BIG MEETING FOR JARBIDGE

No Action Taken As to Funds to be Raised.

OLD MINING EXCHANGE FUND BROUGHT INTO DISCUSSION.

Jarbridge Men Give Ideas As To Retention of Trade-Belleere That It Can Be Held.

At the public meeting held in the Commercial club room Tuesday evening for the purpose of discussing the trade relations of Twin Falls and the Jarbridge district, there was no action taken as to the raising of funds which will be necessary if the road is repaired or a new one built in certain places. A motion was passed, however, that a committee of three be appointed by the chairman to take a preliminary survey of the situation and report at the earliest time possible. It was understood that an attempt would be made to recommend any changes in the road that are regarded as feasible and will estimate the expense. Another committee of three was appointed by the county commissioners in regard to an appropriation for the road as far as the Idaho line.

The meeting brought out a number of suggestions from local men as well as the Jarbridge representatives present. It was thought advisable by some that there should be another road built in certain places so as to avoid the sink holes and bad grades. Others felt that the old road could be repaired so that it would be a good road. Nearly all who have gone over the road lately were of the opinion that there should be a better route made if an attempt were made to avoid some of the ranches, and choose the more direct route to the objective point regardless of the ranchers, who are practical owners of the land along the road by their place. A number of Jarbridge men were of the opinion that the distance could be shortened if a new route were made through the sink hole places. All admitted that some change must be made.

When it came to the matter of funds for this work an estimate was asked for there was a difference of opinion, estimates running all the way from $200,000 to $800,000, all depending on the amount of work deemed necessary. At this point it was brought out that there was an organization known as the mining exchange which had last year advanced to fix the road and had gathered a sum of money from the business men for that purpose and it was also brought out that there was a shortage in that fund now of about $1000.00. Some ventured the opinion that if any money were raised this time that a part of it should be given over to paying the debts of the old company. A number objected to this, saying that there should be an attempt made by this company to pay their own indebtedness as there would be no connection between the old and the new organizations. Some insisted that the money for the new road should not be handled in a business-like way and so the business men who want to build the road now should not be concerned with the debts of the old company. The opinion that the sum of $2500.00, the estimated amount, could be spent from that point on.

JARBIDGE A MINING CENTER

Gold District The Focus of Nevada Mining Activities.

JARBIDGE IS NOW A PERMANENT CAMP OF IMPORTANCE.

Mike Pavlak, One of the Early Discoverers of the District, Describes Development Being Carried On.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pavlak came in from Jarbridge Tuesday morning to spend a few days looking after some business matters which required their presence here. Mr. Pavlak, as will be remembered, was among the first to enter the Jarbridge district, where he located the Pavlak claims, and several other important properties. He has been mining in Nevada for twenty years, and was on the site of Jarbridge some ten years ago as most of his time was spent in the northern part of the state. From the recent discovery of the Jarbridge mines, Mr. Pavlak has been intimately connected with the growth and development of his camp, and is therefore qualified to speak with authority on all matters connected with the district.

In an interview Wednesday morning, Mr. Pavlak stated that there has never been as much actual development work carried on in Jarbridge as at the present time, and that the camp was rapidly becoming of considerable commercial importance. "There are now nearly nine hundred men throughout the whole district, and much building is going on. The Commercial Club is erecting a hall, and many stores and residences are being constructed from the native timber. The Jarbridge-Pavlak Co. and other companies desiring to install mills in the district, are hindered by the poor roads which render the transportation of heavy machinery impossible. At the present time the Twin Falls road is the only road to the camp, but the STORE IS NOT SURPASSED.

W. R. Friebe's Store, Opened Today, Compares With Metropolitan Stores.

W. R. Friebe may well be proud of the new store he has just opened, but without a doubt it will rank with any store in the state and in fact with any in the west. Cites the size of Spokane and Seattle have nothing better is the verdict of traveling men.

The quarters that he occupies were designed with his needs in view. The quarters are simply lighted, a thing which is very essential to the proper display of a jewelry line. The fixtures are of genuine mahogany throughout, while all glass is plate. The electric light arrangement is also all that could be desired.

All in all, the store is a credit not only to the building proprietor, but to Twin Falls, as well. The store represents a big investment and as now completed, will not be outgrown by any other store in the city. The opening today will undoubtedly draw a large throng to the city's growth and is now prepared for its opening today will undoubtedly draw a large throng to see the store, now it is complete.

