THE IDAHO DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM WHICH WILL BE RIGIDLY ENFORCED IN LETTER AND SPIRIT BY THE NOMINEES HEADED BY ALEXANDER STANDS FOR:

Economical administration and equal taxation, so that the burden of government may rest easy upon the people.

Direct primaries, so that the people may select their own officers to administer the laws.

Initiative and referendum, so that the people may supervise the making of the laws.

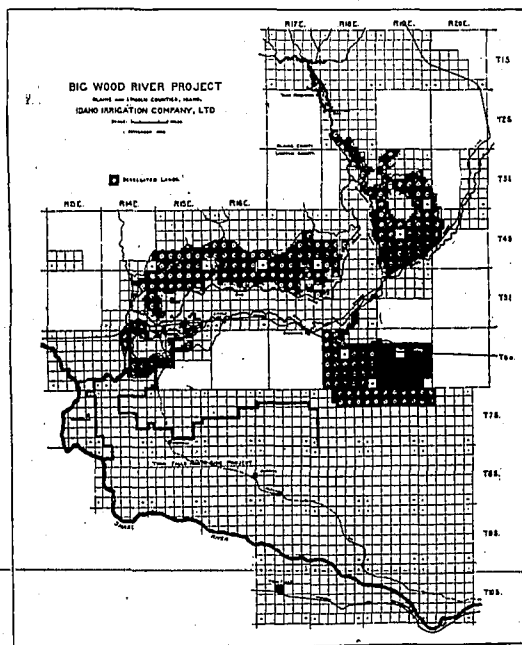

Railroad and warehouse commission, so that the people may have a competent intermediary between themselves and the domineering corporations.

Bank guaranty law, so that the people's money may be as well protected as the state's.

Employers' liability law, so that laboring men may not suffer from negligence of grasping corporations.

BIG WOOD RIVER PROJECT

Now under construction by J. G. White & Co., of New York

150,000 acres

CAREY ACT LANDS

of which

40,000 acres

are now open to entry

Perpetual Water Rights, $35 per acre. Works, when completed, revert to the settlers.

This project adjoins the Twin Falls North Side tract on the north and embraces some of the best agricultural and horticultural land in Idaho. Within its confines are farms which have been developed for years and on which unexcelled fruit is being grown. A portion of the segregation is now open for entry and the remainder will be opened next spring. The water supply is obtained from the Big Wood river, one of the most dependable streams in the state, and the storage capacity provided for is far more than sufficient for the lands to be irrigated. Fifteen miles of the main canal has been completed, the diverting dam is ready for use and work is in progress on the reservoir. Water rights cost $35 per acre and there is no better value for the investment.

MR. MOSE'S "COUNTING" IN A Little Political History From the State Capital.

DEMOCRATIC CHARGES HAVE NO FOUNDATION.

Non-Partisan Committee Investigates the Manner in Which the West of Salmon Extension Was Handled and Finds No Cause for Attack.

A non-partisan committee, consisting of six of the leading business men of Boise, has made a thorough investigation of the manner in which the west of Salmon extension was granted to F. H. Buhl and has submitted the following report, which is self-explanatory:

To Boise Business Men:
Your committee appointed to investigate the action of the State Board of Land Commissioners of this state in approving the proposal made by Mr. Buhl, of the name of the Twin Falls Land & Water company, for the segregation and reclamation under the Carey act of about 550,000 acres of land in Owyhee county, submit for your consideration the following report:

Your committee has held several sittings and made a careful and painstaking investigation of all the facts in connection with this matter; there has appeared before it the governor, the attorney general, state engineer, assistant state engineer, secretary of the land board, the attorney for a former rival applicant for this segregation, the editor of the Capital News and the chairman of the state Democratic central committee. These parties were examined by members of your committee and by the attorney for the county, concerning the matter under investigation. They were requested to lay before your committee all facts within their knowledge touching the charges made against the board.

We have also examined the records and files in the office of the state board of land commissioners and the report of the state engineer in relation to this matter.

From the examination made and the facts before us we find:

First—That while the records of the land board in the case under investigation may not be as full or complete as some may desire; yet they are not such as to justify the attacks made on the board by the Capital News.

Second—All facts considered, we are convinced that the land board used good business judgment in accepting the Buhl proposition, and that any other course would have resulted in great injury to the state.

We feel that the completion of one of the greatest irrigation enterprises ever undertaken, one that would add probably one hundred thousand people to the population of the state, has been jeopardized or is in great danger of being jeopardized by the attacks and charges directed against the board. We think that in cases where the welfare of the city or the state is affected our newspapers should use the utmost care in ascertaining the facts and should weigh well the effects of a proposed publication. We do not mean that papers should condone or overlook crime or wrong-doing, public or private, but that they owe it to the public to investigate thoroughly before publishing something that if not well founded may do incalculable injury. An unfounded charge made and repeated through the public press will frequently destroy an enterprise or ruin a reputation built up by years of patient industry.

We have a great enterprise to develop in this new state, and we will develop it better and much more rapidly if we work together for the common good, regardless of political affiliations, giving to the worthy public official his share of praise instead of attempting to cast his reputation to pieces over some technical error.

Dated this 22d day of October, 1908.

Respectfully submitted,

J. E. CLINTON.

Clay, Robinson & Co.'s Weekly Live Stock Market Letter.

SOUTH OMAHA, Oct. 24.—We have had but moderate supplies of cattle here this week since Monday, but the trade has been far from satisfactory. Monday's run of 12,000 head was the heaviest on record and all buyers proceeded to pound prices hard. Declines for the week amount to about a quarter on everything with the possible exception of choice yearlings and two-year-olds, which are in especially light supply. Election drawing near has no doubt had some effect on the market—as well as the poor beef trade. The week's receipts will need to be light the coming week to hold prices even up to present low levels. Top beef this week brought $5.10, which price we obtained for 141 head of steers belonging to L. Christian, Kirtley, Wyo., averaging 1295 pounds. Good killing steers are quotable at $4.50@5.00; fair to good $4.00@4.50; good cows and heifers $3.25@3.75; fair to good, $2.75@3.25; good heavy feeders, $4.50@4.85; fair to good, $4.15@4.50; good to choice light and medium weights, $3.50@4.00; fair to good, $3.00@3.50.

With liberal offerings of sheep and lambs the past week the trade on killers has been rather weak, but the others, while feeders have gone at the shade better prices. Good killing lambs are selling at $4.75@5.35; yearlings, $4.25@4.65; wethers, $4.00@4.25; good $3.65@4.00; medium lambs, $4.00@4.60; yearlings, $3.75@4.25; wethers, $3.50@4.00; ewes, $2.00@3.15.

