

LAND MUST BE CULTIVATED

WITHIN FIVE YEARS AFTER THE DELIVERY OF WATER.

Speculators Who Do Not Reclaim Their Land This Year Will Lose Their Water Rights—So Declares Judge C. O. Stockslager.

The headgate and measuring device problems were again the subject of discussion at the meeting of the governing board of the Twin Falls Canal association last Saturday. It was decided to begin a test case against the Twin Falls Land & Water Co. to determine where the measuring devices shall be located. In the meantime the company will put in the devices, leaving to the courts to decide who is to pay for those demanded by the settlers. The same plan will be followed with respect to the headgates which will be put in by the company and charged up against the settlers until such time as the courts decide who is to bear the cost. A blue print of the proposed plan will be sent to Professor Waller at Pullman, Wash., for his inspection.

During the course of a discussion regarding the cultivation and cultivation of Carey act land, Judge Stockslager stated that the speculators who were not improving their lands were surely losing their water rights within a year. The law contemplates cultivation and did not recognize any man's right to let his land run to weeds to four or five miles neighbor. The day is at hand, said the judge, that the South Side tract will have its water measured to it and when that time comes the water supply will be decreased according to the acreage under cultivation. Land which has not been cultivated within the years after the delivery of water will not hold a water right. This is a plain provision and will be rigidly enforced.

APPROVED BY SENATOR CAREY

Father of the Carey Act Indorses the Irrigation Congress.

Joseph M. Carey of Chayenne, Wyo., author of the Carey act, under which thousands of acres of arid lands have been reclaimed, was probably will be one of the speakers at the Seventeenth National Irrigation congress in Spokane, August 9 to 14, which is to be held in the city of Spokane, Idaho. In his address to the local board of control, that he believes these congresses have been productive of much good, also that the very thing which has made the convention will be largely attended, for the reason that delegates going to or returning from the Alaska-Yukon Pacific exposition may stop off at Spokane without additional expense.

"I have believed and I still believe that the best to confer the work of the congress purely to the business bearing upon the subject of irrigation," Mr. Carey says, "and to strike every other subject that puts in an appearance with a declaration that irrigation means the destruction of the arid lands, and to this confine the congress. This, of course, includes the very thing which has made everything with reference to land legislation and land distribution."

Mr. Carey also suggested that the farmers and ranchmen, Harrison won three times and Gaut, D. Holohan and Fraser each won once. In the fourth round Farrell and Fisher each won twice and Herrington and Wyland one.

RETURN WITH A CLEAR RECORD

Senator Sweeley and Representative McKinley Home.

Senator M. J. Sweeley and Representative A. D. McKinley have returned from the state capital where they capably and ably represented Twin Falls county in the legislature which has just adjourned. The only child they live up to every good made in the state and county platforms, but they speedily established themselves in the front rank of the Republican party and occupied the most honorable positions in both houses. Their counsel was at all times sought and heeded and they conducted themselves in a manner which reflected the highest credit upon their constituents.

Senator Sweeley was conspicuously active during the entire session. In addition to his support of the party pledges, he was directly instrumental in securing the appropriation for a state park at the Shoshone falls, also in passing the measure whereby Twin Falls and Lincoln counties are given the right to join in bonding for the erection of a bridge across the Snake river.

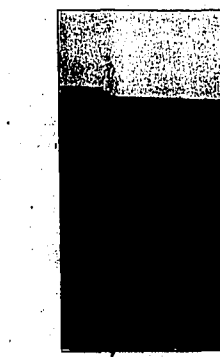

Several other important measures bear Senator Sweeley's name. Representative McKinley was tireless in his efforts to secure beneficial legislation. As chairman of the fish and game committee he succeeded in drawing a bill which secures to every requirement of the sportsman. He also favored both measures by which Twin Falls county became a county of the first class He put through the bridge bond bill and secured an additional representative for Twin Falls county in the next legislature.

"All told, we had a very pleasant session," said Senator Sweeley, "I formed some acquaintanceship which I value highly and I have a more lofty appreciation of the great state of Idaho."

"It was a pleasure for me to work with my colleague, Mr. McKinley. We stood shoulder to shoulder on every important measure and I have a very high appreciation of his work. He was always active and alert and he gave his constituents the best there was in him."

