The projected theater for this city is one project which will meet with approval by all of the citizens who are at present obliged to go either to Boise or Salt Lake to attend the better class of productions, and the amount of money thus expended would prove a handsome sum if carefully estimated. The circuit will bring to this city all of the big theatrical companies and add a great deal of money to the coffers of the hotels and restaurants directly, and to the whole city indirectly.

The recent Good Roads convention held in Salt Lake City will be greatly beneficial to the states of Idaho, Utah and Wyoming in getting the citizens interested in a tri-state road. Attorney J. B. Hill, who was one of the hardest workers for the project, deserves a great deal of credit for his energy in getting the convention to endorse such a move and also for his purpose in getting such road into Idaho and into this section. The road if placed in condition will be used as the route of the international auto races in this country and will bring a great deal of tourist travel to every section through which the road is built.

French aviators come high and fly low is the verdict of the people of Salt Lake who waited for three hours last Saturday for Louis Paulhan to make an almost fruitless attempt to go up in his aeroplane. On Sunday after keeping the ten thousand spectators waiting for two hours, Mr. Paulhan did make one successful flight of about ten minutes and then refused to go up again, although he had promised his employer, the Salt Lake Commercial club, that he would make record flights. Mr. Paulhan received six thousand dollars for his posing, and left the Commercial club to make its peace with a lot of enraged people. If Mr. Paulhan were properly catalogued in plain American he would be called a four-flusher.

The direct primary law makes it almost imperative that each candidate for office formulate a platform on which to make the campaign. There will be no convention to formulate such platform for the entire party prior to the primary and the successful candidate at the primary will make the county and state platform. For this reason the voters of this county should see to it that every candidate comes out openly for the many things needed in state and county, and on the other hand shun the man who will not tell where he stands. The direct primary was intended to free the voters from the domination of the politicians and make them the peoples' servants, and if the voters do not exercise care in selecting the candidates who come out on a strong platform, the aim of the law is diverted and no benefit derived.

The time is rapidly approaching when Twin Falls will be without a school and when the real fighting of the local option people will begin. The certainty of the bootlegger beginning operations in this city leaves only one conclusion to the citizen who favors law enforcement and that conclusion is to start a fight on the law violations and by drastic measures give the practice a knockout blow. Nearly every business man, regardless of his opinions on the subject, will be in favor of having Twin Falls a dry town to the full text of the law, and with this sentiment incorporated in a civic league there is no reason to doubt the results. The blind tiger cannot exist if the people do not want it here. The temperance workers should be prompt to move in the matter and see that some form of law enforcement is put up to the business men of this city and to the citizens of the whole county. It cannot be left altogether to the county authorities who without assistance would be helpless to detect violations of the law.

The growth of the public library from a little reading room established by the ladies of this city has been great, and the movement seems to have had the hearty support of the citizens. But the movement needs the impetus of a regular and generous appropriation from the city itself and so far this support has not been given. Nearly every city has its public library supported by an annual tax fund and the library is recognized as an educator equal to the public school system. Twin Falls has so far let a few individuals do a beneficent work which belongs properly to the municipality. There is no reason to doubt that the bulk of the citizens in this city will be ready and willing to pay a library tax if the matter is taken up by the city council and the proper steps taken to carry out the move. To any person who has visited the library in going ahead with the suit has the support of every property holder on the Twin Falls tract. The association in going ahead with the suit have the utmost confidence that the case will be decided favorably and thus compel the company to issue a good and sufficient deed to the canal and dam. But before any move can be made a certain amount of money must be raised to support the case in the court and to pay attorneys' fees. A great many of the ranchers and water users are coming to the front and paying their just share of the expense, but there are a large number who have not paid, and who are just as much interested in the outcome. To these settlers the Times wishes to appeal to come to the aid of the movement and help by a contribution to the expense fund. To do otherwise is to shrink a just share of expense and to throw a heavy burden upon the rest. There is no doubt but the questions of water priority, ownership of canal system and power to vote stock are fundamental at this time when the operation of the system is supposed to be in the settlers' hands. A fundamental principle is at stake in the settlement of each question and there should be no halt called until each is decided.

