Another Store for Murtaugh
WILL SOON BE OPENED BY M. B. BOLEY.
Building Nearly Completed and Stock Has Been Ordered.—J. W. Walker Makes a Good Sale of Lambs to the A. J. Knollin Co.

MURTAUGH, Idaho, July 14.—M. B. Boley, one of the city's best business men, is imbued with the progressive spirit. Believing the town could support another general store, Mr. Boley decided to put up a building and embark in business. The building is 20 feet by 40, with a basement. Jess Draper is doing the carpenter work and has the interior nearly completed. The floor is down and a grand ball and ice cream social will be given on Friday evening of this week. Mr. Boley has ordered his stock and will carry a complete line of general merchandise. In addition to the business interests of Murtaugh, the mail order houses should be sure his patrons.

Within a few feet of the center of the Twin Falls townsite, water was struck at a depth of 180 feet. The well is now down 240 feet and contains 60 feet of pure, cold water. Contractor Cochran has encountered a strata of gravel, lying below a heavy layer of basalt rock, which an artesian flow. In any event there is no surprise if he struck an artesian flow. In any event there is an abundance of excellent water for public use. The ease with which deep well water was obtained sustains the contention of Mark Murtaugh and others who have always insisted that it was possible to procure well water at a reasonable depth. It also removes the only objection urged against Twin Falls and the Twin Falls tract, which was the lack of well water. Of the many wells driven during the present year, all have yielded an abundance of water within 250 feet. Before the progressive people of Buhl made the first demonstration, it was generally supposed that the water plain lay at great depth below the south side tract. This idea has been completely dispipated and there is now no reason why every farmer should not have a well at his home from which he can draw pure water by using a windmill. The citizens will now be supplied with pure drinking water, the intention being to install a plant to pump water for public use.

FOR SALE—40 acres, 1 1/2 miles from Fliler; no timber; all in crops; 1000 feet of water; 22 acres in alfalfa, timothy and clover. Buyer to get landlord's share of crop. All road overseers have been instructed to file complaints against those who run water into the high line after the first notice. Complaints are so numerous and the violation of the law are so flagrant that the measures are necessary.

Mr. Armstrong, division superintendent of the Rocky Mountain Telephone Co., is here arranging for the installation of the new exchange at Buhl and the extension of the toll line to Boise. Mr. Armstrong brought his little daughter with him for an outing.

Harry Allen has tendered his resignation as secretary of the Twin Falls Commercial club and will engage in business for himself. The board has accepted Mr. Allen's resignation and report. Dr. Crocker is giving his attention to the club's affairs for the present.

George W. Skoels of Cincinnati, Ohio, who represents the Globe, Wernicke Co., is in Twin Falls visiting his mother and brother. Howard Skoels is an old friend of Eldridge, being a graduate of the college and a member of the fraternity.

While fishing from a window in the overlooking the tallrace, one of the operators at the falls power plant, caught a trout 20 inches long, which weighed four pounds. The boys at the falls are greatly excited over the catch. The expectation of further captures.

It may have been a coincidence and it may be. Charlie Burton and Mrs. Burton, on the same train Wednesday for the east. Presumably Mrs. Burton is in care for the latest. Mr. Burton and Charlie Burton considered to see that she did not get away on route. Further, Mrs. Burton could not be obtained regarding the matter, but the Salt Lake City papers were eagerly scanned by the friends of the popular pair.

J. Rosenberg of the Pacific Cantillo Co. has decided to purchase the Jerome townsite. Judge Alfred Shuman is going to bring his family from the City and make their headquarters at carrying down the street. His grip, Mr. McPherson is dreaming of luscious fields and sleek cattle. He is anxious to get on the action with a grubbing.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. McCollum have returned from a delightful trip to Seattle and the Seattle fair. Ed was somewhat troubled by the surplus of sunshine. He sat up all night on one occasion, waiting until it was dark enough to have him retire. He also got to wind his watch and insisted upon being served with ham and eggs at 11 p. m. The captain finally arranged to have him undisturbed at his usual retiring hour and he was all right thereafter. The first day he was in Seattle Mr. McCollum received his mail and postcard. He was glad to receive information regarding his irrigated lands in Idaho. This shows the need of literature at the fair.