"It was a peculiar season in many respects," said Mr. McKinley, "but when you look over the work you will find that much was accomplished. The party pledges were kept and many good laws were enacted. Stockslager was really the strongest man in the upper house. He had the respect and confidence of both sides and in many a hard fought battle he showed his ability to come successfully with the lowest of the opposition. He made a fine impression and we got along splendidly together."

Art Harrison leads in the competition for the Dupont trophy. By getting three wins in the third round he secured late first place. The other marksmen are trading on his heels and he will have to "smoke up" in the last round to hold his advantage. Harrison was shot on Sunday morning and so close are the shooters bunched that any one of three or four men may pull down the prize. In addition to the trophy, Gaut & Co. have put up a valuable piece, easily worth $15 which will fall to some lucky man.

By calling it now it can be voted on at the regular school election and save additional expense. It will also give the district, if carried, six school directors instead of three.

CITIZENSHIP OF IRRIGATED WEST

INTERESTING STUDY MADE BY H. A. BEREMAN.

West is Drawing the Finest Class of Citizens—Pan Picture of the Typical Irrigation Pioneer as Found on Twin Falls Tract.

H. A. Bereman of Chicago, editor of the Farmer's Voice, who recently visited the Twin Falls country, was greatly impressed with the character of the citizenship which he found in this section. He frequently remarked that he had never met such a superior class of people, a class that was so uniformly progressive, optimistic and active. In his last issue Mr. Bereman has the following to say regarding the citizenship of the west:

We are never satisfied unless we can classify and generalize. Indeed, it may be that much of civilization is due to this bent in human nature to set things off in masses of similarity. Science itself is said to be classified common sense. Add to this the well-nigh universal interest of man in himself as a natural product and it is not wonder Tarlox said, "the noblest study of mankind is man."

This patriotic season, when we have been celebrating the birthdays of our two most eminent Americans, affords a curious inquiry. "What is an American?" We can classify a Zulu, they "all look alike to us." The Jew responds to a fairly well fixed type. Most of us think of an Englishman as stout, florid, side-whiskered, broad-chested, blue-eyed and toothy. The typical Frenchman is familiar to all readers of the Sunday Slush. Who could mistake the gentleman with the large nose, the round figure, the small twinkling eye and the strain of beer? Confidently, let it be known that there are swarthy Britishers, rosinated Hebrews, fat and pinky-skinned, slim, black-eyed and melancholy Germans. But the types, as asserted, are fairly well fixed.

To classify and label an American is the dream of the ethnologist. Our youth as a nation, our open door policy, our democratic habits—all tend to amalgamate the various and diverse elements thrown into the melting pot, and what do we get? While the Maine Yankee is not more like the Arizona cowboy than the Florida cracker resembles the New York club man, those who travel much over the wide expanse of American soil will have no difficulty in finding many similar traits in the peoples of certain localities.

Characteristics common to our whole population are our natural independence resulting from being born under the stars, and our self-confidence growing out of our opportunities of becoming president (or something equally as good); our physical hardiness due to our contact with (in which we should glory) that we are mongrels and not bred to the point of extinction.

I started out to tell something of the people who are populating the new agricultural regions of our great northwest, but I am likely to have more plausible than argument—like a pollywog, more head than body. There is much to be said about the irrigation pioneer, too, so let us begin by saying that he looks like an American. I am inclined to believe that most of them are Anglo-Saxons, too big, blonde, self-contained, quiet and inoffensive, but look terrible if they start to fight; fearless, courageous, industrious, intelligent, despising social conventions and petty niceties of conduct and dress; hardy, tough and enduring.

They are the farmer type. Even the city men, who may some day be guilty of wearing a plug hat on Sunday or a dress suit to the governor's ball, look like prosperous farmers or stockmen. I took my brown derby because it is the kind of hat I can wear in Chicago with safety; but I will sadly out of the running. A stiff hat is a foolish thing at best. While in the land of the irrigation ditch I wanted a big, wide-brimmed, grey felt hat with a dent each corner. It did wear one for a spell, and I can recommend it for comfort, dash and economy. If I could have put on a pair of country trousers (not too new), a pair of high cut, lace, tan shoes, well oiled with neatfoot, a flannel shirt with a soft rolling collar and a soft silk tie, I would have needed but a coat to match the pants, three months of sunshine on my complexion, unlimited faith in the proposition and a ton of good humor to pass for a motive. A native meaning, of course, one born back in the states but now a fixture on the project.