WANTED—School girl from country to help at home in return for tuition and lodging in city. Address W. R. S., care News office.

For the benefit of the voters of Boise who have come to the city since 1903 and others in the state who are not familiar with the facts in the case, the following resume of events leading up to the "counting-in" of Mose Alexander as mayor of Boise in July, 1909, is herewith presented.

The Democrats, discontents and others nominated Mose Alexander on a platform having for its paramount issue the reduction of taxes 25 per cent. The Republicans nominated D. D. Williams on a clean government and economical administration guarantee.

The campaign showed indications of strenuousness from the start. Every sign pointed to the election of D. D. Williams, whose strength lay in the Second ward, the largest in the city, polls of which disclosed a majority of over 400 for him.

Mose Alexander's strength was admitted to be in the First ward, in which "the alley" was situated, and which the returns showed he would carry by a slight majority, as he would the Third ward.

These wards contained together a few more than the Second ward, in which the better class of citizens lived.

On the morning of election day it was found that one of the Republican judges had been incapacitated by over-indulgence the night before and had been drugged by parties interested. It became necessary for the voters of the Second ward to select a judge to take his place.

A supporter of Alexander was nominated and a vote taken on his selection. It was discovered that the vote was a tie, and Mose Alexander, the Democratic candidate for mayor and a resident of the First ward, appeared on the scene and holding up his hand while a verification was being made, was counted for his lieutenant over the protest of residents of the Second ward, thereby illegally securing his lieutenant's election.

That night the returns from the First and Third wards were received nearly in the evening. The returns showed a majority of about 44 for Alexander in these wards.

The lieutenant of Alexander had been elected by the voters of the Second ward and kept tab on the vote as it was being called off. It soon became apparent to the Williams supporters that the Alexander lieutenant, who had been chosen judge by Alexander's illegitimate vote, was calling off Williams' votes for Alexander, and, when the totals were computed, the 260 Republican majority turned out to be 13 only, which added to the returns from the other wards, elected Alexander by 31 majority.

The ballot box was sealed and sent to the city clerk, and on the face of these returns Alexander was declared mayor-elect by 31 votes majority.

Williams started contest proceedings at the time Alexander began to serve as mayor.

The first official act of the new executive was to remove Mrs. McEffer, then city clerk, and install as successor, William Simmons, in her place, which made him ex-officio custodian of the ballot box and the keys thereto.

When these boxes were brought into court those from the First and Third wards were sealed, but the one from the Second ward showed the seals broken, the ballots taken off their strings and the unused ballots and all of the election board records removed. The ballots had been crowded into the box in a loose manner, and on a recount in the court room there found a half dozen unmarked Alexander ballots that the judges themselves had returned.

Thus the contest of Williams failed and the rape of the ballot box was complete.—Boise Clipper, Oct. 17.

GREATEST OF ALL FRUIT SHOWS Will Be the National Apple Show in Spokane.

The National Apple Show, which will be held in Spokane, December 7-12, is a public enterprise, designed to build up the fruit industry of the Pacific northwest by calling the attention of the world to the superiority of our apples. There is no question that we have the country beaten on high grade apples, but unless we can demonstrate this fact to the world we cannot expect the place in the market to which we are entitled.

A few public spirited citizens of Spokane started the National Apple Show without money to back it. Already the business men of that city have raised $15,000 in cash to assist in the work. Free land valued at $20,000 has been offered as prizes by real estate men, manufacturing firms in all parts of the country interested in any phase of the apple industry have donated prizes which are useful to growers. Trophies have been donated by others, until in all nearly $40,000 in prizes have been donated. It will be the greatest fruit show the world has ever known.

The scope of the enterprise has gone far beyond the simple expectations of the men back of it. Growers in every part of the country are interested in the show and many will send exhibits. It is up to the Pacific northwest to make good in competition with other apple sections, for our reputation is at stake. Twin Falls should be represented in as many of the contests at the National Apple Show as possible. We have the growers and we have the fruit. The auctioneer's value of such an exposition as the National Apple Show is worth hundreds of dollars to every grower in the country.

James A. Brady, Republican candidate for governor, will speak in Buhl tonight.

E. L. Wells, station director of the weather bureau in Boise, was in Twin Falls this week.

Jorge Blockacker has been in Twin Falls the last two weeks, mixing medicine for the Democrats.

Ray Hartman, who represents Reiger & Co. in Twin Falls, is in Twin Falls this week.

The city council has decided to submit to the people the question of a bond issue of $150,000 to equip the fire department.

Harry Allen and Frank Osborne have rented room No. 10 in the First National bank building, into which they moved their offices this week.

C. Harvey Smith, the architect, is building a handsome residence on Eighth avenue. If you know where that is. His family will soon join him here.

The work of laying cement blocks in the walls of the Hotel Perrine announced this week. It is the intention to have the exterior completed by the first of the year.

Mrs. C. W. Dyer and Mrs. E. C. Lawrence were the guests of the members of the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid society at the home of Mrs. Dyer on Thursday afternoon, November 5, at 8 o'clock.

Jimmy Maher, freight clerk at the depot, fell between the freight platform and a car while unloading freight this morning. His head struck a tie and he was unconscious for some time. It is believed that he is not seriously injured.

Nat Reiss has housed his carnival equipment in Twin Falls for the winter and will open here in the spring if conditions permit. He will equip a circus for next year and will do the work in Twin Falls if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

The Western Loan and Savings company, which recently organized a branch in Twin Falls, already has $100,000 set aside for loans with applications for $4000. The company will have $3500 per month to loan for home building in Twin Falls, which will be a great benefit to the city.

Don Bryan, George McAllister, John Backus and N. E. Beckes returned on Wednesday night from the Sawtooth mountains, where they hunted bears and coyotes. They reported that the hunt was the best they ever had. Don killed a large bear track and all of the party feasted on ducks. They had a good time but were too early for bear.

Gus Johnson of the Shoshone falls hotel, who found an old Winchester rifle in the fire last summer, has received word from the Winchester company, through R. M. McCollum, that the rifle, No. 2835, was a 44 caliber, made in 1822, and was sold to John Skinner of San Francisco on March 24, 1875. Mr. Skinner's present whereabouts are unknown.

Mrs. Jones of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. L. E. Prothro of Twin Falls are going to open a sewing and dressmaking school where the ladies get a suitable location. For the present Mrs. Prothro will receive pupils at her residence on Thirteenth avenue and Mrs. Jones will teach at her apartments in the Baker hotel on Main street.