CUMMINS SEES DANGER AHEAD

Iowa Senator Pleads With Dissatisfied Republicans.

ADmits PARTY PLEDGES WERE NOT CARRIED OUT.

Declares That Election of Democratic Congress Would Be a Greater Disaster.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—The speechmaking which the Republican congressional campaign began here tonight when Senator Cummins of Iowa, speaking under the auspices of the Twentieth Century club, addressed a meeting in Orchestra hall. The announced intention of the Iowa senator was to gain Republican votes and to sound the keynote of his speech which was what he termed the fallacy of voting for Democrats when the only hope of obtaining desired reforms was to elect Republican congressmen.

"For the man who in his heart wants to preserve fair and reasonable protection for the American wage earner and the American producer and who, therefore, wants duties so adjusted that they will measure the difference between the cost of production and the price received by the consumer, who if he be honest, will rob this country of its surest safeguard," said Senator Cummins. "The protest against the tariff is not a protest against the tariff; but we must not, in the passion of disappointment, strike a just principle because we may not be satisfied with the present application.

The senator said he had no intention of presenting bouquets to those of his party, however upright, who had disregarded their principles and misapplied party doctrines. "If there is no more basis for party union in the coming campaign than in the present one, then the party has been, no material difference between us, the effort to get together will be a dismal failure," he continued. "We all know that it is a colossal blunder even to attempt to conceal it, that if every Republican who feels that we did not revise the tariff in accordance with our party platform, there will be a Democratic house of representatives. If every Republican who feels that the present proposals made by Republican leaders in the last congress for the regulation of common carriers were reactionary and in accordance with his vote for Democratic candidates, then Republican victory is impossible.

Taking up the regulation of the railroad, he said that he was not prepared to take the position of an informed unprejudiced man that there can be no regulation of railroads, their rates and their practices unless we can for the future see it that there will be no capitalization either by way of bonds or of stock, that does not truthfully represent the money actually used by the common carriers in the betterment or enlargement of their properties.

WILL HAVE MOVABLE SCHOOLS.

"It" of Idaho Will Bring Institute To Farmers.

An announcement of vital interest to farmers, fruit growers, dairy and cattlemen was made Saturday by Professor F. D. Fallon, director of the southern Idaho agricultural extension, to the effect that the agricultural college of the University of Idaho is going to conduct four movable schools of agriculture simultaneously at Wells, Moridan, Wendell and Idaho Falls.

The main difference between the movable school of agriculture and the old institute plan is that under the institute method the speakers visited a number of districts and lectured on various phases of agriculture without any particular regard to classifying their subjects.

Each school will extend over a period of two weeks, beginning December 3 and ending December 17. The students will be given the opportunity to register as members of the school, each one paying a nominal fee of only $2 for the entire course of instruction.

THERE WAS NO CAR SHORTAGE

Agent Sullivan Claims Shortline Is Prepared.

MORE CARS THAN DEMAND CALLED FOR EVERY DAY.

Increased at Charges Made Through the Newspapers of Twin Falls Against Branch Service.

Agent D. E. Sullivan of the Oregon Road Line, is out after scolds owing to what he claims are false reports circulated in the Twin Falls newspapers about the car shortage. Mr. Sullivan is very emphatic in stating that there has been no shortage of cars in the past month has anyone been turned down when applying for cars. He went further and stated that every day more cars have been on the sidings here than have been used by the ranchers and local shippers. Mr. Sullivan invited inspection of the records to support his statement. His statement follows:

Twin Falls, Idaho, Oct. 25th, 1910. Dear Sir: It has been rumored that cars cannot be had to load the hay and potatoes being offered for shipment. I wish you would please advise the shippers through your newspaper that we have not been short of cars at any time this season, and are prepared to furnish cars, on very short notice, as we have done heretofore. We have not been short of cars for this season, as cars have been furnished any one, wishing to ship, regardless of the amount he has for shipment. No one has shown me a list with ten cars, against the man with only one, and we will fill orders promptly.

Yours truly, D. E. SULLIVAN.

UNANIMOUS ENDORSEMENT GIVEN THIS CITY BY DISTRICT FEDERATION.

