Ex-Governor Morrison Here Saturday Evening.

BROTHER OF LATE SEN. SHOUP ON THE PROGRAM.

The people of the city and county have been exceptionally well favored in hearing some of the best speakers in the state...

BRADY SPEAKS IN CAPITAL CITY

Biggest Meeting of the Year Held at the Pinney.

DECLARES HAWLEY TO BE A WET.

Charges Hawley With Inconstancy in Attacks on the Land Board—Declares For Dry State.

(Special to The Times.) Boise, Ida., Oct. 31.—Before an audience of the crowded Pinney theater from pit to dome, which cheered the remarks of the speaker as he cleverly and completely handled the arguments of his opponents...

Long before 8:00 o'clock, the crowd began to gather in the Pinney theater. The speaker, James D. Brady, began to speak at 8:00 o'clock...

The issues of the campaign were carefully and fully gone into and the Governor told how he had investigated all of the matters in the land board act that insofar as he was able to correct the chief executive's conduct...

The Governor informed the large audience that the issue of the campaign was "wet" and "dry" and that Mr. Hawley was wet and sold, while the Governor was dry and was very glad to tell the people what he had to say...

When the Governor spoke of taking his staff to Portland and Seattle during the fair of a year ago he created quite a furor when he asked the audience whether they would like their Governor to go to the fair in rags or in a manner befitting the chief executive of the state.

Unlike the meeting of Mr. Hawley, some weeks ago, the crowd which gathered at the Pinney theater was enthusiastic and about four times as large as that of Hawley's.

A FALSE ALARM.

First National Bank Goes Houses Full of Panicked Burglars.

Friday evening, while the band was tunelessly playing in front of the First National bank, a false alarm was given...

The cause of all the excitement cannot be traced to a bold, but handier or to an innocent fly crossing the dial, but to a false alarm given by the watchman at the bank.

STRIKE LONG SOUGHT LEDGE

Miners Strike Gold Bearing Ledge on Saturday.

STRIKE ACCOMPANIED BY FLOW OF WATER AND GAS.

Water Carries Tale, Which Passes in Excellent Fashion—Creates Enthusiasm.

Theo. Parks, Mr. Mitchell and E. C. Propst, returning from Jarvis in the late afternoon, report that the Park tunnel is in a distance of four hundred and fifty feet, at which point water is without question the water of the main ledge.

The Rainbow-Amazon has a ledge of water that is in the tunnel and until the flow of water ceases and the tunnel clears of the gas it will be impossible to find out the width of the ledge, which has without doubt been struck, for the water flowing from the tunnel is carrying considerable talc which puns in great shape.

The strike was accompanied by a flow of water and gas, which was in excellent fashion—creates enthusiasm.

DEVELOPING LOVE OF ART

Have Children During Their School-
-days Acquire the Habit of Visi-
-ting Picture Galleries.

A small lesson was conducted by the
-mother on a tour of the Layton gallery
-and the established etiquette for art
-galleries in general was being inculcated
-as a part of her instruction for the -day. Standing before a particularly
-present-looking canvas, she found it
-convenient to divert her mind, by
-utilizing the means falling in her way—
-thereby developing the imaginations
-of her back and arms.

"What are you doing?" the fond
-mother inquired. "Do you think this -is a gymnasium? You don't come to -an art gallery to swing on a railing.
-You come to look at the pictures.
-Stand up there, if you want to come -again." The implied threat was a
-finality was effective so far that there
-was no question in the onlooker's mind
-as to the treatment the little lady evi-
-dently regarded a visit to the gallery. That -is the great point—to have children
-during their school days acquire the -habit of visiting picture galleries.
-Then it will be but a matter of time
-before the development of discrimina-
-tion and appreciation. That and real affection
-for the truly beautiful will follow log-
-ically.

NEW POWERFUL MICROSCOPE

Enormous Magnification is Attained
-Without Former Strains Due to
-Optical Causes.

