PINCHOT'S FIGHT ON BALLINGER

QUARREL IN PRESIDENT'S OFFICIAL FAMILY.

Likely to Result in a Cabinet Vacancy—If Secretary Wilson is Back of Pinchot Both May Be Obligated to Retire.

Salt Lake Tribune: No doubt the story telegraphed from Washington and printed Friday morning, that Secretary Ballinger of the Interior department is mixed up in Alaska land frauds, is part and parcel of the Pinchot warfare upon the secretary. There is not the least likelihood that there is any substance of truth in this story. It serves, however, to point out the extreme bitterness with which Pinchot is prepared to carry on this war, and it is evident that if Secretary Wilson supports Pinchot in this fight upon the cabinet officer, there must be a vacancy in that cabinet presently.

Chief Forester Pinchot appears to have "set up the pins" for himself pretty well in the irrigation congress at Spokane, but Secretary Ballinger did not lack defenders; and so far as we can see from the reading of the reports, the secretary was able to defend himself successfully, and to the satisfaction of the public. Pinchot has been so much used to railing rough shod over everybody, that, no doubt, he found himself impatient of any opposition in that congress, and some of his supporters seem to have been very arrogant and bitter; still, he could make no headway, and now his tack is taken.

Chief Forester Pinchot has for a number of years been allowed to pursue his policies without regard to law, to the sentiment of the committee where he pushed his pet projects, or to the general welfare of the country. He looks upon the whole matter from the narrow eastern standpoint, which is merely a restorative standpoint, so far as we are concerned out here. No other pioneers in this country ever were afflicted by the interference of the officials, denying them the use of the natural resources; but now when the pioneers undertake to open up this intermountain country, which is harder to develop and make productive than any other portion of the country, official obstacles are thrown in their way to retard progress and development. The sentiment at the bottom of this is partly a more mischievous disposition to meddle and in part it is an crazy idea that something should be done to protect and conserve the public resources; but no protection or conservation that could possibly be effected in all this region would have the least possible influence upon the great mass of the population of the country; it is impractical nonsense, entailing hardships upon the people here, who have trouble enough to open up a difficult region without being hampered by unusual and extraordinary regulations coming from persons who have no interest in the country and who care only for the exploitation of certain theories of their own, no matter whether these theories are good for this region or not, and without regard to the damage they will cause and the hindrance to progress that they entail.

As to this war of Chief Forester Pinchot upon Secretary Ballinger, it is inconceivable that it should be allowed to continue for any great length of time. When Secretary Wilson was confronted with a war upon him by a subordinate of his own, he plainly told President Taft that either he or the subordinate must go, and he promptly and officially decanted. In this instance it is likely that the cabinet officers themselves are at odds, and it will perhaps come to the point as to which must go, or possibly both may go. If Ballinger goes, then Secretary Wilson prevails and Pinchot is triumphant, but if President Taft supports Secretary Ballinger, then it may be that both Wilson and Pinchot will have to go. It is probable that Wilson would see that Pinchot up to a certain point, but no further, in which case Pinchot would go and Wilson remain; but we do not see any possibility of the retention of Pinchot in view of the war he is making upon Secretary Ballinger.

COULD HOLD HER OWN. What She Said About Holding a Homestead

SPOKANE, Aug. 19.—Gracie Croonquist, comely and vivacious, who drew No. 354 in Uncle Sam's big land lottery at Coeur d'Alene, where 3,000 names were drawn from among the 100,000 registered for lands in the Coeur d'Alene reservation, made a witty reply when asked by Judge James W. Witten, superintendent in charge of the drawing, what she would do on a homestead without a husband to run it. She said: "With a dog that grows, a cat that solicits in playing out at night, and a parrot that 'cusses' like a veteran sailor or seasoned mile-whacker, I do not believe I will have occasion to miss a husband. I believe I have all the necessary adjuncts to farm life. I have paddled my own canoe for several years and I think I am qualified to pilot a plow over the hills. However, if the right man comes along I may be induced to share my claim, which timber cruisers say is worth $10,000, with him. Understand I said 'the right man.'"

A Grafting Story. And now a certain investigator claims that by grafting the strawberry plant on an alfalfa root he can produce strawberries all summer. We all know how the alfalfa root goes deep into the earth and brings up so much plant food that if this fellow's theory is correct the strawberry has just got to go on blossoming and fruiting. It is a great scheme, almost equal to the ancient plan of hybridizing the honey bee and the lightning bug so that it could work all night. And moreover it's another talking point for those fellows who have nothing to do but edit the newspapers with all the conspiracy about such things. The possibilities of grafting on the alfalfa plant are respectfully commended to Burbank, Martha Shute and others who seem to have overlooked it heretofore in their grafting operations.—Denver Field and Farm.

FIFTEEN ACRES BRINGS FORTUNE

NORTH IDAHO TRUCK GARDEN SELLS FOR $28,000.

Early Settler Discovers Gold on His Land—Eastern Syndicate to Convert the Farm into a Placer Mine—Privations Rewarded.

SPOKANE, August 19.—Joseph Eakin, a pioneer market gardener of Idaho and former sheriff of Nez Perce county, living in the upper Salmon river country, and his wife have come into their own and will be able to pass the rest of their days in peace and comfort.

Eakin has just sold his truck patch of 15 acres to a syndicate of eastern capitalists for $28,000, and placer mining operations for gold will be carried on there in the future. Eakin discovered the yellow dust in his garden on the river last some time ago, but was not able to develop the property owing to the great expense of installing the necessary machinery. The syndicate has sunk several shafts to bedrock and is preparing to install hydraulic apparatus. The property is in one of the most isolated parts of the upper country, but there are reports to believe that with the development of the mine there will be much activity in the future.

Until a short time ago Mrs. Eakin had set on the feet of a white woman, but now she will be able to travel and visit the larger cities. The family was among the early settlers on the Lewiston flats.

STATE BAND CONTEST.

An Interesting Feature of the Intermountain Fair.

One of the features of the Intermountain fair, at Boise this year, will be a band contest, between the leading organizations of southern Idaho. Professor Breach, who has charge of this department, in an interview with the Statesman, explained the feature as follows: "It is proposed to hold, during the Idaho Intermountain fair, a series of band contests to be participated in by the principal bands of southern Idaho and eastern Oregon," said Professor C. O. Breach in an interview. Mr. Breach has been appointed superintendent of these band contests and is already in touch with several of the bands and their leaders, all of whom are very enthusiastic about the contests. A sufficient number have signified their intention of taking part in the contest to make this not only one of the features of the coming fair, but for other years.

"Contests of this kind," Professor Breach continues, "are a great stimulus to these young and progressive bands and many organizations that start in obscurely often rise to be bands of great credit to their town and state through the well chosen rules and regulations in effect in these contests. The reward is possible only through the effort and intelligent playing of the contestants. It is human nature to be careless, but in a contest of this kind, where every sign of carelessness gives a point to the other fellow, the vigor, energy and performance of any set number of pieces means a careful study by each and every member of the organization taking part."

