

DUPLICATE LANDS TO GO TO PATENT IN THIRTY DAYS

COMMISSIONER OF GENERAL LAND OFFICE MAKES IMPORTANT CONCESSION.

Matter of Delay Brought to Attention of Proper Official by Addison T. Smith and Favorable Result Regarded as Assured.

As a result of action taken in Washington, D. C., by Addison T. Smith, it is believed that steps will be taken by the Commissioner of the general land office at once on the application of the state of Idaho for patent to those lands embraced within what is known as Idaho acquisition list number 9, which includes a large area of lands near Buhl.

ADDITION SMITH'S LETTER

In a letter received in Twin Falls yesterday Mr. Smith says: I take pleasure in advising you that the Commissioner of the General Land Office at my request has directed that the application of the State of Idaho for the patent of lands included in Idaho Acquisition List No. 9 (Great Buhl) be made 'special', and that the matter be adjudicated with the least possible delay, and in such a way that a favorable report will be made by the Commissioner to the Secretary of the Interior by the end of the month of August. I have expressed my appreciation that is being caused the settlers because of the delay in the issuance of this patent to show that they had complied with the law in good faith they are entitled to patent in order that they may, in any disposal, have money on their holdings or dispose of all or part of the same.

DRES IMPROVING

F. M. Buckley and Robert Roosen Return With Good News from Jarldige.

F. M. Buckley and Robert Roosen returned Friday evening from Jarldige, where the former is interested in the purchase of some promising properties in the camp. This was Mr. Roosen's first trip to the gold camp and he expressed himself as amazed at the remarkable amount of gold which Mr. Buckley stated on his return that all the properties were looking well, and that the best work is being done which is demonstrated by the fact that not only had gold but increased at depth. Mr. Buckley further remarked that in places where shippable occurred in the vein near the surface, it is being displaced by quartz. The surface which originally showed a broken condition is becoming more solid as the tunnels obtain more depth. The surrounding rocks appear to be strongly placed and have evidently been subjected to any unusual movement of the earth.

Zuck and Hays Have Narrow Escape from Serious Fire—Causeless Probable Cause

Kimberly, Aug. 13.—Fire was discovered in Zuck & Hays's office last Wednesday. There was no one in at the time and the office door was broken in and F. J. Holden used his patent fire extinguisher and soon had the fire put out, after doing some damage to books and papers on a desk in the building. It is supposed to have started from the careless use of matches, a boy having lit his pipe some fifteen minutes before and tipped the match in the room, which is supposed to have fallen among the papers and ignited them after all had left the building. This was a close call and had it not been discovered when it was would probably have destroyed the building and possibly others.

SABBATH SCHOOL LESSON

AUGUST 18, 1912

THE RULER'S DAUGHTER.

Mark 6: 21-24, 36-43.

21. And when Jesus was passed over again to show the children the things which he ought to do, he gathered unto him, and he was with him the next day.

22. And behold, there cometh one of the rulers of the synagogue, Jairus, and when he saw him he fell at his feet.

23. And besought him greatly, saying: My little daughter lieth at the point of death: I pray thee, come and lay thy hands on her, that she may be healed, and she shall live.

24. And Jesus went with him; and much people followed him, and thronged him.

25. While he yet spake, there came from the ruler of the synagogue's house certain which said: Thy daughter is dead: why troublest thou the Master any further?

26. As soon as Jesus heard the word that was spoken, he saith unto the ruler of the synagogue: Be not afraid, only believe.

27. And he suffered no man to follow him, save Peter and James, and John the brother of James.

28. And he cometh to the house of the ruler of the synagogue, and seeth the company, and them that wept and wailed greatly.

29. And when he was come in, he saith unto them: Why make ye this ado, and weep? the damsel is not dead, but sleepeth.

30. And they laughed him to scorn. But when he had put them all out, he taketh the father and the mother of the damsel, and them that were with him, and entered in where the damsel was.