There has been exhibited before the -Royal Society of London a form of -microscope, the invention of Professor
-Gordon, by means of which enormous
-magnification of an object can, it is
-stated, be attained without the strains
-formerly met with in microscopes.
-We may suppose that the enlarged
-image of an object is received from a
-microscope lens upon a ground glass
-focusing screen, and that then an-
-other microscope is employed still fur-
-ther to enlarge the image so formed.
-This is, of course, quite feasible, but -the grain of the glass would be magni-
-fied together with the image and would
-vitiate the result. Professor Gordon
-uses a transparent screen of the finest
-possible texture, and he causes it to be -kept in constant motion while the -object is being viewed or photographed.
-By this means the grain of the screen
-is eliminated and the greatly magnified
-image of the object alone seen. Spec-
-imens magnified to the extent of ten -thousand diameters were shown as
-proofs of the efficacy of the method
-adopted.—Harper's Weekly.

The Barber in History.

Lovers of history will readily recall
-the influence possessed by the bar-
-ber-valet and confidant of Louis XI of -France, Olivier le Dain, and perhaps
-remember the name of Nicholas
-Stagbeek, who gained a like influence
-with Christian II of Denmark; while
-there is no doubt that many other men
-in the calling have been on the most
-friendly terms with their famous cus-tomers who enjoyed their discourse
-and did not disdain their advice, like
-the barber of Montbard, in Burgundy,
-who, to the end of his days, boasted
-that on one memorable morning he
-had shared before breakfast "three
-man capable of ruling a world";
-Messrs. Buffon, Rousseau and Vol-
-taire.

Taking a Chance.
-The mistress was giving Harriet the -benefit of her advice and counsel
-touching a momentous step the latter
-contemplated.
-"Of course, Harriet," said the lady
-of the house, "if you intend to get
-married, that's your own business;
-but you mustn't forget that marriage is
-a very serious matter."
-"Yes, mum," said Harriet. "Yes,
-mum; I know 'tis sometimes, mum.
-But, mum, maybe I'll have better luck
-than you did, mum."

The Coming Winter

Is something that people never
-think of when the thermometer is
-singing into the nineties, but how
-would you like to have your coal
-put in when these conditions exist?
-Don't be imprudent enough to run
-out of coal when snow is three or
-four feet deep, but fill your bin now
-while our coal wagons are not
-cruled by buying high-grade clean
-coal, at

TO REDUCE SIZE OF BILLS.

Problem of Finding New Form a Serious One.
Washington, Oct. 25.—Secretary MacVeagh's proposal to reduce the size of paper money has progressed to a point where the probability of working out a plan for a uniform national bank note is a serious one. A committee is soon to make a report with some recommendations. It is said to be impracticable to reduce the size of the government's currency without reducing national bank notes to the same size. If that is possible it is declared that 17,000 national banks of the United States could save $200,000 a year in addition to the $200,000 the government expects to save.
It will require an act of congress to change the wording now used on the national bank notes, and that is necessary before the size can be reduced.

AIR VOYAGERS SAFE.

Hawley and Post of the America II. Landed in Canadian Wilderness.
New York, Oct. 26.—Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post, the aeronauts of the balloon America II., for whom search had been prosecuted in the Canadian wilds, are safe and have established a new world's record for sustained flight. They traveled approximately 1550 miles and came to earth in Chicoutimi county, Quebec, on Wednesday, October 19, but were not heard from until today, when telegrams sent from St. Ambrose, Quebec, reached New York.
The balloon started from St. Louis with nine other contestants in the international contest on Monday, October 17. All the other balloons have been reported.
Two messages from Hawley and Post were received in New York early tonight. One was to William Hawley, brother of the aeronaut; the other to Samuel F. Perkins, pilot of the balloon Quiescent II., which until tonight had been considered the winner. The message to Mr. Hawley read:
"Landed in wilderness week ago, fifty miles north of Chicoutimi. Both well.—Alan."
The Perkins message ran:
"Landed Farioonka river, north Lake Chitignau, Wisconsin, all well. Returning.—Hawley, Post."
With receipt of the news there ended a search which had come to be regarded by many as almost hopeless, and in which the government of this country and Canada were indirectly interested. For instance, in addition to emissaries sent by the Aero club of St. Louis, the Aero club of America, and by William Hawley, the United States revenue cutter service, the signal corps of the army, the Hudson Bay company and other agents were conducting the search, scouring the Great Lakes for a fourth layer of clouds for entering the almost impenetrable Canadian forests.

