PAINTING GOES TO CAPITAL

Shoshone Falls Painting Will Decorate Capitol in Future.

Twin Falls people will welcome the fact that the famous Blorandt painting of Shoshone falls, which hung for a number of years in the rotunda of the Auditorium hotel at Chicago, and which gave thousands of travelers their first idea of the real existence of the state of Idaho, will soon become the property of the state, through the generosity of its owner, former Senator W. A. Clark of Montana.

Communication from N. M. Rulick, Mr. Clark's representative in Idaho, Governor Brady and the state board were tendered the gift, which, Mr. Clark stated, Mr. Clark had always felt should belong to Idaho. The only condition which accompanied the gift was that it should hang in some conspicuous place in the new capitol.

The painting was done by J. G. Goulet, a pupil of Blorandt, that celebrated, Idahoan painter, about 20 years ago, and was exhibited in the Montana section at the World's Columbian exposition at Chicago in 1893, where it excited universal admiration and called attention to one of the greatest wonders of the west. The state board, in accepting the generous gift from Mr. Clark, expressed much pleasure at this indication of friendship and interest in the people of the state by a citizen of a sister state.

This Newspaper---and Your Store!

WOULD you consider that this newspaper was well managed if it issued according to the mood of its publishers---instead of at regular, stated and invariable intervals? Would you think it a good newspaper if it printed a 12-page issue at one time and a one-page, hand-bill size, issue at another time? Would you feel that it was serving its constituency effectually if, now and then, it suspended issue entirely---to be resumed at some time when the publishers felt inclined?

Your store serves your patrons with store news through its advertising. They assume that there is always store news worth telling---store news that is important to them.

Is it not a poor policy for a store, as it would be for a newspaper, to serve its patrons in a spasmodic, undependable way? If your store is important to the people of the city, your advertising is important to them all the time---not merely now and then.

The amount of your advertising space yearly should not vary any more than the size of a newspaper varies, and the appearance of your advertising should be as frequent and as regular as the appearance of this newspaper.

"Give Us More Fruit" Cry The People of the Cities

One of the most serious problems of the present day is the supplying our rapidly growing population with the necessities of life. That the supply is not equal to the demand is shown by the rapid increase of living expenses during the past few years. The Governmental investigations of these conditions may discover lots of things, but upon the farmer will be laid the responsibility of overcoming them. WE MUST GO BACK TO THE SOIL. The people of the cities are consumers—not producers—and from them goes up a continuous cry for more fruit—better fruit.

The doctors are growing wise. They know now, better than ever before, that drugs will not take the place of proper food—and the proper food to prevent many of the ills of mankind is fruit. Therefore, they are advising people to eat fruit and plenty of it. You know the old adage: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Doctors are working on this principle. BUT THE PEOPLE CAN'T GET THE FRUIT. What is on the city markets today brings outrageous prices, and is often poor in quality. The farmer who can put into market high-class fruit, packed properly, may demand his own price for it, and a good orchard these days is better than a gold mine—for the mine may run out. To produce good fruit you must have good trees and plants.

You Have the Place to Grow fruit, We Have Fruit Trees and Plants---Let's Combine and Win

We grow only tested fruits—the kind that can be depended upon, and we have been supplying trees and plants to the same people for years. Persons who once buy from us come back year after year, and we don't believe there is another nursery in this section of the country that has so many steady customers. This shows that our product is right, and our prices are right.

SUPPLEMENT

PRESS OTHER SUPPLEMENT TO TWIN FALLS TIMES. TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, DECEMBER 2, 1910. AMERICAN FALLS MEETING, NOVEMBER 2, 1910.

EDITORS ENJOY MUSICAL PROGRAM

At American Falls Meeting of Eastern Idaho Press Club.

A Good Program Was Prepared and Arrangements Were Pleased—Guests Continued a Part of the Numbers.

Members of the Eastern Idaho Press club were entertained at the Auditorium November 20 by the people of American Falls, with a splendid program of music and addresses. The visitors contributed their share, and were much enjoyed. The people here never had the pleasure of entertaining more appreciative people, nor enjoyed a social gathering more than this.

The Auditorium was tastefully set with rugs and tables adorned with flowers and electric "lamps" and seated around the tables in congenial groups: were guests and the entertainers. R. D. Greenwood was master of ceremonies and introduced David Burrell, who briefly welcomed the guests as follows: "I have the pleasure of representing the good people of American Falls in extending to your club a very hearty welcome to our little city. We do not expect to out rival some of our sister cities in giving you this welcome, but we are like the preacher, who said when inviting the people to go home with him to dinner, 'We haven't very much to give you, but we are like the people, so we are very sociable this evening, and have tried to spare no pains in doing everything possible to make your sojourn pleasant in the hope that when you are ready to take your departure you will have to say that American Falls is all right. If we did not believe it, we do not have a good time. It will be your fault. Your money is counterfeit, and we want none of it. Again I welcome you and I hope you will have a good time.'"

Louis A. Bauman, editor of the Albion Nugget, responded as follows: "I have been looking around seeing the beauties of American Falls, and I certainly want to congratulate you on your little city. Two years ago last September, was the first time I had seen your town, when I was going through on my way out from Wisconsin. I had heard a great deal about those beautiful falls, had read literature which I had gotten from the League of Southern Idaho Commercial clubs, so naturally I was very anxious to see the falls, and looked for them, and other passengers were interested and got out of their seats and looked at the falls, and I can say that you people are very fortunate to have that great power of nature which will bring you much more than any thing else in this part of the state of Idaho. It will bring you factories, it will bring you mills and those together with the dry farming land and the irrigated lands which surrounds American Falls will make of it a city of some magnitude.

