

GEOGRAPHY TO CUT QUITE A FIGURE

POLITICIANS GETTING DOWN TO CASES ON SITUATION.

Factions Gathering in Capital and All Sides Mixing War Mediations—Gossip of the Capital.

(Special to The News.)

Boise, Nov. 23.—Politicians around the capital are awaiting the fact that James H. Brady has cut an important figure in the senatorial fight in the next legislature. Indeed, many are ready to predict now that the former senator will carry off the honor.

The only serious opposition to Mr. Brady is on the ground of geography. North Idaho is in Pocatello, and all North Idaho is firmly grounded in the idea that Pocatello is entirely outside the senatorial zone.

It must be admitted, of course, that North Idaho is in a position to make a strong demand for the senatorial vote on the basis of location. It is argued that the "Western" Republicans was a North Idaho man, his entire senatorial term belongs to North Idaho, and for that reason the man to fill the high honorarium place should come from that section.

South Makes Claim.

It is further argued that one senator from North Idaho is already in and practically certain to be re-elected for another term of six years; that one senator should be chosen from the north and one from the south; and that to maintain the proper equilibrium Senator Born's colleague should be chosen from the south.

North, Meets Together.

It is demanding the election of a senator from the north, while at the same time predicting the election of a senator from Justice Albright as first to the field by his friends and the second by the opposition.

Pro and Con.

It is pointed out that the western counties of the southeast have a large population than the eight counties of the north, that the population is growing much faster, that it has increased in the last five years.

South Saved Ticket.

It is clearly shown by the returns from the recent election that but for the magnificent majority polled up to the seven counties of the southeast the Republican ticket would have been overwhelmed and buried deep under a Democratic landslide.

HAINES WANTS ALL PARTY PLEDGES KEPT

GOVERNOR-ELECT ARKS HELP OF ALL REPUBLICANS.

Will Consider Republican, Democratic and Progressive Platforms in Advancing Reforms—Desires Cooperation of Progressives.

Upon his return to Boise a few days ago from California, Governor-elect Haines announced that he is anxious to reunite the Republican party, and that he will consider the Republican, Democratic, and Progressive platforms alike in advancing reforms that will be for the best interests of the state.

Mr. Haines will go farther than the platform of his own party in enacting laws for the benefit of the state, he says, and will pick out the good things of the Democratic and Progressive platforms and recommend that they be carried out. A great many things which possibly might benefit the state were overlooked in all three platforms, and he intends to recommend that the legislature give its attention to the people in getting strong, beneficial, progressive legislation.

TO CARRY OUT PLEDGES.

The governor-elect will insist upon the performance of every pledge made by the parties, and that he will not give his support to any party which has obligations to the people of the state by the mere language employed in constructing the platform.

TO GIVE STATE ENTIRE TIME.

In the matter of appointments Mr. Haines has promised that he will select his cabinet from the best men of his party in the state and demand of them that they do their utmost to carry out the party pledges and in addition to that he will devote every minute of his time to the saving care of the business of the state.

WELCOMES PROGRESSIVE BACK.

In commenting on his position in regard to the Progressive in the incoming chief executive of the state calls upon all Republicans, whether they have previously severed their connection with the Republican party or not, to return to their party and do all in their power to aid him and the Republican party in carrying out the pending good legislation and carrying out promised reforms. He thinks that if all unite and work for the common cause of the good of Idaho there will be no obstacle.

APOLLO CLUB TAKES BURLEY BY STORM

AUDIENCE HIGHLY PLEASSED WITH SONG AND VERSE.

First Trip of Season Meets With Success—Program Given at Milner Sunday Afternoon—To Sing Here About December 15.

The initial trip of the season for the Apollo club was made to Burley and Misses Sara and Sunday, respectively. The trip was attended by much success and pleasure, and the club sang to good houses both days. Besides creating interest in the east end in the local musical organization, the members of the club have received renewed interest and enthusiasm.

Leaving here on the evening train Saturday the party reached Burley in time to open the program by nine o'clock when they were received by a large and enthusiastic audience. Each number on the program, including heavy selections by the chorus, sentimental and humorous solos and duets by members of the club, a piano solo by Miss Vesta Thomas, and a dramatic selection by Mrs. Grant, were enthusiastically received by Miss Nellie Rauch, who was applauded to encore. The audience was highly responsive and the club was enthrallled in putting much life into their numbers.