The members of the Methodist Episcopal Ladies' Aid society were delightfully entertained on Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Joseph Miller at a birthday luncheon. About 40 ladies participated in a guessing contest in which Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Hickling were awarded prizes. Refreshments were served and the ladies departed after wishing their hostess many happy returns of the day.

Matt Leaver, a laborer in the pine gang at the Salmon dam, had the little finger of his right hand crushed in the saw last night on Tuesday afternoon and was brought to Twin Falls for surgical treatment. The finger was amputated at the third joint. Leaver was working as a punger and his finger caught in the coars. Chief Engineer Horn, who is somewhat of a surgeon himself, dressed the wound and sent Matt Leaver to the county hospital. The trip to town, 26 miles, was made in one hour and 28 minutes.

A party of 27 officers and representatives of prominent Eastern bond houses arrived in Twin Falls on Tuesday evening. They were chartered by R. E. Hunt, who has recently been called back to Boise that night by important business. The visitors were taken to the Commercial club, where they were entertained in the most advantageous manner. The purpose of the information regarding the country which they desired. On Wednesday they went to Blue Lakes and returned on Friday. They were unanimous in declaring that the Twin Falls project exceeded anything of the kind they had ever inspected.

Former citizens of Pennsylvania, to the number of 18, met at the home of H. E. Miller in Twin Falls on Friday evening, October 23, and organized the Keystone club. Rev. John Gough was elected president. Mrs. J. M. Shackman vice president and Mrs. Nan Vance secretary.

Meetings will be held on the fourth Friday of every month and the secretary would be glad to hear from all citizens of the system of state who are heartily invited to affiliate. The purpose of the organization is to promote a southern spirit among those Pennsylvanians who have taken this lot in northern Idaho to the end that they may become acquainted and work together for the upbuilding of their adopted state. The next meeting will be with Miss Vance.

The Ladies of the Macassar will meet in the Pythian hall on Wednesday afternoon, November 4, at 3:30 o'clock sharp. All members of the order are requested to be present.

The funeral of James Young, who died on October 21, was held on Monday afternoon. The body was held at Miller's parlors pending word from C. O. Morrell has sold his residence on Main avenue and has moved to a new home on Main street. He has bought lots facing the park and intends to build a home in Twin Falls.

Emil Braun lost a dark red cow with a bull calf five months old, and also a brace cow about fresh. They ran from Shoshone Basin about two weeks ago. Braun is very grateful and will pay for their recovery.

Mrs. Amanda L. Wann and her son, Blake Wann, relatives of W. O. Wann, and Frank Burton, an old neighbor, have arranged to purchase and are visiting W. O. Wann. They came at "Doubting Thomases" but are already booking for southern Idaho.

John Eagleson of Boise, Colonel Hannaford of Rupert and John F. Hansen of Beck Creek, commissioners appointed by the United States land department to take testimony and appraise the damage claimed by Mrs. Norton of Twin Falls, Idaho, and W. O. Wann, Co. on land owned by her sons, McMillan and Cottonwood creeks, concluded their labors today. They fixed the amount at $1500. The claim was for $5000.

MEETING OF SYRINGA CLUB

Two important Legislative Measures Indorsed.

The Syringa club opened the club year with a full membership, the new president, Mrs. C. W. Dyer, presiding. Her report of the state federation at Moscow, from which she had just returned, was read at the last meeting, at the home of Mrs. Barnes, and was most interesting. At that meeting two legislative measures were voted to be urged for action at the coming session. These measures have been unanimously indorsed by the club members over the state at the three district federations. One is an appeal for a bill for the purpose of securing such legislative action as will be necessary to place the homeless children of our state, and the crippled and maimed, deficient children, in one home, under the auspices of the National Home Finding Children's society, a branch of which has recently been organized here. Under present conditions the homeless children are housed in the state reformatory at St. Anthony, and feeble-minded children are cared for at the insane hospital at Blackfoot.

The second measure was a civil service reform bill, intended to eliminate politics from the service, and to head of certain state institutions, and consider fitness instead of "pull."

The club has taken that branch of the law which has to do with the year which treats of England and her colonial possessions, Scotland and Ireland, interspersed with English history. It promises a year of unusual interest.

ADVERTISING OF HARMFUL NATURE

TENDS TO DISCREDIT THE TWIN FALLS TRACT.

Enticing Bait Held Out by West End Twin Falls Irrigation Company, the Existence of Which is Unknown to the Land Board.

The most effective and the nearest advertising booklet calculated to promote the Twin Falls country has been issued by the West End Twin Falls Irrigation company. It contains beautiful cuts and strong testimonials and it is altogether the best thing that has ever been put out. Unfortunately the West End company is unknown in Twin Falls, except to a few, and methods of advertising do not meet with popular approval. There is no need of exaggerating or mis-stating facts. The plain truth is good enough for Twin Falls and that is all the people here will stand for.

There is unquestionably a fine tract of best of Salmon river and south of the proposed main canal of the Twin Falls west extension. That this land might be watered in the manner proposed by the company is not probable, but the company should proceed in the manner required by the provisions of the Carry act and earn its right to sell land before it puts the Twin Falls tract mark.

In the following circular the words "Twin Falls" appears in big block type and the words "West End" in small type between. The circular shows for itself:

TWIN WEST END FALLS Idaho Irrigation Company.

The most remarkable, the most successful and the most famous money-making land ever offered. Titles of both land and water backed by the United States government and the state of Idaho. You cannot lose and you can make $5000 per year on 40 acres ad work but seven months in the year.

Land is water now offered to you at $25.50 per acre. Payment is one-third down and one-fifth every six months.

Never again will such an opportunity come to you. Do you like AWAYS to work for some one else? Do you ALWAYS want to work for year out? What do you do for year out? If you plot at your present rate? Do you want to be your own boss? Do you want to be FREE—free to make money when you please—free to be well and rich—yes, RICH? You can be all of these and more if you will take this chance never to be offered to you again.

We guarantee that if you buy now you will get land at the drawing. We will sell you 10 acres at $25.50 per acre, and you must act immediately if you want any of this land at this unheard-of price. In three years you will have 40 acres for $125.50, will be worth from $150 to $300 per acre, and even more.

Excursion Tuesday, Oct. 20, 1908.

Mr. L. E. Booth, President Twin Falls Commercial Club, Twin Falls, Idaho, expects to go. Mr. S. H. Yates, 1908 Harrison street, already has been to Twin Falls and has bought 100 acres of water rights, which he is allowed to buy. Mr. Craig goes to get the same. You are referred to these gentlemen.