Rev. and Mrs. Chamberlain are now settled in their new home next to the Episcopal church, and will from now on give their undivided attention to the work of the church in Twin Falls. Divine services will be held every Sunday at 11 a. m. and 3 p. m., and not as heretofore on two Sundays of the month. This will be most welcome news to all of the members and worshippers at the Episcopal church who have had a hard time to keep track of when services would be held. Next Sunday a fine musical program will be rendered by the large vested choir which Mr. Chamberlain has himself been training during the past two months.
WATER AT
M. F. Cochran and Shafter, who live on the well on the city lot at Second avenue north, struck water at 180 feet. It rose 50 feet in the well and while the supply seemed to be ample, it was decided to go down to the third floor. The well is now down 240 feet and contains 60 feet of pure, cold water. The drill passed through a strata of basalt rock 40 feet in thickness after which a layer of gravel was encountered. The formation indicates the possibility of an artesian flow. There is an abundance of water now and the committee, consisting of H. W. J. Young and A. R. Moore is arranging to have it piped to Main avenue and Shoshone street.

Small friend but by the way, most of the milk first month is right, then as a day for another month, I now add gradually a little. I think it will pay to feed H2O, or whole milk for three to four days. By no other way that I know of you can grow a calf make so good a cow as by whole milk at this time. The milk is not used through fourth year. When I left off the milk entirely, say at four, I would try to replace what was lost by adding our middings, oil meal, and so, or very finely ground alfalfa. Some of the prepared commercial feeds may be good, but they are too expensive. I would supply it, but ways feed a little grain, in period of annual life, after BUHL, Idaho, July 14.—Mrs. F. S. Marshall returned home from Greeley, Iowa, Friday. Mrs. Marshall was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. M. A. Webster, who will make Buhl her future home. Mrs. Webster intends to invest in Buhl town property and build.

The Filer Films is moving to Buhl. The press is already in place and the rest of the plant will soon be in position for operating. Messrs. Hows and Turpin will be the proprietors, editors and managers of the paper. They are both first class newspaper men, thoroughly familiar with all parts of the business; which is a guarantee that the paper will be first class in all respects.

There was a meeting of the stockholders of the Creamery company last Thursday afternoon. The reports of the officers showed that everything was in satisfactory shape, except that some of the subscribers to the stock were a little slow in meeting their assessments. The assessments should be paid in promptly in order that the management may be able to borrow for want of money, of which there will be plenty if all who subscribed for stock will pay their assessments. The cost of the plant is something over $5,000.00. More than that amount of the stock has been subscribed. The second installment on the price of the machinery is now due and money is needed to pay it. The first batch of butter was turned out last Saturday. It was of the very best quality and showed that the plant was up-to-date in every respect and that these in charge fully understand their business. An ice manufacturing plant is connected with the creamery from which ice will be sold, adding another source of revenue to the concern.

A great deal has been said about the moose hunt on earth, and who he is, was, or might be. He belongs to that large and well known family of Smiths. A youngster eight years old living on several miles in the country holds a permit to witness the moose game Sunday started to walk to town. On the way he met the said Smith, in a wagon and asked him for a ride. The latter agreed to let him to town for two bits and the boy paid it. Buhl is not proud of the prize it wins in showing that the moose hunt on earth lives in its neighborhood. Buhl is game and willing to take the bitter with the sweet. Hand over the horns.

The Boosters shut out the Rubbers, I mean the Reports, Sunday. The score being 0 in favor of the Boosters. The game was not called until late in the afternoon, as the visiting team came in on the afternoon train. But it was not until the game from the start. The Rubbers couldn't find McCreary, who was in the box for the Boosters, but Buckman who wore the mask and chest protector had no trouble in judging where the sphere would land after the batter missed it. Wings stopped them short whenever they went between second and third base and Trumpler's big paws covered them when they tried to pass the first bag. Lehman on third and Boswell on second held little to do. May, Bars and Glover in the outfield complained that it was a cold day and that they were chilly. The only time they had a chance to warm up was when they hit for a home run. Buhl has the best ball team in southern Idaho now, and is ready to meet all comers in the state on the diamond. The Boosters play the Twin Falls on Sunday. Watch for a hot game.

