LARGE FUND RAISED FOR THE CHURCH IN TEN DAYS.

Boost Tendencies Were Strongly Emphasized in the Program With Which the Public "Came Through" to Help This Congregation.

The Baptist fair, held in Twin Falls on Friday and Saturday, was a grand success... Boost tendencies were strongly emphasized in the program...

Notwithstanding but ten days were regarded in the meager time it was advertised, this fair stands out conspicuously as a splendid reflection of the Twin Falls progress...

Farmer brought into the department exhibits as a collection of grain, grasses, tubers, fruits and vegetables... The owner of the new building on Shoshone street...

Even to the janitor work in the hall where the concert was held on Friday night, a free hand was entrusted, and the entertainment on that night was participated in by the city's best talent.

Not until noon Friday did the workers secure entrance to the building... Interiors of three store rooms had been beautifully decorated...

The "country store" was the names were placarded with the names of the donors... which Rev. Lansdell referred to as being "greater than the building..."

A big crowd of people had attended the auction sales that are every-Saturday features of the vacant lots in Twin Falls... The first thing put up for sale by the auctioneers was a rooster...

About this time along came two auctioneers who were professionalists... The first thing put up for sale by the auctioneers was a rooster...

A GREAT LEADER IN TWIN FALLS

VISITS DISTRICT SECRETLY AND IS MAKING OBSERVATIONS.

Like a Potentate of Olden Days, One of the Largest known Americans, by Reputation, Walks Unknown Among Many Subjects.

Twin Falls district is being visited by a potentate "in cognito" whose presence, if generally known to the public, would likely produce more than ordinary activity among a large class of citizens...

So far as known, this individual has never allowed himself to sit for a single photograph, and but for this coincidence probably the world would never recognize his face while its owner was on the streets of Twin Falls...

He is a pioneer among the leaders of New Thought, and promulgated his ideas so long ago that his name was scarcely associated with it in the confines of mental health...

He then was a resident of Pueblo, Colo., had been active in the real estate work here, and was a considerable fortune through profits on several large operations...

He forthwith proceeded to sell everything, and is reported to have received offers amounting to well over a million dollars...

Meaning that the founder came west and had to had learned many valuable lessons regarding the weaknesses of human nature...

He is now in Twin Falls, and will see other sections of Southern Idaho... The reputation this part of the state has, with all its rich acre and abundance of water...

BIG NEW YORK CELEBRATION.

Five Million People See Parade on Hudson River.

The Hudson-Rillon celebration has been in progress in New York this city with some 30th anniversary of the arrival there of Hudson's first ship and the 100th anniversary of the launching of Fulton's first steamer on the Hudson river.

Trces grow on rough land, where agriculture cannot profitably be carried on and the returns from such regions that are employed are largely the same, since such land would otherwise be producing little or nothing.

umber was taken out also, and at 9 o'clock there wasn't a sign of a Baptist fair left in that vicinity—it was gone just like a circus the morning after it had been taken away. Lansdell had started something in a hurry, driven it through the city like a streak of lightning, not the week in a steady, methodical way, but he was not to be deterred. The decorations were transferred to and rearranged in the Baptist church, the

The city was crowded with people, but the day was wet and somewhat disagreeable in the afternoon. Most of those visitors have departed for their homes. The prize winners were well satisfied with their good fortune and the losers not badly disappointed. Many strangers purchased land around Duhl, and expressed themselves as well pleased with the results. They see the future greatness of this country.

The character and fine quality of the exhibits, collected by the Commercial club for the opening day of the West End tract, surprised even those people living here who have not been keeping up with the times and the progress made in the development of the tract were on exhibition; but, as it is now an old story that the country is a wonderful producer of all kinds of ordinary crops, and that the farmers were well contented with their crops, there were apples from the ranches of T. P. Dowling and Frank Russell, as good as could be found anywhere. The apples which they grew were set out two years ago. Mr. Russell had a large quantity of fine flowers of various kinds, and a second crop of fine beans. The latter never was any doubt about that being a fruit country. It is completely dispelled now.

Prize, the mall stage driver by Fred and Wednesday, fell from the stage last Wednesday and broke his leg. He laid out on the road twenty-one hours before he was dispensed of his services. The driver, Duhl, and from here sent at once to the hospital in Twin Falls.

Fred Ramsey was in Duhl Monday looking for wheat and oats for feed purposes. He found the prices pretty stiff.

The farmers are busy hauling in their grain. The warehouses are rapidly filling up, waiting for cars to ship in.

Our old friend and fellow pioneer, Scott Dole, came up from Boise to attend the opening, but it does not appear that he was very busy.

Ed Braun, the former famous prairie schooner pilot, was in Duhl yesterday, wearing a wistful look, indicating his old passion was not so strong, and that he would like to board a schooner once more and take the wheel.

Chas. Coker returned from Burley Monday and had a word to say to Duhl for the present. He will commence at once to clean out the combs and laterals that may be in need of cleaning. He says that he has had quite a job on his hands.

Dr. Jane Shank was a Duhl visitor yesterday and took in the drawing.

One, another, says, but as a prize were just normal for this country. J. H. Schooler, wife and daughter, Cora, returned Monday from Seattle, where they have been for the surrounding country. Mr. Schooler said that they saw many fine places, but were to compare with Duhl and its surroundings for money-making purposes.

Prof. P. G. Holden of Ames, Iowa, M. I. Church, secretary of the State and Board, E. E. Lewis, representative of the State Land Board, Mr. Hartwell of Roseworth, and several other gentlemen, addressed a large audience in a big circus tent Monday night, and explained to the strangers the workings of the system by which land was appropriated under the Carey Act. Prof. Holden expressed the hope that the world, as a nation in the town of Holden on the West End tract.

P. E. Donn, a former real estate man of Fred, being mostly a resident of Duhl and dealing in real estate in this vicinity.

J. W. Jackson was in from his Castleford ranch Monday on business.

O. G. Zuck of Kimberly was a Duhl business visitor Monday.

A. G. Manly of Boise, registered at Hotel Bull Monday.

J. W. Gillespie and P. O. Connor, of Burley, were Duhl business visitors Monday.

It is a great mistake to believe that the Irish have a monopoly of all the wit and humor in this world. The Dutch have some of it. Last week a son of a Dutchman, who they called by name, who owns a ranch three miles southeast of town, came into the city and entered a lawyer's office, and he proceeded to tell the lawyer what appeared to be his tale of woe, by asking the disciple of Blackstone how a man could get a family off his ranch. The legal lumbar began to mutter and he was in trouble. "How did the family come to be on your ranch?" "I don't know. Did you see them going on the ranch?" "No." "Are they in the house?" "No." This particular limb of the law is not a very particular one.

BIG CASH SALE OF FINE FARM

DEAL INVOLVED $12,000 FOR 180 ACRES NEAR CITY.

Further Evidence Manifested of the Confidence Maintained by People Best Posted on Resources and Brilliant Prospects of the County.

Mary A. Barnett of Decatur, Ill., has purchased through the Home Realty Company, from George W. W. a farm of 180 acres, two and one-half miles west of Twin Falls, for $12,000 cash. This land is somewhat improved, being mostly in clover and alfalfa, and containing a fairly good house and barn. The deal was completed this week. Mrs. Barnett is a sister of E. J. and Thomas Costello, who have large holdings in this county of some of the best lands, also an abiding faith in the great future of the country, sufficient to advise friends and relatives alike to get what they can while the prices are as low as they are ever likely to be.

The same company also sold this week a 12-acre farm at $25 per acre to F. W. Hinkston of Corey, Colo., a short distance northwest of the city, whose new owner intends setting this land to fruit trees as soon as possible. He expressed the belief that residents scarcely recognize the large local possibilities for horticulture, basing his confidence in these resources on his knowledge of fruit raising business obtained in the Continental state, and also on what he saw here in the way of fruit growing results already attained by the pioneers in this industry.

A. Cracy has sold to G. H. Davidson eighty acres three miles east of Filer, to G. W. Thomas of this city, pending the deal.