I represent the company and will be in Government Saturday, Sunday and Monday. Also to Mr. H. C. Lago and Mr. R. J. Waters of the Lago-Waters Shoe Co., 207 West Second street.

Mr. C. E. Booth, President Twin Falls Commercial Club, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Dear Sir—Your letter of October 21 enclosing circular with reference to the West End Twin Falls Irrigation company received. I have made some investigation of this matter and have also found on file a letter dated October 10 to the register of the land office, signed by Charles J. Perkins, who made the original application for this segregation for the Cedar Creek Reservoir & Irrigation company, and I have written Mr. Perkins, notifying him that all business between the company and the land board would be cleared off unless all moneys are returned to the parties who have purchased the right to enter into a contract as provided for in these circular contracts.

The board considers that this project is a very good one under the recommendations of the state engineer, but this method of attempting to finance it is not proper, and is not countenanced by the board, and is entirely without the knowledge of the board, and they expect to do what they can to put a stop to such methods. The board desires to encourage these projects in every way possible, but could not be a party to this way of raising money. If this company had a contract with the state, which they have not.

If you got any more information in the matter, will inform you.

Yours very truly,

F. W. GOODING,
Governor.

HANSEN REPORTS TWO MARRIAGES

B. Wilkins of Kimberly was in town this week leading grain for shipment. G. W. Crater is constructing one of the finest dairy barns on the tract. Charles Upton is building a neat cottage on his ranch east of the city. Henry Smith who resides at the head gates, had a miraculous escape Monday. He was plowing with a gang and a loader horse. They became unmanageable and started to run throwing Mr. Smith beneath the implement. By a mere accident he came out without a scratch but lost his only live string of horses. They scattered to the four directions of the compass, but were rounded up with but little trouble and the animals and slight breakage of the gears.

Mr. Tyler of the Kimberly nursery was in town Tuesday.

The Townsike company is spending some money getting agricultural statistics from this community for publication. The people of Hansen would much appreciate it if they would spend a few dollars to make the roads in the town payable. It is almost impossible for a heavy load to get to the side track.

Oliver Morrison's public sale on Wednesday was largely attended, but the receipts did not meet his expectations. Banker Turner of Kimberly did the clerical work. Mr. Morrison will soon leave for Oregon. W. H. Browning, who purchased the ranch from Mr. Morrison, will occupy a portion of the house, but he has rented the entire tract to F. M. Towne for the coming year.

A social party in honor of Miss Simpkins, who will soon leave for Utah, was held at Joseph Nelson's on Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Crawford of Emmett is visiting at the T. N. Williams home this week.

James Harmon and Miss Jennie Johnson were united in marriage at the home of the former on Monday. Rev. Crater officiating. Hansen friends extend a welcoming hand.

Carroll Griswold is on the sick roll this week.

Whoop, Haw, Blif, Bang! Hansen for Tatt and the whole gang.

In glancing over the ticket we all shall note it is remarked that Tatt heads the list and (E. R.) Sherman brings up the rear—a good beginning and a good ending. The old saying, "All is well that ends well" indicates another four years of prosperity. Vote it straight.

A very enthusiastic Republican rally was held here on Wednesday evening. Professor Hinton called the meeting to order and made a few remarks in general. He was followed by E. T. Newberry, Judge Shields, A. D. McKinlay and W. P. Guthrie, each making a rousing speech for Republican principles.

FARM TOPICS

BY WILLIAM HEWES

(This column is open to all farmers in Twin Falls county who desire to express their views on agriculture, horticulture or any other factor in farming. They are invited to relate their experiences in growing fruit, grain or vegetables, or in raising stock.)

The writer is informed from a reliable source that a grade will be made and a ferry run within the next 60 days on a line nearly south of Jerome. This will furnish an outlet for the south side grain, hay or other farm products. It means higher local prices for products which are held until the ferry is completed. The farmer who is able to hold his products for the 60 days market will be benefited in a financial way.

The large warehouses and elevators which have been built this summer at Twin Falls, Kimberly, Filer and Buhl are an evidence of the growth of this tract. The farmers are raising grain, hay, vegetables and fruits, and the dealers are here to buy the products.

It is now the time of year when young orchards should be protected against rabbits. These little pests are a nuisance among fruit trees at any time in the season, but they are most dangerous to the life of the tree in winter. There are several methods of protecting the trees. One of the cheapest ways is to use canvas strips. They should be cut about 36 inches in length and 1 1/2 inches wide. Start to wind at the bottom of the tree and be sure to begin close to the ground. Then wrap the canvas around the tree in spiral shape. Another good way is to use window screen. Get it in two-foot widths. Cut off strips wide enough to go around the trunk of the tree over about one inch, then fasten the ends with fine wire and you will have just as good a rabbit protector as the patent ones which are offered for sale. Of course there are several other methods, but the ones given above are equal to any yet used. The thing we wish to impress upon you is to protect the trees before the rabbits do any damage.

H. E. Larson, who lives three miles from Filer, is reported to have raised a wheat crop which averaged 62 bushels to the acre for the entire crop. The writer has not been able to see Mr. Larson yet, but we will give the method used in obtaining this large yield as soon as we have an opportunity to meet Mr. Larson. There is a reason why he should raise such a heavy wheat crop while many others raise much less. It is our purpose to give our readers the exact method used in obtaining large yields. We believe if one man can get good results another man can get the same results if he uses the right method.

The National Apple show will be held in Spokane, Washington, in the early part of December. Thirty-five thousand dollars will be given in prizes. The apple raisers on the Twin Falls tracts should send exhibits. We have the apples. Why not send exhibits to let the other states or localities know that we have first class apples? These exhibits would give this tract a vast amount of publicity. Why not use the opportunity while it is offered?

A rural telephone company has been organized at Filer. In the East the rural telephone is considered almost a necessity. It is a time saver for the farmer. He saves many miles travel each year by its use. For instance, if a farmer wishes to call a threshing crew together, the work is accomplished in a few minutes. Otherwise he might be obliged to travel 10 or 12 miles. If a doctor is wanted he can be obtained in just one-half of the time. There are many other uses which we will not mention because most of our readers are familiar with the telephone as a farm convenience. We hope that rural telephone systems will soon be constructed in every part of the Twin Falls tracts.

