POPULAR TEACHER DIED WEDNESDAY

Miss Lucy McConnell Victim of Spinal Disease.

DECEASED ONE OF THE BEST KNOWN INSTRUCTORS.

Death Comes As a Great Sorrow and Shock to Many Friends Unaware of Serious Illness.

Miss Lucy McConnell, one of the instructors in the Twin Falls public schools, passed away Wednesday morning after a brief illness, caused by spinal trouble. Although her friends were aware of her illness, her death came as a shock and a surprise to many friends who have learned to admire and respect her both as an instructor and as an earnest, conscientious servant of the public school system. Miss McConnell was residing out her third year in the local schools when death came to interrupt her faithful service.

The deceased, who was a native of Pennsylvania, was 51 years of age and leaves three sisters and a brother to mourn her demise. Mrs. James Shields of Buhl, one of the sisters, was present in this city in attendance at the bedside, while the rest of the family were unable to reach this city before her death.

The remains will be shipped to Holiday, W. Va., for interment, today or tomorrow.

Mrs. James Shields of Buhl, wishes to extend her thanks and gratitude to all the friends of her sister in the last illness.

POOR LO IN TIGHT PLACE.

Rock Creek Redskin Falls to Die Properly.

Dr. Pike was called to Rock Creek last week to administer to Jim Ericson, an Indian, who has lived in that settlement for several years. Ericson had been sick for months and finally died, as his wife thought. According to the Indian custom, his personal effects were burned, and his apparently inanimate body was strapped to a pole for transportation to Pocatello. The neighbors, who had been notified to take the body to the station appeared on the scene and were amazed to discover that the Indian was not dead. Dr. Pike left for the scene but Ericson who had been strapped to the pole for hours, passed away before his arrival.

LIBRARY ASS'N INCORPORATES

Directors Plan to Put Association on Business Basis.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Twin Falls Library Association held the first of the week, the directors decided to incorporate under the state laws and thus give the project a business rating. The articles are being prepared and as soon as the state charter is obtained the board will enter into a campaign to put the library in easy financial circumstances. The classification of the books in the library is now completed and any one desiring books can secure them at the reading room.

L. J. MILLER SELLS BUSINESS

Beauchamp & Crosby Purchase Undertaking Business.

On last Tuesday a business relationship was formed between J. C. Beauchamp and C. J. Crosby, both of Twin Falls, who have taken over and will manage the undertaking business formerly owned by L. J. Miller. Mr. Beauchamp was for 21 years a successful merchant and one and a half years previous to coming to Twin Falls was one of the firm of Beckwith, Beauchamp Co., wholesalers of Art & Cauter goods. Since coming to Twin Falls Mr. Beauchamp has been associated with The Farmers' Real Estate & Livestock Co. and is at the present time the senior member of the real estate firm of Beauchamp & Pickett. Mr. Crosby has been associated with the furniture and undertaking business for the past nine years, previous to coming to Twin Falls. He is a graduate of and holds a diploma from a school recognized as one of the best for funeral directors and embalmers and at the present time holds a state embalmer's license in three of the best states in the union. For the past six months he has been associated with the furniture firm of Ostrander & McCauley. Mr. Crosby will have the management and will answer all calls promptly and assures the public of the best of service.

A SPLENDID ESTABLISHMENT

Work About Completed On the Flory Building.

This week W. S. Humphrey, contractor on the new Flory block on Shoshone, will complete his contract. The block just completed is one of the handsomest buildings in the city, and is also one of the best structurally. The owners moved their grocery store here and have put in a new lot of handsome fixtures, which, together with their large, fresh stock of groceries, gives the store a cosmopolitan appearance. Mr. Humphrey has put in a great deal of time and personal attention to the finish of the interior and can be justly proud of the result.

SMALL HOPE OF FEDERAL BLDG.

Twin Falls Not Likely to Get Federal Plan.

From conversation held with Senator Borah by one of the Twin Falls citizens it seems certain that this city will not get a federal appropriation for the building and site as proposed last week and which the bill introduced by Idaho's junior senator. Since all appropriation bills have to originate in the house, there is absolute certainty that the bill introduced in the senate will not achieve the desired end and that if anything is done Congressman Hamer will have to do it and as yet the matter has not been brought to his attention by Twin Falls citizens.

CHANGE IN REAL ESTATE OFFICE

Hill & Taylor Making Many Interior Improvements.

During this week painters have been at work in the real estate office of Hill & Taylor making changes in the interior finish which will give the real estate dealer one of the handsomest offices in the city. The walls have been tinted and on the lower half of the wall papering will be put. L. A. Hardy is doing the work and is giving the firm some first-class results.

DESIRE TO PAVE SEVENTH AVENUE

Public Spirited Property Owners Hold Meeting.

PLAN TO PUT IN ELEVEN BLOCKS OF BITUMINOUS PAVING.

Will Ask Council to Form New Paving District If Property Owners Will Consent.

The citizens of Seventh avenue have been agitating the paving of the whole avenue running through to the boulevard of the townsite north and east. The discussion has reached the stage where some action will be taken to get the consent of the majority of the property owners along the avenue to form a paving district. On Saturday night a number of the property owners met in the Commercial club rooms and after discussing the probable cost of the paving with City Engineer Mull, appointed a committee to wait upon all property owners along Seventh avenue and ask them to sign a petition asking the council to create a paving district of Seventh avenue and three blocks along Shoshone street from the end of the paving now under contract. If the proposal finds favor with the citizens of that avenue the council will be asked to establish a wider boulevard along that street and make the paving less expensive. During the past year a number of fine residences have been put up along this avenue that combined with those already erected will make it a popular avenue and if the plans of the property owners are carried out, values along Seventh avenue will increase greatly.

WINS FROM POCATELLO.

Twin Falls High School Again Victorious in Debate.

The negative team of the high school, composed of Harry Benoit, Harry Eaton, and Miss Nellie Rauch, returned from Pocatello Saturday, having won by a score of 3 to 0 the final debate in the southeastern Idaho championship series. Twin Falls will debate the winning team in the northeast on Friday, March 19, one contest being held at the Bickel auditorium and one in the home town of the team winning the northeastern championship.

RENEW WORK ON BANK BLDG.

Handsome Stone Structure to Be Rushed to Completion.

After several months of delay due to the cold weather, the citizens of this city were delighted to see the workmen renew their labor on the big stone and stone business block of the Twin Falls Bank & Trust company. Plans of the company are to crowd the work all through the summer and avoid getting caught by any further delays due to the weather. The work of getting the heavy blocks into place daily attracts a crowd of spectators.

LIBRARY WILL HOLD TAG DAY

Business Men Will Have to Pay Tribute.

LADIES WILL EARN MONEY BY SELLING TAGS TO CITIZENS.

The Wise Man Will Stay Indoors all Day On Saturday, March the Nineteenth.

The man with a grouch and the tight wad will have a delightful time a week from Saturday when the ladies interested in getting the public library fund will patrol the streets armed only with small but costly tags. To every man who donates the price marked on his tag, freedom of the city will be given, but the man with the greedy clutch will be harassed until his heart softens and his purse strings loosen. There will be no chance of a get-away for if you miss the hosts on the street your wife is liable to tag you at home or go through your pockets later. The best and safest plan is to dig, place the tag in a conspicuous place on your coat and then feel free to answer. Otherwise it will be no use. The ladies are determined to have a library and will get it. The money which is to be put into the library fund will not be greatly missed by the man who is tagged, but it means much to the wives and mothers who desire that Twin Falls shall have a library and have some means of counteracting the tendency of the children to parade the streets rather than spend the time at home with some good book as a companion.

E. B. Brotherton Disposes of His Business.

During the past week C. R. Wade purchased the interest of E. Brotherton in the barbershop on South Main. Jerry Hunt, formerly employed in the O. Mr. Brotherton is undecided as to what business will claim his attention.

LIME-SULPHUR FOR APPLE SCAB

Experiments in Virginia, Under Direction of Department of Agriculture.

(By W. M. Scott.) Never in the history of spraying has there been such widespread interest in the development of new fungicides. The few growers who have sought a substitute for Bordeaux mixture, manufacturing chemists are rushing on the market with various new preparations intended for the control of plant disease, and the pathologists are busily engaged in testing their value. Bordeaux mixture has, in recent years, come to be favored by the majority of growers on account of its injurious effect upon the fruit and foliage of certain varieties of apples and a reliable substitute it would be highly prized. Bordeaux mixture is, undoubtedly, the best all-around fungicide known and it is for this reason that apple growers have to consider the possibility of giving it up. However its resultant effect on the fruit of certain varieties is injurious to the apple, and it is for this reason that apple growers have to consider the possibility of giving it up. However its resultant effect on the fruit of certain varieties is injurious to the apple, and it is for this reason that apple growers have to consider the possibility of giving it up.

On January, 1909, issue of The Fruit-Grower the writer gave a brief account of experiments for the control of apple scab with lime-sulphur mixture. These were conducted by the United States department of agriculture the previous year. Similar experiments were conducted by the writer in the latter part of the country during the past season and although the results cannot be considered entirely conclusive, it is certainly believed that the lime-sulphur mixture is as effective in controlling apple scab as Bordeaux mixture, while the self-bolled lime-sulphur is not so good in this connection.

In all the orchards treated the fruit sprayed with the several lime-sulphur mixtures was smoother and more highly colored than that sprayed with Bordeaux mixture. The Bordeaux rusted the fruit of the Wagner and Jon Davis to such an extent that it was almost impossible to eat. The lime-sulphur mixture, however, showed no rust effect whatever. The lime-sulphur mixture sprayed was no rust effect whatever. The lime-sulphur mixture sprayed was no rust effect whatever. The lime-sulphur mixture sprayed was no rust effect whatever.