31. And he took the damsel by the hand, and said unto her: Talitha sumi, which is being interpreted: Damsel, arise.

32. And straightway the damsel arose, and walked: for the will of the Lord is accomplished with great astonishment.

33. And he charged them strictly that no man should know it; and commanded that anything should be said of her to eat.

Golden Text: "And he took the damsel by the hand, and said unto her, 'Talitha sumi,' which is being interpreted, Damsel, arise."—Mark 6: 51.

West Side Welcome.

The present lesson follows immediately the one of last Sabbath. Asked by the people on the east side of the lake to leave their country, our Lord returned at once. Luke tells us that the people on the west side "were all waiting for him and gladly received him." No sooner had his ship touched the shore than he was met by a great multitude. His fame as a physician had spread abroad. The blessing of those who fall upon the people might have been bestowed upon the people on the other side of the sea if he had put a less value upon this evangel than he placed upon the one. Jesus had received a glad welcome on the west side, and his blessings began to flow.

Sorrow Turned to Joy.

In the crowd that had gathered to witness the ship's arrival, Jairus, whose only daughter was at the point of death. This man, whose name was Jairus, had no trouble in pressing his way through the throng for he was a ruler of the synagogue, and a man of distinction. He prayed our Lord to come immediately and lay his hands upon his daughter so that she might live. It seems that the ruler had not reached that degree of faith to believe that the Lord would do for him what he would do for his neighbor, but only speak the healing word and he would not die. But Jesus went with him, and he was with him the next day. Jairus must have tried to clear the way that Jesus might run to his home. But how his grief was increased when there came a sudden halt in the crowd. There were others in that throng just as anxious for the Master's healing word, who had spent all the day in vain for human belief, but that it should only touch the people who would be healed. Not wishing to attract attention, she pressed her way into his presence and touched the hem of his garment. This act brought the loved healing. Feeling that healing virtue had gone out from him, Jesus stopped and asked the ruler why she had touched him. Then came to the mind confessing woman the endearing and joyful response, "Daughter, thy faith has made thee whole, go in peace, and be healed of thy disease." With a messenger from the ruler's home announced that it was not necessary to trouble the Master further for the daughter was dead. But Jesus heard the remark and noting the agony on the father's face, came and touched the girl's hand. There was yet hope, if he could only believe. Hurrying on to the ruler's home he found it filled with mourners. He paid no heed to the weeping of their part and when told that the maid was only sleeping they laughed him to scorn. Over in Nazareth Jesus had been told that he had raised the unbelted of the people. So here he could not answer the prayer of the ruler, but he would do for him what he would do for his neighbor, and scorn was removed. Hence he cleared the house, and taking with him the father and mother, and three disciples, Peter, James and John, he entered the death chamber. There was now a different atmosphere. There were present, instead of scorn and unbelief, hope and love. Conditions were now ideal for Jesus to perform one of his great miracles. When Jesus said to the girl, "Talitha sumi," the ruler of the house, and in a language to which she was accustomed, he bade her rise. Her breath immediately returned, the life blood began again to flow through her veins, and she was raised. Oh, what joy filled the hearts of those parents, to take into their arms again their loving daughter and to hear again her sweet filial voice! All because they had faith in Jesus Christ. While upon earth, Jesus raised only three persons from the dead: an only daughter, an only son, and an only brother.

Co-operation.

It is interesting to note that when life was supernaturally restored, it must be naturally sustained. When Jesus had laid the dead child back to life he commanded that they give her something to eat. When he fed the five thousand with miraculous bread, he commanded the disciples to gather up the fragments that nothing be lost. So may we see the natural and supernatural blessing in the Christian life. "God is life the supernatural life of God, but it must be maintained by natural human co-operation with God." The use of "and" that "and" are to exhibit our Christian life in the performance of the ordinary duties of life. Jesus Christ supernaturally raised the dead to life, but he who is saved is expected to use his own mind and will in overcoming temptation and doing duty. Life is always a battle, but the Christian is promised victory.

THE NEW ROAD.

When in the final analysis the story of the development of the Twin Falls tract shall be written--when the tract eventually comes into its own and its people may pause to view in retrospect the various achievements of those who helped to build it--the names of two men will stand out in bold relief against a background of unselfish purpose and unswerving devotion. The men are Robert M. McCollum and George D. Aiken.