Twin Falls will entertain the ladies of the District Federation of Women's clubs in October, 1911, as the result of the action taken by that organization at the meeting in Pocatello last week. This city received the unanimous vote of the delegates. The cities represented in this district include Idaho Falls, Blackfoot, Albion, Burley, Donnelly, St. Anthony, Rupert and Twin Falls. Several of these towns are represented by more than one club. There will be about one hundred delegates in attendance next year.

During the course of the convention there were several matters that attracted public attention to the discussion. Most of these related to the questions of woman suffrage and to schools. The Democratic candidate for Governor, Alvin Hovey, made a score for his stand taken several years ago when he worked for certain legislation that was intended to take away the property rights clause that was made a law through the efforts of the clubs of the state. Another disputed question was in regard to the new property rights legislation asking for certain desired resolutions which hinges on the property and suffrage rights of women.

WATER WAGON PLANK IN DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM A JOKE.

Jim Hawley Holds Star Chamber Session in Pocatello With Big Brewer.

James H. Brady and James H. Hawley, opponents for election as governor of Idaho, spent the greater part of Sunday here. Both candidates were in consultation with their friends during the day, a number of partisan leaders from other counties being congregated here for the purpose of meeting with their candidates and laying plans for the remainder of the campaign. Prominent among those who were closeted with Mr. Hawley today was Robert J. Hayes, proprietor of a local brewery and former Republican county chairman of this county and a leading figure at one time in Republican state politics. His presence in Democratic councils is accounted for by the fact that in this county, as well as in the entire southeast, the contest has settled down to a straight fight between "dry" and "wet" views.

In this county a large number of Republicans who are not particularly in sympathy with radical temperance legislation will stand firm for Brady on the ground that he is entitled to election on his record, but it is estimated that many Democrats will refuse to do so. "Wet" Republicans who have pronounced "wet" views. Whether or not the number or "dry" Democrats will offset the number of "wet" Republicans who support Hawley is a question, the answer to which will only be told by election day figures—Pocatello Tribune.

HAVE STARTED BRICKLAYING

Work On High School Starting Forward—Foundation Now Complete.

Yesterday morning a force of bricklayers numbering five or fifteen, started the work of building the walls of the new high school building. It is predicted by those in charge that the structure will be completed by the middle or last of December, provided there is an ordinary run of work.

During the past week several cars of material have arrived. One car of stone is already on the ground and another is expected this week. In all there will be five carloads of stone. The stone comes from Boise and there should be no trouble in having sufficient stone on hand. Large steel girders are also on the ground and appear to be capable to bear the heavy strain that will be placed upon them. Each of the three girders weighs four and a half feet long and four and a half feet high. The brick is on the ground, there being a sufficient supply to keep a large force busy for several weeks. The lava cone that caused so much blasting when the excavation was started is all out and a contract has been let for its removal. It will be crushed and used on the streets. The next thirty days will materially change the looks of the grounds as actual work will begin to appear in the building field.

FATAL TRAGEDY IN JARBIDGE

Four Shots Are Fired of Which Two Find Mark.

QUARREL OVER JUMPING OF CLAW LEADS TO CHIME.

Statement Concerning Murderer Said To Have Been Given By Married Man In His Dying Moments.

A second shooting affray which resulted fatally, took place at Jarbridge late last Saturday morning. The fatal shot was fired by L. R. Pope, and his victim was Edgar Jasper, a fellow miner commonly known about camp as "Frenche". Four shots were fired, only two of which found their mark. There were no eye witnesses to the deed save the murderer. After the shooting he came in and gave himself up and was taken Sunday morning to Elko, Nevada, where he will await trial.

The exact facts are not known, nor are the details of the shooting available. It is known, however, that the immediate cause of the jumping was over a claim that Pope had dug. Pope, Frenche tried to jump it as it showed evidences of having a strike on and gave as an excuse for jumping this claim that Pope had not dug the work that is required by law.

There have been some good finds made in the district that Pope had marked out and every opportunity where there was a possibility of finding so, claims have been jumped. Frenche jumped some of the claims of Pope and was doing worse on them. Pope heard of this and Saturday morning borrowed a gun in camp and started for the place where Frenche was at. He started out with two men who did not go all the way with him, but were within arms length of the scene of the shooting.

