GENERAL NEWS OF THE WORLD

PRESIDENT VEToes STATEHOOD BILL

Denounces Judiciary Recall Feature in His Message

Republicans Greatly Pleased with His Attitude--Senator Smith Introduces New Statehood Bill Eliminating Objectionable Clause from Arizona Constitution.

Washington, Aug. 16.—A final attempt to secure statehood for New Mexico and Arizona began in both houses of congress today, following the receipt of President Taft's emphatic veto of the statehood resolution. His veto message, denouncing the judiciary recall feature of the Arizona constitution, was read in the house with long applause from the Republicans. It was referred to the territories committee of that body, with Chairman Flood promising prompt action.

With the announcement of the veto, and following the conference with President Taft, Senator Smith of Michigan, chairman of the senate territories committee, introduced a new statehood resolution, modifying the president's views and providing for the admission of both states on the condition that Arizona strike the recall of judges provision from its new constitution.

GIBSON'S SALARY FIXED

Carey Act Agent Will Receive $6 per Day for Services.

Will H. Gibson will remain in the pay of the state land board as special Carey act agent until the end of September, and will be paid at the rate of $6 a day and expenses. He has been at work already four months in visiting the different Carey act projects and in checking up on the service given the settlers.

There was a brief meeting of the state land board yesterday afternoon, at which the Gibson matter was discussed quite frankly. An effort was made to fix the compensation at $10 a month, but the question was raised as to whether Mr. Gibson had been working all the time. Nobody seemed to know. Finally the compensation was fixed at $5 a day.

BIG CITIES GET BANKS

Postal Savings Successful, is Extended to Large Centers.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Encouraged by the success of the postal savings system in the big cities, the post offices of New York, Chicago, St. Louis, and Boston, Postmaster General Hitchcock has decided to extend the system rapidly to all the large cities and today designated as postal savings depositories, Kansas City, Pittsburg, Detroit, Buffalo, San Francisco, Cincinnati, Seattle, Indianapolis, Denver and Portland, Oregon.

The deposits in New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Boston for the first five days amounted to $110,000, which rate the annual deposits for the four cities would amount to about $7,000,000. There are altogether 420 large city post offices of the first class and it is the purpose to have them all designated as postal savings depositories before the first of the year.

With few exceptions the post offices of the second class, of which there are about 1,000, already have been designated and very shortly the designation of third class offices will be completed.

COLONEL DEAKE A BENEDICT

Twin Falls Man United to Sweetheart of His Youth.

The many friends of Colonel J. W. C. Deake will be surprised and delighted to hear of his marriage to a sweetheart of his youth, Mrs. Sarah Newton, at Hornell, New York, on August 10. The Colonel and his bride will be at home in Twin Falls after spending a honeymoon in Western New York, according to the Whitesville News, which contains the following account of the wedding:

Col. J. W. C. Deake, a son of Mrs. William Deake of this place, is to be joined in wedlock with Mrs. Sarah Newton at 174 River street, Hornell, today at noon. Rev. Brown to perform the ceremony.

There is no doubt to be a surprise to many who have known the genial bachelor since his youth. It was back in 1885 that Julius, a mere lad, was and fell in love with Sarah C. Rice at Raymond, Pa., when visiting his sister, Mrs. G. L. Blackman. A short time afterwards, Mr. Deake went to Ashville, N. C., and a letter for the time ended the love affair. The years drifted by and Miss Rice became the wife of George Newton of Hornell, but Julius remained a bachelor.

From Ashville Mr. Deake moved to Twin Falls, Idaho. This spring he came for a visit with his mother and friends. While at Raymont, he learned the address of his former sweetheart in Hornell and called upon her. Mr. Newton had passed away and the old courtship was once again revived where it was dropped long ago.

RAILROADS OBJECT

Claim Assessment Under New Plan is Not Equitable.

Dulse, Idaho, August 15.—According to arguments presented by representatives of the Oregon Short Line and the Great Northern railroads to the state board of equalization this afternoon, the railroads in this state should remain for the next year practically where they are. Upon their estimates the board might be justified in placing the value of main lines at about $29,000 a mile no more, the actual value of the Short Line being estimated by its representative between $30,000 and $34,000 per mile and that of the Great Northern at $30,446 by the representative of that road, and the further argument being put forth that land values and prices have advanced in this year, assessed at 100 per cent of their value which would leave the railroads, where the representative of the Great Northern suggested they ought to be, at the present valuation of $16,500 per mile.

LIVERPOOL STORM CENTER

Three Thousand Troops Ordered Out to Maintain Order.

London, Aug. 15.—Liverpool, the storm center of the strike which is menacing the trade of Great Britain, was under arms today. In addition to the regular police and constabulary from surrounding cities, 3,000 troops of infantry and cavalry, under General Mackinnon Wood, were quartered in the city prepared to back up the police in maintaining order. The rioting in Homer street, while not directly connected with the strike, has had a good effect on its outcome, as the rowdy element was subdued.

IMPORTANT OPINION RENDERED BY COURT

TITLE TO LAND DOES NOT INCLUDE WATER

Judge Walters Holds That Water May Be Diverted from Private Lands Providing Owner is Not Applying it to Beneficial Use.

Shoshone, Aug. 10.—Judge Walters has announced a decision in a case of far-reaching importance and which is without parallel in the history of litigation in this state. The case concerned was entitled, Frank Marshall vs. the Niagra Orchard company, and it appeared that the Niagra Orchard company were the owners of a certain tract of land on Snake river, near Buhl, upon which is developing several thousand horsepower. Marshall had made application with the state engineer's office to secure said spring as a power site and the defendant company contested his right in this regard on the ground that inasmuch as the spring was located within their land that the state engineer had no authority to grant a permit and contended further that water appropriations could only be made on the unappropriated public domain and not upon private lands.

Judge Walters held that in this state an appropriation of water may be made upon the private lands of any person from any spring or natural stream which may flow upon or through such land, or in other words, that if one owns the land, he does not own the water unless he applies it to a beneficial use.

WRECK ON PENNSYLVANIA

Two Killed and 30 Injured in Accident.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Aug. 13.—Two persons were killed and thirty injured when the Pennsylvania eighteen-hour train, on route from Chicago to New York, jumped the track on the west-ern outskirts of the city at 6:30 o'clock this evening, while going at fifty miles an hour.

In leaving the rails the two engines pulling the passenger train, side-wiped a freight engine and the three piled up in a mass of twisted iron. The baggage, smoker, buffet cars and two sleepers turned over in the ditch. Most of the injured were seated in the diner and smoker when the accident occurred. The wreckage has not been cleared and the list of dead may be more in number than reported. The thirty or more injured are now in the hospitals, and it is believed that at least four or five will die.

