MURDERERS GET LIFE SENTENCE

SLAYERS OF HALEY, MUSICIANS TO GO TO PENITENTIARY

Charles H. Allen and R. C. Crowder Found Guilty of Killing M. J. Crowley While Engaged in Attempted Heist of Resort.

Fallor, Nov. 8.—Charles H. Allen and R. C. Crowder were found guilty by a jury in the Fourth judicial district court, now in session here, of the murder of M. J. Crowley in Dot F. Allen's resort on September 21, just six weeks ago. Sentence of life imprisonment in the state penitentiary at Boise was pronounced by Judge B. S. Walters shortly after the verdict had been returned. Two others who are held as accomplices in the case are Charles Crawford and Lorenzo Swift, who turned state's evidence at the trial.

The defense tried to prove an alibi for the two men, but the state's witnesses established the fact that they were on the ground when the killing occurred. They brought out that Allen came into the resort and took a shot at Dot F. Allen, who is not a relative of the Crowley, who was a piano player there, came into the room where the shooting was going on, and was dropped by a bullet from the gun in Allen's hands. Dot Allen was injured, while Crowder died instantly.

According to some of the members of the jury, that body at first stood nine to three in favor of the death sentence to Allen, but afterwards agreed on the life term in the state penitentiary. The two men convicted are said to be half-brothers.

The trial of Charles Crawford and Lorenzo Swift, who are charged with being accomplices in the murder, will be held later in this term of the court.

MARY ALE DEAD IN ICE-WATERS

Probably Drowned in Crossing of the River Without Attention of Engineer and Crew of Horry Steamer.

Albany, Cal., Nov. 8.—Three bodies were recovered Sunday from the wreckage of the wreck of the recently completed Mountain Quirrel company bridge, which collapsed at 11 o'clock Saturday night. Five injured were taken to the hospital at daybreak and six of the company had not yet accounted for all of the remaining 22 men known to have been on the bridge. It is thought that clearing of the ruins will yield still more bodies. The dead: John Kern. Case's Angelo. O. Bernard Johnson.

A night shift was at work on the bridge, making the last span to completion in preparation for the winter rains, which usually begin about December 1. Ten men were working at the water edge, building caissons. The river is somewhat swollen and the foreman expressed fear that the concrete pillars, which had not settled firmly, would not withstand the strain. The swaying of a lantern, carried by a workman above and throwing a shadow across the river, gave the men below the first warning of their danger. They saw the superstructure sway for an instant as they looked, the support pillars sagged and gave way, the great arch above came crashing down before a man could move.

TWO MORE VOTES FOR GEM STATE

Idaho Now Has Six Instead of Eight at Republican National Convention.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The call for the Republican national convention, to be issued by the national committee December 28, will provide for 102 delegates, to be increased to 107 1/2 if Arizona and New Mexico become states before the convention is held. The increase from 98 delegates, which comprised the Chicago convention in 1912, is the result of an appropriation by congress, which increases the size of the house of representatives from 393 to 433 members in 1915 with the two new states. A table showing the apportionment of the delegates to the 1912 convention has been prepared by Francis Curtis in charge here of the combined publicity headquarters of Republican national committee and the Republican congressional committee. This arrangement is expected to be adopted without change by the committee.

 The bridge across Deep Creek, due west of Buhl, was elevated last week several feet, and the grade on the west side considerably reduced. "MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN"

We Recap as We Saw—King Belshazzar's Feast.

Daniel—Nov. 12

"For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil."—Ecclesiastes xii, 14.

A law of retribution operates. Good thoughts, good words, good deeds, are sure to bring results—sooner or later. Evil thoughts, evil words, evil deeds, are sure to bring evil results—sooner or later. This Divine Law operating in the world, rewarding good and evil deeds, save in exceptional cases, now operates only amongst the Jews and amongst Christians. This is because only Jews and true Christians have come into covenant-relationship with God. The Apostle's declaration is true: "The world lieth in the wicked one." The Devil hath blinded the minds of them that believe not. The time promised in the prophecies has not yet come, when "all the blind eyes shall be opened, and all the deaf ears shall be unstopped." (Isaiah xxxv, 5.) Nevertheless, in a general way God has, in the meantime, a supervision of the world's affairs, restraining it also from working real injury to those who are in covenant-relationship with Him—Jews and Christians.

Sodom and Gomorrah, Nineveh, Nebuchadnezzar and our lesson of today are of exception to the rule of dealing merely with His covenanted peoples. In our lesson, the fall of Belshazzar's kingdom was not merely a judgment upon him, but a part of the great type of the fall of antitypical Babylon at the hands of an antitypical Cyrus.