E. W. Payne of Morrison, Ill., has purchased, through J. E. White, of T. F. Warner and Geo. Lacey farm, one mile north of Filer, for $150 per acre. The property is quite highly improved.

In Handsome New Headquarters. The Irrigated Lands Company, composed of George F. Sprague, C. R. Hurlst and Alex McPherson, will move in a few days to their new location in the Hotel Perrine to larger, more commodious quarters in the First National Bank building on Sherman street, where they have been located by a rapidly-enlarging volume of business and which is expected to increase with greater momentum in the future than in the past. This company handles farm lands, city real estate, and fire insurance, and is also engaged in making loans, and is a member of the Idaho Irrigation & Twin Falls devoted to these lines.

Wheat Up and Moving, While Oats Declines on Offerings.

Wheat was strong during the last week in the Twin Falls market, stacked advancing to $1.41 per bushel, the best price ever paid on the tract at this time of year. One of the principal buyers, the Twin Falls Milling & Elevator Company, quoting this figure, is said to have led in the bidding up tendency which has been to the producers' advantage.

Imports needed from the higher flour grades, in the few test days through importations, it is said, and otherwise more freely by producers.

The Twin Falls Milling & Elevator Company Thursday morning quoted the following:

Wheat, choice milling, bulk, per hundred pounds, $1.25
Wheat, choice milling, sacked, per hundred pounds, 1.20

SOUTH OMAHA STOCK MARKET. Lamb Considerably Lower Last Week. With Feeder Cattle.

SOUTH OMAHA, Sept. 25—We had a very fair run of cattle here all last week. The demand was especially good for desirable fleshy steers, which met keen competition both from packers and feeder-buyers. Top prices for the season to date is $6.35, which price we obtained on Tuesday for one car averaging 1,225 pounds. The ordinary run of feeders, however, were better and a little lower.

Better kinds of cows show some little advance during the week, while common classes closed up a shade. Order. Take it all in all, however, the market is in right good shape at the present time.

We had another very good run of sheep this week and they are 16¢ to 25¢ lower; lambs suffered 25¢ to 40¢ drop. Fat lambs are selling at 35.50 yearlings, $1.75 to $1.85; 2-year-olds, $2.00 to $2.10; ewes, $1.00 to $1.10; feeding lambs, $5.00 to $5.50; yearlings, $1.75 to $1.85; ewes, $1.35 to $1.50.

ARTESIAN CITY TRUCK FARMS.

Almost Twenty Five-Acre Tracts Have Been Sold.

The rapidity with which Artesian City is going to be settled by garden truck farmers, under the system of hot water irrigation afforded by the artesian wells there, has surprised the promoters, who take most pleasure in the fact that, while the sales of tracts have reached eighteen out of the part of the plat set aside for five-acre farms, the most of these were purchased by men and women residing in that part of the county who are familiar with the water supply and richness of the soil.

Some fifty towns has have been sold also, and the inquiry has just begun to come from towns throughout this state and Utah, suggesting that there is a probability that every purchaser who put in on the original sale may have an opportunity for turning his purchase soon at a good-sized advance.

In addition to the company's office building, which has been started in Artesian City, there will soon be several others whose owners are making the necessary arrangements.

Send your money abroad only for what you cannot purchase at home.

There are always a good many people who keep the balance of the community busy wondering how they live so well.

In continuation of the formal taking over by the farmers of the Twin Falls South Side Irrigation system, as was contemplated by the projecting company in the beginning, under the terms of the Carey Act, the organization of the Twin Falls Canal Company was perfected at a meeting last Monday, in this city, when the board of directors was elected as follows:

Fred Voigt, president; Mark Coffin, vice president; W. O. Taylor, secretary and treasurer; H. O. Milner and A. S. Milner, directors, and George Harlan, manager. Stockholders & Bowen were retained as attorneys for the company.

There are represented in this board of directors the farmers owning the land, as well as the projecting company, which has landed interests under the canals as yet unsold.

This procedure, it may be said, was a formality following the turning over of the plant, by order of the state land board, at Boise last week, by the Twin Falls Land & Water Company, to the farmers.

President Voigt of the land owners' company, has been manager of the canals for the company which built them, and is familiar with every detail of the work. Therefore it is expected that the plant will be conducted satisfactorily as heretofore.

There is glory to man in things honestly undertaken, conscientiously carried through to successful termination, and concluded with a feeling that man has been benefited by these efforts.

Turning over of this most perfect irrigation system ever constructed in the United States now is therefore undoubtedly a source of much personal gratification and pride, not only to Frank H. Duhl of Sharon, Pa., (whose large capital carried it through at a time when the energetic original projectors had found need for some such broad-gauged investment) to every other individual identified with the work from its inception.

This is the first irrigation project fully completed under the Carey Act, and stands out conspicuously as a monument to the men who have perfected it, as well as a gigantic testimony to that far-sightedness of the late senator from Wyoming, who conceived the idea of permitting private capital to irrigate these heretofore barren but exceedingly rich lands. Freedom they would yet be, unproductive, and thousands of people now prospering upon them, might yet be listed among the poverty-stricken classes.

The dam and south side canal cost $3,500,000, including the financing and colonization, which was $2,000,000 above the advance estimate of $1,500,000.

There are 220,000 acres in the irrigated area, of which 200,000 have been sold to settlers, who have under cultivation 120,000 acres.

The contract, under which this reclamation was undertaken, was signed between the promoters and the state land board Jan. 2, 1902, the projectors agreeing to complete it in five years. The water was turned on March 1, 1905, and since then the finishing touches have been added as rapidly as possible. It was an herculean project, requiring men of nerve and hearts of steel to culminate.

This fact is recognizable now, more conspicuously than ever before, when the thousands of acres of fertile cultivated farms mark the rim of the valley of the Snake river for three or four miles, and display the marvelous extent to which the water is distributed, from this stream. The magnitude of the work done can never be described, in words, sufficiently impressive to convey any idea of its extent.

A STAGE DRIVER'S MISHAP.

Wounded and Helpless, Lay Alone Twenty-two Hours on Desert.

W. J. Wilkinson, who was brought to the Fourth Avenue hospital last week with a broken hip, received in a runaway accident, experienced severe suffering before receiving succor.

He has been driving stage between Duhl and Three Creek. Half way on this route the team frightened at a rattlesnake, became unmanageable, and in its dash from the reptile, landed the driver with much force on the ground. He could not move for the lack of his useless thigh, which immediately became painful from the swelling, and was alone on the desert roadway for twenty-two hours without water or food.

A searching party, which went forth when the stage failed to reach its destination on schedule time, found Wilkinson almost crazed with pain, thirst and hunger. A drive of sixty-one miles had to be endured before he reached the railroad, and upon arrival in Twin Falls the fractured femur was indeed threatening loss of the entire limb. He is however said to be on the road to complete recovery.

While the plain nets are popular, these with the dot and the vermilion design are more in first style.

The transparent effects are in full swing among the silks, gray over blue, blue, green or black over Sevens blue being lovely.

WEST END TRACT OPENING

Fillings Assumed Almost All of the 31,000 Acres.

Miss Nani Vance, who attended the Duhl drawing for West End Twin Falls acres, says there was a great interest manifested in the proceedings. These commenced Monday evening when at a meeting held in the reception tent formal welcome was extended to strangers by President McQuown of the Duhl Commercial club. Chas. J. Perkins, manager of the Twin Falls West End, reviewed its history. Register Church of the land board, explained the Carey Act, and various other speakers told of the richness of the ground in the tract.

The total fillings up to 6 p. m. on the day of opening were 24,500 acres and this total was later much increased so that practically all the 31,000 acre tract was sold.

There were 628 numbers drawn from the box. The following Idaho people drew and filled: Ben Horshey, Duhl; Loomis Brown, Flor; Etta Landson, Mart Cuddy, Ernest O. Eberis, Carrel M. Lucas, H. W. Johnson, George H. Davis, Arthur E. Cuning, Ham and Lester S. Falk, Boise; William J. Darrah and Robert Rogerson, Twin Falls, and Emil Jantson of Roseworth.