When the two came together, Pope realized the other man was attempting to get his claim, words followed, after which Frenche and his men made a rush at him with some miners tools that he had in his possession. In order to avoid being killed, he pulled his gun and shot at himself, firing four shots in all. One of the shots took effect, striking Frenche in the chest and back. The other entered the murderer's side below the heart. As soon as the shooting was over Pope tried to run, but was held by the other men. As soon as the other men were nearby heard the shots they rushed to the spot where one of them, Jim Mickey, lay dead and took him to town. He offered himself to the deputy sheriff and was placed under arrest. Frenche was brought into camp and held until Sunday evening. He was conscious up till the time of his death.

The shooting was in the Crater district, in the district of Jarbridge. The only eye witness was Pope, and he pleads self defense. He seems to be borne out in this statement by the fact that Frenche had been shot by Frenche shortly before he died who he took the blame for the shooting. This statement conflicts with another given by the doctor who examined the body and declared that he would get Pope yet, and that Pope was guilty of provoking the attack. There is some feeling in the district over the shooting and the men have a following. Measures have been adopted, however, to stall off any further trouble.

The gas franchise has drawn up by the council certainly leaves little to be desired on the part of the city if the gas company will accept a rather strong protection to the city's rights.

The failure of Wellman to cross the Atlantic in his dirigible balloon, resulting in heavy financial loss, will probably have no effect on his next foolhardy attempt to gain a little notoriety.

Joe Cannon must be pretty busy trying to get a seat in the house safe between now and November 8th. A month has actually passed without his breaking into print while cursing the insurgents.

The waterworks agitation seems to have been drowned in an unexpected deluge of sympathy for the old company. There seems need of a gentle reminder being given that the people expect a promise to be made good now that the paving question is out of the way. Some lively work toward getting action would be the proper caper right now to show evidence of good faith.

With commendable speed the Commercial club is making an effort to keep up the trade relations with the great mining camp which has so far thrown its business to this city. The mass meeting called for Tuesday evening was called to get some united action on the part of the business men. As the construction work has fallen off to some extent it is necessary to bind every bit of business to this city in order to augment local industry.

From the enthusiasm created by Governor Brady in his recent tour of this county, Democratic contentions of a sweeping victory are far from being realized. There is no doubt that a change has taken place in the county in the last thirty days or even less that augurs well for Republican success in state and county issues. Although there is some dissatisfaction against some of the county officers due to local conditions, there is not enough to offset the big normal G. O. P. majority.

Salt Lake City is occupying the unenviable position of many another city in being torn by two factions with the reputation of the city is lost. Salt Lake City has had a remarkable growth and the senseless voting of her dissonance to the world is just in keeping with the policy which has kept settlers out of many growing towns in this state. Twin Falls is to be congratulated upon the united front which its citizens put up when anything concerning the welfare of the city is at stake. The result is that every stranger coming into Twin Falls imbibes an atmosphere of push and hustle and when leaving thinks Twin Falls is the best ever.

The campaign which is drawing to a close from the standpoint of platform speeches is merging rapidly into a clear cut line-up between the Drys and the Wets, a condition which is liable to entail much bitterness in the closing hours and bear lasting fruit in the years to come. It is to be regretted that both party leaders in the state have not come out squarely for the evidently popular measure, but Hawley with his sympathies all one way cannot keep his allegiance to the brewers hid and the division with its malice and hatred seems unavoidable. The county is to a large extent free from it, only two candidates being worked against because of their known preference, one is a Democrat and the other a Republican, and the stories circulated about both are absolutely false. But like every question concerning the saloon and its concurrent evils, prejudice and not reason prevails, not on one side, but on both. Justice is never considered.

The Warren Construction company, from indications, are intending to repeat their performance of their last paving job in this city and expect to put Greeks and Dagos on the work. If such is their intention, in direct violation of the state alien labor law, a vigorous protest should go up from merchants and laborers alike. At present a large number of actual residents are out of employment and should be given first consideration by the Warren people on this work. In making such protest only justice should be done the company and no hardship placed upon them in delaying active paving work, but if road laborers can be secured they should be given the first right. Owing to the law now in force the Warren Construction company have no other course of action if the laborers desire to take the matter into the court. The laborers of this city need the money more than do the Greeks, and should be given their rights.