The king of Babylon, feeling secure in the great walls of his capital, three hundred and fifty feet high, revealed with his generals and nobility. To renew the memory of their great victories of the past he brought forth for the occasion the golden vessels, taken in the pillage of Solomon's temple—a triumph over the Jews and was generally supposed, over Jehovah, the God of the Jews.

In the midst of the banquet a horror came over the assembled dignitaries as a human hand was beheld waving on one wall of the banquet room in letters of fire, "MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN." The wise men and astrologers were unable to read the writing or give its significance. Daniel was remembered and sent for. He not only showed the reading, but its meaning. The secret evidently lay in the manner in which the letters were arranged, the characters themselves being Chaldeic. The Prophet Daniel declined the rewards and honors offered for the interpretation. He told the king plainly that the writing signified that he was "weighed in the balances and found wanting." The Babylonian kingdom, so far from advancing human interests, had rather retrograded from the original type. Another nation—Medo-Persia—would be given a trial. Later the Grecians were given universal empire; still later the Romans and finally God permitted what was styled the "Holy Roman Empire" or the reign of Christ. Each of these has proven its insufficiency—the inability to bring to the world the blessing which God declares shall ultimately abound when Messiah's true reign shall be inaugurated, and the blessing and uplift of mankind will become the "desire of all nations."

Every Man's Work to be Tried.

We have said that the Jews and Christians, because of covenant-relationship with God, are now on trial—being judged. This has been God's repeated declaration to the Jews. Their shortcomings have been punished as those of other nations have not, and it has not been for the precious which have come to the Jews they would not today be a separated and distinct people as God designed, and hence they would not be the first to participate in the glorious blessings of the Messianic Kingdom. In proportion as they maintain their loyalty to their Law and confidence in the promises of God they will be prepared for the fulfillment of these great promises which are their inheritance—without loss of restitution, etc.—Acts iii, 25-26; Isaiah xxxv.

While God's promises to the Jews pertain to the earthly phase of the Kingdom and its blessings. His promises to covenanted Christians are spiritual, heavenly. These respond to God's invitation, "Gather together My saints One." To these who have made a covenant with Me by sacrifice. That covenant to sacrifice earthly things will be rewarded with heavenly things. In proportion as they are faithful to their covenant of sacrifice they will be rich toward God in faith and in works. The riches of grace and spirit, the full attainment of which will come in the First Resurrection, are often associated now with poverty and sorrows of an early kind. The heavenly things are to be attained only by those who sacrifice earthly things. Hearken to the Master's words: "Whoever will live godly shall suffer persecution." "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life."—1 Timothy ii, 12; Revelation ii, 10.

All Recap as They Saw

During Messiah's thousand-year reign of righteousness the world will be dealt with and brought to its judgment, its testing, its crisis. But it will be a righteous testing or crisis, giving to all mankind a fair test as to loyalty to God. The result of this opportunity, or trial for everlasting life or everlasting death, will be the outcome of the great redemption work accomplished by Christ. It is the will of God "that all men should be saved (recovered) and come to a knowledge of the truth." (1 Timothy ii, 4.) In that glorious Epoch Satan will be bound and the fetters of sin and death now upon your race will be broken, and all will be granted the full opportunity to receive the blessed conditions and favors enjoyed by father Adam in his perfection— but refusing this favor they will be "bound and without remedy, in the second Death."

But while that future time will be the actual testing period of the world for life or death everlasting, we are not to forget that every good deed and every evil deed committed now will have a bearing then. Every good deed, every good thought, every good word, has its uplifting and beneficial influence upon character; and every evil word, thought and deed has its injurious effect upon character. Every kindness done to one of the Lord's saints, every member, will be rewarded. Every evil deed done to one of the least of these will be punished.

Thus the world of mankind is now laying up in store hope or misfortune as respects their own everlasting interests. The honorable, the upright, even though they do not become Christians or saints will have in the future time of trial the deplorable will have proportionate degradation in the future, and will come forth proportionately more depraved, and will need proportionately more aid in order to rise up out of sin, degradation and death, by the assistance of the Savior and the glorified Church.—1 Corinthians vi, 2.

He came in via the Cripple cutoff, which he states has been in operation for about a week and is in very good condition. The only criticism which he has to make is that the highway needs a number of turnouts to allow teams to pass. STORAGE IN TRANSIT FOR APPLES
 The apple season of 1910 and 1911 will always be remembered as remarkable for the extremely high prices for barreled apples, which have been the highest in the history of the apple industry, and the extremely low prices for box apples, which have been the lowest in the history of the apple industry.

The demand dragged on boxes and was active on barrels; this, in spite of the fact that the quality of box apples has always been superior to barrel apples.

What is the reason of this paradox? Can it be possible that the more scientific and careful the growing and packing of apples become, the less they are appreciated? Has the expert packing of apples, which has reached its highest development in the apple producing sections of the Pacific slope, only had the result of making the public prefer the rough-and-ready, slap-dash packing of barrel apples?