"DON'T BUY MEAT; DO YOU?" More than a million persons, it is said, are now actively interested as abstainers from meat-eating in various parts of the country in an associated attempt to reduce food prices by boycott. The movement started in Cleveland. While, according to dispatches, meat in Cleveland local retail stores was not affected in price by the increase in the number of abstainers to 60,000, veal was offered to the big restaurants at eleven cents a pound instead of fourteen, the prevailing price recently. The dispatches further report that, though the big Cleveland wholesalers say they do not fear the strike, the Cleveland Provision company, operating a slaughterhouse and twenty-seven retail stores, has laid off one-third of its staff of wagon drivers who were engaged in delivering meat from the yards to the shops. The movement has now spread to other Ohio cities, especially as Governor Harmon has been reported to declare that a food trust is "gobbling excessive profits" somewhere between the producer and the consumer and that the legislature might be called upon to hunt the trust out and exhibit it to the people. As might be expected, the boycott has also appeared in those cities where there are large packing interests, like Chicago, Kansas City, and Omaha. In the last-named place the Central Labor Union has taken up the campaign. In Kansas City the boycott is growing among the labor unions, especially among the bricklayers, carpenters, and railway men. In Chicago the Federation of Labor is interested in the movement. The packers in these cities declare that they would not be paying eight or nine cents a pound for hogs if they could be purchased for six or seven cents, that killed labor is receiving high wages, that its purchasing power is larger than ever before. The movement is now noticeable in such far-apart places as St. Louis, Milwaukee, Pittsburg, Richmond, and Baltimore. At the last-named place five thousand buttons inscribed "I don't buy meat; do you?" have been distributed to various unions, where they will be given out to members who take the pledge. It is possible, of course, temporarily to lower the price of meat by such wholesale abstention. It is also possible thus to start a permanent reform of personal extravagance in living. Another method, however, of lowering the cost of living should not pass unnoticed. That method does not involve lessening the demand but increasing the supply. Our farms produce too little per acre. Mr. James J. Hill has repeatedly shown that the average farm may, by a system of crop rotation, be made to double its average crops. This is proved by the "railway farms" conducted as object-lessons by the New York Central, Northern Pacific, and other railroads. Mr. Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific, thus speaks, as reported, of his company's farms: "On five experimental farms conducted by our company each land (formerly grazing land) produces forty bushels of wheat) to the acre. It is the right agriculture for the problem of feeding 50,000,000 people."—The Outlook.

To Keep Eggs Fresh. Fresh eggs in cold storage at 34 degrees Fahrenheit undergo little if any change, for this temperature is sufficient to limit the activities and prevent the growth of the more common bacteria. The problem of preserving eggs by excluding air has brought forth numerous methods. A series of tests was recently made keeping the eggs for about eight months in twenty different ways.

Immersed in brine all were unfit for use. Wrapped in paper 80 per cent were bad. Packed in bran or coated with paraffin 70 per cent spoiled. Immersed in a solution of salicylic acid 50 per cent only were fit to use. Coated with shellac or collodion, 40 per cent were bad. Packed in wood ashes 20 per cent spoiled. Coated with vaseline or immersed in a solution of water glass or lime water all were good.

From these experiments, as well as many others, it has been found that a solution of water glass offers about the best method of preserving eggs aside from cold storage. Water glass is the common name for potassium or sodium silicate, and is obtained in the shops in the form of thick liquid something like glycerin. One part of this to nine of sterile water makes a preserving fluid of the proper strength.

The eggs should be packed in a clean, sweet vessel and the solution poured over them until they are well covered. Preserved in this way in a cool place, they will keep for months and often cannot be distinguished in appearance from the fresh article. It is generally conceded that they lack the flavor of new-laid eggs, but they are in no way inferior in nutritive value.—Farm Progress.

The First Chance to Take a Chance in the New and Hustling Mining Camp OF JARBIDGE

The Jarbidge-Belmont Mining Co. have opened their stock books and offer 50,000 shares of their treasury stock at 10 cents per share. This is all the stock that will be placed at this price and we believe the property will take care of itself without further sale of treasury stock. The Jarbidge-Belmont stock is to be listed on both the Salt Lake and San Francisco boards; also on the new Twin Falls exchange to be formed shortly, and the Jarbidge-Belmont will be one of the features on each of these boards.