A meeting of the local farmers' union was held in Woodmen's hall Saturday afternoon, which was well attended. The reports of the officers showed satisfactory progress being made in increasing the membership and perfecting the organization to comply with the requirements of the National Union.

F. S. Marshall is on the sick list this week. The census taken for the purpose of ascertaining whether Buhl contained a sufficient number of inhabitants to entitle it to become a city of the second class, showed the population to be 1071. A meeting of the board of trustees held last night, the necessary resolution was passed organizing the village into a city of the second class. If we were a poster, we would crow, but we are not. We are only a common Booster.

A cross country club was organized last week with Paul Thomsen, president, Dick Lester, treasurer and Harold Ford corresponding secretary. They have issued a challenge to any club in the Snakeriver valley for a twelve mile run. They had their first run last Wednesday morning.

J. W. Farls, cashier of the Buhl Bank and Trust Co. is in Twin Falls on business. Mrs. McClusky returned home yesterday from Rupert where she had been visiting friends for a week. A letter from Dr. McClusky, who is in Denver undergoing treatment for an ailment of the knee joint, says that an operation has been performed and the doctor is getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances. Dr. S. J. Ross of Denver, Colo., is taking care of Dr. McClusky's practice during the latter's absence. Dr. Ross intends to bring his family to Buhl and reside here permanently.

E. E. Small of Stuart, Iowa, was among the many strangers in Buhl last week. Miss F. Marney of Hagerman was up from the canyon town Thursday on a shopping tour.

Miss G. Miller was up from Twin Falls on week looking after her interests in Buhl. Miss D. Neer was in from Casper Friday shopping. Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Ross of Twin Falls were Buhl visitors Friday. G. Wright and wife of Idaho Falls are guests of Hotel Buhl. C. H. Turner of Green River, Utah, was a Buhl business visitor Friday. J. W. Hayward, the principal stockholder in the Citizens State bank of Vinton, Iowa, is in Buhl inspecting conditions. Mr. Hayward seems to be interested in more than the bank. He takes frequent trips into the country. He acts like one who was going to get some of it. L. Binwell of Blue gulch was over from across the Salmon Friday on a business visit. W. D. Southworth was in from the Casper ranch yesterday looking after his town interests.

The Commercial club is collecting exhibits to be sent to the Oregon Short Line people to be exhibited at Seattle and several state fairs in the Mississippi valley during the fall. A. L. Jessup of Denver registered at Hotel Buhl on Saturday. F. C. Roberts of Sheboygan, Mich., is in Buhl looking over the west end with a view to making an investment. A. W. Hartwell and E. L. Brackett of Casper were among the business visitors in Buhl last week from across the Salmon.

E. F. Ward and R. B. Ward of Wendell were over from the north west end town yesterday on business. Mrs. E. Delbrill was in from the ranch yesterday and did some shipping. Chas. E. Chulas was in from the Highland ranch yesterday. He says that his gasoline engine, which he uses to raise water onto some high ranch lands, works to perfection, and that he would as soon have it as a gravity ditch.

A large number of men and teams from the West End project are camped in town. The main portion of the canals on the project are built. The tunnel is finished and there is no longer any need for such a large force of men and teams. Chief Wilkinson of the fire department was a Twin Falls business visitor Monday.

The first cutting of alfalfa on this end of the tract is immense. In some of the fields it is difficult to drive the wagons between the cocks. All kinds of trees are making fine growth. The fruit trees are doing fine. Grain will soon be ready to cut and promise a good yield. There is considerable talk of having a number of ranches to perfection, and that he would as soon have them arrested for larceny. Many of them were seen stealing bases last Sunday.

HOW TO RAISE DAIRY CALVES

EXPERT BREEDER TELLS HOW IT IS DONE.

Not Such a Hard Task When You Know How—Many Helpful Knacks in the Handling of Dairy Cows and How to Feed Them.