"A year ago last winter many of you were at Boise, anxious to build a court house in here. The report comes to me that efforts are again going to be made to build a court house and make American Falls the center of the government of Power county. The fact that you came to me, getting a County ought to encourage you, that if in fifty years you will be successful, I know, the settlement in a good many parts of Idaho is that you have reasons in mind, O. W. Atwood changed the village with a vocal solo, and was heartily applauded at its conclusion. Rev. Wallis was called on for an impromptu talk and chose "The Editor" as his subject. His address appears elsewhere.

Byrd Trego, editor of the Blackfoot Republican, responded as follows: "I am going to say in fifty years I am often, reminded of the story of the maiden who had to choose between the man she loved and a prince. She was much interested in Theosophy, and chose the prince for the reason that it would make her hold an empire, and aid her in spreading the doctrine of her choice. To the lady who chooses between many people have to choose between the things they would like to do, and their empire. When I took up newspaper work, it seemed that it was my empire. I saw an opportunity of presenting through the press what I wanted to present, the same as the lady saw the opportunity through her position as first lady of the empire. I am impressed with the thought that each of us has at some time chosen between what he loved and his empire. I think you people of American Falls have done the same, else I do not see why you are here.

"I find on questions presented to us, you have had the liquor question presented to you, that we can not run away from them. This question will be with us again, and we can not run away from it any more than the people of an earlier day could run away from the question of the black slave human or."

"I wonder how many know who was the first homeseker and tourist who came through here and looked at this power site. The first homeseker was here 99 years ago next Wednesday or Thursday. While waiting for your Thanksgiving dinner it may be interesting for you to look it up. You will find it in Washington Irving's 'Astoria.' As you have just been told, an editor is one who gives out, so I have given out."

A male quartette, Messrs. Elmer Curta, L. E. Sigmund, Charles Hammond and W. W. Thompson, were the next feature and responded to an encore.

D. H. Barber and Joel L. Priest varied the program by each telling stories and the audience varied their actions by not calling for an encore. Elmer Curta restored good feeling by a tenor solo. He has an excellent voice and received much complimentary mention.

Karl H. Dixon, editor of the Twin Falls News, gave a splendid talk on the "Duties of the Press to the Public." This was followed by one of the best numbers of the evening, the ladies quartette, Misses Leona Dexter, Eunice Barber, Grace Elliott and Agnes Salee. The ladies closed the program by responding to an encore.

Give Them a Hearty Welcome.

The members of the Eastern Idaho Press Club, who will be the guests of American Falls tomorrow, and Monday, should be given a royal welcome. The boys are doing a great work for Idaho in bridging her resources to the attention of the world, and in inducing and stimulating immigration. As a class they are good citizens, and rank high in moral and mental attainments. Among their number are men who can preach good sermons, deliver interesting and instructive lectures, and take places in public life with entire credit to themselves; and week after week, through their publications, they breathe doctrines of better living, stimulate development of the state's almost untapped resources, and preach doctrines of hope and contentment.

The boys of the press lead interesting lives. Every week they come into possession of a great deal of information, much of which, for one reason or another, they do not use. They come into possession of business secrets, the disclosure of which might work serious injury and serve no useful purpose, and although the best kind of news, the rights of the individual are respected. Newspaper men come into much information of this kind when the parties most interested are in entire ignorance of the fact, yet they are true to the traditions of their profession and maintain a discreet silence. Their training is along lines of discrimination and many an individual is under greater obligation to the press for what is not printed than for what is. They know of cases of misconduct, or incidents that reflect discredit, yet unless some good purpose is served by their publication they are passed by.

Yet newspaper men are not perfect, and newspapers have enemies. The latter are, however, usually not the better element of the community, and their enmity is usually the result of the mentioning of some lawless or discreditable act. Such people do not stop to consider that they are favored many times and flayed but few. But as a rule the newspaper men have the respect and confidence of the leaders in the business, social and moral life of their communities, and they have it by deserving it.—American Falls Press, November 19, 1910.

EDITORS TRANSACT BUSINESS.

Matters Affecting Their Interests Up For Discussion.

The Eastern Idaho Press club met in American Falls Nov. 20, for a two day session during which they transacted much business and had a pleasant time. Those coming from the east arrived in a special car attached to No. 5 about 8 o'clock a. m. and were met by representatives of the Commercial club, and escorted to hotels. Editors from Twin Falls branch prevailed upon the Short Line to run the Twin Falls branch train through to Pocatello, owing to the fact that No. 18 was about four hours late, and arrived unannounced about 11:30, but were not enough to take good care of themselves and proceeded to the Remington, where they met most of their fellow-workers. No. 18 arrived about 2:30 bringing the editors of Lincoln and Blaine counties. Those present were: J. W. Jones, Rigby Star; M. B. Yennan, Idaho Falls Register; Byrd Trego, Blackfoot Republican; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brown, Blackfoot Optimist; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wright, Montpelier Examiner; Elbert Porter, Paris Post; Utah Jones, Blaine Enterprise; L. Bust, Livernore, Pocatello Tribune; W. M. Dooley, Shelley Pioneer; Joe H. DeWitt, Rupert Pioneer-Record; Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Bauman, Albion Nugget; S. D. Park, Burley Bulletin; Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur S. Hill, Twin Falls Times; Karl H. Dixon, Twin Falls News; C. P. Diehl, Hollister Herald; Carl Bornstein and Miss Violet Wallis, Preston News; W. P. Kennedy, Hagerman Sun; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Garland, Gooding Leader; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sims, Jerome News; W. N. Hues, Glenns Ferry Herald; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Doohelle, Bellevue News; E. E. Pickett, Halley Times; C. J. Lisle, Richfield Recorder; Mr. Edwards, Soldier Courier; Joel L. Priest, of Boise, Industrial Agent of the Short Line.

This being the annual business session and the most important of the year, little time was devoted to light soiling. At the first session M. B. Yennan gave a splendid paper on "Business Methods." Byrd Trego and C. E. Wright made splendid talks on "Methods and Cost of Securing Circulation," and "The Newspaper Dead Beat." A resolution declaring against a railway commission was introduced but tabled as not being a proper subject upon which to take action. Monday's session was given over to consideration of legislation, the club reiterating its position in favor of eliminating the second choice feature, changes making it less easy for members of one party to participate in the nomination of candidates for any other party, and a reasonable adjustment of the expenses allowed candidates, so they might at least meet the people of the counties before the primaries. The limit is placed so low in some cases as to prevent their doing so.

