OSCAR SALMARC IS SENTENCED

Indeterminate Sentence Given by Judge Walters.

ELLEDGE'S ASSAILANT WILL BE INMATE OF STATE PRISON.

Jury's Verdict Fixed Penalty Between Two and Ten Year Imprisonment.

The trial of Oscar Salmarc, charged with the murder of Fred Elledge on January 13, of the Rock Creek settlement, was brought to a close late Friday evening, with the eloquent pleas of Attorney Guthrie for the state and of Judge Shields for the defense. The latter skillfully brought out the self defense side of the case as shown by the testimony of the prisoner. Attorney Guthrie, who had presented the testimony of the state in close and direct relation to the commitment of the deed brought out with masterly logic the facts which the state had proceeded to connect the prisoner with the murder and dwell at length on the unfeeling and malicious intent displayed by the prisoner.

Judge Walters then charged the jury telling them carefully and at length the different verdicts which could be brought in and the different degrees of murder and of manslaughter and turned them over to the sheriff until they could arrive at a verdict. Guthrie, at eight o'clock Saturday morning the jury informed the sheriff that they had agreed upon a verdict and at nine o'clock were ushered into the court and reported a verdict of involuntary manslaughter, which carries a penalty of from two to ten years according to the pleasure of the judge. Tuesday morning at nine-thirty, Salmarc was brought before Judge Walters and sentenced to an indeterminate sentence in the state prison of from two to ten years. By this sentence Salmarc is a prisoner of the state for ten years unless released by the board of pardons sooner for good behavior.

LIBRARY ASSOCIATION ELECTION

Several Changes in Make-Up of Board of Directors.

The regular annual meeting of the Twin Falls Library association, was held on Friday afternoon at the library rooms. A new board of directors was elected for the coming year. They are as follows: Prof. O. M. Elliot, president; W. G. Smith, first vice president; Mrs. W. F. Pike, second vice president; Mrs. B. E. Morse, secretary; J. E. White, treasurer. The new board has appointed Mrs. Morse as librarian to succeed Mr. Harlin. The library board finds it necessary to call in all outstanding books for the purpose of properly classifying them under a new system. No books will be given out for about ten days. You are requested to bring in your books promptly.

INTERESTED IN FURNITURE STORE

Harry Allen Will Take Management of Local Business.

The Allen-Wright Furniture company, took possession of the Lavering building March 1st, and has been busy this week taking inventory. Mr. O. V. Allen, senior member of the firm, has been in this city since Sunday and has now made all arrangements for the business here. Harry Allen will be a member of the firm and will have general supervision of the Twin Falls store while not entering actively into the sales end of the business, which will be in charge of Frank Lytle and Mr. Doyle. Several shipments are daily expected to complete the stock and in a short time the new firm will have an announcement for the public.

FINE DAIRY STOCK.

H. J. Youngs Receives Shipment of Choice Dairy Cows.

H. J. Youngs received this week a shipment of twenty-five head of choice dairy cows, Jerseys and Guernseys, from Port Adkinson. These animals were carefully selected from the finest dairy herds in that famous dairy section, and will prove a beneficial addition to the dairy industry of the tract.

Mr. Youngs is connected with the Lincoln Produce and Refrigerating Co. which are putting in a new modern creamery here, and it is the policy of that company to do everything possible to promote intelligent dairying on the tract.

THE IDEAL PLACE.

Mrs. Madeline Camp Opens a Popular New Dining Room.

Mrs. Madeline Camp, whose delicious home-made pastries have proven so popular, has opened a dining room at 2nd avenue East, where she will continue to supply the demand for her home-made delicacies and will in addition serve dinners and banquets to theatre parties and lodges, and luncheons at all hours.

The new establishment will be opened on the 1st of March, its popularity has already been attested by the numbers assembling there.

OFFICER MAKES ARRESTS.

Pool Room Proprietor and Players Fined.

Friday Chief of Police Thompson arrested J. H. Stillwell and four others for indulging a gambling game in the pool rooms owned and conducted by Stillwell. The men arrested were Le Stock, O. Williams, Guy Smith and John Helmer, besides Stillwell. The men were brought before Police Judge Smith and fined $50 each and costs. Chief Thompson determined that gambling shall stop in this city and other arrests will occur unless the object lesson of last Friday is sufficient.

MINER FALLS INTO CRATER

Terrific Fall of 1500 Feet Ends Dickhut's Life.

TWIN FALLS MAN PAYS PENALTY OF HIS DARING.

Body Not Yet Recovered—Rescuing Party Leaves Twin Falls for Jarbidge.

Word was brought in last Friday from the mining camp of the death of T. A. Dickhut, a young rancher from this tract, who had recently left on a prospecting trip to Jarbidge.

Mr. Dickhut, together with two companions, were scaling the summit of the ridge which is said to be the crater of an extinct volcano and the young man had forged ahead of his companions and gained the summit. He was looking over the edge of the crater to the bottom which is said to be 1500 feet below the summit. His companions, knowing the treacherous condition of the snow banks which lined the mouth of the crater called wildly to him to warn him of the danger, but apparently their cries failed to reach him. A second later his friends were horrified to see him suddenly lurch forward and with a piercing scream fall from sight.

Return was made to the camp with the news and a searching party set out to see if anything could be found of Dickhut's body with the hope that he might have struck on the first ledge edge about sixty feet down and lodged there. Search of this ledge gave no trace of the young man and the party knowing it was impossible to get into the crater for several weeks, owing to the mass of snow into which his body had probably fallen and to the dangers from starting snow slides and burying the searchers gave up the search.

Mr. Dickhut was well known about this city as a man of high character and much regard is expressed at the untimely accident which snuffed out his life in the mining camp.

Tuesday the Old Fellows of this city organized a searching party to go to the gold camp provided with ropes and paraphernalia to see if the body could not be rescued and given decent burial. The party hoping to reach the bottom of the cliff from which Dickhut made his fatal plunge.

Do You Want a County Fair This Fall? A county fair this year would, no doubt, result in much good, and if we are going to have one it is time that we make arrangements for it now, at least start the ball a rolling. It is our desire that we shall consider this question very seriously right now, and we want you to express your opinion in this matter immediately and make same known to the secretary of the Commercial club. It is a big undertaking and will require considerable time to plan and arrange for same, and now is the time to take it up if we are going to do anything.

Let us hear from you at once.

FIRST MURDER AT JARBIDGE

Disputes Over Townsite Lot End in Bloodshed.

YOUNG MAN FROM THIS CITY VICTIM OF SQUATTER'S RIFLE.

Bobble Byrnes Shot By Elko Man Friday Night—Assaultant Under Strong Guard.

The first bloodshed in the new mining camp at Jarbidge, occurred last Friday night about 11:30 when Bobble Byrnes, a young prospector from this city was shot through the head by a man, by the name of Miller and instantly killed. As soon as the report of the killing reached the men in the townsite attempts were made to get one of the forest rangers to arrest the murderer, but the request was refused. Later the crowd approached the tent where Byrnes' assaultant was lodged and demanded that he give himself up, the evident intention being to make short work of Miller through Judge Lynch. Miller, however, was reinforced by six of his companions from Elko and they refused to give up the murderer except to the Elko county authorities. Seeing the uselessness of further bloodshed in attempting to get Miller, a strong guard was placed over the tent and the inmates warned that any attempt to escape would end in the whole gang being wiped out. Sheriff Clark of Elko, was notified from this city shortly after the killing and stated that his deputy would leave at once to take Miller into custody.

NEW WATERWORKS OFFICER

Willard Wyatt Succeeds Fred Ramsey as Superintendent.

On March first Fred Ramsey turned over the duties of superintending the waterworks system to Willard Wyatt. Mr. Wyatt will be superintendent of the construction department and will share the duties and cares of the waterworks system with Ed Williams. Mr. Wyatt is a hustler and withal courteous to everyone and will no doubt give the public as good service as his employers will let him. He has been for some time superintendent of the commissary department for the Kaituma interests on this tract and has met with marked success in the position.

JARBIDGE MINERS, ATTENTION!

Twin Falls Hardware Hare Mining Supplies and Machinery.

During the past week all of the big mining stock ordered by the Twin Falls hardware company arrived and has been placed in the big store basement. The stock, which is most complete, consists of:

- Ore buckets,
- Whimmys,
- Hoists,
- Engines,
- Shovelers,
- Wheelbarrows,
- Dills,
- Wires,
- Refrigerators,
- Stoves,
- Stool cables,
- Stops.

In fact the proprietors of the store have put in everything needed for the Jarbidge trade. They have secured the local agency for the Gallagher Machinery company of Salt Lake City and can get renewed orders in a very short time.

BROKERAGE AND REAL ESTATE.

P. H. Crow and Frank Highfield Enter New Business.

P. H. Crow and Frank Highfield have formed a co-partnership for the purpose of conducting a general mining brokerage and real estate business. Mr. Crow came to Twin Falls from Wyoming, and Mr. Highfield has been engaged in the insurance business here for the past few months. The new firm will have offices in the new McDonald building.

JUDGE WALTERS ENDORSED.

Bar Association Overlook Party Line in Judicial Candidate.

At a meeting of the members of the Bar of Twin Falls County, Idaho, held at the City of Twin Falls on the 26th day of February, 1910, the following, among other proceedings were had: A resolution was presented as follows:

"Resolved, That, acknowledging our appreciation of the industry, ability and impartiality exercised by Hon. Edgar A. Walters in the discharge of his duties as judge of the Fourth Judicial District, and believing that the public service needs his continuance in office, we earnestly urge that he be given a second term, and to that end we pledge to him our friendship and support.

