DEATH OF EDWIN JONES

Young Law Student Succumbs to Spinal Meningitis After Brief Illness

In the death of Edwin Jones, which occurred at the local hospital last Friday evening, the Twin Falls community lost a promising young man. About a month ago he was taken ill with typhoid fever. He was confined to his bed for several weeks and a week later he was up and about his work. He had just recently taken his law examination at the University of Idaho, which was the final step of his education. Death came as a great shock to his friends, as he was apparently recovered from his illness and was not aware of his illness.

The deceased was a young man of exceptional ability, and his many accomplishments were well known to a multitude of friends who deeply deplore his death. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Jones, of Twin Falls. He graduated from the high school in that city in 1908, coming to Twin Falls to study law. He was a member of the Y. M. C. A. and had a half sister, Mrs. W. P. Gubrie, who is now a clerk and stenographer while residing in Boise. He was very popular in his home town, and his death is a great loss to his family and to the community. He was buried in the local cemetery on Sunday morning, and in accordance with his wishes, his remains were taken to his home in Twin Falls for interment. He was accompanied by his father and mother, and a large number of friends.

REPUBLICANS CARRY THE DAY

GOVERNOR SIGNS NEW BILL BASED ON DAVIS MEASURE, AND LAW-MAKERS GO TO THEIR HOMES WELL SATISFIED WITH OUTCOME

"CASH VALUE" OF PAST FOR ALL TIME IN IDAHO

NEW LAW IN TWIN FALLS

(Special to Twin Falls News) Boise, Feb. 1.—With the signature of Governor Hawley to House Bill 35, modeled on the order of the Davis Bill No. 31, and referred to here as the Davis bill, both houses of the legislature adjourned here at 4 p. m. Wednesday afternoon.

C. J. HAHN IS RECIPIENT OF HIGH HONORS

(Special to Twin Falls News) Boise, Feb. 1.—The name of C. J. Hahn, a prominent banker of Twin Falls, was last night mentioned for the first time in connection with the republican race for governor this fall. Mr. Hahn is here reported as an independent politician, and it is conceded that his candidacy would meet with good support.

Hahn Not Averse Interviewed this morning with regard to the above dispatch Mr. Hahn of the Twin Falls National Trust company stated that while he had not yet definitely decided to become a candidate for governor, if the party demand his services he is ready to make the race.

Clear Decks for Action. It is clear that the tax commission bill that had passed the house by a narrow margin of one vote was dropped in the senate in the role of all the Republican senators and one Democrat, Jerome J. Day. But this was understood to be but clearing the decks for a tax commission bill that it was thought would be acceptable to the governor and both wings of the legislature.

Both Sides Disgusted. In the final flush of anger over the veto the Republicans passed a resolution through both house and senate in the afternoon of Feb. 1st. They were joined in this by many Democrats anxious to get help in their business. The resolution was to meet the governor's idea of full cash value of all property. It was a measure to meet the governor's idea of full cash value of all property.

Important Games Saturday. Two important basketball games will be played with support Saturday at the high school gym. There will be a boys' and a girls' game, and the result is very considerably important. The girls' game will be between the girls of the local school and the girls of the school at Twin Falls.

High School Building Filled. Twenty-five new high school pupils enrolled from the grades this week, making a total enrollment of 240. This about fills the building to capacity, but with the opening of the winter term the building will be filled to capacity. The building will be filled to capacity.

A NEW MAKE OF AUTO

L. R. Kelley Manufactures a Three Wheeler Which "Goes" Materially Taken from Scrap Heap.

Much attention was attracted the past week by the appearance upon the streets of a miniature automobile, the make of which proclaimed it to be the "Three Wheeler" of some industry, and not the "Three Wheeler" of some manufacturer. The machine is assembled from the parts of an automobile motor, automobile and other parts. It is a three-wheeled machine, and is made from a motor, a steering gear, and a few bolts, and is the result of the efforts of L. R. Kelley and his wife, Mrs. Kelley. Mr. Kelley has been working on the "auto" during odd moments all winter in order to kill time, and completed it all but the steering gear, which his professional driver, Edward Oldfield-Winder, helped him out.

While the "auto" was made merely for amusement, Mr. Kelley states that by using a little good material he can build one that will be practical for road work, and this he contemplates doing in the near future.