The first selection, "Comrades in Arms," by the club, awakened interest, and following the encore, "Carry On," the first solo was given.

The first selection, "Comrades in Arms," by the club, awakened interest, and following the encore, "Carry On," the first solo was given. "Barran," was sung by Wilton Peck, one of the most talented singers in Twin Falls. "The Violin," by Miss Rauch, C. J. Reid sang that popular song. "Everybody's Favorite," which was heard previously, being the first number on the program the club gave a beautiful rendition of "Annie Laurie," and for an encore sang "Just a Little Christmas." Mrs. Vesta Thomas favored the audience with a piano solo, "Prelude Bachmann," and the club opened the second part with "The Singing Singers" (Patrol)—a chorus which was enthusiastically received and an encore given by Mrs. Vesta Thomas. The humorous duet, "My Marie," by Wilton Peck and Curtis Turner, was a piece of ingenious work and produced much merriment. Miss Rauch sang "The Yuletide Yarn," a humorous selection, and as an encore recited "The District School." Mrs. Deady gave a beautiful rendition of "In the Garden of My Heart." The last number was "Martyr of the Arena," by the club, and the hair-raising and thrilling piece of work of the evening. After the program a dance was given and at 12 o'clock a luncheon was served to the party in the dining-room of the Burley hotel.

Taking the morning train the club stopped over at Milner, at the invitation of the Riverside Inn, and following a dinner at the inn, at which they were the guests of the proprietor, visited the Milner dam. They gave a concert in front of the dam, and a large group in the Milner hall. The Burley Hotel, which was highly appreciated by the citizens of Milner.

WATERMAN COMPANY TOMORROW NIGHT

LARGE CROWD EXPECTED AT FIRST NUMBER OF COURSE

Talented Artists Will Open Season With Varied Program—Interest Taken in Course—New Opera Chairs for High School Auditorium.

A goodly portion of Twin Falls will be at the high school auditorium on Thanksgiving night, judging from the big crowd lined up in front of the Shedd-Walker drug store last Saturday morning. The reserved seat plot was opened at 10 o'clock, and for nearly two hours there was a line of season ticket holders waiting to get their reserved seats.
Over three hundred seats were reserved before noon, which will fill the house to the brim. As this entertainment comes on a holiday, and the first entertainment of a lecture course is generally one of the largest attended, it is in this category that the prospect is that the auditorium will be filled.
The Waterman company consists of the talented young lady singer, Miss Emily Waterman, a niece of the late Governor Waterman, of California. William Waterman, a prominent local musician who has achieved prominence in the east, and Miss Lillian Whitman, a pianist formerly with the Bartolotta club company. The program will please every one in attendance.

New Opera Chairs.
The new opera chairs for the gallery of the high school auditorium have been ordered from the factory, but they will not arrive in time for the first entertainment of the Twin Falls lecture course, which will be given by the Waterman Concert company Thursday night, Thanksgiving. Over half the house was sold last Saturday, and it is probable that the S. G. G. star will be hung up about half past eight.

Butter for Table
Cottolene for Cooking

The Happy Go-Between

Cottolene

Cottolene is not for table use, but it is the best cooking fat for all shortening and frying. If you are using butter in your kitchen you are paying at least twice as much as necessary to secure the same results with Cottolene.

Another point of economy about Cottolene—use one-third less than you would of butter or lard.

Cottolene is a clean, pure product, and makes wholesome, healthful, digestible food, because it is a vegetable and not an animal fat.

EFFICIENCY IN THE DAILY LIFE.

In a remarkable article recently given general circulation in the Sunday editions of Eastern and Western newspapers, the well-known Boston lawyer, Louis B. Brandeis, discusses the subject of efficiency in its relation to industrial life.

After pointing out the need of the highest type of efficiency in every branch of industry under the sun if that industry is to reach its maximum of producing power, the author comes down to the question of efficiency as applied to the daily lives of the men and women of the nation.

The need of efficiency in individuals was never greater than at present. Today this need is greater among individuals than among corporations, for the reason that only by the application of the principle involved in the daily lives of the men who make up the corporation, can the corporation itself hope to attain to the maximum of efficiency.