No, there is a sensible reason for the fact that box apples have not been wanted and have ruled at low prices. It lies in the method of distributing the two classes of apples. The barrels have been shipped to every market in the country, large and small. There has been a strong demand for them in England and Germany. Western New York fruit houses have had a steady demand and drain on them from the West, South, and East, from the lands across the sea.

There was about an equal quantity of apples packed in barrels and boxes; the barrels are being consumed in a thousand places; the box crop, was marketed practically in two places—Chicago and New York.

This absolute lack of intelligent distribution came about through the rigid rules of the railroads regarding freight rates on box apples. One dollar per hundred is the rate on a carload of box apples, whether shipped to Denver, Chicago or New York, and when stored at one point or the other it cannot be reshipped without paying another freight rate. If a storage in transit privilege should be allowed on shipments of box apples there would at once develop a system of distribution that would scatter the crop of box apples all over the country; it would place them in consumption where they were most wanted.

By the storage-in-transit privilege is meant the right to ship the car to any warehouse that is desired, and later, when the owner desires to market that car of apples, to ship it to its ultimate destination and pay for the total services only the through rate from the initial point of shipment to the ultimate destination and a switching charge in addition, because that is the only extra service which the railroad has rendered in granting this privilege.

THE IMITATOR
 BY SWENEY
The One Who Swallowed the Sword

I am, myself, personally through my company, conducting a straight bona fide selling out sale of the stock of O. A. Stalker & Company, Twin Falls, Idaho, consisting of clothing, furnishings, etc., one of the largest and finest stocks of its kind in the state; one that has stood supreme since Twin Falls was in its infancy, and one that the people have watched grow from a small store to a large one, built upon business principles of good sound worthiness.

The interested parties, who are holding stock in the above concern, have decided to dissolve, "sell out," and in order to meet all demands and satisfy all concerned, they engaged the services of the Sweeney Sales company to dispose of their stock, which company is considered among all large enterprising business houses, bankers, etc., throughout the country to be one of the greatest disposers of stock that we have anywhere. Backed up by strong references, they stand up and bear any kind of public criticism, so, if, under any circumstances, you are in doubt as to the selling out of the above firm, Mr. Sweeney has on deposit a certified check of one hundred dollars, or will pay over the same amount in good American money to anyone who can prove that this is not a straight bona fide selling out and dissolution sale.

I do not wish to indulge in personalities or vituperation of any kind, but an imitating roarback, of little or no consequence, has questioned the truth of our selling out sale; also slurred the sales company which has charge. The slogan of the imitator is: "To stampede the town for information regarding other merchants' business." First to the newspaper offices, then to the paint shops, snooping around for the wanted information so as to imitate, for he certainly cannot originate, only to try and offset any plans made by others. This is what you have right in your midst and is called competition; I call it (two hush). Is it not a shame to think that any such riffraff should exist along the lines of commercial enterprise, much like weeds in a garden. Together with his "$30,000" stock, claimed by Mr. Imitator, he should be put to the test and taxed according to the amount he sets faith in his advertisement. When we positively know he hasn't over one-third of the amount, it is a poor rule that doesn't work both ways. You can fool some of the people some of the time, but not all the people all the time.

My own personal experience in merchandising, mind you—in the United States—is not at all limited. My record of past experience shows or speaks for itself. While with such houses as William H. Elliott of Detroit; Schlessinger, Moyer, Chicago; The Fair, Chicago; P. R. Hannifan Company, Milwaukee, and the Lewis Dry Goods Company of Butte, Mont., will bear me out and show whether the writer is a faker or a merchant, and whether I have promoted successfully and shown dividends to men who know—good sound, shrewd Americans, men who have made their money on taking chances, give or take; men who know the merchandise business; men who have stores that are stores, not peanut stands.

THE ESSENCE OF THE SALES BUSINESS
 It takes an originator, not an imitator, to be a sales maker. Each and every large house throughout the country employs a promoter or a sales maker. This is one of the main assets in their business, not slugs to be slandered as a fake. I would vouch to say that the same Mr. Imitator, who swallowed the sword does not know the rudiments of an ordinary dice game; much less the sales business, and it is high time for some one to stop the imitator. For, one, will take him in hand, and will go further (signed) J. E. SWENEY, Sweeney Sales Company, Selling out Stalker Company.

STOP GUESSING

TAKE A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

If you are hesitating as to just what to do, surely it must be the lack of a thorough business training and development of personality.

