LIBRARY WELL EQUIPPED

Small Fee Charged for Certain of the New Books—Rural Patrons Provided For.

With the addition of the latest new books, cases, shelves and other furnishings, the Twin Falls public library is one of the best equipped of its kind in the state. The library, which was removed from the former building to the court house on January 1 last, has never been supported by the city until this year, but with the facilities that have been obtained its future is assured.

Owing to the recent necessary outlay in current expenses, such as desks and cases, much of the library fund obtained from taxation has been expended. In view of this the library board of managers has decided on a charge of five cents for the use of a portion of the new books for periods of three days, to help meet the purchase price of the books. The cases of the latest design, were made by Abramson Brothers of this city. A pay and free list of the new books is appended.

While the library is supported by the city, its benefits are open to the residents of the county as well as to those of the city. The granting of the women's waiting room, on the ground floor, to the use of the library, free of charge, brings the use of the books, papers and magazines equally free to the county people. Such facilities could not have been provided had not quarters been secured in the county building.

Pay Staff—5 Cents for Three Days. Barber House in the Hedge. Harry Entwistle of the Star. Hooper, Miss. Gibble Gault. Dower. Chip of the Flying U. Cheateron: Innocence of Father Brown. STUDENTS TO JUDGE STOCK

C. C. Leith of Twin Falls Will Be a Team Judge in Contest Between Agricultural Colleges.

University of Idaho, Moscow, March 9.—The various short courses given at the university this year have completed the work with the exception of the School of Practical Agriculture, which will close March 15. In addition to this six months' course in agriculture, three months' courses were offered in mining and forestry.

These courses have been notably successful from the standpoint of both the student and the university. The students are satisfied with the work offered and appreciate its value. The attendance has been gratifying.

Fifty-four were enrolled in the course in agriculture, 15 in mining and 15 in forestry. Not only was every section of Idaho represented, but students came from New York, Wisconsin, California, Oregon, Washington and Montana. All these courses, which pay particular attention to practical work, will be offered again next year.

GIVES FINE MAPS TO CLUB

Gerrit Fort of O. S. L. Presents Commercial Club With Latest Railway Maps.

The Commercial club is the recipient of two handsome maps which were presented by Gerrit Fort, of Salt Lake City, passenger traffic manager of the Oregon Short Line. One of the maps embraces the western and middle states and shows the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific systems and Harriman lines' connections, and the other is a world map showing all ocean and steamship lines and connections at the principal ports with the various lines of the Harriman system.

Both maps, framed in mahogany, are of the latest issue and largest size. Rearrangement of the club room wall decorations will be necessary before the maps can be given accommodation as hangars.

NEW WIFE McCULLOUGH DIES

Former Twin Falls Pastor Succumbs at His Home in Elma, Washington, March 5.

Word has been received here of the death of the Rev. W. L. McCullough at his home at Elma, Washington, March 5. His death, full particulars of which have not been received, followed an illness of several years, and a number of operations which were performed in the hope of restoring him to health.

The Rev. Mr. McCullough will be well remembered as a former pastor of the Twin Falls Christian church. He was serving the congregation in this city two years ago at the time the new church home was erected. He had a large circle of friends here who will be grieved to hear of his death. He is survived by his wife and several children.

SAYS JOHN HAINES HAS SPLENDID SHOW

BOISE BUSINESS MAN EXPECTS TO BEE EX-MAYOR-ELECTED

Max Mayfield, Manager-Falk Wholesale Co., Says Sentiment is Growing Among Republicans in Favor of Well-Known Real Estate Operator.

That John M. Haines of Boise will be the next governor of Idaho is the belief of Max Mayfield, manager of the Falk Wholesale Co. of Boise and one of the best-known business men in the capital city. Mr. Mayfield spent two days in Twin Falls, and will leave Thursday night for his home. He visited a number of the smaller towns on the tract in the interests of his company.

Mr. Mayfield bases his opinion of Mr. Haines' candidacy, he says, on the fact that successful support is being given to him from all over Idaho. He declares that Haines is unusually strong in Boise and that the feelings regarding him there are gradually spreading over the whole state. The organization of the Haines Republican club of Boise has done much to help the real estate man's candidacy, he says.

In discussing the political situation at the capital, yesterday, Mr. Mayfield said: "John Haines at this time has the best chance out of the candidates so far mentioned for the nomination, and even if a dark horse is put up at the eleventh hour he will have a good chance to win. The Boise people are supporting Mr. Haines actively and reports from outside sources indicate that he is gaining strength every day."

Well known in Boise. Mr. Haines has resided in Boise for many years and is widely and favorably known. He made a good record as mayor of the city and an excellent business man. He has a few equals here who favor an out and out business administration but he, Mr. Haines, is the man to give it, and in my opinion he will receive the nomination.

There is much interest in Boise in the coming campaign and in fact over the whole state. The Republican ticket should be elected all down the line if the best candidates of the party are selected at the primaries.

Mr. Mayfield states that general business conditions of Boise are favorable, although he admits that it is a little early yet to judge what if any effect the recent success of the special city charter may have. Mr. Mayfield visited the town of Buhl on Wednesday and states that he has an abiding faith in the future of the Twin Falls tract.

