TWAS DIFFERENT IN ANCIENT DAYS

WHEN ITALIANS WERE NOT SO EASILY FACIATED.

Railway Construction Crew at Hollister Resents Alleged Assault on One of Their Number and Leave Work in a Body.

What threatened to be an exciting game on the sagebrush on the eastern tract was marred by the explosion of an Italian crew composed of the Utah Construction company's camp, one mile from the townsite of Hollister. One of the laborers declined to heed the directions of the foreman and, as it stated, applied a foul epithet to him. The foreman retaliated by hitting the Italian over the head with a rock, inflicting an ugly wound. The companions of the wounded man ran the foreman off the work. It was reported that the foreman had secured a revolver before taking to the brush and was pursued by the Italians, several of whom wore arms. It was also stated that a number of shots had been fired and several men in Hollister asserted they heard the reports. This statement has not been confirmed.

HAS NO FUNDS TO COMPLETE WORK

PRIVATE CAPITAL TO FINISH PROJECT.

Appropriation for North Side of Boise River on Payette-Boise Project Has Been Exhausted and Land Will Be Relinquished.

Because of the fact, as claimed, that the reclamation service has exhausted the appropriation for the carrying on of the work on the south side of the Payette-Boise irrigation project and is not able at the present time to do any of the contemplated work on the north side of the Boise river, it was learned yesterday that the Clinton-Hurt Irrigation company has decided that it was necessary to reclaim that land and would begin the work as soon as the government relinquishes that part of the property.

RAILROAD WORK IS PROGRESSING

SHORT LINE WORK BEING RAPIDLY COMPLETED. RUPERT TO BOISE.

Lincoln county is the beneficiary of a better railroad. The Harriman plans for the Oregon Short Line through the Boise valley. The new railroad will run parallel to the Southern tracks with station one and Wendell on the new line. J. B. Evans of Salt Lake commission for the Short Line authority for the statement, "The proposed road will be in competition with the 'Idaho' route," the reporter inquired, "No, there will be no competition with the 'Idaho' route," he replied, with a smile.

The Idaho Southern road is being proposed to extend to all built by the Kuhn interests, owners of the Twin Falls National Water company. All present it is being proposed to convert it into an electric line, being a branch line to Boise, crossing the prairie country.

POSTOFFICE FOR "POVERTY"

WITH SERVICE THREE TIMES A WEEK.

New Office to be Supplied from Murtagh-Petition Now Being Circulated for the Creation of a New School District.

BRONCHO AND POVERTY FLAT, Idaho, July 21.—J. E. Bower has his new artesian well down 270 feet, from which depth there is a moderate flow. The main flow has not been tapped and the drilling is continuing. This flow should be struck at a depth of 370 feet, the depth of the spring well. The Jones boys are doing the work and they are making splendid progress.

C. J. Medley has purchased the interest of his brother, Bird Medley, in the crop on the Strong ranch. Albert Derringer is baling hay for the winter. Mr. Kelley reports a good yield. He is selling his hay for $10 per ton, free on board at Murtagh. Ernest Medley, Bird Medley and John Medley will leave on Monday for Kalspell, Montana, to register for the opening of the Flathead Indian reservation. Dr. Thurston is preparing to establish residence on his homestead in section 22, township 11, range 10. The rock taken from J. E. Dower's house on section 26, is probably silver and copper predominating. Samples have been sent away for analysis. H. E. Eden expects to harvest 20 bushels of barley per acre on land which was not irrigated this year. Poverty Flat and Broncho will soon have a postoffice. A petition with a large number of signatures has been sent to the postoffice department at Washington, asking for the establishment of an office at B. E. Medley's residence. Mr. Medley is postmaster. The proposition is to carry the mail three times a week from Murtagh, the delivery to be free of charge for the first six months. Several names have been suggested for the new office from which the department will choose a suitable "handle." The county commissioners will be petitioned to create a new school district including the flat, with a school house on section 26. A census of the flat is being taken. It is expected that favorable action will be taken and the school will be ready for the opening of the autumn term.

IT'S THE WAY TO STOP THEM

PEOPLE ARRESTED AND FINED $100 AND COSTS.

Chief of Police Breaks up a Game, Catching the Players Handed. They Plead Guilty to Judge Smith.

Chief of Police John Harms up a poker game in a local bar last Friday night and arrested Charles Downor, Harry Mc and John Herbst. It was a night and the city jail was any but comfortable. The prisoners were arraigned before Judge Smith, pleaded guilty and were each fined $100 and costs. One of the poolroom operators was fined $50 and cost for permitting gambling on the premises. He stated that the rules of the absolutely prohibited gambling form and he was not aware of it being going on.