The subject is not a technical one, the guiding principle can be understood by every boy and girl, yet its importance may be measured by the fact that with the inhabitants of the world operating at the maximum of efficiency the progress along every known line would probably be accelerated in a manner of better than one hundred per cent.

A maximum of efficiency has been sought after by wise men for countless generations. He who wrote "What is worth doing at all is worth doing WELL" was simply striving for a higher grade of general efficiency. The efficient life is the life of that man or woman who is enabled to accomplish the maximum of labor at the minimum of toil; whose every effort shall be directed in a manner to best accomplish the desired result; in whose efforts there shall be no false motion, and in whose daily work the evil of procrastination has no place.

But this is only a small part—a mere glimpse, as it were, into the workings of the doctrine of efficiency. The entire subject embraces a thousand sermons, yet would be rich in possibilities for the race.

Mr. Brandeis says that to become thoroughly efficient it may be necessary to cast aside many of the established social usages, to change in many respects the commonly accepted mode of living, to change even the form of the clothing worn.

All these things are a small price to pay for a span of years one hundred per cent efficient.

THE COMING SESSION.

In addition to the ordinary work of an ordinary legislative session, the Twelfth legislature of Idaho will be called upon to decide on the very important question of a selection of two United States senators. Of these, Senator Borah will probably be one.

The old idea of the office seeking the man is cast to the winds in the struggle of the Idaho politicians. To date half a dozen candidates are actively in the field and of these three at least have openly announced their intention of bringing all the pressure at their command to bear upon the unfortunate legislators who will perform the work of selection.

Senator Borah for the long term will probably be elected without any very protracted struggle, although it is not in the nature of things that he should be returned without some opposition. But as to the second senatorship, The News predicts one of the stormiest sessions since territorial days.

The position is not one within the gift of the people in the ordinary sense, yet the building up of sentiment among the people on the part of each of the candidates is the main method selected of urging his own particular claims.

Suppose the office sought the man rather than the man the office, isn't it reasonable to suppose that the selection would in all likelihood be attended with greater chances for a wise and beneficial result?

A UNIQUE SITUATION.

Too little attention is being given to the trial of the so-called dynamic conspirators now going forward in Indianapolis. The public taste is satiated with the gory details of wholesale killings and destruction of property. The moral lesson is in a fair way to become obscured by the mass of testimony adduced.

Some fifty men are on trial charged with being parties to a series of crimes which have no parallel in the annals of industrial history the world over. No matter what the verdict, the opinion of the world must remain forever unchanged. The dynamiters dynamited and others paid the bills. Twenty-one lives were snuffed out in one expression of protest against the so-called "scab shop." It would seem that if there be any virtue in dynamite the cause of organized labor must surely have triumphed.

The appropriation of moneys by the American Federation of Labor for the defense of the accused men may indicate only a willingness to secure fair play for a group of union workers who in a legal sense must be regarded as innocent until they are proven guilty, but the action brings about a unique situation, nevertheless.

A POOR RECOMMENDATION.

The business streets of Twin Falls are well kept, so are also the residence sections of the city, but it is a pity that the same can not be said of a number of pieces of vacant property both within the paved district and outside of it.

Nothing is more calculated to leave a bad impression on the minds of visitors than the spectacle of a well kept building adjoining a vacant lot decorated with a pile of dirt and ashes and tin cans, a dilapidated wagon or so, and a collection of wind-tossed odds and ends. The effect is depressing. The spirit of bygone usefulness spreads itself like a pall of gloom over the surrounding property. The result can never be other than bad.

There are a good many such pieces of property in Twin Falls, and this is the cleaning-up time of year.

NOTHING TO INTERFERE.

There is now nothing to fear with the passage of the defeated Underwood bill of two years ago. The bill had for its object the placing of lead on the free list.

There is now no reason why wool should not be placed in the free list, as has been attempted by the Democrats for many a session. The Democratic program as to sugar should also go through easily in the near future.

But all this matters little to Idaho in the judgment of a majority of her people. Idaho is for Woodrow Wilson, and all that the Wilson program implies. All these things will probably happen, but, O no, they can never hurt Idaho.

HAINES WANTS PLEADED KEPT.

not be any room for a division in the Republican ranks.