Several grain elevators have been constructed on this tract for the purpose of handling loose grain when desired by customers. This is a step in the right direction. Grain on elevators is handled cheaper loose than it can in sacks. We are informed that the dealers will pay about 5 cents per hundred loss for loose than in the sack. The sacks cost about 3 or 4 cents less. This makes a gain of three or four cents for every sack full of grain sold. During threshing it takes one sacker to handle two sacks when the man will do the work with loose grain. When the farmers build substantial granaries they will find the loose method the cheapest and best.

We have seen more good horses in this county than we have ever observed in any other place.

The farmer who keeps his machinery under cover when not in use makes money by his thrifty methods. Farm machinery exposed to the weather will rust out quicker than it wears out.

Mr. Farmer, why not set a row of trees around your farm? It will improve the appearance of the tract and the general appearance of the community.

Clay, Robinson & Co's Denver Live Stock Market Letter.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 26.—Receipts of cattle were pretty heavy here all of last week and the market closed up the reverse of what it has been doing for several weeks past, when there was an advance the last couple of days. Our market here held up well in the last 24 hours, and the packer buyers all claimed to have received very bearish reports from the East and the market closed all the way down. The top on cows, which the decline being most on medium grades. There were 3200 cattle here today and the market was steady to the higher, particularly on cows, which in spots were all of 15c to 20c higher than at the close of last week. There was a fair demand for steers but they did not show the advance noted on cow steers. The top on steers was $4.50 for some 1200-pound Herefords. The killers bought the bulk of their steers at from $3.00 to $4.20, and most of the 295 pounders at $3.00 to $3.20, the top being $3.35 for some choice heifer stuff from the western slope. There was a right fair demand for good cow steers, but there was nothing here with much weight. The bulk of the offerings in this division were two-year-olds, weighing from 900 to 1200 pounds, and selling from $3.40 to $3.80. Veal is almost unsalable.

There have been lots of sheep in the yards under the past week, but the bulk of them has been contract stuff going through to the feed lots. Some trading, however, has been done here in the yards on feeding lambs which have sold all the way from $4.35 to $4.50, f. p. r.

The feature of last week's cattle market was our sale on Thursday of 40 tons of mixed cow hiders, averaging 1225 pounds, at $4.40, for J. A. McMurtre of Greenland, Colo. These were very high bred short horns some as fat as good grass could make them.

Jack London's New Book. Jack London has just written a book of 142,000 words entitled "Martin Eden." The Pacific Monthly has purchased for $7,000 the serial rights for this vivid story. It began in the September number of the Pacific Monthly and will run for 12 months. "Martin Eden" is a character study—the story of a fighter—a fighter as a newsboy in the alleys of San Francisco; a fighter as a rowdy in slums; and finally, a fighter for education and culture, struggling against the odds of common birth and vulgar environment, with a desperation of courage that presents a powerful blending of brutality of strength with sublimity of purpose. His inspiration is a woman of the higher sphere of life, but his motive is the mighty impulse that animates a soul and brain born to expand until fettering ignorance is sundered and ignoble influence trampled under foot.

It is not too much to say of "Martin Eden" that it possesses more of fascination and virility, grips the imagination and the sympathies more keenly, and imparts more of courage than any book produced in years.

Send 50 cents in stamps to The Pacific Monthly and they will mail you The Pacific Monthly for six months beginning with the September number, in which the first installment of London's story appears.

GRAPHIC STORY
OF TWIN FALLS

TOLD BY A REPRESENTATIVE OF HARPER'S.

Pretty Pen Picture of the Development of the Great Tracts Under the Canal Systems and Comparison with Government Methods.

The following, which appeared in the issue of Harper's Weekly, is from the pen of a special correspondent, Mr. Sill, who visited Twin Falls and studied conditions for horses:

America has now triumphed over Egypt and India in holding what was soon to be the largest irrigated tract of desert land in the world. This is what is known as the Twin Falls country, in the still new and young but ardently enthusiastic state of Idaho.
The Idaho men "mean business" and the story of the Twin Falls country is worth telling.

If the reader has never seen a tract of western "desert" country—a brown, treeless, arid stretch of land, overgrown sparsely with scruboak, he has missed one of the most discouraging and disconsolate sights in nature.
This was the desolate appearance presented early in 1903 by the land which now occupies the distinction already mentioned. Now the women are playing bridge in the very places where five years ago a scruboak bush mournfully sprouted. Such is modern progress in the west. But think what it means. The game of bridge requires a table, chairs, cards, and packs of cards, but houses—not only houses, but homes, and a more or less established and well organized society—and all this within five miles of the town of Twin Falls, with its 4,000 inhabitants, an infant town three years old, but a most precocious infant, and one of the marvels of modern American life. Three years is a short time in which to enable men and women, however determined and capable, to build and inhabit a town with waterworks, a fine schoolhouse costing $50,000, the telephone, telegraph and electric railway of every city, hospital and hotels, and a park laid out for future embellishment. The Egyptians and Indians, who have had rather a good start in the matter of time and learning, would marvel somewhat at this youthful city. They have never in all the ages of the world, done anything exactly like this. The observer naturally inquires who was responsible for it, who had the grit and the faith to start the wheels turning? It was the long untried dream of one man. This is the story.

One Man's Work.

One Ira Bert Perrine, generally known affectionately in the country side as "Bert," who hailed from Indiana and had come to school in Iowa, drifted west to Idaho, drawn by the new mining discoveries that were then becoming famous. This was in 1882.
After making several ventures which plainly he submitted to failure, went farther south in Idaho, took up land and started what we call a dairy farm to the east, but which he knows as the West as a "milk ranch." Mr. Perrine happened to possess an imagination, and he loved natural scenery. He selected a region along the Snake river, a canyon of the Snake river—that stream, a thousand miles long, of which the world will some day hear more than it does now. The river flows between lava cliffs that rise to a height of 600 and 700 feet in some places, and even higher in others, leaps over tremendous rocks in the twin falls which have given their name to this country, and a few miles distant, plunges impetuously 210 feet over picturesque rocks that form one of the wildest and most beautiful places of the earth, known as Shoshone falls. Shoshone is the Indian word for "snags." Much smaller in volume, but higher, these falls at high water seem to many visitors far more lovely and picturesque than Niagara itself. Near this romantic spot Mr.
Perrine found in a hollow among the massive but forbidding hills and two small lakes like melted sapphires.
"I liked the look of the place, and I wanted it," he explained to the writer, with straightforward simplicity. So he took it. It was 28 miles from the railroad, and the new owner had no friend in the country except his partner and a man known as "Cyclone Bob."

How It Originated.