Our experiments of 1908 and 1909 as well as the published records of other investigators, show that the lime-sulphur solution is apparently as effective as Bordeaux in the control of apple scab. The Bordeaux mixture caused considerable spotting and yellowing of the leaves on York Imperial, Ben Davis and Yellow Wonder, but very little on Winesap. apple scab was not very severe in any of the orchards treated. However, considerable scab developed on the un-sprayed trees. The crop from four trees in each of the more important plots was picked and sorted and the scab results are shown in the following table.

Table with 2 columns: Treatment and Percentage of Crop. Rows include: 1-Sprayed with Bordeaux mixture, 2-Commercial lime-sulphur 2 to 50 and arsenate of lead, 3-Commercial lime-sulphur 2 to 50 and arsenate of lead, 4-Self-bolled lime-sulphur 10-10, 5-Self-bolled lime-sulphur 10-10, 6-Bordeaux mixture 3-3-50 and arsenate of lead, 7-Check-unsprayed.

Similar experiments were conducted at Douglas, Mich., in co-operation with the bureau of entomology, and the results were much the same as those obtained in Virginia. However, the injury to apple foliage by the commercial lime-sulphur (2 to 50) was more severe in Michigan than in Virginia. On the Wagner variety the scab disease was held down to 4.8 per cent of the crop by the lime-sulphur and arsenate of lead, to 3.6 per cent by Bordeaux mixture and 19 per cent by self-bolled lime-sulphur, while 51 per cent of the unsprayed fruit was affected.

Borrowing Forest Trees.

The enterprising German foresters and the importance of tree planting for forest purposes are strikingly shown by two items of news which come, the one from Montana, the other from Ontario. It is reported that a demand has developed for Montana larch seeds to be used by German nurserymen; while white pine seedlings are to be imported from Germany by the town of Gulpny. One for planting a 160-acre tract of land belonging to the municipality.

The Germans recognize that the introduction into their forests of valuable trees native to other countries may be decidedly to their advantage. Although as a rule the forest trees best adapted to each region are those which naturally grow in it, there are many exceptions. Norway spruce and Austrian and Scotch pine have been carried from their native home to other parts of Europe and to America and have been found well worth the attempt of the grower of timber. Several of our own species have met with favor in Europe and flourished there, such as the Douglas fir, black walnut and others. The Austrian larch, Eucalyptus is proving a great find for America and South Africa.

Our own white pine logs ago crossed the Atlantic in response to the needs of Europeans, whose forests are comparatively poor in tree species, and is now grown commercially on such a scale that it is wanted for planting in its own native habitat the German nurseryman is often ready to deliver young plants here for a lower price than their own nurserymen can quote. Now the Germans are going to try the Western larch also. The request from the German nurseryman instructs the cultivator to gather the choicest seeds when ripe this fall. One nurseryman on Flathead Lake has offered to exchange larch seeds for seeds of desirable German trees which he intends to cultivate and sell in America. In the same region, four or five months ago, foresters of our own State, by the way, are gathering seed for use in the neighboring Lolo forest, where a new forest-planting nursery was begun last year.

The objects of the larch planting are, according to local accounts, to protect the town's water source by a forest cover over its springs in the mountains. It is also to be used for public park, and to provide for a future timber supply as a municipal asset. In foreign countries, larch tracts are often acquired and managed by towns and cities as a paying investment and to insure a permanent supply of wood for local consumption. But the larch planting by municipalities other than for parks and for watershed protection has scarcely been known in this country. The larch has already been decided upon by the Ontario Agricultural college. The proposed reforestation promises to be so great economic and sanitary value that the estimated cost of $3 per acre for importing and planting the seedlings and caring for the growing trees is regarded as well worth while.

FIND SKELETON OF MASTODON

Remains Encountered at Depth of Seventy Feet by Well Diggers.

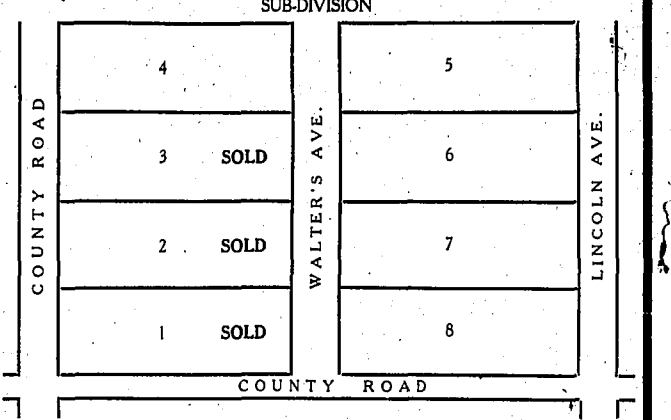

In digging a well on the ranch of William D. Burley, near Burley, Idaho, last week, the fossil remains of a mammal were encountered at a depth of seventy feet, embedded in sand. In order to remove the skeleton it was necessary to break the monster skeleton and the massive bones brought to the surface by means of a winch. A large section of one of the bones of the animal was brought to Burley the first of the week and can now be seen in Prof. Good's room at the school house. The monster was evidently of the mastodon type, which were vegetable eating or herbivorous, and somewhat resembled the elephant of today, only very much larger, as the massive remains show. These animals roamed over the mountainous and valleys of this great tertiomanian country far back in the geological past, ranging probably from the Miocene to the late Quaternary time. If such an animal could be reproduced to day and animated, it would require a high powder rifle and a hunter possessing courage of a Daniel in the lion's den to bring such a prodigious beast to earth.—Burley Bulletin.

Leghorns Make Good Foragers.

Leghorns are good foragers because they are light birds and get about quickly. They roam much farther than most of the heavier breeds. They are thus cheaper to keep on a farm than some of the breeds that show an inclination to hang about the barn and street and walk for feeding time. Besides, they are more useful from the standpoint of insect destruction. This is a matter of considerable importance in some years when the grasshoppers are very numerous. The forgers get a better quality of food than the birds that are content with grain feed, for the reason that insects are very rich in nitrogen. For the general farm, it is doubtful if any breeds except the Leghorns, so far as looking out for themselves is concerned.

Unlucky Relationship of Potato. An authority tells us that the potato has a large and unique relationship. Tobacco, tomatoes, eggplant and peppers belong to the same family. It is why the potato bug is often destructive to these crops. It is asked: Does a potato grower ever potato potato in his eyes, since it is not a root, fruit or seed? That is answered by way of illustration. It is stated that the potato will produce another plant from the place where the leaves come out on it. If one will break off a piece of rose holly plant it is a favorable place. It will produce another rose bush, just as a potato will produce another vine.

New Pine Tree Nursery of Montana. A few weeks hence, when the frost is out of the ground, the department of agriculture will plant a new garden containing a million and a half pine seedlings.

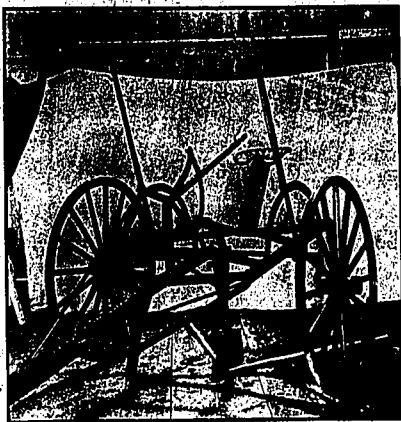

The Savenac nursery, the twenty-fifth of its kind maintained by the department of agriculture for its forest work, is situated in the Lolo national forest on Savenac creek, Montana, near De Burgin. The ground was plowed and harrowed last fall, the irrigation ditches run, and an ample water system installed. The tract will be laid out in 150 beds, each four feet by twelve. After these will be produced the best of the seeds of native conifers gathered in the forest the past autumn. To prevent mice and birds from eating the seeds each bed will be protected by a lath and wire frame. This will also serve to shade the delicate plantlets during the tender period of their first year's life. A water system will supply the means of sprinkling the seeds and irrigating the young trees during the warm, drier months. One man will be kept constantly at work watering the thirsty soil and otherwise caring for this interesting charge. The Savenac nursery will have an annual productive capacity of 1,500,000 seedlings. When one year old—beginning probably in the spring of 1911—these will be set out in transplant beds, where they will be expected to develop in two more years into respectable young trees. Thence they will be removed to their permanent home in the hills of the Lolo national forest. Planting and direct seeding will be done on the great burned areas visible to passengers on the trains of the Coeur d'Alene branch, and also on extensive birch around the headwaters of the Battlement river in the Missoula forest. The work is designed to add to the national timber supply in the coming years and to aid in the regulation of the flow of Montana mountain-water. The Savenac nursery will bring the aggregate annual plant-producing capacity of the twenty-five national forest nurseries up to ten million seedlings.

Hendricks Sagebrush Grubbers IN THE LEAD.

The Hendricks Grubber is the best on the market today. Our many years' experience in the field with other machines has put us in the lead. We guarantee the Hendricks Grubber in any and all kinds of sage brush. It makes no difference how thick or how large or how difficult it is for the horses to get through, the Hendricks Grubbers do the work. Every owner of a Hendricks machine is more than satisfied. We have never had a single word of complaint from any purchaser of our machine.

The Hendricks Grubbers with six horses, will clear six or seven acres per day in any kind of sage brush, and cut it out cleanly. The all steel machine at the price is equal to two ordinary machines.

We have manufactured the Grubbers from original designs in this section until the name of perfection has been reached in the machines now placed on the market. The cut of the first machine shows the solidity of the parts and it is a matter of pride with the maker that not a single purchaser has been dissatisfied with the work of the Grubbers.