There is a pretty strong evidence that an attempt is being made to discredit W. G. Thompson, Democratic candidate for sheriff, in the minds of the law abiding people of the city and to also increase the animosity against him among the wets by other adverse reports. The Times does not hesitate to brand all such charges as false in every particular. To the temperance people, The Times will guarantee that Mr. Thompson will absolutely do his duty. He is not a crank on the subject, but can be counted upon to do his duty as he sees it without fear or favor. Although hampered by total lack of support by the Law and Order League, Mr. Thompson has tried at all times to keep the infringements of the law down to the very smallest degree and it is to his efficient work that the town is as free from infringements of the law as it is at present. On the other hand reports that it elected to office Mr. Thompson will close the club rooms, are being circulated. Mr. Thompson has no right to close the club rooms in the first place and is too well informed to make such statements when he cannot carry them out. The Times believes heartily in his ability to make good and to act with fairness and reason. His record as chief of police should convince any voter of his integrity and ability.

WORK ON JEROME RESEVOIRS

Five Hundred Men Now Employed On The Works.

Jerome, Oct. 23.—The work now under way by the Twin Falls North Side Company on its two storage reservoirs means much to Jerome in more ways than one. Over 500 men and about 400 teams are now employed. This number will be added to shortly by an additional force of 200 men and teams from the Salmon river dam. The work of building these reservoirs is of much greater magnitude than is generally supposed by the average person. In addition to men and teams there are six elevator piers drawn by traction engines and an immense steam dredge. The piers each have a capacity of a yard of earth per minute and the dredge two yards a minute. The dam for the reservoir will be a mile and a half in length with an extreme height of 40 feet. It is 200 feet wide on the bottom, tapering to the top. From bedrock up to the connecting with the earth work a concrete wall is built through the center. The Twin Falls North Side Land & Water company is now engaged in building immense storage reservoirs on the tract for the purpose of storing flood waters in the spring to provide for the possible emergency of a shortage of water in midsummer, the only time there is any likelihood of there ever being a shortage. There will be two of these reservoirs, one the larger, six to eight miles northwest of Jerome, the other nearer the head of the canal. Some idea of the extent of the larger one may be had when it is stated that its water line will be approximately 16 miles in extent. Storage water will be immediately above the land on which it will be used, and it can be distributed to all parts of the tract on one day's notice. Between 300 and 400 teams, with a corresponding number of men, are now employed by the next day the contractors on the earth work of the reservoirs. Some concrete and earth work is necessary and this is being done on company account.

This will insure for the north side tract one of the greatest, as well as one of the best and most substantial and reliable irrigation systems in the world. A brief description of the canal system by which the Twin Falls North Side Land & Water company is conveying water to the north side tract will be of interest to many. This work, done by the land traversed, there being several large earth cuts. In the enlargement and improvement of this canal through the two miles of rough work the channel was enlarged, the bottom and sides brought to a uniform grade and cemented, making it absolutely watertight and reducing the friction to the minimum. Ten thousand cubic yards of earth were removed in making this enlargement.

To give an idea of the immensity of this part of the work the following comparison has been made: The surface covered, approximately, about 16 1/2 acres. It is equal to a pavement 10 feet wide by 12 3/4 miles in length.

CRIPPEN IS CONDEMNED.

Will Be Hanged Nov. 16—On Trial Five Days.

London, Oct. 22.—Dr. Hawley Crippen, American practitioner, was today found guilty of the murder of his wife, the American actress Belle Elmore, and sentenced to death. The jury was out 30 minutes. When it returned and announced it had found the defendant guilty, Lord Chief Justice Alverstone asked the physician if he had anything to say. Crippen replied in a low voice: "I still protest my innocence." The chief justice then donned the black cap that had rested near him throughout the trial and pronounced the sentence of death. As the Lord Chief Justice concluded, a policeman strode forward and in the bush that had fallen over the court room, led Crippen from the dock. Crippen will hang on November 16. The lord chief justice's charge to the jury was that they must be convinced of the identification beyond a reasonable doubt. As he concluded the jury retired. After being out half an hour the jurors returned and reported that they had found Crippen guilty. Crippen thereupon was sentenced to death.

The trial of Ethel Clare Leneva as an accessory after the fact in the murder of Mrs. Crippen will begin next Tuesday.

It is the rule in England to allow three Sundays to intervene between a sentence of death and the execution. The trial began at 10:30 o'clock last Tuesday morning. The jury retired at 12:17 this afternoon and returned with the verdict at 2:47 o'clock. There was little delay after the judge and jury had again taken their seats in the open court before the prisoner mounted the stairs and confronted the jurors. He walked between two wardens to his rest. He was under the usual amount of restraint and was not allowed to talk or write. He was not allowed to see any of the family or friends at the bar.