State Bands Barred.

"To place each band on the same footing, it has been ruled that no local band shall be a contestant and no musician who is a member of the members of the band contesting shall be allowed to play."

"It is hoped that this feature of the fair will appeal to the public, for in no previous year has a more worthy object been set forth. The index of the character of a community is reflected in the music they demand, and adding any band to come to Boise and participate in these contests will surely be sowing the seed that will reap a harvest. It is an intelligent condition of the best music."

"The prizes offered are valuable, and if not for the exalted reason of love for the art, the commercialism, the striving for a prize, ought to be an incentive to bring out a large number of contestants."

THE IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

Is the Irrigation Congress a thing of the past? It was voted at the Spokane session to hold the Eighteenth National Irrigation Congress next year at Pueblo, but in order to hold a congress of irrigators...

In point of attendance the Spokane congress was a success. The manner in which the city took care of its guests and the entertainment afforded is greatly appreciated...

But practical irrigators, men who have spent many years in solving problems and experimenting with theories—men who built up the irrigation congress and made it an organization of national importance—say it is no longer an irrigation congress.

For several years a combination of employees of the forest service and reclamation departments have worked to control the congress in the interest of their chiefs, Forester Pinchot and Director Newell.

At the Spokane congress there were 49 subjects programmed for discussion. But 21 of these subjects had any reference to irrigation, and only six matters brought before the meeting were purely irrigation subjects.

The big meeting was diverted from its purpose and used to boom Pinchot's hobby and brace up the weak places in Mr. Newell's department.

It seemed to be a fitting occasion to further the fight said to be on between Secretary and Newell, Ballinger is a lawyer and is the first western man to fill the position of secretary of the Interior since Secretary Taylor was a member of President Arthur's cabinet.

Naturally there is friction between such men. Ballinger won't stand for Pinchot's theory, and Pinchot is an autocrat who has never been interfered with by a common cabinet member.

The resolutions committee commended, extolled, applauded and eulogized the work of the forestry service of Pinchot and the reclamation service under Newell, but was painfully silent in reference to the work of Secretary Ballinger in enforcing the law.

It is not surprising, then, that the bone and claw of the irrigation congress, the men who attend these sessions for the one purpose of advancing the cause of irrigation, who believe that these meetings are for the purpose of bringing together the best thought and best experience along the line of work, to the end that the exchange of ideas must result in the advancement of practical irrigation and enable greater success in home making of the arid west, have become disgusted with the present management and control of the irrigation congress, and will have no more of it.

The time is almost here when pavement bonds will be voted on. Although viewed from different standpoints by citizens, all presumably having the city's best interests at heart, there are so many valid reasons why the bonds should be voted that room for argument is scarcely visible.

Admittedly Twin Falls is to be a very large city—the greatest commercial metropolis of Southern Idaho. Scarcely any citizen will entertain any other view of Twin Falls' future.

And every dollar invested in pavement adds materially to the value of every foot of real estate. All cities and towns, which have required pavement, always have been proud of their streets therefor.

The bonds provide for paving the street intersections only, in the district to be paved. The abutting property owners in that district pay the principal cost of the improvement.

The project is a good beginning of pavement work, we believe, at the right time; and the probability is that only a few months will elapse after the bonds are authorized, and the pavement is laid, before there will be a unanimous public demand for extension of the paved area.

Every vote for the bonds in the meantime means progress without interruption, and another big step in the rapid career of Twin Falls as a city of the future.

People who have followed the career of Clifford Pinchot, there has been prominent as one of the main agents of former President Roosevelt's public policies, are somewhat puzzled that he should wield the enormous influence which he is manifesting at this time.

mitted. It is folly for us to say there is land in plenty and forests in plenty, when we know that our forests are being depleted far more swiftly than it is possible for us to reforest. We have forests in plenty for the present generation and perhaps for the next, but in the years to come there will be famine aplenty if we don't at this time take the steps in line. Conservation on the lines laid down by Mr. Roosevelt will not only keep our present forests but will give us lumber when we need it most.

Following his plea for the forests Pinchot urged reclamation and said it lies with the West to make fertile with its own labor the vast tracts which otherwise would be lost.

All of which indicates too that Pinchot does not expect in the least degree to be officially decapitated by President Taft as a result of his combat with Secretary Ballinger.

The first public trial of the new direct primary law recently enacted in California, was held in San Francisco Monday last when candidates for the November municipal election were selected.

It is reported that the contest has appeared on the Twin Falls tract. This is what is commonly called the "genius grater," a post to be exterminated by organized resistance.

The second floor provides lodge rooms. Cost is estimated at $24,000. The sketch can be seen at the office of Hill & Taylor.
W. A. Moomaw, a local veteran in the land and real estate business and for three years last connected with J. E. White, has embarked on his own account. His new headquarters are two doors west of the postoffice. Mr. Moomaw's large experience in the tract is likely to serve him well in this new venture.
Monetary Commission Meets.
The monetary commission, composed of representatives and senators in Congress, which will draft a new monetary system for the United States, has been in session in New York this week.
Senator Nelson W. Aldrich of Rhode Island is chairman. It is regarded as one of the most important meetings the commission has held, and it is expected plans will be formulated for submitting the material from which recommendations will be made to Congress.
GIRLS SPANKED PASTOR.
Altar Vacant After Barrel-Stave Birthday Greetings.
Rev. Dr. Benedict, a comely and popular young divine of East Norwalk, Conn., was in bed and in pain one day last week when he should have been conducting the union Congregational and Methodist tent meeting in Westport, all because some young women had spanked him too hard the Saturday night previous in celebration of his birthday. Rev. Mr. Benedict was able to get up and be about in the afternoon, but it was said some days would have to pass before he could eat his meals elsewhere than from the mantelpiece. They were not gentle birthday tips that were administered to Mr. Benedict. They were good, sound cracks from barrel staves, according to the press reports.
Many of the young women admirers of the divine wished to remember him with slippers and other like home effects upon his birthday, but all in vain, for Mr. Benedict resisted all insinuations and questions, however cunningly or sagely put, which pertained to the date of his nativity.
By the aid of the town recorder the desired information was finally obtained, but his time and zeal of the young women took on a little rancor, especially when they found that there were a score of them all with the same purpose in view. They accordingly secured barrel staves from a grocery and waited in the shade of a tree for Rev. Mr. Benedict to return Saturday night. The young divines had no more respect for the sex to use force to bring about a suspension of the birthday remembrance, and he was too dignified to run, as he took it for the matter as his mother applied it in childhood days. But these were so far removed that he effect was more pronounced in a lasting, which had, unless and all the other path killers were applied in the hope of getting to the meeting of Sunday evening, but all in vain. He was too sore to pray, preach or all down.