The working principles of the machine are simple and strong, so that there is little chance of even an inexperienced man having trouble. The knives are placed so as to cut below the soil surface, thus taking out the tougher sage brush roots and leaving the land ready for plowing. Descriptive circulars and detailed information will be gladly given by

IMPORTANT MINING DECISION

Miners Can Cut Timber From Forest Reserves.

One of the most important and far-reaching decisions affecting western mining men especially, is that handed down by the United States supreme court on February 21 last, relating to the interpretation of what is known as the Timber and Stone Act, particularly with regard to that portion providing how, where and under just what conditions timber may be cut for mining purposes.

This decision of the United States supreme court finally settles this controversy of long standing, insofar as the old act of June 3, 1878, is concerned, though it is altogether probable that the proposed bill drafted by Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger, and recommended as a strong conservation of natural resources measure by President Tatt, which was introduced in the senate by Senator Nelson on February 20 last, will upset all previous legislation and court decisions regarding these matters, because that bill, in section 7, specifically states that all of the old timber and stone act be repealed, except sections 4, 5 and 6. However, these sections relate particularly to the right of the miner to cut timber for mining purposes, and fully protect the miner in his rights in that regard.

In the case of the United States against K. P. Ploewman, Judge James H. Beatty, in the circuit court for the district of Idaho, decided in favor of the defendant, on the ground that by the act of June 3, 1878, the miner was given the right to cut timber not only on mineral lands, but also on those lands which were near or lying reasonably close proximity to or in the general neighborhood of such known tracts.

On appeal by the government, Judge Beatty's decision was upheld by the circuit court of appeals. The government then appealed to the United States supreme court, with the result that the judgment in favor of Justice McKenna only dissenting. Justice Holmes delivered the opinion of the court.

Pending the decision of the court of last resort, many important cases of similar nature have been held up, but the government has announced that from now on it intends to prosecute all such cases diligently and vigorously, under this decision, and that hereafter all defendants in such cases will be compelled to justify their cutting of timber.

The opinion, as delivered by Justice Holmes, is fraught with serious consequences to the mining industry, especially in the western states. It reads in part as follows:

This is an action to recover the value of timber cut from the public domain in Idaho. The defendant justifies under the act of June 3, 1878, c. 150, 20 Stat. 86. The act authorizes citizens of the United States and other persons, bona fide residents of certain states and territories, including Idaho, "and all other mineral districts of the United States," to cut "for building, agricultural, mining, or other domestic purposes, any timber or other trees growing or being on the public lands. Such lands being mineral and not subject to entry under existing laws of the United States, except for mineral entry" in the state, territory or district of their residence. This authority is given subject to regulation by the secretary of the interior for the protection of the timber and undergrowth, and is not given to railroads.

The only question before us is how far the authority extends with reference to the specific land upon which the wood is cut.

There was a trial by jury and the issue is exhibited sufficiently by a passage or two from the charge, and the instructions asked on behalf of the government but refused. The passages from the charge are as follows:

"The instruction to be construed to limit the cutting of timber simply to ground that is known to contain mineral, or ground which is or could be legally located as a mining claim."

"The law includes as mineral lands not only those tracts in which mineral has actually been discovered and which have been or could be legally located as mining locations, but also all other lands lying in reasonably close proximity to or in the general neighborhood of such known mineral tracts."—Idaho Daily Statesman.

INDIAN MONUMENT.

Proposed to be Erected in New York Harbor.

A bill introduced in both houses of congress providing for a colossal statue of the North American Indian to be placed in New York Harbor was reported in the house on March 1. This measure was introduced by Representative Joseph A. Goulden and Senator Chauncey M. Depew, of New York, and provides that there shall be erected without expense to the United States government, by Rodman Wamanaker, of New York City, and others, on a United States reservation in the harbor of New York, a memorial to the memory of the North American Indian. It is further provided that a commission consisting of the chairman of the committee on library, of the senate, the chairman of the committee on library of the house, and the secretaries of state, war, navy and interior, the attorney general and Robert C. Ogden, of New York, shall be created with full authority to select the site in the harbor of New York and a suitable design, and to contract for and superintend the construction of the memorial.

This bill is the result of a suggestion made by Mr. Rodman Wamanaker, at a celebrated dinner given last May at Sherry's, New York, in honor of Col. Cody, the famous Indian scout. The idea of erecting a statue of an Indian with arms outstretched in welcome at the gateway of the New World met with such instant enthusiasm, that there is little doubt, but that the measure will meet with unanimous support.

While the ways and means of providing money to finance the enterprise have not yet been decided upon, it is expected that the statue will be a national monument to perpetuate the memory of the first American, and an opportunity will be given to every one who desires to contribute; it is estimated that one penny from every man, woman and child in the United States will furnish ample means for its erection.

Already various tribes of the Order of Redmen throughout the United States have taken steps to contribute their share to the general fund. It is planned that each of the five hundred thousand members of the Order of Redmen represented in the four thousand tribes in the United States, shall contribute two cents each, which would amount to $10,000. A pile of copper cents amounting to $10,000 is far more imposing than a single check for that amount donated by some individual to whom it would mean so little.

The idea of this statute originated with Mr. Rodman Wamanaker, of Philadelphia, during an expedition made by him in 1908, for the purpose of studying the Indian on his own ground. His first impulse was to present the statue to the country, but the consensus of opinion is that it should be a national gift, and that every child in the country should be allowed to contribute one penny in memory of a race that is fast becoming extinct.

The bill is backed by the entire New York delegation both in the house and in the senate, and is receiving the support of the president, the vice president, and many prominent men in political and financial circles. Very valuable aid is being given to secure the passage of the bill by Senators Owen of Oklahoma, and Curtis of Kansas, and by Representative Carter of Oklahoma, all of whom trace their ancestry back to the aboriginal Red man of the forest.

Notice. Notice is hereby given that the board of Water Commissioners appointed to fix the water rates for the City of Twin Falls for the ensuing three years will meet at the Commercial club rooms on next Monday, March 14th, at 5 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of hearing complaints and suggestions on the part of anyone concerned.

The freeing of Kester and Kestebach at Lewiston on trial for alleged timber frauds, goes to show that the government conscience seems to more highly developed than that of the average citizen which composes it. At least nearly every case in Idaho when brought to the jury has resulted in acquittal or tied up jury despite strong evidence produced for the government.

The Mountain Home Maverick star with the doughty Talbot as its guiding star, has lately charged papers in southern Idaho and the Times in particular, with being just plain, downright perverts of the richest type, merely because Talbot's claim as the originator and original booster for Jarbidge happen to fall on deaf ears. Too bad, Talbot, how a little louder and perhaps the echo at least will get back to you. By a process of elimination the Maverick has decided that there are only two towns in the state, Nampa and Mountain Home, and in the next article counts Nampa out of the race. Talbot also desires to do some money to the welfare of Twin Falls because of its many disadvantages compared with other towns.

Twin Falls might be inclined to take his money, but fears to deprive him of his cigarettes or some of his profits made on the Pocatello Advance. Outfit for Jarbidge at the Maverick office. Hot air furnished in any quantity by the editor.

An anti-spitting ordinance should be one of the aims of the city council in its next session. The habit of spitting on the sidewalks of the city should be given a jolt and the only way to do it is by making it a finable offense by ordinance. It is a common sight to see a group of men gathered on the street talking Jarbidge or politics and recklessly spitting without noting where the sputh will land. In several cases ladies passing have narrowly escaped receiving the unsavory missiles on their dresses. Other cities have an anti-spitting ordinance and also enforce the law. Twin Falls should do the same and avoid annoyance and danger from contagion.

The farmers are demanding better conveniences in the way of hitching racks and watering troughs from the business men of this city, and their claims should be considered. There is no just reason why the ranchers should be obliged to take chances on runaway because of the lack of foresight on the part of merchants and those interested in keeping the trade of the ranchers. The establishment of watering troughs is imperative and the city should be able to do that much for the benefit of both ranchers and citizens of the city alike.

The following circulated petition by the Farmers' Union should make the business men sit up and take notice: Whereas, It is a notorious fact that the accommodations for farmers in the way of hitching racks for teams, troughs for watering horses and fountains for drinking purposes, are insufficient in the City of Twin Falls; be it Resolved, That we, the undersigned farmers, demanding return for our patronage that the City of Twin Falls furnish suitable conveniences as above enumerated.

The vandalism shown by the teamsters of this city is enough to make the most calloused citizen disgusted. Cement walks are ruined by the teamster driving over them rather than go perhaps fifty feet to the proper crossings. Citizens who attempt to beautify their lawns are hourly discouraged by the spectacle of some deliveryman or teamster tramping across a newly made lawn, leaving gaping holes where his boots have sunken into the soft turf when a little distance of perhaps five or ten feet is all that is saved the offender. During the coming spring and summer many improvements will be made by the public spirited citizens in parkings along the streets and avenues, and if those citizens have to stand guard to protect such improvements from chuekie heads there is no inducement toward improvements. Even the little children of this city should be taught to safeguard public improvement and not to damage anything that makes the streets look better. But with the example now being set for them by the adult in cutting across lawns or tramping on boulevards there can be no desire for beauty inculcated in the mind of the child.

HOW TO MAKE THE POST-OFFICE SELF-SUPPORTING.

