of the Twin Falls branch and wished to see the starting of the work on the Buhl extension, on which dirt throwing has just begun.

On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Thomas gave an elaborate course dinner. Those present were Mesdames Booth, Barrett, Baker, Pike, Kunkley, Hayes, Alken, Perrine, Maupin, McCollum, Harris, Williams, Tush and Miss McCollum. The party was composed of Professor Potter and Professor Parkie, Messrs. DeBoo, Robison, Evans, Kinney, Manker, Kierstedt, Wolfe, Durphy and Baker.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Tush was hostess to a most happy crowd of ladies playing "500." Mrs. Baker, the star player, carried off first prize, a dainty cup and saucer. Mrs. Pike took second prize, a pretty landscape view. Those present were Mesdames Booth, Barrett, Baker, Pike, Kunkley, Hayes, Alken, Perrine, Maupin, McCollum, Harris, Williams, Tush and Miss McCollum.

Don C. Bryan is feeding about 700 sheep on his ranch west of town. Mr. Bryan is one of our most progressive and energetic farmers, and his enthusiasm is unbounded. He also has a large number of hogs on his ranch, and his success in stock feeding will be closely watched, as therein lies one of the most probable avenues of success for the Twin Falls farmers.

Jess Butler and Jake Shank left on Monday morning for Goldfield, Nev. They elected to travel overland and equipped a covered wagon for the journey. Jess will seek a new location in the Nevada El Dorado. Jake will return to his farm in the spring, unless he strikes something he likes better in the meanwhile. The whole party turned out to see the boys off and wish them goodspeed. Two more popular or more deserving young men never left any city.

Newly elected Grand Master Smith of Boise, being unable to come to the election, deputized Mr. Lounsbury of Albion to act in his stead. In the installation of officers of Twin Falls Lodge No. 45, which has heretofore been known as Twin Falls Lodge U. D. A. F. and A. M., the charter having been granted by the Grand Lodge of the grand lodge, Mr. Lounsbury installed the officers last evening, they being the same as those who have been acting under the dispensation.

The Utah consistory, with the assistance of the other Masonic bodies of the state, will complete the installation of a new temple in Salt Lake City, which will be devoted exclusively to Masonic work. This building will be dedicated next Sunday. The new temple is a fine structure and a reunion of the consistory will begin on Monday. Messrs. Alken, Ballard, Dyer, Hamilton and Bedford will attend the dedication. Mr. Alken will accompany Mr. Alken on the trip.

Mr. and Mrs. A. McPherson left Saturday for Boise for a fair week.

I. B. Perrine left for Chicago last week on a business trip. Mrs. Perrine and Stella are at the Perrine during his absence.

Hon. Frank Riblett, Republican county chairman, came to Twin Falls Wednesday and will open headquarters here, expecting to stay till the close of the campaign.

Mrs. W. F. Eickhoff and daughter passed through on the main line Thursday on their way to join Mr. Eickhoff in Washington. They have been spending the summer in Colorado.

Hon. George Day, Republican candidate for state senator, returned from Salt Lake Thursday, where he placed Mrs. Day in a hospital. The senator will go to Salt Lake next week to be present at the operation.

Mr. George F. Sprague returned from Salt Lake City yesterday, where he went to meet Mrs. Sprague and her mother, Miss Robertson, of Virginia, who will spend the winter in Twin Falls. Mrs. Sprague spent the summer in her old home in Virginia. She reports that the weather was good after the length of the winter. The Spragues have rented the Hamilton cottage for the winter.

THE LOCAL POWER SITUATION
Persistent Rumors from Outside Appear to Be Ramshackle.

The Salt Lake newspapers have had much to say in the past week concerning the transfer of the Utah Light and Power Company's holdings and the entire street car system of Salt Lake to the Harriman and General Electric company of New York City. In connection therewith the papers state that the interests of the Shoshone Falls Power Co., Ltd., have also been absorbed by the same party. Mr. I. B. Perrine, general manager of the Power company, has been absent for some days in Chicago and New York, but when in the interests of the power company or on private business no one knows. R. M. McCollum, secretary of the power company, has been seen and he states that he has heard nothing of any transfer of power interests whatsoever. However, it is a well known fact that negotiations have been pending for some time between the power manager and New York capitalists, and it is not at all improbable that some kind of a deal will be consummated.

Extraordinary Offer

For a Short Time Only

In order to introduce and get my Bromide Enlargements before the people, will offer

100--Pictures--100

FOR EXTREMELY LOW PRICE OF

$8.00

This includes Frame, Glass, etc. These pictures will be 16x20 inches in size, your choice of 5 styles of frames, oak, oak and gilt, or all gilt. These frames are extra heavy, extra large, with frame that usually sells for $4.50 each.

The work I guarantee to be first class in every way, and if you are not perfectly satisfied you need not take them and you are out nothing but the trouble of bringing me the photo that you want the enlargement made from. Please do not confuse these pictures with the cheap "pasted" pictures that the traveling takers offer you and are never satisfactory. I have with you to stay and my living depends on my getting out work that will be pleased with, for I want you to come again.

This offer holds good for month of October, 1906, and for only 100 pictures. I know this will be enough for all of you, but first come first served. Don't blame me if you come too late.

Yours truly,

C. E. Bisbee

These are particularly pronounced on the road leading from the town to the falls. That has been converted into a fine avenue, lined on both sides. Moreover, a good roadbed has been secured by simple grading. The earth was thrown from the sides toward the center and well rounded. This gives a hard roadway over which it is a pleasure to drive. More work of an intelligent character has been done on the roads of that