MAJOR REED, HOST AT CHEER-UP PARTY

SIX HUNDRED NORTH-SIDERS ARE BANQUETED AT WENDELL.

Kuhns Will Send $12,000 for the Purchase of Cattle—Barichers Greatly Encouraged—The Major Proves a Royal Entertainer.

On Friday of last week, March 8, there occurred in Wendell, one of the most remarkable social gatherings that has ever taken place in Southern Idaho. The occasion was a "cheer-up party" given by Major Fred R. Reed of Wendell, builder of the North-Side and true friend and general adviser of the people of the tract. The object of the affair was to get the people together in good-fellowship spirit and to cheer them materially with the announcement that the $12,000 which was senting $12,000 with which cows were to be purchased for the ranchers on the North Side.

There was gathered at Odson hall such an abundance of good things as only a man with the generous heart of Major Reed could obtain, in donations of all kinds. The $12,000 of food of Wendell failed to the cause with wonderful tact and ability, working all day in preparation for the feeding of the people. There were 1,400 sandwiches to be distributed, many to be sliced, gallons of coffee to be prepared, boxes and boxes of cookies, doughnuts and fruit to be opened, and everything arranged for the handling of the 400 or 500 people expected. The Major is too generous and has twice as much here as we can use," said the good woman of Wendell. "Wait and see," said the Major as he left the field in their hands and went to Jerome for the day.

Banquet Hall Crowded. At 7 o'clock people began to gather in the hall. At 8 o'clock appeared only every inch of floor space was filled. Over 600 people were gathered in the building—practically all the town of Wendell and all the ranchers. In that section, with their families, Rex V. Wilcox acted as master of ceremonies. The curtain went up and a speech was cheered enthusiastically. It was the Wendell band of fourteen pieces in its first public appearance and the address that would be a credit to any town twenty times the size of Wendell. An excellent program of music and readings followed. The address of the evening was given by Hon. Victor O. Johnson of Shoshone, an orator of great ability, whose reputation as such was strengthened by the splendid address which he delivered on this occasion. Upon the urgent call of the audience, Major Reed spoke briefly in the spirit of an inspiring and encouraging manner, urging the people to stand shoulder to shoulder in the upbuilding of the tract—wild applause greeted the words of the telegrams from the Kuhns announcing the sending of $12,000 for the purchase of cows for the tract.

Banquet Record Breaker. At the close of the program came the best test of good generalship in the feeding of the six hundred. How

It was done and that without confusion or disorder was a mystery. People were standing in the aisle half-way to the stage, but in no moment's time every man, woman and child had received a generous offering plate and cup, which in many instances were passed back a second and even a third time to be refilled. A number who could not get in found their way to the little room built in the rear where the machine is operated for moving pictures, and there, through a "hole in the wall," they offered palis to the commissary department, where they were promptly filled, drawn up and disposed of in short order. When the serving was over it was found that of the 1000 sandwiches only 37 remained. Fruit and cookies not eaten at the time were stored away in pockets and blouses until all were gone. Every one was fed and every one was happy; the discouraged took heart and the pessimist forgot his role. "The banquet affair ever put over in this part of the state—they all agreed."

At the approach of the midnight hour the floor was cleared, the orchestra took its place and dancing ensued—the most remarkable and successful event of the kind ever held in Southern Idaho.

Of Interest to Every New-York Life Policy-Holder and all Prospects for Insurance

Chief Examiner Nelson B. Hudley, New York State Insurance Department, closes the report of a long and searching examination of the New-York Life Insurance Company in the following language:

"CONCLUSION.
"The final results of this examination show that the work of the Company is done efficiently and economically; its claims paid promptly; its policy-holders are treated fairly; its dividends are apportioned and paid without discrimination; and that the Company complies with the requirements of the law and the rulings of the supervising authorities in both the spirit and the letter."

The New-York Life Insurance Company is a PURELY MUTUAL ORGANIZATION managed by trustees selected by the policy-holders.
There is not a dollar of capital stock; there are therefore no stockholders to share the profits of the business.

WHERE THE NEWS STANDS.

Irrespective of what the whiskey-carrying columns of the Twin Falls News may say...

It is to laugh! Brother in arms, listen. When the ownership, management and policy of 'The News' came into the hands of the present interests...

This is the reason that The News saw fit to discontinue its liquor advertising. Because The News and the present ownership of The News believe that illicit traffic in liquor is one of the great evils of present-day civilization.

But The News claims that the way to clean up the bootlegger and put an end to the liquor traffic in Twin Falls county is not by a promiscuous distribution of fat legal fees to the friends of the equity commissioners...

The only way to handle an evil of this kind is to go after it from the ground up. Prosecute and convict and make the condemned criminal pay the price.

Just another word (whisper): The News strongly suspects that the real reason why the liquor houses were so willing to allow The News, for a consideration, to break its contracts for their advertising was because the bootlegging element of Twin Falls has so much business on its hands that there was really no show for an outside liquor house anyway.

A QUESTION OF SERVICE.

The News desires light on a most important subject, namely, the question of how to present to its readers, weekly, a reliable market report covering the various quotations at which Twin Falls county produce may be bought and sold.