BLESSED ARE THE PERSECUTED
 Jeremiah 17—Aug. 20

"Blessed are ye when men shall revile you and persecute you and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake."—Matthew 5:11.

Persecution implies that the person or thing persecuted possessed some quality of power that are feared. When the persecution is for religion it proves that the persecutor realizes his own weakness to meet the arguments in a more rational way. It implies either that the persecutors are weak or that the arguments of the persecuted are strong.

There have been persecutions from the very earliest dawn of history. Cain persecuted his brother Able for the death because the latter was right and the persecutor was wrong. It is safe to say that the persecutors are always wrong even if we cannot say that the persecuted are always right. The principle of persecution is a wrong one. Whoever, therefore finds himself disposed to persecute another, either with physical torture or by harassing of slander and epithets, should immediately inquire respecting his own heart condition, for there is surely something wrong.

Today's study draws our attention to the persecutions endured by one of the Lord's faithful Prophets. He was a patriot in the highest sense of the word in that he looked for the highest good for his nation along the lines of Divine wisdom. His principle was "God First," and he will know that only this procedure could bring Divine blessings to his nation. He was of course misunderstood by the king and his counselors. They did not like him because he told the truth, for leasly—they preferred prophets who would tell them of their own wisdom, greatness and success of their policies.

At the time of the study Zedekiah was on the throne. He was a vassal of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Chaldeans, whose seat of empire was to the north. Hoping for assistance from Egypt on the south, Judah revolted, contrary to the warning of the Lord through Jeremiah. The Chaldeans held siege, and the Egyptian army started for their deliverance.

The siege was temporarily raised and the hopes of Judah rose. Nevertheless, Jeremiah persisted in declaring as at first that the end of the kingdom was near, that they would be swallowed up in Babylon.

Faithful Jeremiah Persecuted. Self-willed, the king and his princes esteemed Jeremiah as a traitor to the nation, and their opponent. Alas! they should have realized that the nation was God's and that Jeremiah alone was standing faithful with the great King.

When the Chaldean army had withdrawn from the siege, Jeremiah continued to cast in his lot with some of the nation living outside the city walls—in the portion of the tribe of Benjamin. Attempting to do this he was arrested on the charge of disloyalty and taken to the dungeon to be co-work with the Chaldeans against the interests of his own land. Although he denied the charge he was put into prison.

Jerusalem was honeycombed with underground cisterns and vaults, arched overhead, and these were called "cabins." They were designed to serve as reservoirs for water in time of drought or in time of siege. The bottoms of these "cabins," or cisterns, after the removal of the water, were frequently deep with mud and slime. The next chapter tells us of the terrible condition of the dungeon into which Jeremiah was put. We read, "They let down Jeremiah with cords, and in the dungeon there was no water but mire; so Jeremiah sunk in the mire." When finally they drew him out, we read, they took "old cast off cloths and old rotten rags and laid them down by cords into the dungeon to Jeremiah," who put them under his arms and was drawn up by the cords. In this dungeon the Prophet remained "many days."

Not from sympathy, not from righteousness, but from a desire to inquire of the Prophet respecting the future, the king had him taken out of the dungeon. However much the king despised Jeremiah and refused to recognize his words, he nevertheless, in his heart, realized that he was a servant of Jehovah, and he feared that his messages were true.

The Prophet's course in answering the king's question is very praiseworthy. He altered not a word of what he had previously told. In a kind way he urged the king not to heed the contrary prophecies, but that his own dire statements must be true because they were the Word of the Lord.

At his entreaty he was no longer put down in the mud bottom of the cistern but was allowed to remain a prisoner in the court prison, and was granted daily a loaf of bread for his sustenance.

Blessed Are They Who Are Persecuted

For Righteousness' Sake

When thinking of the prisons and their forms of persecution, physical and mental, it is well to remember that the mental attitude of the one persecuted has much to do with the amount of sufferings. As, for instance, Jeremiah in his dungeon, with all these unhappy surroundings, had a mind at peace with God, whereas the very king who caused him to be put in prison a little later, captured by the Chaldeans, had his sight destroyed and was put into a dungeon. Poor man! Disappointed in everything, with no human sympathy and no fellowship with the Almighty, his mind have been a terrible dungeon experience.

We are reminded of others who were put in prison for righteousness' sake—Saint Peter and John, Saints Paul and Silas. The world can never understand the power which, operating in these men, enabled them to rejoice in persecutions. With their backs bleeding from the whips of torture and hands and feet fast in the stocks, most uncomfortable, they were yet able to sing praise to God for the privilege they enjoyed of suffering with Christ, suffering for righteousness' sake, and thus filling up a share of the afflictions of Christ. Such characters we are to emulate. We are to understand that such joy and peace in the midst of sorrow and persecution can come only from the Lord.

The Master's words in our text apply yesterday, today and tomorrow—so long as the reign of evil is permitted—"Blessed are ye when men shall revile you and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely for my sake." But to be worthy of this blessing, and to receive it means to develop and possess a character which the enemies of righteousness would deem worthy of persecution. The Scriptures declare that persecution will be the portion of the faithful people of God throughout this Age—until the establishment of the Kingdom of Messiah. Under the new regime suffering for righteousness will not be possible. Mark the Master's words, "Whosoever will live godly in this present time shall suffer persecution." To live godly means, not merely to abstain from vicious and evil sin, but to be a hero in the strife, a defender of the right and an opposer of the wrong—a servant of righteousness, a soldier of the cross.

A. M. Shafter of Tuhl was elected as secretary for the balance of the present season. The matter regarding a pennant was discussed and will be disposed of in the near future. Miller, Rupert, Burley and Hoyburn were not represented but all sent in word that they would endorse any action taken. There seems to be a general satisfaction in the progress the league is making and with the support given. At this writing there is not a dollar of indebtedness against the league which fact they are to be congratulated for.

TWIN FALLS COUNTRY

Three year old Jonathan apple tree in the Twin Falls country.

Three year old Rome Beauty apple tree in the Twin Falls country.

For FIFTY DOLLARS PER ACRE LESS than the present price of other orchard tracts in the GREATEST IRRIGATED EMPIRE OF THE WEST, and I will CARE FOR THE TREES FREE until 1915.

The Hardin Orchard Tracts

Ideal both as to soil and location, include 120 acres, 1-2 miles north of Filer, Idaho, viz., the east 1-2 of the northeast 1-4 and the northeast 1-4 of the southeast 1-4 of section 31, township 9, north of range 16, east of the Boise meridian. They have been surveyed into and the east 1-2 of each one has been set to fruit trees and the west 1-2 put in alfalfa. The trees were planted in the spring of 1911 and have made exceptional growth since.