That motion said resolution was unanimously adopted.

FLORY BROTHERS MOVE.

Cash Grocers Now In Handsome New Building.

Flory & Company, who have for the past two years been occupying the York building on East Main, are this week quartered in their new building erected for them on Shoshone street. The members of the grocery firm have had marked success since entering business in this city and their occupancy of the new twenty thousand dollar building is a mark of that success. The stock which in the old building was cramped will be increased greatly and the new store filled with fine fixtures and fresh, new stock.

The Young building, which is located nearly in the heart of the city, has been leased for a period of three years to C. B. Whitley, who is not ready to announce his purpose in securing the building.

NO DEBATE HERE FRIDAY.

Pocello Academy Forfeits to the Twin Falls High School.

In another part of the paper we have made the announcement that a debate between the Academy of Pocello and the Twin Falls High school, would be held at the Beckel auditorium on Friday evening. This entertainment has been cancelled. Supt. Elliott received a phone message from the Academy of Pocello this noon stating that the Academy's negative team would forfeit to Twin Falls, but that their affirmative team would leave uncancelled their engagement with the negative team from Twin Falls.

HIGH CLASS VAUDEVILLE.

The Orals Preparing to Put on a Good Entertainment.

The Orals theatre will be closed for two weeks to permit remodeling, after which it will be devoted exclusively to vaudeville. Harry Pevor of the Majestic at Salt Lake City, has purchased a half interest in this popular theatre and the new management will give Twin Falls the best possible in the form of entertainment.

EVIDENCE IN SALMARC TRIAL

Prisoner Appeals in Own Behalf and Tells of Fear of Elledge.

Chief Witness for State Confused Under Cross Examination. Mrs. Elledge on the Stand.

The following evidence taken in the Salmarc murder trial, took place on Friday, too late for last week's issue, and a given this week for those readers interested in following up the trial:
Cross-Examination by Judge Shields:
Q. You testified here in the preliminary examination, did you not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Whom have you talked with in regard to what you should testify to here now since that time?
A. Nobody.
Q. Nobody at all?
A. No sir.
Q. You talked with Mr. Guthrie?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How does it come that you change your story now so much from that that you told on the preliminary examination?
A. I don't remember.
Q. You say it was about half past two o'clock that this took place?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Do you remember that you said that at the preliminary examination it was one o'clock, at the noon hour?
A. It was about one o'clock when they went up there.
Q. How many shots did you say you heard?
A. Two.
Q. How many did you testify you heard at the preliminary examination?
A. Two, I think.
Q. You are not sure, are you?
A. Pretty sure, yes sir.
Q. It is a fact you say you heard one shot and believed that there were two because you saw the kores run in the corral?
A. I don't remember.
Q. Isn't it true that you said the horses were running around in the corral and you supposed that they were scared at the second shot?
Q. You heard one shot?
A. I thought I said I heard two.
Q. How would you stand and how would you look in the direction of this house of Mrs. Van Nostram in order to see it? Isn't it down hill from the house?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Isn't it an absolute fact that you cannot stand at that point that you are telling of now, and see that building Mrs. Van Nostram's?
A. Yes sir.
Q. That being the case, how did you see Salmarc and those two ladies standing in that yard?
A. I was up at one end of the barn where I could see, in the north end of the barn.
Q. How do you see from the north end of the barn to the house?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How far is it, the north end of the barn to the house?
A. About 15 rods, I guess.
Q. Can you stand in the barn yard there and see the Van Nostram cabin?
A. Yes sir.
Q. When you are close to the barn?
A. No sir, not unless you are in the barn.
Q. So then when you are in the barn you can look over and see the Van Nostram cabin?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What can you see it through, a crack or a window?
A. Through the window.
Q. Is there a window in the Shoe Shop barn where you were feeding?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Is that a low barn or a log barn?
A. A log barn.
Q. A low barn, is it not?
A. Yes sir.
Q. And the top of the barn is on a level with the top of the Van Nostram house, isn't that true?
A. Yes sir, pretty near.
Q. You saw Salmarc leave the house and go in the direction of the town of Rock Creek?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How far did he travel in that direction?
A. About 20 rods, I guess.
Q. How far is it from the house to the point in the road that takes across to Rock Creek?
A. At one place it is only about 8 or 10 yards.
Q. When you pass down at this point—right where the road crosses the house, isn't it a matter of fact you go down a hill and are entirely lost from view from any point near the place that you were working?
A. No sir, you can see there.
Q. From the north side of the barn?
A. Yes sir.
Q. From a fact that there is quite a ridge and a hill between the barn and the road that you are speaking of now going north to Rock Creek?
A. There is quite a hill, but it slopes.
Q. It slopes up from the barn, doesn't it?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Yet you can see from the barn on to the road?
A. Yes sir.
Q. How many shots did you say you heard fired?
A. I heard two.
Q. Any more?
A. No sir.
Q. You heard these shots at about half past 2 o'clock?
A. Well, I couldn't be sure, some-what faint in the air.
Q. You say Mr. Elledge was at the Austin house?
A. Yes.
Q. How was he talking about?
A. About Jarbridge.
Q. Did you or did you not state before the preliminary examination that you saw Elledge sitting at the house and that you were feeding at the defendant said: "Good evening, Fred," "how are you?" he immediately whipped out a revolver and exclaimed: "You * * *, don't you talk to me. I'm going to kill you, and I will kill you!" But was then prevented from so doing by the proprietor of the pool hall. I am informed by some two or three other men, who will testify to the facts before you, gentlemen, the defendant made his escape and left the place, frightened, and, if I am rightly informed, and remember, it is right, he proceeded on the road to Twin Falls, trying to get away from his adversary. He did not want to kill him and did not want to hurt him. When he came to Twin Falls, he went before the county officials and he laid the circumstances before them, and went to men able to issue a warrant. If they thought best, for the arrest of the deceased, asked that a warrant might be sworn out for him and he put under peace bonds, that was his request. He received instructions from the officer that such might not work well, that while he could be bound over to keep the peace, there would be a time when he would have to be let out of prison, or his bonds released, or something of that kind, and it would encourage him the more, and the defendant would be in greater danger, and the defendant received certain instructions or suggestions which will probably be shown to this jury, in regard to what this defendant was to do, from men in authority in this town.

Later on that was about the 9th or 10th of January, the deceased went to the defendant's home, where he was living and where he was working, attending to his own affairs. He attempted to murder him; had a revolver, said that he had come there for that purpose, that he intended to kill the defendant, that was what he had there for, and that was what he intended to do. His little girl, seven or eight years old, nine, maybe, she implored him not to do so, stood between the defendant and the deceased and begged her father to desist from such actions. Being moved, perhaps, to some extent, by his little daughter, he turned around, in the presence of his daughter and others, and said that there was no question but that what he would do was to * * * Swede instead of four days, and that he had two guns and he would come there for that purpose; that owing to the beggling of the defendant's little girl, he came there at that time, but would inside of four days. He went to leave the house, got into the buggy with one Mr. Land, who was a witness, and he was to see her from his eyes, whether they were tears of sorrow or of rage I cannot tell, and guaranteed Mr. Land that he would kill the * * * inside of four days. Inside of four days he returned to the cabin which has been presented before you gentlemen, and there declared that he had come to kill the Swede, and had intended to kill him.
By this time the Swede had become crazed; he had lost his mind, in a measure; he had been run all over the country, had been sent from one place to another, and he did not know what to do. There are other things in connection with this meeting that perhaps I will not mention now that will appear in evidence very plainly to you gentlemen, that that man only did his duty at that very time, to protect himself and home, and he shot him. That was the story, and perhaps a little told in a very few words, upon which these charges are advanced.
Mr. Sam Land was the first witness called by the state, and testified that on or about the 10th of January, he accompanied the deceased to the Van Nostram cabin, that Mr. Salmarc was there, he thought, but he cannot swear to that, that not having seen him.
Mrs. Elledge was then called by the defense, and repeated the story told at the preliminary hearing, as to the threats made by the deceased against the life of Salmarc, and that at the time of his visit on or about the 9th of January, he had two guns; that the deceased had on that occasion shown him a check book and wanted to bet her $1,000 that he would kill the * * * Swede inside of four days; that at that time Salmarc was in an adjoining room and could easily over-hear anything said.
Extracts from cross-examination of Mrs. Elledge by Mr. Guthrie:
Q. You say you were standing there talking, half facing the house, and you started to run towards the house?
A. Yes sir.
Q. What caused you to start to run towards the house?
A. He used very violent talk and he was cold, and he was always rattling me off, and he was talking, I was afraid, and did not want to stand there any longer.
Q. As a matter of fact, Mrs. Elledge, did you not see Mr. Salmarc standing in the room towards the house that you saw this defendant coming from around the corner with a rifle?
A. No sir, I did not.
Q. Do you say to this jury that you did not see Salmarc coming from behind the house and you thought it was time for you to get out?
A. I did not.
Q. Did you lock the door?
A. No sir.
Q. You remember your father would come in after you if you didn't lock the door, weren't you afraid?
A. I didn't stop to think about locking the door.
Q. What did you do after you went in the house?
A. Went out, went around the corner, saw the fire, and stood there where Mr. Elledge lay.
Q. And watched him die?
A. We thought he died while we stood there.
Q. Did he die before his child came?
A. Yes sir.
Q. Didn't your mother go after the child?
A. Yes sir.
Thursday, February 24th.
Mr. Verluise was the first witness called by the defense at the morning session, and testified concerning the small door out in the back part of the house, a few days before the tragedy, that he had built the cabin and at that time there had been a door planned, but it was not cut until after the defendant came to the place. Stated that he had had trouble with the deceased during the previous summer. Several witnesses were called, appearing as a witness, for the deceased in the divorce suit which Mrs. Elledge had brought.
Q. You had other difficulty later on?