Looks simple, but it is not. The word of the word, said two Saturday.

Twin Falls is practically without a market at all. Certain figures are obtainable from the local stores at which produce may be sold or traded in by the farmer...

The establishment of a regular commission house in Twin Falls, where the farmer might bring his produce and receive a check for it at the general market price...

This plan could hardly fail to work out to better advantage than the present arrangement. As matters stand now the farmers kick at the fact that they are compelled to take what is offered for their wares...

The News will be glad to receive and publish suggestions from farmers and others where such publication is invited. Letters on this or any other subject intended as confidential will be so regarded in both letter and spirit.

TO ADD TO COMMUNITY RICHES.

There can be no question of the value of good roads to any community, indeed it is pretty well established that if a community is to prosper it needs must have good roads.

Admitting all this, Twin Falls county is in mighty bad shape. It is a question if a worse piece of road could be found anywhere than that which stretches the length of Blue Lakes boulevard.

It seems that the residents of the county are to be given a chance to remedy this, and it is sincerely hoped that they avail themselves of the opportunity. Let no one imagine that good roads are an advantage only to the farmers.

The committee in charge of the work of preparation for the big day reports good progress, but there is still plenty of opportunity for those who have so far failed to do so to assist.

The statement has been made, and it will probably figure out, that with the roads as they are at present the cost of bringing a load of hauled hay from a point four miles in the country and placing it on board a freight car at Twin Falls is greater than would be the cost of the same shipment to Liverpool.

REMEMBER THE DATE.

The News desires to call the attention of its reading public to the fact that its weekly publication is Thursday. Not Wednesday, Friday, Monday or Tuesday or any other day but Thursday. The News is for sale on the streets on Thursday at noon of every week.

This announcement is prompted by the fact that various items intended for publication are frequently brought to the office on Thursday afternoon and Friday morning with the request that they be printed in "this week's paper."

UNKIND INSINUATION.

Once at a dinner Henry Ward Beecher told his sister, Mrs. Beecher, that her "Uncle Tom's Cabin" had been translated into Italian by a lion and been received from him. In which he stated that if he could kill the woman who wrote the book he would "be happy." Mr. Beecher then said: "I've sent him a portrait of you, Harriet, and nothing has been heard of him since."

PREROGATIVES OF PEERS!

The term "benefit of peerage" covers some odd privileges, under British law. Under it a peer can demand a private audience, and can demand to present his views on matters of public welfare. For treason or felony he can demand to be tried by his peers, he cannot be ousted by any civil action, and he is exempt from jury service. He may sit with his hat on in courts of justice, and should be liable to the last penalty of the law, he cannot demand a silted cord in stead of a hemp-rope.

It was first introduced to the United States by a Frenchman for flower and beauty, often producing a flower eight inches in diameter.—Kennebec Journal.

PLEASING OCCUPATION.

"Billie had a pile of money in that gold mine of his, didn't he?" asked Willoughby. "Yes—about five hundred dollars," said Hickenlooper. "What's he doing now?" asked Willoughby. "He's a teacher in the State Normal," said Hickenlooper. "It was upon presentation of the money that the State Normal court acquitted Willoughby of assault and battery on the ground of extreme provocation."—Harpers' Weekly.

LOOKED LIKE TOM REED.

I remember meeting the late Fredrick F. Vinton downtown one day some years ago. Our talk was interrupted by his pausing to regard very intently the figure of a passerby of almost unknown name. "He's just like Tom Reed," said Vinton. "There is the man I have been looking for—and I don't know him! I wish I did."—You see it is like this: I have an order from the State of Maine to paint a full length life size portrait of the late Speaker Thomas M. Reed, whom I never saw. Now the figure almost identically, as I gather from some very good photographs, and I remember only get this man for some one-like him, to give me a help out. But I have got to do the best I can. And he did, he always did.—From a letter in the Boston Transcript.

Week in Society

The past week has been rather quiet socially, the German given for the haulers of the Twentieth Century club being the only large event, at which all the card clubs held their regular meetings, and there were a few informal entertainments and several small dinner parties.

The appearance of Mrs. O. V. Allen, charming member of the Idaho social, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Allen, and with Mrs. M. J. Sweeley, will be the motif for a number of affairs during the coming week, and Mrs. J. E. Hernandez and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Lavering have issued invitations for next Monday evening.

German for Juniors.
The "German" given by the ladies of the Twentieth Century club for the junior members at the Masonic hall on Friday evening was a decidedly pretty affair, and was enjoyed by a large number of young people. The decorations, though simple and rustic, were occupied by the youthful beauty of the many pretty young girls in their dainty dancing frocks.

Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Chapin, Miss Nelson, Miss Bryant and Miss Gouffier were in the receiving line, and were assisted in entertaining the guests by Mrs. Ostrander, Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Seaver. Presiding at the favor tables were Mesdames Tucker, Senior, McLean, Graham, Oulthoff and Daube and Miss Hamilton.

Mr. Chapin, who had charge of the "German," had arranged many pretty figures, including the many "hoops" for the girls and canes for the boys. The racing figure, when the young ladies drove the men about the room with long robes of green and white, the club colors, and the Mirado figure, which a number of the boys followed the dancing couples, shading them with tiny Japanese parasols. Other favors were beautiful club bouquets of green and white; tiny scepters, canes, Dutch shoes and penny shoes.