Can't you see him? At the post office in Twin Falls had to get in line for my mail and stood with a long string of men of this type. They don't all look alike either. There were, I think, handsome, plain, prosperous, struggling, keen-eyed and unsophisticated fellows. Some wore stiff hats and stretched collars; some wore curious and some wore hats. Even there they differentiated, but the common type is as I have written it.

One might suppose that in a new country the greatest cosmopolitanism would be seen. But the fact seems to be that a common cause and common sentiment has created out from our whole mass of polyglot, hybrid, mixed and varied population just those who fit the environment. These men resemble each other by a kind of natural selection. You know how a potato sorter works, don't you? All the small potatoes run into one box; the big ones into another; and so on. They stand forthwardness is appealing to one who is thoroughly democratic at heart. It is refreshing to live in a community where there are no social distinctions and where aristocracy has not yet tainted the air with pharisaical frotage. A man is measured by what he is, not by what he has; pretentiousness is what his father did or was. Did it ever occur to you, gentle reader, how silly it is to boast of one's ancestry, as though we were in some way responsible for their greatness? A trifling of pride might be shown by a father in a son who made good, but the trouble with that is that in nine cases out of 10 the boy gets there in spite of the old man, not by his help. It will be apparent to every one that the appeal of a pioneer land brings together a distinct class—the unafraid, the daring, the adventurous. The weak willies, the abject, the lazy, the mortgage ridden, the vacillating stay at home.

Also it is evident that the scholar, the high-browed man of books, the poet, artist, the Bohemian and the socially swagger are not among those present. The men who people a new country are constructive. They build homes and cities; they subdue the wilderness and make two blades of alfalfa grow where before there was but one sagebrush; they live any old way until they get settled, and discomfort, privations, disappointments only season them.

It is the land of the optimist. I prescribe a year in Idaho, Washington, Oregon, Wyoming, Montana, Utah or Colorado setting out apple trees and paddling in the water as a sure cure for agrivorous prosperity or ingratitude.

What kind of women, did you ask? Well, now, say; they are just the kind of women you would expect to go with the kind of a man—and there you have it. Cook? Why, but I must not forget that the rare air gives one a fearful appetite. And I found women who are just a man—and there you have it. The higher significances of the synthetic philosophy; but better than that, they didn't. Why, some of those western men guess that will be about all for the present.

TWIN FALLS NEWS

George B. Frazer, Editor.

Published every Friday by THE NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY TWIN FALLS, IDAHO.

Subscription Rates. One Year in Advance, $1.50 Six Months, in Advance, .90

Entered as second-class matter October 3, 1901, at the postoffice at Twin Falls, Idaho, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

The county commissioners are doing everything in their power to put a stop to the perilous practice of flooding public roads with waste water. They have impressed upon the road overseers the necessity of keeping close watch and prosecuting all offenders without fear or favor. It is not a pleasant undertaking for a road overseer to bring his neighbor into court and have him fined for running water in the road, but the law must be obeyed and the only way to compel obedience is to prosecute. W. H. Cullington, who is overseer in district No. 7, south of town, in which there was considerable complaint last year, has announced that he will impartially enforce the law and the regulations of the commissioners. In outlining his intentions Mr. Cullington stated that he would not hesitate to prosecute his own brother if need be. That is the proper spirit and once it becomes known that prompt prosecution will follow every infraction of law the annoyance from waste water will cease. There has been one prosecution already in No. 7 district and it has had a salutary effect. The law does not contemplate punishment a man because one of his ditches happens to break, but if he deliberately and wantonly wastes water into the highway he should be brought to book. The county is going to spend many thousands of dollars on the roads this year and there is no reason why every property owner should not lend his hearty support to the good roads movement.

A prominent merchant from a nearby city was in Twin Falls this week looking into business conditions. He said he saw no reason why this should not be a prosperous year for the entire tract. In the city, he remarked, more than $1,000,000 would be expended in building operations. The Salmon River company will pay out more than $1,000,000 in Twin Falls for labor during the next 12 months. These two certainties, together with the bright prospects for railway construction south and other big undertakings, such as sewer work and paving, would keep money in circulation. The gentleman said he had made the mistake of his life in not investing in Twin Falls sooner than he did, but he added that it was not too late now by any means and he proposed to get in deeper.