Governor-elect Malins is very anxious in saying that instead of those who temporarily left the Republican party being counted out and read out of the party councils that he will invite many of those persons to call upon him and confer regarding proposed legislation and those things which will tend to the upbuilding of Idaho.

No Interests Need Apply.

To that end the incoming executive announces that no special interests of any kind will receive favors at his hands, and that the humblest individual in the state will be welcome as one and that his rights will be as carefully guarded as the rights of the most influential citizen.

GEOGRAPHY CUTS FIGURE.

mitted that it has much logic on its side. By dividing the state into east and west sections it shows that Senator Borah is from the west and that score claims the other senator for the east.

Naturally all the arguments are being advanced by the friends of James H. Brady, who is an aggressive candidate for the senatorship. But the Brady men are not relying wholly on the showing made above. They lay stress on the work done for the state by Governor Brady; they point out that when he went down to defeat in 1910, through the treachery of men who should have gone to the last ditch in his support, he did not quit or whine, but proved himself a good loser and never wavered in his allegiance to his party or his fellowmen; they point out that Brady, because of his wealth, his energy and the confidence reposed in him by the men who do his bidding, he is in position to accomplish much for a business and industrial way for Idaho.

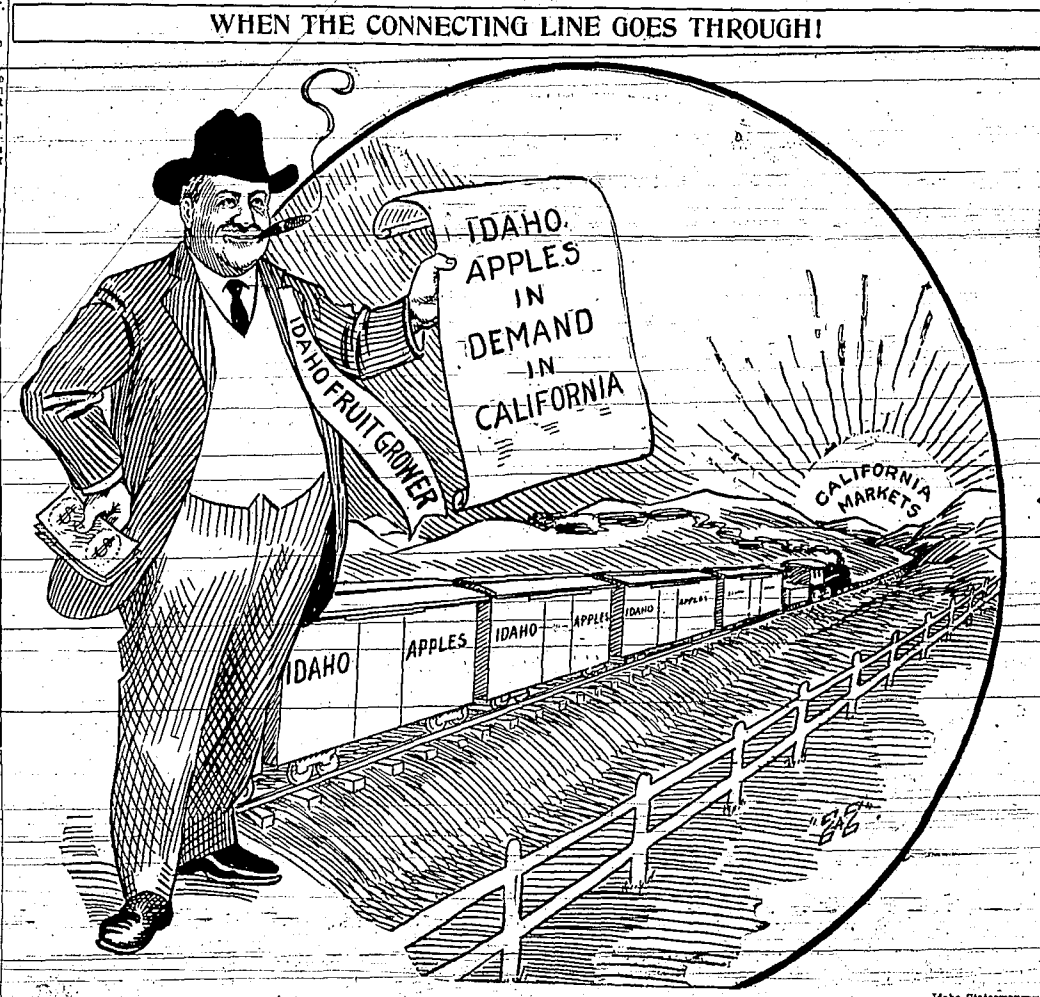

Brady's Friends Active.