A MINIDOKA MASTODON.

Reclamation Engineer Makes Great Find.
The Academy of Idaho is much indebted to William Gaynor, engineer of the government reclamation service at Minidoka, for a mastodon over 8000 years old. This was found by Mr. Gaynor six miles from Minidoka on the Snake river, 75 feet below the surface and beneath the fourth layer of volcanic lava. It was examined by Prof. Ward of the Smithsonian institution and pronounced a real bona fide specimen. Mr. Gaynor, who is a brother of Mayor Gaynor of New York, was offered $3000 for the tooth, which partially shows its true value. The science department is in communication with the door in an effort to secure the remainder of the skeleton.—Pocatello Tribune.

Judge E. A. Walters of the Fourth Judicial District is candidate for re-election. While the judge has no opposition, he is by every right entitled to a good heavy vote on November 8th, and should have it. The Times in endorsing Judge Walters to the voters of the county can unhesitatingly vouch for his exceptional ability as a jurist.

Coupled to an unerring sense of justice is an honesty of purpose that has gained for him friends in every county where he has sat as a judge. Not one word of criticism has been given of his past two years of service in the Fourth district, and his speedily manner of handling all cases within his jurisdiction has saved every county thousands of dollars expense. He is a man that combines knowledge of law with an insatiable appetite for hard and thorough work. The editor of the Times counts Judge Walters as one of his friends and hopes that The Times can aid in giving him the biggest vote on the ticket.

The introduction of defamatory stories into the campaign at the last moment, when the victim is unprepared and cannot make any defense, is the work of tricksters rather than men. Twin Falls has to a large extent been free from such until the present and the balance of the campaign should be carried on the same way if both parties are to retain the respect of conservative voters. To come out two days before election with false statements or even supposedly true ones, giving the man assailed no opportunity for defense, is a cowardly act, whether it is done from honest motives or not. It hits in the dark and leaves its victim with no recourse to save his honor and retain his votes. If such is to be the course of action of either party, the Times will not be a party to them. Bad men in office are a menace to the community, but every man is entitled to a fair and square trial before the public. If his record is proven bad such evidence should be known instead of waiting until opportunity for such trial is past and an judgment has to be made by the voter.

As the real issue of the campaign is brought home to the voters, it is well for them to consider a number of things with regard to county matters. Every taxpayer is anxious that the county be run on an economical basis and yet with efficiency. The idea that the county funds are the spoils of a political battle has been too prevalent in the past and has hurt the party. But with the clean, straightforward men on the Republican ticket in this campaign there is no reason why the Republicans should not vote the ticket with assurance of getting good men into office. The local option feature, of course, cannot be disregarded, and wherever there enters a question of a candidate's position on the issue, the voter should be careful to get the right man. If he has to go to the Democratic ticket for the man, Twin Falls is, to a large extent, running pretty close to the law and its citizens can point to the compliance with such law with pride by even those who do not agree with its workings, but the success of the measure cannot be tested in a month or a year, and care will have to be used in keeping up the past record. The Times believes, with few exceptions, that the Republican county officers are in favor of enforcement of the laws and will do their very best.

FACE TO FACE WITH DUTY.
The people of Idaho are facing a duty which they owe to themselves, their children and their state. It may be ignored, but not escaped. The right to participate in government imposes responsibilities which are neglected only to the detriment of society and the lowering of civic and social standards. Failure to discharge these obligations is responsible for all the bad government and 35 per cent of the graft that exists, for the unwholesome conditions, and for the failure to enforce laws made for the protection of the public and the perpetuation of their liberties and institutions. Indifference is the uncharted rock which menaces the Ship of State. People are not lacking in intelligence nor patriotism. They have the ability and the power to correct the evils that exist, but are careless in the exercise of their rights, even when self interest and duty bid them to do so. They are too busy with the every-day affairs of life, "making money" to safeguard the morals of their children or to pay the evils which double their taxes. Some of them are citizens only in name, because they fail to exercise the most sacred right of citizenship, that of having a part in the shaping of government and being responsible for a proportionate share of it.—American Falls Press.