There is a deficit, according to Postmaster-General Hitchcock, of twenty-eight million dollars in the rural delivery service. Under the present rates of postage and the regulations in the rural delivery service there will always be a deficit. If, for example, a merchant desires to send a four-pound package to patrons living on a rural route extending from that merchant's post office, he must pay sixty-four cents. But he would pay sixty-four cents if he were sending the same package to patrons living on a rural route which starts from some post-office at the other end of the country. In the interest both of equitable individual treatment and also of financial return to the government, the matter ought to be more reasonably adjusted. There should be at least a local rate on parcels on rural routes starting from the same postoffice. Hence we are glad to note that the Hon. David J. Foster, of Vermont, has introduced a bill to this end in the house of representatives. As every carrier on a rural route is prepared to transport a hundred and twenty-five pounds of mail, yet, as, in point of fact, he carries an average of not over twenty-five pounds, the carriage of local parcels would not entail any additional expense to the government. The returns would be all net profit. Mr. Foster would establish rates of postage on parcels of third and fourth class matter of one cent for parcels weighing two ounces or less, of two cents on parcels weighing over two ounces and not over four, of three cents on parcels over four ounces, and not exceeding eight, etc. No parcels would exceed eleven pounds in weight. Under such a bill, with our present number of routes, the return would be, so Mr. Foster believes, as much as twelve million dollars a year.

Two interests will doubtless oppose the bill—the express companies and the country stores. The expected opposition of the express companies to this bill can easily be understood; but it should have no weight against the public interest. As for the country stores, which have heretofore opposed the extension of the rural free delivery on account of the advantage that it might give to the big mail order concerns in the city, they will find no such cause for opposition in this bill, for, by its provisions, postage on packages which they send to neighboring consumers would be much less than the postage which those same consumers would pay on packages from more distant stores. The country stores thus would be ultimately brought into really closer contact with the farming community, instead of being detached from it. It would not be surprising if the result of the present interest in our postal service were to show itself in enactment into law, not only of Mr. Foster's measure, but also of one providing for a more general parcels post.—The Outlook.

POSTAL SAVINGS BILL PASSES

Postoffice Measure Goes Through Senate On Party Lines.

Washington, March 5.—Dividing practically upon party lines, the senate at the close of the third session of the legislative day of March 3, today passed the administration postal savings bill.

Of the 72 votes cast, 50 were in favor of the bill and 22 against it. All negative votes were cast by Democrats, even Mr. McEnery, who had voted with the Republicans throughout the consideration of the bill, in the end deserted his own party. Senator Chamberlain of Oregon was the only Democrat standing with the Republicans.

As it goes to the house, the bill authorizes the various money order departments in postoffices to accept sums of $1 or more from depositors and to deposit these sums in the local banks, where the money is to remain, unless withdrawn by the president in case of war or other exigencies.

In case of this withdrawal, the funds are to be invested in government securities, but with the provision that such securities shall not draw less than 2 1/2 per cent interest. The control of the funds is vested in a board of trustees composed of the postmaster general, secretary of the treasury and the attorney general. The aggregate balance allowed to any depositor is $500 and no person is permitted to deposit more than $100 in any one month. The government is required to pay 2 per cent interest and must exact not less than 2 1/2 per cent from the banks, the extra 1/4 of 1 per cent being required for the payment of expenses and losses.

It is calculated that such a law would "bring much money" out of hiding and result in a fund ranging in the way from $50,000,000 to one billion dollars.—Idaho Statesman.

A postal received by the Times from Mrs. Ethel Bunnell, a farmer well-known resident of this city, showed a photograph of a street a short distance from her home. Mrs. Bunnell stated that there was six feet of water in the main street of that city.

The French Coach Horse. This breed originated in France, being the product of a cross between the English thoroughbred and native mares of France that have considerable Oriental blood in their veins. The typical horse of this breed stands 16 hands high or over, weighs 1200 to 1400 pounds, and is in all essentials a coach carriage horse. It is more rangy type than the hackney, an up-standing, graceful, free moving, strong horse.

Exercise for the Horse. It is a mistake to keep either young or old horses stabled several days at a time. They need daily outdoor exercise for development of muscles and bones. If the pasture is too short for them to run in, allow them daily exercise in an open lot.

JARBIDGE MINING NOTES

JARBIDGE MINERS' ORGANIZATION

Government Formed to Protect Life and Property.

CORONER, PEACE OFFICER AND SIX DEPUTIES ELECTED.

Miners Take Law Into Their Own Hands for Self Protection—Jarbridge Will Be a Law-Abiding Camp.

E. Klein, the first prosecuting attorney of Jarbridge, arrived in Twin Falls Friday, and gave an interesting account of the measures taken by the residents of Jarbridge for the protection of life and property in the new camp. Mr. Klein is a New York City attorney and left Friday evening for his eastern home. Mr. Klein had secured a number of permits and properties near Jarbridge, and will return to them sometime in April.

Mr. Klein's statement was as follows: "Previous to Saturday, February 26, the population of Jarbridge was composed of about five hundred men, drawn to the camp by the pursuit of gold, but having no organization whatever, and with the nearest representatives of the law at Elk, eight days of hard travel, 125 miles.

The killing of Bobbie Byrnes at 11 o'clock on Friday night, Feb. 25, brought to the camp a realization of the need of some form of local government. A meeting was called the next morning, at which over one hundred men assembled in Jimmy Cameron's tent, the Hotel Jarbridge. It was chosen to provide an after a discussion of different plans it was decided to elect a permanent peace officer. Billy Ross, an old-time miner of Jarbridge, was elected to fill this office. Jarbridge was divided into six wards or districts and a deputy peace officer chosen from each ward for patrol work in his own district.

"The assembly then proceeded to elect Dan Greenwalt coroner, and to choose a panel of 25 jurors from which 12 were examined and sworn in.

"The trial was set for that afternoon. The trial was set for that afternoon, and as is well known, Miller was exonerated, after a thorough investigation of the case and the examination of fifteen or more witnesses. The meeting of a more intimate organization, the citizens of Jarbridge have organized a society called the Society of Jarbridge. Of which there are nearly sixty members. This society, of which Mr. Klein is president, is a social, political and civic organization, the object of which will be to promote the social and commercial welfare of the new camp.

At the suggestion of Mr. Klein, the assembly of Jarbridge is also contemplating the disarming of every man in the camp and permitting guns to be carried only on prospecting trips.

HAS SOME JARBIDGE ROCK

H. W. Lane Brings Pieces of Gold Bearing Material With Him.

According to people who have been in the Jarbridge country recently there is now a village of 700 people there where last fall there was not a person within many miles. The growth of the place continues at the rate of 40 to 50 a day. The weather of the last few days has taken away considerably of the snow and allowed travel to better advantage.

Twin Falls is booming and the land about that place is being bought in proportion to the Jarbridge excitement. Persons who purchased land there a few months ago for $30 an acre are today disposing of it at $125 an acre.

Ever a place was prospected Jarbridge will be as soon as the snow is off from the ground. Thus far there has been but little study of the geological conditions.

Among those who have just returned from Jarbridge are J. W. Matthews and H. W. Lane. The latter brought back with him some of the samples of the ore. In appearance it is rhyolite. The naked eye is scarcely able to find a trace of gold in it but on roasting many globules of gold make their appearance on the surface.—Desert Evening News.

COLLEGE GROUP MINING CO.

Yuko Office Opened in the First National Bank Building Annex.

At a meeting of local capitalists Saturday of last week, the College Group Gold Mining and Milling Co. was organized, with the following officers: President, P. J. Holohan; vice president, C. W. Dyer; secretary and treasurer, Dennis Holohan; superintendent, Geo. W. Grove; and assistants, O. M. Out, A. D. McKinley and W. S. Hasletts. Officers were chosen in the First National Bank building annex, and the company is now conveniently installed in the room recently vacated by the Bowman and Monroe Shoe Store. The new company will proceed soon with the development of their various and mining properties near the mouth of Pine creek, on the Jarbridge river.

SALT LAKERS INTERESTED.

Jarbridge Believed to Be Very Large Gold Bearing Camp.

J. D. Strong, a well known mining engineer who makes his home in this city, has just returned from a prolonged stay in the Jarbridge country. He has had field experience in this country and Mexico, and says without any hesitation that the strike on the Bourne group is the most remarkable he has seen in all his experience as a mining man. He says that the vein of the last arrivals from that isolated country is 20 feet thick and gives values of $30 and up. Some of the picked samples run up into the thousands of dollars, while the general average of the entire deposit is very high. The extent of this ore is still a matter of conjecture, but at a depth of thirty-five feet it is as strong throughout as that. It is a proposition that will provide a large tonnage for a number of years to come.

Mr. Strong went to Jarbridge in the interest of a number of Salt Lake mining men, and succeeded in getting into the district and making a number of locations before a great many prospectors had been there. He says that there are probably as many as 1200 people in the camp at this time and that they are coming in every day. The snow is about six feet deep and the prospectors can do little or no work at this time. Most of the locations have been made within a short distance from the original discovery and Mr. Strong says that his properties are evidently on the same vein as the Bourne group, as he finds very much the same formation.

It is the general impression that as soon as the winter weather is gone the district will have the biggest rush that has ever been known in a new mining camp. The showing to date fully justifies the belief that there will be some big producers in the camp, but most of the experts do not hesitate to say that as soon as the first high grade deposits are taken out near the surface the district will settle down to a large low grade operation, and mining will be in order on some large estates that will make it one of the largest gold bearing sections in the west. Mining men and prospectors from almost every section of the globe are in the district at this time, Mexico, Alaska, South Africa and every mining district in this country have some representatives in Jarbridge, and more people are coming in all the while.

The full extent of the mineralized territory has not been proved up as yet, but enough is known of the conditions to bring out the assertion that it is about six miles in width. Goldfield is said to have one of the largest representations in the new district, while Utah has a large property holding. A bank is soon to be started in Jarbridge, and a number of buildings will be erected within a short time.—Salt Lake Telegram.

THE FAMOUS PAVLOCK SOLD

Braun-Kinney & Co. Purchase Well-Known Jarbridge Group—Will Open Office in Twin Falls.