Finally, the backers of Brady argue that he is well fitted for the position of senator—not through the higher education or the public that no money consideration or the public that no money consideration, but by sound sense and the ability that comes through the doing of important things.

Another factor that bids fair to operate in favor of Brady, although it may prove to be a two-edged sword and cut as far in one direction as it does in the other, is that in the last campaign, when men in high and low positions in all parts of the state were wandering over under the bill Moose or teetering on the top rail of the fence in doubt as to which way to jump, James H. Brady called for the support of William H. Taft and the G. O. P. from the highest to the lowest man on the ticket. Many are saying that as Senator Borah is wandering around in the "will-it-socks" of politics, the Republicans of Idaho are entitled to one senator upon whom they can place their finger, and many such men are at work for Brady.

Headquarters Opened.

All things considered, it is easy to be sure that the Brady men are in position to make an aggressive fight. They will have headquarters in the O'Whee hotel in this city from this date on. It is understood that Will H. Gilson, former secretary of state, is to have charge of the campaign. It may be that Justice Allie Frank is to be a speaker and other abilities may in the near future be able to present much stronger cases than is here outlined for Brady. If so, the writer will be glad to add the readers of The News all about them. He has but one desire, and that is to present the political situation in an impartial way in order that the readers of The News may get a clear idea as to what is going forward.

Records at Office of City Clerk Show Licenses Issued This Year to 202-Machines

That the city of Twin Falls has its share of automobilism is evident from the records of City Clerk Taylor, who has issued 202 licenses for the year 1912.

An the state of Idaho has no law at the present time for the licensing of automobiles, each city or town deals in this matter as it sees fit. In some cities and towns a license is not required, while in the cities where a license is necessary the amount paid varies.

In the city of Twin Falls the license fee is four dollars for each car and an additional dollar for the driver. This applies strictly to cars owned in the city only. Those living outside the city owning cars are not compelled to pay any license whatever.

Heavy Increase Shown. During the year 1912 there was an increase of forty licenses issued over the previous year, and it is conservatively estimated that the increase will exceed fifty for next year. The number of cars owned in the city was 192.

IDAHO RECEIVES SHARE

Federal Government to Turn Over $59,523.79 from the Forest Reserve Fund.

The state of Idaho will receive the sum of $59,523.79 from the United States government as the state's share of all money received from the 22 forest reserves in Idaho during the past fiscal year, says the Idaho Statesman.

Notification of the coming of this substantial sum to be added to the coffers of the state, was received yesterday by Governor Hawley from H. Davis, auditor of the United States treasury department.

The greatest portion of this total amount from any one state comes from money received from the Clearwater forest reserve, which yields $874,901 to the state in which it is located. From the Clearwater reserve the smallest amount, $56.76, from any of the 22 reserves situated wholly or in part within the boundaries of the state is received.

Writes Governor Hawley.

The letter to Governor Hawley from Auditor David lists each reserve and the amount derived therefrom by the state and is as follows:

"I have the honor to advise you that the sum of $59,523.79, which is the amount received from the United States and the state of Idaho, per M. S. & C. certificate No. 626, and find the sum of $59,523.79 due you by the state. This amount has been certified to the secretary of the treasury for issuance and transmittal of warrant.

The authority for this payment is found in the act of congress approved May 23, 1908 (35 statutes, 200), making appropriations for the department of agriculture for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, which provides as follows:

"That hereafter 25 per centum of all money received from each forest reserve during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1909, shall be paid at the end thereof by the secretary of the treasury to the state or territory in which the reserve is situated, to be expended as the state or territorial legislature may prescribe for the benefit of the public lands of the state or territory in which the forest reserve is situated; provided, that when any forest reserve is in more than one state or territory or is owned by the federal government, the proceeds of said reserve shall be proportional to the area thereof."

Where Money Comes From.

"The sum allowed represents the proportion of receipts to which your state is entitled under this act, divided during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, from national forests located wholly or in part therein, as follows:

SABBATH SCHOOL LESSON

DECEMBER 1, 1912

THE LUKING BOY.