Reception For the Ladies.

The ladies who attended the Press club meeting were entertained at the home of Mrs. O. H. Barber Monday forenoon. In spite of the unfavorable weather there was a good attendance and a very enjoyable time. The Remington bus and Mr. Davis' automobile were called into requisition for good advantage. The following program was given: Piano duet, Miss Duttonfield and Miss McComb; piano solo, Miss Agnes Salee; reading, Miss Elliott; selection by the ladies quartette and a duet by Miss Dexter and Miss Salee.

POWER RESOURCES OF AMERICAN FALLS

Capacity of Plants to Be Increased Tenfold.

Thirty Thousand Horsepower to Be Added to the 3,000 Already Developed—Improvements Will Come Within a Year.

Thirty thousand additional horsepower is to be developed at American Falls during the coming year by the building of a new power station, which will constitute the main plant of the system, as projected several years ago. The wing dam, about one third built, is to be completed, and will be a part of the new works. The excavation for the new station, which has heretofore been referred to as Station No. 3, was made several years ago, but according to plans now adopted, is by far too small, and will be enlarged to more than double the present size, and above it will be a station more than 300 feet long. From an unofficial source, the Press is informed that the improvements will cost approximately half a million dollars. Authority for the announcement that the plant will be built the coming year comes from Governor Brady, who controls practically all the stock of the Idaho Consolidated Power Company. Governor Brady was here for a few hours Sunday, getting a few minutes of construction preparatory to submitting the plans for bids, and stated that work would begin as soon as the contracts could be let and contractors get materials for that purpose.

Development of the power resources of American Falls was begun about ten years ago by Governor Brady. The first unit of 1,000 horsepower was installed in the fan dam station. Later Station No. 2, on the west bank of the river was built, and another 2,000 horsepower unit added. About a year ago the third unit was installed, and these are now supplying light and power for American Falls, Blackfoot, Teton, Park, and Pocatello. The new station will have practically ten times the capacity of those now in operation and will enable the company to meet all demands for power that will be made within the next decade, whether for manufacturing or electric railways. It is the intention of the company to use this power for the rebuilding of Idaho, and the more of it that can be used in American Falls, without the building of expensive transmission lines the better the company will be satisfied. The development may mean much for American Falls, and comes at a time when it will be most beneficial.

One feature of the power plant installed here that has attracted the attention of men interested in the development of power, is that the more land placed under irrigation in the Snake River valley the greater the power, for the reason that water for all tracts must be reserved, and in being liberated for use on the fields must flow over the falls, thus increasing the minimum flow. As the country develops the power resources of American Falls will thus be increased and become more valuable.—American Falls Press, November 26.

The Eastern Idaho Press club will celebrate its fifth anniversary at Idaho Falls next June.

Scene at American Falls Idaho, where nearly a million dollars is to be expended during 1911 in railway betterments and electrical development. The Oregon Short Line is building a bridge across Snake river, just above the present structure, elevated fourteen feet above the old bridge. The bridge and fills will cost nearly half a million. The Idaho Consolidated Power Company will expend about the same amount in erecting a new station, at the right of above view, for 30,000 horse-power capacity. The view shows only a small portion of the falls.

The pleasant social at the club room Wednesday evening showed the fore-runner of many similar get-together meetings in future. Ever since the club was incorporated there has been a noticeable falling off in the interest of the members, owing to the fact that a board of directors under corporate law transacted all of the business and left the many members little or nothing to do with the club work. The meeting Wednesday evening was in the nature of an experiment and now that it has proven successful, a live smoker is expected each month, some merely for members and others for the whole city. The effort toward making the club the center of interests should not be allowed to die out, but rather intensified until every member feels that he has something more than a paying interest in the club.

Reports which seem perfectly authentic, show that Milner needs the strong arm of the law as an abiding presence, the year round. The recent hold-ups in the early evening are only the culmination of a long list of disorders which the good people of that city deplore as much as anybody. Reports have come to The Times that in two places liquor is being sold over the counter and that a certain lawless element is making such places regular hang-outs. If the condition is found as described after due investigation there should be some more arrests made and a determined effort made to clean up the so-called bad men who are infesting Milner. It is at least certain that a competent deputy sheriff, a man of nerve, should be kept in Milner the year round. The county would even then make money by paying his salary and prevent the number of petty and serious offenses being charged up against the county expense fund.

Western men who have been figuring out trade relations in the west are not at all jubilant over the Panama canal and its effect on the present heavy traffic over the transcontinental roads of the United States. The opinion seems to be general that Uncle Sam has been handed a lemon by the foxy European nations in building a canal for them to use. The reasons for such feeling of apprehensions, stated briefly in the lack of merchant marine by the states; the diversion of shipments to the canal which at present are shipped across the United States, and finally the effect of water competition over steam on the general interstate traffic. Some of the wise ones have figured it out that Seattle, Portland and San Francisco will lose fifty per cent of their present oriental trade by the direct routing from the orient to the European countries, even to eastern coast cities of this country. They claim that the inland merchant vessels will lose the same amount of revenue to the nation as a whole as to the west coast cities. The last contention made is that in the treaty rights made for neutrality of the canal that the paper wrapping for the lemon was put on to cover a pretty rotten lemon at that.