BEVERIDGE'S FIGHT IN INDIANA.
We publish elsewhere in this number, a brief article about Senator Beveridge of Indiana, contributed by a well-known lawyer and reformer of that state, Mr. Lucius Swift. Mr. Beveridge's campaign for re-election is bound to attract the attention of the country this month. There is no senator who better deserves re-election. If the people voted directly for United States senators, Mr. Beveridge's campaign would be easy and his victory would be decisive. But Indiana has of late been a Democratic state; and Mr. Beveridge's success must depend upon the election of a Republican legislator in what seems to be a Democratic year. Mr. Beveridge has other apparent handicaps; but the people are quite clear-sighted and intelligent, and it is not impossible that the voters may come all the more strongly to Mr. Beveridge's support by reason of the enemies he has made. It is true that Mr. Beveridge had the unanimous endorsement of a great Republican convention, held in the early summer, where he made a powerful address as explained in Mr. Swift's article. But it is also true that the old Watson-Homestead machine of Indiana is not friendly to Mr. Beveridge; and it is further true that no individual in the United States senate, in recent years, has so directly and deliberately exposed himself to the hostility of powerful corporations as Senator Beveridge. It was he who wrote the meat inspection bill; and led the successful fight at that time that was so bitterly opposed by the packing-house interests. His attack upon the Tobacco

Trust last year—and his exposure of the astounding impropriety of the legislation which has been enacted for the benefit of that trust since the war with Spain—was one of the most courageous and at the same time one of the most remarkable demonstrations of integrity ever made on the floor of the senate.—Review of Reviews.

SENATOR DOLLIVER.

To those who are well acquainted with the personnel of the houses of Congress, it will seem strange not to see hereafter in the Senate the tall, heavy, stoop-shouldered figure and the quizzical face of Jonathan P. Dolliver. The death of this man on October 15 at his home in Fort Dodge, Iowa, has removed from the service of the Nation a great force for the public good, and from Congress a striking and vigorous personality. Born and educated in the western portion of Virginia, which now is included in the State of West Virginia, Jonathan P. Dolliver had certain characteristics that are accounted Southern. The easy manner, the delight in flowing and responsive diction, the instinct for good fellowship, which are associated with that state, Mr. Dolliver had. At the same time, he displayed the vigor, the industry, the enterprise, and the readiness for any idea that made him a fit representative of the growing Middle West. Early in his career he became active in political life. In 1858 he was elected to Congress from the Tenth District of Iowa, and was re-elected five times. He entered the Senate by appointment of the Governor to fill a vacancy, and from the close of that first term remained a Senator by election until his death. His political beliefs were at first those of the traditional Republican. He was always a strong partisan. In later years, however, his views changed with changing public opinion. In some cases, of this sort changing views are a sign of weakness of conviction; in the case of Senator Dolliver it was not so. He changed simply because he was typical in mind of the community which he represented. He thought and felt as his neighbors did because he was one of them. In the House he was defender of the McKinley tariff. In the Senate he has been one of the most prominent critics of the Payne-Aldrich tariff. That is a measure of his growth. And this growth in tariff opinion was simply an example of the change in his general political views. In that respect, he represented the Middle West most aptly. What was most distinctive about him as a public man was the spontaneity and exuberance of oratory. Whenever he arose to speak, whether it was in Senatorial debate or in compliance with the announcement of the toastmaster at a banquet, his hearers felt that he knew as little as they the secret of his happy and apt phrases. It seemed as if the wit and pertinence of his sentences were as much of a surprise and pleasure to him as to his audience. He had a genius for terse and telling phrases. He could pack a great deal of meaning in a sentence that people would remember. When, for example, he described an insurgent as a member of Congress who wished to read a bill before he voted for it, he put in miniature the significance of a long struggle against secret methods of oligarchical rule. Although he was an aggressive political fighter, and though he could inflict wounds on his opponents, he fought fairly and openly and had no poison in the wounds. That he was a student of political progress in the United States his recent article in The Outlook on "The Forward Movement in the Republican Party" is proof. He was growing in thoughtfulness as well as in vigor. He was only fifty-two years old. His death is a sudden break in the midst of a career, not the close of a finished life. His point of view was increasingly that of a mere representative of a State or of a section, but of the public man every part of whose country is of concern to him.—The Outlook.