BRINDING DOWN THE SETTLER

Reclamation Service Marries Him More Securely to Land.

Under new regulations issued by the interior department settlers on government irrigation projects may prove up on their lands and obtain title at the end of five years' residence provided they have made full payment for their water. But settlers who have made only partial payment for water, even though they have met all requirements of the homestead law, cannot acquire title, nor can they comply with the law and make full charge for water has been paid. This latter restriction is a radical departure from the practice heretofore in the development of the country, which has brought about some criticism from western senators. Under the new regulation, any those who are opposed to the law are wishing to sell and unable to hold the land and make full payments must make off leaving behind all their improvements. The fruits of their labor because they are unable to make full payments. In other words they get nothing for their five years of labor and improvement but leave their improvements to the new owner and lose all the payments they have previously made to the government.

AS IT APPEARS TO JAMES J. HILL

Thinks Congress Should Adjourn for Three Years.

Ironized and rugged after a month of outdoor life in Labrador, James J. Hill arrived in St. Paul to plunge once more into the whirlpool of business life. "Don't you think the Aldrich bill has an important bearing on the future prosperity of the country?" he was asked. "I'll tell you what would have an important bearing on the prosperity of the country. If all the members of congress would come right now and stayed home for three years."

People are hanging on the tariff. "I don't know," he said, "but I think it would be better for the country if congress adjourned for three years."

SPOLIATED A LITTLE TEA PARTY

Because the Tea Happened to be too Exhilarating.

Deputy Sheriff George, who maintains the peace and dignity of the state of Idaho at the Salmon dam, has concluded that either would be objected to the quality of the beverage which was being served to the laborers at the dam, contrary to the intention of the dam. Some of the tea was of the brand that is supposed to have made Milwaukee famous and some was corn juice. The officers concluded that either would be conducive to the progress of the work on the dam and he placed Francis Sizemore and John Freese under arrest, giving them an automobile ride down the river to Twin Falls at their own expense. Sizemore and Freese were privative a portable thirst quenching machine, but they neglected to comply with the necessary formality of procuring a license. Hence their arrest and arraignment before Judge Herrold. They pleaded guilty and were each fined $100 and costs, which they paid

HARVEST IN FULL

BLAST AT BUHL

BUHL, Idaho, July 21.—James Pola met with a painful accident last Wednesday while working in E. A. Wiltoner's yard putting up hay. A falling piece of timber broke a leg, knocking him unconscious, in which condition he remained for about fifteen minutes, when he recovered and started to work again, but was so weak and fainted. He was then taken to Mr. Milner's home and cared for.

A $200.00 steel gasoline lance passed through town last week on its way to Judge Uhlraub's at Riverside, where it was put in commission as a ferry and pleasure boat. The judge is determined to make Riverside an attractive summer resort. It will be done in the future did not leave much to do in the way of improvements. Wingo, Earp and Lucas, two ball tossers and a fan, went to Clear Lake Friday on a fishing trip, but they had no success in their fishing. The ball tossers couldn't catch nor could the fan nor any of the finny tribe. Their failure to hook anything out of the lake is explained by the fact that they are all prohibita, and did not have the right kind of bait. They will know better next time.

NAME IN COLORADO

Having expressed my opinion in the past regarding the one known as the "Homestead Act," I have been asked to write something for publication, knowing as I do the hard lot of homesteader under these projects will do for the Field and Farm.

will say that if a harder lot was ever dealt out to the homesteader in the west I have never met with it and I believe nearly forty years ago with the Greeley colony. There I saw what it took to put water upon the land by people who knew nothing of the science of ditch building or irrigation, but they got the water, even if in small quantities at first. They had hardships to endure, but not to compare with those of the people under the government works. I can not stop talking the land the government is taking, but there should be some means of relief for those who are trying to reclaim homes under these projects. This is what I will try to remember the old song: "The mighty nations in the east and in the west, this glorious young nation is the greatest and the best; there is room for all creation and our banner is unfurled, there's a general invitation to the people of the world. They come along, come along, make no delay, they come from every nation, they come from every way; our lands are broad enough so don't you be alarmed, for Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm." But this is not a fact under the reclamation act. No one seems to know that this land will cost the homestead man who is lured here to this land that should be free. The law should be amended, the homesteader should not be called upon to return the money to the fund from whence it came. There is no cause, sense or justice in it. This money is first taken from the land. Hereafter it went into the general fund and was used for incidental expenses, to dredge harbors and build war ships—all for the benefit of commerce and really nothing else.