NEW CLOCK SYSTEM ARRIVES

High School Building Will Be Equipped with Modern System of Time Keeping.

The new clock system for the high school building arrived early in the week and will be installed shortly. The system is a modern one, and is electrically synchronized from the principal's office and is in operation in each room every 15 minutes, and thus does away with much confusion. In case of a lecture in the auditorium, the premises are provided with all the student or any interruption in the regular routine, the recitation periods can be shortened as necessary, setting the room clock to the principal's office, and the time thus saved among the different classes.

MAGIC STORY RETOLD

Christian Science Monitor Relates the Wonders of Irrigation in Idaho

Together with a cut of Twin Falls in all their glory, the following article was printed in last week's issue of the Christian Science Monitor, published at Boston. The wide circulation of the paper in question gives assurance of many readers of the story of the Magic City:

From the story of the country around Twin Falls, in Idaho, reads like a fairy tale. Six years ago that week's issue of the paper was published. Now it is covered with bearing orchards and alfalfa fields. The water for irrigation comes from the Snake river, which flows from the north to the south, and then takes a sudden drop.

The Snake river rises in the Rocky mountains in northwest Idaho. It flows through the headwaters of the Yellowstone-Madison rivers, at an elevation of 8000 feet. The main flow of the river is toward the west, and it is here that the outlet of Shoshone and Lewis lakes, thence south toward Jackson Lake and again northward.

From this point it travels in a big curve of more than 350 miles through Southern Idaho. When it strikes the Oregon border it divides into two streams, one of 200 miles, then takes a sharp turn to the west and flows for 150 miles to the Columbia. Its total length is nearly 1000 miles.

In its long course through Idaho the Snake river has many streams as tributaries, among them being the Clearwater, Salmon, Payette, Boise, Owyhee, Brunson and Wood rivers. The Snake river has many streams as tributaries, among them being the Clearwater, Salmon, Payette, Boise, Owyhee, Brunson and Wood rivers.

It is said that more homes are heated by electricity than there is in New York and Chicago put together.

POTATO PRIZE WON BY DEWEY SNYDER

TWIN FALLS BOY OUTDISTANCES ALL COMPETITORS

Fourteen-year-old son of L. A. Snyder is Champion of United States Awarded Premium Offered by Paper

Not to be outdone by his father Dewey Snyder, son of L. A. Snyder, winner of the Burley prize of $500 for the best acre of potatoes grown in the five northwestern states.

In fact, Dewey went his father one better, and didn't stop merely five states, but entered in competition "national" all boys under 20 years of age in the United States—and what is more—a high grade bicycle, isn't so valuable as that won by his father, but for a youngster of 14 it is mighty good.

The offer was made by Successful Farming, an agricultural journal published at Des Moines, Iowa, and it looked good to Dewey.

His father advised him to acre plot and he went at it with a determination to win if it were possible, doing all the work himself, except planting and digging, which was done by machine and which was far too heavy work for a lad of 14.

That acre was one of the best tended in the field the past season, and in the fall 45 bushels were harvested. Affidavits were prepared as to the accurate measurement of the ground and the yield and forwarded to the editor of Successful Farming, who now writes announcing the winner of the contest and states that he will accept it as prize.

Delaney Challenge won the potatoes grown, the name variety, by the way, which won the Burley prize.

Dewey is naturally very much pleased over his result of his efforts and he is entitled to much credit, both for his industry and the benefit, which will accrue to his tract through the publicity received.

THE FINANCIAL TAX EFFORT

Yet another tax bill is to come up for action in the legislature, and this time it looks as though the measure would meet the approval of all sides.

The bill is practically a compromise between Republicans, Democrats and the governor, and it is declared that if it goes through without material changes, the governor will add his signature and the proposed law will go into effect at once.

The fundamental principles of the bill do not differ greatly from those contained in the Farin measure. But there will be no commissioner, and the assessments will be made on a full cash value basis. But, and here is the important point, the tax levy will be made on a 30 per cent valuation instead of at 100 per cent as in 1911, and in this manner it is hoped to escape many of the snags and pitfalls which did so much to bring about the drop in popularity of the present incumbent of the gubernatorial chair.