IDAHO IS A DAIRY STATE

PROFITABLE BUSINESS WHEN PROPERLY CONDUCTED.

Dairyman Fraudson of the State University Issues Interesting Bulletin—Cheap Feed, Good Water and Mild Climate Elements of Success.

Professor J. H. Fraudson, dairyman of the station staff at the State University, has issued the following interesting bulletin:

Perhaps no other state has ever experienced such an array of new settlers as Idaho has witnessed during the last few years. Certainly no agricultural section has ever attracted a more cosmopolitan population. Induced by the possibilities of Idaho land, scores of men of professional training have settled on Idaho farms. College men from nearly every state of the union are to be found here, together with hundreds and hundreds of men fresh from the shops and stores of our congested cities—all seeking a willing and available outlet for the new problems that come with the change of vocation and which confront even the expert farmer in a new country.

Investigations carried on by the dairy department of the University of Idaho show that not only in the newly settled sections but throughout the state many are kept at an actual loss, largely because the farmer has not realized the importance of keeping records of the productive capacity of his herd and has failed to give such attention to details as the importance of the business warrants. It is only a small percentage of the farms of the state that are as yet equipped so as to carry on the business to the best advantage. In many instances common observation shows that no attempt is made to prolong the milking period beyond the summer months. Thus but little winter dairying is done. The question of providing suitable feeds to supplement the forage of the problems demanding more attention. In order that our dairy products may take higher rank it is necessary that more attention be given to health and sanitation as relates to the handling of the barn and to the general methods of handling the milk.

It is with the hope of giving such suggestions as will make dairying more profitable and more desirable as a business and with a view of giving such information as is so much needed by the new settler, that this bulletin has been written.

Many sections of Idaho possess conditions especially favorable to dairying. Here are found cheap land, plenty of good clean feed, rich in protein, good water and a mild and healthful climate. The land is so productive that more cows can be kept on the same amount than in any other section of the state. The various industries in the state, such as mining and lumbering, besides the demands of the Alaskan and oriental trade, tend always to give us a ready market at good prices for dairy products.

It is generally a conceded fact that dairying yields a larger profit than can be expected from any other branch of farming. A good cow will annually yield not much less than 200 pounds of butter which at 28 cents a pound is worth $56. Adding to this the value of 5000 pounds of milk at 20 cents per 100 pounds, and $10 which ought to be a fair value for the feed, we would have a total of $110. Allowing us a fair allowance for fuel consumed, we still have $56 as a profit to pay for the labor and interest on the investment.

However, in addition to this direct profit, we must not fail to lay stress on the importance of dairying as a means of retaining the fertility of the soil. By feeding the raw materials of the farm to the dairy cows (we are not only manufacturing high priced products but we are retaining upon the farm almost the entire amount of fertilizing material taken from the soil by the growing crops.

By selling only cream, or butter, fully 95 per cent of the fertilizing material contained in the feed is retained on the farm. One ton of oats takes from the soil as much fertility as 4.1 tons of cream. As much fertility would be taken from the soil in $20 worth of wheat as in $300 worth of cream.

Those living on the richer soils hardly appreciate the true significance of the importance of soil fertility. This suggestion, however, has but to be mentioned to be understood by the people who have lived in the east. Several of our eastern states are now, spontaneously, expending about $1,000,000,000 for fertilizing material to help them produce crops. In many parts of our own state people are realizing that crops are steadily decreasing, and that if the present system of cropping continues our soil must soon be replenished with artificial fertilizers.

By dairying only about 5 per cent of fertility is taken from the soil, the balance of the finished product being made by plant life from water, air and sunshine, and as a result, dairy farms in Idaho have succeeded in maintaining their soil fertility for more than 1000 years, while some of our grain farms have been almost exhausted in 60 years.

NEW DEPARTMENTS AT UNIVERSITY

STATE INSTITUTION IN EXCELLENT CONDITION.

New Main Building Said to Be One of the Best in the Country—Expected Enrollment Next Month Over 700—Agriculture Department.

A member of the faculty of the state university—Professor E. M. Hulmo of the history department—was in Boise last week in the interest of the institution. Talking to a student reporter Professor Hulmo gave out the following:

"The university," he said, "was never in better condition than it is now. It is in excellent condition in every respect—in regard to buildings, laboratory and workshops equipment, library and teaching force." The central part of our new main building, just begun, has just been completed and will soon be occupied. Yes, I have heard of the report that the building is not in good condition. But I have been in every part of the building frequently this summer and I was in it less than one week ago, so I know whereof I speak. It is the finest college building west of the Rocky mountains. Work on the great auditorium, which is to cost $86,000, will probably be completed in one year. A central solarium is now being built and it is rapidly approaching completion.

"Three new departments have been established in forestry, law and veterinary. Numerous applications for admission to the law and forestry courses have been coming in all summer from all parts of the state. Also many have been placed in charge of the new departments, excellent libraries and workshops have been provided, and there is every prospect of great success being attained by these in the first year of their existence.

"I wish to call special attention to the agricultural college. Last year there were 35 students enrolled in that section of the university. Next month there will be a very good increase. The faculty has been greatly strengthened. No change has been made without the approval of the regents and the president. In every step that has been taken the welfare of the agricultural college has been the sole consideration. The new structures in horticulture, agriculture, agronomy, animal husbandry, dairying, agricultural education and the other branches of study in agricultural schools. Our dairy department is one of the best on the Pacific coast. Three buildings are devoted to agriculture. One of them is the new building on the campus. Personally, I feel very certain that the immediate future of the agricultural college will be one of greatly increased usefulness to every part of the state.

"I wish to say emphatically that no department of the university has been slighted by the administration, and that every department will continue to receive due consideration.

"We are highly gratified by the loyal support that Boise has always given the university. Last year we had 44 students from this town. They figured prominently in every student activity. Their loyalty is evidently contagious for we are to have many of our students from this town next month. Perhaps you know that both our Rhodes scholars, now over at Oxford, are Boise high school boys—John Jackson and George Collins. Last year we had 543 students. We shall probably have over 700 in the year that is soon to open. Last year we had 100 new structures. Next year we shall have more than 200.

"The outlook for the student activities is very promising. We are to have a new football coach, set a new record, and we are to have many new players. In debate we shall make a good effort to win the Pacific north-west championship for the fourth time."

"GOBBLED" POWER SITES.
Explanation of Montana Entry in Made by Collins.