The silence was broken by the clerk's formal question: "Prisoner at the bar, have you anything to say in your defense?" The prisoner should not be passed against you." For a fraction of a second Crippen hesitated, then replied, betraying his emotion by only the slightest flutter of the voice. "I still protest my innocence." Lord Alverstone pronounced the sentence of death and the officers again held out their arms to support the prisoner. He ignored their proffered assistance and turning, walked firmly from the room, stopping only once and then for a brief moment to take a last look at the court room within which he had fought for his life.

PRIEBE Will formally open his new store on Friday. You are all urged to come. The entire day will be given over to showing you the up-to-the-minute fixtures and stock. Traveling men pronounce this the most complete and best appointed store in the northwest. We will have six salesmen to show each and every one what our new facilities are. We will be open until 11 o'clock Friday evening. No goods sold after six.

We have a store that is up-to-the-minute in every respect. It is a credit to Twin Falls and places us in the front rank of Jewelers. We are anxious that everyone call and inspect our store and so have set aside this particular day that all may come to the public opening. We have sent out some 300 invitations but have not reached everyone that we would like to. The invitation is for all. We will stay open until 11 o'clock as there is a large reception to be held Friday afternoon and we want to give these ladies an opportunity to see the store as well as those who cannot get away at any other time. No goods will be sold after 6 o'clock.

W. L. PRIEBE, the owner of this magnificent store, has a record which shows that he has absolute knowledge of all phases of the jewelry business. He was born in Rochester, Minnesota, and when a young man worked in one of the stores in that city. He then entered the employ of the Reed-Ort Co., manufacturing and wholesale Jewelers, where he was employed for six years. While in their employ he made a study of all branches of the trade with the expectation of his being his vocation. He severed his connection with this company in 1892 for the purpose of taking up a course of study in optics. Mr. Priebe attended the Northern Illinois College of Ophthalmology and received the degree of Doctor of Optics. Next he passed a graduate course in Engraving, after which he went back to the Rochester firm where he was employed for another year.

Desiring to perfect himself in the art of watchmaking Mr. Priebe attended the St. Louis School of Watchmaking, perfecting himself in the work of chronometers, dials and foreign watches. Shortly after this he came west, being at Spokane and Waterville, Washington. At the latter place he took charge of the jewelry department for Mr. A. Gilbert and remained with him for three years, when he came to this city as his junior partner. On May 15, 1903, Mr. Granger was bought out, and in February, 1909, Mr. Priebe bought out Mr. Gilbert and took possession of the store on Main street.

The growth of the business of the Main street store is a matter of local pride, and soon it became necessary to look about for larger quarters with the result that space was reserved in the new bank building where he now has the finest equipped store in the West. Travelling men are unanimous in this statement, and this reflects creditably upon the progressive spirit of the owner, who has endeavored to keep pace with the growth and the demands of his trade. Mr. Priebe has made his business what it is by his ability and efforts to give the best that there is.

MR. ALFRED BORNE, as Gold and Silver Smith, has had ample experience in the branch that he follows. The trade was learned under W. T. Jennings, of Sterling, Illinois, who is reputed to have the finest store in the state of Illinois, with the exception of the Chicago stores. His courteous attention to the Twin Falls trade has won many friends for the store. Mr. Borne has been with Mr. Priebe for the past year.

GLEN L. COX, the head watchmaker of the store, served his apprenticeship in Albion, Nebr., and after mastering the trade came West, going first to Boise, where he remained for one year with the best known house in that city. Later he came to Welser, where he remained for two years. Mr. Cox has a permanent home in this state as his parents are residents of Payette. Mr. Cox has demonstrated that he has fully mastered the science of watchmaking, which insures that this branch will be in capable hands. He has been with the present firm for two years.

MR. CLARENCE E. ALLEN, the optician in charge, has diplomas from leading schools which qualify students for practicing the allied branches of this subject. He received in May, 1910, a diploma from the Southwestern Optical College, located at Kansas City, Mo., receiving the degree of Doctor of Optics. He successfully passed the Idaho State Board examination in June of this year. The Southwestern Optical College has the credit for being one of the most exacting schools in the country, which speaks well for Mr. Allen's record.