It is unfortunate that construction work on the railway from Twin Falls to Wells, Nevada, should be delayed by the controversy over survey lines. This controversy has been hanging fire for years and should have been settled long ago. It matters not how the decision goes, the question should be settled and settled quickly. Road improvements are also hampered, much to the annoyance of the county commissioners and road overseers. Now that the attorneys have prevailed to buy themselves, action within a reasonable time may be expected. Meanwhile nothing can be done on right of way. If the supreme court should decide that the government lines must be followed, President F. F. Johnson of the First National bank would acquire the Rock creek bridge on the Short Line and also the southern railway terminal. Should company lines be adhered to, this property would remain on Mr. Fargo's land. No right of way negotiations can be conducted until the survey case is decided.

Notice. Entries under the various canal systems are notified that under a recent ruling of the State Land board it is necessary for them to deliver to the undersigned their certificates of entry at the time of making final proof. E. B. WILLIAMS, Representative of the State Land Board.

COMMISSIONERS OBEY ORDER

Grant Liquor License to Moore and Wamsley.

In compliance with the order of the district court, the county commissioners have issued a liquor license to Moore & Wamsley. Under the provisions of Judge Walters' decision the commissioners had no alternative. The only question before them was the incorporation of the city of Twin Falls. If they found that Twin Falls was an incorporated city, they were obliged to issue the license. County Attorney Guthrie said he had carefully read up on the case and had also the opinion of the attorney general and other prominent attorneys; which satisfied him it would be useless to appeal from the decision of Judge Walters as the question had already been determined by the supreme court.

EQUINE ARISTOCRATS ARRIVE

Martin Schwab Brings in His First Lot of Horses.

The most costly consignment of harness-bred pure brought to Twin Falls at any one time arrived on the freight train early this morning. It consisted of three Royal Belgians and one German coach stallion, the property of Martin Schwab, Jr., who is about to build breeding and sale barns on his Blue Lakes avenue property. The animals are all young, the oldest being under four years old. The Belgians are "top" horses, beautiful in conformation, stylish in action and as gentle as kittens. They have in their veins the best blood of the Belgian strain and in appearance they show their breeding. The German coach horse is a likely looking individual, just the sort of an animal a traveler would pick out for a heavy job and a heavy road. He has the action of a standard bred and the bone and weight of a roadster, with the courage and style of his own breed. His limbs and hoofs are just right for the road and he looks as though he could go all day and repeat as long as wanted. The horses were all taken to the Farmers Real Estate & Livestock company's barn where they will be quartered for the present. If you want to see some good horses, take a peek.

We have a large number of relinquishments for sale of North Side lands, and the prices are very attractive. Remember that the Clover Creek lands sold at $45.00 per acre, which is equivalent to $10.00 bonus on North Side tract. Our prices for relinquishments range from $3.00 per acre, bonus upwards. There is considerable activity in lands on the North Side now and this is the time to buy if you want to invest, or to sell if you have land and wish to dispose of it. Inquiries cheerfully answered. Martin Schwab, Jr. TWIN FALLS, IDAHO. Importer and breeder of Percherons, Belgians, Shires and Coach horses.

My second importation of Stallions will land Thursday. They consist of three Royal Belgians and one German Coach Stallion. They are as good as money could buy, coming three and four-year-old and weighing up to 2200 pounds. Any community in need of a Stallion will find it profitable to inspect these grand horses or write me. I guarantee my Stallions and, being a resident and property owner here, my guarantee can be and is a square deal to all. These Stallions should go into the hands of good men at once, and will leave thousands of dollars in this section of the country.

You will find the horses at McMaster & Smith's big sale barn until I can build barns on my own property on Blue Lakes boulevard. I am here to stay—support an honest home business.

J. Ernest White has purchased an interest in the 40 acres which T. M. Callahan recently purchased through him from D. B. Moorman. The tract will be sold into acreage and placed upon the market. It is within the city limits and has the advantages of sewerage and city water.