Don't hold yourself back from getting the necessary preparation for a better position and a larger salary. Don't say to yourself, "I know enough to work in an office," when in reality no young man or young woman can ever know enough, much less know too much about business as it is conducted to-day. Don't think that "well enough" should be let alone when a practical working knowledge of bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting, and the commercial branches are salary raising and position insurance, and these are within your easy reach.

There surely can be no question as to whether you will take up a business course or not. Then it is simply where?

TAKE A STEP IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION

Place yourself under our supervision, don't be content to go on letting opportunities slip by, and waste good chances through lack of a thorough business training when a few months at this institution will give you the practical "know how" to meet the demands of the business man.

STOP GUESSING

It's Not Idle Talk

When we tell you that "Arrow" Flour will make better bread than the brands of flour being shipped into this locality by outside mills. We believe it will. And after a fair trial, if this flour does not give you satisfactory results, you can get your money back—yes, every cent of it. The grocer who sells you "Arrow" Flour will guarantee every sack. We contract all our grain from home growers, and our mill merits the support of home trade. Why not buy a HOME product when you get as good or better article?

SOCIETY

Quite the largest social affair of the week was the reception given Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George W. Kenneth and Mrs. Robert W. Spangler, at the home of the former, in honor of their mother, Mrs. Samuel S. Tippett of Chicago. Mrs. Lavender and white constituted the prevailing color scheme throughout the house. Mrs. Kenneth, gowned in lavender, and Mrs. Spangler, in white, with Mrs. Tippett were assisted by receiving by Mesdames E. J. Ostrander, F. D. Buckley and W. H. Graham. The lights, shaded in lavender, cast a soft glow about the room and on the pretty forms of the guests.

In the dining-room the large table was centered with an immense bouquet of lavender and white carnations. From the chandelier streamers of lavender ribbon wound with amylax were suspended to the four corners of the table in a graceful festoon. The same dainty color scheme extended to the refreshments, the salad being served in unique chrysanthemum cups. Mesdames Mrs. E. J. Ostrander and Mrs. H. Dixon were assisted in serving by Misses Vesta Thomas, Ailene Graham and Nellie Toasdale.

About one hundred and twenty-five guests called during the afternoon. Beck's orchestra played throughout the reception. Mrs. Tippett, who has made her daughter an assisted host during which time she has made a host of friends in Twin Falls, will return shortly to her home in Chicago.

For Out of Town Guests

Appropos of Federation reunions which might be mentioned several small but select affairs in honor of visiting officials of the district and state. On Wednesday evening Mrs. E. W. Clorick entertained at dinner for the following guests: Mrs. Guy Bowerman of St. Anthony; Mrs. D. W. Standrod and Mrs. Madon of Pocatello; Mrs. Susie Belthan and Mrs. G. H. Hasbrouck of Blackfoot; and Mrs. Samson of Idaho Falls. On Wednesday morning Mrs. M. J. Sweoley gave a breakfast at which covers were laid for Mrs. Kennedy Packard, Miss Margaret Roberts of Boise; Mrs. Guy Bowerman of St. Anthony; Mrs. D. W. Standrod of Pocatello; Mrs. Susan Belthan of Blackfoot; Mrs. D. E. Morse, Mrs. H. B. Lewis and Mrs. Everett Sweoley. On Thursday morning Mrs. Burton E. Morse was hosting at a slight o'clock breakfast to which were bidden Mesdames Eugene Wright, Guy Bowerman, E. J. Dockery of Boise, Susan Belthan, D. W. Standrod, Sweoley and Kennedy Packard and Miss Margaret Roberts. On Thursday evening Mrs. Everett Sweoley entertained with a duck dinner at which covers were laid for Mesdames Bowerman, Standrod, Belthan, Dockery, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Sweoley, and Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Morse.

For Brides-to-be

The Misses Floss Brunk and Anna Anderson and Mrs. H. W. Shubert were hostesses at a charming "mellancholous" shower on Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Brunk in honor of Miss Leona Sigman, whose marriage to John V. Dingman is to take place November 15.

After an interesting guessing game at which Mrs. B. F. Shoemaker received the prize, a white rose, a large tub of packages was brought in and presented to the bride-to-be with a request that they be opened. They proved to contain silverware, china, plates, kitchen utensils and a variety of beautiful gifts. At the close of the delightful afternoon refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The invited guests were Mesdames Anderson, Allen, Shubert, Hartfield, Wyatt, W. Wyatt, Bower, Campbell, Rexrode, Patrick, Leighton, Sigman and Brunk and the Misses Dugman, Shelds, Baker, Driscoll, Starling, Anderson and Bower.