Miss Vance held powers of attorney from several friends in the East, one of which came out early in the numerical extractions from the box, and her many acquaintances will rejoice with her in having secured through this means, forty acres, being commission on her representation of her friend in the procedure.

Muscateles May Thrive Here.

A letter to the News, from J. W. Hanbury of Clear Lake postoffice, Lincoln County, Sept. 26, says: "Today I picked a bunch of muscatel grapes, fully matured and ripened, from one of many plants set out last April." Mr. Hanbury resides on Castle Rock ranch, and is treating the field with a view to raising various kinds of fruits, and possibly may demonstrate that the muscatel will thrive in Southern Idaho as well as other grapes. He takes considerable satisfaction in securing the favorable results already attained, as above stated.

PROFIT OF $1000 MADE IN ONE YEAR

SOLD A FRUIT FARM AT $100 ADVANCE PER ACRE.
Hood River Man Who Came into Twin Falls and Recognized a Good Thing Reaps Benefits of His Sagacity in Upward Price Trend.

The William Taylor farm, on the Orchard tract, about two miles northwest of Twin Falls, was sold last Friday to a Washington state investor for $300 per acre, or $3,000 for the ten acres, and the seller was to clear $1,000 profit on the deal.

He is William Taylor, who arrived in this city about a year ago from the Hood River establishment. He purchased this place for $2,000, after having decided, from many local appearances, that it was excellently adapted for fruit raising. He had previously, on Fry's place nearby, the fruit was prospering, and there were indications that here might be repeated the history of Fry's success in the fruit business of Washington.

Taylor planted five acres to orchard meantime, and otherwise improved his holding to such extent that many prospective purchasers were favorably impressed with the place as an investment.

Several of this class had looked it over during the last three weeks, and two of them, from Illinois, wanted to acquire it. They were tardy, however, in securing the money; but jumped into an automobile Friday evening, as soon as their cash was raised, and were hurriedly driven out to see Taylor. He had to inform them of the fact that the property had, during that day, been disposed of to the Washington purchaser.

Then overtures were made by the Illinoisans under which they thought it might be secured, at an advance, from the Washington man, but Taylor told them this would be impossible, as the last new owner had secured the place for a home as well as an investment which he would not be exceedingly profitable when devoted to fruit culture and intensive farming.

The Illinoisans then decided to look further, and are said to be determined to establish themselves in this vicinity, although they do not hope to find such another bargain as the Taylor farm seemed at the price it brought.

FRANCE WILL SURVIVE.

Recent figures deny she is degenerating. France, after all, may not be falling. Last year's census of that country, where the signs of decadence are usually believed to be very manifest, shows that in 1908 there was an excess of births over deaths amounting to 46,111. In two years prior to 1907 there was an excess of deaths over births. But the excess of births over deaths last year was higher than the average for the preceding ten years.

LIVING HELPED BY DEAD.

Patching of Humanity is Growing Science.
The knee joint of a dead man has replaced the injured joint of a living man.

The arteries of husband and wife have been successfully joined so that the wife might endure the shock of surgical operation. An infant's food has been revitalized by the blood of its parent. A human artery and jugular vein have been interchanged and are each fulfilling the other's function. The address of one who has been substituted for the corresponding organs of another. A living fox terrier frisks about upon the leg of a dead companion.

In the experiments of Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute to preserve arteries he found that desiccation would not do, but produced a state of absolute death. Then he put the arteries in refrigerators and kept them inclosed in hermetically sealed tubes at a temperature a little above freezing.

He found that an artery could be kept alive for sixty days and substituted for an artery of a living animal.

It is thought by those who are experimenting that the day is not far off when the perfect organs of a man who in life had been free from disease may be kept in cold storage after his death and used to replace diseased organs in living men.

HOTTEST THING DISCOVERED.

How Radium Has Changed Theories of Geologists.
Radium has revolutionized the geologist's world. Before its discovery the supplies of heat furnished by chemical changes in the earth were considered insignificant.

And nothing was thought to replace the heat which flows from the hot interior of the earth to the colder crust.

Now when the earth is said to be hot it only possessed a certain amount of capital in the form of heat, and if it is continually spending this capital and not gaining any fresh heat, it is evident that he process cannot have been going on for more than a certain number of years or the earth would be colder than it is.

IDAHO LEADING IN WHEAT YIELD

AVERAGE PER ACRE IS AHEAD OF OTHER STATES.
Official of Department of Statistics in Washington Explains That General Western Wheat Production is Far Better Than in East.

A. F. Hill, government statistician in the department of agriculture at Washington, who was in Boise recently, says the Capital News, announced that the general conditions of the wheat crop in the west are better than in the east. Mr. Hill has just received from Washington, D. C., the full report of the yield per acre of winter wheat grown in the different states. The crop in Idaho averages twenty-two bushels per acre. The average last year was thirty bushels and for ten consecutive years the average has been 25 bushels.

The state of Washington averages this year 26.8 bushels per acre; last year, 24.5 bushels and for ten consecutive years, 24 bushels. Oregon this year has an average of 21 bushels per acre; last year the average was 23.2 and for ten consecutive years the average has been 20.8 bushels per acre.

Compared with the states of the middle west, Idaho ranks far ahead, beating the bonated agricultural state of Missouri by a great margin. The report shows that the average yield of winter wheat per acre in Missouri this year was 14.7 bushels; last year 15 bushels and for an average of ten years 12.5 bushels per acre. Ohio, one of the great grain producers of the middle states, this year produced 15.9 bushels per acre. Last year the average was 16 bushels per acre and for ten years the average has been 11.8 bushels.

Only two states in the Union are ahead of Idaho on the average yield, Montana and Wyoming, both of which have a slight lead, but such a small amount of grain is grown in these states, they are not classed as grain states.

The total yield of winter wheat in Idaho this year was 7,528,000 bushels; Washington, 16,961,000; Oregon, 11,225,000.

Satisfied that the H. Henry coal mines can produce 100 tons daily and by the commodity down in Boise for the consumer at $6 per ton, says the Capital News, with means of transportation provided between Horseshoe Bend and the capital city, the business men who inspected the mines Sunday returned home ardent boosters for this enterprise.

It is probable that steps will be taken for the construction of a railroad under the provisions of the railroad district bill in order that Boise may secure this commodity at a saving of $2 per ton over prevailing prices for Wyoming coal.

The J. A. Alexander Company at Lewiston last week paid $1.05 for feed and $1.10 per hundred pounds for brewing barley and purchased at these figures a total of 20,000 sacks.

The Butterfield Live Stock Company of Welsch, the largest importer of thoroughbred sheep in the country, took nearly everything in sight with their exhibit at the Portland fair.

TWIN FALLS NEWS

Official paper of Twin Falls County. George B. Fraser, Editor. Published every Friday by THE NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY TWIN FALLS, IDAHO.

Subscription Rates. One Year, in Advance, $1.00. Six Months, in Advance, .60.

Reliable information regarding the city and county promptly and cheerfully furnished. Address all communications to The News Publishing Company, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Entered as second-class matter, December 2, 1904, at the postoffice at Twin Falls, Idaho, under Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Twin Falls congratulates the new town of Hollister, and hopes to see her grow as the proverbial "green bay tree."

The fact that broomcorn is selling at $165 a ton in Chicago, the highest price ever known for this article in the United States, and that the crop is short, suggests that brooms are soon to advance in price.

There was exceeding pleasure last Saturday in witnessing the streets of Twin Falls filled with buyers of merchants' wares and hundreds of prospectors for land coming and going among the real estate offices and living barns.

The baseball situation at Filer and Buhl is reported to be fully as serious this week as at any time since the war commenced, and the Turnipseed big wheat crop is no longer in the public eye of either of those towns, compared to the question of which community has the best fans.

Men are demonstrating a return upon capital invested in irrigated farm lands equal if not greater to that which can be obtained in other industries. It is being considered as a business proposition rather than a means merely of gaining a livelihood. The next decade or two will be devoted to the business development of the farm not only in production but in marketing—two great problems.