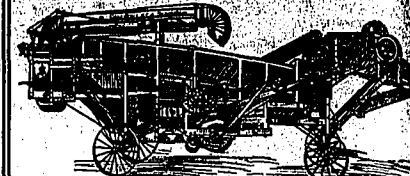

In reply to the story which during the past week has been published to the effect that the so-called "water power trust" in the last few months had acquired thousands of acres of land in Montana, George Collins, one of our foremost and wealthiest citizens, stated on June 11, 1909, Jeremiah Collins of the Collins Land company of Helena, "filed at the United States land office at Helena an entry for 15,568 acres of land—that checked the monopoly." Mr. Collins made the following statement to an Associated Press reporter:

"These and other misleading statements in the article referred to are wholly false. The amount of land that in 1899, 10 years ago, we made a forest reserve selection of four acre subdivisions for S. S. Huntley, the total area of which is 158.68 acres. When the latter was selected in 1899, it was unreserved and on June 11, 1909, there was filed at the Bureau land office an application to adjust the selection to the official survey. This is the best of the alleged entry that 'checked the monopoly.' It will be noted the area of the selection is 158.68 acres, but it was apparently not to check the monopoly, but to make it something worth while, that is to say, 15,868 acres. Figures may not lie, but by dropping the final point you can easily make them look ten times bigger."

IMPRESSIONS GAINED IN NORTHWEST BY TRAVELER.

Comparisons With the Best Irrigated and Other Districts Lead Him Into Greater Faith in Twin Falls' Future—Irrigation Congress and Fair.

W. H. Eldridge, one of Twin Falls leading boosters, is back from the North and Northwest, where he saw much and closely observed everything that came before his critical and analytical mental and optical vision. He witnessed the excitement incident to the Cooper Union land allotment and then served as a delegate to the National Irrigation Congress at Spokane, where the moguls of the science of irrigation, and the representatives of state governments and cities and counties thrashed out their differences of opinion and personal interests.

Mr. Eldridge then visited the Seattle Fair, with its great throngs of visitors and impressive seasons of the educational development of the mountain region, the Pacific slope and the intervening territory.

All this, he explained, unequivocally was great, but he landed at the Twin Falls depot last Friday fully satisfied that in comparison with everything he had witnessed on this long journey, Twin Falls is the best, the most all inclusive, which came under his observation as Twin Falls' peers in one respect only, and in this merely because they are old settled and the hand of man has had longer time in which to perform development work.

Mr. Eldridge declared that he saw no country which could be better to him, nor found any that offers to the immigrant more of this world's blessings than Twin Falls for a stated amount of labor and investment.

"We are unfortunate," he continued, "in the fact that the great bulk of the travel to and from the Seattle fair is diverted by ways to the Southern and Canadian railways, and Great Northern railways, and does not have a favorable opportunity for seeing Twin Falls."

Mr. Eldridge found that people who had heard of us and our city, and our wonderful opportunities for settlers, were desirous of coming to see the country, but he found such journeys impractical, on account of our geographical position being so far from the lines of transportation on which they were working.

It is, we will receive our just portion of the beneficial influences which the transoceanic travel of each year must create for the intermountain country and the Northwest.

"Our exhibits at the Fair were not placed in lines for immediate visitors there during the first three months of its life. We should have commenced earlier to get ready—last year our exhibits should have been prepared. We will start later, and be ready for securing fuller results at the next great Fair."

"Our exhibits are just now going in, from this year on, and are attracting favorable attention. William Cheek, official representative there from Twin Falls, is doing good work. He has a fine stock of plants and plenty of literature, and is spreading it where it will, in his opinion, do most good."

"Conversation with many people demonstrated that enterprisers who have merely heard of Twin Falls are eager for definite literature regarding our resources and our opportunities. The seed has been sown, therefore, which will be harvested in the near future, in believe, by Twin Falls to a wonderful extent. We are competing with other Twin Falls boosters, and must keep up our campaign for our share of this enormous western land business."

"There is a wave of western fever in the eastern and middle states. The faces of millions are turned toward it. At the Cooper Union allotment there was a assembling of the most motley crowd I ever gazed upon. Men from every shade of life had come, and of these there were some genuine land seekers, others through curiosity merely, and the great majority of them with the idea of taking a smattering shot at the land, and who had probably expended their last dollar to get there, but who would not have had the money necessary to comply with the government's stipulations incident to final proof, if they had been among the lucky winners of any of those acres. Neither would others have left their salaried jobs at home to become farmers, if they had won."

After the land allotment the hearse to Spokane occurred, and a mangled crowd it was. They thronged the cars of the steam and electric railroads to suit their own ends, and was over on everybody's tongue. At the inland station, in Spokane, where the electric interurban cars loaded and unloaded their throngs, distributed 3,500 Twin Falls booklets, which were eagerly grabbed and apparently preserved by recipients for future reading.

At the Irrigation Congress I got a dry, loaded 1,500 of our booklets thereon, and as the members came out of the assembly hall, with the aid of the other Twin Falls delegates presented each with a copy. This wholesale method of distribution created much excitement among these men and companies, and the advertising campaign more effectively than any other bidders for attention at the convention, had impressed this crowd.

Under the best and most efficient booklets at the congress, and there were many. I was proud of our showing, and I induced many people with whom I talked to come here, as soon as they can and look us over. I believe that they will fulfill their promises to considerable extent.

"I visited Yakima and Wenatchee valleys, both famous for their yields of grapes and fruit, their beautiful landscape and the wealth of their citizens acquired from the lands, and I must say that it is my conscientious conviction that these valleys—the great prizes of the Northwest—have Twin Falls eclipsed, by comparison, only in the fact that they are older settled regions. Give a few years more, and there will be none anywhere which will compare with Twin Falls in any respect whatever. I came home a more optimistic, more enthusiastic and confident booster for Twin Falls than I ever was before, and with greater assurance in our glowing future than I ever entertained in the past. All we need do is keep our shoulders to the wheel, continuously letting a large expanding circle of casters and middle classes know of our abundant money-making resources, and our growth will quickly be more and more discernible as advancing with a constantly increasing momentum."

THE MILNER BUDGET.
Goose Creek Opening Preparations Being Made—A Novel Base Ball Contest.

MILNER, Idaho, August 17.—The preparations for opening the Goose Creek being made in the town of Milner on September 20th, and it is expected this will be one of the biggest drawings yet held in southern Idaho.

E. A. Wilcox of Pittsburg, Pa., has accepted a position with the North Side Investment Company, Milner. P. S. A. Bickel and A. J. Willey of Boise were business visitors Wednesday.

Gas Siphoner of Twin Falls stopped off between trains Wednesday. H. A. Stroud of Hagerman registered at the Riverside Inn the middle of the week.

Samuel Grant of Gooding was here Wednesday in the interests of the Donald Grant Company.

Mrs. D. O. Longenbaker, Bertha and Laura took the evening train for Seattle Thursday to attend the exposition.

George Walden made a business trip to Minidoka Thursday. Lou J. Doyle spent the end of the week with McClelland's engineering crew north of Skeleton Butte.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Welch left Thursday night for Seattle, where they will attend the exposition.

V. R. Cockburn, H. K. Belmont, D. O. Longenbaker, Durr Johnson, P. D. Mortimer and Chas. Holstrom made a fishing trip to Dry Creek last Sunday and returned with 130 speckled beauties averaging eight inches in length.