Artemus Ward said of a certain unfortunate man: "It would have been five dollars in his pocket if he had never been born." I think this is a well said of many calves and their owners. I. e., the owners would have been better off if the calf had not been born, and especially some calves I have seen raised by milk sellers. I have been on some farms, where I know the calves are born, it may be some night in winter, in a cold stable, with the mother in rigid condition, and is dropped in a gutter with urine, where it is found next morning. The farmer thinks the calf should be separated from its possible from its mother, that is at once removed, rubbed off and wrapped in a blanket for a day or so begins the most unpleasant process of teaching the calf to drink from a pail. When the mother's milk, in the next winter, I considered fit to go in the milk can, the farmer thinks he cannot afford to feed now milk, and reduces a little now milk with skim milk or hay tea, and now tries to wean the calf. His natural food as soon as possible. Soon he is feeding the calf, perhaps less than a month old, some kind of grain and hay. Calves that do not do as well as these, as there is no stable to clean, so as soon as there is a little grass, they are tied out, perhaps under a tree, but sometimes in the open, without shelter, and exposed to cold nights and storms. As soon as the calf will live it is turned out to pasture. The next winter, if it is fed well, perhaps late cut and ripe. The yearling the next summer has only pasture that dries up after midsummer; is allowed to run with the bull, and becomes a mother at two years old.

My readers may think I am describing extremely and perhaps imaginary cases, but I have seen these conditions on more than one dairy farm, although it is just to say they are somewhat better on very many farms. There are so bad that the remark of Artemus Ward quoted will apply very well. Raising a calf as I have described is a violation of all the principles of motherhood, and is not only unprofitable, but it is a sin for the conscientious man.

Now I want to tell my readers how I try to grow a calf. Note, I say I would try to, and I think I have been fairly successful. The mother, if she is one of the kind that will dry up, I would have dry at least two months, but would have her well fed, but not overfed with protein food, but would like better than anything else, manure, to feed at this time. Do not try to wean or overfeed the cow now, and I think there is less danger from underfeeding. If I did not have roots, I would add more bran to the ration, so as to make it more laxative. I do not think moderate feed of grain would do harm, but green roots seem especially adapted for the cow just before parturition. At this time she should be strong, in good condition, not too fat, and full of vitality. This is the thing to work for, vitality in the animal.

The vigorous animal in good flesh and skin goes her full time, just as well if she overruns it, generally delivers a strong, healthy calf, and the afterbirth comes naturally, and would watch the calf closely, and two or three days before the birth was expected, I would put her in a box stall, or pen, such as there should be in every stable.

Now I will tell how I do when the calf is born, although my plan may not be practicable with a large herd. I tie the cow in a stall wide enough for the calf and mother. Say the stall is seven feet wide, here is four for the mother and three for the calf. At the end of the stall toward the manger, I run a partition through and have it extend within three feet of gutter, i. e., I make a little pen up close to manger for the calf, high enough so the calf cannot suck the cow. The calf is close to the cow, and both are contented. It seems just right to me. The cow is just as happy with the calf near her, as cow nature can be, and she will not hold up her milk after a little, if the calf does not suck, but will give more milk than when worrying about a calf taken away from her. I know that both the cow and calf will thrive better, have seen a cow stay around the barn for weeks, looking for her calf which had been taken away, instead of going off to pasture. I think my plan is right, if not always practicable.

The first food of the calf for a day or two should be the mother's milk, if very rich, reduce with warm water. Left to nature, the calf takes its food several times a day, so I would feed it three or four times or five times a day. I think I would try letting it suck it through an artificial calf feeder, but this must be kept clean and am uncertain about its value. Small quantities, often, of the mother's milk for the first month, is right, then three times a day for another month, but would not say gradually a little skim milk. I think it will pay to feed some new, or whole milk for three to five months. By no other way that man can devise can you grow a calf that will make so good a cow as by feeding whole milk at this time. The calf's stomach is not ready for grain, gruels, hay tea. When I let off the whole milk entirely, say at four months, I would try to replace what is taken out of skim milk by adding a little flour middlings, oil meal, and ground oats, or very finely ground cornmeal. Some of the prepared commercial calf feeds may be good, but generally they are too expensive. When the calf wanted grass and a little naturally, I would supply it, but I would always feed a little grain, in the whole period of animal life, after take the whole milk except what the calf was very good, or I would buy or sell. The calf would never stop growing until it was a yearling.