They are in excellent condition now, owing to the expert care that has been given them, and I will agree to bring them to a bearing state, giving them professional supervision in return for what I can raise, until January 1, 1915. The value of the improvements already upon the land is $2,000. THE FRUIT SELECTED IS THE BEST ADAPTED TO THE IDAHO CLIMATE, and is mostly the commercial apple, consisting of the Jonathan, Rome Beauty, and Winesap varieties.

But each tract has enough of cherries, summer apples, apricots, prunes, plums, pears and peaches to adequately supply a family.

Price of the entire tract, to secure a quick sale, is no

THE MAN AND THE HOPE.

As no community can be greater than its citizenship, so we measure the new Idaho by the men who are working for its building. Soil is the richest in the world; sunshine is eternal; water is abundant; irrigation is supreme.

What of the men?
The days are but few since there stretched across the state broad reaches of sagebrush, cloaking a desert that appealed only to the courage of men; that lured only by defying. The coyote was unscared; serpents rattled their deadly warning. But the MAN of Idaho was of courage; he was resourceful. He grazed his cattle and herded his sheep. Along the valleys where crystal streams made music in the canyons of lava, he watered patches of the lowlands, and grew alfalfa for winter feed. The shakiness of the native cattle and sheep yielded to the nutrition which came from the moistened lava ash; new breeds of cattle came to mock the long horns and ribby sides that searched the crevices for bunch grass and buck brush. Rambouillet and Delaine, Lincoln and Cotswold crowded out the thin coated and angular limbed native sheep.

For the MAN of Idaho worked knowingly as well as courageously. Herds grew in size and character, money came as compensation for energy, thrift and courage. It was the first touch of irrigation to the desert lands of Idaho.

Development followed rapidly. The work of the MAN of Idaho disclosed possibilities that appealed to the courage and energetic of other states. The NEW MAN came to Idaho. And the New Man was also courageous of capacity, of sagacity. The desert appealed to him. His work brought results. The lava soil was refertilized with irrigation ditches which led from dams which are storehouses of possibility.

Discouragement there was. The big projects offering water for the ditches could not be completed as quickly as it had been planned. Big work generally requires more time and more labor than is foreseen.

And so it was that the NEW MAN of Idaho, was tested as to courage. Many were weak, grew discouraged, left. But the MAN of New Idaho remained.

This year he is reaping his first harvest of hope. It is a vindication of judgment, as well as a reward of courage. It promises abundantly for the future. It assures that the New Idaho shall be not only a garden spot but the home of a race of people distinctive for courage, noted for their strength of character, proud in the fact that they spring from a people gathered from east and west, lured by the opportunity which follows hardship, and which finds its reward through zeal and sagacity. Idaho has the MAN and the HOPE. —Goodwin's Weekly.

THE REAL PURPOSE

The intent of the series of articles, exploiting the individual achievements of the farmers on the Twin Falls tract, now being published in the agricultural section of the News, is to provide a contemporaneous history replete with actual facts and figures and illustrated by present scenes, which, when placed before the farmers of other sections of the country, and particularly the sun-dried districts of the Middle West, will furnish substantial inducements for immigration to Southern Idaho. It is the aim of the News to send them where they will produce results, and have others who are interested in this campaign do so. The following comment was received by the Secretary of the League of Southern Idaho Commercial clubs:

I have read with interest the editorial in your issue of Thursday, July 27, entitled "A New Feature." I believe you have decided upon a course which will prove to be one of the best advertisements yet inaugurated for the hustling Twin Falls district. It is my firm conviction that the same identical story printed in newspaper as news matter has twenty-five per cent more advertising strength than it has in a commercial booklet, and the system of advertising, which you have outlined, if consistently carried out, will prove to be worth thousands of dollars to your people. The way to make it the most effective is to get a number of citizens to guarantee to send out a certain quantity of the issue, which contain the Twin Falls stories, to friends of theirs in the east, which I trust you will be able to do.

With my best wishes for your success, I am,
Yours very truly,
REILLY ATKINSON,
Secretary,
Boise Commercial Club.

WAKE UP!!!

The News has presumed to the extent of inserting the lines "Wake Up!" at the top and the bottom of the Commercial club advertisement asking the farmers to report their crop production. The agriculturalists are busy at this season of the year and have not responded with any degree of alacrity for that reason, but the propaganda is so vitally important to them that they cannot afford to ignore it.

NEW MILLINERY STORE TO OPEN

LaMode is started in New Building on Site of Old Williams Shop.
The La Mode, a new millinery store, will be opened to the public next Wednesday at the site of the former Williams millinery shop at 139 Main avenue north, by Mrs. K. M. Toland and Mrs. F. L. Rutherford, who came to Twin Falls this week from Denver, Colorado. A full line of fall hats, including the latest New York styles, will be placed on display for the first showing at that time. Later a formal opening will be held. The stock will be entirely new and up-to-date. In connection with the millinery line, an alteration department will be conducted, in which work will be done on ladies' suits, coats and dresses.

SOCIETY

Dance at Bennett Hill Ranch.
Saturday evening last Mr. and Mrs. Woody T. Seal entertained a delightful party of their friends at the Bennett Hill ranch, one mile south of town. They arranged their new barn (not yet completed) into a pavilion, where the young people enjoyed themselves at dancing until a late hour, with no light but a few lanterns and the soft radiance of the moon. Card tables were furnished for those who did not indulge in dancing. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served at midnight.
The guests all expressed themselves as enjoying the occasion to the fullest extent, and designate Mr. and Mrs. Seal as the most hospitable of all hosts.

In Honor of Gooding Guest.
Mrs. C. W. Kenneth was hostess at a luncheon on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Charles Young, of Gooding, who with her young daughter, is spending a few days at the guest of Mrs. Kenneth.

A color scheme of green and white was carried out in both menu and decorations. A large mound of green grapes and foliage tastefully arranged graced the center of the table. Instead of place cards the guests found their places by matching flowers. After luncheon the afternoon was spent in bridge.

Invited to meet Mrs. Young were Mrs. E. J. Ostrander, Mrs. D. C. Watson, Mrs. R. W. Spangler, Miss Margaret Williams of Gooding, Miss Elsie Vickers, of Australia; Mrs. K. H. Dixon, and Mrs. Lucy Graham.

Breakfast Surprise Party.
Society matrons of Twin Falls are becoming dismayed at the energetic pace set by the younger set, who find the hours regularly devoted to social activities all too few and who have even broken in on the early morning in their zeal for amusement.