While the tax commission idea will probably fail there is food for reflection in the endorsement by the various governors of the west where the scheme has been tried out. Undoubtedly such a commission would do much good in Idaho, and the fact that a majority of both parties want it is perhaps sufficient ground for its qualified approval. However, the old objection still remains, namely, had the question of tax revision been approached in a sane, business-like, reasonable way in the first place, the expense of such a body might have been avoided and the people of Idaho as a whole would be richer by several hundred thousand dollars than they are at present.

As far as Governor Hawley is concerned he should fairly be regarded as out of the running. A measure bearing the stamp of approval of both house and senate may be taken, as good enough for the people of Idaho under all the circumstances. It may be that the new measure will present many flaws when it comes into actual operation, but that it will be better than a return to the old order of things is a foregone conclusion.

The proposition to make taxes payable in two semi-annual installments instead of all at once, as at present, should meet with the hearty approval of tax-payers generally.

CONVICT LABOR IN TWIN FALLS

While Twin Falls has many blocks of paving in the business and main residential sections, there are still many unpaved streets which become very nearly impassable during wet weather, and the thought arises that the municipal convicts could be put to work upon the rock pile to good advantage, as they could be thus made to pay their way by utilizing the product of their labor in building macadamized highways.

At the present time the city is obliged to pay for the keeping of these convicts, and the people are made to pay for street improvements. It is true that many argue that convicts should not be obliged to parade his shame in public, but in the majority of cases and drinks this sense is lacking, and in many instances 30 days of physical exercise, good food and fresh air would serve to build up the "patient's" constitution so that he would better be able to withstand future temptations and the training would, perhaps, put him in trim to become a producer instead of merely a burdane upon society. Lava rock is not the best material for road building, but it is all that is available, and there is a plentiful supply on the banks of Rock Creek, almost within the city limits. One guard could "herd" a dozen or more prisoners, and even if there was an escape now and then no great harm would come of it, as this class are not usually dangerous criminals, and it is a safe bet that any such "escapes" would not again trouble the police department for many moons.

For that matter, the plan could be extended to the entire county, and if only a few roads of road were built in an entire year, it would constitute some return for the keep of a class to whom society owes nothing. The plan is not a new one, but it means it has been tried out in many cities and states, among which New Jersey stands out as an excellent example. The traveler passing through that state is impressed by its many miles of macadamized roads stretching out in every direction, all of which have been built by convict labor.

A STUDY IN HUMAN NATURE.

To the man who is big enough and broad enough to acknowledge his mistakes and profit by them, a degree of credit is due, but to him who persists blindly in a course of action which is obviously unjust and wrong, the opprobrium of a people is all too real.

And yet, strange as it may seem, there are a few hundred people in Idaho who, if Hawley were to come up for re-election tomorrow, would vote for him, just as there are still men who actually believe that vivisection is merely an outlet for the inherent cruelty of a certain class of scientists, that vaccination is a work of the devil, and of benefit only in so far as it gratifies the freakish notions of modern therapeutics.

Possibly a still better parallel of the principle may be offered in the case of Mayor Ames of Minneapolis some years ago. It was in evidence during the trial of Dr. Ames that he had violated his oath of office, permitted gambling and worse to exist openly in defiance of the statutes, had taken money and made still more from the shame of women and had robbed the citizens of Minneapolis of every dollar that it was possible to lay hands on. It was removed from office, a broken, ruined old man, an object lesson in evil and with the finger of scorn and contempt, pointed at him by a whole country.

Yet at a number of obscure meetings, held about Minneapolis following the downfall of the Ames regime, many whom the doctor in his days as a practicing physician had befriended, declared that if he ever again wanted their votes for office he could have them.

Of course there is no intention of attempting to draw a parallel between the governor of Idaho and the notorious ex-mayor of Minneapolis, but it all goes to show that no matter how grievous a man's faults may be there are always a misguided few who from various motives are willing to put up with him.

FLEISHER VERSUS SPRINKLERS

As one watches the operation of the city street flusher, the question naturally arises if it would not be an advantage to substitute them for the old street sprinklers, both from the standpoint of sanitation as well as economy.