Now who made this money or the means of getting it? Who made this country what it is? Who pays our taxes? Who has ever fought our battles and who in the first place gave us a country at all by driving English tyranny from our soil? It was no one but the American farmers. And today you may remove all of our coast defenses, sink all of our battle ships in the deepest seas, land the army of any nation of the earth upon our soil and the farmers can and would whip them off. All this they can, will and have done and more, but yet they are but farmers, lay seals, old hoppers, etc. I will ask why not let the farmers have the land with water for that we can build up the very people who are making our country today, as well as in days gone by.

"The money that is being used to build these works belongs to them and to no one else. Let us take hold of one and all and have congress do this. The only thing congress has ever done for the farmers of the United States has been to tax them. Congress in times gone by has taken one-half of the farmers' land for hundreds of miles and forty miles wide and given it away, then doubled the price of the remainder for the benefit of the farmers. But let by-gones be main by-gones and let us take up the fight for the farmers, or rather make a fight for them that they may rest their own. The farmers should be rewarded by the farm papers to write to their representatives and senators upon this matter.

Appropriations should be made to push these works through for many homesteaders have spent six years upon their land and have had no water yet. What do you say Mr. Editor? Shall we try and do some thing for these people? They have little time to do it for themselves as they have to grow wheat for bread for such as build and support our towns and cities, navy, army, etc. Where would we be without our farmers? Who would so land if the farmers should go on a general strike?

And the polling place to be at the school house in school district No. 21, located on SW 1/4 of section 6, township 11 S., range 14 E.

The application of C. W. Dyer, sheriff, for the appointment of a second deputy sheriff, was not granted.

VARIOUS METHODS TO PREVENT LOSS OF IRRIGATION
 TO BE DEMONSTRATED AT THE IRRIGATION CONGRESS.
 Tract of 10 Acres Set Aside Upon Which all Forms Practiced Will be Shown on the Lands to Which They Are Best Adapted.
 Fourteen approved methods of irrigating, adapted to practically every kind of land and the various tree, root and vine crops, will be demonstrated on 10-acre tract in the Spokane valley within a stone's throw of the city limits in connection with the 17th sessions of the National Irrigation congress in Spokane, August 9 to 14. The purpose is to afford the delegates to the congress and visitors an opportunity to study the best known means of supplying moisture by artificial means to orchards, berries and sugar beet fields, vineyards and hay and grain lands. There will also be demonstrations by manufacturers of apparatus used in modern irrigation. Ten acres of land has been set aside for displays of machinery.
 What is considered by experts to be the acme of scientific irrigation and at the same time the most economical method will be shown in the use of porous tile pipe laid under the ground. The principle is the antithesis of the method in which the joints of the pipes give out sufficient water to supply plant life above them. This plan is declared to be practicable in supplying moisture for fruit trees, vegetables, berries and almost every kind of product, the advantage being that the water carried by the pipes is discharged almost directly to the roots of the plants, instead of on the surface of the soil.
 In comparison with the foregoing plan there will be shown the primary method, practiced by irrigation before it was learned how to distribute water economically and to the best advantage. No grading or leveling was done on this tract; in fact, its contour is as nature left it. Water is taken to the highest point on the land to distribute itself over the ground. This method is a simple waste of water and soil by washing and erosion.
 The individual system, also to be demonstrated, is for pipes laid to every tree. To make it effective the water must have a head. The pipe, which may be small, is run to within three feet of a tree to discharge water into a small chamber built around the tree. This method is desirable in districts where a small amount of water is desired to do a large amount of irrigating. There is no loss from evaporation or seepage, and only the ground in which the tree grows receives the water. The cost of installing this system is much larger than for the open ditch or flume system, but the difference is soon made up on the cost of water, or where it is paid for by the acre-foot.
 Sub-irrigating by means of open ditches will also be shown. The ditches are of such depth that the water is absorbed without disturbing the surface. This method is advantageous where soil has a tendency to bake or become crusted after watering.
 Two tracts will show the practicality of watering steep land in open ditches. The inclines on one tract are from 20 to 45 degrees. The other shows the terrace system, water being dropped from one terrace to the other. It will be demonstrated that land can be irrigated by this plan without washing or erosion.
 One form of the corrugation system is applied to soil where the land slopes in more than one direction, the ditches being made to follow the natural contour, which needs no grading. Water is supplied through one box and the ditches spread out in fan shape over the land.
 Another plan of the so-called corrugation idea, best adapted to sugar beet, alfalfa and grain lands with a gentle slope, is shown by distribution by means of V-shaped ditches 18 inches deep and about 18 inches apart. The marginal dikes or ditches built surrounding the tract of varying size running from one acre to 10 acres in area. To practice this method successfully the land must be level or have only a gentle slope. Sufficient head may be had in the water itself to cause it to spread over the ground.
 On another tract is the ditch system, which follows the natural contour of the land. This method is adapted to ground with a slope, but is not practical for level land. It is similar to the side ditch system, but the first cost is less and the results are as satisfactory.
 The side ditch system is used to best advantage on ground with a uniform slope. The method is to build dikes 100 feet apart, from eight to 12 inches high, depending upon the character of the soil. Water is taken from the head ditch and spread in a sheet over the areas between the dikes. The surplus passes into a ditch and is carried to the next tract.
 The sprinkler plan calls for spray-sprinklers arranged between the trees or vegetable rows and so placed that they water all of the ground. This system can be used in places where water is supplied under pressure.
 Another system is to distribute water to each tree in an open flume. The water is supplied from a head ditch. This is similar to the existing method to individual trees, but is a waste of water, through the cost of installation is less.
 C. M. Speck, chairman of the practical demonstration committee of the Irrigation congress, will be assisted in the demonstration by H. Delepine, an experienced engineer, who has charge of the work and practical irrigators and growers from various parts of the United States and Canada in explaining the various methods of watering land to obtain the best result in the least cost.