The Twin Falls tract will never cease to honor the memory of Frank H. Buhl, the late Peter L. Kimberly and Colonel Stanley B. Miller, and a few others equally worthy of mention. These men were the pioneers of the tract. They laid faith and they proved it with their wealth, and the city of Twin Falls must always stand as a monument to the splendid work which they did. But the year of Nineteen and Twelve shall be of no less importance than any in all the bright pages of the tract's history, for in no single twelve months span has any more been accomplished than was rendered possible through the efforts of McCollum and Aiken in their recent mission to San Francisco.

The story of the work of these men in bringing to the tract those other men who by their position in the nation's commerce are able to bring to Twin Falls the things that Twin Falls needs, is now comparatively well known and the importance of it can never be overestimated.

The securing of a new railroad outlet for the products of the county, the establishment of a market which will take all that is now produced and more, the virtual placing of this city upon one of the main arteries of trade of the country, are achievements worthy of more than passing mention. In such a movement the first step is always the most important, and the first step has been taken, and taken well.

When the actual building of the one hundred and twenty miles of line which is to connect Twin Falls with the Western Pacific at Wells comes to pass, as come to pass it certainly will, if not this year then next year, the share in the enterprise of Messrs. McCollum and Aiken should not be forgotten--nor will it be.

THE CONFESSION OF FAITH.

In his address before the National Progressive convention at Chicago, Colonel Roosevelt advocated the following specific policies:

- Presidential primaries. Popular election of senators. The short ballot. Publicity of campaign contributions before election. Federal control of railroads. Recall of judicial decisions in constitutional cases. Minimum wage scales. Federal control of immigration. Prohibition of "immature" employment of children, and employment of women in industries where they are obliged to stand constantly at their work. Workmen's compensation. Woman suffrage. National department of health. Country life commission. Federal control of the trusts. Permanent tariff commission of experts and revision schedule by schedule. Elimination of the middleman between farmer and consumer. Fortification of Panama Canal. No tolls for American merchant marines.

There may be a good deal in the above to which many persons will make objection, but, viewed from various angles in the calm, cold light of reason, isn't it, as a whole, a mighty step in the march of progress? Is there one specific point in the entire program which conflicts in any particular with the traditions of true Republicanism?

These policies serve better than anything else could to call attention to the fact that the Bull Moose party is not a party of bolters, it is a party composed of men who will show the way to the Republicanism of our fathers, the Republicanism of Lincoln. These men cannot be said to be outside of the party; they ARE THE PARTY.

THE RIGHT KIND OF PROGRESS.

It little matters what befalls any one of us who for the time being stand in the forefront of the battle. I hope we shall win and I believe that if we can wake the people to what the right really means we shall win. But, win or lose, we shall not falter. Whatever fate may, at the moment, overtake any of us, the movement itself will not stop. Our cause is based on the eternal principles of righteousness, and even though we who now lead may for the time fall, in the end the cause itself shall triumph.

In the above words Theodore Roosevelt sounded the keynote of his position as the leader of the Progressive movement in his speech at the Chicago convention.

There is a ring of sincerity in the words which sounds good, and the words themselves go far towards placing the Colonel in a new and infinitely better light. With all his faults, Roosevelt has never been accused of insincerity, and there is no reason now to suppose that he did not mean every word he uttered.

The sentiment is refreshing when placed side by side with the time-honored pledges and promises of the old-line Republican leaders. The News has always contended that the Progressive movement was bigger than Theodore Roosevelt, but Roosevelt's words show the measure of a big man, and apparently there is no one to dispute with him the title of leader.

A DEARTH OF CANDIDATES.

Apparently the advocates of a third party ticket in state politics in Idaho are going to have difficulty in filling the list. Paul Clagstone absolutely declines to be the nominee for governor not through any change of sentiment, but on the ground that having run once and been defeated there is no moral reason for the again. W. D. McReynolds, mentioned as a third party candidate for secretary of state, is equally emphatic in his refusal to accept a third party nomination, and there are others who will think a long time before they deliberately make up their minds to become a stumbling block in the path of Republican success in Idaho in the present campaign.