Delicious punch was served during the evening.

Dinner for Visiting Guests.
For Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clackson of Clatskanie, Oregon, and Mr. and Mrs. Boyd M. Hamilton of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, was the beautifully appointed dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Sweeley at their home on Eliza avenue Saturday evening. Pink carnations and ferns formed a magnificent centerpiece for the table, around which were seated Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Lavering, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clackson and Mr. and Mrs. Sweeley.

Birthday Dinner for Miss Donohoe.
Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jones entertained at dinner Wednesday evening in the honor of Miss Donohoe, one of the prominent teachers of the city, when the large birthday cake, beautifully frosted, was the decoration for the table. Present were Misses Moore, O'Donnell and Mrs. Gilliland, and Messrs. Gould, Leighton, Leslie, Babcock, Spangler, Congdon, Smith and Hallowell.

Party for Miss Malone.
Mrs. J. A. Malone entertained a few young girls at her home last Friday evening in honor of Miss Lena Malone of Maroa, Illinois, who is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. M. Burgess. Miss Malone was the winner of a prize of $500, "a beautiful framed watercolor, and Miss Malone received a hatpin as a guest prize. Present were Misses Margaret Conway, Mary Wilton, Fern Collait, Florence Costello, Nellie Mickelwait, Mabel Mickelwait and Hazel Lilly.

Informal Luncheon.
Mrs. Robert Spangler entertained at the second of a series of informal lunches at her home last Saturday afternoon on Sixth avenue. The table was lighted with pink shaded candles and between courses the guests were kept busy answering the answers to a mock menu. Covers were laid for Mesdames Buckley, Elliott, Malone, Tippett, Kenneth, Norton, Youngs and Scott.

Luncheon Club Entertained.
Mrs. C. A. Ostrander entertained the luncheon club at her home in DeLong on Friday afternoon, when Mrs. O. V. Allen of Boise was the honor guest of the club. After several games of bridge, at which Mrs. Clara Kibbing was the prize, delicious refreshments were served, Mrs. Allen was presented with a guest prize.

Informal Evening.
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Malone entertained very informally Monday evening at two tables of "500." Mr. Kinney received the prize for score, a beautiful pool-table.

Auction Bridge Club.
Mrs. and Mrs. M. J. Sweeley entertained the Auction Bridge club at dinner last Wednesday evening, following the bridge. Mrs. Welton won the ladies' prize, a beautiful cut glass mustard jar, and Mr. Welton received a silver ink stand.

Mrs. Dwight Entertained S. N. S.
Mrs. Dwight entertained the members of the S. N. S. Bridge club at dinner Saturday afternoon. Mrs. De-was the guest of the afternoon, and Mrs. C. Loughey won the prize for high score. Mrs. G. W. Kenneth will be the next hostess.

Continue Series of Dinners.
Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Smith entertained informally at dinner at their pretty new home on Rowena avenue Saturday and Sunday evenings. Mr. and Mrs. Thorne of Hook Creek and Mr. and Mrs. Harley Miller were their guests.

N. N. Club.
Mrs. C. H. Burton entertained the N. N. Bridge club at her home on Rhoads avenue Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. McCollum received the prize for high score, a beautiful embroidered centerpiece.

Wednesday Bridge Club.
The members of the Wednesday Bridge club were pleasantly entertained by Mrs. C. E. Booth this week. Mrs. Greenlaw won the prize, a pair of silk shoes.

Informal Dinner.
Mr. and Mrs. K. H. Dixon entertained very informally at dinner Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Maxwell will entertain the Young Married People's club this week.

ST. PATRICK'S DANCE.
At Culliton Hall, Monday evening, March 18, Brown's six-piece orchestra. A good time assured. Everybody come. Tickets at the door.

KEEPER OF BEALS.
The London Gazette last night contained the formal notification that his majesty had ordered A. George P. Eire to pass the great seal of the united kingdom, empowering the dean and chapter of Christ-church, Oxford university, to elect a bishop to the see of Oxford, says the Dundee Advertiser.

As Mr. d'Elre's journey remarked to London Punch correspondent, judging from the number of seals he had to pass, he might just as well be a keeper at the zoo.

You will look a good while before you find a better medicine for coughs and colds than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only gives relief, but cures. Try it when you have a cough or cold, and you are certain to be pleased with the prompt cure which it will effect. For sale by all dealers.

The Fat from the Flower.
Vegetarians tell us that there is no kind of animal fat which we cannot reduce, with something as good or better in the vegetable kingdom. Certainly in the matter of cooking fats there is no question of this fact. Lard is made from the fat of the hog, often unwholesome, sometimes impure. Cotolene, a vegetable-oil shortening, comes from the agropy, the root of the cotton plant; it makes food light, the stomach can digest. Cotolene is as good as butter, can be bought for about the price of lard, and is more economical than either.

Take that busted bike to Kelly's NOW.