Twin Falls congratulates Hansen on the fact that a station building is going up there, and extends thanks to the railroad management, for the people of Hansen, who have waited patiently and long for this much-needed accommodation. We will add that very few years will elapse until the entire country between Twin Falls and Hansen will be peppered with small farms and when electric lines, passing in front of almost everybody's front yard, will stop cars for passengers and freight at every cross road.

We shall hope that next year, when the weeds begin to fringe the sidewalks on the principal residence thoroughfares, the council can find the funds with which to remove them. This will keep some of these walks from presenting much the same appearance as an unforgotten bald-headed man with his hat removed. No reflection is intended by these remarks on any of the city council, because none of the city fathers has probably thought of what an improved landscape would now exist on these thoroughfares if weeds had been subjected to a few scythes during the last summer.

It can scarcely be admitted—that any staid, morally-inclined and honest-minded Southern Idaho community, such as the News represents, can have any sympathetic interest with, even, ordinarily, in the puerile misadventures of Count Bond de Castellano, apparently the greatest French rover, former husband of Anna Gould of New York, and from whom she was divorced, to marry one of his cousins last year. But, owing to the fact that Count Bond is now dated to marry the beautiful 20-year-old daughter of George Gould (Anna's brother), our scruples against considering these people's nasty affairs may be waived long enough to ponder over their seemingly mixed relationships when their present program shall have been consummated. If Count Bond de Castellano does marry Marjorie Gould he will become his own nephew, the uncle of his children by Anna, and the stepson of his brother-in-law. But nobody can explain what his relation will be to his former wife, if he marries her niece, since she married...

The greatest lesson perhaps in the completion of the original Twin Falls project is discernible in maturing within the brief space of five years from beginning of work, and while the government has been unsuccessfully wrestling with similar projects designed for similar ends. It may be said truthfully also that had the smart projectors of the Twin Falls original project not been vigorous, honest-intentioned business men, gifted with unusual energy, and determination, commanding the confidence of capital, it too might yet be languishing in uncompleted stage. Comparing the two systems therefore of irrigation by the government and irrigation by private capital, the experience of the last eight years demonstrates that the latter is at least for the present the better qualified to undertake this work.

The Colorado National Expo-sition which will be held in Denver January 3 to 8, 1910, invites co-operation of growers of this fruit every-where, and inasmuch as the cash prizes range from $5 for any old apple up to $10,000 for the best commercially-packed case, it might be a good thing for some of our Twin Falls producers to get in on. We have quite a superior quality of the various varieties ripening, and also owners of orchards who can blow their own horns as vociferously as any Jonathan, Romanito or Pippin, whether he lives in the Centennial state or Hood River. If any of these gentlemen will write to Clinton Lawrence, secretary of the forthcoming Colorado show, the latter will send full premium lists and specifications free of charge. The Colorado growers behind this exposition include some of the ablest and financially strongest men in the business, and Denver's business men have also backed the enterprise heavily with money. One of the principal objects of the show is to arouse the public to realize that the apple is almost as valuable for human consumption as the alfalfa plant is for animals, containing a large percentage of nutritious substance that is exceedingly conducive to good health and longevity.

POTATO HONORS MUST BE OURS.

The News will insist that potatoes shipped out of Idaho to the Eastern and Southern markets shall carry the brand of their nativity. Every effort will be made to expose duplicity practiced by consignees who undertake to fill the market for Greeley potatoes with the Twin Falls product without giving Twin Falls credit. This statement is suggested by an allegation of the American Falls Press last week, which said: "The potato growers in the vicinity of Idaho Falls have, like the growers in this vicinity, discovered that potatoes grown in that section and shipped to Greeley, Colo., are rebuffed at that place and shipped as Greeley potatoes. The Greeley potatoes have long demanded a high price in the eastern market, and when we stop to consider the number of Southern Idaho potatoes shipped from there as Greeley potatoes, we must stop to wonder why we cannot ship them as Idaho potatoes and demand the top price. The Aberdeen Potato Growers' Association took this matter up, and this will fall make a direct shipment east, which will place Southern Idaho on the map of the potato growers."

THE ANNOUNCEMENT WAS MADE LAST WEEK BY A REPRESENTATIVE OF A BIG POTATO-BUYING HOUSE, THAT HIS FIRM INTENDED OPENING UP A BRANCH IN THIS CITY.

This was good news for the Twin Falls growers. The head of the firm is a "live bird," who has recognized in Twin Falls district a field wherein the potato yield is first-class, and is going to become even yet more superior in quality and greater in quantity. We hope, however, he does not intend using the Twin Falls source of supply to fill the demand for Greeley spuds. The gentleman who talked so glowingly to the News about his firm's program here, did not hint that any attempt would be made to suppress the Twin Falls potato's reputation for the sake of maintaining that of Greeley indefinitely. If that is the firm's intention, the News declares it will not be possible to extend such a possible period of deception on the public very long. Southern Idaho potatoes are as good in quality as Greeley's, and will sell equally as readily, in competition with Greeley's, when the public understands the truth about those which are produced here. The fact of the matter is, however, that Greeley does not produce sufficient to satisfy the demand for that brand of spuds, and every Southern Idaho grower will admit it is unrighteous low-down commercial conduct for the shippers to use this product to surreptitiously supply the Greeley deficiency. Southern Idaho, and especially Twin Falls growers, will expect, demand and secure all the honors to which they are entitled in this matter.

DEATH OF THOMAS WHITE.

Grim Reaper Calls Popular Twin Falls Resident. Thomas White, who had been suffering from an acute attack of erysipelas, died unexpectedly, at his home in this city, last Monday, Sept. 27, and the funeral was deferred, awaiting the arrival of relatives. Mr. White was respected and very popular among a large circle of friends and acquaintances. He was a native of Iowa, and was married, leaving a wife, mother and father in Canada, and several close associates. The burial services were arranged to occur from Miller's undertaking parlors at 3 o'clock Friday, Oct. 1, under the auspices of the English Rev. Parker being the officiating clergyman. Mrs. White's mother and father and brother arrived Tuesday from Utah, to be present with her at her hour of affliction and bereavement.

THINKS TWIN FALLS IS BEST.

Settler Follows His Own Advice to Others Seeking Locations. W. M. Lamb, who has come to settle in Twin Falls after visiting his son Herbert Lambing of Kimberly. "I believe Twin Falls county is the best money-making territory for the practical farmer and the wise land investor in all the West," explained Mr. Lambing. "I have traveled for agricultural and stockmen's needs for twenty-three years, in all the West, and just completed a tour of the entire Pacific coast, and having seen them all I believe I am competent to give an opinion on the matter. I have seen every state's star farming, horticultural and stock raising areas, and of them all I select Twin Falls county for myself, because it is the richest, the most resourceful, and has the best prospects for the future."

LOCAL OPTION DEMANDED.

Petitioners File List of People Wanting the Question Submitted. A petition for a local option election in Twin Falls county was filed with the county clerk last Wednesday, by G. E. Harlan and F. B. Warner. It was said to carry the requisite number of names, stipulated by the law as necessary to compel the commissioners to issue a call. The board of these circumstances has to order an election not less than thirty, nor more than sixty days, after its next meeting, Oct. 11. With a hundred thousand applications for 10,000 of his farms, Uncle Sam begins to realize that he isn't as rich in lands as he was a general.

Approach to Prohibitive Points for Consumers, and Threatened Importations from South America Suggest Further Advances Impossible.

The convention of the cattle and sheep breeders of the United States, which will meet in Denver, Colo., next January, will consider as its chief topic of debate, "The Rising Price of Beef."

"This question is attracting more attention at this time in all parts of the United States, in all classes of society, among the rich and poor alike, in large financial circles, than ever before in the history of the country."