The railroads of the country have started upon a campaign of education to offset the bitter antagonism against the railroad rates and the gigantic trust which is being built up out of the profits. Circulars are being sent to this office in large quantities and to individuals all over the city, a part of a campaign which will cover the entire country, in which the railroads are defended and made to look like fit objects for St. Peter's abode rather than the infernal regions. Some of the arguments are by railroad men with every ounce of prejudice behind them, making them of little worth. Some are from noted men who have sold their birthright for the potage; while only a very few have real zest and handle the railroads from the economic standpoint. At any rate the railroads have learned that buying up state legislatures and national legislators will not always stem the tide of disapproval of railroad piracy. The railroads have a great many arguments in their favor which the honest man has to consider and admit as true. The railroad pioneers have done much for the country and such claim cannot be questioned, but as in every case the railroad is not willing to do its pioneering at its own expense. The people who go into the new country are made to support every dollar's worth of exploitation of the railroads. Nor is the railroad willing to place itself under the same legislation as the other taxpayers in any state, exemptions are claimed, lobbying is done to defeat deservedly promoted laws and in the whole aspect of the railroad situation for the past twenty-five years there has been a lawlessness that explains in a nutshell the present anti-railroad legislation, both state and national. The law breaker, whether it be a corporation or an individual, loses the sympathy of the law-abiding public, and there is not a man who dares to state that the railroads have not been law-breakers in times past.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

President Taft's fifth journey to Panama calls renewed attention to conditions on the Isthmus. His impressions of progress there are impressively favorable. The completion of the work depends principally on the serious problem of the Cutlers cut. Extensive slides have occurred on the side excavation, and more of them may be expected. Because of this the approach retaining walls may be constructed in the cut. Concerning this and other questions, there is interesting testimony from one hundred and twenty-four members and guests of the American Institute of Mining Engineers who has just returned from an inspection of the Panama Canal. The consensus of their reports is that the present plan of work is not only practical but the best possible under the conditions imposed. While, by the choice of a higher level, some of the difficulties and uncertainties in the Cutlers cut could perhaps have been minimized, a higher level has its disadvantages also. As to a canal at a lower level than the present, and especially at sea-level, Mr. Taft says that it "would lengthen the time of construction to such an extent as to weary the patience of the American people, make the cost prohibitive, and leave doubtful the question whether, with the difficulty of the Chagres river, such a canal would be possible." To this the engineers add that no one can guarantee the cost or even the satisfactory completion of a sea-level canal, and point out its liability to certain disturbances from which the lock canal is claimed to be comparatively free. As to dealing with the floods of the Chagres and other streams, the engineers are of the opinion that the creation of the great Gatun Lake by means of the Gatun Dam seems the best possible way; they add that the location of the dam, spillway, and locks is singularly favorable for such construction. Mr. Taft asserts that "the Gatun Dam and locks, with the lake now eighteen feet deep and slowly rising to a depth of eighty-five feet, is the key of the whole plan." The engineers are also unanimous in their praise of the manner in which sanitation and transportation and construction have been performed with a maximum of rapidity, skill, and economy. They declare that a spirit of loyal emulation, industry, and pride seems to animate officers and employees alike. This is a difficult spirit to arouse among workers in tropical climates. According to the engineers, the spirit is due to two causes: (1) the inspiring example of Colonel Goethals and his associates; and (2) the splendid work of the sanitation department under Colonel Goethals. Although politically outside of the canal zone, the cities of Panama and Colon have shared in the benefits of the sanitary administration and new reflect an unwonted cleanliness and safety. The opinion both of President Taft and of the engineers is that the canal will be completed by the date set for it, namely, January 1, 1915, and even earlier, provided Colonel Goethals and his associates receive the hearty support of the American people and their representatives in Congress. The waterway, so Colonel Goethals is reported to have said, will be ready for the experimental passage of ships a year before its definite completion and opening. But he anxiously insists that before the canal is opened to the world's commerce, a year should be devoted to testing purposes.

FALLING PRICES.

Instead of the chorus of jubilation we might expect over the recent announcements of lower and still falling food prices, we find in the press a surprising variety of comment. As was to be expected, of course, Democratic papers hasten to explain to us how their party's victory and lower food prices are simply cause and effect. Thus the New York World (Dem.) remarks that the trusts and combines stood pat on high prices as long as the people stood pat with their votes, and no longer. And to those who see in this year's unprecedented corn crop an adequate and non-partisan explanation of the decline, the same paper replies: "If it is the big corn crop alone that is bringing down the price of meats, how is it that its influence is felt before it is out of the shock?" "Cheap corn appeared only recently," it adds, "and it takes more than a month to turn corn into pork or beef."

Republican papers, on the other hand, are equally quick to point out that even in regard to its pet issue, the cost of living, the Democratic party's proverbial ill-luck still pursues it, since the decline in prices is taking place before the party has had a chance to use its newly delegated power, either to cut the tariff or to trounce the trusts. "There has been no time as yet for the election to produce any economic effect on the cost of living," declared the New York Globe (Rep.), which adds ironically: "It is, of course, conceivable that food prices were going down anyway as a result of economic conditions which which the election had nothing to do." The Pittsburg Sun (Ind.) suggests yet another reason: "Reduction in meat prices in the psychological moment preceding the trial of the Beef Trust may be viewed possibly in the light of maddening public sentiment and tempering a verdict to impose a fine instead of a sentence to imprisonment."

An unexpected comment comes from the Chicago Farmers and Drivers Journal, which, in a somewhat mix metaphors, complains that "on all sides are the bears in the foodstuff market," and "they're all taking a shot at the farmer's prosperity."

DREW A FINE CROWD.

First Lecture Course Number Greatly Appreciated.

The Kolllogg-Haines Singing Party, the first number on the lecture course, drew a crowded house Tuesday evening. The entertainment made a big hit with the audience from the start, and every number was heartily enjoyed. The quartette parts were particularly pleasing, owing to the splendid harmony of the four voices. The scene from Marthin as the closing number, was considered the best of the evening, while the sextette from Lucia de Lamarmore elicited, deservedly, honors with the former. The Kolllogg-Haines Singing Party should have no difficulty in getting return engagements from the local management. Messrs. Elliot and Kingsbury are to be congratulated on the success of the first number.