The regular meeting of the Twentieth Century club was held at Eliza hall Tuesday afternoon. After the transaction of the usual business, the parliamentary and civics department, under the leadership of Mrs. M. J. Sweeley, had charge of the program, which was opened with a delightful piano solo by Miss Nellie Tsandilo, followed by a selection from Mozart by the chorus, which was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. Sweeley then introduced Governor Early of the Philippine Islands, who gave a highly instructive and interesting lecture on the islands, illustrating his remarks with stereoscopic views. Assuming that his audience were familiar with the customs and civilized inhabitants, Governor Early devoted his discussion to the savage and half-civilized tribes, describing in detail their appearance, manners and customs, from the tribes whose greatest achievement is "head hunting" to those who live in villages and cultivate the soil. The lecture was highly appreciated by the large number of members present.

A quartet consisting of Mesdames Kenneth, Dwight, Scott and Seaver, accompanied by Mrs. Gubert, sang "Believe me if all those—endearing young charms," arranged by H. J. Kinnear, in a delightful manner, and were loudly applauded.

The Impedico club met last Thursday evening at the home of Guy B. Sierce. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Wilson, served a delicious dinner at 7 o'clock. Miss Maxwell, "Whisper" favored the club with a number of excellently rendered musical selections.

The subject of the evening was "Government Ownership of Telegraphs and Telephones." Papers on the subject were read by S. W. Hamilton and A. J. Swain. A number of the members participated in the general discussion. The current events were given by Mrs. H. W. Jones.

The domestic science department of the Twentieth Century club met at Mrs. Elliott's Monday afternoon. The subject for the evening was bread-making, and the following recipes, accompanied by generous samples, were given: Nut bread, by Mrs. W. S. Hill; white and "crumb" bread, by Mrs. Holme; white bread, by Mrs. McCallister; rye bread, by Mrs. John Congdon; and salt rye bread, by Mrs. Swin.

Mrs. Graham gave a demonstration of southern butter bread.

The Fortnightly club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Sweeley on Monday evening. Mrs. Ostrander and Mr. Robbins had very interesting papers on "Tailor's Diversions" and Mrs. Spangler and J. H. Seaver dashed on the Government Ownership of Corporations. The papers on both subjects were followed by lively discussions.

The history and literature department of the Twentieth Century club will meet Saturday, the 16th, with Mrs. B. E. Morse.

FIRST AMERICAN TRADE TOKEN.
The first token issued in the United States was in 1789 by William and John Mott, Water street, New York city, manufacturers and dealers in watches and jewelry. It was a pretty little piece, somewhat smaller than the old copper cent, but the name of token was by "Foliot, Alim & Loe; India merchants in Pearl street, New York city. These cents bear the date to 1784 and 1786. The design and die work are especially fine. They were struck in England and had a large circulation.

Our best advertisements are our satisfied patients. We have built up a very large and satisfactory practice and although for many years we handled the work from our Boise office and our mind was far from leaving that city, yet the possibilities for a greater field finally induced us to come here. We are now located permanently here and bought a home. There are many things to consider before trusting the care of your eyes to an optician. One is, is he competent? Second, is he inclined to do more than treat you fairly? With the hundreds of patients we have in Twin Falls we are willing to do more for our town. DREAM AND REALITY

BEING A STORY OF THE EARLY DAYS IN TWIN FALLS AND THE EFFORTS OF THE MEN WHO MADE TWIN FALLS POSSIBLE.

Editor's Note.—The following article was probably written about 1904 or '5 and was first published in a small magazine known as Progress. The original handling of the matter prompts the belief that its re-issuing at this time will awake many a pleasant thought in the minds of the original "Homeless Twenty" and their friends as well as all of those who have since settled in the great irrigated tract of which the Magic City is the center. The article seems to be due.

TWO PARTNERS AND THE HOMELESS TWENTY

BY CURTIS FLEMING.

And so Ira B. Perrine descended the perilous cliffs, setting his wagon down, leading his mules down with ropes, landing his mules down at a roundabout trail where even a goat could hardly have found footing. Below the blue lakes he built him a house and in due time the little vale was green and apple trees blossomed under the hot sun of spring. The work was done as the seasons went on, and the satchel rider roamed through its canons, a road crept up the cliffs on either side and in due time commerce would demand passage down—those lava rocks, and when commerce called down into the valley, Perrine was able to be ready.

So the little ranch by the Blue Lake, lapped further up, its prison walls each year and passed general, until it was the only ranch in the valley that had a doctor who had afflicted Perrine that he built him a home in the border of the desert. The road that Perrine stayed, following at the road that now unites the two desert divides, led by the Snake, dreaming his dream of the great future, waiting for its realization.

In another part of the West the man who was to arrive and make the dream a reality was waiting for his chance, editing a paper in the frosty altitudes of Robinson, Colorado, driving stage through the dizzy canyons of Montezuma, and finally answering to the dream that he would be the West until at last he landed in Shoshone, Idaho, twenty-five years after where Perrine was nursing his Blue Lakes ranch.

"That's Perrine's place," said McCollum as the cliff rose up past us and the road fell.

We wound on down, turned in under a lofty spur of the cliff, were wet by the spray from a dizzy fall, slid a few yards on wet rock and then descended past the pasture where the blue horcaea fed on the ferns.

"As we passed the horse McCollum pointed out two. "Those were the first stage horses years ago," he said. He called to them, but they only stared, staring us with old eyes long too tired to discern a friend.