Fears are entertained quite generally among the people of the towns and cities that beef will reach prohibitive prices. The cattlemen are anxious to avoid, and their efforts will be concentrated to re-assert interest in the ranching industry through the adoption of resolutions at the Denver convention, analyzing the cattle-growing industry and proposing some method of federal aid to its greater development.

Divorce causes have operated to decrease the available beef and other meat supplies from the American sources. Chief of these causes is likely the degeneration of the public rangelands. Another explanation is the recognition in the fact that a new wave of range, which has been expected to ascend about a point at which they had previously ruled, millions of cattle were hurried to market and the quantity of the herds for reproduction greatly reduced.

Meanwhile the population of the American nation has expanded enormously during the last ten years, and likewise the American demand for meats, which in itself would have strengthened the prices, had there not been a diminution in the available supplies of animal products.

Altogether an unusual situation is presented for these manifold reasons, and in the estimation of a large number of sound thinkers in and outside of the meat-producing business, there must come a change very soon which may precipitate an emergency for cattle and sheep.

Chief among the probable new conditions of the market, growing out of reduced American supplies and the approach of prices to the point of prohibitive to the consumer, is the threatened importation of beef and mutton from South America. This threat is a reality almost at hand.

So influential an authority as Bradstreet's Weekly Review (which is the standard American mercantile, financial and industrial reflex, last week said:

"American Consul Goding reports from Montevideo, South America, that it is now possible to import beef when the meat consumed by the people living along the Atlantic coast of the United States must be supplied from the river plate countries."

"Already American business men have visited here for the purpose of collecting data relative to the shipment of beef and mutton from Montevideo to New York, and they have expressed the opinion that such a move is practicable and would prove profitable, as the meat is of fine flavor and the price to be paid would be considerably less than the price paid for the home product."

"On the supposition that the freight and insurance charges on such a move as those now prevailing from Montevideo to London, the first grade, and a small percentage of second grade, would cost 5% cents to 6 cents, and the retail price of the meat per pound, sold in New York. The government of Uruguay has recently passed an act which relieves the shipment of frozen meat from the payment of the export duty for a period of ten years, provided the meat is prepared in the country."

With the decline in the cost of these South American meats to New York dealers would be less than they have recently been paying for the American product. The threat is a possibility that the American packers may themselves be seeking South American supplies for the American markets that the beef trust controls, with the expectation that this new source of supply would serve an increasing volume of meat handled, and forestall the further necessity of prices toward the prohibitive point.

One of the conclusions of the famous economists, who are discussing the conditions, is that the probable importations, is that cattle and sheep prices to American producers are as high as they can possibly reach.

Pneumatic Milk Can.
A recent invention is a dairy can which may be filled at the dairy, heretofore sealed, and kept in perfect condition until the contents of the can are removed at the place of sale, says the Scientific American. This result is effected by the use of compressed air in the can, which forces out the contents as needed. The compressed air is sterilized, and everything about the milk is kept perfectly clean. This can is locked and no liquid can be pumped into it without breaking the lock and removing the cover.

Married Five Men, Divorced None.
At Kansas City, recently, Frederick Chapman, who previously believed he had married an unsophisticated couple, became convinced that his wife was a fraud. He found four marriage certificates in her trunk. In a confession she admitted to have been married to five different men besides Chapman, and to have divorced each and said she had divorced from none. She was arrested for bigamy on complaint of Chapman.

UNCLE SAM FAILS ON IRRIGATION JOB

LACK OF FUNDS THREATENS ALL FEDERAL JOBS.

Demand Now Is for a Special Appropriation of $10,000,000 With Which to Complete These Works in Several Parts of the Country.

A most unfortunate predicament is faced by the government of the United States, and probably a whole lot of people, because under some of the patently conceived irrigation projects, because there are not funds available with which to carry on continuously and complete them.

Emergencies of this kind during the last few years, have been temporarily met by the issuance of so-called operative certificates on the part of the reclamation service to settlers who aided in the construction work. Such employment was accepted by the settlers, on these terms of credit because they believed it was better to take the government's due bills rather than endure the misfortune of the irrigation project. It had been promised water on certain stated dates but which could not be delivered until specified work on the reservoirs and canals, as the case might be, had been concluded.

Now it is decided by the officials at Washington that the issuance of these certificates of indebtedness to the settlers, and the more of them will be allowed to issue.

Senator Dornah has informed some of the settlers in Idaho, holding water rights, that their bills would be returned at face value; but the authority therefor must come from the next session of congress. He has advised the settlers to hold on to their good clear and wait until congress acts.

In the meantime, however, congress must provide ways and means with which to redeem due bills for work already done by the settlers on these projects, amounting to $5,000,000, but $1,000,000 additional to complete them.

There has been a deficiency in these government irrigation funds all along, because the advance estimates of the government engineers were too low; because the sales of the lands coincident with the progress of the work were slower than had been estimated by the officials; and for the additional reason that there was no advertising bureau devoted expressly to the work of colonization, and especially in the matter of the welfare of the people who did come into government irrigated tracts, as there have been in colonization work on irrigated land where private capital was sponsor.

Senator Dornah expects to introduce a bill, when the proper time arrives, in congress, authorizing the secretary of the interior to issue bonds with which to raise the money needed by the reclamation service to pay all its debts and proceed with the work in hand until it is finished.

Congress, however, may or may not accept this road out of the entanglement, and the settlers may have to remain in the wilderness and wait for trouble for many long days until relief arrives from Washington.

GETS A SUNFLOWER SURPRISE.

Farmer Expected Cucumbers and Has Seed the Seed Man.

Forty acres of blazing sunflowers where cucumber seed was sown is the basis for a lawsuit filed in the Superior court by John Cochran, a Washington farmer, against one of the seedmen in the state. The complaint alleges that the seedman sold Cochran 1,800 pounds of sunflower seed when the original order called for cucumber seed. Cochran employed a man from the city to do the planting of the forty acres to cucumbers. The hired man did not know the difference between a cucumber and a sunflower seed and planted the patch according to orders.

Cochran said he thought the young plants were cucumbers when they appeared above the ground, but when at three weeks of age they turned in to a stalk with a bunch of leaves at the top, he recognized them as sunflowers. He told the seedman of the error, and the seedman returned the smiles of Cochran's neighbors as they drive past the truck patch.

GIGANTIC POTATO YIELD.

Banner Field Gives Over 500 Bushels Per Acre.

Hoyburn Review: Richard C. Wait is harvesting his potatoes this week on the site of his cranberry farm. Four acres were planted to the tubers, and the yield promises to average 400 bushels to the acre.

Some part of the field returns an high 450 bushels to the acre, and in other places where the wind got in its work the high average was reduced.

Wait planted the seed last spring and saved the field no further attention. It was never cultivated or irrigated, as the land sub-irrigates, for the first time in the history of the country entirely during the growing season.

BEEF IMPORTS MAY BE FORCED

SIGNIFICANT STATEMENTS ABOUT THE CATTLE BUSINESS.

Claim is Made That the Lessened Bovine Yield of Last Few Years in Losing Condition for the United States.

Chicago Tribune: The other day Mr. James J. Hill said the United States must grow more wheat or it would become an importing instead of an exporting country. If that were to happen and the price of the loaf of bread to go up, the workmen would be as unanimous for the repeal of the "corn laws." The American farmers would be as much set on keeping the duty as were the English landlords.

Now, Secretary Wilson, speaking in the interest of cheap food and of a great industry, calls on the American cattle raiser to be up and doing. The secretary says that there are not in the country so many cattle as there were two years ago by 2,389,000. There is no more stock, at least enough more to keep pace with the growth in population. Because of the lessened number exports of cattle have dropped off nearly 300,000 in the last eight or ten months, and those of beef products about 65,000,000 pounds.

The price of beef has been steadily advancing here to the great discomfort of wage earners, while it has remained at a fairly reasonable standard abroad. That American consumers are suffering, the secretary does not say, but the secretary may be ascribed largely to the shortage in beef. The general advance in prices of all commodities and the activities of the beef trust have no doubt played their part. If there had been a larger supply of cattle, beef would not command the price it does now in the United States.