The Facilities and Equipment of This Store Cannot be Surpassed in the West, as an Examination Will Show

One of the special features of the store is the diamond room, something that few of the stores even in the largest cities can boast of. It is to the left as you enter the building, next to the private office of the proprietor. There is a nicely arranged space for the showing of the diamond stock—a special table of mahogany—comfortable seats and more privacy than the ordinary store affords. That this will be one of the popular parts of the store will soon be demonstrated.

To your right are the quarters for the three watchmakers and engravers, with ample room for a fourth as soon as the business demands another. In the rear is the balcony, which has been made into one of the most complete optical parlors in the state. A special advantageous feature of this arrangement is a full sized room, 10x20, where we can use the twenty-foot test, which enables us to detect any minor defects, impossible under less favorable conditions. Besides, we have all the latest instruments known to the profession.

To the left of the balcony is the jewelers' workshop and the manufacturing department, which a glance will show to be as complete as any in the larger cities. Here the jewelers are to make over the old jewelry and make special order pieces. The diamond setting for this firm will also be done in this room.

The cases that encircle the room are all of special design. The first case to the left is the ring case, arranged in the form of an "L." To the right is a like case for watches. The large jewelry stock is tastefully arranged in a massive horseshoe case. A large wall case to the left is set aside for cut glass display. The large mirror and all the shelves in the case are plate glass. The next case is the silver case. The right wall case contains the stock of Pickard's china. There is also a special case for the fountain pen stock. All the fixtures are of mahogany and all have marble bases. The shelves are of plate glass. An attractive feature of each case is the lighting. Each case has at least four light in its interior which insures perfect lighting.

Underneath the balcony is the large safe, where all valuables and goods left by people for repairs are kept. This safe, which is the only one of its kind in the Northwest, is the largest jewelers safe made. It weighs five tons. It is fire proof throughout as well as burglar proof, for it has eight layers of steel on the door, all of different composition, which would require a burglar to spend one hour and a half with an electric drill to open. To insure further safety Mr. Priebe is a member of the Jewelers' Security Alliance, a protective organization which is stronger than the Bankers' like organization. Besides this there will be a man sleeping in the store each night. This will insure absolute protection for all goods left by customers and makes this the best protected store in the state.

The Road to Happiness.

By TEMPLE BAILEY.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Margaret, with her eyes on the heavy sky that hung over the stubbly field, sang softly:

"Singing leaf and fading tree,
Lines of white on a sunless sea."
She stopped and turned to Meredith with an impulsive gesture.

"This is the end," she said. Her somber eyes met hers.

"I can't see it," he stormed. "We love each other. Why shouldn't we be happy?"

"Ah, but there is the other girl!" she reminded him.

"Yes, the other girl," he said, and for a long time after that they were silent.

In front of them stretched the long brown road. The goldenrod flamed on both sides of it now, but when those two had first met there had been sweet briar and other delicate flowers of the early summer.

Margaret had worn a bunch of wild pink roses that first morning when she had come to the big gate to get her mail, and to Meredith, there on the same errand, she had seemed as fresh and perfect as the daisies she wore. Since then they had walked every morning on the old rustic bench under the oaks, and life in that time had taken on new meaning.

"Think of it," Margaret said at last. "Tomorrow the little postman will come here and there will be no one to see him and nothing will be changed, but you and I will be far away--you in the west and I in the east."

"What another glimpse he asked. "What are you going to do with your life?"

"I?" she hesitated. "Oh, go in for something, I suppose--settlement work or society or literature. Perhaps I'll write a novel."

"And you think that any of those things will make you happy?"

She stretched out her hands to him. "Ah, happiness!" she began, and her voice broke.

"Come with me," he whispered as he bent over her. "It must be you and I for all the future, Margaret."

She drew away from him. "No, no," she told him; "I shall get along. A woman can find so many interests in these days, and in using my brain I shall forget that I have a heart, and you--you will marry the other girl, and this summer, this little time that we have had together, will seem to you like a dream or a strain of music that you hear once--you can never forget."

His eyes followed her as she nosed and walked to the gate. She wore a loose tan coat and tan shoes, and her brown hair was waved and pulled into a shining coil.

"Oh, you beauty," he whispered. "You beauty!"

"Hush!" she warned, and they heard the beat of a horse's hoofs.