The largest party of the week was an eight o'clock breakfast given by Mrs. S. T. Hamilton on Tuesday morning as a surprise on her daughter, Miss Edith Hamilton. The surprise was so complete that the score of girl friends invited found Miss Hamilton in bed quite unconscious of her duties as hostess. After making a hasty toilet the much surprised young lady joined in the fun and the merry party was served a course breakfast at a number of small tables, each daintily adorned with centerpieces of sweet peas. Miss Edith Elliott and Miss Faith Gamble assisted Mrs. Hamilton in serving.

The other guests were Misses Vesta Thomas, Leslie Williams, Beatrice Ostrander, Florence Costello, Fern Costello, Alline Graham, Marie Dovy, Nellie Tiesdale, Lydia McMaster, Stella Ferriss, Mary E. Bowman and Dr. R. A. Parrott provided the entertainment after which the guests joined in games on the lawn. Light refreshments were served out of doors.

Mr. Wilton Peck West.
Mr. Wilton Peck was host to about forty guests on Friday evening in honor of Mr. Paul Remington, of Ames College, Iowa. A musical program by Mrs. A. H. Ewason and Dr. R. A. Parrott provided the entertainment after which the guests joined in games on the lawn. Light refreshments were served out of doors.

Miss Turner Entertained.
On Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Brock entertained at an informal dinner in honor of Miss Turner of Richmond, Indiana. The guests were Miss Turner, Miss Edith Elliott, Dana Elliott and Alden Brock. The decorations were lavender sweet peas.

Bannock-Sturgeon.
On Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock Earl Bannock of Filer and Miss Dela Myrtle Sturgeon of Twin Falls were united in marriage by Rev. H. E. Cullison at the Methodist church. The bride has been a nurse in the Twin Falls hospital and the groom is a well-known rancher. They will make their future home at Filer.

Matty-Baloma.
On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock Reynolds T. Matthy of Gooding and Miss Jessie Baloma of Chicago were united in marriage at the home of the father of this city, Rev. Homer E. Cullison of the Methodist church, performing the ceremony. The bride has been a teacher in the public schools of Chicago for a number of years, and the groom is a well-known rancher of Wendell, where the couple will make their home in the future.

Jolly-Price.
Charles E. Jolly and Miss Irene Price, both of Burley, were married on Wednesday of this week by Justice W. J. Smith, the ceremony being performed in the court room.

Ellison-Hess.
Louis Ellison and Edith W. Hess both of Jerome drove over to this city Monday and were married by Rev. W. E. Henry in his study at the Baptist church at noon the same day.

Mrs. Arthur J. Peavey entertained on Wednesday afternoon with a baby party in honor of the first birthday of her son, Master Bob Peavey. Dainty pink invitations were received by six small tots of about the age of Master Bob and charmed by their mothers they made the occasion interesting but enjoyable.

Pink and white prevailed throughout the decorations. Beside the play cards each guest received at the table a photograph of their young host as a souvenir. A large cake ornamented with one lone candle was a prominent feature of the refreshments. Included among the youthful guests were Robert Nixon, Robert Dico, Lloyd Reel, Tom Robertson, John Maxwell, and Harvey Welton.

AGRICULTURAL NEWS AND NOTES

A NEW DEPARTURE IN GROWING SMALL FRUITS

A FORTY ACRE FIELD OF BLACK RASPBERRIES ON THE RANCH OF W. S. STARR, WHICH WILL BE HARVESTED WITHOUT PICKERS

When one contemplates the 40 acre field of black raspberries on the farm of W. S. Starr four miles east on the Kimberly road, the question logically arises, "where on earth will be ever get the pickers?" Inquiry of Mr. Starr, however, strictly speaking, does not belong to him, he having leased the tract for a term of 15 years to M. E. Sherman of Fayette, who is not in the least worried about the matter of pickers. The berries will not be picked at all, will be harvested as sun dried raspberries after the manner of grain crop. To be explicit, the berries which are putting forth this season will bear the fruit next year.

field, as it was only planted last April, and now presents the appearance of a half grown field of potatoes. It is growing nicely, and a light crop is expected next year, but a full crop will not be harvested until the second season.

The Possibilities in Fruit.

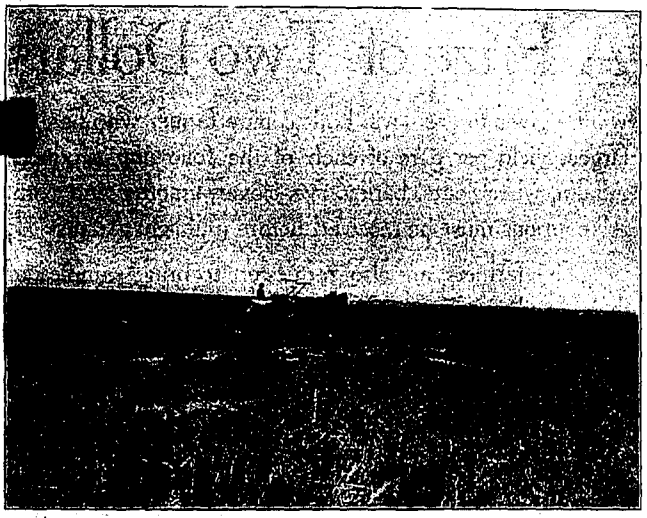

While Mr. Starr is devoting himself almost entirely to diversified farming and the livestock industry, he has a splendid family orchard which contains a little bit of every fruit which grows in this zone, which demonstrates the possibilities, although he has not entered into fruit growing on a commercial scale.

He has several trees of Alexander the owner a revenue of $26 this year, which is a good illustration of the profits to be realized in small fruits in Idaho.

Heavy Yields of Alfalfa.

Mr. Starr perhaps had the advantage of some in coming to the tract, as he was already familiar with the methods of irrigation, he having learned it as a boy in Colorado. The first crop of alfalfa on the Starr ranch this season amounted to about two and one-half tons per acre which is not considered to be quite up to the standard owing to weather conditions of the early spring. The second cutting is now about ready for harvest and it is believed will nearly equal the first.

and are tied in a bunch and thus separated from the balance of the bush. When the season for harvesting arrives, the bearing portion is cut close to the ground and thrown onto a wagon which is fitted with a light rack or box. Two men armed with pitchforks in the wagon shake the dried fruit from the bushes, throwing the stalks out. The dried fruit is then winnowed to rid it of the leaves and rubbish, and it is graded by screening according to size, and finally reaches the consumer as sun cured fruit.

peaches which are literally laden to the ground, although the fruit has been extensively thinned. The peaches are now ripening, and bear testimony to the delicious flavor of the fruit which can be grown in this climate. Strange though it may seem, the later varieties are not bearing, so heavily owing to a late frost which caught them in full bloom, while the earlier varieties had set, were able to withstand a greater degree of cold. However, these later varieties are bearing sufficiently, but the toll exacted by the frost makes thinning unnecessary.