Houston Hill left on the Thursday evening train for Salt Lake City, to be gone several days on business.

Paul A. Henderson's land on the Milner Segregation was sold to E. G. Bennett through the real estate firm of L. W. Howard & Company.

A large band of sheep was shipped to Chicago Friday from the large stock yards on the railroad siding, Charlie Larimer who we at home, will visit with his family near Olathe.

C. A. McMillan drove to Oakley Thursday to do some engineering work on the Goose Creek reservoir. Saturday afternoon the Milner ball team started across country for Jerome to play ball the following day against what was supposed to be the Jerome team and reached there about midnight Sunday morning, when the boys were so flustered that the North Side Inn caught fire and of course the Milner boys had to dress and help quench the flames. This excited the boys and with the team drive over the hot desert and the fire Jerome had no trouble beating us 6 to 2 in a very loosely played game on the new athletic field, which was very loose and rough and good ball was impossible; but Milner can't expect to win from the pick of the country who have not played an outdoor side in any game played this season, which is something that no other town in southern Idaho can boast of.

See L. W. Howard & Company for real estate and insurance.

DEDICATE CATHEDRAL.
Cardinal Gibbons Officiates at Sacred Service.

The cathedral of St. Mary Magdalene, a splendid edifice erected on East South Temple street, Salt Lake City by the Catholic diocese of Utah, was dedicated last Sunday with imposing ceremonies. The principal features were an address by Cardinal Gibbons, who died two weeks ago, the gift of Miss Ellen Hayes of Ely, Nevada, who died two weeks ago.

Cardinal Gibbons paid high tribute to Lawrence Scanlon, bishop of the diocese of Utah, under whose direction the cathedral had been erected. The building has been in process for 10 years and has cost $350,000. Its interior furnishings are on the same scale of substantial magnificence as its gray stone exterior.

A letter signed for the Boise Statesman by the venerable lawyer is aroused here by an indirect attack upon United States District Attorney C. H. Linzenfeller, who has had charge of the prosecution of the Testimon National bank embezzlement cases in a local newspaper. The attack takes the form of an interview with Spokane Times Editor Attorney Preston Gordon in which Gordon is asked if his visit has any connection with the reported investigation of Linzenfeller. Gordon replies that the never hears of such a proposition and is informed by the reporter that Linzenfeller is charged with giving padded accounts. The same interview asks Attorney Gordon to suggest why the embezzlement of $130,000 of the bank's funds may have a connection with the timber fraud cases. But Gordon does not return this. This suggestion is believed to have been inadvertently given as the bank officials discredit this story long current here.

TESTING FRUITS OF IRRIGATION

OKLAHOMA MAN SATISFYING HIS CURIOSITY

Representing a Party of, Intending Settlers He Uses Twin Falls Country as an Example of What Irrigation Will Do for Sagebrush Lands.

A. H. Olds of Oklahoma is spending some days in the great country in Twin Falls county, studying conditions under irrigation, practical methods used, and learning what he can about the time of this system of agriculture.

"I am afraid I have undertaken a job that is too big for me," said Mr. Olds to a New man. "It explains my troubles, maybe you can help me. A bunch of Oklahoma farmers intend coming to Idaho to secure homes of irrigated land, and I was selected as the advance agent to find the location."

"At Salt Lake I was advised to go to Arco and look over the Big Lost River lands, and I spent a week there viewing the lands and trying to get used to the difference between this country and the one I am from, and while there I was advised to come to Twin Falls to learn how easily and rapidly these desert lands could be converted into productive farms."

"In Oklahoma we raise so much about the big crops produced by irrigation that we want that kind of a farm, but first we must be convinced that there is some truth in the stories. You know, Bill, I've used to say that a mile was a hole in the ground, the owner of which was a liar; and being so near the mines we wondered if the irrigators were not influenced by the miners in the stories you tell."

"My experience here has been a revelation, and I am as convinced as you are that irrigation is the proper system. I have looked at different farms, showing the first, second, third and fourth crops since the land was cleared, and now one, two, three and four-year-old orchards, and well, the results are good enough."

"I've inquired about prices on improved lands, and the values please me as much as anything could. We all have some money, hardly enough to buy as much land as we want, and even if we could I think the best plan for us is to go to a new country, take new lands and make them valuable, the same as have the people of Twin Falls county."

"My experience here has done me a great deal of good, and I wish I had known enough to come here five years ago by way of holding my own. I have made me rich, as are so many of the farmers who had but little to begin with."

"If I like it here so well that I am going to stay awhile longer in different parts of the country, and then go back to Arco for the purchase of three lands September 1st. Making money by way of returning to my scheme, I can take land for all my party and save them the expense of coming until they are ready to move."

"After seeing what your people have done I am more than satisfied with the Arco country. The land is as smooth as can be, the soil is remarkably deep, well, as holding water, the railroad is near, and the chances good for doubling our money a good many times in a few years, and that is good enough for us, for my more than we expected could be done."

The state board of equalization raised the valuation on sheep for taxation purposes to $2.50 per head.

A cloudburst at Denver the other day caused a loss of $150,000 in damage done by the rushing water through the city.

Senator Cummings of Iowa has declined to run in his party over the tariff bill. The senators will be worse—properly handled.

According to government reports the crop of wheat, corn and oats raised this year will exceed any previous record in the United States.

J. P. Folger, until recently transferred to Kommerer, has been transferred to the Nampa division, which is considered a promotion.

Judge Wood of Boise has decided that the local option law is valid, and the wet or dry election in Ada county will be held September 8.

A 15-acre patch of oats, two miles from Nampa, threshed out 1500 bushels the other day. This would be called a steady crop in some countries.

Some of the brick masons working on the new buildings in Nampa have demanded a raise in pay from $5 to $7 per day, and quit work until the raise is paid. There is no strike.

The next day after Judge Wood of Boise decided that the local option law was valid he went fishing. The report circulating the news failed to give an invoice of the bait taken along.

The Telephone News is a new paper published by the Rocky Mountain Bell Telephone company for the purpose of keeping its army of employees posted on all the latest news in their line of work. The publication is issued from Salt Lake every month.

The Montana Western railway, which extends from Conrad, Mont., to the Canadian border, is now under construction. Milner, on the Conrad Irrigation project, was opened for traffic Friday. In addition there is being operated a motor car for the term of this.

Some of the best water in the state is to be had at the opening of 70,000 acres of government Carey act land at Valley on Oct. 7.

NEXT SESSION GOES TO PUEBLO

EIGHTEENTH NATIONAL IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

Pinchet and Newell Capture Resolutions Committee—Want Ten Millions a Year from Congress—New Officers Elected.

The seventeenth session of the National Irrigation congress, at Spokane, last week, practically closed its work Friday afternoon, though final adjournment was not had until Saturday.