Of all the news coming from camp this week none has aroused more interest than the purchase of the well-known Pavlock group by Gilmore Kinney, Jr., and John Braun, both well known in Twin Falls and throughout the country.

Several parties have been after these claims and a considerable fortune, passed in the transaction, a considerable amount being known as the result. Braun and Kinney are acting for themselves and for Pittsburgh and New York parties. Braun has been the partner of a bank in Jerome and formerly resided in Pittsburgh. Kinney was formerly of the firm of Owens & Kinney, engineers on the North Side, and is perhaps better known as one of the best base ball players ever turned out by Yale. They have already made arrangements to open a mining brokerage in the Jarbridge belt, the firm name being Braun-Kinney & Co. There are no better liked young men in southern Idaho and their quick action in securing the purchase of the claims and enterprise that, coupled with the substantial backing which they possess, should make a winner.

The Pavlock consists of four claims and a fraction and is situated above the Bourne and along the Jarbridge river. One of the most favorable features about the property indicates that it can be traced. Some of the most conservative mining men who have examined the property are firm in the belief that it possesses bonanza possibilities. The new owners have with their engineers planned a vigorous work.

Upon his arrival in town Braun left a letter for the Jarbridge people to confer with parties interested with him.

C. M. Lane is in from Jarbridge this week. Mr. Lane brings the report of a nearly continuous blizzard at Jarbridge of fifteen days duration.

Harry C. Beeson arrived this week from Salt Lake City and left Wednesday for Jarbridge, where he will be acting as a broker office. For the present Mr. Beeson will devote his time to an investigation of the camp and to the buying and selling of stocks, mines and claims in the Jarbridge district, where he will conduct mining operations for Boise and Salt Lake people. The news that Mr. Beeson represents have a lease on a block of ground on the Bourne ledge, and in the event that conditions are satisfactory, they will acquire other holdings. Mr. Beeson has been trying out on the zinc ores of the Pioche district a flotation process of concentration which has been very successful.—Salt Lake Herald-Republican.

G. H. Wynn, Jr., well known mining and consulting expert, expects to leave today for Jarbridge district, where he will conduct mining operations for Boise and Salt Lake people. The news that Mr. Wynn represents have a lease on a block of ground on the Bourne ledge, and in the event that conditions are satisfactory, they will acquire other holdings. Mr. Wynn has been trying out on the zinc ores of the Pioche district a flotation process of concentration which has been very successful.—Salt Lake Herald-Republican.

TOWN WELL SUPPLIED.

Jarbridge Mineral Territory Expands As Finds Are Made.

The latest reports from the new gold camp of Jarbridge are to the effect that more mineral territory is being added to that district. The snow is still deep and it is not an easy matter to prospect the country, yet the discovery of the yellow metal have been extended for a distance of several miles beyond the first find made. One of the last arrivals from that isolated country is C. D. Anderson. He gives the following interesting account of his observations after a short stay in the camp:

For the past week there have been a succession of storms in that country, accompanied by high winds, and all the features of blizzards, making life uncomfortable, but as it has not been severely cold, there has been no suffering.

The camps along the trail are fairly well provided with fuel and supplies, giving good accommodations to the traveling public. There are two stage lines from Boise to what is called the rim rock, or hot springs, on the east fork of the Bourne river, and three outfits carrying passengers and baggage from the town. One leaves the railroad in the morning and if lucky is delivered at the springs some time the same day, or night. The trip from the town to Jarbridge by saddle and pack horses, and as the distance is not more than 12 or 15 miles, it can be covered in half a day.

The Jarbridge river, on which the town is at present located, is in a narrow canyon, settled by campers in tents for two or three miles. It has two hotels, some stores, a couple of assayers, three lawyers, a doctor and representatives of all branches of business, including mining promoters. "Owing to the weather there is but little work going on in the prospects, and under a bylaw adopted by the Jarbridge district liberal times is given to prospectors to do their location work."

"I met three mining experts, one from Tennessee, another from Utah and one from Butte, all of whom had been sent in by capitalists to examine and report the conditions of the country. His features regarding minerals and the outlook for permanent mines. Two of these were old acquaintances of mine and were very frank in saying that while there was little development work done to justify a prediction as to the outcome of the district, yet from what it was possible to see, the general formation of the country, geologically, they had no hesitation in saying they believed there would be some greater discoveries than now known. The indications favored permanent mines, the values shown on the surface increasing as depth is gained.

"On this point there is to be an enormous rush of people into that country during the spring and summer. There are from thirty to fifty men going day after day, and these are what you might term advance agents, for almost everyone I talked with said he was looking for the benefit of clients or employers and trying to decide when to advise them to come on. "I did not see a man toting a pistol. There is no saloon in Jarbridge, though there are a couple on the Idaho side of the line, and I thought it was the most quiet place of the kind I had ever seen. There was some commotion over the way the Jarbridge townsite was managed and the day I left the springs it was reported that all the vacant lots in the survey had been snapped up and that the man in charge of the townsite had disappeared. At Twin Falls the report was received of the killing of one man over possession of a town lot, the first murder in the camp.

"I went in by way of Buhl and came back to the railroad at Hollister. The road is fairly good, with frost in the ground, but will be almost impassable for some days when warm weather makes the frost. In ordinary weather the roads will be good and the use of feed and water from either Buhl or Hollister, and for that matter, from any point in southern Idaho. At present it is not feasible to go into that country, in my opinion, for it is a disagreeable trip and there is nothing one can do after he is there. One can not prospect in the snow zone, and there will be a shortage of supplies before the roads are in a condition to ship additional stuff in.

"A wagon road is being built across the east fork of the Bourne, at the hot springs, which will enable one to go to within two miles of any of the prospects in a wagon, and in all probability a town will be established at some point accessible to all sections of the district.

"The mineral territory is being increased by new discoveries, or rather, other discoveries are becoming known which increases the scope of country known to be mineral bearing, and it is impossible to predict how large a country will be included in the Jarbridge camp.—Salt Lake Telegram.

IDAHO'S FIRST CHAUTAUQUA

Boise Planning to Hold Gathering This Coming Summer.

The week of July Fourth will see the establishment of a chautauqua in Boise for the Capital City and the state. Plans have been getting their start in this regard since the organization of a Chautauqua association a few months ago, until now nearly every detail has been worked out to give Idaho this most valuable educational movement. At a recent meeting of the Chautauqua board the capitalization of the association was raised from $10,000 to $25,000 in view of the probability that the association might desire later to build its own auditorium. The members of the board have now been working together for more than two months and perfect harmony and agreement has ruled in every detail of plans, methods and policies. The success of the movement is assured that will give citizens of southeastern Idaho the opportunity to hear some of the most able lecturers and entertainers in the country.

The board has been unusually fortunate in securing talent, which ordinarily must be engaged at least a year in advance of an appearance, so great is the demand for this line of instructive entertainment. The Boise Chautauqua board has been unusually fortunate in this regard the first year. Governor Joseph F. Folk of Missouri has been engaged for one lecture. Colonel Pain, always popular with Chautauqua audiences, for two lectures; Father Henry, famous orator among Catholics, for two lectures; Dr. McGuire, another noted lecturer, for two lectures, and Senator Borah for one address.

Professor Edward Howard Griggs, one of the most talented and popular lecturers on the American platform today, will give a series of from six to 10 lectures during the week. Three members of the faculty of the University of Idaho are to give daily lectures in subjects of general interest. It is hoped to secure Rev. Dr. Wentworth S. Stewart of Detroit, a famous Bible lecturer, orator and preacher, who will be expected to give a course of lectures throughout the week, besides two addresses and a sermon. It is planned to secure the services of Miss Alice Sherby, a lecturer of domestic science in the city schools, for a series of lectures and demonstrations in cooking, and also a teacher to instruct in singing.

Music will be a special feature of Chautauqua week. The Castle Square company will give three full concerts; the Pandoro Staters, a trio from San Francisco, will probably be engaged. The Columbia and High School bands will also furnish music during the week.

One of the companies secured which is perhaps more in demand than any other is the Seattle company which gives a line of lectures, addresses, readings and health studies of the most entertaining and beneficial kind. They have been engaged for four days with three appearances each.

Ross Crane, the famous chalk talk artist, will appear twice. His direct attention will be given to lectures throughout Chautauqua week. Under the direction of the physical directors of the Y. M. C. A. and the Boise

Blackberry Root Cuttings. As we have had scores of inquiries as to the advisability of planting blackberry root cuttings, either to grow plants or commercial plantations, we will try to answer all through The Fruit-grower. We are greatly surprised to find so many otherwise up-to-date nurserymen and fruit growers still selling and planting sucker plants. It has been fully demonstrated that the root cuttings make both the ideal plant and the plantation; in fact, the only plant with a perfect root system, well branched and branched in every direction, full of fibrous roots, buds, vigor and vitality and containing the most potent amount of old wood, and will make a plantation that will have none of the worms and insects that are transplanted with new holes in the roots of sucker plants, whose roots must be largely old wood, therefore more or less diseased. As root cuttings make a plantation with a system of roots absolutely perfect, it will come into bearing sooner, withstand drought much better and produce more, larger and better fruit that will never dry and adhere to the canes, making the so-called "stick alights" that are the results of a poor, one-sided, straggly, shallow root system of the sucker plant.

Twenty years ago we saw some irrigated fruit growers taking up sucker sprouts from apple, plum and cherry orchards. At that time it was not so well known that those trees, having only one or two coarse roots, would soon tumble over and make a most unsightly as well as an unprofitable orchard. They have now "got wise" on the sucker fruit tree, but many are fully ignorant on propagating from the sucker plant.