14. And when he came to his disciples, he saw a great multitude about them and the scribes questioning with them. 15. And straightway all the people, when they beheld him, were greatly amazed, and running to him greeted him. 16. And he asked the scribes, What question ye wish them? 17. And one of the multitude answered and said, Master, I have brought unto you my son, which I have a dumb spirit; 18. And whosoever he taketh him, he tearth him; and he foameth, and gnasheth with his teeth, and pineth away; and I speak to thy disciples, that they should cast him out; and they could not. 19. He answered him and said, O faithless generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? Bring him unto me, and I will cure him. 20. And they brought him unto him; and when he saw him, straightway he said unto him, Thou art a dumb and deaf man; and he brought him to the ground, and wallowed foam; 21. And he made this father, how long is it ago since this came unto him? and he said, Of a child; 22. And oftentimes it hath cast him into the fire, and into the waters, to destroy him; but thou canst do anything, have compassion on us, and help us. 23. Jesus said unto him, If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth. 24. And straightway the father of the child cried out, and said with tears, Lord, I believe; help thou mine unbelief. 25. When Jesus saw that the people cried, and saying unto him, Thou dumb and deaf spirit, I charge thee, come out of him, and enter no more into him; 26. And the spirit cried, and rent him sore, and came out of him; and he rose up, and he walked, and he praised God with a loud voice; 27. But Jesus took him by the hand, and lifted him up; and he arose. 28. And when he was come into the house, his disciples asked him privately, Why couldst thou not cast him out? 29. And he said unto them, This kind can come forth by nothing, but by prayer and fasting.

Golden Text: Jesus said unto him, If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth.—Mark 9:23.

Introductory. This lesson is pretty long, and we shall be able to hardly more than glance at it. It follows immediately upon the account of the raising of the dead, and the most beautiful picture of the Saviour Raphael has this for its theme. It is the story of the blind man, who, in the upper section, the multitude of people around him, the disciples, and the lunatic, the most prominent feature in the lower section. The picture is very admired.

Expository. We understand that it was incidental after the transfiguration on the mountain, which is recorded in the night. It was the morning after, that the blind man, who had been brought to the foot of the mountain, or tower elevation on its side, where a people, having heard of his being the Messiah, had gathered, had met him. Among them were some who, as always, were striving to do as to his personality, and a balance of the work which he was doing. It has been said that, if absent, the devil is at work. The disciples were in trouble. The amazement of the people, did hardly have been because he was there, for they had evidently seen him in the past. There were some of some unusual appearance in countenance, the glow of the transfiguration, and the glow of the power were well disposed toward him. Jesus at once addressed himself, here questioning his critics. He was to answer their questions. But just then a man from the Jude pressed his way to the front, and said to him, Master, I have a dumb spirit. He had come away from the disciples and came directly to Jesus, hastening with his errand. His son, whom we call "the dumb spirit," was a power of a dumb spirit; a demon, was making his life miserable. The trouble was very much more than a dumb spirit, but it was what we call "demoniacal possession." We do not know much about demons, but we know some of our oracles in China assure us that they have just such cases to deal with there. We sometimes think that it is a crochety thing. There are persons whose conduct can hardly be accounted for except on the theory they are under the spell of a demon. But the disciples of Jesus could give this demon out of the child. Jesus rebuked the demon, and the boy had asked them. They had many other wonderful things, they could not do this. It had been the case of the demon, but the demon was just then getting on his presence. He was a demon, and the presence seemed to make him desperate. The boy gave evidence that he was a demon, but the people were witnesses to that. The malady had been endured through. Had it come later, it would have been a case of a delirium. Such is the epilepsy. Still, this was not a demon, but it was a demon. We have no right to say it was a peculiarly malignant and had made the life of both the father and the child miserable. They could hardly wait to an questions of Jesus, but has a right to ask for help. If they can't further, particularly.—Advertisement.

REPORTS ARE GIVEN ON MISSION WORK

UNION SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING IN METHODIST CHURCH.

Work Being Done by the Various Denominations in the Home Fields for Past Year is Presented.