OFFICIAL TELLS OF JARBIDGE.

Five Active Companies at Work, and More Are to Follow.

C. E. Smith, official recorder for the new Jarbidge district in northern Nevada, is a visitor in Salt Lake, being accompanied by George Winslow, a gold hunter, who has been associated with successful mining propositions in Goldfield and other camps for a number of years. Mr. Smith is in the city primarily on business connected with the formation of the Jarbidge Hill Top Gold Mines, Milling and Power company, which controls six valuable claims in the new gold fields. Mr. Smith, like all others who come from Jarbidge, is enthusiastic in his opinion of the new country, and states that one can hardly appear to be at all conservative and tell of the real wonders of the district in that section. Mr. Smith believes that Jarbidge is going to be one of the great, if not the greatest, gold camps of all time, and loses his consciousness on the fact that the finds have not been confined to one or two locations in the camp, but that many have been found, and that these finds, though very rich, show permanency from surface indications, the ore being in well-defined and regular formations and not all "blanches." The mining possibilities of the district are also great and add materially to the camp's worth when permanency is considered.

Mr. Smith came out of the district about two weeks ago, and reports that at that time there were more than three hundred men in the district, and in a few days there must be at least five hundred people there by this time. He has recorded already over three hundred locations in the district since the district was organized—last fall—and prior to this organization, he states, there were probably more locations recorded in the country. Within the next six weeks, Mr. Smith states, the road from Twin Falls to Jarbidge will have been finished, including the building of bridges, and after that time stages will be run in and out on a regular schedule.

Mr. Smith states that though some machinery is going into the camp, it is being made to bring any ore out as yet, the miners considering it more profitable to wait until the roads and facilities are better before attempting to market their product. "There is plenty there to be brought out though," said Mr. Smith, "and any one who may think that the district has been too prominently spoken of or written about are mistaken. It is undoubtedly destined to be a wonderful camp, and I expect that Jarbidge will grow even more rapidly and more permanently than did Goldfield in its 'boom' days. The natural resources, wood and water, will help largely in the upbuilding of the camp, and there is no question about the values and extent of the ore deposits. "The Bourne, the original locators in the district, are having a mill built in sections at Twin Falls, and when it is completed they will take it out and put it up at their mine. There are four companies actively engaged in development work at the present time, these being the Bourne, Pavlock, Twin Falls-Jarbidge Development and the Hilltop. The ore runs all the way from 500 to 5,000 per ton, not including the very rich "high grade," and there are mountains of it. Mr. Wincher states that an old Goldfield prospector or mining man would never pass by the Jarbidge country if he saw it, the formations in many ways being similar to those of the older camp. It is a very difficult district to get into, however, and for this reason, and the fact that those who have been in in the past were nearly all ranchers and not miners, the district has never been discovered before. For a number of years, however, rich specimens were taken into nearby towns, and there had always been more or less speculation and wonderment as to where they came from. "The visitors will remain in the city for two or three days, getting together supplies and equipment for the further development of their holdings during the coming season.—Salt Lake Tribune.

Poultry in the Orchard.

Poultry may often with advantage be kept in the orchard. This makes it possible to engage in poultry keeping on a considerable scale without cost for land, writes James Dryden. In other words, a double use of the land may be made.

The trees afford shade to the fowls in warm weather, it will be necessary to furnish them ample green food at all times, especially when the supplies are on the ground. If no other green food is available they are able to eat an injurious amount of apples. On the other hand, poultry is a decided advantage to the orchard as an aid in the warfare on insect enemies.

Sealy Leg In Poultry.

The first thing to do for sealy leg is to get every bird troubled that way out of the flock by itself. Then the roasts and all the woodwork of the houses should be thoroughly washed with kerosene. Boiling water or white-wash with a few drops of carbolic acid will also do the work. Do anything to kill the parasites, which make their home in every crack and crevice. When the houses are clean, keep them in this way until the woodwork is touched, so that it can be conveniently applied to all affected parts. It is good for any kind of piles. Manzanita is sold by City Pharmacy, Twin Falls, and Davis & Carter, Kimberly.