Q. Did you have any difficulty with him on or about the 8th or 9th of January last?
A. No difficulty, but he tried my nerve pretty hard.
Q. Where were you on this day?
A. I was in Mrs. Van Nostram's home.
Q. Now you may tell the court what took place at that time, and place.
A. I don't remember what time of the day it was, but someone knocked at the door. Mrs. Elledge told me to go out, to go into the bed room. I did. I think Mrs. Elledge opened the door, and Sam Land was with him; I could see through a place in the curtain. Sam Land stood in front of the stove and Fred Elledge came in, and I could hear that he was pretty rough. Mrs. Elledge asked him what he was going to do with "that." I took care of that.
Q. Was he armed? Mrs. Elledge took a chair and stood in front of the little curtain. He took her by the arms to get her away until the curtain was al-

JARBRIDGE COMING TO THE FRONT

Miners Preparing to Go in As Soon as Snow Breaks Up.

FOUR MEN REPORTED LOST IN BLENDING SNOW STORM.

One of the Men Reported to be Former Real Estate Dealer of This City, Ira D. Vinton.

Jarbridge, Nev., Feb. 22, 1910. The whole camp is situated about the site of a party of four men who have been lost for four days in the hills while a continual storm has been raging. The party, among whom were Mr. Ira D. Vinton of Twin Falls, left their camp on the Jarbridge on the morning of the 15th and went over the summit to Howards Cabin. There were seven in the party at the beginning and because of the raging storm three of them decided to descend the East Fork trail and the party of two, which was the party of four at the beginning, and have not been heard from since. A meeting was held in the Jarbridge hotel tonight and a party of twelve organized to start up the canyon tonight and ascend the summit in the morning. Another party of twelve, while two volunteers started off this evening to go to Howards Cabin and search for the party, the others will carry ropes and be prepared to descend any of the craters. They will also carry provisions as there are no known camps in the direction in which the party must be and they were not known to have had any food with them at the time they started on the summit. Howards Cabin is a small cabin that a rescuing party will now be too late as there has been a raging storm on the summit for the last week and the chances of anyone unfamiliar with the country wandering back farther from the camp rather than towards it are great and there are no people near the summit as far as anyone in the camp knows.

A fatal accident resulted from the storm on the evening of the 20th, when two persons were blown over from the head of Marys river, one of them, whose name could not be ascertained, just arrived in the canyon and his partner had fallen over the rim of the big crater and had fallen a distance of over five hundred feet, disappearing in the canyon. The man's name who was lost is given as Dickhut, and there can be no doubt of his fate. A searching party immediately started to descend the crater, though on the chance that he may have stuck in the snow and not fallen to the bottom. His partner was exhausted and the party of twelve, who accompanied him, saw his partner disappear from sight and found that the crest had given away under him. He immediately started for camp and had just sufficient strength to reach here.

Jack Slattery of Silver City, Idaho, was in camp the first of the week and returned to Twin Falls to purchase a restaurant and running house outfit. He will put up a Boner creek, Sam Timbell and Seth Harris of Bruneau, arrived in camp Thursday. They report the road in good condition.

W. A. Stevens of the Jarbridge-Bundage company, arrived in camp Sunday accompanied by A. D. McKinley of Twin Falls. Mr. Stevens started six men to work on and said that a bank house would soon be built and a large force employed to develop the claims. Mr. Greenwalt of the same company is expected in soon with a train of supplies.

Mr. Smith has taken an option on the Henrietta group which were located by Grover Mullett and Clayton Patrick, the price named is $1,500. A party of ten arrived from Elko Thursday night. They brought a horse sleigh through with them and were ten days on the road.

summer. Mr. Bourne reports that there is a great deal of interest in the camp all over the coast and expects quite a crowd here when the weather turns. Mr. Bourne also stated that leases had been let on part of their property to Roberts and Stevens and also stated that he expected to have a mill up before the summer was over. Chas. Lidel, U. S. deputy mineral surveyor from the Mountain, Nevada, arrived in camp Sunday and started at once on the patent survey of the Hilltop group. Mr. Lidel has established a U. S. mineral monument at the junction of Boner creek and Jarbridge, which will be a great assistance to local surveyors.

Frank & O'Byrne are preparing a new district map to show only surveyed claims.

Tom Powers is the first man to freight any finished lumber. It will go into his new restaurant which is being built right above the recorder's office. The lumber cost $200 a thousand.

News has come to camp that Frank Riddle has arrived at the rim rock with an eighteen ton stock for his store and that his pack train is in there from Bruneau and will start moving loads at once.

A cross cut was started from the tunnel in Hilltop No. 5 on Saturday and struck the ledge Tuesday morning. Assays are now being run and the rock looks exceedingly fine. Two shifts are now working on the Hilltop No. 4, and a double shift will start on the Big Sift the first of next week.

The progress of development work on this group is inspiring great confidence in the camp as everything goes to show that the values run deep and many feet that the remoteness of the camp is assured by the Hilltop showings.

Jimmy Cameron's rooming house is doing a "full up" business every night and there is need of several more.

Fred Chapman and Harold Barrett in the afternoon of Wednesday. They represented the Commercial club of that town and were investigating the feasibility of a road in from that direction.

I. B. Perrine and Tommy Woods arrived in camp Wednesday. Mr. Perrine declared that the wireless station would be built in the Jarbridge. Jack Hole and that a telephone line would be built in from there. While in camp Mr. Perrine visited the old electric station which was formerly in the Hotel Perrine to Mr. C. E. Smith of the Hilltop Co. It will be freighted in it once and used until the new station is completed.

Alec Requa and Steve Bennie, arrived the latter part of the week from Fernington, Nev., and left this week for Jarbridge. Steve Bennie is a brother of Ed Bennie, well known as one of the earliest prospectors in the new district, and one of its most enthusiastic boosters.

Morris Stack and Dr. Clagg arrived last week from Seven Towns, Nev. Messrs. Stack and Clagg are in Jarbridge after a week of fruitless trying to go into the Jarbridge district via Elko.

CURRENT EVENTS.

The police of Boise, after a few weeks of investigation, have found that the defendants in the state police offices are "schools of crime." Many new rowdies are added at their door. The city attorney declared that the conditions discovered on investigation, are deplorable and drastic means will be used in bettering the state of affairs.

Former Governor Gooding, one of the oldest wool shippers in the state says that, though this has been probably the longest and hardest winter for sheep that Idaho has experienced, the losses have not been very heavy. And in spite of the fact that the price of feed has been high, it will not have any appreciable effect in raising the price of wool on the next season's clip.

The jury in the Onella Irrigation district vs. agricultural Parisinos case, at Malad, after deliberating hours, returned its verdict in favor of the defendants. Judge Richards in his opinion held that the defendants were innocent and that the plaintiff was dishonest and crookedness. The verdict of the jury was severely criticized by the citizens.

From New Orleans comes the statement that Theodore Roosevelt is to be offered the presidency of the exposition which is to be held in New Orleans to celebrate the opening of the Panama canal. This exposition will require an expenditure of not less than $30,000,000. A committee will go to New York to meet Mr. Roosevelt in his return to this country, to tender this position. San Francisco is New Orleans's most formidable rival for the place of exposition city.

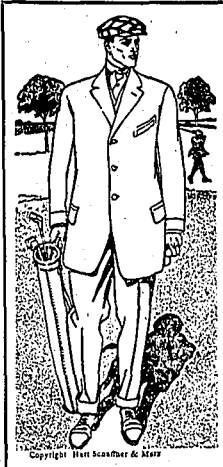

A ranchman residing at Three Creeks, killed a mountain lion or American Jaguar recently, that measured nine feet from the tip of its nose to the tip of its tail. For some time the ranchman had been mistaking the lion from his ranch and finally, believing the lion to be the mountain lion, started out accompanied by a neighbor, to find it. Near the ranch canyon came upon a lion in a tall growth of sage brush, where it was devouring some of the stolen stock, and killed it.

From Coeur d'Alene comes the statement that Judge Dunn decided against the Washington Water Power Co. in the contest between the company and the residents of the city of Coeur d'Alene recently. The judge holds that the company does not have the right of eminent domain. Should this decision be held it will result in a sale of the company and the loss of power to its plants along the Snake river. The company has paid out approximately a quarter of a million dollars for easements and titles along the St. Joe and Coeur d'Alene rivers.

Senator James Gordon of Mississippi, in his farewell address to the senate recently, invited Senator Heyburn to visit him on his plantation, saying that he was sure that if he took the heights of heaven and plucked the diamonds from Jehovah's crown, he would take away from either of them any of the glory of the records of the nation. Senator Heyburn is a soldier of both the north and south when he said: "You may as well try to storm the heights of heaven and pluck the diamonds from Jehovah's crown, as to take away from either of them any of the glory of the records of the nation."