The ferryman greeted us cordially and asked when "Bert" was expected. On the other side we stepped through an orchard to a little space where a comfortable house stood by the side of what was a little branch of the river as I thought. A couple of girls were busy in the yard and sundries sundries were so complacently.

Had Faith in "Billy."

A moment later we were out on a little bridge over the stream, which he really a spring, and McCollum was throwing meat to the trout that he reached and dangled almost to our feet. McCollum inquired anxiously for "Billy." "I told you about the big trout, eighteen inches long that came out of his finger-trying-to-get-it out of some meat." A couple of fish, anchovy tones. "And here he doesn't come and I'm a lion on the spot."

I reassured him. "I believe thoroughly in 'Billy.' I could believe anything."

We returned to the buggy and drove down into a meadow where one of the hands assured us we could find any watermelon. Watermelon. In November seemed to me to be too much but it was not long until I was deep in one, quenching my thirst and getting gloriously damp and sick all over. Then we went back by way of the house, past the little office building and the legend STAGE OFFICE and up and up a road that would through an apple orchard.

I observed, as we passed, an old Concord coach rotting under a tree. McCollum answered the curiosity of my glance. "Bert wanted to go to Shoshone one time and climbed up the hill and waited for it to go by. He had only two dollars. The driver refused to take him for that and Bert cried. He never his would own that coach since then and drive it himself. That's the coach, there over the trees. You couldn't buy it for two thousand dollars. Bert bought it and drove it down here and he had two dollars at that time and he simply had to get to Shoshone."

The road climbed out of a rocky road and to the right I saw the cliffs phre points that bore the name "Blue Lakes" to the ranch. I saw the rocks in the bottom of them and the trout darters after the shippers. "Those lakes are just forty-five feet deep," said my companion. "They're clear, aren't they?"

Where Offit Went Over.

I looked down as we ascended the road and when we rounded a turn, I saw a hundred feet up, I saw the flash of turning fish just as clearly. Then McCollum remarked that at this time a teamster had lost control of his horse and wagon and the horse team and all had gone over the cliff. He indicated with his white-curtain pointer and I looked and shivered and preferred the holista above as altogether more enjoyable.

He added that one of the horses had been got out alive from that awful tangle and on that miracle we speculated. All our panting-learn-dragged us out of the gorge, and the desolation of the saguaro and at yet—surprised, we could see no far, beyond dry and weary miles.

We saw the great Shoshone Falls almost a day, for the first time since we had been here. The lava cooled sufficiently to allow water to settle. We saw Senator Clark's road across the river and McCollum and me of the struggle to build the works that soon will supply power for the industries now coming into the tract.

But that the miller had no great-er-thing than some-thing of McCollum—the man who made Perrine's dreams come true.

The tract is a fact, a raw glaring fact that can be proved by arithmetic, measured by bank clerks, defined by figures and described by flatter. But there is not any arithmetic that can figure the power and character and the soul of a man like Bob McCollum. As we traveled back from Shoshone Falls it was borne in upon me more deeply than ever that I had not come to see a new lava smelting of paint in the desert, but that I had come to Twin Falls because Bob McCollum had done a big thing and I desired to meet him and see the thing if it were indeed so. It was fine that Perrine had dreamed and had seen his vision's accomplishment. But there was something finer in the thought that these two men had, but that they had taken all their thorough affection and faith here. I had heard. It seemed to me as if it seems to me now, that after all, Cyclone McCollum's fit biography by the Homestead will be written.

I spoke to McCollum about them, mentioned the fact of my having heard the phrase several times. He men that saved the day," he said. "It was a tough time. But they're out of you."

Was It C. A. Booth?

"Bo I went and saw one of the famous Twenty (The Homeless Twenty) a club, too, and he dropped the scolding of dry goods to tell me. "We were here last year, a lot of us, and things were pretty bad. We slept five or six in a room, three in a bed. The grub was awful, we bathed in washbowls, we had no heat in the cold weather and we were busted. All we had was Bob's word that things were coming. You can't see us almost thought we had been busted. We were ready to quit. We would have quit before, only we were broke. "You see we were well married and our wives were not there. One day we were down and out. Would come Bob that day and says, 'Come up to my house tonight to dinner. Mrs. McCollum and my daughter will be glad to see you.' You know Bob has a way with him. We went and there were a clock next morning, and we went every week. Things picked up. Every official of this town except the mayor, either I think was one of the Homeless Twenty. We used all that Bob cheered us up when things looked black and kept us working, and here we are, in the best town in Idaho, all doing well, with our wives with us and happy."

Cole went and spoke a minute to a customer and came back. He smiled at me with a little that spoke volume. "The Homeless Twenty pulled me out," he said.

I went out and looked at the town again. I saw the wagon loaded with laughing school children leaving the big school house and going off into the plain in every direction. I saw the crowd at the post office. I looked down the busy main street at all the signs of permanency. Then I sought

May Anger Cyclone.

When "Cyclone" McCollum reads this he will be angry. He will say that I have abused his hospitality by writing this column. But I shall protect myself. I shall tell a story. At Blue Lakes farm we met a wagon drawn by two fractious horses. A tall man, dressed in a blue coat, was driving and was trying to keep them from climbing a tree and spilling out a load of red apples.