The disagreeable and painful trouble caused by piles can be quickly relieved by a few applications of Manzanita, the great pile remedy. Manzanita is put up in a tube with nozzle attached, so that it can be conveniently applied to all affected parts. It is good for any kind of piles. Manzanita is sold by City Pharmacy, Twin Falls, and Davis & Carter, Kimberly.

In the District Court of the Fourth Judicial District, State of Idaho, in and for Twin Falls County.

William T. Hudson, plaintiff, vs. E. J. Wilfong and E. J. Wilfong, defendants. Alias summons. THE STATE OF IDAHO SENDS GREETINGS:

To E. J. Wilfong and E. J. Wilfong, Defendants: You are hereby summoned and required to appear in an action brought against you by said plaintiff in the said District Court, and to answer the complaint of the above-named plaintiff, filed therein, within twenty days (exclusive of the day of service), after the service on you of this summons, if served in this judicial District, or if served elsewhere within forty days.

The said action is brought to obtain a decree of this Court for the foreclosure of that certain mortgage described in the said complaint, and executed by the said E. J. Wilfong, and E. J. Wilfong, on the 2nd day of June, 1908, to secure the payment of two certain promissory notes, that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold, and the proceeds applied to the payment of the said promissory notes, that the premises conveyed by said mortgage may be sold, and the proceeds applied to the payment of the said promissory notes; and in case such proceeds are not sufficient to pay the same, then to obtain execution against E. J. Wilfong, and E. J. Wilfong, for the balance remaining due, and also that the said defendants, and all persons claiming by, through, or under said defendants, may be barred and foreclosed of all right, title, claim, lien, equity of redemption, and interest in and to said mortgaged premises, and for other and further relief, as will more fully appear by reference to the complaint in this behalf, a copy of which is served herewith and made a part hereof.

And you are hereby notified that if you fail to appear and answer said complaint as above required, the said plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief demanded in plaintiff's complaint.

Attest my hand and the seal of the District Court of the Fourth Judicial District, State of Idaho, in and for the County of Twin Falls, this 28th day of January, 1910.

H. T. WEST, Clerk. W. P. GUTHRIE, Attorney for Plaintiff, residing at Twin Falls, Idaho. (SEAL) Feb 2-24

To the Public: Twin Falls, Idaho, Jan. 4th, 1910. Notice is hereby given that Mr. Alex. McPherson has this day disposed of his interests in the Jarbidge Land Co. and withdrawn from the membership of same. The firm will continue doing business as heretofore, assuming all liability for its obligations and collecting all its assets. Mr. McPherson being relieved from all liability for its debts or interest in its assets. ALEX. McPHERSON. Jan 20 Feb 10 Geo. F. SPRAGUE.

JARBIDGE AS SEEN FROM ELY.

Credit for Jarbidge Discovery Claimed By Ely Man—The Inside History.

Ralph E. Horbert, who has been in this district for several years, was one of the men who re-explored the Jarbidge country in the northern part of Elko county several years ago, and is familiar with almost the entire region that has been brought into the spotlight by the recent re-discovery of the old "mother lode," which was first discovered more than thirty years ago. Mr. Horbert was a member of the party of three that started for the upper Bruneau country two years ago, and during that trip, which was not without its hardships, almost the entire country that is now the goal of hundreds of fortune seekers, was traversed.

"The usual air of mystery and romance hangs over the early history of the Bruneau basin and Jarbidge country," said Mr. Horbert today. "During the time the Mormon road-builders and pathfinders were striking out in all directions on the search for new areas that could be settled by the farmers, they discovered Bruneau basin, from the Idaho side.

"During the exploration of the basin and the tributary country two members of one of the exploring parties were going through the valley and the tributary ravines looking for land that was suitable for farming. These were mining men of the old school.

"They made their way on the South Bruneau into Jarbidge, to that part of the country known as Wilkitt island. This island is formed by the division of a small stream, which divides on one end, and unites at the other end of this comparatively small strip of land. "These men discovered gold in the bed of one of the small creeks. They immediately began an examination of the hillside, and they in the meantime with what they found. They then built an arastra and mined there for a long time.

"They were careful to not let the location of their ground become known and by covering their movements carefully, were able to keep their secret. They carried their gold to Elko and to Tweepora and sold it through the banks in those towns.