It all bears out the contention of The News that there is no occasion and no real demand for a third party program outside of a ticket of national electors which shall be placed in the field for the purpose of actually feeling out public sentiment in the matter of a choice for president.

A OBYING NEED.

The state of Idaho comes second in point of acreage and third in the actual production of fruit, yet she receives the smallest appropriation of state moneys of any state in the northwest.

The last legislature set aside twenty thousand dollars for the care and furtherance of her horticultural resources. Even Montana, with an acreage and output infinitely smaller than Idaho's, received thirty-two thousand dollars for the same two-year period, while some of the other states used four and five times this amount.

If there is any one state in the west where the fruit industry deserves consideration of a substantial kind that state is Idaho.

PIECE OF FOOLISHNESS.

The contention on the part of a man who ought to know better that worms apples should not be harvested from the markets of Idaho has aroused a storm of disapproval among the horticulturists of this and other sections.

The support given State Horticulturist John U. McTherson in his efforts to absolutely weed out the bad from the good apples speaks well for the general esteem in which this official is held.

The utter fallacy of permitting the sale of bad fruit when every effort on the part of Idaho growers is being bent in the direction of the fruit of the finest quality only, is obvious to the growers if not to Professor Aldrich.

GROWS RASPBERRIES ON LARGE SCALE

Novel Method of Cultivating Fruit-Tried With Splendid Success by M. B. Sherman

An article in the July number of "Opportunity" gives a write-up of M. B. Sherman's 40-acre raspberry patch. Mr. Sherman has his berries on an acre and a half. He has been in the business for ten years at Payette, and the article states that during that time he has made over $100 per acre. His berries are known as the "black cap" and are allowed to dry on the bushes when they are then packed in boxes. Owing to the superior quality the berries bring from 15 to 30 cents per pound. These berries were raised over a year ago and carried through the winter in good shape and there will be more than enough berries headed this summer to pay all expenses. This article appears under the heading of "Ten to Live Chances for Opportunity Seekers," and as there is no better country for the production of berries than the six Pacific states this should interest others in the production of the berry crop.

Drawing Raspberries on a Large Scale.

A forty-acre ranch devoted exclusively to the growing of raspberries. The berries are raised on a large scale and are carried through the winter in good shape and there will be more than enough berries headed this summer to pay all expenses. This article appears under the heading of "Ten to Live Chances for Opportunity Seekers," and as there is no better country for the production of berries than the six Pacific states this should interest others in the production of the berry crop.

from fifteen to thirty cents per pound. The originally and novelty of the enterprise are in the method of picking the berries, or harvesting, as it is called. The first picking of the berries is taken early in the spring after the frost is out of the ground and the rows have been cultivated. The bushes are then bent over and secured by iron wires fastened to stakes. This enables the new berry shoots to grow up without touching the year-old branches. No more care is necessary until the berries have ripened and dried on the bushes. There is a special sick-like device with a sharp blade on one runner is drawn down the rows and the bearing branches are severed near the top of the root. This operation is then followed by men who gather the severed branches into small bunches, which are placed in baskets and then run through a machine. In from four to seven days the leaves and berry stems of the several branches will have withered and they are then thrown on the threshing. A wagon with a flat bottomed, high-sided rack is then driven along the rows, and the bundles are then sent to the packing house. The total labor cost under this unique method of harvesting raspberries is said not to exceed the annual cost of pruning the bushes under the ordinary methods of cultivation and picking. Twenty-dollar an-acre is counted as a liberal allowance for all expenses. The bushes on this ranch yield about one thousand pounds of dried fruit per acre, which, with the market price at from fifteen to thirty cents per pound, makes an annual return from this farm average $150 per acre.

GET DOWN TO REAL CAMPAIGN

McCollum and Aiken in their recent mission to San Francisco. The story of the work of these men in bringing to the tract those other men who by their position in the nation's commerce are able to bring to Twin Falls the things that Twin Falls needs, is now comparatively well known and the importance of it can never be overestimated.

the single exception of lieutenant governor, and the nomination of the Democrats by default. The situation, then, at the opening of the campaign is that a united Democracy faces the Republicans divided into two antagonistic camps, with each faction fighting the other in its own party with much of the same vigor and determination as if it were a separate party.