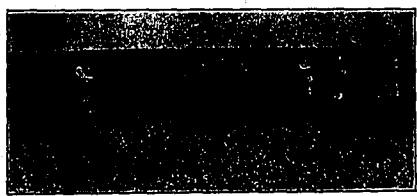

The greater portion of this will be fed to livestock which has proven to be the most profitable market. A flock of grade Shropshires sheared an average of 12 pounds per head this spring, which netted $1.76 per head for the wool. They are also an excellent mutton strain, a three months old lamb which was slaughtered on July 4th, dressing 62 pounds.

Mr. Starr is also very successful with dairy cattle. On a mixed pasture of alfalfa, white clover, blue grass and timothy he has had little or no trouble with bloating.

On the whole the Starr ranch is seen to be the most flourishing to be one upon the tract and it is doubtful if a more pleasant ranch home can be the flavor of an Arabian Knight tale to those who are not familiar with the method, it simply proves the old adage that there is nothing new under the sun in horticulture as well as other lines. It is not in the manner of an experiment with Mr. Sherman. He has been engaged in the business of raising raspberries for a number of years, and now has a 60 acre field at that place. Inquiry also develops the fact that this method has been in vogue on the coast and the industry orchard is set largely to Jonathans, which are now over five years old, and bear evidence that this variety is indigenous to this section. The trees are not allowed to bear to capacity as yet owing to their age (or rather youth, to be more explicit), but in a few instances they have been allowed to go the limit in order to show what may be expected, and are an example of the prolific bearing qualities of a well cared for orchard on the Twin Falls tract.

 In the line of commercial apples, the

Though the orchard are scattered, cherries and prunes of which are either in bearing or about to be, to the limit, to say nothing of all the smaller fruits. A double row of currant bushes perhaps some 30 feet in length brought found anywhere. Ornamental trees were planted with the idea in view of shading the residence at all hours of the day, and the well kept lawn, flower beds, garden and orchard bears testimony to the fact that homes can be built upon the desert of a few years ago which bid defiance to the proprietors of summer-resorts.

Note—Photographs of the Starr ranch were taken with the idea in view of using them to illustrate the foregoing article. The engraver did not finish the halftones in time for this issue; however, they will appear in the next edition.

THE CASH INTRIGUE

...my car, my Sam up beside the chauffeur, Kelvin and Rensselaer bowed ahead a pleasant country road, with the latter young gentleman in the appearance of a young man.

"To Forest Lakes?" Rensselaer exclaimed for at least the twentieth time. "Why, you old fox, you never said a word about ever having been to Forest Lakes?"

"I didn't dare," answered Phillip. "I didn't want my name to come on too soon, which it would have done had my connection with Bred been known."

"How did you happen to fall in with the old boy?"

"Bred had him up," said Phillip, with sudden fire. "As you know, this same crowd, of whom Fellman was at that time the head, led my father into a carefully prepared stock deal. It was as deliberate a snatching as any greenhorn ever got at the hands of a lot of confidence men, and it not only broke his purse, but it broke his heart. It left him without ambition, and when he died he left me absolutely penniless. Even as a boy I should get even, but I knew I must wait. Down south the chance came. I made that old strike, then luck poured in on me, and I began at last to make a lot of money. One day about a year ago I read in a paper of Bred's anger against this same Wall street coterie. I had formed some good acquaintances down there, and among them was a man who knew Bred personally. He gave me a letter of introduction. I then went to see Bred and proposed this plan. He returned an ovine assent, and I went back south. Shortly after I returned there, however, I discovered that Bred had put into operation the system by which I suggested he drain the country of its currency. I discovered, too, that there were some watching me and delving into my entire past history. I said nothing, but I made up my mind then that my time had come. Sure enough, Bred finally sent for me. He had employed over fifty men for nearly a year to examine every instant of Bred's anger, and he was satisfied. I spent a week at Forest Lakes evolving the plan in detail, and you know the rest."

"It's a wonderful thing!" declared Rensselaer, with a long breath. "It's amazing!"

"There is more romance in modern business life than there was in the days of lance and shield," declared Phillip.

They had now reached the stone wall that surrounded Forest Lakes, and Rensselaer, who had been at the door of Wilkins met Phillip, but he was no more than within when there was a rustle of silk in the hall and Lillian came eagerly forward to meet him.

"I understand," she said warmly, "that you are the conquering hero."

"I have done what I was told to do."

"But you have done it well. Now it is time that you come home to get your reward."

"I have been fairly well rewarded as it is," he replied. "By the way, I have brought with me an old friend of yours."

She turned and almost frowned as they were joined by young Rensselaer, who had stopped at the entrance to get something from the car.

"We are glad to see you again, Mr. Rensselaer," she said. "Mrs. Rensselaer has been expecting you for several days and, like a dutiful nephew, you must pay your respects to her at once. You will find her in her own apartments."

"I will see you later, Bert," Kelvin called after him as he went up the stairs. Then to Lillian, "Where is Mr. Bred?"

"He is just trying to make the eighth hole out back of the stables, and I think he must be about at the hundredth stroke for it," she laughed. "I will go out and bring him while you remove the dirt. Go right up to your old rooms; they have been waiting for you ever since you were here the other time. They were becoming very lonesome for you."

Sam passed them in the hall with the luggage.

"When you get the luggage into Mr. Kelvin's room, Sam," directed Lillian, "you will find Lucy waiting for you in the kitchen."

Phillip turned into his apartments with a feeling of relief. He was very glad to rest for awhile from the turmoil of the financial crowd, to leave all the nervous tension of that tremendous tragedy behind him. Sam opened the luggage and put it away and had just gone down the back stairs when there came a timid knock at the door. Phillip opened to a maid who had come with towels and stepped back in surprise.

"Elsie!" he cried.

"Why, Phillip?" exclaimed Elsie. "I didn't know you were to be here."

"How I you," said he. "How does it come about?"

"That letter you gave to father," she explained. "I came with him, applied for a place as maid and got it. Father is head gardener, thanks to you, and is perfectly happy. We are both doing very well. Did Miss Lillian know that it was you who were to occupy these rooms?"

"Why, certainly," replied Phillip. "I was here before."

Elsie said nothing, but she woodered. Lillian had seen Phillip's letter to her grandfather's fact, and she had used it, after it had served its purpose for her father, as an introduction for herself, and she felt sure that it had secured her the place. Moreover, Lillian had casually asked about Phillip, and Elsie had told in glowing terms how good he was, yet Lillian had never mentioned that she knew him, and even now, when she told Elsie to bring the towels to the room, she did not mention Phillip's name.