There is great interest in the coming convention of the Ladies' Missionary movement to be held in Boise March 10-11. This promises to be the biggest religious meeting in the history of the city. The Ladies' Missionary movement is a religious organization of the greatest character ever heard in the northwest. The great banquet is to be held on the evening of March 10, because of the growing interest of the movement, the committee faces a serious problem in the securing of a suitable place to hold the banquet. The convention at Boise bids fair to eclipse the meeting at Salt Lake and the Denver in attendance and enthusiasm.

pany's big dam. Petitions are now being circulated in the north to be presented to Governor Brady in which a demand is made that he revoke the state order granting an easement to the Washington Water Power Co. to state lands at Post Falls. This demand is considered to be one of the most important recent developments in the contest waged between the settlers and the company. The settlers are up in arms over the attitude assumed by the company and their destruction of farm lands through the flooding process the state permits the company to indulge in. Purs Food commissioner Wallis recently made a trip to the north to investigate the charges that the flooding of the lands by the dam was causing unsanitary conditions there, and placing the water systems of surrounding cities in jeopardy, and if this condition is true as charged it will be grounds for the state board of health to act against the company. It is not known what action Governor Brady will take on the matter.

To Whom It May Concern--Realizing that many in Twin Falls county are deprived of the privilege of the study of the Bible in the Sunday school on account of age, infirmity, distance from the church, home duties, care of little children and various reasons, we take this method of calling your attention to the Home Department of the Sunday school, which is prepared for you. Any or all who are so deprived and desire to take up the systematic study of the Bible through the regular Sunday school lesson in the home, may be supplied with quarterlies by sending name and address to the undersigned. Especially I do wish you to begin with the first quarter, as we study the book of Matthew, for one year, and you should not miss the first quarter. If matters not how far removed from church you may be, your name will be enrolled with the Sunday school of your choice nearest to you, and once each quarter your quarterlies will be mailed to you free of charge.

Through the generosity of several denominational publishing houses, I am well supplied with quarterlies for the first quarter of 1910.

Hoping many may take this opportunity of coming in touch with the Sunday school again and reap the benefits derived by a careful study of God's word,

Yours truly,

County Supt. of Home Dep.,

POINTS THAT PLACE THE

Hendricks Sagebrush Grubbers IN THE LEAD.

The Hendricks Grubber is the best on the market today. Our many years' experience in the field with other machines has put us in the lead. We guarantee the Hendricks Grubber in any and all kinds of sage brush. It makes no difference how thick or how large or how difficult it is for the horses to get through, the Hendricks Grubbers do the work. Every owner of a Hendricks machine is more than satisfied. We have never had a single word of complaint from any purchaser of our machine.

The Hendricks Grubbers with six horses, will clear six or seven acres per day in any kind of sage brush, and cut it out cleanly. The all steel machine at the price is equal to two ordinary machines.

We have manufactured the Grubbers from original designs in this section until the acme of perfection has been reached in the machines now placed on the market. The cut of the first machine shows the solidity of the parts and it is a matter of pride with the maker that no single purchaser has been dissatisfied with the work of the Grubbers.

The working principles of the machine are simple and strong, so that there is little chance of even an inexperienced man having trouble. The knives are placed so as to cut below the soil surface, thus taking out the tougher sage brush roots and leaving the land ready for plowing. Descriptive circulars and detailed information will be gladly given by

NUT TREE INVESTMENTS.

Land Owners Should Plant Some Varieties for Future.

There are some things that may be made profitable on almost any farm that many who own farms have never brought to their attention. One of these is the pecan nut. Heretofore both this nut tree and some of the hickory and walnut trees that bear in abundance have been either neglected entirely, or even worse than that, been cut down and burnt as cord wood, when at this time they would bring a good revenue.

As both the hickory, in all its varieties, and black walnuts will grow almost anywhere, it will be clear for anyone who has a place for them, to plant some trees and grow nut either of home consumption or sale. And in the course of time the walnut trees will also become very valuable for making lumber. So far as my observation goes, both the black walnut and pecan will grow wherever any sort of forest trees grow well. It is nevertheless true that the best pecans now come from Texas and Louisiana. But that is no doubt merely accidental.

I have seen both trees flourish exceedingly and bear vast quantities of nuts in far north as the north line of Missouri, and I am told that pecans are found far northward of that along the Mississippi and Missouri rivers. But it is not along river bottoms on that they flourish. Even on mountain sides, as well as ordinary uplands, in most of the states, they do well. However, in the southern river bottoms they make the most rapid growth and bear fruit in the greatest abundance.

Although fruit trees of all sorts are grown, both for private use and commercially, in ever state of the Union, for some reason nut trees have been neglected. I presume this is because only because the food value of the nuts has not been properly appreciated. Of later years a decided change has come about in that regard.

It is now known that the food value of nuts, and their consequent commercial value, is very high, and almost everywhere more attention is being given to their culture. Trees of both these nuts are extremely hardy, and are subject to very few enemies. Neither are the nuts killed by frost, and is true of almost all the fruits. And since they live under abnormal conditions for almost an unlimited number of years, there is no more valuable legacy that one can leave to his children than a grove of these nut-bearing trees.

In the case of walnuts, I have found that simply to stick the nuts into the soil along fence rocks or on creek and ditch banks, is sufficient to secure as many of the trees as any one may want. But to get the best-quality of pecans it is necessary to plant grafted trees.

These can be bought from nurseries in several southern states. If secured in good condition, and properly planted, they will be sure to live, and they possess great advantages over any sort of fruit trees. They are never killed by frost, seem to suffer from no disease, and will grow under conditions of neglect which would be fatal to any of the ordinary fruit trees. As a rule the pecan trees bear full crops, and will go on doing so perhaps for several generations. But if they die or have to be cut down, they are valuable both as timber and firewood.

The worst drawback to them is the fact that they require several years after planting, before the crop that can be harvested amounts to very much. But a young man can wait and an older one can plant them as an investment for his heirs. And what the youngster may be for export no one can estimate.

The pecan is indigenous to America, and in the last few years the demand for them has been greater than the supply. As no other country, except Mexico, and possibly some of the Central American states, grows pecans, whoever will have them for market during the next twenty years will be sure of a good price. The importation from Mexico is said to run into millions.

The fact that one has to wait a long time for results will keep most people from planting pecan trees and will allow them to operate to prevent an over supply, so that all who plant them now as an investment, will be sure to get profitable results from them. The one way to get quick results is to buy a bearing orchard; but no doubt the price will be high, if one can find one for sale. All the best results and the thoughtful older ones should investigate this subject, and, if conditions suit, buy and plant some.—Farm Progress.

EARLY CHICKS FREE FROM GAPE

Worms Appear in No Until Birds Are Strong Enough to Resist.

As early hatched pulllets usually make the best layers, it is well to set the incubator as early in the season as we can get fertile eggs with which to fill them if we feel sure we can provide comfortable quarters for the chicks after they arrive.

This is where the trouble comes in on the average farm. Outdoor brooders very troublesome during very severe or very windy weather and many of us have the poultry-house full of gape stock, so we can scarcely find a place for the little chicks until the weather is warmer. The very early hatched chick has at least one advantage over his later hatched brother. He does not have the gape worm to contend with, and, if he does, it is not until he has more strength with which to make the fight for life.

Last season I tried the carbolic acid treatment for gape, but with only partial success, as after receiving the treatment the chicks soon began to gape again. Whether this was caused by getting a fresh supply of worms, or by the old ones "coming to life," I am unable to ascertain. In treating the chicks I placed them in a box with a screen wire partition through the middle. On the other side of the partition from the chicks I put a red-hot iron. On this a few drops of carbolic acid. The chicks were quickly covered and allowed to breathe the acid fumes for a short time. I was so afraid of killing the chicks that perhaps I did not submit them to the treatment for a long enough time. A much more effective remedy for gape is the removal of the worms from the chick's windpipe with a blue gape worm on a turkey leg. This operation is best in the morning before the chicks are fed.

A neighbor tells me he removed gape worms from turkeys in this way; but as I raise my turkeys with turkey mothers, and they take them away from the quarters of other poultry, I have no gapes among my turkeys.

My goslings, however, showed signs of being affected with gape worms, and my later hatched chicks were mostly well as a feed for young stock, had heretofore been quarantined, and they did not become affected. In feeding young poultry I always provide first for the frame. For this I use clabber, cheese, ground oats and wheat, with only a small portion of corn. Later, if I desire to fatten them, I use more corn. I feed some whole corn to my poultry during the winter months for the sake of the warmth it produces. To use cracked corn as the sole feed for young stock, as I note that some do, I believe is wrong, though it mixed with clabber milk and soda, and baked into a cake, it does fairly well as a feed for young stock, as the milk helps to make it a more balanced ration.

One very essential thing in raising poultry is to keep the young birds, as well as the old stock, free from lice.

The young chicks should be looked over carefully for lice. Some seasons they seem to be more plentiful on certain parts of the body. A season or so ago I remember finding many of these little blood suckers on the throats of my small chicks, while other seasons I would not find them under the throat, but on other parts of the body. Olive oil is the most useful remedy I have tried for lice on young chicks. However, I have a neighbor who practices dipping his chickens in kerosene. He uses ordinary sheep dip. He does this work on a very warm day, and claims for it much success. I do not take much stock in this practice, as it seems it would cause quite a shock to the birds and seem almost cruel. It seems likely to suppose that dip of this kind would cause laying hens to cease laying for some time, at least.