Geo. L. Evelevh of the Idaho Livestock Co. of Buhl, transacted business in Twin Falls, Thursday.

J. B. Steele, Geo. W. Clark and A. J. Owens, all of Three Creek, were business visitors in the city a few days the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McPherson, who own a place near Peavee, left Thursday evening for Portland, Ore., where they will spend the winter.

W. W. Humphrey left the latter part of the week for the east to look after important business matters and to attend the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Nevada and Yellowstone Transportation Co.

M. J. Grant, foreman of the Ferguson Sheep Co. of Shoshone, and J. W. White, another big sheepman of Shoshone, were in the city the first of this week looking for pastureage for a band of their horses.

ONE ON GRAND JUNCTION.

One of its Former Supporters Declares Himself For the Tract.

Revenge is sweet, and Twin Falls has it on Grand Junction, Colorado, whose papers recently said some very unkind things about its imaginary financial depression here. According to the report of one of their subscribers from that section, the 11 has been passed as a tract in Twin Falls. He says the tract, a letter was addressed to the gentlemen in question, John W. White, of Kimberly, who owns a farm six miles from Twin Falls. He says his paper from his old home is the Grand Junction News.

In response to a request from the Commercial club committee relative to the tract, a letter was addressed to the gentlemen in question, John W. White, of Kimberly, who owns a farm six miles from Twin Falls. He says his paper from his old home is the Grand Junction News.

In addition to setting forth the crop reports he has the following to say: "It is the best farm country I ever saw. Cattle, horses and hogs seem healthy and happy, and there is the best water for irrigation purposes in the state. Also, the finest cultivated soil I have seen. I predict the largest apple and pear country in the state."

In response to the question: "Would you advise your friends back in the old home to come to the Twin Falls tract?" he writes: "Yes, because it is ideal." He also sends a list of five farmers that might desire to leave the territory that is contiguous to the Grand Junction News. As though we might have a few of Grand Junction's citizens here. Maybe they will have some vacant buildings that we do not have.

JENKINS BUYS INTEREST.

Joe Meyer's Interest in Store Taken Over in Deal Closed Saturday.

E. J. Jenkins now owns the controlling interest in the Meyer & Company mercantile establishment. The result of a deal that was completed Saturday, when Mr. Joe Meyer sold his one-third interest to Mr. Jenkins, who had previously had a third interest in the business. Mr. Meyer has gone to Great Falls, Mont., where in all probability he will engage in a similar business.

Mr. Jenkins is well qualified to continue the management of the store, which has had a rapid and sure growth in the two years of ownership. Before coming to Twin Falls, Mr. Jenkins was interested in one of the Jarboville stores of Boise. Under his able management the store may be expected to enjoy a still more rapid growth in the next few years.

BAD CHINUP WILDED

Escaped Convict Is Riddled With Bullets.
White Deputy Warden Dan W. Ackley of Idaho has been wounded in the shooting of a convict who escaped from the state prison at Pocatello. The convict, Jim Tamm, a desperate Indian prisoner, about to be returned from the state prison at Pocatello, was shot and killed by Sheriff Richardson of Harney county, narrowly missing the latter's head, and as Ackley leaped up and grappled with him, Tamm fired a shot through the abdomen. Richardson finally got his own revolver out and riddled the Indian's body with six bullets, killing him instantly. The shooting occurred at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, according to advice received in this city by Warden J. W. Snook of the state prison from the scene of the tragedy.

Ackley was dangerously wounded, but has a chance for recovery, according to a telegram received by Warden Snook from Richardson. Owing to the fact that Ackley is a large, heavy man, the surgeon at Burns stated that it was difficult to ascertain from superficial examination whether the patient had been fatally wounded or not. The bullet has not been located yet. If it has not, he will survive. But in the event that the lead cut through the intestinal wall, possibly fatal infection may develop.

Warden Snook made arrangements immediately to dispatch Dolso, surgeon to care for the Indian. Warden Ackley was very sorry that the Burns physician in attendance is an experienced and able practitioner and that the patient is in such a precarious recovery. However, if serious developments are reported Wednesday, Warden Snook will send Dolso surgeons on, anyway.

Ackley is one of the oldest and most efficient chief catchers in the northwest and had been connected with the Idaho penitentiary in various capacities for many years. He is well known in Idaho and surrounding states. He has a wife and family, who live on a ranch between Boise and Nampa. Mrs. Ackley was advised of the shooting of her husband. She was prostrated with grief at the news and made immediate arrangements to go to his side, but Warden Snook received a wire from Ackley saying: "Absolutely do not let my wife to try to make the trip. Please say I will recover with out doubt." On the receipt of that telegram at a late hour Tuesday night, Warden Snook advised Mrs. Ackley not to start for Burns as the road is a long stage ride from Yale, Ore., the closest railroad point.

Mr. Ackley had served the state in the penitentiary for 17 years. He was once warden, serving out the unexpired term of Warden Perrin, who was removed in Governor Morrison's administration.

Warden Snook was greatly shocked at the shooting of Ackley, saying: "The death of the deputy warden would be not only to his wife and five children, but to the state as well. He is one of the best men that ever worked in the state penitentiary. There is the authority of General Custer was true, that 'the only good Indian is a dead one.' It applied to the case of Jim Tamm, the state convict, whose flimsy and the manner thereof, is the logical conclusion of a desperate career.

Tamm's real name was Arthur Fisher. It is said, and the wires from Sheriff Richardson of Burns to Warden Snook stated that it had developed that the Indian's name resided at Lawrence, Kan., and that Fisher, alias Tamm, came from a respectable family.

Montana larches are making considerable progress, though selling to feeders for a mere song. Their condition indicated a visitation encountered in consequence of a dry season following the winter. Idaho, Utah and Wyoming have also shipped larches and the recuperative progress suggests a part of the crop will be available. These larches have been scarce at Chicago and Omaha, being worth more money for stock purposes on the range, but they are plentiful in the west and westers have been nearly the same, which tells the liquidation story eloquently.