JUDGE EDWARD A. WALTERS

Edward A. Walters, has during the past four years, occupied the District Bench of the Fourth Judicial District of Idaho. The Fourth Judicial District is the largest in the State, comprising as it does the five counties of Twin Falls, Cassia, Lincoln, Blaine and Elmore. Lawyers, as well as the public, irrespective of party, are united in the belief that Judge Walters should be returned to the bench without opposition, and no candidate has been nominated against him by any party. Judge Walters is the youngest man in the Judiciary of the State, in fact the youngest man to ever occupy a District Judgeship in Idaho.

He is known as an indefatigable student, of absolute and unquestioned integrity, and possessed of a keen judicial mind. His record in the Supreme Court on appealed cases is said to be among the highest maintained by the State District Judges.

NEWS FROM THE CAPITAL.

Times' Special Correspondent Throws Light On Idaho Politics.

(Special to the Times) Boise, Idaho, Oct. 27.—Politically Idaho today is facing a situation of unusual interest and of more than passing importance. Democratic voters would hold the reins of power which for so many years have been in the hands of the Republican party, and although in the minority they are clinging to that. Few, at least from those of the Democratic faith, expect to see her successful for Idaho is admittedly a Republican state entrenched behind conservative policies and a strong state administration. The political wheel of fortune, however, is ever uncertain where it stops and there is always a chance that the seemingly impossible will happen. Only the return on November 8th can settle this uncertainty. In the meantime Boise is the scene of unusual political activity which radiates to all corners of the state.

The chairman of the two state central committees, Charles L. Helmsman of the Republican, and John Nugent of the Democratic, are directing the maneuvers of the campaign. From their private offices at headquarters they watch the progress of the speakers covering their itineraries and continually feel "the pulse of the people in order to determine the strength that the respective parties are gathering. "The Republican party will win a sweeping victory this fall as it has in the past, and of this I am confident after careful observations," said Chairman Helmsman. Nugent is just as confident. "James H. Hawley cannot help but be the next governor of the great state of Idaho," is the way he puts it. The electors are apparently saying little, but are nevertheless drawing their conclusions. If anything the present campaign is lacking in genuine enthusiasm.

The leading Democrats here admit they only expect to elect three of their nominees. James H. Hawley for governor, Arthur M. Bowen for congressman, and Frank L. Moore for attorney general. Postponing their answer, however, declare there is little if any hope for Bowen in view of the sweeping primary election of Burton L. French, the Republican nominee. If Frank L. Moore is elected it will only be through the solid and undivided support of the north, while it is now only admitted by parties close to the situation that the saloon vote must be delivered to assure the election of Hawley. This the Anti-Saloon League, now admitted to be playing a telling part in the campaign, says cannot be.