It is a well-known fact that the germs of many diseases are spread through the filth of the streets during up during the summer months and being spread broadcast by every wind that blows. Much of this would be avoided if the paved streets were flushed instead of sprinkled, as the contaminating matter instead of being merely wet down and still left upon the thoroughfares to dry out again within a few moments, would be washed into the sewerage system, where it belongs, and where little harm could come of it.

This is by far the most important consideration, but there is also something to be said from the standpoint of economy. By actual test, it has been found that with 12 tanks of water the flusher will do more and better work than was accomplished with 40 tanks by the old sprinkler system, which means a great saving in labor. In addition if the streets are thoroughly flushed, it would do away with street cleaners, and the work would be better done. It is true that the unpaved streets cannot be flushed, but the necessity is not great as earth is one of the best disinfectants, and the flusher has an attachment for sprinkling, so that it can be used upon both classes of highways.

The cost of the flusher is $1100 as against about $600 for the sprinklers, but if in the appearance of being worth two to one in the matter of workmanship, and easily three to one in point of efficiency. The flusher is equipped with a roll riveted sheet steel tank and solid, well-built trucks, and looks as though it would be capable of good work for many years to come. Many of the large cities are equipped with such machines, Salt Lake City having 12 in use.

WHAT ABOUT THE CURFEW?

A good deal of complaint is being indulged in lately by business men and others relative to the activities of the ubiquitous small boy about town. While the disposition is all too frequently to overlook the fact that each and every living man was once one of those same small, mischief loving lads, there appears to be ground for the belief that a little closer watch on the part of a good many parents would be productive of much good.

Let it be borne in mind at all times that the training of future citizens is accomplished to much better purpose within the boy's own home than will be the case if he is left to acquire it by hard knocks in the battle of life which will come all too soon.

Sometimes hoodlums grow into good men, but the actual percentage is woefully small.

Collier's Weekly declares that the speeches of Woodrow Wilson are far and away the best campaign oratory now being put forth. This may be all very true, but it will take a stronger brand than Mr. Wilson or any other man is capable of to overcome the effect on the public mind of the disincarnate pre-presidential days.

Judson Harmon? Well, possibly, but from a Republican standpoint what's the difference?

basis for all tax levies. This plan is in operation, it is said, in Illinois and other eastern states. It is claimed for it that it gives the state the privilege of a larger market for its products to pick up the good features of the victrol and also of the deduct Melano-Marlin measure. With the state holding the state at 6 o'clock hanging over their heads members on both sides would be glad to gather some fragments from the wreck.

H. B. No 35 Now a Law
After a hard day's work the lower house Tuesday afternoon passed the bill which provides for the use of the state board of equalization in the hiring of exports to collect the duties. The bill provides for the use of the board in its work of equalization.

Before it passed the house it was amended to include practically all of the original Davis-Bill so amended in its main features to meet the wishes of Governor Hawley. The bill is added to the provision that 40 per cent of cash value is to be used as the basis for taxation purposes and both the full value and the 40 per cent value are to be extended on the lists. It also provides for the examination of lands for tax purposes and for the equalization of the value of lands.

The tax commission was organized Tuesday afternoon and the floor announced that this bill as amended was acceptable to him. It passed the house by a vote of 19 to 10. The Republicans and one Democrat voted against it.

Senator Edward M. Egan, who introduced a resolution to simplify the state government and to reduce the expense of administration. The resolution passed the senate without division. It would require a detailed report from the head of every department to the governor December 1 of each year. It would also require a report from the head of every department to the governor December 1 of each year.

Arguing that the chief trouble with the tax system of the state is that too much money is collected and spent for unnecessary purposes, Senator Egan advocated the consolidation of all the state educational institutions under one board of control with the governor as president. He would abolish all institutions that are not performing their proper functions, and he would concentrate all state educational institutions as far as possible. This is taken here to mean that he would abolish the normal school at Albion and the academy at Pocatello.

CONTACT WITH LIVE WIRE PROVES FATAL

LIFT OPERATOR ON MINIDOKA PROJECT MEETS DEATH

Carl Mertz, an employe at Pumping Station Near Burley Receives Shock Which Causes Death—Lived for Several Hours

Burley, Jan. 26.—Carl Mertz, operator at the third lift pumping station on the Minidoka south side project, 12 miles east of Burley, died last night as a result of the electric shock which he received at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning at the second lift pumping station. Mertz was a man 40 years of age, a widower, a wife and several children. He had been employed at the lifts for several years. Mertz was a regular operator of being on the most of the operators in the employ of the reclamation service.