WORKING FOR EXPOSITION

San Francisco Expects to Raise Money Easily for Panama Exhibit.
No better evidence could be had of the unanimity with which California is working to secure the international exposition of 1915 than the vote polled throughout the state November 2nd. It was a record-breaking vote that imposed a world's fair tax of $5,000,000 upon the people. A review of this vote as the figures actually stand is calculated and revealing. It proves that from the northern boundary of California to the Mexican line, 800 miles away, Californians were willing to pledge to back their advocacy of San Francisco with hard cash. The tremendous favorable vote is all the more gratifying to Californians because the state is geographically divided into five distinct sections, but by sentiment in this contest for the exposition the state is united.

In San Francisco a large majority would be expected, and it is no surprise to learn that the vote there won 18,279 votes for the proposition to cast $2,719 votes for the measure, and but 2,453 against it. Across the bay from San Francisco, in Berkeley, the vote was 10,000 for the measure and 1,000 against it. In Alameda county, in which are cities of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley, returned their verdict by casting 18,937 votes for the proposition to tax themselves for San Francisco, and 1,634 against it.

Sacramento, the capitol of the state, located in the heart of the Sacramento Valley, and distinctly an interior town, voted for the tax, the total world show at San Francisco, and only 1,246 against it. San Mateo, on the peninsula near San Francisco, voted 3,294, and Contra Costa county, which is a long stage ride from Yale, Ore., the closest railroad point.

That is a wonderful showing, unprecedented in any state. It is the result presented in plain figures, not glossed over in general terms.

Should Louisiana bring forward her vote for the bond proposition in the northern state, it could be shown how far behind this record she falls. The southerners in the north presented their record over the state.

But now as to the southern part of California. Los Angeles and San Diego have the largest vote. San Diego was freely predicted that Southern California, 600 miles away from San Francisco, would never give a favorable vote for the proposition, which meant that the district should carry its heavy part of a state tax to help San Francisco in her exposition fight. Yet Los Angeles voted better than 2 to 1 for the tax. In that metropolitan of the "Southland" 21,995 votes were cast for the tax, and 10,839 against it. In San Diego, which is far below Los Angeles, all but snug against the Mexican line, 3,366 votes went for the tax, and only 1,690 against it. Even in Imperial county, which stretches along the Nevada line far to the south, 120 votes were polled for the tax, and 38 against it. Fresno returned a favorable vote of 823, and an opposing vote of but 1,556. Monterey county went 2,051 votes for the tax, and 422 against it.

So now the total tax of $5,000,000 for the exposition. It passed by an overwhelming vote, and Louisiana can not show anything approaching the unanimity of California. In southern California the tax passed better than 2 to 1. The total state vote sent it through to 1.

NEW DAILY EXAMINER

The Daily Examiner will probably be the name of a new afternoon newspaper, which unless present plans carry out, will miss the opportunity of being published during the last week in December.

The new sheet will be actively Democratic in policy, but according to the plan of the paper, it will be published without fear or favor, be it Democratic, Republican, or anything else. W. M. Donaldson, who has been active in organizing for the advent of the new paper, states that it is the intention of the publisher to give it a high class, well edited, afternoon newspaper. At the securing of a telegraph news service and already a sufficient sum of money has been subscribed to secure the installation of a well equipped plant.

In discussing the plans of the company yesterday, W. M. Donaldson said: "The time is ripe for an old and out daily Democratic newspaper in Boise, which will print all the news, all the news, and especially the Democratic news. We believe we can build up a paper which will become a power all over the state, and we have the money in hand to carry out our plan."

"We have not yet decided upon permanent quarters, but have two locations in mind, whichever of which we can secure will be our office. We are now a good deal of machinery have already been placed, and the balance can be secured on short notice. Orders for the new franchise for a telegraph news service, and will close this up within a day or two. Our plan for the publication of the paper is to publish it twice a week, which will present the news in a clean, unbiased fashion, our policy to be confined exclusively to our editorial staff."

FAIL TO RAISE BONDS.

New Orleans Cannot Get Bidders For Seven Million Dollar Bonds.

Not a little consternation has arisen in New Orleans as a result of the failure to find any bidder for the $7,000,000 of improvement bonds offered there last month. The state legislature passed a special act which permitted the city to become the depository of the money he paid for the bonds, yet still there were no purchasers. The following communication from the state of Louisiana states how the city regards her own hygienic and financial condition:

It seems that the finances of the sewerage department are entirely in the hands of its friends. If the board can not realize on the $7,000,000 of bonds it is authorized to issue, it will certainly be in any condition to attract strangers in 1915. Everybody who was in New York while the subway was under construction will be certain that the condition of many of our streets will be, if the work is not pushed. We are still afflicted with stinking gutters and disgusting cesspools that make the extermination of mosquitoes and flies impossible. We are told we can not get rid of these until the funds are received. Since other methods have failed to place the bonds, why would it not be a good plan to try a popular subscription?

CALF AND LAMB CROPS.

Extracts from Breeder's Gazette of November 16, 1910.

While speculation is still rife as to how short the winter range will be of cattle and sheep as a result of hercule liquidation, no doubt exists that both calf and lamb crops were short over the west this year. From Texas to Montana the same story is heard. Fewer cows were bred than in many years and a winter of unusual severity followed by poor grazing season is not favorable for raising a large percentage. What adverse climatic conditions did not accomplish in the way of declining the crop may be charged up to the butcher who has been paying attractive prices ever since range calves were fit for vealings. When the breeder can not afford as much money for a 200-pound calf as for the same beast in the yearling stage he is disposed to dodge risk and sell. This year in many sections grazing conditions and winter feeding prospects were such that cows had to be closely shipped and calves went to market with their dams. A large increase in calf receipts at Chicago represents an influx of range-bred calves from the northwest.