Pueblo, Colorado, was selected as the place for holding the eighteenth session, San Francisco contenting itself with the promise that it would be next in line for the honor.

Forester Pinchet and Director Newell were generously treated by the resolutions committee, being given certificates of good character in their professions and positions, and the character of service rendered by them commended to their superior, no matter what the common people, not delegates to the congress, may think.

There was not even a suggestion of changing the name of the organization, as was feared, from the National Irrigation congress to the National Reclamation and Forest Reservoir congress, and delegates not drawing salaries from the government will be entitled to seats at the Pueblo session.

Resolutions were made on the national congress that an appropriation of $10,000,000 a year, for the next five years, be made, in order that the reclamation service could complete some of its projects so that settlers need not wait longer for water.

The following officers were elected: President, B. A. Fowler, Phoenix, Arizona.

Secretary, Arthur Hooker, Spokane, New Mexico.

Second vice president, R. W. Young, Utah.

Third vice president, L. Newman, Montana.

Fourth vice president, F. W. Fleming, New Mexico.

Fifth vice president, E. J. Watson, South Carolina.

NO DOG IN MANGER POLICY.

Government to Give Encouragement to Private Irrigation Corporations.

In an interview at Seattle the other day Secretary Ballinger declared the policy in the interior department, with respect to the matter of irrigation, to be as follows:

"The reclamation service will not play the dog in the manger policy to private irrigation corporations. Instead, the government will give all possible encouragement to private enterprises where they do not conflict with established or projected federal reclamation projects. There should be no issue between private canal and the government and land should not be withheld from entry beyond a reasonable period of time where its development is within the range of private capital."

Secretary Ballinger said that his present task is personally to examine the various projects, to thoroughly investigate the workings of the reclamation service, then to formulate a report thereon which would be made to President Taft direct. Mr. Ballinger continued:

"I observe that I have been severely criticized in some instances for what some folks have said to be, on my part, a falling away from the Roosevelt policies. This has reference to the federal control of water for water enterprises and facilities in the west.

"We now have more land withdrawn from entry because of new water that ever before in the history of the country. What I am trying to do is to cement the Roosevelt policies as to water power resources and bring them into a state of homogeneous efficiency."

Tipping Raspberry Bushes.

Many of our readers have been complaining as well as the purple Columbian and Schaffer red raspberry bushes which do not produce sprouts, but must be tipped to propagate new plants. The process is so simple that anyone who can handle a spade may succeed with the work. The opportune time for tipping raspberry bushes is right now when the long, slender branches incline toward the earth and form roots on the terminals on irrigated ground. Nature must be assisted in the covering of the terminals to insure a full supply of plants. A spade is the ideal implement to use for the purpose. Push the blade into the soil and wash the handle forward which will cover the earth to protect the tips of the raspberry bushes. With one hand grasp the slender cane and hold the terminal in the opening while the spade is drawn out with the handle. The soil will immediately fill the cavity which should be firmly packed with the foot to keep the branch in the new home who root will soon form on each and every lateral twig or terminal thus covered. These rooted ends will become independent of the parent plants as soon as they are found for growth from the soil. However, it is best to leave them undisturbed until they are needed for planting next spring. If a large number of plants are desired the parent bushes should be pinched back to about three feet when the growth is well established. This treatment will produce a large number of lateral shoots each of which may be thinned as suggested.—Donver Field and Farm.

ARE YOU DOING YOUR PART?

The property which comes out of the ground.

Chicago Record-Herald: The bounty of nature will leave the farmers lead after the climate continues little time, or disposition to brood over the shortcomings and disappointments of the new tariff. If the latter does not meet all reasonable expectations, the August crop report of the government assuredly more than meets them. Nothing is so solid as the property that comes "out of the ground," and the indications are that the combined yield of the five leading cereals will reach the total of 4,274,000,000 bushels—an increase of 4,274,000 bushels, an increase of aggregate and the largest quantity ever raised.

Whatever the standpoint and the tariff bounties may have succeeded in doing contrary to national interest and national prosperity, the stars in their courses are fighting for the millions of neglected and often forgotten sturdy, independent producers and consumers. True, the richest harvest is no excuse for the smallest injustice in legislation; equality of opportunity is a political and governmental duty, and man ought to cooperate with nature in fairly distributing her blessings and preventing unnecessary misery. But who is willing and working for scientific and wholly just tariffs and other politico-economic conditions of general prosperity, it is mighty cheering to know that nature is doing her best to make the nation comfortable and happy.

The farmer's abundantly earned profit will be shared by the successful producers. Upon the yield of the fields depends the yield of the railroads, the mills and factories. The farmer is an ultimate generator of the commodity money by which workers. The crop reports furnish glad tidings for country stores, jobbers, central markets, bankers and importers.

SUICIDE OF SHILLING.

Well Known Settler Near Rupert Takes His Own Life.

Rupert Pioneer: The body of Lomuel C. Shilling, one of the first and best known settlers on the Mindoko project, was found last Saturday in the bottom of the well on his ranch two miles southeast of Rupert. There were several gashes in his throat and an iron wheel was tied to his feet.

All the circumstances surrounding the case indicate that it was a case of suicide, and the act was evidently committed Friday night. It is supposed that he cut his throat with a butcher knife, which was found lying on a table in his cabin. It was apparent that he then sat down in a chair, as there was a large pool of blood under the chair, and the blood soaked bed clothing indicated that he had laid down on the bed, expecting to bleed to death. None of the gashes on his head inflicted any serious ailment to cause death and when he learned this he went out into the yard, removed a heavy iron wheel from a water pump and carried it to the well, which was a dug well equipped with a pump, with a platform over the top. With an axe he removed the platform, took off the coat, spectators are shown and laid them by the side of the well, tied the wheel to his feet, and slid down the iron well pipe to the bottom. There was a heavy foot of water in the well.

Dan Brondie, a neighbor, called at the place Saturday morning, called at seeing no response to his knock, entered the house and saw that a tragedy had occurred and the alarm was given. A party went out to the place from Rupert and as indications were that the loss was in the well, a hook was lowered and the corpse was brought up.

GOVERNMENT GOATS.

Being Worked to Eat a Trail Through Brush.

The brush eating instinct of the Angora goat is being successfully demonstrated on the Lassen national forest in California, where they are cutting trails for fire guards through the brushy areas on the slopes of the mountains.

The animals, which number 3,000, have been divided into two bands and under the care of the borders are grazed within certain well defined areas so that they work may be concentrated on the brush within those limits. The result is that they have practically killed nearly all the brush in the course either by eating it out entirely, or by burning, as in the case of the heavy manzanita bushes. At the beginning of the experiment there was some doubt as to the goats' willingness to eat the manzanita, but it has been found that where there is little else they will just as readily attack it as any other bushes.

CAPTURES A HOLD UP.

Twin Falls Man Does the Trick in Salt Lake.