At the time of the fatal accident Mr. Mertz was visiting at the second lift. He had just been down in the pit where the pump is stationed, when he came up the ladder to the second lift to get some tools, and whilst climbing he contacted with the wire carrying the high power current of 25,000 volts. At the current, on account of his proximity to the wires, grounded through his body and the frame of the lift to which he was holding at the time.

As soon as the current was short-circuited the power was thrown off automatically, and the current did not pass through Mertz's body for more than 20 seconds. However, his hands were badly scorched, and he suffered intense pain in his chest and from cramps for several hours after the accident. He later grew calmer and apparently was improving in a few hours before the end came. Although Mr. Mertz was an extra strong and robust man, the terrible shock and burns were more than he could withstand.

There have been several accidents at the new lift at Minidoka dam, but Carl Mertz was the first man to be seriously injured at the pumping station.

THREE-YEAR BILL MAY PASS

Favorable Report Made by Senate Homestead Bill

Washington, Jan. 31.—The bill granting homesteads six months' leave of absence in each year, which was reported by the Senate on Monday, is expected to pass the Senate on Monday. As the bill is reported, homesteaders after the first six months' continuous residence upon their land will be entitled to have their homes for six months in each succeeding year, the time when absent to be limited to three years. The bill also provides that the homesteader will be able to get title after cultivating his land for three consecutive summers and will be permitted to be away from his land each winter.

The committee was unanimous in reporting the bill, and it will be called up and unquestionably will pass the Senate at an early day. This combined bill is in direct line with the reforms urged by Senator Borah in his speech last week. So effective was that speech that the eastern senators are ready to vote for the measure, which is framed to facilitate the acquisition of title by homesteaders. The bill applies to the enlarged homesteads as well as 160-acre sections.

Opposed by Fisher
Secretary of the Interior Fisher opened a bill to prevent the passage of the combination Borah-Carr homestead bill to "60-acre congressional districts." Secretary Fisher declared the bill was "proportional" as that would permit homesteaders to get title after only eight months' residence on the land, and he announced his purpose to block the bill. It has been a participation of this plan he called upon Senator Smoot, chairman of the public lands committee, and got the bill a promise to carry it to a vote in his committee. It can be revised in a way that will require a longer actual residence, or the insertion of some provision which will require a limited amount of cultivation, or stipulate about authority to hold up the bill until they believe the cultivation is made, or that he can see on the Senate calendar and can only be recalled by a vote of the Senate.

When you have had your own view on the bill, you will find it is a little different from the one which you have seen. Here is a draught of opinion: "I have sold Chambliss' land for $500,000," says one of the leaders of the "Borah" faction on the market." Sold by all dealers.

TWIN FALLS COUNTY PROVEN PEACH-GROWING DISTRICT

John Balsch Harvests First Crop of Fruit Which Vindicates His Judgment in Selection of Orchard Tract

One thousand seven hundred boxes of Elberta peaches of 16 acres of orchard in the record made the first season by John Balsch, the pioneer peach man of the Twin Falls tract.

Mr. Balsch is an old grower of 15 years' experience in the Grand Valley section of Colorado, and leaving there a few years ago he traveled all over California, Washington and Oregon, and finally decided upon the Twin Falls country as being the ideal location for his business before anyone else had done so.

He bought the tract here in connection with the purchase of the land. When he had decided upon his new location he pulled up stakes in the old home and brought with him in his car sufficient trees to plant the 16 acres on his place four miles north west of town, and on his Kimberly ranch, in 1911 he harvested his first crop.

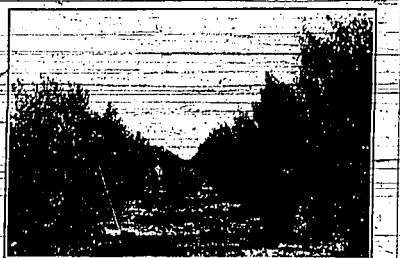

foothold is much better than a number of light irrigations, as they will not reach deep enough to do much good, and soon dry out forming a crust, making the ground hard and cloddy.