I have had considerable experience in raising poultry, and find it comparatively easy matter to make a handsome profit from them. But the best of care at all times and the right kind of food in its season are all-important. No one should take up the work and expect great returns right at the beginning, for he will be sadly disappointed. Like every other business, it is best to gradually grow into it rather than jump into it, as one then stands a much better chance of success.—M. W. F., in Farm Progress.

On Friday, February 23, Miss Hazel McBride of Kimberly, and S. W. Southcott of Buhl, were married at the home of Rogerson.

They returned on the evening train to Buhl, remaining here until Monday, on which day they left for Washington, where Mr. Southcott has relatives.

H. O. Cammack left Sunday morning on a business trip for Salt Lake City.

The Ladies of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold a candy pull party on Monday evening in their church building.

All are cordially invited.

The Commercial club held their regular meeting Monday evening. On account of the fact there were not so many present as usual, but nevertheless an interesting meeting was held. All committees on road matters were organized.

George Elovich has a crew of men at work on the George Dunn ranch, one and a half miles north of Buhl, hauling 600 tons of hay.

A story was circulated in Buhl last week to the effect that five men were frozen to death at Jarbidge. This story was given to us correctly by J. D. Strong, a friend of them, from Goldfield, Nev., and J. W. Graw of Anaconda, Calif., who came in on the stage from Jarbidge. It is as follows: A party of six men left Jarbidge in a Jack Holt on a prospecting trip. Two of the men became separated from the party and were snowed in. The others went in to search for them and found them in a partly frozen condition, though they were not seriously injured.

W. R. Hatfield, A. T. Wright of Poetales, and G. E. Bessinger of the Pioneer General Merchandise store, at Jarbidge, and A. D. McKinlay, composed of the Belmont Mining Co., composed the party who were on the stage from Jarbidge Saturday evening.

Mr. McKinlay was anxious to reach Twin Falls on urgent business that evening, and the crew may have been possible for him to reach that city on time as to catch the stage for such, where he came in connection with the train going to Twin Falls.

Prof. J. J. Thiel of Twin Falls, went to Jarbidge from that city last week, spending two days in camp. On his return Wednesday he came by way of Buhl, making the trip in one day's time. The Buhl-Jarbidge route is the quickest and best way to travel.

An account of the barn dance given at the ranch of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Jennings is given by one who was present, but who has not had a very good time! We sure did, at an old-fashioned barn dance given by L. B. Jennings southeast of Buhl about six miles last Tuesday evening, February 22. It could not be ascertained whether he gave the dance to celebrate Washington's birthday or his new barn, which at this time is the best in the whole country. The people all seemed to be glad to have the opportunity of catching a gathering of some life to it. They came from far and near, four horses to a sleigh, for twelve miles, and as many as twenty came on horseback, until there were as many as two hundred chattering and happy people present. But the best part of all came when Mrs. Jennings called in a few of her neighbors and friends to assist her in serving the elegant supper which she had prepared. After the dinner the dance was continued until four o'clock in the morning, at which time all departed, having had a very jolly time. It is thought by some that Mr. Jennings ought to keep the barn for a hall, but with the excellent crops, which Mr. Jennings raises, he will need to use it for a barn.

Valuable Advice to Ranchers on Soil Preparation.

Now that spring is near at hand, a few suggestions in regard to the preparation of the soil before the planting of crops might be of help to many of our new farmers in order that they may not make costly mistakes, but be able to profit by the experience and observation of others.

It is never deemed advisable to plow under sage brush, but it should be removed before the land is plowed, either by hand, machine grubbing or raking with a railroad iron. This insures a good clean field after plowing and is easier and more economical in the end than plowing under the sage brush as they cannot be gotten rid of for years, but it may be done more carefully the field may be gone over with a narrow sown are bound to remain and these will seriously interfere with cultivation for years to come. For this reason it is always better and cheaper in the end if the brush are carefully removed before plowing.

Levelling is a feature which always puzzles the beginner on an irrigated farm and but few make the mistake of levelling so thoroughly on the outset, especially if a permanent crop, such as alfalfa, is to be planted. The cost of levelling and proper preparation of the land is saved by the decreased cost of irrigation, sometimes in the first year, and many times where a permanent crop that is left for a series of years is planted.

The lay of the land should be studied in the kind of irrigation system, whether furrow or flooding, should be determined and then the main ditch should be laid out so that water can be delivered to the highest corner of the farm. The proper grade for the main ditch in soils of average texture on the ordinary farm should be a fall of about one-quarter inch to the rod, although slightly more or less than this will not be harmful. Heavy soils will permit of more fall in the ditch than the lighter sandy soil. As a rule the water should be flooded or run in the direction of the greatest slope if it is not excessive. If this is the direction the water will naturally run with the least attention. If this slope is great enough so that serious working will be done, the water is run in this direction, it should be run in the direction of a lesser slope but all high spots should be removed and deepened so that the water will run uninterrupted from one end of the field to the other. If these high spots are not removed, the water will run uninterrupted from one end of the field to the other. If these high spots are not removed, the water will run uninterrupted from one end of the field to the other. If these high spots are not removed, the water will run uninterrupted from one end of the field to the other.

marks made by the forest ranger to a number of Elk moose that any one could squat on the townsite lots which are a part of a mining claim filed up by Charles Smith, auditor of Elko county, who leased the lots under contract to the government. The ranger's assertion that any one could squat on the lots first a lot of the mining claim that was filed by Miller had not yet been acquired by a tent or building could be taken up and immediately the gun men proceeded to put up stakes with a gun-sight thrown over them as sign of their ownership. Early Friday morning, the men who were in charge, were involved in a dispute with one of the squatters and drew a gun on him, and that time hard threats and 'hot' language was the rule all over the camp.

Byrnes had purchased one of the lots through the townsite agent and was deeply incensed to find that Miller had put up the usual stakes and sacks on his lot. He remonstrated with Miller and a strong feeling existed between the two all day until Miller having threatened to shoot anyone touching his stick claim notice on Byrnes' lot.

At one time during the late the regular townsite men and the Elko gang were almost on the point of pitched battle, which was averted by the coolness of Mr. Fuller, one of the townsite agents representing Hill & Taylor of this city, who after fifteen minutes were drawn on both sides persuaded the Elko bunch to refrain from making trouble.

At 11:30 Friday evening, Byrnes, accompanied by a man by the name of O'Brien, proceeded to his lot where Miller had erected the stakes and proceeded to knock them down. He accomplished this without disturbing the claimant, Miller, who was in a tent across the street. If Byrnes had gone away the chances are that nothing would have happened and that the affair would have passed off as a harmless bluff, but in spirit of bravado Byrnes as soon as he had pulled the stakes down, pulled his revolver and shot into the air once or twice and immediately Miller came out of his tent at the close of moonlight first one shot at Byrnes, killing him instantly. Byrnes' companion, fearing that he would be shot, ran off and gave the alarm.

Byrnes has a mother and a twin sister living three miles west of this city and it is well known about the city as a big, generous hearted fellow who under ordinary circumstances would not be quarrelsome. From all reports he is well known about the murderer had been drinking all day previous to the fatal affair.

Byrnes' body was brought into this city Thursday and taken to Coroner Chas. J. Walker, where it will be held pending action by the authorities.

CANAL COMPANY High Water in Low Line Canal at Filer.

SECTION OF CANAL REMOVED TO LOWER FLOOD WATER.

Dynamite Used to Avert Damage to Filer, Idaho, March 1, 1910.

Miss Rose Summers, who has been in Twin Falls for the winter months, is spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Summers.
On Monday evening Rev. Sherman Ludlow of the Mennonite Brethren and Mr. Hes Mannoffe left to attend the conference meeting at Twin Falls.
The conference meeting of this week at Dellingham, Wash. They will be absent a week or ten days.

J. W. Umphrey of Twin Falls was among the business visitors in this bustling burg on Monday.
Mrs. H. Carman and Mrs. R. A.
Noyd were among the winter visitors in the county seat the first of the week.
Mr. Graces returned to Filer on Monday after a two weeks absence at week Kimberly, who has been in the interest of the Utah Idaho Elevator Co.

Mr. Edible of Dolan, representing the St. Paul Fire and Marine insurance Co., was here on business the first of the week.
Mr. Thursday evening the most intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. Chas.
Spencer gathered at their home for an informal farewell party. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Drake, H. Lorain and Rev. and Mrs.
Hoffman, while the young people of the Wilson, Lorain and Stevens families made merry with the young members of the Spencer family until the late hours. Delicacies were served by Mrs. Spencer and her daughter, Miss Filer. The party departed regretting that so worthy a family is to leave this neighborhood.
Mr. and Mrs. Spencer and family expect to leave the city on Wednesday week for Oregon or northern California. They have been associated with Filer since its early history and will be greatly missed by their many friends.

W. W. Spencer returned on last Tuesday from Kansas, whether he went several weeks with the remainder of his father who passed away
while spending the winter in California.

It is an ill wind that blows no one good luck, and so it has been with the mud of the past few days, for though undesirable, Filer now has as a result of the disrepair in digging, another improvement in a sidewalk that extends from the corner of Main and Division street southward to Sixth where it is laid westward as far as the homes of H. L. Daigh and H. Corum. The work was laid by the property owners across lots owned by them, while the crossings at the streets and alleys were furnished by the townsite company, also the material for the vacant lots still owned by the company.