T. M. Boner of Shenandoah, Iowa, and his son-in-law, H. C. Polly of Sheridan, Wyo., were here this week, looking over the country. They were shown around by Charlie McMaster and J. C. Beauchamp and they probably saw the best there was to see. Both gentlemen were very favorably impressed.

Ed Couso came in on Monday from California. While he was in transfer business in Twin Falls he knew everybody in town, but he had to hunt for familiar faces this trip. He said the change for the better was remarkable and was only approached by the development on the west end which was something to boast about.

Mr. Austin of Idaho Falls and J. A. Smith of Blackfoot addressed the Commercial club on Tuesday evening on the subject of sugar beet culture and beet factories. They were listened to with keen attention and at the conclusion of the meeting a resolution pledging the support of the club in any movement toward the erection of a beet sugar factory was adopted.

James McMillan of Twin Falls has been appointed watermaster for the second district which includes Twin Falls county. The appointment came to him unexpected as the result of a flurry over the confirmation of W. Van Horn at which the county balked. Mr. McMillan's qualifications are excellent as he has had years of experience in the work assigned to him. He has received many hearty congratulations.

Henry Smith of Contact, Nevada, was in Twin Falls this week, selling lots in the Contact township. He disposed of more than 50 lots in two days and has appointed H. B. Clifton and M. B. Mendenhall as his resident agents. The township owned by Mr. Smith is the best location in the Salmon valley in the vicinity of Contact, having a nice slope, perfect drainage and a good domestic water supply from two big springs above. Well water can also be obtained at a great depth. Electric power is likewise within reach of the new town which only needs a railroad to become one of the best mining towns in the west.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Sprague moved to his old home in Boise on Monday on Second avenue west, yesterday.

J. H. Wise left on Saturday evening for his old home in Winstons, Mo. Whether he was called by a telegram announcing the critical illness of his father.

Everyone interested in Sunday school work is invited to attend the sessions and take part therein.

Henry Workman, Jr., youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Workman of Murtaugh, died on Wednesday, March 10, aged two months. The funeral service was held on Thursday morning, interment being in the family lot at Murtaugh under the direction of H. E. Hunt & Co. The many friends of the grief stricken parents extend their heartfelt sympathy.

Rev. E. R. Hornstrom, who with Mrs. Hermlanson has been conducting a very successful series of revival meetings in Pocatello, will return to Buhl on Sunday, March 14, and conduct morning and evening services in the chapel car. Mr. and Mrs. Hornstrom have filled two churches in Pocatello and have been hospitably entertained in the Gate City. As a result of their work there were more than 100 conversions.

The Short Line has provided a new solid train for the Twin Falls passenger run. It consists of three cars, fresh from the Pocatello shops, combination mail and baggage, smoker and coach. The train makes a two day run to Buhl, but it necessitates two shifts a day for Conductor Joe McManis who has to keep up the speedy finish. Engineer John Johnson will face every day to preserve appearances.

The ladies of the Springs club have provided an excellent program for the entertainment which they will give in the Bickel school auditorium on Friday evening, March 19. Aside from the purpose of raising funds for the purpose of raising funds with which to pay off the indebtedness incurred by the athletic teams last autumn, the young folks will present "Rito Grande" and judging by past performances they will furnish a splendid entertainment. It is necessary that the hall tickets should be met promptly as the school will not be in good standing until the debt is satisfied.

HILLSDALE STORE OPENS ITS DOORS

SUCCESSFUL BASKET SOCIAL IN SCHOOLHOUSE.

Many Up-to-Date Farmers Are Settling on the First Segregation—Excavation Started for Basement of New Warehouse.

HILLSDALE, Idaho, March 10.—A very successful basket social was held in the schoolhouse last week which netted about $25. This money is to be applied on the purchase of an acre for the new day school.

The store is now open for business with a complete stock of general merchandise. It is under the management of Mr. Holles.

Mr. Holles, who owns a fine 50-acre ranch northwest of Hillsdale, has started his spring work. He is an up-to-date farmer and says he would not trade his Hillsdale ranch for any place in Idaho. Mr. Holles raised some fine cats last year and has some good seed on hand.

L. French came over from Twin Falls last week with his horses and will soon be turning the sod on his ranch north of Hillsdale.

John Shields came over from Twin Falls last week to visit his brother, Arthur. He returned in time to take in the I. O. O. F. initiation in Jerome.