More calves are counted as cattle. Week after week during the closing range season 70 per cent of the branded supply at Omaha was either cows or their young progeny. Wyoming, Nebraska, the Dakotas and Montana have sacrificed calves of both sexes as never before.

Texas is in a similar plight. While the summer calf run at Fort Worth in Kansas is heavy, the winter calves are scarce. It is not to be inferred that the stock was held back and is now in breeders' hands, at the whole south-western calf crop was conspicuously short. Probably a larger percentage went to the butcher than in former years. A heavy calf crop was marketed nearly half the movement. A Texas man who is well posted was asked recently if the steadily advancing price of cows did not imply renewed interest in breeding and replied emphatically in the negative. "It is the butcher and feeder who are making current cow prices and the stock is going to the slaughter houses," he said. "Owners of grass in Kansas and Oklahoma were compelled to take cows. The spring and fall sales were heavy and the consequent drain in Texas breeding stock was severe."

Never before has the northwest mar-

POWER RESOURCES OF IDAHO

Snake River Drops Mile in Fall and Rapid in Travel Across the State, Affording Many Opportunities for the Development of Power, One of Idaho's Great Resources

Idaho's power resources are valuable almost beyond the power of mind to grasp in their totality. No other state has been more lavishly blessed in this respect. Snake river which winds through three hundred miles of land which will soon become an unbroken chain of irrigated land, drops a mile in three miles, providing almost endless facilities for the generation of power. This will eventually mean the work of electric railways, numbers of manufacturing institutions, which will bring a market to the door, and the inducements for the farm and home that will make life in Idaho worth while.

The power resources of Idaho are a factor which can hardly be overestimated in the effect their development will have on the future of the state. Any one of a number of places can generate enough power to turn the state into a great industrial center at present in the state, and furnish light for every home. The Snake river is the mother of them all, as she is irrigating the state, a distance of 300 miles or so, the river drops more than 6,000 feet, in falls and rapids. There are miles of water power in the Salmon falls, such as at Idaho Falls and in the canyon below Miller, and several falls from fifty to 200 feet, notably at American Falls, the American falls, Tule, Salmon falls, Swan falls, Boise and Horseshoe Bend, utilizing, however, but a small part of the power that will in time be developed.

Power is already being generated at many places in southern Idaho, at Preston, Malad, Portello, American Falls, Minidoka dam, Milliner, Shoshone, Halley, Salmon falls, Boise and Horseshoe Bend, utilizing, however, but a small part of the power that will in time be developed.

Idaho's power resources constitute an asset which can hardly be overestimated as a factor in the development of the state, one which will lighten the burden of the farmer as well as of the city. The business man and the pleasure lover. And that time may not be so far away. If the future holds as much in store as the past has, Idaho will be a rich land in the next few years.

times as much, and the development of power will keep pace with other forms of activity. The age of wood is passing, and the age of electricity is coming into her own.

DRY FARMING

Great Advances Being Made in Science of Growing Crops Without Irrigation—Dry Farm Area Extending

Dry farming is not new in Idaho nor is it any more than the soil itself. Whenever irrigation is not employed it is "dry farming", although not commonly so designated, but called just "farming". The term originated in the semi-arid west to distinguish between land that is farmed where irrigation is employed and where it is not. It is not as irrigation is, it should not attempt to take all the water, nor assume to have all the advantages in its favor for it has not.

Dry farming has been practiced in Idaho for twenty-five years, and has developed a long list of adherents who scorn irrigation. In the Snake river valley it has developed to a science fully as much if not more so than irrigation, and is attended with a degree of success that is not to be belittled. It has certain advantages over irrigation, and must acknowledge certain disadvantages, but the two systems will work together to advantage of the farmer.

FROM HIDE TO HARNESS IN 35 DAYS

An American Falls Factory That Will Benefit the Whole State.

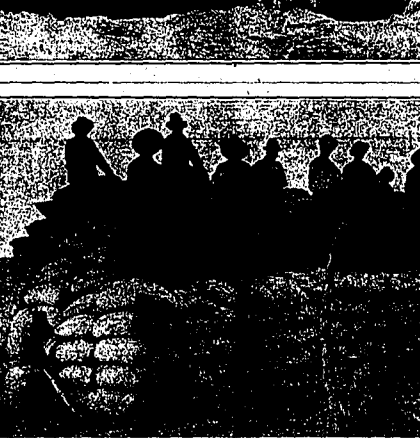

One of the interesting points to be noted by the members of the Press club while in American Falls was through the tannery and harness factory located here. This was the advance age of the 1800 cow and often engineers pulled out of Portello on freight trains and slept a couple of nights in their cabs with hands in the throats of a laboring engine until Huntington was reached. Those were rare and wonderful rail road days. Today the Oregon Short Line is the most modern and best equipped systems in the west. Its road bed is a model, its rolling stock up to the minute, its motive power the finest to be found.

Definite plans for the construction of the Snake river dam, which will double the power of the Snake river, have been perfected. The dam will be located at American Falls, Idaho, and will be the largest dam in the world. The dam will be 1,000 feet high, and will have a length of 1,000 feet. The dam will be constructed of concrete, and will have a capacity of 1,000,000 cubic feet of water. The dam will be the largest dam in the world, and will be the largest dam in the world.

RAILROAD DEVELOPMENT IN SOUTHERN IDAHO

The Oregon Short Line Has Not Only Kept Ahead, But Ahead of Development in Southern Idaho, and Has Been a Great Factor in Her Growth of Projected Improvements Will Entail an Expenditure of Millions of Dollars

It's a safe bet to say that the Oregon Short Line is the most modern and best equipped systems in the west. Its road bed is a model, its rolling stock up to the minute, its motive power the finest to be found. The Oregon Short Line is the most modern and best equipped systems in the west. Evidence That Dry Farming Pays at American Falls, Grain From the Big Dry Farm.