Lansdon Becomes Personal. Probably the latest sensation of the campaign was the launch of a few days ago through the personal letter of Secretary of State Robert Lansdon to Governor Brady and published here. In this missive Lansdon admits that he is the owner of a large amount of land that he acquired under the land laws while secretary of state and member of the board of land commissioners, but he deems it an unwise and unbecoming thing to do in a legal manner. He sinks in and out of the attention of the chief executive directing his attention to the fact other state officers have done the same thing. Lansdon also declared that State Land Commissioner Day carried a check book of Austin Bros., land speculators who have invested thousands of dollars in improving Idaho, and that after Day had apprised him and he furnished it to the Austin Bros. That there apparently was no truth in the general charge and it was only made to slur the administration of Governor Brady was evident from the prompt and emphatic denial made by Mark Austin, of Sugar City, one of the Austin brothers, for in a public interview he said: "Neither myself, my brothers, or anyone with whom we are associated in any shape or form has ever bought one foot Idaho state lands, either directly or indirectly, individually or collectively, and any statement or intimation to the contrary is without foundation and a willful lie." Here is the authorized statement of Land Commissioner Day: "I want to say that in my life I have purchased one acre of state lands, either for myself or anyone else." Governor Brady has so far absolutely ignored the secretary of state's letter.

May Have Joint Debate. It is just within the possible that joint debates between the gubernatorial and congressional candidates for both parties will take place before the general election. State Chairman Helmsman has not entirely passed up the idea. Democratic Chairman Nugent issued a challenge for one some time ago but Helmsman did not accept them, owing to the fact candidate itineraries had been arranged. He is now endeavoring to switch these in order to provide dates for the debates. State and national issues will be discussed by the candidates providing the dates are arranged.

The eve of the campaign is close at hand. Both parties are preparing for whirlwind finishes. Governor Brady will probably say this campaign at a big rally to be held at Nampa on November 4. Later he will speak in Boise. He will be in Jerome the following day, and on November 11, Wendell, afternoon of November 2, and Gooding the afternoon of November 2. Senator Heyburn will speak at Murray, November 4; Kellogg November 5; Wallace, November 7. Senator Borah made his last address of the campaign November 25 at Lewiston. Adjoining Governor and Boise. There on the evening of November 7, Both B. F. O'Neil and Paul Cingstone, defeated primary gubernatorial candidates, will speak at Idaho Falls. James H. Hawley, Democratic candidate for governor, will close his campaign in the southeast. Arthur M. Bowen will remain in the north and other state candidates will be shifted from one part of the state to the other to cover as much territory as possible. "The Democrats' chief" will carry Shoshone, Kootenai, Nez Perce, Fremont, Ada, Owyhee, Blaine, Blaine and Elmore counties, and break even in Bonner and Latah.

A recent decision of the supreme court in the case of Joseph Chase, a convict, held that under the provisions of section 5 of the act known as the indeterminate sentence law, a person convicted of felony committed prior to the taking effect of that act and sentenced after the act went into force, must be sentenced under the law at the time the felony was committed. Several convicts have been released as the result.

The Idaho State Medical association at a recent meeting held in Boise, recommended the passage of a law providing a state bacteriological laboratory. Dr. J. W. Gliven of Orofino, was elected president and Dr. C. A. Kollong of Nampa, vice president. Adjoining Governor M. Bowen of the Idaho National Guard, is trying to get the names of all volunteers who enlisted and fought in the Indian war with Chief Joseph and his band of Nez Perce Indians in 1877, and the war with the Bannock Indians the following year. The board has ordered that the North Side Twin Falls Land & Water company shall collect no second payments or interest from entrymen on that tract in southern Idaho, until water is available for an irrigation period.

MADE FAMOUS BY DICKEENS

Places Are "Hanging Out" Everywhere. One by One They Have Undergone Change.

One by one the places made famous by Charles Dickens have undergone such change that they are hardly recognizable. The rookeries in Taber street, Southwark borough, among the last of these places are now being closed up and very soon this characteristic place of Dickens in London will have passed away. The "housing committee" having determined for sanitary reasons that must be obliterated. The Church of St. George the Martyr, which stands at the end of the street, is the house of worship immortalized as Little Dorrit's church, and on this account is visited every year by thousands of American admirers of the great novelist. Near the other end of the street, was the Marshalsea prison for debtors, where Little Dorrit's father, a man with "a mild voice, curling hair and irresolute hands," as the years passed by became gray-haired and venerable and was known as "the father of the Marshalsea," a title which he grew to be ridiculously vain. And this character (much of the color of which Dickens is said to have taken from that of his own father) is one of the most pathetic in any of his novels. But the medical officers for the district says it has long had a wicked reputation, and London cannot allow such a degraded and unhealthy spot to remain, no matter what its romantic and historic interest. Long before the days of Dickens this corner of Southwark was known as the hiding place of highwaymen and debtors of the worst description.