Salt Lake-Tribune.—Joseph Lyons, a visitor to the city from Twin Falls, Idaho, was held up by William Delaney, Monday night, on the northwest corner of First and C streets. Lyons, who was being told to throw up his hands, tackled the highwayman in such a strenuous manner that both fell to a basement on the corner. Lyons was lucky enough to fall uppermost, and his weight, besides crushing the wind out of Delaney, rendered him unconscious. Lyons immediately crawled out of the basement and telephoned the police station. Patrolman W. W. Griffin responded with the gasoline motor and placed Delaney under arrest. Lyons lost no money.

BOUL-BUILDING AND IS BOOMING

SPIRIT OF ADVANCEMENT IS IN EVIDENCE EVERYWHERE.

Streets Filled with Overflowing with Traffic, Leads to Talk of Their Widening—A Big Fish Story—Reports of Social Events.

BOUL Idaho, August 18.—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Beams, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. H. B. Wilcox, at her home. Mr. Beams is an old soldier and attended the encampment of the Grand Army at Salt Lake. He and Mrs. Beams are on their way to Seattle to attend the fair.

Fishermen from Hagerman brought to Buhl Thursday, two large sturgeon, one weighing 260 pounds and the other 300 pounds. They said they had one on the line that was as long as a wagon box and tongue combined, and that they would have to hitch a team of horses onto him to haul him out of the water. Devout Catholics in Buhl need have no fear that they will have to eat meat on Friday so long as such sturgeon can be caught in the Snake River at their doors.

The C. V. & M. Co. started construction of a new implement store building on Broadway, Saturday, and are rushing the work. The structure will be of stone and brick. Both materials are Buhl products, the brick of the Buhl Brick Company, being of the best quality.

Deputy Sheriff Graham was up from Twin Falls Monday on official business. Mr. Allen of Filser was a Buhl business visitor Monday.

J. W. Faris says he is living at home now. Mrs. Faris and the rest of the family, who have been living an outing in the vicinity of Kelchum, returned home Monday. They were accompanied by George F. Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Holmes returned home Saturday from Salt Lake, where they had spent a week attending the Grand Army encampment, and taking in the sights generally. Tom says that the grand army bustlers are tame affairs compared to the bustlers we have in and around Buhl.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Coker arrived in Buhl Saturday from Burley. Mr. Coker came to finish putting in the waterworks system, and Mrs. Coker is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Mitchell, on the hill.

"Oh, if I only knew now as well as I thought I knew then, how happy I would be." If our fore sight were of the future had in store for it, they probably would have made the streets much wider than 30 feet. Could they have foreseen the crowded condition of the streets when the marching teams are tied up on both sides of them and the piles of brick, lumber and stone occupying almost the entire street width in a big downtown district places where buildings are going up, they surely would have ordered a few more feet at least in order to be passing with the marching teams to drive through without colliding with each other or the piles of brick, lumber and stone awaiting use by the builders. If this condition of affairs keeps on, it is not very likely that it will, but that it will become more so, Buhl may have to do as Chicago did, when the street car cable was laid on the street.

Harold Ford left Monday for Santa Rosa, Cal., where he has accepted a position with the Wells Fargo Express Company. Harold is a graduate of the Buhl High School and a bright young man. He is certain to make good in his new position.

Dr. and Mrs. D. P. Albee left Monday for Rock Grove, for a visit with Mrs. Albee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hansen, after which they will go to Shoshone basin for an outing. They will be joined in camp by Mr. and Mrs. E. Marshall, who will leave here Saturday for the basin.

The Boosters got away with the Fish Eaters Sunday by a score of 2 to 2 in favor of the Boosters. You'll have to hurry to beat Buhl.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Schooler and their daughter, Cora, left Monday for Seattle to attend the fair and see the country.

W. D. Southworth returned Sunday from Seattle where he had been seeing the fair for several weeks and attending to the business of the town.

The Twin Falls Juniors visited the young Buhl Boosters Sunday by a score of 10 to 6.

The Boarding of Twin Falls was transacting business in Buhl Thursday.

Mr. K. H. Deane was a Buhl visitor Friday. He was up from the Magic City Friday on a short business trip.

D. E. Coles of St. Paul, Minn., registered at Hotel Buhl Saturday. He is a card game just inside of the hotel office. Frightened by the music inside the hotel he pulled from his post and commenced cutting half into circles around the acreage until it invaded the Bunney Slope stock farm, where he straddled a chicken, leaving the buggy for a moment and causing three of its wheels to run three-quarters of a mile northward into Rock Creek Canyon. The buggy was then taken to the barn on Lawson's veranda, while the horse suffered a cracked tooth and stretched eye-winker. The remains were gathered, leaving the buggy for a moment and placed them into Bert Kindall's transfer, which hauled them to J. R. Fuller, our local blacksmith, where the bing-bang jobs were done.

H. E. Nixon of Wala Wala, Wash., registered at Hotel Buhl Saturday. A. Biles of Twin Falls was in Buhl for a short time Monday.

G. E. Conover of B. Hartwell, Buhl, was on a short business trip to Buhl Saturday. Mr. Hartwell is the owner of the famous Hartwell fruit ranch up among the foothills of the Snake River. He says that he will have a bumper fruit crop this year. Mr. Hartwell is the inventor of a shovel which is a combination of a shovel and a hoe and can be changed from one to the other in an instant.

R. Burch was up from Three Creeks Sunday on business.

C. O. Morse of Wendell, was transacting business in Buhl Friday.

W. C. Butler, Jas. A. Bybee and W. A. Engle of Twin Falls, are in Buhl a few days. Mr. Engle is doing some surveying for parties in Buhl contemplating building.

G. B. Bonnett of Copias was in Buhl on official business.

Deputy Sheriff Graham was up from Twin Falls Monday on official business.

Mr. Allen of Filser was a Buhl business visitor Monday.

J. W. Faris says he is living at home now. Mrs. Faris and the rest of the family, who have been living an outing in the vicinity of Kelchum, returned home Monday. They were accompanied by George F. Allen.

Mr. and Mrs. Gretchen Miller returned home from the Riverside ranch Monday. They had spent two weeks at Judge Urfauk's summer resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cundas returned Sunday from Salt Lake where they had gone to witness the Grand Army drills.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Eveshott and E. R. Brown returned home Sunday from an outing in Shoshone basin.

Services will be held in the Episcopal church Sunday by Rev. Alward Chamberlain.

Henry Thompson was in town yesterday looking for help to assist him in getting his harvesting done. The local farmers are in need of help just now.