On Monday afternoon the streets of Filer were deserted by most of its inhabitants as they witnessed the cut of Ditch Riders. John and McKinley and hastened to the low line canal which during the past twenty-four hours had been raising the level of surface water flowing over the land caused by the rapid melting of the snow, and which was causing the water to overflow its banks in some places and was filling the coulees leading from it to a danger point to the settlers living near there. The mud left here in some places was filled with soil to stop broken in the banks of the canal, and with shovels, picks, crow bars, etc., for the breaking up of the mud which was found. But on reaching there they found that the canal was intact and the abundance of water in it was overflowing on account of the overflow of the overflow at the head of Cedar Draw. After some consideration it was decided that if the banks of the canal were blown out with dynamite at the head of the draw that the expense of repairing the same would be less than the damage that would be done to the property on the west side of the over flowing water, so a phone message was sent in from the company house and the powder and dynamite was brought out by C. O. Davis, who, despite the fact that every bridge was flooded with water,
made the trip successfully on horseback. Two well placed loads by Mr.
Dan Connors removed about twenty feet from the top of the canal and the water over the concrete waters were roaring into it. The
of their release being heard many miles, as they went rushing on their way to join the waters of the Snake.
Some of the bridges on Cedar Draw had previously been taken out by the surplus of water and the ice jams there is not a one along the length of the draw that was not in some way damaged. For a few hours on Monday evening about eighty acres of land and a few towns were gradually approached with water while it also reached the railroad track in several places and removed for a few feet planks and logs being nearly. Owing to the thoughtfulness of Superintendent Harlan of the Canal association, word was sent by team and riders to all of the residents that could be reached living near the various coulees and much valuable lye stock was thus saved.

The Curtis Comedy company played a well-filled house the entire week in the opera house and when they return will be warmly welcomed by appreciative audiences.
A. L. Hollister returned on Sunday
from Iowa, with a car load of thoroughbred calves. The calves will be put in his already well stocked farm four miles north of town.
Ray Brown, J. E. Finch, and F.

Graves were business visitors in the Falls city the first of the week.
Mr. and Mrs. McDonald from Ft.
Sheridan, Texas, are recent arrivals
and will make their home on Succor Flat.

RAISING POULTRY ON THE FARM By Giving Them Reasonable Care Bet- ter Birds Will Pay Owner Well.

Poultry raising in an industry too often beset with trials which end in disappointment and failure, but it can be not easily discouraged and will apply the same practical methods he would to any other business undertaking, his chances of success are good.
In 1887 I became possessed of the idea that just as good thoroughbred hens could be raised in the west by a pains-taking breeder with a natural liking for that class of stock, as those bred and sold at fancy prices by the high-priced specialists of the east.
Having that idea, and also a few acres of land, I made a start. I had the idea that it would be better to start with a few birds, study them thoroughly, and add to the number as desired. I bought four breeding pairs, the best I could find for the money, as I desired my birds to conform to standard requirements in addition to general-purpose qualities. I began with Barred Plymouth Rocks and to the wisdom of this decision I think I owe the success which followed.

I attended poultry shows and learned how to mate for color of plumage, results in egg production and size, and the general betterment of the flock all around. I kept my coops clean and fresh at all seasons, thus avoiding diseases, and my birds and my losses of young chicks were reduced to a minimum.
I built two coops facing south, each 10x16 feet, and in each coop I contained two pens of eighteen females and one male cock. The coops were of rough lumber outside and sealed inside with paper or excelsior between the walls. Double windows were put in, each having 4x6 feet in size. This plan of building I have adhered to all out-crops of later construction,
and I am never troubled with dampness
or with rough or wheezy birds in winter.
My main poultry house is now situated at the rear of the yard and is 20x40 feet; divided into four pens, each accommodating fifteen to twenty birds. Board floors are provided,
which are covered with clean dirt
and short straw, into which the grain rations is thrown.

Running south from the coop is a unobscured run for each pen, in which breeding birds are kept as long as eggs are wanted for hatching. Adjoining these runs is another incu-sary, sided with small apple trees, in to which the birds are returned from the pens on alternate days. In this incubator, in the early spring, ones are quickly supplied. In a short time this grain sprouts and furnishes a green ration, though small, long before the grain is up; here I also yard
my young chicks.

Disease is practically unknown among my fowls. As soon as a bird is found to be ill it is isolated in the "hospital" and treated. If it continues to grow worse, and it is not a valuable specimen, the hatchet is used; but my ration of care is such that sickness is not allowed to get a start. No droppings are allowed to accumulate, and once a week in the summer the poultry and any remaining boards are sprayed with an emulsion of kerosene to keep away the mites. And lime is used liberally in the shape of whitewash, and everything but the chickens is given a liberal coat spring and fall.
Feeding plays an important part in the poultry business. One ration which I feed is made by mixing in creasing egg production. I get a large sack bone from the butcher and crack it. The pieces are then placed in a large tin and covered with neat scraps added, and the kettle filled about half full of wheat and middlings. Enough water is poured on to cover, and the whole is allowed to simmer for several hours. In the morning the mass is placed in the feed troughs, and it usually lasts about fifteen minutes.
I am quite sure there are few farmers who cannot make thoroughbred poultry breeding pay. The item of purchasing a few choice fowls which to make the start is the principal one.
Just a little care and common sense will do the rest.

When one feeds ten bushels of grain to a flock of fifty mongrels that will dress an average of two to four or five pounds each, and a neighbor feeds
the same amount to a flock of purebred birds that will dress from six to eight and nine pounds, it can readily be seen without figuring it out who will make the most profit.—W. H. U.
in Farm Progress.

Excelsior Notes.

Excelsior, Idaho, March 1, 1910.
Charles Ingraham came down from his place near Murtaugh, Monday.
Mr. Harris is building on his place
just north of the school house.
J. J. Kalkins, R. J. Neely, and E. H.
Butler, were attending the meeting

nesday.
The canal is giving the ditch riders considerable trouble on account of high water.
Wonder why John Perry quits driving the school wagon? Perhaps the patrons thought too much time was being wasted in the spring weather.
The sad, yearning wood tick hath appeared; also the mud; and once more the farmer bendeth down and cares not for the mud or his rubber boots out by the door.

PICKING WINTER APPLES Greatest Precaution Should be to Avoid Bruising Fruit.

In harvesting apples a good picker will save his wages over a careless one. I have had men pick for me who seemed to think that it didn't make any difference how the apples were gotten off the trees, just so they were gathered.
Picking apples properly is more of a trade than an art, and judgment should be used as to which apple to remove from a branch first.
Select the finest first, so this will be secured even if the other fall, and when two are together always pick the best one first.
Apples should be picked by breaking off the stem, its junction, rather than pulling it off. A straight pull requires considerable power to sever
the connection, and is apt to pull the stem out of the apple and knock off several other by the recoil of the branch, while a slight pull with a side or upward twist will usually break the stem from the twig without jarring
the branch perceptibly.
In picking an apple, take it in the palm of the hand, rather than between the fingers, and press down upon it with the entire hand, rather than with the tips of the fingers. I have had pickers who seemed to think it necessary to leave the apple on their fingers on every apple they picked.
After standing a day or two such apples are a spotted looking lot.
Baskets are the best receptacles for the average picker to use. I use the half-bushel kind with drop handles. I and from looks made for the pickers, attached to the handle of each basket.
This enables him to hang the basket
up in the tree and use both hands.
If the apples are laid carefully into the basket and pushed down form it they are not bruised.
It is never best to allow a ladder to fall against a tree. Place the bottom about eight feet from the trunk against the tree. The apple ladder is most convenient, as the side rails come together at the top and the side rail can be held up with nails an-where it will stand without danger of breaking limbs and dropping to the ground and knocking off apples.

Any ladder can be made into an apple ladder by nailing two flexible pickets to the side rails at the top and binding them together, securing the pickets to the tree with nails and wires. I have used a ladder so extended for several years. Four or five feet are the best added to a length with little additional weight.—N. G. F. K.
Lucky, in Farm Progress.

ANNOUNCEMENT

DURING the past month we have been making extensive changes in the interior of The Palace Meat Market. New fixtures have been put in; the old ones renovated and the entire interior made as clean and wholesome as carpenters and painters could make it backed by heavy expenditures for new improvements. We now have a place where you can get the best cuts and roasts at

We have put on a first-class man as solicitor and deliveryman and every attention will be paid to the wants of the housewife.

Q. How far is it from Kimberly to Twin Falls?

A. Six miles.

Q. He followed you?

A. Yes.

Q. You were running?

A. I certainly did.

Q. At the time that he pulled his revolver and swore that he would shoot you there at the place in Filer, was there anybody else present, at Kimberly, I mean?

A. The proprietor of the pool hall was there.

Q. Anybody else?

A. Yes, ten or fifteen. I don't know.

Q. Did anybody step in between you when he went for you?

A. Yes, the crowd at Filer.

Q. What is the proprietor's name?

A. McGuire.

Q. What did you do that night?

A. I slept in the St. Regis rooming place.

Q. Who did you meet next morning?

A. I went to the Commercial & Savings bank and went down to the City Lumber Co. and stayed in there just a step to a deserted place until I could take the train for Filer.

Q. Did you go to Filer that day?

A. I did.

Q. How long did you stay in Filer?

A. I went back on the same day's train.

Q. Did you come back to Twin Falls that night?

A. No, I was afraid to stop, for Fred Elledge was drunk and I could not stay in Twin Falls.

Q. Where did you go?

A. I went straight to Hansen. I locked myself in the closet and told the conductor why I did it, because the train stops so long in Twin Falls. I walked to Rock Creek that evening.