But with the Progressives determined to place a full ticket in the field for state offices the outlook for Republican success on the state ticket cannot be said to be bright. So far as their state ticket is concerned the Democrats are comparatively free from discord. They had better candidates in the field for each state of publicans this year. This is the defect of Judge Dudge for a seat on the supreme bench. The Democrats are not in a position to elect a man who is not the only thing they were asking this year, the elevation of Judge Dudge. His defeat under the circumstances is construed by some of the more radical as a direct snub to the Mormons. To make the situation all the more the Democrats have nominated a Mormon of equal prominence with Judge Dudge for a seat in Congress, Edward M. Pugmire. It is feared by many that this will have a tendency to swing the support of the southeastern section of the state from the Republican to the Democratic of course it is well understood by close students of political affairs in the state of Idaho that the nomination of Judge Stewart under the circumstances will strengthen rather than weaken the Republican ticket. They also doubt whether the Democrats have helped their chances for a seat in the state at large by nominating a Mormon for Congress.

Believe Democrats Helped.

There are many interesting points in the situation about which to speculate. Leading men here who thought they knew what was going on in the political arena are wondering over the nomination of Judge Stewart. The Republicans are inclined to attribute his large vote to the work of Democrats.

Weakness of Primary System.

Democrats this year voted extensively for the Republican ticket. They did this because they had no contests in their own camps and were free to wander away from home and pick up as much trouble as they pleased in the camps of their neighbors. This must be made impossible of the primary is doomed to failure.

Lively Times Expected.

Democrats are preparing for a genuine old-fashioned knock-down-and-drag-out fracas when they meet in the fall. They are preparing for a man of the state committee and main candidates for presidential electors. F. Nugent is in the race now to secure himself as chairman and the Hawley faction of the party is determined to unhorse him and put in a chairman in harmony with the former party whip. To F. Nugent is the choice of the Hawley faction and the fight may result in a struggle between the two Nugent and Pezky for control of the party organization.

So Much for So Little

AT slight extra cost the New-York Life waives the payment of premiums if the insured becomes wholly and permanently unable to earn money through bodily injury or disease. In most of these cases it actually saved the insurance.

Young man, 27, bookkeeper at Waterville, Maine, took a 25-Year Endowment Policy in August, 1910, in favor of his mother. He was later reported insane, and after careful investigation the Company waived the premium. The extra premium was only 22 cents a year.

Student of electrical engineering, aged 22, at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, insured under a 15-Year Endowment in April, 1911. Five months later he was attacked by infantile paralysis affecting both legs. After careful investigation the Company waived the premium due April 13, 1912. The extra premium was only 20 cents a year.

A 25-year-old man, 25 years old, Meridian, Mississippi, was insured in March, 1911, under a 20-Year Endowment in favor of his wife in October, 1910. Through injury in a railroad accident he became insane. After careful investigation the Company waived the semi-annual premium—$47.00—which was due April 30, 1912. The extra semi-annual premium paid was 22 cents.

A tailor, 28 years old, insured in New York City in August, 1910, under a 25-Year Endowment Policy while in apparent good health. Within five months tuberculosis developed. After careful investigation the Company approved the waiver of the quarterly premium due in February and again in May, 1912. This was a most pathetic case. The family were reduced to the dire straits through the breadwinner's long illness. He died July 31, 1912, and the Company paid the whole term of the policy, $10,000, which was needed for the care of the three little ones. The extra premium paid was only 28 cents a year.

A bank bookkeeper, Cincinnati, Ohio, 25 years old, insured in favor of his mother for $1,000 under an Ordinary Life Policy in January, 1911. DYSPEPSIA caused a nervous breakdown—$400.00—due to a slight attack of influenza in March, 1912. The extra premium paid was 26 cents a year.

A DISTINCT INNOVATION IN LIFE INSURANCE. Let the New-York Life pay your premiums for you if you become totally and permanently unable to earn money. It costs so little extra, only a few cents a thousand, that no one can afford to take any chance.