The writer has been putting up blackberry root cuttings for twenty years and we find new points on this line of work every season. To have the greatest success with cuttings it is important to have them dug, cut and re-cultivated in the proper manner and at the proper season. We have had the best results from growing our plantations on new loose soil from root cuttings and cultivating well until second fall from plowing or till they are two years old, then during the month of October we dig up the entire plantation complete and grade out and use only the medium to large roots, showing most vitality and greatest number of buds, preference being given to the roots near the main stalk or crown of the cane, the cross roots and "T" shaped roots. This requires very careful work, as all small fibrous roots must be discarded, being careful all the while not to expose roots to drying winds, sun or frost, and to keep them just about as moist as when first dug.

The best roots selected as above are cut into three to four-inch pieces, this being the standard length; they are then placed in moist earth or sand in layers one inch deep, using great care to select a location where no water will be likely to freeze. Here to nature puts forth her great effort at reproduction and hends the cut ends with a wax-like substance and early in the spring the ends are completely recalcified and innumerable buds are started all along the cutting, sometimes hundreds on a single piece. One or two buds will be larger than others and start upwards to make the cane or top growth, part of the other buds making the roots and by planting time in spring each cutting is a miniature plant with more life, more vigor, more capabilities and more genuine merit than any ten sucker plants that ever grew.

Function of Nitrate of Soda. Many farmers do not seem to understand that nitrate of soda contains only one element of plant food (nitrogen), and that the most soluble form, says the Rural New Yorker. The nitrogen in dried blood, bone, tankage or similar forms will not feed plants until these substances have decayed, but the nitrate gives up its nitrogen at once. It is not injurious to the soil, but one of the best forms of nitrogen to use on the hay crop in spring. We would advise 150 pounds per acre. It will not usually "burn" over one season.

Blood or bone may continue to decay and give up nitrogen for two or three years, but the nitrate is dissolved at once, and if the soil is not well covered with some living crop there will be a loss. "Top-dressing" means applying manure or fertilizer to the soil without plowing. On old meadows you cannot hope to get good crops unless you feed the grass. You cannot feed it with nitrate of soda alone, because that gives nothing but nitrogen. You must add potash and phosphoric acid to the nitrogen if you expect good crops. Sometimes when nitrate is used alone on a poor soil the plants are driven to an extra growth, so that they take more potash and phosphoric acid than they otherwise would. To that extent the "strength" is taken from the soil. Tenants or market gardeners know that by using nitrate they get fat patrons, but leave the soil poor, because they force it to give up potash and phosphoric acid. A man on his own farm should never use any manure, but should use the three elements of plant food together. Spring is the best time to use nitrate. It is available, at once, and will start the grass in cold, wet weather. To that extent the nitrogen would not make a showing. You can broadcast it over the soil. An ordinary dressing of it will occupy about as much space as a bushel of wheat. Be sure the lumps are crushed before you spread it. Run boots with potash and phosphoric acid. If you use it alone you can mix with three or four times its bulk of dry soil and then broadcast by hand.

to the land by an elaborate system of canals and laterals. The dam is eighty feet high and two thousand feet long. Twin Falls, which was the first town planted in southern Idaho, is situated in the center of a million acres of the finest land in the irrigated zone. When all this land is under cultivation it is thought that it will support millions of people.

In the heart of this large irrigated district, once known as "The Great Idaho Desert," is the city of Twin Falls, which you read of as the "Magic City of the West." In June, 1904, the first load of lumber was unloaded in Twin Falls, and the nearest railroad was thirty miles distant. Today, with a population of six thousand people gathered from every state in the Union, and many fine business blocks, Twin Falls stands as a representation of what can be done and the one expression made by nearly everyone who comes into our town is that they are certainly surprised that such a city and such a country could have been developed in so short a time. Beautiful homes adorn the residence districts; a complete water and sewer system is installed; electric lights are on all the principal corners, and the comforts of electric heat are not unknown. Handsome buildings have been erected wherein all manner of business is carried on, such as banks, stores, shops and offices of all kinds and beautiful church buildings have been built. A large court house has been commenced in the city. It stands on the grounds set aside when the town was platted for public buildings, in the heart of the city. Two handsome school buildings have been erected which cost $20,000, and a new high school building is to be erected which will cost $150,000. The children living within five miles of the city are gathered up and carried to school in large wagons made especially for that purpose and are returned to their homes in the evening. The system of graded schools is complete. The city of Twin Falls, where the students may take a complete high school or commercial course.

The great Shoshone Falls, called "The Niagara of the West," are situated five miles from the city of Twin Falls in the Snake river canyon. They are two hundred and ten feet high and above them are the Twin Falls, after which the city of Twin Falls is named. About four miles from the city of Twin Falls are the Blue Lakes. These are the Snake River canyon and are one of the greatest sights of the west. The Snake river is the seventh in size in the United States, and is one of the longest, eight hundred miles in Idaho and two hundred miles form the boundary between Washington and Oregon.

An electric railway is planned for Twin Falls which will connect the city with Shoshone Falls and Blue Lakes. Twin Falls is situated on a branch of the Oregon Short Line, which runs on the main line at Milledale and extends to the western boundary of the Twin Falls tract. The Wells, Nevada, extension have the Twin Falls to connect our country with the Southern Pacific, which will make a great outlet for the produce of this country into California and the western coast.

The valley west of the Snake river has already been completed as far as the Salmon dam. The Salmon dam is one among the largest in the world and is being built to dam the head waters of the Salmon river to irrigate the great Salmon tract, a large strip of land that lies to the south of the Twin Falls tract. A small tract on the west called the Hagerman Valley is irrigated by what is known as the Thousand Springs, and is one of the greatest fruit raising countries of southern Idaho. For over twenty years fruit has been grown on Rock Creek and within the Twin Falls district. Apples, peaches, pears, plums, grapes and all other small fruits have grown to perfection. Twin Falls leads at all large exhibitions.

The soil of the Twin Falls tract is especially suited for growing potatoes and there is not the slightest doubt that southern Idaho will become the leading potato country of the world. Prices are from fifty cents to one dollar fifty cents per hundred pounds and they yield from three hundred to five hundred bushels to the acre. Alfalfa grows in great abundance and three crops are harvested each year, yielding six tons to the acre. Wheat and barley are good crops. Dairying is carried on extensively and no more profitable business can be found in southern Idaho.

One great commercial advantage to Twin Falls is the opening of a new mining camp just over the state line in Nevada. Twin Falls is the distributing point for supplies for this camp, which are now being packed twelve miles of the distance, while a wagon road is being constructed, but later it will be necessary to extend a branch of the Twin Falls and Well, Nevada, road to this mining camp, which will not only bring the trade from the mines but also the trade that has always before gone to the towns on the Southern Pacific in Nevada.

Kindly return this letter to the Secretary of the Twin Falls Commercial Club, Mr. J. F. Stoltz. For your kindness in returning the letter you will receive a Twin Falls booklet issued by the Commercial Club, and the letter must be returned before February 15, 1910.

I hope you will enjoy reading this, as I have done my best.

Your loving granddaughter,

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Twin Falls People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in this locality.

My trouble was caused by a severe attack of kidney trouble, which kept me in misery. I had but little energy and a long walk completely tired me out. I also suffered from headache and dizzy spells and irregular passages of the kidney secretions caused me much annoyance. Finally, learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and received great benefit from their use. Doan's Kidney Pills have proved to be a reliable kidney remedy and I heartily endorse them.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents of the United States.

WILL DIVIDE ELKO COUNTY.

Nevada Legislator Plans to Make New County for Jarbidge District.

Jarbidge, Nev., March 12.—Snow is going rapidly in the camp and the people are now beginning to open up the veins that traverse the properties. As things are now it will be a matter of but a short time before all the property in the camp that will be worked employing a number of men.

Substantial mining men are gradually getting hold of the best things in the district. The Frenty Bros. sold one claim today, known as the Little Devil. It was taken up on a bond of $20,000.

Prominent New York capitalists have made an effort to secure control of the stock of the Jarbidge-Dunker Hill.

The report of the strike on the Belmont has caused a steady flow of people up the canyon of the Bear creek.

Frank Winters, a member of the Nevada legislature and a brother of Charles Winters, one of the big mining operators of the district, was in camp today. He is making an effort to bring about the formation of a new county to be cut from the northern part of Elko county. The southern boundary is to be midway between the Southern Pacific and the Western Pacific railroads and is to be known as Jarbidge county. Jarbidge City and Tulecarora will be rivals for the securing of the county.

This matter came up while Mr. Winters was in the legislature last winter but at the time but little was thought of it. But as the matter now stands, it is conceded by the most conservative, that Jarbidge will be a city of 8,000 or 10,000 people within a year and he thinks the movement is timely.

JARBIDGE

DEVELOPING

THE PAVLAK

Brunn-Kinney Company Rushing Outfit to Jarbidge.

NOTED CLAIM IN HANDS OF HUSTLING MINING MEN.

Sidney Coburn Leaves Friday With Supplies and Equipment for Rich Claim.

The new owners of the Pavlak in the Jarbidge district are certainly live ones and should reap a rich reward for their enterprise. The men back of the deal, Messrs. Brunn, Kinney and associates, have been in possession of the claims but a short time, and are planning to do the most extensive work that will be done in the famous district.

Sidney Coburn employed by the company will leave tomorrow with a big outfit fully equipped to dig the tunnel. The plans of the company call for a tunnel which will cut the bearing ledge at a depth of 400 feet. Besides the tunnel driven toward the main vein, cross cuts will be made to determine the extent of the ore body. In this the company fully expects to cut some blind ledges.

This company, together with other tenants in the camp, expect to bring new life and activity to the whole section. The Brunn-Kinney company have placed no stock on the market and are not selling any to develop the Pavlak. Every bit of the work done will be done on the money which the owners have put up themselves, a notable example of the faith in the new camp shown by every man who has invested in the district.