Q. When was the next time you saw him after the meeting at Kimberly, and after you saw him when you hid yourself behind the curtain?

A. I met him face to face between the door of the cabin and the gate on the morning of the 28th.

Q. What was he doing when you saw him on this way?

A. He was infuriated and angry. He called Mrs. Elledge out of the cabin.

Q. You may give an account of that, tell what took place and what you saw and what the deceased did, giving his attitude towards yourself and the outcome of it.

A. After he had threatened me so hard, I went to have him arrested. First I went to Justice Hanson of Rock Creek. He sent me to Twin Falls, because Elledge was out of his jurisdiction. That same evening that he threatened me through the curtain, I went to Twin Falls. I didn't know where to go. I went to your office and you asked me if he was desperate. I didn't know, but I saw Sheriff Dyer across the street and ran over to him. I told him I was afraid, but I would give up my arms, but my life was in danger and I wanted him to take care of me. He says: "Who is after you?" and I told him. He says: "These fellows talk a lot, but there is not very much danger. Take a drink of whiskey and that will straighten you out all right." So we went along and he took me up to his office and I took my gun and laid it on his desk and put it in a little drawer. Mr. Herrick was also acting as a lawyer then. Mr. Graham was going to look out for me. He is a very easy-going gentleman, so I took my gun back, because Mr. Graham started in and he says: "You're not afraid of Mr. Elledge, you are just as big as Mr. Elledge, I mean." "That's all right, but I want my gun," Mr. Graham spoke that way and I took my gun back. The sheriff and I went back to the office and he said: "How do you like it now?" I told him there was a man after my life. I didn't make it as bad as it was, because I didn't like to take my little life. I told him he had threatened my life at Kimberly and that he was still threatening to take my life, and I wanted him arrested. Mr. Herrick says: "There is no use having the man arrested. If he gets hold of him he will come back with him. I told Mr. Herrick that this is an extraordinary case. This man got so violent at times I didn't know what he was going to do. He didn't have any respect for his own life. He had taken poison, and he didn't respect anyone else's life. Mr. Herrick was going to put a paper in the newspaper and was ready to start in doing his duty as an officer, and in the mean time the sheriff came in. He says: "Mr. Graham, you are right. I will take care of him and tell him what he will get if he isn't careful with his threats. Mr. Herrick turned to the sheriff and he repeated what he told me, that he didn't believe it would do any good to give peace bonds, because that would make him sure, because that is what he wants. He would strap a 40 to my belt and the first fellow that interfered, he would pull him through. That is what Mr. Herrick said."

Q. Tell the court just how you met him on the 13th, what you heard him say and what you saw him do.

A. I heard him say as usual while he was before he left the place. I saw him go after the two women. I didn't stay in the house then, because he had said that he would come back with a rifle and riddle the house. I heard Mrs. Elledge holler: "My God, don't!" and run forward. I ran to see what was the matter and there was Mr. Elledge running to the cabin. I ran and he seen me and he swung on me. As he raised his arm quick and swung on me, I fired and he fired again. I couldn't stop. I didn't know. I couldn't. I was afraid that he would shoot me. He said he would if I heard him that he would. I knew he would anyway where he would meet me. He took four or five steps toward the cabin and lay down. Then he crawled a little bit and crawled back again and he got to the canvas and took hold of that and pulled himself over on his back. I went inside the house and stepped aside for them to go out. Then I went out again. The old lady was standing in the path and the young lady stood to one side. They looked to me nearly crazy and I didn't know what to do. I went and told Mr. Austin what I had done. He says: "I didn't let you have that gun to get into trouble with. Go and get it." I ran and got it. I was standing at the corner of the house where I left it. I gave it to him and ran across to Rock Creek.

Q. Did you say anything to him before he swung on you?

A. I tried to, but not very loud. It hurt my throat. I was afraid. I could not talk. I tried to holler: "Stop!" but I couldn't speak very loud.

Cross-examination by Mr. Guthrie.

Q. How old are you?

A. 36.

Q. How long have you known Fred Elledge?

A. One year ago last fall.

Q. Ever lived with him?

A. No, I boarded there last winter.

Q. You and Elledge were friends at that time?

A. I don't know as I was ever friendly with him. I was not chumming with him.

Q. Who were you chumming with, his wife?

A. I did not.

Q. He wanted you to keep away from his wife, did he not?

A. I never said so.

Q. He wanted you to keep away from his wife, and yet you persisted in going there, did he not?

A. I went to their house, yes.

Q. You knew it was offensive to him for you to be there, did you not?

A. I didn't know that.

Q. Hadn't he complained to you about going there?

A. Once.

Q. When had been staying out there about three or four weeks before this trouble occurred, at Van Nostram?

A. I had.

Q. What were you doing there?

A. O, I was some time grubbing sage brush. The last days I was there was so hot for me I could only work mornings and evenings. If I worked in the middle of the day I was afraid I might come out there with a rifle. I knew it would take him three or four hours to come out from Twin Falls. I did not have peace to work all day.

Q. You felt pretty safe, though, staying there at Van Nostram's didn't you?

A. No.

Q. You stayed there most of the time, did you not?

A. I didn't feel safe anywhere.

Q. You and Mrs. Elledge went out there together, did you not?

A. Yes.

Q. When you would get frightened in town, you would run out there, would you not? Felt secure out there?

A. I didn't feel that way.

Q. He didn't attempt to kill you when you hid yourself behind the curtains, did he?

A. He certainly did.

Q. He turned his gun over to his wife, didn't he?

A. I don't know anything about that.

Q. You didn't want to see that, did you?

A. Yes.

Q. Why shouldn't I want to see that?

A. I didn't want to hear anything good about yourself, I presume, did you? All you wanted to know was that he was going to kill you.

A. I certainly didn't want to let him kill me.

Q. Why did you persist in staying out there with this woman? Why didn't you go away?

A. I intended to go away. I had asked Mr. Hansen at Rock Creek for a job, but Mr. Verrett had to go and I was going to go when he came back. Somebody had to stay there and chop wood and do other things for these ladies. They couldn't attend to the place themselves.

Q. You could chop quite a good deal of wood in three or four weeks, couldn't you?

A. I couldn't work regularly.

The defendant denied on cross-examination that his relations with Mrs. Elledge had been unduly intimate. Attorney Guthrie brought out the fact that Elledge had threatened the life of the defendant on various occasions, but had never carried his threats into execution.

Q. Where was Elledge when you got around to the front of the house?

A. He was coming in the path that led to the door.

Q. Had your rifle with you when you left the house?

A. Yes.

Q. Had it with you when you came around the house?

A. Yes.

Q. When you fired, did you fire very rapidly?

A. I did.

Q. How many times did you shoot?

A. A couple of times.

Q. Where did you shoot him first?

A. I couldn't say.

Q. Was he screaming when he was when you fired the first shot?

A. He swung on me. He was in motion all the time.

Q. Was he facing you when you shot him?

A. Yes, sir, he was.

Q. What do you mean by swung on you?

A. I didn't take time to look, exactly, how he stood.

Q. You weren't very particular whether he was facing you or whether his back was turned toward you? You wanted to shoot him, that was all you were thinking of?

A. I don't know.

Q. He didn't draw any gun on you?

A. I don't know.

Q. Yes, you do know. Did you see any?

A. I didn't see any.

Q. Where did you shoot him the first time, in front or behind?

A. I saw his face. He turned and spoke to me.

Q. As a matter of fact when he saw you didn't he turn around?

A. He did, yes.

Q. How long after you shot him the first time until you shot him the second time?

A. A little over a second.

Q. Did you load and unload your gun before you shot a second time?

A. No, I just had to reload.

Q. How long did it take during the time you were justing the shell out?

A. He was in front of me. He was on the nose letters in front of the house. What did he do after you had shot him the second time?

A. He turned around and went for the corner of the house. He fell and dragged himself in the snow.

Q. What did he say?

A. He called my name.

Q. Then you said: "Didn't he say: 'For God's sake, don't shoot me again'?"

A. He did not.

Q. Did you offer him any assistance, did you not?

A. No.

Q. I will ask you, Mr. Salmarc, if after you fired the first shot, if you did not know the time in front of the house, go along the road towards Rock Creek, return, go nearly to Austin's barn and come back and fire again?

A. No, I did not.

A. He was coming in the path that led to the door.

Q. Had your rifle with you when you left the house?

A. Yes.

Q. Had it with you when you came around the house?

A. Yes.

Q. When you fired, did you fire very rapidly?

A. I did.

Q. How many times did you shoot?

A. A couple of times.

Q. Where did you shoot him first?

A. I couldn't say.

A. No, I did not.

Q. When you fired the first time, did make any sound?

A. He cried: "Oh, shilly!"

Q. Then you said that the first shot took effect?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Then you shot him again?

A. Yes.

On re-direct examination, the witnesses testified that there was an exchange of fire between him and Mrs. Elledge. That there was delay occasioned because the law provides that a period of six months shall elapse before a divorced person may remarry.

TWIN FALLS VS. ALBION

State Normal Defeated by Local High School.

TWIN FALLS DEBATORS SCORE ALL SIX POINTS.

Victors Will Debate With the Academy of Pocatello On Next Friday Night.

On Friday evening occurred the first of a series of debates in which the Twin Falls high school will contest for the championship of southern Idaho. In the first debate the Albion State Normal, a school of a supposed higher class, by a score of 6 to 0, defeated the negative team.