The winter, when a yearling calf might have early cut to a little grain of a kind is a balance roughage. Keep the heifer away from the bull until at least twenty months after the winter, or better. The heifer should have time to nearly mature before calving and her development should not be interfered with by the udder is not fully developed until the heifer is past two years old, and she needs to be able to expending her energies at the time in feeding the calf, and will make her cow for four or five years. Two and a half or three years is soon enough for a heifer to drop her first calf, many years ago said by experts that a month or two of handling and feeding a calf determines its future value. I would emphasize this fact, and the value of kind treatment. I think that his animals that takes part of them, best never excite fear in the young calves or heifers, when they are to be being handled. Manipulate the udder. Get them used to being handled in all ways and you will have little trouble in milking. Inspire confidence in the animal's confidence, and keep it by kind treatment. There is much can be said about the calf, but a word about heredity will suffice for the article. Someone has said if he was to grow the best man he would want to begin 100 years before the man was born. I think it would be just as well to be well born as possible, and to have all the good qualities that are transmitted from parent to offspring from many years of selection and breeding. Heredity should be reckoned as at least one-half, and handling care and feed the other half.—W. H. Jenkins, in Hoard's Dairyman.

WARNING TO ALFALFA GROWERS

Issued by Professor Titus of the Utah State College.

Prof. E. C. Titus, state entomologist, has issued from the Utah Agricultural Experiment Station a circular for the alfalfa raisers, whether the alfalfa is infected by weevil or by alfalfa leaf-veevil, an introduced alfalfa insect, is now causing damage to lucerne in Salt Lake County. The insect spreads from the weevil or adult stage, and the most injury when in the stages of feeding on the leaves and flowers.

ALFALFA PASTURE FOR HOGS

Good Stand Will Support Twenty-five Head per Acre.

As to the amount of pasturage or the number of hogs alfalfa will carry per acre without injury to the crop, the estimates given by farmers vary considerably, depending on the kind of soil, the fertility of the land, and the size of the hogs pastured. The following, however, is a safe estimate as given by a conservative man who has had much experience in the valley and creek bottom land well set in alfalfa will carry from 15 to 20 head per acre of 50 to 125-pound hogs. Instead of an average certainly will support from eight to ten head of the same kind of hogs. There are fields that have supported 25 head per acre through the winter for a number of years and are still in good condition, and there are other fields that will not furnish pasture for more than five head per acre, but these are extreme. When a field is only used for pasture it is better to divide it into several lots and move the hogs from one to the other as occasion requires.—From Coburn's Swine in America.

MANY SOLDIERS ARE APPLYING

For Lands in the Government Indian Reservations.

James W. Witten, superintendent in charge of the drawing and sale of Indian lands in the Spokane, Coeur d'Alene and Flathead reservations in eastern Washington, northern Idaho and western Montana, where 750,000 acres of land will be opened to settlement at the drawing at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, beginning August 9, estimates that not less than 30,000 former soldiers and sailors will register for lands to be sold between July 15 and August 6. Most of these registrations will be made by accredited agents. The department has noted that a person can register for himself and once for a soldier friend but his authority must be clearly evident from a sworn statement. Most of the applications by soldiers and sailors come from the middle western states, with Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and Indiana supplying about 53 per cent. There are also many from large cities, such as Chicago, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Indianapolis, Detroit, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, and Cleveland, and large numbers from towns in New England and eastern states.

Getting the Facts

In my cow census work, from the Atlantic states to the Mississippi river, I am overwhelmed with the poverty of ideas that are being put into the hands of farmers...

Should Keep Peated

Now we come to the effect of reading dairy papers... How did it affect their profits? They returned 240 more for each 1/2 spent in feed...

Now here is the actual condition of the dairy farms in the most prosperous dairy section of Iowa...

What is Necessary

Everywhere it is necessary beyond a shadow of doubt, that the farmer who reads on this dairy question...

The question for you in Iowa is just the same as it is in Wisconsin...

- (1) The feed of the cow. (2) The expense of preparing her food. (3) The expense of milking and caring for her.

In none of these items are you a wide difference can be seen in the special purpose dairymen of Wisconsin...

To secure that profit you must use the best cow you can get, and you must make yourself as intelligent as the whole of the country...