CRITICIZES SMITH'S STORY.

Stevens Says Salt Lake Man Looked For Low Grade.

W. A. Stevens, one of the original Jarbidge men, who was in the camp at its organization, and is heavily interested with Dan Greenwald and others, left on a business trip for San Francisco, Tuesday afternoon, going by way of Portland. He expects to return in about two weeks, when he will go to the camp again by way of Twin Falls. When asked concerning the Smith report that $17 rock was as good as he found in Jarbidge, Mr. Stevens smiled and said: "Ben Loose went into the camp intending apparently to get something for nothing. They tried to get property close up to the rich Bourne holdings, and falling in they seem to have determined to knock the camp. Loose is coming out of there in a few days and you will see what will follow in Smith's wake, and attempt to give Jarbidge a black eye. Neither of them secured any property there as far as I could learn. Smith didn't want to make much of a showing, so it was easy enough for him to pick up some rock that wouldn't run better than $17. But I am willing to guarantee, and back up my word, that the rock that showed but $17 was not a fair sampling of the Bourne ledge, and do not believe it came from that vein. I can bring plenty of men who will testify that the ledge runs well into the hundreds of dollars. By the way, I mistake not, upwards of a hundred good mining men have come out of Jarbidge in the past few months, and those are the only ones who have thrown mud at the camp. That speaks for itself."—Desert Evening News.

SETTLE OWNERSHIP IN COURT

Rights to Cored Hotel Site at Rim Rock in Litigation.

Caldwell, March 22.—The case of Laura K. Wilkins vs. C. C. Logan is being tried today in the district court. This is an ejectment suit brought from Owyhee county, where it was first filed in the probate court, but on account of the high waters and bad roads the case was stipulated to the district court in Caldwell and had it not been for the discovery of Jarbidge the suit would never have been brought.

Mrs. Wilkins claims to hold a possessory right to a piece of land located in the canyon leading into Jarbidge camp. The defendant, Logan, located on the land as a squatter, claiming that the plaintiff never has shown good faith for her possessory claim. This suit is for the purpose of ejecting the defendant from the land. The plaintiff claims that under the present conditions the land is producing her $500 per month. As it is the terminal of the road, all freight and passengers have to be distributed at this point.

C. C. Logan, the defendant, was formerly a resident of Nampa and is now operator of a large boarding house on the land in litigation. He says that the travel is increasing, and that there are many people in the camp.—Idaho Statesman.

REAL WORK AT JARBIDGE.

Many Properties Now Being Developed—Several Sales Made.

Real life at Jarbidge has at last commenced. For months prospectors from all over the country have been hanging around the watermelon before cutting it. Now the cutting operation has started and the various properties are puncturing the skin to see whether they secured something rich and rare or a green melon of the lemon order.

Three shifts each are being worked on the Bourne property, the Erection and the Winters group. The Belmont company is working a strong force and is showing good values, as is the Jarbidge Bunker Hill. Manager Dan Greenwald of the Bunker Hill is developing in on a large vein of ore of fair grade, with a four-inch streak of high grade which he expects within a short distance to open into a big body of rich ore.

C. E. Smith has just sold his Climax group of six claims for $13,000; the smaller group of three claims has been sold for $5,000, and the Fanny group of six claims has been taken over for $6,000. Fred N. Wardell of Nevada has just purchased the Belmont.

Deputy Sheriff Harben of Elko county has arrived to take charge of the peace affairs of the camp.—Desert Evening News.

Jarbidge's Good Boon.

Tom McDonald of Jarbidge, under date of February 13, writes to a friend in Tonopah as follows:

"I am in a good boom at last. It may sound like hot air but we are going to have a wireless telegraph station here in less than thirty days. There are about 400 people in camp, quite a few from Goldfield. I got some good ground. It is just 2,000 feet from the vein which is bonded for $250,000 and two claims in between are sold for $50,000. We are on the Humboldt forest reserve. The townsite company cannot sell any lots. They case them. I got a lot a month ago for $100 and was offered $500 for it yesterday. I got another a week ago for $100 and offered $400 for it. The wagon road will be completed into camp in about six weeks, which will help some. If the auto's could come in now everything would be lively. If the high water don't wash the town away in the spring, I look for this to be a bigger boom than either Rawhide or Manhattan were at their best. They certainly have some fine surface showings here. There are no saloons here yet but we are trying to get this mining district cut out of the forest reserve. If we succeed we will have the best camp in Nevada this coming summer. You have to get a permit from the forest ranger to cut firewood."—Tonopah Sun.

RAPID WORK ON

JARBIDGE ROAD

Difficulties of First Attempts Overcome.

ROAD ASIDE FROM REACING THE BRIDGES NEARLY COMPLETED.

C. M. Hill Returns from Mining Camp with Encouraging Report on Twin Falls Route.

C. M. Hill, president of the Twin Falls Mining Exchange, returned home the first of the week from a brief visit to Jarbidge. While absent Mr. Hill looked carefully into the Jarbidge Hill-top townsite lots and after talking the matter over with miners well versed in mining law, is confident that the mining leases under which the lots are sold are good and that the company can give title when the patent is obtained.

Mr. Hill took occasion to look over the road building from this city into the camp and stated that in a few weeks the road would be so wagons could get into the gold regions. He met a number of outfits going in and stated that about eight hundred men were in the camp at present.

FROM JARBIDGE.

L. L. Shepherd Brings Good Reports From the Gold Camp.

L. L. Shepherd returned Tuesday from Jarbidge and left Wednesday evening for his home in Salt Lake City. Mr. Shepherd stated that the weather in the camp was fine now, and that two bridges on the road to the camp were nearing completion and a few more days' work would permit wagons to reach a point within three miles of the camp.

Coming out Mr. Shepherd met 75 people and 11 freight outfits going into the camp.

Speaking of the increased facilities for travel occasioned by the good weather, Mr. Shepherd said: "W. B. Switgood of Piler, holds, I believe, the high record for speed in making the trip to the camp. Mr. Switgood was gone from his house at Piler 24 hours, 24 of which were spent in the camp, leaving just 60 hours in which he made the round trip."

C. H. LAMB TO JARBIDGE.

Will Look After Properties of the Jarbidge Bourne Extension Co.

C. H. Lamb left today to commence prospecting on the properties of the Jarbidge Bourne Extension Mining Co., one of the strongest companies operating in the district. Mr. Lamb's work will be preliminary to the active development work on the company's property, which includes by lease and actual ownership the finest prospects in the camp.

Mr. Lamb will be accompanied by a wireless telegraph operator who will proceed with the installation of the Jarbidge station of the Twin Falls Jarbidge wireless telegraph. It is hoped that the system may be in operation within a month.

Louis Lefkowitz, a New York mining engineer associated with Judge Emmanuel Klein, came in from Jarbidge today. He and associates secured some of the most valuable property in the camp, and are unostentatious in their good words for the future of Jarbidge. Mr. Lefkowitz was on the ground when Goldfield boasted but six people, and has been in all the now famous western mining sections. Yet his opinion is that the Jarbidge prospects of becoming great are as good as any of them at the present stage of development. This opinion is shared by Judge Klein who will leave for New York, Mar 17.—Desert Evening News.

Speaker Cannon is now trying to get the endorsement of President Taft in order that he may go back to constituents and make a strong fight for reelection as Congressman and if he gets his desire, will be in better position to enter the fight for speakership. President Taft, by endorsement of Cannon, can do much to help Uncle Joe, but for every effort put forth will sacrifice his own popularity, which will not stand too much of a strain. Cannonism will be an issue in the western half of the United States and even Taft could not stem the tide of disapproval which is rolling up against the things that the speaker represents. Anticorony is not just the form of government the voters in this day and age are looking forward to, and for this reason Cannon is getting the curses for a system which was inaugurated long before his speakership by the vested interests.

THE SAME OLD ICH.

During the past few weeks, Captain Jim and the rest of the gang, have been busy as bees in the clover field, and the result is that the gang have by divine right fixed up the slate of the Republican county officers. The ick for office is much worse than any gang-year variety ever discovered, and it is a matter of grief to every loyal citizen that the gang has the disease so bad. The first indication of the disease is shown by a few of the gang beginning to rub noses when heretofore they have not been on speaking terms. The next serious indication is when the Captain tip-toes around and pats some inoffensive citizen on the back and tells him he would make a good constable (never any-thing higher) and in the next breath asks him if he don't think some man-ger of the gang already on the slate wouldn't make a fine sheriff. The disease also has the tendency to make those afflicted, think they are the only citizens competent to hold any office outside of that of constable or pound-master, and that offices go by rotation to those of the elect. The ick has broken out this year in a most virulent form and it is up to the voters to administer a good sound defeat to the gang as a permanent cure. The county does not need their services a tenth part as much as the aforesaid gang seems to need the place at the public crib.