The secretary of agriculture ascribes the shortage in beef to restrictions on the range and the high prices of hay and corn. The public should no longer order the hundreds of grazing areas that it once did. That it costs more to fatten cattle for the market, everybody knows. And yet, in spite of that, it seems as if there were money enough in raising cattle, with beef commanding the prices it does, to stimulate a laudable industry.

If the number of cattle were to keep on decreasing there would be a further advance in prices. Americans would have to eat less beef—their average consumption is now less than it was ten years ago—or they would have to begin drawing part of their supply from South America, which could furnish enormous quantities if there were a demand. At present no beef is imported, but some Americans have been in Uruguay to find out whether it were not pay to ship beef and mutton from there to the United States. There is a yield of 14 cents a pound, and yet there ought to be a profit in the business if the price of beef were to rise.

It would be well for the cattle raisers to head off this threatened competition, to retain the profitable trade in the products of the cow with Europe, and supply their countrymen with cheaper beef. It is in their power to do it.

OATS ALMOST SIX FEET TALL.

Unusual Record Secured by One of Hansen's Farmers.

While the other farmers of Twin Falls County are talking, and freely exchanging news about their large yields of wheat, potatoes and hay, it has been left for E. L. Hays of Hays to claim the preeminence for growing the tallest oats in the bull-wick this year.

His field will average in height, according to reliable reports from that section, five feet above the ground. The supposition is, of course, that when it is threshed, there may be a large yield of grain, and Hays hopes this may be true. His friends say that if that should be the case, he might swell up and look proud.

As it is, the owner of this high field of oats expects more straw out of this crop than of last one-quarter, than any other man engaged in the oats producing business during the last season. He thinks he will have some straw to dispose of, therefore, after the field is fully harvested.

MORE SCHOOL FACILITIES.

This Will Be Slogan of a Meeting of Citizens Tonight.

The meeting this evening of property owners, and others interested in enlargement of Twin Falls public school facilities, promises to attract a representative crowd of citizens. The hope is entertained by the many most interested, that before the convention adjourns it will have reached some conclusions that may lead to a new high school building. In case it be found impracticable to incur the expense, at this time, of a new building, the board of directors is hopeful that the citizens will endorse a plan under which additional school rooms may be fitted up for the accommodation of the surplus school children. It is hoped that the meeting will be otherwise possible.

The meeting is officially called by the executive James Wines of the school board, and will be held at the auditorium of the Dinkel school building, beginning at 8 o'clock.

WHAT THE WEST WANTS.

Partinent Remarks About Her Self Esteem and Pride.

Chicago Tribune: Henry Clay was an expert in plotting the future of the golden west in glowing words. To him the "west" meant Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky. He used the production of its industries, the building of roads for its development, and the encouragement of its people in every way. Visitors from the east, at that time, in the central states by the remote descriptions of such leaders, went back home to sing the praises of the new land beyond the mountains.

The same sort of process is witnessed now. Visitors to the "west" are returning from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Utah and other commonwealths, telling of the glories they have seen. Many of them declare their intention to join the great army of homeseekers who are pressing into these new lands of promise. Their enthusiasm merely reflects the feeling of those already settled beyond a more distant range of mountains, that they will satisfy it as they see fit for the pioneer of a century ago.

The expressions which come from the irrigation congress at Spokane indicate the belief of the "west" in itself. It knows what it wants. It does not hesitate to declare its needs. It does not use a foot rule or a pint cup in its measurements. Nothing that a true people will satisfy it as it looks out upon the possibilities. And it must be confessed that there is something contagious in the confidence which every western man feels in the certain future. As a stimulus to patriotic pride it cannot be surpassed.

The "west" wants money. It wants lots of it. Specifically, it wants $5,000,000,000. It will share part of it with the rest of the country. But its own projects will require much of the vast amount. The money is to be divided into five equal parts and is to be used for reclamation of arid lands by irrigation, for deep waterways, for good roads, for conservation of forest resources, and for drainage of swamp lands. Five billion dollars is a great amount. The vision of the Atlantic coast citizen will never reach so far.

It is the expectant "west" which sees far ahead, outlines the needs, and looks forward with a hopeful spirit in the direction of great accomplishments.

MENTAL PHASE OF IRRIGATION.

Sharpens the Intellect and Inspires the Social Forces.

Civilization originated in countries where the necessity was to irrigate the land or perish. In Babylonia and Egypt were laid the foundations of every science and the arts. The reason for this was the necessity for a man to think and plan on his own hand and to cooperate with his neighbors on the other. The habit of thinking about one subject leads him to exercise his brain on others, and presently he discovers the great truth that ideas are upon the whole beneficial to him rather than baneful.

Co-operation is the only way out of most rural difficulties, and it is easier in irrigated regions than elsewhere in the world. One of the great irrigation departments from the beginning on co-operation. But also the farms are necessarily small, people are near together, continually develop, and the plans of public intelligence rise, the communal consciousness rises to work and presently the whole neighborhood studies, buys, soils and thrives as one man.

BOISE FAIR PRIZE CATTLE.

Greatest Exhibit of Thoroughbreds Ever Shown in State.

The directors of the Idaho Inter-mountain Fair, October the 11th to 15th, have already begun the busy show herds of the world which are now at Seattle as attractions and they will be placed on exhibition in the show rings.

These famous herds representing the best there is in the best of their lines have won first prizes in the greatest show contests in the world, a number of the cattle having been imported.

This will be the first time that any such exhibit has ever been made in this country. The stock show at the Inter-mountain fair this year will be the greatest in the history of Idaho.

It includes a very shifty herd and represent the best stock of the foremost breeders of America.

Value of Timber Culture.

A bulletin issued by the United States forest service at Washington, states that the value of the yield of wood per acre will be calculated—as carefully—as the yield of corn, and as much thought will be given to growing it. In Europe when the rate of crops of trees get under favorable conditions an annual growth of 4,600 pounds to 6,600 pounds of wood per acre. The growth of an acre of fir, for example, at a freight that an acre of any one of the agricultural crops except cabbage, onions, and potatoes. Woodland, under care, yields more profitably than any other crop. The marketable timber only is cut at regular intervals, and now growth is always coming on.

Canada's Great Crops.

An official statement of Canada's grain harvest says: "The wheat crop is put down at 108,388,000 bushels, giving an average of twenty-five bushels an acre, and barley 67,000,000 bushels, or thirty-one bushels an acre. The yield of oats is 355,000,000, or thirty-two bushels an acre. It has been the largest crop the country has ever produced."

HUNTERS DEPART FOR THE SOUTH

SEEK HERD OF STRANGE ANIMALS NEAR STATE LINE.

Mission of Unusual Character Detached from Seat of Scientific Investigation and Secrecy of Explorers' Designs is Feature of Departure.

An expedition into the mountains south of Twin Falls was fitted out Tuesday with camp equipment, provisions and scientific instruments hermetically sealed in glass that are not to be opened until required for use on the expedition. The party is operating under instructions from the national capital.

Torrey Gunt of Jerome, who supervised the arrangements, was at first loth to explain why these extensive preparations were so cautiously effected; yet his brief statement may be true, that he is in search of a herd of strange animals, which he has endeavored to hunt on a hunting trip, which would include the vicinity of Contact, where there is said to have recently been discovered a herd of very rich one body.

With the party were John King, William Blakely and Attorney Fitzpatrick, all of this city, and those persons who manifested no disposition to "tip off" their mission.

Just before departure southward on Shoshone street however, Gunt related a previous statement in attitude long enough to say:

"There will be something doing before we return, that may surprise all in this city. I am not sure of what we are going after there will likely be established what will be known as the new town of 'Rough Rock' in the vicinity of Contact, and that may become the most important mining metropolis of Southern Idaho."

But this allegation seemed to have been merely a ruse for thwarting the curiosity of inquiring onlookers. Gunt's party acted somewhat as did the now famous Dr. Cook possibly when he was planning to beat Peary to the north pole.