Delightful Entertainment

On Monday evening the Ladies' Aid society of St. Edwards' Catholic church held an entertainment at the K. of P. hall that was most successful. The program included the following numbers:

Chorus duet by Misses Sarah Higgins and Ella Chandler; vocal solo by Miss Nellie Barry; song by Master Emery Bonell; piano duet by Misses Mary Hummel and Mary Sogard; trio by Mrs. A. Gilbert, Leola Bennett and Helen Gandy; vocal solo by Miss Nellie Toasdale; vocal solo by Miss Clara Fink; continuous monologue by Miss Mattie Dean; Monologue by Miss Toasdale, Miss Dimmitt and Baby Kinney.

CLUBS

The Twentieth Century club, like a tired but satisfied warrior, has folded away the last strip of bunting and setled back to work again after the round of festivities incident to the First District Federation, which took place last week. Housekeepers are conducting a raid on households and mending baskets that for a few days were completely emptied by their owners' duties as a member of a hostess club. But above the swish of the resuscitated broom and the click of the darning needle are echoes of merriment and pleasure wafted from the homes of the departed guests that prove compensation enough for the weeks of planning and the days of fatiguing execution.

Too much cannot be said of the excellent work of the music department, under the direction of Mrs. Kennedy Packard as department boss and Mesdames A. Gilbert and J. L. Daub in charge respectively of the instrumental and vocal sections. Few of those who listened can be faulted for the perfect rendition of the most difficult selections realized how many faithful hours of rehearsing were devoted to this preparation.

A few numbers deserving of special mention were the piano solo by Mrs. D. E. Regan on Wednesday evening, "Grand Fantasia" all Concert from

AGRICULTURAL NEWS AND NOTES

THE RESULTS IN FRUIT-GROWING

MAHA MAN WELL PLEASED WITH TWIN FALLS LAND

All of conditions here believe that clover can be grown to splendid advantage and trials of interesting experiment made.

G. S. All, who is on the staff of the Maha Bee and who owns a 40 acre tract on the townsite of Twin Falls on the south, was in the city the past week to discuss his prospects in fruit-growing. Mr. All is very much pleased with his investment here, and firmly believes in the future of the Twin Falls tract as a fruit-bearing district, although his orchard is small and not yet producing in commercial quantities. A sufficient demonstration has been made to indicate the possibilities for profitable fruit growing. Three years ago produced eight bushels of fruit, which Mr. All states was the finest he has ever seen, and Silberta and Alexandra peaches set at the same time and nearly as well. Photographs taken of the orchard just before picking showed the trees laden to the ground, but the pictures were not quite distinct enough for reproduction.

While Mr. All's testimony is not far different from that of many others who have experimented along this line, and only tends to strengthen belief in the general possibilities of this district, he has made one departure from the beaten path, and believes that comparatively new industry—the growing of clover and alfalfa seed—may be engaged in with very good profit.

Good Crop of Clover.

On seven acres of red clover this season, he harvested a fine crop from the first cutting, and from the second cutting, through 33 bushels of seed, which netted him $28.50. In addition to this, the straw is left practically as good for feeding purposes as in the original state. In his experiments with the clover, he has used up several methods, and believes that anyone can accomplish the same results. By a special method of culture, Mr. All believes that he has been able to produce in good quantities any season. This is a crop which he states has generally been thought uncertain and his opinion in this state is shared by many experts on agriculture all over the country. Mr. All's theory is that it alfalfa is planted in a sufficiently dry spot for cultivation, the first crop cut early, which is to be followed by thorough irrigation and tillage, riding up well, that an enormous growth will result, and lead to good quality mixture. His theory he does not claim as original, as it was advocated by Professor Buffum of the Colorado State Agricultural College some years ago, but the result of Mr. All's experiments and observation lead him to believe that it will work out on a larger scale in a satisfactory manner.

HAY AND POTATOES

That potatoes and hay are the principal crops of the Twin Falls tract at the present time is shown by the fact that these commodities lead in the shipments made from this point during the past month. Spuds lead the list, 35 cars having been taken as an indication of the quantity of the tubers, as they are a perishable crop, which are generally shipped as soon as harvested; while hay may be held over or fed to live stock and shipped out on the hoof as a finished product.

The outgoing shipments for the past month, so far as it has been possible to determine them, are:

Potatoes 88 cars
Hay 55 cars
Wheat 32 cars
Flax 27 cars
Flour 17 cars
Live Stock 18 cars
Beans 8 cars
Honey 1 car
Resevoir 1 car
Live Stock 30 cars
Wheat 19 cars
Straw 8 cars

This list is understood, is for the city of Twin Falls, and probably represents only a comparatively small portion of the output of the tract in the past 30 days.

Hay shipments will be in all likelihood be much lighter than the past, as it will be noted from the above figures that 30 cars of live stock have been shipped in during October, which may be taken as an indication that the farmers do not intend to be caught napping with a larger quantity of hay on their hands, as they were last year, and to this end are early preparing to provide for the market by importing stock to feed on the ground. The potato market has been steadily growing stronger, a sale of four cars at 90 cents has been made in the early part of the week, and an offer of $1.00 was reported as having been made for the specialty line lot on Saturday last, but the offer was not filled, as the crop does not have sufficient to fill a car.