Original stem of the Short Line system, and is today one of the most important stretches of track in the Pacific northwest. The old Utah Northern, from Salt Lake to Butte, built and owned by the Mormon church, was the pioneer rail road in this section of the state. It was a narrow gauge affair and part of the grade is still in evidence where the line has since been changed. It was purchased by the Short Line system and the gauge changed to standard. Since that time the Short Line in Idaho has built the following branches as feeders for the main line: Blackfoot to Mackay, called the Salmon River railroad, 85.1 miles. Idaho Falls to Yellowstone, called the St. Anthony Railroad company, 73.8 miles. From junction point to town of the same name, and the Yellowstone Railroad company from St. Anthony on to the national park boundary, a total distance from junction to park line of 187.6 miles. Elva Spur, from Elva to Menan, 10.3 miles. Burgis City spur, Sugar City to Snake River 5.7 miles. Minidoka to Buhl, known as the Minidoka and Southwest railroad, 73.8 miles. Twin Falls to Rogerson, 26.8 miles. Shoshone to Ketchum, the Wood River branch, 69.5 miles. Nampa to Vale, 24.8 miles. Ontario to Vale, 16.1 miles. Huntington down Snake river, the end of track being now 60 miles from the junction point to town of the same name. Rupert to Bliss, through the heart of the Twin Falls North side project. Burley south into the great Goose Creek project. Moreland to Aberdeen through the fertile American Falls canal system. And in addition to these the Short Line is now engaged in construction of a branch from Montpelier

The mines of Southern Idaho will contribute in no small degree to the general prosperity of this section of Idaho. These interests are so varied in character, so vast in area that they will support large populations from the nearest center. They will supply the necessities of life, and the wealthier among them will make their homes here.

A glance at the map of Idaho, of eastern Oregon, of Montana and of northern Utah will reveal a mineral region of vast extent and richness in any one of its. In some parts of the region indicated, the presence of "pay rocks" is as yet hardly suspected, but in a large area there are rich deposits of silver, copper, iron, lead, zinc, and other metals. GUN CLUB OPENS SEASON.

Will Compete for Medal for Best Season's Score.

The Twin Falls Rod and Gun club will begin its season's shoot at the club grounds next Sunday afternoon, December 4th. The officers of the club in order to create new interest in the regular weekly shoots, have decided to give a medal for the best score in three different classes and will offer handouts to the poorer members in order to make the contest more even. The following schedule has been arranged by the members:

The weekly score for season medals shall consist of 25 from 16 yards for 10 contestants.

The members of the club shall be divided into three classes--A, B and C, respectively.

Members of A class are to be credited with the number of targets broken out of the score of 25 shot at.

Each member of B class shoots at 25 targets and half the number missed by him out of the 25 targets shot at, the total of both shots to be placed to his credit as his score for the day.

C class members shoot at 25 targets and the whole number of targets missed by each member respectively, the total of both to be credited as above.

A class shall consist of members who score 81 per cent or over (actual). B class shall consist of members who score 78 to 81 per cent (actual).

C class to consist of members who score under 76 per cent (actual).

The secretary shot each week places members in their respective classes based upon their actual individual shooting at the last week, in accordance with the above system of classification.

The shooting season for the club medals shall consist of 15 meets of the club. The member having the highest average--including handicap--at the end of the season shall be declared winner of the first prize; second member, several prizes, and so on in accordance with the number of prizes put up by the club. This to be decided by lot under the "high gun" system at the end of the season.

All contestants must shoot at least 12 scores in order to qualify as winner of any of the club season medals. New members join the club after the beginning of the season shoot may be permitted to "shoot in."

If a member of the B class scores all of his targets but 3 out of his 25 shot at, he is permitted to shoot at 5 more targets in order to complete his score, the same rule to apply to all uneven numbers in the B class allowance.

No member can score more than the "possible."

P. J. Holman, at his own request, will be disqualified as a contestant for any of the club medals for this season. Dennis Holman, at his own request will remain in A class during the season's shoot.

PROGRESS ON RESERVOIR.

D. C. MacWatters of North Side Company, Visits Boise.

"If we had only had about seven more sunny days," said D. C. MacWatters of Milner, who spent Monday in the city, in speaking of the two big reservoir enterprises which the Twin Falls North Side Land & Water company are interested in, "we would have accomplished something which has never been done before in the history of reservoir and dam building, completed a million yards of sprinkled and rolled embankment, besides all the concrete work necessary, in two and a half months, a contract which usually takes at least a year to finish. As it is the work on the Jerome and Wilson two reservoirs is 60 per cent completed; we are still keeping a large force of men on hand, and every hour that is warm enough they are at work putting on the finishing touches. We shall be able to turn the water on in large quantities during the first week in December, I am sure."

In speaking of the phenomenal work accomplished, Mr. MacWatters said that it was due to two excellent contractors, Donald Grant & Co. of Milwaukee, Wis., and to the business foremen at work. More than 500 men with 600 teams, 22 reaping machines and 1000 horses shared with a combined output continuously from September.

During the beginning of the work the contractors were greatly hampered by not getting enough men and teams, but after expending the money was laid off the railroad work and came down from the north, a large number being brought from Oregon.

"When these reservoirs are completed they will furnish storage water for 20,000 acres, the Twin Falls North Side Land & Water company, the only one of the kind in the State river fronting plenty of water for the entire year."

Mr. MacWatters mentioned the fact that after getting the 20,000 acres of the river fronting plenty of water, of which J. S. Clark is manager and Robert Noble handles interests, he will complete a building a railroad from Hagerman to Wendell, which Boise just west after approving the site of the proposed railroad, and was wonderfully impressed with the city.

"Not only was Major Cathlamt struck with your hotels and your handsome business blocks," said Mr. MacWatters, "but he spoke particularly of the quality and hard sense of the business men whom he met in Boise. I feel sure that he soon will be favorably impressed with this entire section and will open up and be the means of developing another big piece of land in one of the most fertile sections of the state."