The real object of Gunt and his associates, it was said after their departure, is to locate, if possible, two white oxen and their descendants, as declared by the old settlers to have been released in the mountain fastnesses along the Idaho-Nevada line in 1872, at the instance of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington. According to the story, a pair of these animals were then deemed all sufficient to populate that region, provided their lives should not be sacrificed to the cold winters. Being shy in all their instincts, these, they were never expected to appear to the sight of man, like the mountain thers that would repair to the inaccessible gulches of the higher points, and live and rear their young thereabout without coming in contact even with the mine prospectors and sheep herders.

Now Gunt and associates are said to have received instructions from the Smithsonian Institution to make a thorough search of the region they will enter, and if the oxen can be found, drive them into Twin Falls. He also has orders to feed the oxen, whose carcasses are to be prepared around alfalfa meal from the Filer alfalfa mill which is expected to soon be in operation. The strange animals are believed to prefer this meal as a diet, to the few sprigs of grass that linger on public ranges, even at the pinnacles of the hills.

Should Gunt find the oxen, the task of driving them is expected to be the most troublesome, even if he impart to them the splendid treat for their stomachs that the alfalfa meal will afford them.

The honors of their discovery also will enable Gunt and his associates to secure much free advertising in the newspapers, after which opportunities to travel and give lectures on the hardships endured in the search for the herd are expected from all over the country.

FOR SUGAR BEETS IF THEY WILL PAY

SUGAR MAKING AT HANSEN IS UNDER CONSIDERATION.

Committee of the Farmers Will Visit Beet-Raising Communities, and If It Be Found That There Is Money in It Hansen Will Get the Factory.

Twin Falls county will have a beet sugar factory if the owners of the land around Hansen decide they want to engage in the business of raising the beets.

S. T. Robinson returned a few days ago from that vicinity, where he held many conferences with the farmers relative to propagation of this tuber, and found the people generally favorable to the idea of diverting a part of the agricultural area thereabout to this line of farming.

Robinson also tried to learn the promoters of a beet sugar factory were working there also, and paid attention to the possibilities of the soil for beet culture, also tried to learn whether there could be excelled enough interest in beet culture to warrant the introduction of a sugar factory.

The fact is said to have been definitely established that the lands, not only of Hansen but also a considerable part of other sections of the county, are rich in soil containing a large percentage above the specified amount of saccharine matter.

The remaining question to be determined by the farmers was, whether there will be greater revenue in raising beets, or continuing to employ their lands to grow wheat, now paying handsome, sure profits.

Mr. Hamilton said that this question will not be decided until after some time has passed, from an extended visit, of a committee of the farmers, appointed for this purpose, to several localities in other states where the beet sugar factories are in operation. What the Hansen farmers want is the most money out of the land, as well as the greatest aggregate volume of prosperity from their farms.

It is expected the farmers' committee will bring back reports of the experience of districts which are raising sugar beets, and that these reports will be submitted to the agriculturists that are considering the question at Hansen.

Should the farmers be expected to raise the beets decide they can do so profitably, contracts will be made for the growing of a crop, and about the same time crops will be announced under which a beet sugar factory will be established in that section.

DISPLAYS OF CROPS NEEDED.

More Articles Grown Are Yet Wanted for Chicago Show.

Twin Falls county products of all kinds are yet wanted by Alex McPherson, in charge of the collection, for the big irrigation exposition in Chicago this winter.

Grains, grasses, bags of potatoes, and bales of hay are especially needed to make the display of Twin Falls county yet more representative than it is. The exhibit has to be shipped Oct. 10.

Articles intended for this display may be left with, or sent to, Mr. McPherson, in Twin Falls, care of the Irrigated Lands Company office.

As has been heretofore said, this is one of the matters which are extremely important to all residents of the county, and it is hoped by those having the subject in charge that every producer having anything especially good in any line of crops will contribute a sample for the cause.

Take your joy with you or you'll not find it even in heaven.

BILLET'S FARM SELLS FOR $1000

A MAN FROM WASHINGTON IS THE PURCHASER.

Beiler Said to Have Largely Profited On Original Investment, and Purchaser Will Proceed at Once to Work the Place to Best Advantage.

The E. R. Billett farm of 120 acres, two miles northeast of Twin Falls, was sold this week by the Irrigated Lands Company, as agent, to C. T. Patton, who came here from St. John's, Wash., looking for a better location for general farming than he had found in that state.

The price paid for this property was $12,000. The purchaser has returned to Washington to prepare for removing his family, and a large equipment of farm machinery and tools to the place as soon as he can, with the intention of operating the place, in conjunction with two grown sons, aggressively next season.

Mr. Patton is a practical, experienced farmer, and the gentleman with whom he came in contact was favorably impressed with him, and expressed the opinion that he is of the sterling kind of men who have been great aids in bringing Twin Falls district up to the very high standard of citizenship and development of which this land is capable.

The seller of this farm is one of the pioneers in Twin Falls, having purchased the ground in the opening of the late '80s. The place has been quite extensively improved. After deducting the cost of the land and the improvements, and taking into consideration the revenue from crops raised, Alex McPherson of the Twin Falls Irrigated Lands Company said he believed Mr. Billett will have cleared from his four years investment, about $8,000 or $10,000. Mr. Billett holds a position—as he has for many years—as traveling salesman for the Crocker Chair Company of Sheboygan, Wis., and has not given up his entire time to the farm.

Geo. Davis was in Twin Falls on business both Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Brooks, from Oklahoma, was looking over the tract Wednesday with an intention of locating.

W. J. Davis of Gooding was in Filer on business Wednesday. Geo. Hill of Loveland, Colo., an old friend of J. C. McCreery, was in Filer visiting J. C. Monday and Tuesday. He and J. C. drove over to Hollister to see the Salmon metropolis Tuesday.

M. G. Ripley was in Buhl and Twin Falls on business Saturday. He married Sunday, at the home of the bride's brother, George Rottis. Miss Gustava E. Rettig and Benjamin Hartley. A 5 o'clock wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Ripley entertained about fifty of their friends Monday evening at the Daum ranch, where they will make their home.

Friends of Dr. A. Newberry received cards from Seattle announcing his marriage to Miss Freda Berger on Monday, Sept. 20th. They are expected home this week. V. C. Rator from Kentucky, a land speculator, was in Filer Saturday.

HOLLISTER OPENS BIG TOMORROW

TWO TRAINS WILL RUN FROM TWIN FALLS DEPOT.

Lot Drawing to Commence at One o'clock in the Afternoon and is the Great Attraction for the Crowds Expected from Many Points.

The first excursion train for Hollister Saturday will leave the railroad station at 8 o'clock, carrying four coaches, every one of which is expected to be filled. The train will almost immediately return to Twin Falls, and will proceed again to the new townsite immediately after the arrival of the morning train here from Minidoka, which usually gets in at 10:30 to 11 o'clock. Ample provision will be made for return of Hollister excursionists the same evening, if they desire.

The drawing for the lots will be commenced at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, and the management believes that these train arrangements will make it possible for everybody desiring to witness and participate in this procedure.

The opening of this townsite has been contemplated with much concern by many hundreds of people for several weeks, and the probability is it will attract a big crowd.

Messrs. I. B. Ferrino and H. L. Hollister, who have been chiefly instrumental in development of the resources of the country within which this new town is to be the chief distributing point, and in having the railroad built into it, from Twin Falls, are assuring everybody that nothing will be spared to make not only the opening, but the progress, of the new city so complete a success from the beginning that it will be the great metropolis for the Salmon country, which is going to contain many thousands of settlers, and also a supply point for a large stretch of other new farming sections that is opening in every direction northwestward.

Plans for a grand hotel have been adopted which foretell that Hollister will have a hostelry eclipsing the Perrine in this city. The work on this building is to be inaugurated very soon and aggressively pushed along, just as Messrs. Perrino and Hollister are wont to drive all their projects.

Home talent, home labor, home industry, home capital, and home pleasure are things to be fostered, encouraged and patronized.