FRANDSON LEAVES UNIVERSITY

Professor of Dairying, Accepts Position in University of Nebraska West known in Twin Falls

Many persons on the Twin Falls tract will be interested to know that Professor J. H. Frandson has severed his connection with the University of Idaho, to accept a position as professor of dairying in the University of Nebraska. Through his connection with the dairying convention and other assemblies of a similar nature, Professor Frandson has become well acquainted with many people in this state, and will regret his leaving this state.

The Twentieth Century Farmer has the following to say of the matter: Prof. J. H. Frandson, recently elected ed professor of dairying at the University of Nebraska, to succeed Prof. A. L. Haddock in a graduate of Iowa State college, with a master's degree. He comes from the University of Idaho, where he has been at the head of the dairy department for the last four or five years. Previous to that time he was in the employ of a large commercial creamery at Portland, Ore., where he was in charge of their chemical laboratory. Prof. Frandson comes to Nebraska with ample record in building up the dairy interests of Idaho through his work in connection with the university.

Professor J. H. Frandson

DEMONSTRATION TRAIN READY

Traveling School of Agriculture to Leave Salt Lake December 13.

Prof. W. H. Olin, in charge of university extension work for the College of Agriculture, has arranged for two of the most complete agricultural demonstration trains ever sent over the railroads in the West. The first train run will be over the Oregon Short Line, leaving Salt Lake December 13, and finishing at Huntington about December 24. The special features of the work on this train for this year will be live stock, irrigation and horticulture. The train will consist of seven coaches and will carry a complete equipment for demonstrations and lectures on the above important subjects for Southern Idaho farmers.

The second train will be run over the Northern Idaho and will leave Moscow early in January. Stops will be made at all stations where farmers and others interested will be given an opportunity to inspect the exhibit cars and hear the addresses given by the experts in charge. If you are interested in this phase of the University work correspond with Prof. W. L. Carylio, Dean of Agriculture, Moscow, or Prof. L. E. Bach, Director of Extension Work, with headquarters in the Yates building Boise.

EXCHANGE ELECTS OFFICERS

Organization of Real Estate Dealers Now Formed

The recently formed Twin Falls County Real Estate exchange has now completed its organization and promises to be of great value to the general public, as well as to its members. The rates of commission have not been changed, being 5 per cent on first $1000 and 2 1/2 per cent on sums in excess of that amount. Exceptions are made in the case of "salmon-river-land," for which the minimum rate is 2 1/2 per cent, and in the case of trades, in which a reduction is made.

The following named firms are on its roll of membership: Young & Kneel, J. E. White, E. M. Williams, Kneel, J. E. White, E. M. Williams, Aldrich, Powers & Dew, J. COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Twin Falls household will find them so

To have the pains and aches of a back removed, to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great relief can be brought about, will prove comforting words to hundreds of Twin Falls readers.

D. Doan, of Suhl, Idaho, says: "For seven years I suffered from pains through my loins and kidneys and there was a severe ache across the small of my back that lasted for days. I often felt dizzy, weak and languid, and after a few hours' work my back became so stiff and lame that I was hardly able to stratigiate. The kidney secretions were highly colored, contained sediment and were too frequent and painful in passage. I tried a number of remedies, but without success, until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills. After using this preparation the dull aches in my back disappeared, my kidneys were restored to a normal condition and my health improved."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Lillian, sweeping down the hall after them, called to Phillip. He waited at the door for a moment.

"I've a row to pick with you," declared Lillian, drawing up closely to Phillip and putting her hand upon his forehead.

"And what is it?" he asked, frowning slightly and making no attempt to conceal his feelings.

"Now, don't be cross," she rallied him playfully. "You haven't been down to see me in a month, and you have never written me a single letter. I've not put myself on paper," returned Phillip.

"You're the most unsatisfactory lover," she charged, abridging her apologies.

Blagg, gaunt and emaciated, peered down at the look of concentrated fury; his eyes, shrunken deep in their cavities, looked like wells of blackness. Lillian smiled at his malediction, but Kevin shook his head.

"Don't like that fellow," he observed. "He's a dangerous man to be around. He's a fanatic and a fanatic, and there is no telling where and when he will break loose."

"I don't know," Lillian smiled. "I believe that all you say about him is true, but I rather like to play with a fellow like that."

"No," replied Kevin shortly—"not unless there is a definite end to gain by doing so."