"I had also prospected in that country considerably before the big discovery. Two years ago Charles Howard, a sheepman, told me where the arastra had been built. He had found it in his wanderings while the sheep. The ruins of the primitive plant were found by him, buried under debris, quaking aspen and willows. Hundreds who had heard the story of the pioneer miners of that district had searched for this arastra, but without success.

"David A. Bourne, formerly of Stoptoe, this county, who is given the greater degree of credit for the rediscovery of the Jarbidge, worked with W. S. Enslow and I were partners. We told Bourne what had been told to us by the sheepman. Trouble arose among the three of us. Bourne left and went to the Gold creek country and wintered there last winter, between Gold creek and Bruneau, Idaho. He had been sicked by a banker in Bruneau for the trip.

"I went to the Marids district nearby, twenty-eight miles this side of the big creek, where there are attracting so much attention at this time.

"The characteristic of the district, from Bruneau basin in Idaho, to Charleston, Nevada, is an immense mother lode, traversing the country north and south. The known distance that this lode extends to thirty miles. It is cut at various distances by fissures and veins, running from east to west and cutting the mother lode at right angles. These cross fissures have thus far been proven to carry big values, which become phenomenal at the contact with the mother lode. The ore contains in quantity silver, found at the intersections of the cross veins with the mother lode. The entire mother lode, the north and south led, is mineralized with gold, silver and lead.

"This lode carries values ranging from $2.15 to $3.35 a ton in gold at various points where samples have been taken. The cross veins, those running east and west, run in values from $25 to $500 a ton.

"The characteristic of the south end of the mother lode is oxidized ore, similar to the oxidized ore of Goldfield, carrying very large values in gold and silver with some lead.

"The north end of the mother lode is characterized by Chalcite quartz, associated with copper ore. The west end of the lode is ore containing lead in silver values. The east end of these cross veins are in gold values mother lode with the cross vein forms an immensely rich mineralized district fully thirty miles long and from twenty-eight to thirty miles wide. The veins go on for miles and the canyon on the east of the mother lode was worked by placers, and the remnants of these old workings may still be seen.

"I believe that the Bruneau district and the surrounding country, including Jarbidge, and various sections of it, has a very rich and valuable Bruneau river have the greatest possibilities of becoming the greatest gold camp in the entire west.

"The New York and Nevada Mining company, which has been in the district for many years as an active operator, on the mother lode, on what is known as Copper mountain, or the near peak, has spent in development work to open up the low grade gold ore, a total of $125,000 in tunnels and shafts.

"On my own property in the Marids district, twenty-eight miles this side of the property now attracting the greatest amount of attention, I have found gold values ranging from $50 to $140 a ton. I will go back in the spring and spend the money in the development and prospecting the surrounding country."—Ely Mining Exposition.

BOURNE TALKS OF JARBIDGE.

Expects His Figures to Be Doubled, But Data Is Interesting.

"I know the figures are almost incredible," D. A. Bourne, discoverer of Jarbidge, is quoted by a Los Angeles newspaper as having said when discussing his great find, "but as I have no stock to sell, I must endure being regarded a murchausen. Assays have gone as high as $75,000 a ton, the lowest being $35.50. Before I had dug a hole ten feet deep in the property, which is of porphyry and syodite formation, I was offered $2,000,000 for my claim. Then I was given a chance to sell 100,000 shares for $1,000,000. But as there is no value at $2,000,000 in sight, I am not selling." Bourne was justified in anticipating that his statements would be doubted. Conservative mining men who, before the snow fell last fall, spent several weeks prospecting in the camp, assert that the Bourne property has an unusual surface showing, as have a number of other prospects in the camp, but none of them has said anything about $2,000,000, or even $7,000,000 in sight. It does seem that Bourne might have cut down his estimate a few millions without injuring the prospects of the camp.

Contrary to the rule by which sensational gold finds suddenly let the finders from the direct poverty to affluence, Bourne, it is said, is a "prosperous mining expert," whose home is at Boise, Idaho. With Mr. Bourne he is spending the winter in southern California.