WAYS OF MIDDLEAGED MAN

He Finds His Greatest Happiness in a Life That to Youth is Irksome.

"Younger people" said the middle-aged man, "want variety, they want to be always on the go. Routine kills them; they hate to have to do the same thing over and over and over again day after day. They want to do something new somewhere or do something different all the time. Older people are happier in a life of routine, most disturbed when variety is thrust upon them. "For myself I welcome my daily task and I do not want to be always the same. I should be lost without it, disturbed if it were changed. My life of habit suits me best. I like the old scenes, familiar, friendly surroundings, I don't want to always be in new surroundings. I like to do what I want much outside pleasure. In fact I think I should be best suited with none. I like my groove; it fits me and I fit it. I don't want change. I just want to be left alone, to be in my accustomed groove. I'm in my groove that I am most comfortable. I like a life of labor and routine. "And could there come to one a greater blessing, Nature and the cure of overfeeding and overdoing. She knows what we like or not. In youth this irks us, but in our mature years in a life of routine, in the undisturbed enjoyment of a familiar labor, we may find our greatest happiness."

AS TOLD IN PLAIN ENGLISH

Real Truth About Young Man Who "Excelsior" Banner, and That Lamb Mary's.

"Excelsior" is a poem about a young man who walked one winter evening through a village in the Alps. The poet kept, stood in his door and told his friends the news was all taken, but anyhow the young man knew he didn't have enough money for tips. So he went on. He carried a banner reading "Excelsior." One day he was overfeeding and overdoing. She took it to school with her one day and the lamb bothered the spelling class, so the teacher kicked it out of the front door. Not having any sense of direction, it blatted around the schoolyard until finally the teacher sent Mary home with it and told her if she ever brought it again there would be trouble. Next spring Mary's father sold the lamb on the rising market.

Too Quick With Scorn.

That marvelous story of the British expedition to New Guinea, with its discovery of a new pygmy race, reminds a writer that in the past stay-at-home travelers have sometimes erred in (bravely) heaping tales with scorn. There are, for instance, the descriptions by James Bruce in 1770 of the barbarous Abyssinian custom of eating raw meat cut from the living animal which was ridiculed by everybody. Yet the same has been proved and proved right. When Paul Du Chaillu explored equatorial Africa in 1861 and described the wonderful gorillas and also the nation of dwarfs there he was derided; not too politely by the British Royal Geographical society. Yet subsequent explorers amply vindicated his veracity.

CAMPAIGN NEWS

While all do not agree that all of the laws promised by the Republican party in its platform two years ago were wise or for the best interests of the people... The point we wish to make is that the Republican party, through its official platform, carried out its pledges of two years ago... Mr. Moore is considerably exercised because the Governor and his staff do not "foot it" to the Alaska-Yukon expedition... He is a matter of record and one calculated to entirely refute this rot, that Governor Brady in the beginning of the administration recommended the legislature to create a Carey act commission and called attention to the necessity for it... Here's What You Have Been Looking For

A filter that will give you good, clear, sparkling water that will test 99 per cent pure. The particular advantage in this filter is the automatic cleaning device. The cleaning of the filter being accomplished by simply opening the faucet at the bottom of the filter, allowing a free passage of the water through the outside casing of the filter, thereby revolving the cleaning device around the stone, allowing the mud to pass out through the bottom of the filter. No shutting off the water. No taking the filter apart to scrub the stone with a brush, and no crank to turn. The water does all the work. This filter being constructed with a glass casing affords an opportunity of seeing at all times the condition of the filter stone and the action of the cleaner on the stone. These filters are just the thing for use in residences, offices, chemists laboratories, restaurants and drug stores. For further particulars see

BRADY DOES NOT HEDGE

Declares for Idaho Dry in 1911, at Welter.