When the company sat down to dinner Kevin found at his place the early bulletin. They all highly favored the election of Kevin and Rollins and had the effect of starting the dinner with much lightness of spirit. At 10 o'clock, however, unfavorable bulletins began to come in, one after the other, and Senator Sawyer moved beyond measure by the unexpected development came bustling into the room.

"I don't understand it," he declared. "It would look as if the labor vote had suddenly switched."

"I cannot understand how the labor vote should have been estranged," commented Kevin slowly; "but, after all, it is a matter of the thing in which I am chiefly interested just now is not cause, but result. We can analyze the situation afterward."

Blagg, still smiling, left the room, returning a moment later with still other depressing news. The most of them were inside when, at the end of an hour of almost continued bad news, Blagg brought in a particularly unfavorable telegram, one purporting to come from the national committee and coming the most telling defeat of Kevin by a narrow margin.

"I'm bound to confess that it looks bad," Kevin was forced to admit. "But I'm like you, senator; I can't understand it. I don't see what element of success we have."

"I can tell you," suddenly broke in the voice of Blagg, a voice that was shrill in his long oppressed triumph. "I did it. I am at the head of an organization of a quarter of a million men, each one sworn to be ready against the principles you represent. I sent them out the word immediately after your nomination and once a week since to vote against you and to elect against you tooth and nail, and they have done it. You owe me a defeat to me. And be best both hands upon his chest in his madness of exultation.

Kevin eyed him coldly. "You were not asked for any comment for conspicuous," Mr. Blagg, he observed. "For the remainder of the evening you will kindly and without unnecessary conversation attend to the duties which permit you to enter this room."

Blagg, with his hands clasped and his face troubled, his hands clinched convulsively, but suddenly he wheeled and strode from the room.

A cheer, the first hearty one in a half hour, attracted them to the balcony. The intruder, across the street, was displaying a highly favorable message, which proved to be the turning of the tide. Lillian went into Blagg's room to telephone for Elsie White. Blagg was in a chair in the corner, with his back to the door, and there were red stains upon it. Elsie rose as Lillian entered.

"You may go get that cigar now," he said to his assistant, who was at the key. "I'm not done yet."

He demanded, turning to Lillian as soon as the operator had gone. "Who has shown the greater power—Kevin or myself? He is through, and it is I who have defeated him. It is only the start of the things I am destined to do, and with you here to be my constant ally, Lillian, come with me."

"I cannot help by the shoulder," she said. "Where there is a billion and a half dollars in cash. With this money we can overturn the entire rotten social, financial and political system of this country and away the mightiest empire in the world to our will. I've talked of this phase first because you have not met me to talk of love, but now I must speak of it, Lillian. I am dying for the love of you. Come right now while you have a chance, and we'll go to Forest Lake immediately—tonight. I've a thousand men where I can mass them in an hour. Come!

Kevin will cast you off like a broken toy."

CHAPTER XIX.

SLOWLY, boding his eyes with her own, Lillian's hand placed the point of a pin upon one of Blagg's knuckles and twisted it. "But you'll be damned if that lay in her she had selected this trifling affair as being the most contemptuous within her invention, and, laughing in his face, she swept from the room and sent a page for Elsie. She relayed the message, the page, laughing from sheer light heartedness, and nestled down in a chair close by Phillip. In the dimness she even rested her forearm across his knee and shared with the others their increasing pleasure in the return from casting county districts, where the vote had been almost to a man for Kevin and Rollins. By 1 o'clock the election of Kevin and Rollins was assured beyond all possibility of a doubt, and telegrams of congratulation began to pour in from all quarters.

"Blagg!" exclaimed Senator Sawyer and laughed heartily. "Wasn't that a curious thing? I shall always remember your man Blagg."

"Yes, you shall remember Blagg, all of you," he said, and, turning, they saw the tall, thin form of the wireless operator standing in the doorway. Before any one could divine his intention he had sprung at Phillip.

Something glittered in the light as he raised his arm and flashed as he brought it down, and Kevin stepped to the door. Blagg sprang for the door to the hall, but met Sam coming in, and Sam, seeing Phillip lying upon the floor, required an explanation. An instant, for the second time in the lives, his hands were about Blagg's throat, and he bore him to the door. Horror-stricken, Sawyer and Hensseler and Zelpban and the attending butler rushed to drag him away from the victim. His falling turned the attention to Phillip. It had all happened in an instant—the stabbing of Phillip, Sam's assault upon Blagg and the piling of the other men upon Sam—and in that instant Elsie White had shrieked and thrown herself upon her knees beside Phillip's prostrate form.

"Phillip!" she cried in anguish, and in that cry the secret of her heart was made known. All the pent-up love that she had felt for him and had hidden revealed itself in that wailing cry upon his name.

Lillian Bred, her face inflamed with sudden passion, leaped over the girl and, grasping her by the shoulders, shook her violently, discharged her wrath in a scolding, and tried to have the girl thrown into the street.