DOWNEY GETS AWAY WITH BOTH GAMES

PITCHER WOODIE PROVES HIMSELF A WONDER IN HIS LINE.

Local Team Does Good Work, But the Players Are Hooplas Against Skill of Well-Known Big Leaguer.

Downey succeeded in getting away with the end of the score in its two games with Twin Falls Saturday and Sunday. The combination was too much for the local outfit, the score for Saturday's game being 7 to 3 and Sunday's 5 to 2.

There wasn't anything particularly wrong with the local team, but they consistently refrained from connecting with the ball, owing mainly to the exasperating manner in which Woodie of Downey flipped them over the plate. It was a case of Detroit American-Princeton.Mathewson-Downey luck against good playing by the local team.

Woodie, the Downey pitcher, is a wonder, having pitched great ball for Princeton against the leading college team of the east, and being now under contract with one of the big-league teams of the east for next year. It was plain from the beginning that Woodie had the local team at his mercy, and undoubtedly could have shut them out had he cared to do so.

Both games were good and were fairly well attended.

POTATO GROWERS MEET

Enthusiastic Gathering Decides on Permanent Organization for Benefit of Members.

The first meeting of the potato growers' association was held last Saturday afternoon at the Commercial club rooms, with about 50 enthusiastic farmers present. L. A. Snyder was elected temporary chairman, and little other business was accomplished other than the appointment of a committee consisting of A. A. Knight, J. W. Ledham, G. E. McClain and B. W. Kelly, to prepare a form of organization. This committee was appointed to draw up the constitution and by-laws to be presented at the next meeting. This later committee consists of A. P. Steinhilber, F. R. McGee and J. W. Ledham. The greater part of the meeting was given over to the discussion of the different subjects pertaining to the growing and shipment of potatoes. G. D. Atken endeavored to impress upon the farmers the importance of raising the highest grade of potatoes and marketing only the best, as there will be no trouble experienced in obtaining a market for the highest class.

— Favor Marketing Varieties.

H. Spangler was another speaker at the afternoon, and followed along the same line as did Mr. Atken. H. A. Knight urged the raising of two or three varieties of potatoes, and the perfection of marketing products in Nebraska, and discussed the potato situation, as he had found it on the tract, as follows:

— Every potato grower in the Twin Falls country is invited to be present at the next meeting, which will be held at the Commercial club rooms Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The temporary chairman requests each potato grower to come prepared to tell the nature of acres which he has planted and the different varieties.

Idaho Automobile Owners Subscribe to Program Calling for Big Expenditure.

The broadest and most comprehensive plans of road building ever promulgated in the West had its inception at the meeting of the Idaho State Automobile association at Montpelier last week. The plan contemplates the expenditure of about $5,000,000 in Idaho and it is so arranged that the automobile owners practically pay the bill.

The bill also contemplates convict labor, which will make an estimated saving of a million dollars, so that with two million dollars furnished by the state, two million dollars furnished by the county and the millions paid out by convict labor, the citizens will have $5,000,000 worth of good roads.

Owners Must Help.

The automobile owner will be called upon to do his share in this movement by paying a tax on his car of 50 cents to 1 per horsepower per year. This will have sufficient money to pay the interest on the bonds even at the present time, and as the roads are built and better accommodations for travel provided there will be an increase in the number of cars sufficient to start in sinking funds. Other sources of income will be the registration fees, chauffeur licenses and fees for violations, so that there will be no difficulty in providing for the care of the roads.

Idaho is growing rapidly, both in population and material resources, and with the certain development of the future must bring the refunding of the bonds will be a simple matter when compared with the conditions of today.

The roads to be built, as roughly outlined by President Theodore Roosevelt, will be an east to west road across the southern part of the state from Wyoming to Oregon, another in the north from Montana to Washington, and a north and south road from Utah to Montana. To these three trunk lines there will be built so that every part of the state may connect up and participate in the benefits that will be derived therefrom.

The motorists in convention assembled gave the plan their hearty support, and were most enthusiastic over the future of Idaho when she can point with pride to her good roads system.

Members R. W. Spangler, L. A. Burson and J. W. Ledham attended the meeting from this city.