Perrine is a practical man, and worked hard, but in the back of his head he had dreams, and one day he and Cyclone Bob started out to "make a water location." That is to say, find some place where the waters of the Snake river could be diverted for irrigation. They found the place—a desert land covered with scruboak.
The outlook was so discouraging that the enthusiasm of Cyclone Bob cooled.
"It may be done some time, Bert," he said, "but it won't be in our time, and I don't care to do the necessary work."
Flying words! "It is done," but Perrine was true to his dream, and the reputation he has acquired is that of a man who never gives up. He "made the location," acquired the land, and bought out his partner by giving a mortgage on the milk ranch. Then he settled down working hard and held on like a bulldog. For eight or ten years he tried to interest capital in his vision of a fertile and beautiful country, removed from the desolation of scruboak brush by the fruitful waters of the Snake river. No one believed in it—at least, no one who had the money.
The engineers stated their faith in the projected enterprise—D. W. Ross, who was state engineer, and A. D.
Foot, husband of Mary Hitchcock Foot, the author who then lived in Idaho. Finally, after repeated trips east, Mr. Perrine found some broad-minded Pennsylvania Dutchman who had insufficient money to do the work and the same time, and when Perrine drives around the Twin Falls country today, and stops at the Perrine hotel, and sees the ladies playing bridge cheerfully over the places where the scruboak used to be, perhaps he approves of himself, but nobody knows about it, for he is the most modest and good-natured of men.

Immense Outlay.
The Twin Falls project has therefore been the work of liberal private enterprise from start to finish, and its success—the greatest financial success of any irrigation project in the history of the country—has interested the government. Secretary Garfield visited the works and was impressed with the work and the extent of view. Incidentally he himself made the most favorable impression upon the engineers and the busy land-office men of the region. What the secretary saw was more than 1,000 miles of canals already completed, and a tract of over 300,000 acres under irrigation. The ultimate project under irrigation, when the entire Twin Falls project shall have been completed, will be 1,300,000 acres. This part of the work, which covers the town of Twin Falls and adjacent country, and includes the great "rock-filled" Millner dam, was completed in the fall of 1907 and cost over $1,000,000; and these figures will convey an understanding of the difficulty Mr. Perrine met in getting other men to believe in his dream of a desert country transformed into a comparative Paradise.

The Carey Act.
The companies back of the Twin Falls work happened to be intelligent and liberal, and they set to work methods. They liked them better than some of the government's methods, and they will not wonder at this when you learn that the government is still frequently granting lands under the ancient homestead law—a law which would be enough in states like Nebraska, for instance, which Idaho men call an Eastern state, where rain falls, and a settler siding up land can make a living out of it the first year. But the far-eastern lands, the so-called desert lands, a settler needs water—artificially devised water—such as he got this farm. Sometimes so soon as he got this farm. Sometimes the government irrigation projects have been slow in construction and the water has not been delivered in time, and the hardships resulting have been more trying than any inhabitant of a naturally watered country can realize. Also, under the ancient homestead law, the settler gets no title to his land before the expiration of five years. Therefore, he can get no credit for necessities. Settlers usually have children to feed; but what does the government expect? One western lawyer recently made the extreme statement that under the homestead law, as it operates on desert lands, the estate agent brings settlers out only to starve them; but it might be better put in this way—let the government, by this old system, does not seem to benefit settlers who have no capital, which is not true, and if true would be a cruel injustice, and an absurdity in a popular government, with vast lands to cultivate. It must not be supposed that the government's intentions towards settlers are not fair and friendly. It does not intend to cause suffering by this system, but the contrary. The trouble lies in the slower movements of a large body such as the government must be, and in red tape which cannot be avoided.
But the West has something to say on these subjects, and the Carey act, and incidentally Secretary Garfield's recent trip to the desert lands, were steps in the right direction. What some men of the West feel to be the best method would be for the government to undertake those works that are too vast in scope to attract private enterprise, such as the building of reservoirs in regions where water can be stored up, leaving the distribution of the water to the states and to individual companies.

Advantages to Settlers.
The Twin Falls project was undertaken under the provisions of the Carey act, and was worked out in this way. The several companies which acted made a contract with the State of Idaho for the construction of the irrigation system, and the state furnished an expert engineer to supervise the work. This allowed great activity in the operations and avoided the red tape delays and obstructions which invariably, and possibly necessarily, impede government work of this kind. When the works were completed they were turned over, tract by tract, for permanent ownership to the settlers who the land, who in return pay to the companies a moderate and reasonable charge for water rights. These water-right charges ceased after ten years, and the land becomes possessed of what are known as "perpetual water rights," the companies turning over the works, as before said, to the municipality, which thereafter owns them absolutely.
Then the companies, after installing at their own expense civic waterworks, a telephone system, an electric railway, and a hotel—starting a little city, in fact—withdraw with their profits and begin another enterprise.
This, at least, is the plan of the Twin Falls companies, and the United States government has several reasons to learn from their methods in dealing with settlers.

Thirst for Land.
One of the most interesting sights to be seen on the days when they were in the city was the throng of irrigated land after another "hold-all drawing." The latest drawing occurred on the first of last June.
The drawing was held in a public hall, and was open to all. The public in fact, is founded on that of a lottery, excitement runs high, and the last drawing drew an enthusiastic crowd in the city hall. The about 1,000 men present, who filled the hotel, the Pullman cars that waited for them on the tracks, and a few others, were in the stable of the events a night. The drawing system is as follows: The state supervised the lottery, which provided a number for each parcel of land of one to 10 acres. These numbers were registered in a book against the names of applicants. Each number was then marked on a small black ball, and the balls were placed in a large churn, and a police officer drew out the blocks.
A man with a megaphone notified the crowd of the numbers drawn, and the holders selected their parcels of land in rotation as their numbers were drawn out, the man whose number came first having, thereby the right to select the location of his land first. The drawing required two days. The contracts had been already prepared, and applicants could fill out and sign them five minutes after they had chosen their location. So eager were the people to take up the land that it was estimated they would have taken five times as much as was ready for distribution. While a few of them bought for speculation, more than 90 per cent bought the land for homes and settled on it. As settlers under the Carey act are not compelled to take possession of their land until the water is ready for delivery, there is no heart-breaking struggle on dry lands while waiting for the completion of irrigation canals, and this is a valuable example for the government to consider. Some loyal government officials will tell you that when the settlers and their families suffer on desert lands it is their own fault for going on such lands at all before the water is there. A railroad might as well blame passengers for accidents which the railroad has failed to take precautions against. No the truth is that the government has not kept pace with the growth of the country, and its system of land allotment and irrigation is still in bad need of sensible development. It is conceded that the government's dams are magnificent works, carefully constructed in every sense; but expert engineers agree in pronouncing the irrigation system of the private companies here mentioned comparable to the federal works. Independent corporations can work more freely and rapidly than the government, and must at the same time be reliable and fair in all their dealings, for the result would be ruinous to themselves if in any way they betrayed their settlers. The western land is strewn with the wrecks of irrigation companies that have failed in the past through defects in their system or lack of sufficient capital. It is true that the government charges less for irrigated land rights, but the fatal defects in some parts of the present system do not offset the lower price of its land or justify its benevolent intentions. Men come to the land office here hungry for a piece of land that they can call their own, and willing to face any ordinary hardship to acquire it; but to present a trustful settler with a tract of waterless land for a home, as the government sometimes does, compel him to live on it, and then fall to deliver the water in the right way, is hardly to do him a service, and is somewhat like conferring a benefit with one hand and giving a blow with the other. The wives of such settlers could tell moving tales of their share of the hardships. The government reclamation service is always studying conditions, of course, with a view to betterment.