If the trees are healthy they will probably bear some the second year, he says, but should not be allowed to produce more than a dozen per tree. After that they will take care of themselves with judicious thinning, that is, not allowing the fruit to mature closer than four inches apart on the branches.

In picking care should be taken to get a grade of uniform size and coloring. Mr. Balsch explains that a few extra large peaches in a box has the effect of making the purchaser look with disfavor on the balance; whereas, if graded, they are of better general appearance.

Every year he estimates and takes the average price for the crop will be secured.

Peaches—a Specialty.
While peaches are Mr. Balsch's specialty, he has many acres of or-tribute to any transportation company.

All this doubtless looks simple and easy to the novice, who may imagine that all that was necessary was to plant the trees and sit in the shade a few years and—wait for the crop to mature; and doubtless the failures which have been entered on the debit side of the ledger of the West may, in most cases, be traced to ideas of this kind.

But the fact is, Mr. Balsch had a long experience to guide him in the selection of a locality where the soil conditions and climate were favorable to his enterprise.

Even then, it was a gamble, and he had to take his chances in the face of disinvestment. The banker with whom he opened an account and transacted business.

The idea was "outlet" and, and, he might as well have added "voluntary." However, Mr. Balsch is the kind that will take a long chance, and his success has blazed the trail for many to follow.

chards of other kinds. Four thousand apple trees of standard commercial varieties, such as the Jonathan, Winesap, Gano, Yellow Pippin, and Rome Beauty have been planted, and are now three and four years old, and some of them have borne already. Mr. Balsch is buying the theory that if a tree has fruit it is in condition to bear.

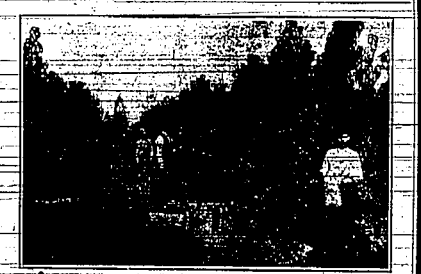

The pear is a fruit which also offers good returns, and Mr. Balsch has 2500 Bartlett and Anjou trees. The Anjou is a triffo larger than the average apple, has a smooth skin and comes at a season when other fruit is gone, and commands an average market price of $3 per box, and a few years ago brought as high as $5.

His pear orchard was set three and four years ago, and 20 boxes were sold from it this season, although the pear does not come into bearing in any quantity until about the fifth year, the same as the apple.

Mr. Balsch also experiments with many different kinds of fancy fruit, and exhibited a number of Tokay and Thompson seedless raisin grapes this Advice to Growers.

Mr. Balsch's advice is to cut the fruit from the trees in the fall, and tree well back when setting, as it is impossible to get the branches too low. This will force the tree to spread, which has the dual purpose of protecting it from the wind, and making it more easy to pick the fruit.

His theory is to plant in the spring as soon as the ground is dry enough to work setting the trees 20 feet apart each way, and he considers locally grown nursery stock best, as it is more naturally adapted to the soil, and the roots will not be so liable to become broken or dried, which is an important item.

Two irrigations the first season, he considers, will be necessary—once when the trees are planted, and the second about August. Two irrigations per season, at the most, are all that is necessary thereafter, and sometimes one will be sufficient in a season where there is plenty of rainfall.

Another theory of Mr. Balsch's is that a very thorough irrigation—one which will reach the burdun and soften it up so the fibrous roots can secure a measure. The rains grapes barely matured, and the Tokays would in a season of average length, although he wouldn't recommend planting them in commercial quantities. However, all American varieties do well, and of eleven varieties in the Balsch orchard it would be hard to select a favorite.

Three acres are devoted to plums and prunes. The latter have never been known to fail, and Mr. Balsch believes they would be a good paying crop if they could be handled in the same way as at Pinaldesa, Colo., where an association was formed, and a community market of vaporator. It is established. Plums, he considers, good only for fresh fruit, and in small quantities.

But in view of all this, the peach is the staple with Mr. Balsch. In Colorado he found them to offer the best and quickest returns on the investment, and his venture here seems to indicate that such will be his experience in this state.