"Does she treat you nicely?" Phillip suddenly demanded.

"Oh, yes; very nicely. Indeed," she replied. And Phillip knew that she was not telling him all the truth. "We will all get on well here," she said. "Grace has brought her children to live with us, and with what father and I earn we can do splendidly. We can even save a little money."

"I am glad of that," he said and stopped, not knowing what else to say.

CHAPTER VII.

IT was while they were standing, still somewhat confused, that Lillian appeared in the doorway and cast a sharp glance at them both.

"You have not minded that pink foot of mine, Elsie," said Lillian in a hoarse voice. "Really, my dear, I had hoped to find it done. I would like to wear it this afternoon. Better see to it right away."

Elsie nodded and hurriedly left the room.

"I am afraid you are a sad flirt," slurred Lillian, shaking her finger at Phillip. "Already you are embarrassing that pretty little maid whom you were accidentally kind enough to send to me."

"Now Mr. Bred comes in?" asked Phillip, deliberately ignoring her accusation.

"Now I know there is something in all this flirtation," she laughed, though still somewhat piqued. "Yes, Mr. Bred has come in, and he is waiting for you in the library." And with a coyness that he would not see she led him downstairs to where Henry Bred received him with extreme cordiality.

"Well done, my boy, well done!" said he, shaking hands with Phillip. "Come in and look at my picture gallery now."

In a room opening off the library to the right of the fireplace, where Bred now led him with the glow of a school boy, a row of photographs ran around the wall in the walnut set.

They were the photographs of all the more important men of Wall street, but now upon each photograph there was an X shaped mark of red ink.

"I checked them off as they fell, one by one," said Bred, with infinite malice in his withered old face. "Five years ago, when they made that attack on me and beat down my cereal stocks to almost nothing, I vowed that I would put them out of existence, and I have done it. I have rubbed his thin hands together. 'With your help, my boy,' he hastily added, 'with your plan and your genius and your own hair-d- and with my resources. We are a great team, my son. I have but regret that you do not know every more you made, what you did in every hour that you were in New York. How much money did you make of your own?'"

Phillip drew a long breath. "Nearly half a million," he replied.

"That is right," said Bred, nodding his head with emphasis. "It was in a good cause, eh, Lillian?"

The girl laughed for answer. It was a good cause.

"It is all in a good cause," Bred continued, as if arguing against some accuser. "Business will be healthier. The Stock Exchange, instead of a mere clearing house for countless block shops, will become once more a place for the legitimate exchange of securities. It is a few cases I have done for the country, but they won't realize it until I am dead. Your dear, Phillip? Is every one closed that could be closed?"

"Every one," returned Phillip with satisfaction. "In a few cases I could not secure stocks I wanted, but for the greater part I did. Those who could not pay had nothing to pay with."

"Right again!" and once more Henry Bred nodded his head vigorously.

The stocks were the making thing after we got back all our cash. Come! I will show you something that no one ever saw but Lillian and myself. Where is Zeilpan?" He looked cautiously all round the room.

"He is out in the park," said Lillian. "I don't want him to see or to know. Come this way."

Back from this apartment was a bedroom, and in it was a closet hung really with clothes on hangers. Bred stepped about a few moments at the back of this closet, when suddenly the whole rear wall swung slowly upon its center. They passed through into a narrow passage concealed between the chimneys of the two rooms, and from this after avoiding the closet, and shut behind them the three passed down one long stairway and then another into a deep subterranean steel lined, like a deposit vault, with four cell-like passages, the heavy steel doors of which opened with a combination lock. Bred led them slowly through, pushing advance electric buttons as he went.

"Absolutely impregnable, this vault," said he in considerable pride. "Absolutely not get through it unless they know how. The walls are six feet thick, of alternate layers of steel plate and cellulose, which dynamite could hardly destroy. The plates were shipped here from Germany in plain boxes, and German workmen were brought here directly from the ship without the slightest knowledge of where they were going. When the work was done they were sent away, and not one of the men knows where he was. Look here." He led them into a larger vault, and here were now upon row of iron drawers filled with greenbacks neatly bound in packages, with the amounts marked on the outside. At the end of the vault were rows of drawers filled with gold in coin and ingots.

"Money!" said Bred, gazing over the contents as he opened and closed these drawers. "Money!" said he, and he rubbed his lean old hands together, while his eyes began to gleam. "Not all these receptacles are filled, though. When I had these vaults built I calculated how much money there was in the United States and built in enough drawers to hold it."

There was something so stajler in the way he said this than even Phillip, himself seething with enormous ambitions, was startled.

Lillian struck Phillip by the sleeve and drew him outside the vault.

"He always likes to be alone when he is down here," she whispered.

Phillip stopped in the second passage to examine with interest the heavy hanging of the door. Lillian drew quite near him and slipped her hand within his arm. He could feel the warmth of that hand instantly. He was afraid of this girl, afraid of himself. The thrill she gave him was not like that which he had shared with Elsie. With Elsie it was love; with this girl—he drew slightly away.

"Suppose anything should happen to Mr. Bred?" he asked. "What would become of this vault? I presume its combinations are written in some safe place?"

"They are not written anywhere," she told him. "There is only one person in all the world besides my grandfather who knows how to get in here, and that person is myself. Of course I would not tell it, would I?"

He looked down at her. He half bent forward, seized with a mad impulse to take her in his arms. He was ashamed of that impulse.

"You must keep away from me!" said he harshly. "There are things I want to do—big things!"

The girl laughed lightly, well content for the time, but a shrill chuckle started them both and made them turn hastily. Old Henry Bred stood in the door of the vault, rubbing his hands softly together.

"Good!" said he. "Good, Phillip, my boy! I knew you were about it. You keep as strong as that and I will make you anything you want to be—anything!"

Out in the library they found the gaunt wireless operator, whose eyes seemed to have the peculiar catlike property of shining in the darkness. The operator was just turning on the lights, and a flash of lightning outlined him as he reached up to press the hanging bulb.

"I have a wireless for you, sir," he said to Mr. Bred. The old man took the yellow slip and drew under the chandelier. Presently he turned to Phillip triumphantly.

"The board of governors of the New York Stock Exchange, after having suspended the exchange for a week in a vain attempt to straighten out their muddle, have just called a meeting of the members, and he was the only to attend were four of the five with whom you did business. The seats of all the others are for sale, and there are no buyers. The Stock Exchange," and his voice rose to a shrill and tremulous shriek, "is wiped out of existence! There is no Stock Exchange!"