The water commission are between two fires in the adjustment of the water rates for this city. The company claims that it is not making anything but a small profit as it is now, and that if the rates are lowered it will lose money. It bases its estimates upon erroneous figures, however, in placing the value of the system too high. The company says it has spent $25,000 on the system and should draw interest on the same. But every citizen of this city knows that the actual working plant does not represent any such figure, and that $60,000 is nearer the figure of actual cost of reproducing the present plant. No one will dispute the statement of the company about its expenditures of perhaps ninety thousand dollars, but it is a well known fact that money was thrown away in the early days of the company's labors by putting in pipes which would not supply the demand for one year's growth, to say nothing of a permanent system. The company's lack of foresight and business knowledge should not be taken into consideration in fixing the rates. Taking the actual value of the company's holdings into consideration at $30,000 and their net profit of $14,000 on the investment during the past year instead of a reasonable profit of fifteen per cent the water company is taking over 23 per cent, which is unreasonable. The company again asks the commission to consider, in fixing the price of water, the possibility of the company having to get water from some other source than its present one with an outlay of $100,000. This demand for consideration while from the business standpoint seems perhaps reasonable, but viewed from the standpoint of service rendered is very unjust and the latter view should govern. If the company had in the past delivered water in accordance with the charge, it would be in better position to ask the people to help pay for improvements now, but such was not the case at any time of the company's relations to its consumers. If the water was off for days, or would not run from the second story taps, no attempt was made to give any rebate to the consumers and if they kicked they were informed that they must pay or have the water shut off. Fairness begets fairness and the company have much to do to convince consumers that it has been fair in the past or that it should now in its turn receive any consideration. If any other business house has to increase its equipment in order to give required service it does not make the consumers stand the additional expense but tries to get new business to increase the income. The water company should do the same and with the fast growing population of this city should be able by fairness add to its list of patrons with a small amount of increase in the cost of delivery. Neither should it attempt to make one generation pay entirely for improvements which will last through four or five.

WHAT'S AT STAKE IN ALASKA.

"Fortunately the bargain is not yet consummated," exclaims the New York Times (Ind. Dem.), commenting on the facts voluntarily laid before the Senate Committee on Territories by Manager Stephen Birch, of the Morgan-Guggenheim Alaskan Syndicate. The bargain referred to is one which will give to that syndicate, if the famous "Cunningham group" of Bering River coal claims are patented, a half-ownership in 2,560 acres of coal lands, which promise a net profit of $25,000,000. In return for which their present owner, the United States government, will receive only $25,000—the $10 an acre which the present law allows. To the patentees the syndicate agrees to pay the sum of $250,000. From such a bargain, says The Times, the Alaskan Syndicate would reap "an absolute profit of nearly 100,000 per cent." Yet Mr. Birch's testimony was submitted, at the special request of J. P. Morgan & Company, in answer to "exaggerated reports in the magazines and newspapers" of the work of the syndicate. The first response to the syndicate's unexpected burst of frankness seems to be curiosity as to the motive behind it. Mr. Ballinger in particular, according to a Washington dispatch to the New York Evening Post (nd.), is puzzled to know why Mr. Morgan should come forward at this juncture in support of one of his clients, namely, that the Cunningham claims would eventually fall into the possession of the Guggenheim syndicate.

The facts voluntarily set forth by Mr. Birch are summarized in a Washington dispatch to the New York Tribune (Rep.) where we read: "Mr. Birch testified that all the money spent in the enormous development of Alaskan resources had been furnished by the syndicate itself; that the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate had not issued to the public a single bond or a share of stock; that the syndicate had never received anything from the government in money, grants of land, or special rights.

"The syndicate owned one railroad and one copper mine in Alaska and had no interest in any other. It owned no coal lands. Testimony was given regarding negotiations for the Cunningham claims, but it was said that these hit upon patents being issued for the claims, and that the negotiations had come to nothing. "The syndicate was formed in 1905 by the purchase of 46 per cent of the stock of the Northwestern Commercial Company, which owned the Northwestern Steamship Company and the Northwestern Fisheries Company. The latter company packs 300,000 cases of salmon annually, as compared with a pack of 2,000,000 cases by other interests. Last year the Alaska Steamship Company was formed by reorganizing the companies in which the syndicate had bought large interests, and it now operates twelve steamers, or rather eleven, as its reports today indicate that one has been lost. A long list of steamship companies in which the Alaskan syndicate has no interest was given in support of its claim that it was not a monopoly.

"Both Messrs. Steels and Birch insisted that there was no truth in reports that the syndicate had or was seeking a monopoly of railroads, steamship lines, fisheries, copper mines, and coal lands in Alaska. They denied with great emphasis that they were trying to gobble up Alaska.

"Asked by Senator Beveridge concerning the syndicate's interest in the coal-land claims, Mr. Birch replied that the Messrs. Guggenheim had agreed to form a $5,000,000 corporation to develop the lands, one-half interest to be held by the Guggenheims and the other half by Cunningham and his associates. The Guggenheims were to pay $250,000 for their half, he said, and in addition were to loan $100,000 if it was needed."

Continuing his testimony the next day Mr. Birch estimated the tonnage in the Cunningham claims at 60,000,000, which he said could probably be mined so as to net a profit of $25,000,000. He placed the probable output of the whole Bering River coal district, in which the Cunningham claims are situated, at 500,000,000 tons, with a net value of $250,000,000 and a gross value of $600,000,000. He stated that the capital of the Alaskan Syndicate is $10,000,000, owned half by Morgan and half by the Guggenheims. And he denied

Following the play of "Mable Heath" Saturday, the company's orchestra gave a dance to which a large crowd attended. Many people were in attendance from Piler and Twin Falls. Perhaps this is due to the fact that Mr. Curtiss was unable to locate a building in Twin Falls large enough for the class of plays which his company produces.

SEEK TO ENJOIN PROJECT.

Sequel to Suit by Reclamation Service Against Minidoka & Southwestern.

With a object of determining more definitely the right of a railway company in crossing the public domain when withdrawn for reclamation purposes, the United States reclamation and the Utah Construction company have instituted a suit in the Twin Falls county district court against Chief Engineer of the Minidoka project, and the reclamation service in Idaho, a temporary restraining order being taken by Judge E. A. Wiers preventing the right-of-way from crossing the canals of the Minidoka project across the right-of-way as purchased from settlers by the railroad.

The suit is a sequel to the proceedings instituted by District Attorney Lingenfelter several weeks ago in the federal court at Pocatello, in which the company to the same conditions as exacted of a railroad company when crossing a forest reserve. Judge Dietrich, in this application for injunction. While the court declined to absolutely prohibit the defendant company from extending its railroad across the canals of the Minidoka project, it held that all such crossings must be made in such a manner as not to infringe upon the government's right or in any way damage construction work completed by the reclamation service.

The question presented by the suit filed at Twin Falls is to determine whether a right-of-way obtained by a railroad company from settlers takes precedence and is superior to the government's right-of-way for canals over land which has not gone to patent.

Attorney P. L. Williams of Salt Lake and D. H. Peckham of Pocatello, attorneys for the Oregon Short Line, of which the Minidoka & Southwestern is a subsidiary company, argued the case for Boise, where they will visit at the home of their daughter, Mrs. R. H. Cost.

The Story of The Resurrection

IN the end of the sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, came Mary Magdalene and the other Mary to see the sepulchre.

And, behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.

His countenance was like lightning, and his raiment white as snow.

And for fear of him the keepers did shake and became as dead men.

And the angel answered and said unto the women, fear not ye: for I know that ye seek Jesus, which was crucified.

He is not here: for he is risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

And go quickly, and tell his disciples that he is risen from the dead; and, behold, he goeth before you into Galilee: there shall ye see him: lo, I have told you.

And they departed quickly from the sepulchre with fear and great joy; and did run to bring his disciples word.

And as they went to tell his disciples, behold, Jesus met them, saying, All hail. And they came and held him by the feet and worshipped him.

Then said Jesus unto them, Be not afraid: go tell my brethren that they go into Galilee, and there shall they see me.

FIRST COLORED EGGS.

How and Where This Charming Custom Originated.

During the crusades a lady living in a castle along the line of march discovered some chickens from a man returning from the east.

The men of her family were crusaders, and their absence was taken advantage of by some lawless neighbors, who commanded her to abandon her home and seek refuge in the Black Forest.

Some Foreign Easter Customs.
On Easter Russian children receive presents as our children do on Christmas.

In Ireland children play a game called "bunching eggs." This is played with a pen filled with sand or sawdust, which is set on a table, around which the children stand, each supplied with eggs.

MILLIGENT'S LILY

Oh, how beautiful they were, those Easter lilies! The store window was full of them, and not the window only, but the counter, the shelves that stood up to the walls and the floor, so that you were afraid to walk over your skirts should brush against the radiant, perfumed whiteness.

"Is your name Milligent?" dorelyke looked at Milligent O'Flaherty. The first saw a child of wealth and fortune, slim, graceful, beautiful, clad in white serge, with a glint of silver at her wrist, a wave of plumage, snowy, curling around her hat—saw a face, fair as the lilies so near it, lighted by deep, sweet blue eyes.

"Oh, mamma, dear! She's a Milligent too! And she wants a lily too!" But it was more than a lily that Milligent O'Flaherty climbed into a cage with. It was more even than the little pocketbook, with its green two-dollar bill and shining bits of silver, for a new joy, a joy to be defied by no words that she could say then, though later she may call it a sense of the "histerhood of women," filled her childish heart.

"The baby was better and asleep when she reached her home. The boards were newly scrubbed, a 'sunch-

WHY BUNNIES BRING THE EASTER EGGS

There was once a naughty bunny who was always being funny. And kept the land about him in a constant state of awe.

When a burly bunny "copper" Said he'd quickly put a stopper. So each dire depreddation as were never heard before.

Now, this seduced an awful clatter, All their bits began to chatter. And said to steal each pretty egg a great and mighty one.

AN EASTER DREAM BY LOUISE COOPER

When little Anna went to sleep From the eye of Easter day She dreamed the land of eggs a heap And fishy, bristly imbes at play. Pimpus Dumpty, with a bow, Blood smitten on the countenance, Had Duchy Daddies waiting here— Was at the foot just to explain. Chere baby duck in nosey play. This all happened in an enchanted time when eggs had long, slender arms and legs outside of their shells and when the quaint little silver bucket became alive as soon as ever the creamy nox entered it. So it was quite to be expected that while the surgeon made love to the princess sly Mr. Egg should make eyes at Miss Nog in the bucket.