Mr. Swan went to Twin Falls last week to purchase a team of horses.

Many up-to-date farmers are arriving in this section of the county and all are enthusiastic over the prospects. They have started to buy their ranches and as they are not of the slow type, there will be something doing in this vicinity in the farming line before long.

The weather is still wet, even though the state is going dry.

M. B. Corcoran has sold over 4000 bushels of oats at his ranch during the past two weeks. He is happy to think that he will not have to haul his grain to market.

Frank Allen has arrived from Filer and has moved to his ranch, two miles northeast of Hillsdale.

Mr. Ford went to Twin Falls last Saturday to purchase a team of horses.

Mr. Atherton has purchased a supply of seed potatoes from Floyd Brown.

St. John Skinner of Twin Falls made a flying visit to his Hillsdale ranch last week.

The excavation for the basement of the new warehouse has been started under the supervision of A. G. Shields. The building will be located back of the store.

THIRTY-FIVE DOLLARS PER TON

How a Michigan Farmer Turned Alfalfa into Money.

Thirty-five dollars a ton for hay is not a bad price, but that is the figure that the new Lenawee Co., Mich., figures his entire crop will net him this winter. In his own language he bought cheap western lambs at Chicago, fed them on a minimum basis and a maximum alfalfa ration and sent the finished product to Buffalo where the average weight of his fat western lambs has been close to 100 pounds. When fall ends have been marketed he believes the winter average will not be less than 95 pounds. His average purchasing price at Chicago was $1.50 per head and the average selling price at Buffalo $7 per head. His grain ration has cost $1.10 per head and the balance is credited to alfalfa.

This is the first year Mr. Clark has been stony with grain, to use his own expression. Corn was high and he practically cut the grain ration of former years in two. A heavy accident was his inspiration. Last summer a bunch of farm-worn horses were turned into a field containing an alfalfa stack and waxed so fat that a Boston buyer took them at an attractive price. As $5 per ton was the best price offered for alfalfa hay Mr. Clark went to Chicago and secured a load of about 1000 western lambs. He fed them exactly one bushel of corn less than has been his custom and they actually made heavier gains demonstrating to his satisfaction at least that less corn and more alfalfa is the best policy in fitting lambs for market.

"I would sooner have one ton of alfalfa than two tons of clover," he said. "We get about four tons of alfalfa in three cuttings on our land and I have one piece that has yielded 43 cuttings in two years. Although I have been successfully growing alfalfa in Lenawee county 18 years little interest has been created. Perhaps there are 200 acres in town, certainly not more. Until this year I have not realized its value for fattening purposes and I am satisfied that every acre of western alfalfa has netted me $25."—Breeder's Gazette.

There is a good sermon in the Michigan story. They have purchased Idaho lambs. Every year thousands of Idaho lambs are shipped to the eastern markets and fattened. The same five valleys is the greatest section for alfalfa in the country and is unsurpassed as a grain producer. There is no reason why Idaho lambs cannot be fattened at home cheaper than they can elsewhere. It is simply a question of knowing how. If the Michigan man can make his hay worth $25 per ton by turning it into mutton, the Twin Falls farmer ought to be able to do better.

TWIN FALLS IS THE ATTRACTION
UNABATED INTEREST SHOWN IN CHICAGO.
 Lecturers Attract Crowds That Pack the Auditoriums and Intelligent Questioning Shows That People Are Looking Westward Eagerly.

(From Our Special Correspondent.)
 CHICAGO, March 5.—The recent cement exhibit held in the Coliseum seems to have given an impetus to the use of this material in the construction of dwellings. Many suburbs of the city have charming residences of this material. Your correspondent recalls one which might be called the pioneer of this class of residence, that was put up in Rosewood, some 16 years ago. This class affected not to like it, dubbed it an innovation in the legitimate carpentry of housing—the city and it stood in its soft, grey tones harmonizing with trees and landscape, generally, and there it stands today, as fresh and while its neighbors to right and left, comparatively newly constructed houses of frame, look forlorn and cheap in comparison with its ermine construction and solidity of form. There is to be an entire suburb, or rather community, built of this material some distance north of Chicago in the near future. You have a few dwellings in the Twin Falls country. Cement is cheaper in the east. It does not deteriorate in frame structures do; the houses built of it are cooler in summer and more easily kept warm in winter. So, home, it would be well for settlers and farmers to investigate the merits of cement as a material for the foundation and walls of either residence or business structures.