At a very early hour the next morning, in his bedroom near the top of the house, the gaunt wireless operator was upon his knees before his open trunk, his long fingers slowly turning the knob of a combination lock. It was mounted upon a plain iron plate and was now temporarily clamped upon the front edge of the trunk to keep it in its normal vertical position. Blagg, as he turned the knob, kept his eyes carefully averted from the dial, but he listened most intently. Presently his acute fingers caught the slightest perceptible shade of difference as quickly as, if not quicker than, his ears, for they stopped rigidly upon the instant. Blagg now looked at the dial, then consulted a small card which he held in his left hand, and a look of intense satisfaction, amounting almost to ferocity, flashed into his beady eyes. The last number of the involved combination, had been found by the cease of touch and hearing alone!

"Cash," he whispered. "Millions of cash, all gathered into one place!"

He changed the combination, marked it carefully upon his card and started once more, with averted eyes and intent ears, to turn the knob.

TWIN FALLS 'OLD SETTLERS' REUNITE

ANNUAL MEETING IS MARKED BY PLEA FOR GOOD CITIZENSHIP. Major Fred R. Reed strikes at Politicians Who Sacrifice Name of State to Personal Aggrandizement-Stories of Early Days Retold at Waters.

(Continued from Page 1) W. Olden, Charles Clark and E. A. Moon. More than half of these are still on the tract. It required more nerve to buy this land at $25.00 an acre than it does today at $125 for the soil was untried, the canal un-

Others will tell you of the growth of the Magic city which we are all so proud. It was the seventh of August, 1905 when we made a fuss over the railroad. We made more noise over the coming of the railway than we did the opening of the gates of the canal, but there were more of us to it, although there would have been no railroad had there been no canal. This one of our county was created into Twin Falls county, by act of legislature, the bill being signed by Governor Frank R. Gooding, February 22, 1907. I was one of the de-legates of the new county: H. T. West, recorder; J. McMillan, assessor; George D. Atkin, sheriff; F. E. Chamberlain, probate clerk; and I was treasurer, and Miss DeBow, superintendent of schools.

An indication of the rapid growth of the tract I can state that the total valuation of the new county for the first year was greater than all of Cassia county in 1906, being something over $4,000,000 while the year it will go well over the $20,000,000 mark.

Thomas Tells of Hardships. C. D. Thomas made an impressive informal speech telling of the trials that have been accomplished by the pioneer work of the people of two Twin Falls tracts. "The settlers on the North Side and on the Salmon tract had to undergo hardships, but we had even greater troubles that solved problems for them. We settled the question of headrights and water rights for them. They have their hay, oats and other feed, seed and lumber practically at hand, whereas, we had to take things piecemeal and were glad to get anything at all, and were 30 miles to a bank at Shoshone."

Concessions to Cassia County. Former Senator M. J. Brocely, Judge Chamberlain and C. D. Thomas were the three who as a self appointed committee started Twin Falls county. They told of the expense of the bill and in connection with the necessary proceedings elsewhere.

"The depot at Milnor is in Cassia county and that county is Twin Falls county," he explained. "This was done for assessment purposes, Cassia county desiring the railroad, and Twin Falls county being given the canal. Not until the canal and the North Side canal is it accessible by this county. I mention this as an instance of negotiations and resultant agreements which were a part of the settlement. Because of these concessions to Cassia county we had no difficulty in securing the establishment of Twin Falls county by the legislature at Boise."

J. A. Waters, Chairman. J. A. Waters, in whose grove the picnic was held, presided as chairman over the day's session. He was the first to address the association, and added much zest to the ceremonies by the stories and anecdotes which he interpolated between the various numbers of the program.

Those attending the affair brought their own lunch which was spread beneath the trees. The Royal Blue Boys Band of Kimberly contributing to the enjoyment of the occasion by musical selection.

Beautiful Feast Attractive. One of the features of the reunion was the hot shade provided by Waters' little wood. In spite of the thick growth of the locust trees the ground was heavily covered with Kentucky blue grass, which was a source of some wonderment but was explained by Mr. Waters who said that the locust tree, instead of devitalizing the soil actually fertilizes it.

A parade, starting from the Hotel Perrine corner, preceded the picnic. It was in charge of W. H. Eldridge, as mentioned above, and was led by the Kimberly baseball team.

Directors Elected. The program of speeches, the dinner and the picnic were all supervised by the directors of the association for the ensuing year: J. A. Waters, W. H. Eldridge, J. F. St. Louis, C. D. Thomas, J. F. St. Louis, F. E. Chamberlain, W. B. Starr, F. Sonners and Mrs. H. O. Milner.

New Membership Rules. By-laws were then adopted, permitting all settlers in Twin Falls county, who came to the country prior to February 21, 1907, to become members of a county, to be members upon the payment of an annual initiation fee of 25 cents. The former membership requirement was that the settler must have been a resident of the territory comprising Twin Falls county before the coming of the first railroad train, August 1, 1905.

EXHIBITS ARE WANTED

Farmers Asked Through State Official for Entries of Land Shows. C. S. Faurot of Boise, a representative of the Department of Irrigation, Statistics and Labor, was in the city today while on a tour of the state for the purpose of securing exhibits of the various products of the farm products for the Idaho exhibit at the land shows which are to be held at Omaha, Chicago, Pittsburg, New York, St. Paul and Cincinnati.

Mr. Faurot is greatly pleased for the time, as but four days remain in which to get the exhibits ready for shipment, and therefore works through the commercial clubs, whom he depends upon to interest the individuals.

In discussing the matter with Robert W. Spangler he said that as the dates of these various shows will in many instances be conflicting, he desires exhibits to be made in triplicate and marked with the name and address of the grower. Samples of alfalfa, wheat, barley, millet, oats, red and white clover, potatoes, or any agricultural products which would make a creditable showing are wanted.

The time remaining in which to prepare the exhibits is very short and the co-operation of the farmers of this county is urgently requested by the department official so that a showing may be secured which will be a credit to the county. Any information desired may be obtained from Mr. Spangler at the Commercial Club.

MISSIONARY SOCIETIES MEET

C. U. E. M. of Christian Church Invites Others to Participate. The C. U. E. M. of the Christian church held a very enjoyable as well as an interesting meeting at the church Thursday afternoon, August 3, the different missionary societies of Twin Falls having been asked to send their members to participate in the program. More than sixty ladies responded. "Stand Up for Jesus" was sung after which Mrs. C. E. Evans led the devotional which was followed by the hymn, "I'll Go When You Want Me to Go, Dear Lord." In a few well chosen remarks the president, Mrs. E. A. Wynn, welcomed the ladies to the meeting. Mrs. Leo Anderson took charge of the following program:

A very beautiful song was given by the young ladies of the Christian church. Greetings from the Presbyterian society were given in a pleasing manner by Mrs. C. E. Evans. Mrs. Harry Kingsbury of the Methodist church rendered a very beautiful solo.