The man whom I had known by proxy many years, G. H. Fraser, the editor of the Twin Falls News. We had eaten quite together the night before last. He had taken over the editorship of the paper. "I said, 'What do you think of it?'"

George Fraser Interviewed.

He showed me his many ideas and spoke of doing. "Then he dropped them to say this: 'It's all true. You are being lied in. A man came in here the other day and said, 'What's the name of the fellow?' and I told him the name of the fellow. 'I won't repeat the story. It was all in the Silver City Nugget just as I have quoted it in the beginning of this article.' He told me the stories, just as strange, and proved by written documents that they were true. "I went back to the hotel terrace and got my suitcase and shook hands with Bob McCollum and Fraser, and I went back to the train. As we went back to Minidoka the one thing that stuck in my mind was what McCollum had told me in our long drive, about the 'Homeless Twenty' that had been here for the first year when only the stage driver stopped to talk to him. 'I thought I'd go badly. It was an lonesome time. But every man that I saw came along. I talked. Twin Falls is just believed in it and convince me it was all right. But the loneliness was a little. I could go through it again. Even now, when I see the town and the people it seems that it can't be true. But I guess God thought it was all right for his sake. Every thing we might have asked him to do. A little thing could have spoiled it all."

I remember that he spoke often of the Homeless Twenty. But at the very last he seemed to think it ore-bold to say too much and I shall always think of him as that most modest man I ever met—a man whose motto and grit and decency are characteristic of the men of the West who have made the desert to bloom and justness of auditors under the pure skies of Idaho.

ELECTRICITY ON THE FARM

—Extensions of power lines into rural districts are completed by the Great Shoshone and Twin Falls Water Power Co. Territory will be canvassed in the near future. Inquiries, personal or by letter, are earnestly solicited.

—From an ECONOMIC standpoint a feed-grinding machine is a necessity on every farm. Stock thrive better and greater economy is effected when ground feed is used in combination with alfalfa, clover, corn stover, etc. A mill with a capacity of from two to four tons per day can be purchased complete with a ten-horse power motor for $370.00. It grinds alfalfa and clover hay, sheep oats, pea vines, corn and small grains, separately or in combination.

—Other necessary and economical applications of electricity on farms are for operating fodder cutters, pumps, graindresses, churns, separators, milking machines, vacuum cattle cleaners, small refrigerating machines, and hay hoists.

In addition to the above, electricity will be available for household conveniences and labor-saving devices, such as electric fireless cookers, ranges, toasters, stoves, flat-irons, washing machines, ELECTRIC LIGHT and ELECTRIC HEAT.

was first turned around and went to the river McCollum talked. He reminded me that this was really the first year crops had been gathered. "Some of 'em got in their crops last year, but this is the first year for me," he said. "I've got 'em in."

In the clear atmosphere one could see for miles. And as far as my eyes could see I saw farms—not ranches, but farms with good business, stable barns, neat fences and growing yellow blocks of alfalfa hay, with red and black and tumbled gold of a pile of broken straw for the "recreation."

We crossed a couple down which melted-broken water. "We use that as a 'snake river,'" said my guide. "That's Snake river water. The whole system is gravity."

Suddenly the road shot out into mid-air. I saw the road look back a little in the distance, we swung to the left and I saw a road six hundred feet below winding through the narrow stream of the Snake River Falls. Two miles from the Snake River Falls, through the other wall, dark black and forbidding. Nestled below was a farm, orchards, hay fields, berry houses, a barn, where certain good horses fed lazily.

SABBATH SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 17, 1912

THE PARALYTIC FORGIVEN AND HEALED.

Mark 2: 1-12.
The Golden Text: "Bless the Lord O my soul, and forget not all His benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases."—Ps. 103: 2, 3.

Time: Early morning, A. D. 33.
The place: Capernaum.

The preaching of our Lord had made a profound impression. The power over disease had become manifest with His popularity was growing. He had no sooner entered the city than it was "naked" and a great crowd gathered about the house in which He was teaching. Let any distinguished person, whether he be preacher, teacher, physician, statesman or inventor, enter our physical world. It is soon his to be seen and the people gather from all directions—some out of mere curiosity, others because interested and resolved to see, hear and receive.

The Helpless Man.

A distinguished preacher had come to Capernaum. He was more. He was a distinguished physician. An acquaintance of Jesus in the country. But somewhere in that city lived a man who could not join the crowd. He had heard of the wonderful compassion of Jesus and His power to heal all manner of disease. Doubtless he had heard of the healing of the leper, and felt it he could only go to the house of the great physician he too might be made well. But he could not go. That dread disease, palsy, had rendered him powerless, and he could only lie upon his bed and watch others pass by on their way to health and happiness. He had heard of the great physician and felt that if he could only see him, he would be made well. But he could not go. That dread disease, palsy, had rendered him powerless, and he could only lie upon his bed and watch others pass by on their way to health and happiness.

The Determination of Faith.

But these friends of the paralytic were not to be defeated. They had faith, and they soon lifted their helpless patient to the top, opened the roof, and lowered him into the very presence of the great Physician. What a sensation it must have created!