The Women's Missionary Union met at the Methodist church last Thursday, November 21. Both a morning and afternoon session was held. The morning session was devoted to the hearing of reports of the work of the societies of the various denominations in the home mission fields. Mrs. C. C. Nelson, president of the union, presided.

The report of the board of missions of the Christian church was given by Mrs. Heartfield. They are supporting five societies for the mission on the Pacific coast. Industrial schools have been established for the mountain whites in Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia. There are five schools in the Southland for the negroes, and Bible chairs have been endowed in five universities. This board has been carrying on evangelistic work in 30 different states at an expense of nearly $25,000 a year.

The Methodist board was given by Mrs. McClarin. Their women's missionary society, organized 39 years ago, has now a membership of 125,000. The purpose of the organization is to help win America for Christ.

The work, in evangelistic, educational, and industrial. There are now more than 40 industrial homes for the young people of the Spanish, Negro, Indian, Chinese, Japanese, Alaskan, Porto Rican, and whites. There are over 25 mission schools, national training schools, five hospitals, four conference training schools, forty-one convalescent hospitals, and three orphanages. Last year $872,250 was given toward carrying on this work.

Among the immigrants. The report for the Presbyterian board was given by Mrs. J. H. Hall. There are 100 denominations, 18 theological schools and seminaries and mission schools. Work is carried on among the immigrants arriving on both coasts in the cities and in the mining camps. The board's board has expended $50,270, and $44,825 was given in the societies. Under the supervision of the board there are 159 national schools, 414 teachers and missionaries, and 4,171 board members.

At the close of the morning session the Methodist ladies served an elaborate lunch. The program for the afternoon was given by Rev. J. H. Hall and proved very instructive. Excellent music added much interest to the day's meetings.

FACT LOCAL EVIDENCE. Opinions differ. Here's a Twin Falls fact. You can test it. Mrs. C. C. Carson, Lincoln avenue, New School addition, Twin Falls, Idaho, says: "During the three years I have had my back and joints were so badly swollen and stiff that I couldn't stand. I had terrible headaches and such severe dizzy spells that I was afraid to walk across the floor without having hold of something for support. I lost my energy and ambition and got so thin that there was nothing to be but skin and bones. Some doctors had given up on me, but Dr. Doan's Kidney Pills and advised him to have me try them. He got a box and in two or three days after I began to feel better. I got relief. After I had used the box I noticed great improvement and I continued, using six or seven boxes. I gained in flesh, the stiffness and lameness left me and I was cured of those awful headaches and spells of dizziness. My kidneys became normal, too. I can't confirm the public statements I have given heretofore praising Dr. Doan's Kidney Pills. You may continue to publish them."—You may continue to publish them.

TO INTERPRET RILEY

Judge Fletcher Comes to Visit Theatre Under Auspices of Domestic Science Ladies.

The Domestic Science department of the Twentieth Century club believes that it can do something besides cooking, and the committee also wants to raise some money for the new club house project which the club has so successfully launched. As a result of this deduction, the department has arranged for a Riley interpretation by Judge J. D. Fletcher, of Boise, to be given in connection with the moving picture show at the Isis theatre next Saturday afternoon and evening, November 30.

In addition to the Judge's (near and laughter-moving) eloquence, there will be colored lantern slides to illustrate the Riley characters he so faithfully portrays. The regular program of the "movies" will be given at both afternoon and evening performances in addition to Judge Fletcher's offering. The prices will be 10 and 15 cents for the matinee and 15 and 25 cents for the evening—and the Domestic Science department gets a generous slice of the receipts.

Self Sterility in Orchards

Many Orchards Are Being Planted Without a Proper Knowledge of Pollination

By C. H. Hoard, M. B.

The following article, appearing in the October number of the Country Life, published by the agricultural department of the University of Idaho was written by Professor C. H. Hoard of the agricultural department of the Twin Falls high school.

By the term "self-sterility," as applied to plants, the writer means the inability to produce fruit without the introduction of foreign pollen (pollen from a plant of a different variety).

By the term "self-sterility" the writer means the ability to produce fruit without the aid of pollen from other plants, or where the pollen is capable of fertilizing the ovules of the same flower.

Periods, in his "Cross and self-sterility in the vegetable kingdom" (pages 323, 324), recognizes two kinds of self-sterility: (1) fertilization by a blossom with its own pollen; (2) fertilization with pollen from other flowers on the same plant. He states that there is very little self-sterility in the blossoms of the apple.