PUBLICITY FOR TWIN FALLS.
Ohio Newspaper Publisher Program in Full with Commendatory Remarks

Cleveland and the Northwestern part of Ohio are fairly well represented in the Twin Falls country, and many now from the same section are looking this way towards the promised breakfast of the Cleveland Enterprise, the official organ of the Chamber of Industry, published on the first page the invitation to the Baked Potato breakfast at Twin Falls with some commendatory remarks. The Enterprise has a circulation of 10,000 and this need may fall on good ground and arouse some interest in Ohio for the Twin Falls country.

POULTRY SHOW A SUCCESS.
Attendance Not as Large as in Previous Years

The Lincoln County Poultry association closed their third annual show last Saturday evening. To the inclement weather and the bad condition of the roads, the attendance was less than in previous years. Notwithstanding this, however, a large number of birds were entered at the show. The well-known poultry expert, Harry H. Collier, officiated as judge, and the exhibitors expressed themselves as satisfied with his decision—North side view.

The South

Famed for its Cooking

Cottolene

To mention the South is to suggest "good cooking." The South is the home of Cottolene, and more of the product is used there in proportion to the population than in any other part of the country. This is simply because Southerners know that cotton oil is a pure, vegetable product, and the best cooking fat known. Cottolene is made from choice, refined cotton oil, and packed in sealed, air-tight cans for its cleanliness and purity. Why take chances with inferior imitations? Get Cottolene—the oil cooking fat—most healthful in the market? Cottolene will make a reputation for itself.

LOCAL NEWS ELECTS NEW MANAGEMENT

CHARLES B. WILEY RESIGNS FROM FARMERS' MERCHANTS R. W. Allred Succeeds as President of Institution—C. A. Robinson Named as Manager—Both Have Excellent Records

At a meeting of the directors of the Farmers & Merchants bank on Thursday last the resignation of C. B. Wiley as president and manager was received and accepted. R. W. Allred, who up to the present time has held the position of cashier of the Citizens State Bank of Boise, was named to succeed Mr. Wiley, and C. A. Robinson of this city was elected manager. Both are prominent in financial circles and their election to the bank promises great advancement for that institution.

Mr. Robinson was for many years cashier of the Shobon National bank of Shobon, Iowa, where he built up a very successful business. Three years ago he came to the Twin Falls, purchasing the Commercial & Savings bank of Warner brothers, and sold out to the Farmers & Merchants bank one year later. During the time that he has been in charge of the Commercial & Savings bank the business doubled in volume, which may be taken as a very good indication that affairs will prosper under his management. He has large property interests in the city and surrounding territory and has a thorough understanding of business conditions in this section.

Since coming to the Twin Falls, Mr. Allred has held the office of president of the Citizens State bank of Boise, and has also been director of the Farmers & Merchants for some time. During his tenure of the office he has built up a splendid business. He is a man of recognized ability on the part of Mr. Wiley resigns because of other business interests which will demand his attention, but is not ready to announce his plans at the present time.

CAMPAIGN NOW NEAR AT HAND

Great Religious Demonstration to Be Held in Boise Week After Next The great religious campaign of the Anti-Socialist League, which is now being held in Boise, is now close at hand. It will begin on Sunday, February 11th. The convention days will be February 13, 14 and 15. The prospect is that a great many delegates and others will be in attendance from outside towns and that the week will be one that will not be remembered by those who take part in the proceedings.

CHANGE IN OWNERSHIP

The implements business of Mitchell, Fout, George & Company has been purchased by H. H. Neumann and C. A. Bickford, who have now taken over the management of the business. Mr. Neumann was until recently engaged in the jewelry business, being of the firm of Neumann & Allan, which has recently closed its doors. The new firm will carry practically the same line of goods, implements and farm hardware as the old firm.

BOYCH GOES TO MAT

R. V. Lucas, editor of the Bedford (Iowa) Even Post, rejoices in the downfall of Gosh, the wrestler, as follows: "The writer had the pleasure the past week of seeing something that few people have ever witnessed and that which would not be believed if it were not true. It occurred on the 10th of October, and the spectators gathered in that small town of the Shriners at Dels Moines, last Thursday night."

GARD OF THANKS

I desire to extend my sincere thanks to my many friends for their sympathy in my late bereavement. I am also obliged and grateful for their many beautiful floral tributes.