A paper on "The Young Ladies Circle Work" was given by Mrs. Gibbs of the Baptist church, regarding united mission studies. A piano solo was rendered by Miss Olive V. Meak.

Mrs. C. E. Evans in her capable manner gave a talk on the need of a united mission study in Twin Falls. Piano solo by Miss Anna Anderson concluded the program.

After the program lunch and waters were served informally.

Storeroom Increases Floor Space. The New Five and Ten Cent store has increased its capacity by enlarging the partition in the rear, thereby giving about 300 feet more floor space, and accommodating 20 more tables, which means ready access to the increased stock. In addition to this the owner of the building has agreed to add 60 feet to the main store building to provide storage room.

While this store was started largely as an experiment, the owner, A. J. McMillan, finds that although business may be a trifle slow for some times he has made a constant growth, and he attributes his success to the large assortment carried and the excellent service which he has endeavored to give.

Tribe Makes Record Catch. M. H. (Dad) Pope, L. R. Kelley and Dave Smith returned from Halley Thursday night with the most phenomenal fishery record yet has been made by Twin Falls followers of Jason Walton for a long time. In less than three hours they caught in the Trout River 45 rainbow trout, several weighing 80 pounds, several of which tipped the scales at four pounds. They made the trip in Smith's automobile.

Musicals Postponed. The musical and lawn social which was to have been given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Regan, 520 Grand, this evening has been postponed until Friday, August 13, owing to unavoidable circumstances. The musical is to be given by the Ladies' Aid society of St. Edwards' for the benefit of the church.

TWIN FALLS COUNTY IN GAME PRESERVE

A WORD OF CAUTION TO LOCAL SPORTSMEN. Reservation for Big Game Created by Legislature-Violators Liable to Heavy Fine or Imprisonment for Three Months to One year, or Both. While a bill creating a game preserve within the counties of Cassia, Twin Falls, Oneida and Bear Lake; and providing for the preservation, capturing and killing of game and animals within the aforesaid counties.

Kimberly, Idaho, Aug. 16, 1911. Editor Twin Falls News: Dear Sir: As the season for deer hunting is approaching and as I have heard different persons discussing the question of whether or not deer could be killed in this county, perhaps publication of House Bill No. 126, by Taylor, would be profitable at this time.

An Act creating a game preserve within the counties of Cassia, Twin Falls, Oneida and Bear Lake; and providing for the preservation, capturing and killing of game and animals within the aforesaid counties. Be it enacted by the legislature of the state of Idaho, that:

Section 1. There is hereby created within the following counties: Cassia county, Twin Falls county, Oneida county and Bear Lake county, a game preserve.

Section 2. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons, at any time, to hunt, trap, kill, capture or chase any animal or person within the aforesaid county: Deer, antelope, mountain sheep, ibex, or mountain goat.

Section 4. This game preserve is created of one hundred (100) acres. Approved March 10, 1911. Yours truly, O. G. ZUCK.

IN POLICE COURT

Many Worshipers at the Shrine of Bacchus Pay Tribute. During the past week a long list of the offenders against the peace and dignity of the municipality by an order of the police court, local opinion was held before Judge Smith.

Shorty Doe, John Ridgeway, A. C. Lamb, E. E. Gregory, G. Dooley, J. Lamb and W. Walker, were each fined $5.00 for the same offense, while John Mackler, not having the work, was given two months in the county jail.

Walter Jordan was arrested charged with having forged checks on a number of local business men, and was arraigned before Judge Smith. However, as Walter only is fifteen years of age he was remanded to the juvenile court for a hearing.

Virgil Hall was tried on a charge of grand larceny of the negation being that he stole a horse from James L. Hanchett of the firm of Fouts & Hanchett from the rear of that firm's establishment on July 5, 1911. The case under advisement, and will render a decision this afternoon.

ROGERS WINS BY KNOCKOUT Denver Man Outclassed by Husky Salt Lake Boy. Jack Rogers of Salt Lake added another victory to his already long list by knocking out Jack Downey of Denver in the eighth round of what was to have been a ten round exhibition fight on the night of the 12th of August at day night before a large crowd that thoroughly enjoyed every minute of the entertainment. Both men were in perfect condition and while the Denver boy was game and while the Salt Lake boy was game, and when he came back at his opponent even after he had been knocked down once in the second round and again in the seventh round, he was outclassed by Rogers, who did not have a mark on him after the final gong sounded. B. A. Cant, who promoted the Burley bout, has matched Rogers against a colored boxer at Boise for another bout in the near future, and if he is again victorious, will endeavor to arrange an exhibition with Rogers at the city.

MAN KILLED IN COLORADO E. A. Murray Meets Accident in Cripple Creek. Information has been received that E. A. Murray, who was a former resident of Milnor and of the North Side, was accidentally killed while working in the mines at Cripple Creek, Colorado, on Wednesday, August 9. The parent of the deceased still reside at Milnor, and the remains were brought to this city for interment.

The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Presbyterian church. J. Walker's undertaker, and Charles J. Walker's advance agent, was in charge of the Eagles Lodge, of which the deceased was a member. Burial was made in the family lot in the Twin Falls cemetery.

SIoux TEAM IS SCHEDULED

Redskins Will Play With Twin Falls Magicians Saturday and Sunday. The event of the base ball season in this city will be the two exhibition games at the ball park on Saturday and Sunday, August 19 and 20, when the original Sioux Indian base ball club will appear in this city, the Twin Falls Magicians being the opposing team. All arrangements have been completed for the appearance here of this famous Indian aggregation, which is an assurance to the fans of two exciting and interesting games.

The Sioux club is a recognized professional team that is composed exclusively of genuine Sioux Indians. It is by the following communication that he is justly entitled to the distinction of being one of the fastest teams on the road. This is their fourteenth annual tour of the principal cities of the United States and Canada, being on route to the Pacific coast. Special arrangements have been made with Miles Berry, business representative of the team, who was in Twin Falls Tuesday, when he signed contracts for the appearance here of the team. The games will be called promptly at 3:30 o'clock.

Loss of Time Means Loss of Pay. Kidney troubles and the ill it breeds means lost time and lost pay to many a working man. M. Balant, 1514 Little Penna St., Streator, Ill., was so bad from kidney and bladder trouble that he could not work, but he says: "I took Foley Kidney Pills for only a short time and got entirely well that was soon able to go back to work, and am feeling well and healthier than before." Foley Kidney Pills are tonic, in action quick in results—a good friend to the working man or woman who suffers from kidney ills. Bedford Drug Co.