Self-sterility seems to be an attribute of the monocotyledons, and is considered as an attempt at specialization and separation of the sexes as we have in higher animals. There are numerous instances in which growers have planted large blocks of orchard to a single variety.

Several causes of this self-sterility or "barrenness," as it is sometimes called, have been advanced during recent years. It varies with different fruits and is characteristic of certain varieties, something highly self-sterile and others practically or entirely self-sterile.

From what has already been said, one can readily see the importance of the question of sterility in orchards. Every locality is able to produce one or two varieties of apples better than all others.

Several lists of self-sterile and self-sterile varieties have been given out by the different experiment stations, but again we are confronted by the fact that a variety may be self-sterile in one locality and self-sterile in another, or the converse may be true.

give excellent results. In certain parts of Canada, however, the Ben Davis is considered as self-sterile. Davis is perhaps a nearly self-sterile variety, but it bears a much larger amount of fruit under cross fertilization. Ordinarily, where several varieties are planted together, there are certain varieties of bloom, and the chances for cross-pollination are abundant and the owner will not need to consider the problem of self-sterility.

Other commercial crops in which the question of self-sterility is important are certain varieties of plums, especially the native or American plums, certain varieties of olives, grapes, raspberries, blackberries, dewberries and gooseberries.

Since many of the self-sterile fruits are among the most desirable, discarding them is out of the question. Who would consider discarding the Spitzburg apple, the Bartlett pear, the Stark Jonathan strawberry, or the Dakota strawberry? Discarding varieties such as these would often be necessary if we had our knowledge of the question of self-sterility.

It is very necessary, therefore, to obtain from the nearest experiment station, or better still from the local nursery in which the planting is to be done.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION IN NORMAL SCHOOLS

EXERCISE NECESSARY FOR STUDENTS AND FACULTY

Lowiston Institution Establishes New Department as Important Adjunct to Regular Branchwork of the Curriculum.

Lowiston, Nov. 25.—That is considered one of the most important features of the normal school this year has been the establishment of the department of physical education. The department was organized at the opening of the second quarter. While in the past and up to the present time physical education of students has been confined to the physical education of the school, there has been an attempt to teach the principles of physical education and turn out students who would be specialists along this line. The class formed consists of a goodly number, and they are receiving daily instruction in practice and theory of physical education.

Here in Idaho, the county superintendents and local educators generally concede in order to obtain the best education in primary, grammar, or high school work, there must be certain periods given over to physical education and vigorous exercise. To teach them how to play and get the most out of playing is the problem of those engaged in playground work.

WIFE WORTH HAVING

Herr Blumenthal, a director of the Lesing theatre in Berlin, once had great misgivings regarding the success of his new piece, "Zum Weissen Rosse."

"If I only had twenty marks for every thousand it will bring I should be quite content," said his wife.

"All right, you shall have them," replied Herr Blumenthal.

"Zum Weissen Rosse" (White Horse Inn) met with an immediate success. Every night the Frau Director went to the cashier and loved her twenty marks per thousand.

On one occasion after the piece had been running some months, bad weather caused a falling gill in the receipts, below the thousand mark, and consequently Frau Blumenthal was not entitled to her twenty marks.

"How much have you taken?" she asked the cashier.

"Only one hundred and ninety-seven marks," was the reply.

"Well, give me a seat at three marks, then," said Frau Blumenthal, laying down the coin.

"Now you have a thousand marks, give me my twenty."

"So get them!"—Tribune.

HEREDITY

"Pa," announced little Rodger Judge, "I saw ten thousand dogs fighting down back of the vinegar factory."

"But, but, my son," cried his mother, "you know there are not ten thousand dogs in the whole county."

"Well, there were several dozen of 'em, anyhow, all fighting like fury."

"That is a little better, but tell the exact truth now. How many dogs were there?"

"Four and another dog, pa."

"Were they fighting?"

"Well, sir, they—they acted like they were going to."

"But now, where in the world did you learn to associate so shamelessly, and—"

"Why, pa, didn't I hear you telling a man the other day in the grocery store that the human race is steadily growing?"—Judge.

"No, sah. He was under the kitchen table," she quickly replied.—National Monthly.