Intensive Farming.
These irrigated lands encourage "intensive" cultivation, and the farms now average only 80 acres instead of the 120 of some years ago. For in this part of the country the farmer can take three crops of alfalfa off his land in one year. As the reader is probably aware, alfalfa, also known as Spanish trefoil, French or Chilean clover, and by other names, has been cultivated from very ancient times and furnishes food for cows, horses and pigs. The saying is that "everything eats alfalfa." The fields of this grass in the irrigated Twin Falls country are among the finest in the world. They are over the knees in height, and so thick a growth that it seems impossible to wade through them. The flower is a rich purple in color. It is interesting to learn that an acre and a half of alfalfa will support three or four cows as against one cow on the same space in the East or Middle West. The roots of some varieties penetrate 18 or 20 feet into the earth, and no fertilizer is required. It is an approaching improvement over the barren sagebrush which it has supplanted.

As we drove past these fruitful fields, a picture of lush luxuriance and plenty, and remembered the arid lands, tanned and cracked with the heat and drought, desolate, hopeless, impossible, through which we had passed the previous day, we inquired if Mr. Ferrino ever allowed himself the luxury of saying "I told you so;" but no one has ever heard him, for he is, as I have said, one of the most modest and amiable of men, as dreamers sometimes are.

BIG LAND DEAL IS CLOSED
Sparks-Harrall Property Acquired by Utahns.
A deal has been closed whereby David Eccles, M. S. Brown, Adam Patterson, Joseph Scowcroft and others became owners of a strip of land in northwest Nevada, part of the tract extending into Idaho.

The land acquired by the Utahns is known as the Sparks-Harrall ranch, and is said to be 125 miles long by 40 miles wide. As nearly as can be learned today, the purchase price is in the neighborhood of $300,000. The papers have been signed, the deal closed and the property turned over to the persons named.

BEAUTIFUL SHOSHONE BASIN IS NOW UNDER IRRIGATION

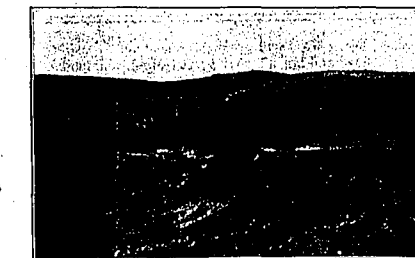

Twin Falls-Shoshone Land & Water Company Has About Completed a Dam and Canal System Which Will Reclaim 10,000 Acres in Twin Falls County, Adjoining the Cassia National Forest—Free Range, Abundance of Spring Water and Unlimited Timber Land Attraction to the Project, Which Is Also Within Easy Distance of the Famous Contact Mining Camp and Near the Proposed Railway From Twin Falls to the Southern and Western Pacific at Wells, Nevada.

Down in the beautiful Shoshone basin, 27 miles southeast of Twin Falls, almost in the heart of the Cassia national forest, the Twin Falls Shoshone Land & Water Co. has almost completed one of the most compact and practical irrigation systems in the west. It is not so large as the average project, but it is much more picturesque and, strange to say, it is almost noiseless. Comparatively few citizens of Twin Falls county know anything about it, although it is more than 90 per cent completed. It will cover 10,000 acres, the major portion of which has already been flooded upon under the desert and homestead acts. In Shoshone basin is the prettiest spot in Twin Falls county. The pictures accompanying this story give no idea of its beauty. The two forks of Shoshone creek, from which the basin gets its name, come together about half a mile below the forest ranger's cabin. The forks join in a nice meadow from which the basin gets its name. The water is taken from the base of the dam through a cement tunnel, which the hills, 500 to 700 feet high, A spillway on the north bank is provided for the flood season. For a distance of three miles below the dam the natural bed of the stream will be used as a canal. At the point where the creek emerges from the canyon and the valley begins to widen into a rolling plateau, the water is diverted into the canal on a water course. The canal winds for a short who are still residents of Twin Falls county, Shoshone basin was the ideal spot for hunting deer. "Buck" Rice, who ranged horses for years in what is now the Cassia national forest, has frequently counted more than 100 deer in a night on one-trail from the door of his cabin. The basin was the great grazing ground and is probably today unexcelled in the state. The soil is dark and rich in humus. Immense quantities of spruce gum from the hillsides and the surroundings are beautiful in the extreme. The Shoshone creek project was started in August, 1906, by F. L. Diefenderfer, who filed upon 71 second the canal and flow at right angles to project originated, and who has stuck it into the creek. These springs, which are commonly called sloughs, afford perfect drainage and will also furnish an abundance of stock water the winter months. They have never been known to dry up and are of great value as a source of domestic water supply. It is only necessary to dig a well a few feet in depth anywhere in the vicinity of one of these sloughs to obtain all the water necessary for stock and domestic use. The soil is volcanic ash, richer in humus than that of the Snake river plains because of rank growth of the grass, which gives it a dark appearance near the surface. In places are beds of clay which, when burned, and hardens like rock. It is of excellent quality for brick making and will all probably be used extensively for that purpose because of the abundance of fuel close at hand. The immediate proximity of the Cassia national forest is of immense benefit to the Shoshone project, part of which is within the forest boundary. It will enable the settlers to obtain all the timber they need for building and fuel without cost and with no more trouble than if they owned the land from which the timber is taken. As previously stated, most of the land to be irrigated has already been taken under the homestead and desert acts. The members of the company own several thousand acres and it was primarily for the irrigation of their holdings that the project was started. They will have a large tract under cultivation next spring and several settlers, owning land under the desert act, are already developing their farms. Extensive tracts of grain will be sowed and a considerable acreage will be seeded to grasses. Several of the settlers have set out fruit trees which are thriving nicely. Some of them grew their own garden truck this year and will plant more extensively next spring. The splendid free range adjacent to the irrigated tract affords fine opportunities for stock raising and it is probable that this will be a distinctive feature of the project. Fall wheat and alfalfa are being extensively sown and timothy will also be raised. Mr. F. R. Landis has a fine stand of alfalfa which he planted in the spring and which he proposes to irrigate this year. On account of the difficulty in getting labor it was found impossible to complete the canal in time for use during the irrigation season recently closed. Most of the work was done, but there were a few rocky points to be blasted out and it was hard to get closed. Had the canal been finished, it would have been an easy matter to turn the flow of the creek into the ditch and cover the land without waiting for the completion of