There is not a day passes in Chicago but what a dozen or more men, from the hobos to the well-dressed financier, are piled under a car for spitting. Yes, at last the city authorities are prosecuting with considerable vigor, the violators of decency. Each in his own way, spitting either on street car or sidewalk, and a dollar for expenses. So beware if any splitters, of course they are not in the Twin Falls country should exult to Chicago, for some few of those arrested put in the plea that they had "just come in from the hills and don't know anything as to the ordinance. One, a Kansas man, and another from the wilds of Michigan, but each had to pay his two dollars all the same. Before this ordinance was enforced, our street cars were made filthy and loathsome with the expectation of every man that had acquired the habit of making the floor a receptacle for germs-laden filth. The spread of diseases of lungs and throat, and that terror—tuberculosis—is directly traceable to this disgusting habit. Many, many years ago, when Charles Dickens visited America, he commented in his serious and humorous fashion on this habit. He was cordially hated for telling some wholesome truths. Today his memory is revered, and the "do not spit on the floor," which appears on the cars of most of the transportation lines of all cities in the United States, suggests that Dickens was none too severe in his criticism.
 Well, one would think there was but one desirable spot on earth, had he dropped in casually, as your correspondent did on Tuesday morning last to the office of H. L. Hollister. There were representatives of the legal, medical and architectural professions, of the building and various other trades, and all trying to talk at one time about Idaho, and particularly the Twin Falls country. And all seemed to be on the eve of going there, for the "train," that particular Idaho train was leaving in the evening. Mr. Hollister, in his serious and thoughtful manner, seemed trying to respond to the appeal of half a dozen at one time; the lecturers wedged in between other bunches and found their standing being outside by several who had been there, were going again, and who would not live in any other place if you would give them the chance to try it. A young brother, who had been out with the engineers on the North Side tract, had the glow of Idaho sunshine yet in his complexion. Frank McGowan, because he was again going out that evening, showed a countenance that would have outdone the orators of the Roosevelt era. Your correspondent came away from this crowd of enthusiastic workers for Idaho filled with regret that he might not be one going on "with 'em." But the truth is, unless you really come in contact with those who are seeking information, seriously regarding your marvelous country, you cannot understand the awakening spirit that has seized hold of people of intelligence from all walks in life regarding the prospects for settlement in the Twin Falls country. One of the lecturers, Colonel Hoop, has had some of the very worst nights of the season in which to fill the lecture on the Twin Falls country. Snow that blocked traffic to a certain extent; wind that nearly swept one off their feet; slush over the tops of the houses; rain falling and splashing that cut the face like electric shocks, yet the people always more than filled the designated lecture room. Heads and feet of the representatives of one of the largest harvesting implement companies met on one not over-lapsing night in full force to hear Mr. Marian A. White's lecture on the "Wonders of Irrigation." Intelligent questioning follows, and the whole of the Twin Falls country, with its evolution in irrigated farming and its untold development of towns and homes, is becoming now something of more value than a fairy story. If you only could conceive of all the wondrous things we are expecting of you, in civics, economics and socially, you would each and every one as man—yes and as woman too, for you are on an equal with you—look to your armor, that there be no flaw nor defect through which the winged shaft of criticism may pierce you before you have labored for all time, built nobly, build broadly and graciously.

IDAHO GROWS THE BEST SPUDS
 So Declares the Commercial Agent of the Santa Fe.