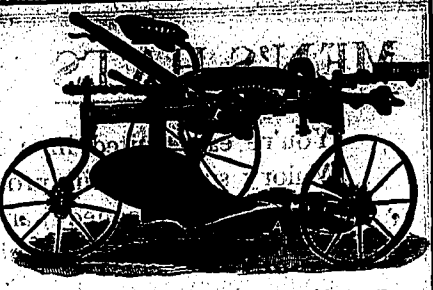

The mail wagon of the rural delivery carrier was protected from sun and rain by a white umbrella, under which the little man sat like a frog under a toadstool.

"You all gobs' tomorrow?" he asked as Meredith gave him directions for forwarding the mail. Then he gave a clucking laugh. "I reckon if you all come next summer your mail will come to the same name."

Margaret had a half dozen letters and a paper. Meredith's mail was all business matter except the aqua white envelope addressed in elegant feminine script.

"Look here," the little postman said to Margaret facetiously as he handed the letter to Meredith; "I'd be jealous if I were you."

"Oh, no!" she said, and she isn't strong."
"No," she isn't strong, and she has a sweet nature. If I had never met you I should have jogged along with her and there would have been no heights of happiness. I should have dwelt all ways in the plain."
"He stopped abruptly. "But what is the use of thinking about that? It's our last day together, Margaret. Let us forget everything but that we are together."
"Then we'll ride," she said. "I'll go back to the house and get my habit, and we will go over the hills and far away."
"He stuffed his letters into his pocket. "You haven't read--here," Margaret reminded him.
"Another time," he said briefly, and they went to get ready.
Their ride that day was a thing to live in a man's memory. The hillsides were glowing in russet and orange and green. The lake in the foreground was as blue as a sapphire, and the blackbirds were flocking in the golden fields.
They talked little, but they lived intensely in those few hours. Now and then she ventured a little plan for the future or for hers. But he would stop her always, and then he would urge her horses on and on until they went like the wind.
At last twilight came, and they stopped at a wayside inn for supper. They ate little.
"I can't," Margaret whispered when he insisted. "I am thinking of tomorrow."
"When the waiter came with his bill Meredith, reaching for his pocketbook, brought out with it the unopened letter of the morning. As it lay on the table Margaret studied the postmark. "It is mine," she said, and she started suddenly, "that she is in New York? I thought you were to meet her in Denver."
He caught the letter out of her hand. "New York?" he repeated and tore it open.
As he read his face changed, whitened and was suddenly illumined. "Margaret," he said, with a quick intake of breath, "Margaret!"
"What is it?" she asked, startled.
"Listen to me--to some one she met this summer."
Across the table they stared at each other, stunned by this sudden fulfillment of their hearts' desire. Meredith, catching curious eyes upon them, rose. "Come," he said abruptly, "we must go."
The stars were out as they mounted their horses, and the road lay like a silver path before them. In the darkness Meredith leaned over and drew Margaret to his side, and they kissed. "Dear," he whispered teasingly, "it is the road to happiness."

TRIES TO MURDER GIRL.

Ralph Arnold Fires Shot at Miss Helen Altmyer. Ralph Arnold, in a drunken, jealous rage, about 5 o'clock last evening, attempted to take the life of Miss Helen Altmyer, the hallway of the rooming house kept by Mrs. M. E. Johnson. Arnold has been drinking heavily for some time, it is said, and to this fact she attributes the fact that he was keeping company with Miss Altmyer for some time past, but the young lady recently declined to accept further attentions because of the fact that he was drinking. As a result of his dismissal he is said to have threatened her life on other occasions. Last night he stepped from his room into the hallway and found Miss Altmyer engaged in conversation with A. H. Fonda, cashier of the Oregon Short line here. Without warning, it is said, he whipped out a revolver and fired at her at close range. Miss Altmyer fainted away at the report of the revolver, and Arnold returned to his room. Deputy Sheriff Atwood and George W. Roberts, who happened to be in the hearing of the shot, arrived on the scene in an instant and arrested Arnold, taking two revolvers from him. Marshall Anderson was telephoned and placed Arnold in a cell in the village jail. A charge of assault with intent to commit murder will probably be preferred against him today. Miss Altmyer is a daughter of N. Altmyer, a farmer living near Rockland, and a sister of Dan and Fred Altmyer, who live in the same vicinity, all of whom are well known here. Miss Altmyer is a very modest and estimable young lady, entirely undeserving of the notoriety that will come to her as a result of the attempted shooting. Arnold is a well behaved young man when sober, but quarrelsome and dangerous when drinking.—American Falls Press.