TO ORGANIZE POTATO CLUBS

Rural School Children Throughout the State Will Cultivate the Tuber.

The State Department of Public Instruction has been working to encourage the raising of potatoes by elementary agriculture in the rural schools of the state. At last with the aid of the Agricultural College, a scheme was devised which in meeting with hearty approval and support throughout the state. It has been decided to have potato clubs throughout the state, to be organized by the rural schools. The boys and girls forming these clubs are to raise 600 hills of potatoes, the prize-winning variety, and to sell the surplus to the county fair; the first four prize-winners to be sent to the state fair for the sweepstakes prize.

Professor Olin, director of the extension department of the Agricultural College, has been working on a bulletin, giving full directions as to the formation of the clubs, the preparation of the seed and the cultivation of the plant, the care of the crop. This bulletin will be distributed as soon as it comes from the press.

The Board of State Fair Directors has most heartily endorsed the plan and are enthusiastic concerning its success. They will organize a juvenile department where only the exhibits of the boys and girls will be placed. They will bring the first prize winner of each county to the state fair, where they will receive instruction in agriculture and stock judging during the week.

The plan for sowing clubs is well under way. This is open to the girls in every district. A bulletin will be issued giving full directions as to the plan and to the sowing. Only mending, patching, darning and the making of the apron will be included. It is the desire that each girl in every district will enter this contest. The plan concerning the potato club is the same as in the potato club. The first prize winner from each county will be brought to the state fair, where they will receive instruction in agriculture and stock judging during the week.

They will be cared for by competent men and women.

Much enthusiasm is shown, not only by the boys and girls, but also by the trustees and farmers. An undertaking is looked upon by all as a move in the right direction.

The boys and the girls agricultural clubs that have been started for many years in other states have been a power in developing scientific agriculture. The movement now on foot in Idaho is believed by many to be the beginning of a wider and more useful life.

A recent census appraiser of the state superintendent that parents, trustees and teachers will find their influence to make this contest a success; that district and county officials will offer prizes and prizes to the winners; that a keener zeal, Idaho made a record on Potato Day last year at the Chicago and Show, but if this movement is a success due will far surpass that record.

BEST ENTERTAINERS COMING

Leading Attractions Have Already Been Secured for the Entertainment Course.

The attractions for next year's Twin Falls Entertainment Course have been announced. Among them are the Ben Greig Players, the Alfred Berrett and Mary Frie, Edward Amherst Ott, lecturer, Ralph Bingham, humorist, and the Waterman Quartet.

The management has been fortunate in securing the attractions which are billed for next season. Professor Ott is one of the greatest dramatic lecturers on the platform, and will deliver his lecture on Heredity, entitled "Sour Grapes." Ralph Bingham is one of the funniest humorists on the road, and the Watermans, a radio quartet, will be equal to the Shuberts, the Ben Greig Players, and Alfred Berrett, who with his family, Die, opened this year's course. It will be well worth the price of the course.

DE MOBS CONCERT.

Interesting Program at Christian Church, Tomorrow Evening.

An interesting program of entertainment will be rendered at the Christian church tomorrow evening. The concert will be given by the De Mobs, a quartet of music and entertainers, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid society of the church. Miss Slove Lack, a reader, is with the company, and is conducting an interesting course of lectures. The admission charges will be 35 and 50 cents. Everybody invited to hear this company.

ELECT CHURCH OFFICERS.

Elders and Trustees Are Chosen by Members of Presbyterian Society.

The following elders and trustees were elected at the regular annual meeting of the First Presbyterian church held last week evening: George E. Bryant, James A. Johnson and H. E. Powers, elders; and E. S. Salsbery, A. B. Anderson, DeWitt Young and W. W. Stelcner, trustees. An adjourned meeting of the congregation will be held on the evening of March 25, to hear the reports of the various committees.

HOW TO PRESERVE YOUTH AND BEAUTY.

One great secret of youth and beauty for the young woman is the proper understanding of her womanly system and well-being. A young woman, young or old, should know herself and her physical make up. A good way to arrive at this knowledge is to get a food doctor book, such as "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," by R. V. Pierce, M. D., which can readily be procured by sending thirty-one cents for cloth-bound copy addressing Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y.

The womanly system is a delicate machine which can only be compared to the intricate mechanism of a beautiful watch which will keep in good running order only with good care and the proper oiling at the right time, so that the delicate mechanism may not be worn out. Very many times young women get old or run down before their time through ignorance and the improper handling of this human mechanism. Mental depression, a confused head, backache, headaches, or hot flashes and many symptoms of derangement of the womanly system can be avoided by a proper understanding of what to do, in case trying times that come to all women.

Mrs. G. H. Williams, of Lynchburg, Va., writes: "It is a very nice little book, and I feel free to say that it is the best I have ever read. I have read it over and over, and I find it to be a very valuable book. I have a number of friends who have read it, and they all praise it. I have a number of friends who have read it, and they all praise it. I have a number of friends who have read it, and they all praise it."

"My little son had a very severe cold. I was recommended to try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and after a small bottle was finished he was as well as ever." Mrs. H. Sells, 29 Dowling Street, Sydney, Australia. This remedy is sold by all dealers.