WORMY APPLES ARE STRONGLY CONDEMNED

TWIN FALLS GROWERS TAKE A HAND IN CONTROVERSY.

Contention of University Professor Not Taken Seriously, and State Horticulturist Warmly Supported.

State Horticulturist John U. McPherson is made the object of an attack by Professor Aldrich of Moscow on the ground that the inspector has no right to condemn imperfect apples for the reason that such action causes no good cause and simply increases the expense of the fruit and adds to the cost of living. The letter of the professor has aroused a storm of protest over the state and particularly in this county, in this connection the following telegram was sent to Governor Hawley:

To Governor J. H. Hawley, Boise, Idaho:

Referring to statement of Professor J. M. Aldrich of Moscow in Capital News August 8, wish to state that we heartily endorse John U. McPherson in this matter and trust you can see your way clear to endorse Mr. McPherson's actions and give him all possible support.

J. A. WATERS, President Twin Falls Fruit Growers' Association.

— Mr. McPherson has not yet made reply to the letter of the professor and probably will not, as the action on the part of the various fruit growers in commendation of the action of the inspector is generally taken in favor of such a course entirely unnecessary.

PIONEERS TO PICNIC

Waters Grove to Be Scene of Merry Gathering of Old-Timers in the County.

The third annual Pioneer picnic of the Twin Falls tract will be held at Waters' Grove next Wednesday, August 21. The grounds will be ready for the crowd at 10 o'clock in the morning, and every one is requested to bring a basket-lobb-out enjoy it in the coolness of the grove.

An excellent program will be rendered, beginning at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. Every citizen of Twin Falls county is invited provided he or she was residing on the Twin Falls tract prior to the forming of the county.

TO TRY CONCLUSIONS FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

YOUNG GRIFFO LEAVES FOR BOLDIER TO MEET JULIUS TRUEB.

Match to Be Feature of Annual Settlers' Celebration and Keen Interest is Evincing in Outcome.

L. S. Mortenson, known in wrestling circles as Young Griffo, left on Tuesday night for Boldier, where he is matched to wrestle Julius Trueb on the 17th as one of the features of the settlers' celebration at that place. Mortenson was won for himself an enviable reputation at the wrestling game, and is touted as a wrestling wonder at his weight. He holds the championship for Idaho and Utah, and has met some of the best men in the northwest.—Trueb holds the championship of Pittsburgh, and will try for the state championship with Mortenson.

The two principles met a year ago in Twin Falls, Mortenson winning the necessary two falls in remarkably short time. Trueb is anxious to retrieve his defeat and has been working out with some good wrestlers. In preparation for his bout with Mortenson at Boldier, Trueb is a stocky, broad-shouldered type of athlete and outweighs Mortenson about ten pounds. In their match at Twin Falls last year Trueb jacked speed and action, and was bested by Mortenson at every stage of the game. He felt that the sting of defeat and immediately set to work to train himself into condition for a return match.

The settlers' celebration at Boldier is an annual event, and great preparations are being made to break all records. An airship flight will be one of the features.

SHOPPING INSTINCT

A Rural postmaster tells this story of one of the patrons of his office, a boy of thirty, not to say pugnacious stock. When the lad comes into the postoffice he will thrust his wrist and face up close to the window and in his slow Yankee drawl inquire most earnestly:

"How you got your postal cards?"

"Yes," the postmaster replies. "How much they are they day?"

"A cent—apiece," says the boy.

"Then the boy, screwing up his eyes in the intensity of his thoughts over the question has to decide, always hesitating for a while to weigh the consequences. Finally he will reply solemnly:

"Wal, I'll take one."—Youth's Companion.

GOOD FLOW STRUCK

Well-Drillers at Fairfield Encounter Water in Abundance of Moderate Depth.

Well-drillers working on the Oregon Short Line right way at Fairfield, Idaho, struck an artesian well last Saturday at a depth of 225 feet. The well, which is being drilled for a watering tank for the railroad, has a flow of 5,000 gallons per hour, according to the estimate of Mr. Deery, who has charge of the committee and the water through the gravel is stopped more than double that output.

The water was found after drilling through about 175 feet of blue clay.