A lady in Greenview, E. C. recently wrote a friend as follows: "For five years, after my darling daughter, with the utmost care I was disappointed to see them come out clean and unbroken looking. However, with my first use of Cottolene for frying them, I was delighted to find them brown, crisp and delicious. HILL IN CONTROL OF W. P.

Rumor that Empire Builder Will Connect Western Pacific and Great Northern

James J. Hill in control of Western Pacific and a new line running through Southern Idaho to connect this road with the Great Northern thus giving the Hill lines an outlet to the coast. In the past a financial article recently published in the Chicago Herald.

While nothing of a definite nature can be offered as to the Hill plans the public mind is very interested in the interest in this locality.

A sharp upturn in the stock market has caused a new interest in the proposition made by the Hill in Great Northern was deluged by strength in the Burlington 4 per cent collateral trust bonds which rose 6 1/2 while Great Northern was advancing 2 1/2 points.

Naturally the old rumor—that the Burlington line was to be cut off through the issuance of new bonds covering the recent $500,000,000 blanket mortgage filed by the Hill road was revived and this caused a stir in Northern Pacific, which would have received 10 per cent of the accumulated surplus of the Hill road. It is not improbable that the understanding that J. P. Morgan & Co. has seen appear as Missouri Pacific bankers had something to do with the talk of Hill interest in Western Pacific.

For many years certain circles have insisted that if ever Western Pacific developed into a real railroad it would become such under the Hill management. The Hill interests would gain various advantages through acquisition of the Western Pacific—its outlet to the coast, the competition of the new outlet to the coast, and make Hill a power in Harrison territory. There was no demonstration of this in the stock market, however, on the circulation of a rumor that Hill was in control of Western Pacific.

HORSE SHOW AND SALE, SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1912

C. A. McMaster, of the firm of Smith & McMaster, returned Saturday. Exhibitors—Developmental stock was purchased for the first head of imported stallions and high-grade brood mares. The horses arrived by train on Saturday, February 10, at 12 o'clock, we expect to show at the fairgrounds. The Hill interests would gain various advantages through acquisition of the Western Pacific—its outlet to the coast, the competition of the new outlet to the coast, and make Hill a power in Harrison territory. There was no demonstration of this in the stock market, however, on the circulation of a rumor that Hill was in control of Western Pacific.

TWIN FALLS TEAMS GET EVEN BREAK

WIN AND LOSE BASKETBALL GAME TO ALBION

Girls Make Score of 9 to 7—Boys Lose 11 to 10—Fast Work on Both Sides—Team Work Greatest Asset of Visitors

The fastest basket ball games that will be seen in many a day were played at the high school gym last Saturday. Twin Falls played against her old rival, Albion, and scored an even break. The Twin Falls girls won their game, 9 to 7. Although their opponents were larger than they and had had more experience, nevertheless, fast work and gritty playing won Albion scored first, and it looked as though the game was going their way, when Twin Falls stepped up and were ahead at the end of the first half, 10 to 5.

In the second half Twin Falls, although forced to play her best, was never in danger, always leading. Florence Cottile and Miss McKeator played a fine game for Albion. Miss McKeator and Miss Ross gathered in everything that came their way, and Miss Cottile was a real factor in their own against her larger opponent.

The Line-up:

Twin Falls (4)—Florence Cottile and Miss McKeator; Albion (5)—Miss Cottile, Miss Ross, Miss McKeator, Miss Ross, Miss Cottile.

The Boys' Game.

Although they were no great stars at hitting baskets, their fast playing and Albion had at the end of the first half 10 to 5.

Twin Falls played a better game in the second half, but was unable to overcome the lead held by their opponents. Glen Whitney played the best game for Twin Falls, while Smith starred for Albion.

The Line-up:

Twin Falls (11)—Kirpatrick, Bailey and C. Gilman, forwards; Whitney, center; Orator and D. Gilman, guards.

Albion (18)—Smith and Harper, forwards; Leavitt, center; Bang and Gilman, guards.

Field goal—Smith, 4; Harper, 1; Leavitt, 2; Bang, 1; Gilman, 1; Bailey, 1; Whitney, 2; D. Gilman, 1; Eves, three—Kickstick.