It was in November, 1888, he relates that he and his wife were returning home overland from southern Nevada, when they reached the banks of a river called Jarbidge, meaning devil. Pleased with its scenery and its fish, they followed it to a point nine miles from the Idaho line.

"They suddenly were confronted by a bluff of great height and with gold in every rock. As he had heard of the "Lost Sheepherders mine," Bourne instantly was a boy and knew it was somewhere that locality. Mr. Bourne instantly recognized their discovery as the property so long sought by miners.

"This old mine has been the goal of gold hunters for years," said Bourne. "A quartermaster of a century ago a driver employed by Scott & Hanks, a stage outfit, took some ore from it to his employers. It was analyzed and the driver was sought to direct his employers to the mine, only to learn that he had disappeared.

"Fifteen years ago a campfollower employed by John Pence, a sheep owner, found a piece of rich ore, and took it to St. Louis. It was analyzed for several weeks, and when it was found the assay showed $41,800 to the ton. Pence nearly went wild. He sent for the campfollower and was told he had suffered a stroke of paralysis and should be begun at once to recover possession of the dam.

The matter of money to conduct the suit already begun to obtain a satisfactory deed, and pay for other suits necessary to be brought was discussed.

Mr. Alworth spoke in regard to raising funds through the Farmers' union. Mr. H. Sommer was present with a subscription list which he had circulated to raise funds for this purpose and on which $170.25 had been subscribed in about six hours.

Mr. Koppelman spoke of a subscription list which he had on which over $200 had been pledged.

Mr. McClain had a motion that a committee be appointed to act in conjunction with Judge Stocklager to draw up a petition or agreement for subscriptions to cover these different suits which we want to bring, including the one already started. Mr. Vanaunderlin seconded the motion, and on vote the same unanimously carried.

Il. C. Vanaunderlin, Hyrum Pickett and Clyde E. McClain were appointed on this committee and at once met with Judge Stocklager in adjoining room, and returned after a short time with the following agreement:

"I hereby subscribe to the Secretary or Treasurer of the Farmers' Canal Association, known as the Twin Falls Canal Association, the sum of $2.00 for each legal subdivision of land (40 acres) owned by me on what is known as the South Side Twin Falls Tract; and I hereby agree to pay one-half (½) of such subscription in cash, and the balance on demand from the Secretary or Treasurer of said Canal Association.

"This money is subscribed and paid and to be paid for the prosecution of necessary litigation in the prosecution of suits for the purpose of obtaining quiet title from the Lake & Water Company as shown by our contract; for the purpose of prosecuting a suit now pending in the District Court of Twin Falls County to annul a deed placed of record by the South Side Land & Water Company to the rest of the Twin Falls tract; to prosecute an action to be commenced to obtain entire title to the Milner dam for the use and benefit of the settlers on the said South Side Twin Falls tract; also such other expenses as may arise in protecting the rights of the settlers on said tract.

"Dated, January 29, 1910."

The treatment having been read, on motion duly made, seconded and voted upon, same was adopted.

Notice of resignation of O. O. Parrott as representative from Pleasant View district was read and such resignation was duly accepted. A request from the above district that A. Lincoln be made their representative Mutton Demand On Increase. Scientific sheep breeding and grading is gradually supplanting the old "hit or miss" method on the vast Western ranges, and America will in time evolve a distinct type embodying the two commercial demands, mutton and wool production.

Fifteen or eighteen years ago nearly all the sheep bred on the great Western ranges were there for wool-bearing purposes, the sheep composing the herd being Merinos, the fine wool-bearing type. They were small of carcass and had no market value to speak of and little if any attempt was made in the way of selection, grading up and breeding.

But all this has changed, and today a different grade of sheep is being raised, a change brought about by the necessity of producing sheep of great utility value.

Interbreeding of the distinctive wool and mutton breeds was adopted. Eyes and breeds were carefully studied, always with a distinct object in view which will produce a type of far greater commercial value than the old cross grade.

There has also been a great change in the way of preparing sheep for market and the change has resulted in an increased demand for mutton in a greater profit to the sheep raiser. Now instead of keeping sheep on the ranges until sent to market they are sent to some great central feeding yard and fed upon screenings or alfalfa for sixty or ninety days before they are ready for the market. Thus a much better grade of meat is produced.—Farm Progress.