These springs, which are commonly called sloughs, afford perfect drainage and will also furnish an abundance of stock water the winter months. They have never been known to dry up and are of great value as a source of domestic water supply. It is only necessary to dig a well a few feet in depth anywhere in the vicinity of one of these sloughs to obtain all the water necessary for stock and domestic use. The soil is volcanic ash, richer in humus than that of the Snake river plains because of rank growth of the grass, which gives it a dark appearance near the surface. In places are beds of clay which, when burned, and hardens like rock. It is of excellent quality for brick making and will all probably be used extensively for that purpose because of the abundance of fuel close at hand. The immediate proximity of the Cassia national forest is of immense benefit to the Shoshone project, part of which is within the forest boundary. It will enable the settlers to obtain all the timber they need for building and fuel without cost and with no more trouble than if they owned the land from which the timber is taken. As previously stated, most of the land to be irrigated has already been taken under the homestead and desert acts. The members of the company own several thousand acres and it was primarily for the irrigation of

The Republican meeting scheduled to take place Monday, the 29th, was sidetracked by the non-appearance of the speakers as advertised, news of which was handed around by some one, apparently. Committeeman Belmont was very much displeased by the absence of the attendance and says it will force him to greater effort to get the full vote out on election day. He can do it without the use of soft soap, honey or cheese, and will not have to rely on main strength either. He wears a Taft button in his buttonhole.

Our friend from Panama, P. W. Davis, in charge of the contract department, has blossomed forth into the appearance of a three time winner and has gone over to Jovene to startle the natives with his splendor, a la Solomon of great fame. Next time you see him, just ask him why. He'll get red behind the ears and make grand motions with his eyebrows, and gasp like a fish on the ground, but that's about as far as he'll go. There's a reason.

ANOTHER PET THEORY SMASHED

Amphibious Cat is Discovered in Snake River Valley.

The time-honored theory that a cat will not take to water has been shattered by the performance of a snake family feline owned by L. H. Sweetser of Burley, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor. Mr. Sweetser's farm is on the bank of the river, which at this point is fringed by willows and heavy underbrush, affording shelter for wildcats, which are very numerous. Neither Mr. Sweetser nor his neighbors have been able to keep domestic cats. It is a singular fact that a wildcat will invariably slay and devour all the domestic cats in the neighborhood of its operations.

Mr. Sweetser has a cat, however, that knows a trick or two. It reported morning after morning for months, greatly to his surprise. One day he observed his mousetrapping streaking through the brush in front of a large bobcat. It seemed as though at least one of the mousetraps were about to be sacrificed. As the bobcat was about to close in for a kill, Tommy jumped into the river and left his bloodstained paws purled on the bank. The bobcat retired and Tommy emerged from the stream, bedraggled but safe. Since then the cat has been seen repeating the feat many times. Scores of spectators who have watched the strange behavior of the cat vouch for the fact that it will swim around in the river when pursued and remain in the water until danger has passed. Mr. Sweetser is thinking about training the cat to retrieve ducks.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The Commercial class vs. the Juniors and freshmen, a game of football, Friday, November 6th, at 3:30, in the baseball park.

The Pocastello academy and Twin Falls High school will play the game of basketball scheduled for them Saturday, November 21st. This will determine which team is the champion. The Pocastello academy has never been defeated and the same is true of the Twin Falls High school. The girls are working hard and expect to win. Come out and see one of the fastest games in Twin Falls.

This week has kept the pupils busy taking their monthly test and the teachers making out their report cards, which the pupils will receive Monday.

The High school declamatory contest will be given in the school auditorium November 20 and there will also be a musical program given with it.

The freshmen will give a Halloween party to the High school Saturday evening in the K. P. hall. Every one is to wear a sheet and pillow case.

My name is Dr. Bryan.
And I live on Easy street,
Tis there you'll find me all my life
With little jokes so neat.
On governmental ownership
And banks that cannot bust
And all the glittering fallacies
That sensible men distrust.

Oh, Dr. Bryan,
Give up a theory new;
Good old Dr. Bryan
What can we do for you, for you?

My name is Dr. Bryan
And I cannot change it yet,
There are so very many things
Which people won't forget.
Pretty little theories,
That like Limbo sent,
Rise up like ghosts to hinder them
From making me president!

HAS AN HONORABLE RECORD

Judge Shields is a Candidate Who Has Earned Support.

James W. Shields, Republican candidate for probate judge, was born in the Buckeye state in 1847. When five years old his parents took him to Indiana. In his 16th year he enlisted in the Eleventh I. V. I. and served in that regiment and the One Hundred and Thirtieth I. V. I. until the close of the war. He took part in the siege of Vicksburg, the battles of Chickamauga and Missionary Ridge, and the nine pitched battles of the Atlanta campaign. Leaving Sherman's army at Atlanta, he returned with his regiment under General Thomas and saw the destruction of Hood's army at Franklin and Nashville.

For 17 months of his army service the boy Shields was lieutenant in command of his company. He received two wounds, a saber stroke and a bullet wound, and was in prison at Libby and Salisbury five months. While in prison he with two of his comrades drew death warrants, which, on account of the intervention of Secretary of War Stanton, were not executed.

At the close of the war he made a client of the globe in the secret service of the United States.

Judge Shields went to Colorado in 1877. In 1880 he was elected judge of the Rio Grande county court, a court having concurrent jurisdiction with the District court in common law and equity matters up to $2,000. He remained on the bench for 15 years. After retiring from the bench he continued the practice of his profession in Colorado until his removal to Idaho in 1905.