WHY HE INVESTED IN TWIN FALLS TWO YOUNG MEN RAISE LARGE CROP

ILLINOIS MAN SAYS HE FOUND IT WOULD BE PROFITABLE.

Thinks That Ownership of the Land, and Tillage Thereof, is More Assuring of Greater Yield to Capital Than Lending Money at 10 Per Cent.

"When I first came to Twin Falls," said Luther F. Martin, of Decatur, Ill., who spent the week in this county and invested some $25,000 in farm lands, "I intended employing my money here in the loan business. There seemed to be a large demand for capital, and from a class of men whose assets were very superior. As I looked over the local situation, however, I perceived that I could do better than loan my capital, even if the rate it would command was ten per cent.

"I discovered that the farmers were willing to pay, and were paying, 10 per cent for money with which to carry on farming operations, and that they were making money out of this capital.

"This was one of the highest testimonials the country could have, in my estimation, while it was certainly a great tribute to the exceeding richness, fertility and money-making abilities of the land and the farmers.

"When I got down to figuring on the prices at which the land could be purchased, and the money it would earn when it was put to work, I discovered in value it would likely experience during the next few years, I decided my capital was going to earn a larger revenue in the land than if loaned out, on good security, at 10 per cent per annum.

"I concluded that if the farmers could borrow money at 10 per cent, and yet make big money by farming here, I could do the same thing, and that to loan this capital, under these circumstances, was simply to overlook best opportunities."

Quite a number of other investors who have been coming into Twin Falls county these last few months, are coming to similar conclusions, and one of the reasons that farm lands are gradually rising in value, and that there is quite assured this fall and winter the liveliest market for the local real estate world, has experienced.

GET 3,000 BUSHELS OF GRAIN AND MANY POTATOES.

Were Unfamiliar With the Business and Especially Tenderfooted on Irrigation Work but Secured Splendid Results by Using Brains.

Among the proud young men of Twin Falls County, who have "made good" in the farming business, there are probably none that take more pleasure in his accomplishments than J. H. Beatty, who lives with his father, J. C. Beatty, a short distance northwest of the city.

He came here, he says, a year ago this month from Kansas City, and after spending the winter in preparations began to plan for the season just closed.

An arrangement was made meantime with Arthur Schultz, a young man from Chicago, under which the latter was to help with the work. Neither had ever seen an irrigating ditch, and both admit that what they did not know about farming under irrigation would make a large book.

"Father owns the ground," explained Mr. Beatty, "and exercised an executive control of the place, but Schultz and I have done the work of this farm. We were pretty busy all the time, and nevertheless the season was not exceedingly wearisome.

"Together we have handled 150 acres of grain and twenty acres of potatoes, which latter were in orchard ground, and which will yield at least 200 sacks of 100 pounds each to the acre. Our wheat goes thirty bushels per acre, and our oats forty bushels per acre, and we have 2,000 bushels threshed and 3,000 bushels yet to thresh.

"Next year we expect to raise a better yield of grain, because we will know more about the irrigation, and we believe that every year we will learn more of this side of the farming routine in this county.

"It is my intention to farm this land again in 1910, and also we will put under cultivation a half section that we own, cornering the Hollister townsite."

A WOMAN AT THE BANK.

How She Identified Herself to the Teller's Satisfaction.

"I'm very sorry to trouble you, ma'am," said a Twin Falls bank teller, politely, "but you'll have to be a bit tougher. I've pushed the check toward her as he spoke."

"Identified?" repeated the lady. "What does that mean? Isn't the check good?"

The bank man did not smile, for this was the seventh lady who had asked this question that day.

"I have no doubt it is," he said, "but I don't know you. Do you know anybody in Twin Falls or the bank?"

"Why, I'm Mrs. Weatherly!" exclaimed the lady. "Didn't you see my name on the check? See—here it is."

The teller shook his head wearily. "You must be identified," he insisted; "you must bring somebody who knows you." The lady drew herself up.

"That check," she said, with dignity, "was given me by my husband. There's his name on it. Do you know him?"

"I do," said the teller, "but I don't know you."

"Then," said the lady, "I'll show you who I am. My husband is a tall man with reddish hair. His face is smooth-shaven. He has a mole on one cheek and looks something like a gorilla, some people say, but I don't think so. When he talks he twists his mouth to one side, and one of his front teeth is missing. He wears a No. 15 collar, a No. 6 shoe, and won't keep his coat buttoned. It's the hardest man to get money out of you ever saw—I took me three days to get this check." The banker waived his hand.

is carefulness in spending. The man with a salary will find that his money goes further when he deposits it in the bank and pays his bill by check. And he knows where every penny goes, too. The Twin Falls Bank & Trust Co. bank in fact accounts from salaried men and housekeepers. As little as ten dollars will start one. Many a one began with that sum, has become a goodly balance, because of the check it puts on thoughtless spending.

A HOLLISTER MERCHANT TALKS

Says There Will Be An Open Door at the Big Opening.

John Diebolt, of Decatur, Ill., pioneer merchant of Hollister, spent several days this week in Twin Falls, getting ready for the big wave of trade which is expected in that young city here coincident with the formal opening on Oct. 2. "We feel that we are going to grow right along," he enthusiastically exclaimed, "for there is a big stretch of good resourceful country surrounding the town that will be developed. There is no doubt in our minds over there that the railroad will soon be connected through to the main line of the Southern Pacific, and then Twin Falls will have direct connection, via Hollister, with the mining camps and other towns in Nevada which are large consumers of products of Twin Falls and other Southern Idaho counties.

"We know also that the extension of the railroad will soon be made from Hollister to Salmon Dam. This is to be a branch line, and will be a valuable feeder for the city of Hollister and of considerable accommodation to the settlers in the Salmon tract.

"You can say to everybody that, on the occasion of the Hollister opening there will be accommodations for all comers. Our latch string will be out. We have considerable space above our store, which will be utilized as sleeping quarters, and of course there is a large stock of provisions in our establishment."

Then Mr. Diebolt smiled significantly, for he referred to the fact that he and his brother maintain a general store where everything is kept in stock from three-hundred-foot telegraph poles, to the Hawaiian merchants in the place before their business had thought of locating in the place, and have stayed by the place. Both are enterprising individuals, who forsook, a few months ago, quite good positions as salesmen "on the road," but who realized that there are wonderful opportunities for the fellows who get out at the front and take advantage of them.

It is scarcely necessary to explain also that much of the benefits of the opening of Hollister will fall to this firm, and visitors there will admit that they deserve it all as recompense for their energy in getting in "on the ground floor," and walking for the boom, as it were.

Merits of the Bang.
Many women consider the English bang merely as a thing for children and young girls, but quite the contrary is true. The bang softens the features that are hard, conceals the little lines around the temples, acts as a veil for the heavy lined eyes, softens the forehead, and makes the face look more girlish.

Broom Corn in Southern Idaho.
Darius Dillestin: That broom corn can be successfully grown on the Minidoka project has been fully demonstrated by Frank Fox, who has a ranch east of Burley. He planted a quarter of an acre to this crop which matured in splendid shape, and was pronounced by experts to be far above the average in quality.

LEGAL BLANKS.
Of every character and description arranged from the best legal forms and brought strictly up to date. A full supply always on hand at the Twin Falls News office.

Where President Taft Drew the Line.

President Taft refused to take a plunge in the pool at Glenwood Springs, where the assembled multitude expected he would be visible in a bathing costume. He explained his declination of the invitation from the entertainment committee by saying: "The last time I took a bath in public I overheard two men saying: 'If I was as fat as that man I would do my bathing in private.'"

Mineral Salts Make the Crops.
The marvelous fertility of arid land when irrigated is largely due to its richness in mineral salts. Potash, sulphur, lime and phosphorus are found in abundance. It is estimated that good land in the irrigated districts is ten times as rich in nourishing salts as good land in Illinois.

Value of Irrigation Bonds.
An irrigation bond has the strength and security of a conservatively managed farm mortgage combined with all the advantages of corporate responsibility. It would be hard to conceive of a more attractive form of investment than well selected bonds of this class.