In the meantime Phillip had opened his eyes and a moment later raised himself to his elbow, feeling at his head.

"Are you badly hurt?" asked Rollins.

"No, I think not," replied Phillip, dazed. "I think I was only stunned by the force of the blow. I doubt if I even have a flesh wound." And, taking Rollins' hand, he rose to his feet and sat in a chair.

It was in that moment that Rollins saw Lillian raise her hand to strike Elsie, and he sprang in between them, putting a protecting arm around Elsie's shoulder.

Lillian laughed shrilly. "It seems that my clever little maid has aroused the gallantry of more than one of my friends," she charged.

"No," returned Rollins calmly. "I only love her, and I'm going to call a cab and send her over to my mother at the Hotel Spuyten."

The disturbance rose anew in the group about the door. Rensseler and Dr. Zelpban had Sam on the floor on his back. Senator Sawyer and the attending butler had raised Blagg to his feet and stood with him near the door. He was sullen white and was quivering all over. His hands were at his throat, and he was gasping for breath.

"Send for a policeman," the butler ordered the bewildered page.

"No," said the intruder. "Don't do that. Let the man go. It is not good policy to have this known."

Sawyer, panting for breath, nodded his head vigorously. "You are quite right, Mr. Kevin," said he and stepped away from Blagg's side at once.

"You are letting me go at your own peril," warned Blagg, gasping out the words.

"If you stay it will be at yours," returned Phillip and got upon his feet. He did not waver, heavy and metallic and bright dropped to the floor. Blagg took a step forward, stopped, laughed bitterly and tottered out into the hall.

Kevin stooped and picked up the object that had fallen. It was the heavy paperweight dagger that Blagg had stolen from Phillip's desk a year before. Phillip held it up to the light.

"That's twice this thing has threatened me," said he, "and each time it has failed. I think I shall keep it as my emblem and my talisman."

An unusual commotion arose in the street, and there were loud cheers and calls for Kevin. He looked inquiringly at Sawyer.

"It's none of my doing," declared the senator. "You'd better show, yourself and say a few words, I guess."

Kevin advanced hesitatingly to the window and held out his hand for Rollins to come with him. Before he emerged upon the balcony he turned and once more held up the dagger. He noticed, as he did so, however, that it stood in the shape of a cross, and he immediately reversed it with the glittering point in the air.

"It's this sign I conjure!" he laughingly quoted, and then he went out upon the balcony to exhibit himself as president elect of the United States.

ALLEGED HORSE THIEF ARRESTED

James Rogers Said to Have Fancy for Horses.

James Rogers, alias "Ranger Jim," was arrested on Monday of last week by Deputy Sheriff Harrison, upon advice from the marshal of Jerome.

Roger's plan of operation, it is claimed, was to hire a horse from a livery man, ride to the next town, leave the animal with another livery man, claiming that the horse was tired out, and hire another. Being thus secured, the victim usually did not become suspicious for some days, which gave "Ranger Jim" plenty of time to get to the next town and "swap" horses again. It is not known how he made a start upon his endless chain, but after getting under way he was always one horse ahead. However, when he got to Twin Falls, he made the mistake of trying to sell the equine, which was then riding, to a livery man of the Twin Falls Livery & Feed Barn. Things did not look exactly right to Mr. Gallier, and an investigation proved that the animal had been hired under way by the name of Bloom of Jerome, and the arrest of "Ranger Jim" followed.

A Badge of Honesty

Is printed on the outer wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it is the only medicine for woman's peculiar ailments sold by druggists, the makers of which feel fully warranted in thus taking the afflicted into their full confidence.

The more known about the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the more confidently will invalid women rely upon it to cure their peculiar weaknesses and derangements. There's no secrecy about its make-up—no deceptive inducements held out to the afflicted. It's simply a Good, honest, square-deal medicine with no alcohol or injurious, habit-forming drugs in its composition. Made wholly from roots. It can do no harm in any condition of woman's organism.

Devised and put up by a physician of vast experience in the treatment of woman's maladies. Its ingredients have the indorsement of leading physicians in all schools of practice.

The "Favorite Prescription" is known everywhere as the standard remedy for diseases of women and has been so regarded for the past 40 years and more. Accept no secret nostrum in place of "Favorite Prescription"—a medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, with a record of 40 years of cures behind it.

It's foolish and often dangerous to experiment with new or but slightly tested medicines—sometimes urged upon the afflicted as "just as good" or better than "Favorite Prescription." The dishonest dealer sometimes insists that he knows what the proffered substitute is made of, but you don't and it is decidedly for your interest that you should know what you are taking into your stomach and system, expecting it to act as a curative. To him its only a difference of profit. Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.