C. F. Warren, commercial agent for the Santa Fe, Toppo, & Santa Fe, brought back with him yesterday from Idaho a glowing account of the prosperity experienced by farmers in the valley of Idaho Falls on account of his potato crops last year, says the Salt Lake Herald. He says that country now promises to eclipse the Greeley, Colo., country in quantity and quality of its output. Potatoes from Idaho Falls this year have been shipped in every direction. Local markets have been found for them, and good prices have been secured. The Idaho Falls region, he says, has made a big reputation for potato in this season, and it is probable that they are to be of more importance in the future than even the sugar beet industry. He says that the Twin Falls tract has also grown some excellent potatoes, and that this crop will be grown more extensively on that tract the coming year.
 "Probably 1500 cars of potatoes have been shipped from Idaho Falls since last fall," stated Mr. Warren yesterday, "and, of that amount, it is estimated that only 250 cars went to Texas. The potatoes grown there are of most excellent quality, neatly and good keeping—fully as good as any grown at Greeley. Greeley for years has had the bulge on potatoes, but it will have to acknowledge honors for southern Idaho now. The Idaho potatoes found a ready market last season. The demand was greater than the supply. The crop was shipped in every direction—east, west, south and north. Butte got most of its supply there, and so did Spokane and Seattle. The spuds were also shipped east to New York and south and west to San Francisco, San Diego and California ports. But the biggest shipments were to Texas."

BUHL TO HAVE A BOOSTER BALLAD

COMPOSITION BY MISS IDA C. PALMER OF CHICAGO.

Song is Entitled "Buhl, in the Valley of the West"—Will Be Published and Placed on Sale at Once by the Composer.

BUHL, Idaho, March 10. — Conn Finn of Walla Walla, Wash., who owns a ranch southeast of Buhl, arrived in town Saturday to look after his interests here. He was in this vicinity a year ago, and was much pleased and surprised at the progress made in the past year. He has made arrangements to set out 10 acres of fruit this spring.

Jack Howe of Abbey is in Boise in attendance at the federal court as a juror.

G. H. Payne, who had his leg amputated a short while ago in the hospital in Twin Falls, returned to Buhl Monday and is now stopping at the home of Mr. Hopkins in the west part of town. Mr. Payne has a hard set of it, but he is doing fine now and will soon be able to be around in good shape.

H. W. Pitt was in town Monday for supplies. He says that the affairs in his neighborhood is beginning to show signs of spring. He predicts a great crop this year on account of the unusual amount of moisture in the ground.

R. E. Brown is in Salt Lake, having been suddenly called there by the illness of his mother, who is said to be very low.

Van Low, Lon Lilly and Misses Lillian and Hazel Lilly drove into Twin Falls Sunday to visit a sister of the Lillys living in that town, spent the day with her and had a fine time. Things changed on the way home, and one of the party now has a sad remembrance of the jolly trip. Van Low lost his pocketbook, which contained bank checks to the amount of $40 and coyote bounty coupons to the amount of $18, somewhere between Twin Falls and Buhl, on the return trip.

Bruce Howard is on the sick list this week. He is not seriously ill.

A. J. Milnor returned Monday from California, where he spent several weeks visiting his family, who are spending the winter there.

The musical entertainment given in the opera house Friday night for the benefit of Miss Mary Gordiner and her mother was a grand success from all points of view. The house was crowded, and the music and singing were excellent, an original song, "Buhl, in the Valley of the West," composed by Miss Ida C. Palmer of Chicago for the occasion, was sung by Miss Palmer and Ad. J. Nowton. The song is a patriotic and laudatory one and brought forth enthusiastic applause and cheers. The song will be set to music, illustrated and will be on sale in Buhl by a short time. Miss Palmer leaves for Chicago this evening to make arrangements for the publishing of the song and setting it to music. She has been getting pictures of all kinds of scenery and people around here with which to illustrate the song. Miss Palmer is simply delighted with the west, particularly the southern part, and especially the west end of the Twin Falls tract, where she owns considerable property. She will return to Buhl in June to remain permanently, which will be good news for society people here, as she is a highly talented lady and not afraid to make use of her talents. She was the leading spirit in getting up the entertainment for Miss Gordiner. Her talents along certain lines may be seen from the fact that she sold tickets for the entertainment to old bachelors for their wives and children. One hundred and twenty-five dollars was realized from the sale of tickets, donated by Messrs. Hopkins and Snodgrass.

Daniel Leach, father of Richard Leach, superintendent of the Buhl waterworks system, passed through Buhl Saturday on his way from St. Louis to Alaska, where he is going to prospect for the yellow metal. Mr. Leach stopped over to visit his son and to obtain several powers of attorney which were given to him by his wife to locate claims for them in the frozen north. Mr. Leach will not be a stranger in the Youkon country. He has been there before and he feels confident that he knows where he can make a rich strike. If he does, and makes it, Buhl will have some wealthy old bachelors. We hope he will discover tons of it.