Miss Grace Southworth entertained most delightfully Saturday and Sunday at her home. A large party of her country home, Tonkawa Ranch. The party, chaperoned by Mrs. Webster, left Buhl early Saturday evening for the Tonkawa Ranch. They returned about ten o'clock. They repaired to the granary where dancing was enjoyed until a late hour and refreshments were served. After playing Sunday morning the party drove to Castleford and balanced rock dinner being served at Tonkawa on their return. Those who enjoyed Miss Southworth's hospitality were the Messrs. Mayne (Hickcock, Elbe), J. J. Grubb, Grace Adams, Linton Minner, Ron Vance, Gretchen Miller and Mrs. Chas. Mitchell. The party included Miss Ida, Denver, Northon, Shank, Carlisle, Diney and E. Diney.

The young people entertained at the Buhl House Wednesday evening, with a Hara Times party.

CURRY NEWS NOTES.
Farms Selling at Good Prices and Crop Yields Satisfactory—Social Happenings.

CURRY, August 18.—Most of the alfalfa fields have been cut and the biggest per centage of the hay is in the stacks. The second crop yields seem to be nearly as large as that of the first cutting. If the warm weather continues we are likely to have also a fine third crop.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Fuller returned on Saturday's train from Salt Lake City, after a week's visit at the G. A. R. encampment. An enjoyable time was had by both of them. This was the first time Mr. Fuller had seen that city for forty years.

A party was given at the Nye home on Friday evening to which a large number of young folks were invited. Selections of music were rendered, ice cream and cake were served and later the evening was spent at games. Guests included Misses Van Ausdell, Lois Van Ausdell, Kindall, Eldridge, Winn, Parson, Christina Parson, Nye, Fuller, Messrs. Van Ausdell, Kindall, Fuller, Scott Fuller, Elder, Knell, Oral Knell, Felton, Malone, Harold Malone, Parson.

One hundred and fifty tons of baled alfalfa hay is being loaded and shipped from Curry station.

Mr. S. C. Sexton left Thursday for British Columbia. On his return he will take in the fair at Seattle, where he will be met and accompanied home by his niece, Miss Elsie Phillips, who will be from the fair at Seattle and Washington. Miss Phillips will teach the lower grades of school here the coming term.

The carpenters who have been working on Mr. Strole's new house have it completed and Mr. Strole and family will move into it in a few days.

A number of farms in the northern vicinity of Curry are reported as having changed hands the past week. Among the sellers are J. A. Woods, school clerk of this district, who received $125 an acre for the land and $1200 for the crop. Mr. Woods will probably move to Twin Falls.

Mr. F. A. Ausdell returned on Saturday after a week's stay in Spokane at the Irrigation Congress. A few people in this vicinity are thinking their grain, while others are preparing to commence in a few days.

A most exciting relay race was held on the track at Buhl Saturday and Sunday. The race was up from the Magic City Friday on a short business trip. D. E. Coles of St. Paul, Minn., registered at Hotel Buhl Saturday. He is a card game just inside of the hotel office. Frightened by the music inside the hotel he pulled from his post and commenced cutting half into circles around the acreage until it invaded the Bunney Slope stock farm, where he straddled a chicken, leaving the buggy for a moment and causing three of its wheels to run three-quarters of a mile northward into Rock Creek Canyon. The buggy was then taken to the barn on Lawson's veranda, while the horse suffered a cracked tooth and stretched eye-winker. The remains were gathered, leaving the buggy for a moment and placed them into Bert Kindall's transfer, which hauled them to J. R. Fuller, our local blacksmith, where the bing-bang jobs were done.

INDIAN BLOOD WOULD HELP US

NOTED CHICAGO PROFESSOR BELIEVES IN RACE CROSSING.

Declares Race Prejudice Will Gradually Disappear and Inter-marriage is Common.

Prof. William Matthews of the department of sociology, and anthropology of the University of Chicago, in a lecture Monday, the subject of which was "Race Prejudice," said: "As people travel and become better acquainted with different nations as they exist, the prejudice against their races will gradually disappear and inter-marriage will be common. The prejudice of the future then will not be based up with the race of color, but with the degree of intellectual development and occupation."

"In recent years a number of marriages have been recorded between the Japanese and the Americans. I see no reason why this should not go on, and I do not believe the result would be harmful to our standard of life. The Japanese have shown themselves to be our equals in many ways, and a little mixture of their blood into our countrymen would be a good thing. I believe, however, that the talked of cross between the negro race and the American would be too violent and it would not meet with success. "I believe, however, that a little of the blood of the American Indian mingled with that of our own race would produce a strain of manhood which would be hard to equal."

Flying-Machine Tests.

Thirty-eight aeroplanes have been entered in the aviation competition which commences August 22 at Rehms, France, and further information received today from abroad indicates that all records for the distance flights will fall. The names of the pilots for the various aeroplanes which will compete for the prizes have not yet been announced. Besides the valuable cups which have been offered for the events, 200,000 francs have been put up as prizes.

Aviation week at Rehms will open with the French climatic races for the international aviation cup; offered by James Gordon Bennett, and the Aero club of France will select the pilots making the best flights to represent it in the big race. The distance is 20 kilometers, or twelve and a half miles, and the final contest for the Bennett cup will take place on August 28.

PUSHING ALONG GOOSE CREEK DAM

GETTING READY FOR THE GRAND OPENING SEPTEMBER 20.

All Barriers to Progress and Successful Launching of the Project Are Overcome—Construction Work Under Way.

Paris Martin, attorney of Boise, arrived in Twin Falls Wednesday after having visited Oakley, where he went over the route of the canal and viewed the site of the dam which will supply the rich and fertile Goose Creek tract which the Twin Falls Oakley Land & Water Company is rapidly placing under irrigation.

"My inspection was in company with E. W. Faris, the general contractor on the construction," explained Mr. Martin, "and I enjoyed facilities for observations which quite assured me that this project is one of gigantic magnitude and of vast importance to the future of all Southern Idaho."

"The contracts for water are secured from the owners of the patented land they having agreed readily upon understanding fully the details of the company's proposition. All difficulties which had been contemplated as possible barriers from this source are therefore removed, and the work is in progress in all other respects as vigorous and energetic management and large forces can push it."

"The dam will be 1,100 feet from rim-rock to rim-rock, across a box canyon, and will impound an area of about six miles in length and 100 to 150 feet in depth. All the stripping for the dam is concluded and work was commenced last Monday at a tunnel, which will be 300 feet long and through which the water carried by the canon will be diverted around the dam-site while the construction work progresses. Many other preliminary details have been finished, also. The toe-trenches are excavated and the core-walls are down 10 feet over the entire width of the canyon."

"The townsite of Oakley has been surveyed and right of way for the new railway branch surveyed, also depot sites selected after having been secured from the old settlers."

"The entire vicinity of the town has taken on an air of extraordinary activity and enthusiasm is growing. Everybody looks forward to the opening of the Goose Creek tract September 20 in the expectation that it will repeat the famous history of preceding events of this character in Southern Idaho."

On this occasion 60,000 acres of fine level land will be available to the public in one of the most beautiful fertile valleys of the intermountain region."