The Idaho issue, the official organ of the Anti-Saloon League of Idaho, is standing for the election of Governor Brady in that it will mean Idaho dry in 1911. On the front page of their last issue the following appeared in blackface type, shows without a doubt who the "dry" candidate is:

To the Anti-Saloon League of Idaho, Boise, Idaho.

I want to state, through your organization, to the people of the state of Idaho, in order that there may be no mistake as to my stand on the temperance question. I am unequivocally opposed to the liquor traffic. If elected I will recommend the material strengthening of the present local option law. In order that prohibition may become more effective in such counties that have voted "dry."

I shall recommend to the legislature and do everything possible to secure the passage of a joint resolution, submitting an amendment to the constitution to the people, prohibiting the sale and manufacture of liquor.

Very sincerely,
(Signed) JAMES H. BRADY.

Gov. Brady, W. C. T. U. convention at Walsley: "I would ten thousand times rather be defeated by a 'dry' minority than to be elected governor for twenty years by a 'wet' majority."

OPEN MINING DEPARTMENT

University at Moscow Will Take Up Short Course in Mining.

Moscow, Oct. 27.—Following out the principle of the "Wisconsin idea," which the regents of the university of Idaho are encouraging, namely, the close affiliation of the university with the practical interests of the state, Professor R. E. McCafferty, head of the mining department, announces a short course in mining at the university to begin January 9, 1911. The course, which will last eight weeks, will be particularly for miners, prospectors and mill men. No entrance requirements, nor age limits, will be observed, and there will be no tuition fee. The only expense is board and lodging for eight weeks in Moscow.

Courses will be offered in: mining methods, mine hoists, air compressors, gold milling, amalgamating, the cyanide process for gold and silver extracting, assaying, mineralogy, mining geology and chemistry.

Paralysis of Bitter Lake Movement. Taken from Municipal Engineering Magazine of October, 1910.

In the report of George A. Carpenter, city engineer of Pawtucket, R. I., attention is called to the excellent condition of the Bitter Lake streets in that city. There are 61,512 square yards of this pavement, laid in 1901, 1904, 1906 and 1908, and it is all in a fine state of preservation. There have been no repairs made on these streets, nor is there any apparent need of such at the present time, even on that pavement which has been in since 1901.

Colorado Woman Says Politics Led Her To Drink and Fervor.

Denver, Oct. 28.—"The average woman is a sweet mother and good wife. She is also a bad politician," she runs the reprobation of Helen Dixon, 68 years old, a victim of drink, but who 12 years ago was one of the most interesting figures in Colorado politics. In the administration of Governor Davis H. Waite she was close to the political throne, of considerable position and declares she possessed a fortune which mounted into six figures.

Yesterday the woman was taken to the county poor-house after a kind-hearted magistrate had spared her the disgrace of a jail sentence. "I was once an officer of the W. C. T. U.," declared Mrs. Dixon, "but politics was my downfall. Drink caused my ruin and late caucuses and political conferences started my drinking."

Re-making of Our Bogies.

From the fact that every few years we get a perfectly new body throughout from the continual dying of old body cells and new cells taking their places, thus constantly giving ourselves an entirely new living mantle of flesh, if not a new identity, that which seems surest and most secure to our faculties, really waxes and fluctuates with treacherous changes, and we ourselves slide away from ourselves and across the water. While the spirit or inner man stars unchanged in the midst of all this hourly shift and change like a lighthouse in a whirling change of sands and waters, the mind alone of all the man has the power of being constant. Strive we cannot make a single living thing, yet we ourselves are undergoing a form of reconstruction and death every second and all the time.

To the Public.

Rumors are being circulated to the effect that, if I am elected sheriff on November 8th, I will appoint Mr. E. R. Sherman, of Butte, as my deputy.

This report is untrue. Mr. Sherman never expressed to me his desire for the deputyship. I never intended to appoint him, and I will not appoint him, to be my deputy. He will have no connection whatever with the office.