There were two negative teams, composed of Harry Eaton, Miss Nellie Rauch, and Harry Bonoli, met their opponents at Albion, and the affirmative team, composed of Thaddeus Patton, Lyle Dovyery and Rollo Crater, remained at home to meet an Albion team.

In connection with the debate several musical numbers were splendidly rendered by members of the Girls' Glee club, making the entertainment as a whole, worthy of the occasion, as a whole, worthy of the occasion.

The opening speech was made by Thaddeus Patton in the affirmative, in which he explained correctly the present methods of electing senators, and the method which the affirmative proposed. He also stated plainly the different phases of the question, and showed the faults of the present system, emphasizing the fact that the method now in use was out of date, having been inaugurated at the time of the adoption of the constitution, and that at the present time only wealthy property owners could enter the senate.

Mr. Patton read various statistics to show that, recently, there occurred a tie vote in the legislature of Rhode Island over the election of a senator, which caused a loss of thirteen weeks of that body's time—the longest of any legislature in the United States.

the Civil war there have been forty-two deadlocks in various state legislatures resulting in a loss of $7,842,300, the amount paid to the members of the state legislatures during the periods of inaction.

Mr. Patton's logic was clear and definite, and his delivery was excellent. The first speaker on the negative was Mr. Lowe, who stated four allegations which the negative team would attempt to prove; first, that the senate was composed of the picked men from the states they represented; second, that a change is not needed; third, that a change is not in popular demand; and finally, that a non-voting convention would not be as efficient for electing United States senators as the state legislatures.

Rollo Crater, the second speaker on the affirmative, stated that twenty per cent of the members of the senate were millionaires, and cited examples from history to show that the downfall of many of the ancient empires was caused by similar unrepresentative governing bodies.

Mr. Crater was followed by Miss Rosa Zvonovik, of the negative who emphasized the fact that the present system was an old established form by which the two separate houses of congress, each elected in a different manner, might act as a check upon each other.

Lyle Dovyery, the third speaker on the affirmative gave a complete summary of the strong points in his opponents' addresses, and attacked the position taken by those on the negative side of the question, with telling delivery and his remarks on the high-handed methods of the present senate were very convincing to the argument of his opponents.

Mr. Jones closed the argument for the negative, by proposing a system which would elect the senators by the people through the senators; but their choice must receive the ratification of the state legislature.

Thaddeus Patton closed the debate with four minutes of force rebuttal, followed by a selection by the Glee club, and the announcement of the decision of the judges, which gave the affirmative team all of the three possible points.

Word was received early Saturday morning that the negative team had won a similar victory at Albion, and although the Pocatello Academy has a good team, the local high school in this case, was highly appreciative and each number on the program received great applause.

BUILDING BOOM CONTINUES

Number of Fine Residences Under Construction.

During the past week the Times reporter made a hasty survey of the buildings going up in this city, and the search resulted in finding forty residences under process of construction in various parts of the city. The best feature of the building is that, in every case substantial residences are being put up and that the period of the shack-building has gone.

TOWN OF MACE WIPED OUT

Snow Slides In Northern Idaho Bury Two Towns.

Spokane, Feb. 28.—In swift succession two terrible disasters have carried death and dismay to mining towns in the rich Coeur d'Alene district in northern Idaho. At 10:35 o'clock last night a snowslide swept down the mountain side, striking the little town of Mace and burying 25 houses and their sleeping occupants in a mass of snow, ice and wreckage at the bottom of the canyon. At 6:30 a. m. another slide rushed down on the town of Burke, crushing a score of houses and derailing a train of cars, a distance of ten thousand feet. It was estimated that at least 100,000 tons of snow and ice were involved in the disasters. A score of men were killed, and many more are still buried under the debris. It is feared that fifty or sixty lives have been lost. There is fear that the snowslide at Burke may be even larger than that at Mace. Every man that can be spared from rescue work at Mace has been appealed to Doctors are being rushed from Wallace and another special train leaves in an hour. From the foot of the canyon a distance of half a mile, the slide is thirty feet deep.

Thirty-five Italians, sleeping in out-fits cars on the Northern Pacific siding, who were swept away with their cars to the bottom of the canyon, used the tools in their car to dig themselves out.—Pocatello Tribune.

ESCAPED DEATH IN BLIZZARD

Ira D. Vinton and Companions Heard From.

For several days last week rumors were current that several Jarbridge prospectors among whom was Ira D. Vinton of this city, had lost their lives in a fierce snow storm and blizzard while returning to the camp. Mr. Jarbridge this week received word from Mr. Vinton stating that they were lost for four or five days and were only rescued on the extra days of increasing their hunger to some extent, but otherwise causing no injury to any member of the party.

NEW WAREHOUSE.

Business of Geo. D. Alken & Co. Wholesale, Require More Room.

Geo. D. Alken and Co. have commenced work on the erection of a new warehouse, to accommodate their rapidly increasing wholesale business. The building will be 60x125 feet, the same as the warehouse which they built last fall, and its construction will be pushed as rapidly as possible in order to accommodate the Jarbridge business.

KILLED IN SNOW SLIDE.

Terrific Slide On Great Northern 'Bunfts Out Many Lives.

Everett, Wash., March 1.—Twenty-three persons are known to be dead, twenty-five are missing and a score are injured as a result of the avalanche which swept down the mountain side above Wellington at the west portal of the Cascade tunnel early this morning and brushed two Great Northern trains, one the Spokane express and the other an overland mail train, off the narrow ledge of the high line, hurling them to the bottom of the canyon, 200 feet below. Coupled to the Spokane express was Superintendent J. H. O'Neill's private car, which was carried over the precipice with the rest of the train. Three locomotives, four powerful electric motors used to haul trains through the Cascade tunnel, the depot at Wellington and a water tank also were carried away by the slide and buried under tons of debris.

Communication with Seaside, the nearest point to the scene of the disaster, was established late tonight and the names of a few of the dead and injured were received.—Salt Lake Tribune.

PRIZES AWARDED PUPILS.

Descriptive Contest Given By Commercial Club (The Ended March 1st).

The committee appointed by the Commercial club to examine the letters which were written during January and February in the interest of the Twin Falls country to people outside Idaho, have made their awards. Secretary Stoltz of the Commercial club at assembly yesterday morning announced the winners in the high school as Thaddeus Patton, first; Grace Barger, second. A five dollar prize and $2.50 in silver.

Nearly one hundred letters were written in this contest and many of them were interesting and it was not an easy matter for the committee to award the prizes.

Only one wagon was able to reach school on Wednesday morning of this week. It is likely that the wagons will be discontinued the remainder of the week on account of the heavy roads. The regular trips will be made as soon as soon as possible.

Patrons who live in the country may be assured that if at any time heavy water or any other accident prevents the return of the children to their homes that the children will be provided for in the city and the cause of detention and places may be learned by the hands of the printer.

The enrollment continues to increase slowly. One remarkable thing about the attendance at school this year and which is very different from last year is the permanency of the attendance. Fewer people are leaving the tract than at any time previous to this as is shown by the few that withdraw from school.

The Junior class have begun in earnest to work upon the high school annual which is soon to be placed in the hands of the printer. This will be a fine magazine and will reflect the life and interest of the student body as no other publication could do. The editor-in-chief is Merwin Flemming. Walter Boyd is business manager. The book will contain many photographs relating to the school life.

Miss Elizabeth Shotwell has been transferred from the Lincoln building to the Bicket and gives part of her time to high school work and part to the supervision of the grades. Miss Shotwell is in reality principal of the Bicket building. Mr. Weaver being principal of the school. This change was made in anticipation of the removal of the high school to the new building in the autumn.

Miss Laura V. Hale of Kimberly, a grade teacher of a number of years' experience, later principal of an Illinois high school, has been secured to take Miss Shotwell's place at the Lincoln building.

Miss Lucy McConnell is seriously ill at her home on Third avenue North. It is hoped that she may speedily recover.

W. W. HUMPHREY WINS CASE.

Judgment For $410,000 Given Against the Yellowstone Park Cattle Co.

The supreme court of Minnesota has just decided in favor of W. W. Humphrey in his suit against the Yellowstone Park Cattle Co. The case involved $410,000 and Mr. Humphrey won Monday evening for St. Paul, to look after the matter.

Constable Sals.

Notice is hereby given that I, R. C. Graham, constable in and for Twin Falls precinct, will on the 23rd day of March, 1910, at the hour of 10 o'clock p. m., sell to the highest bidder for cash, the following described animals, to-wit: Three head of hogs, one red, weight about 170 lbs; one black, weight about 160 lbs; one red and spotted, weight about 150 lbs. These animals were found in the corral of W. H. Weaver one and one-half miles east of the southeast corner of town, on Feb. 11, 1910.

Owner can have these animals by proving property and paying all costs otherwise said animals will be sold on the date above mentioned to defray costs to the extent of $1000.

R. A. GRAHAM, Constable.

H. J. Youngs has just received a shipment of twenty-five head of choice dairy cows from Fort Atkinson, Wis. These cows were selected from the best working dairy herds in that famous dairy section and are young, sound and tuberculosis tested. They are mostly Jerseys and Guernseys, of pronounced dairy type, and are all just fresh or to be fresh soon. The opening of our new modern creamery which will be ready for operation May 1st, will furnish an attractive market for all the cream this section can produce, and Mr. Youngs is planning to ship shipments of choice stock coming to satisfy the growing demand. Watch for sale bills announcing date of sale of this stock.