TO PREVENT LOSS IN GRAIN FIELDS GRAIN SHOULD BE PROPERLY SHOCKED.
 Colorado Expert Gives His Idea of the Proper Way in Which the Bundles Should be Placed to Get the Best Crop Returns.
 I have shocked grain for many farmers in several of those western states and for many years was recognized as a clever hand at the business. I have found that the following style of shock gives the best results: Take two bundles and brace one against the other with the butts six to twelve inches apart. Set two more pairs of bundles in the same angle close to the first pair. This makes two rows of bundles of three each bracing against each other with an air passage through the shocks at the butts. Place two bundles on each side to brace together. This is about the smallest size of shock—ten bundles—that will stand up, although I often put four pairs first and then brace them with three bundles on each side, making fourteen bundles to the shock.
 When the shocks are complete, a quick vigorous pressure of the hands lengthwise and crosswise on the heads, to draw them closer together, will amply repay the slight amount of time lost in the greater care, because it will be ready quicker to stack or thresh and good shocks will stand the longer against the damage of dry rot which is a great evil. In many places here in Colorado where whole shocks were lying flat, apparently without just cause except the loose work of the stacker and the loss of grain on no one else than the owner. If the farmer doles his grain capped, one good bundle will spread, will cover the top of a shock of ten bundles. Larger shocks require two bundles to cover well.
 The chief advantage and value of capping the shocks lies in preserving the color and luster of the grain under the cap in the shock, so the grain grades better and therefore brings a higher price; whereas, poorly shocked and uncapped shocks are subject to the changes of weather, from dry to wet and wet to dry again, before they are threshed and go to market. The best way to save the grain, unless spread to dry and then later re-shocked. But if shocked as I have described the grain cannot help but dry out whether a winter drier or not. Never place a bundle at either end of the shock to close up the air chamber. Set the shocks north and south so the hot sun will shine on each side of the shock.
 In my constant travels to and from harvest fields, I have observed that it pays to have the grain well shocked. Some people seem to be in such a hurry to have their grain shocked no matter how poorly, if only thrown together. There is no reason for the actual loss in dollars in sale of lower grade of grain, because so many bundles fall flat to the ground, become wet from rain, sprout and grow and even mold and rot and are not ready long enough. I have seen just such conditions. If grain is shocked carefully, and it soon follows with rain and perhaps also with wind the chances are that a great many bundles and even whole shocks will be lying flat on the ground exposed to the unkind effects of that wet and dry weather will give.
 I would suggest that if the farmer is too busy himself to go over the fields again after harvest and re-shock will never be a thing to do, but an extra hand if need be to do this very work for it may be that several weeks will pass between harvest and threshing when, if ever, the government would be prepared to complete the work. In his reply to this request the governor says:
 "The governor hereby thinks the state of Idaho is the better off with any more government reclamation projects and has given the secretary of the interior a gentle hint to that effect. The bona fide settlers of the Puyallup-Bolsa project, who have been waiting a good many years for water, asked the governor to assist them in ascertaining when, if ever, the government would be prepared to complete the work. In his reply to this request the governor says:
 "The secretary of the interior of the Interior today in response to my subject matter of your petition and I am going to say to him that while the state of Idaho appreciates the interest which the federal government has manifested in taking hold of arid lands and putting them under irrigation and cultivation; and that while we hope and think that it is no more than just and right that they complete those projects which are already under construction, yet it is our belief that from this time on the state will be able to bring under cultivation and irrigation all of the available arid lands under the Carey act law."—Rupert Pioneer Record.
