

IN THE INTERESTS OF THE PEOPLE

REAL LAW MAKING MAY BE NEGLECTED

INDICATIONS THAT LITTLE WORK WILL BE ACCOMPLISHED.

Deadline Over Short Term Senatorship, and Various Appropriation Bills to Eat Up Time With a Vengeance.

(Special To The News).

Boise, December 10.—Unfortunately for the best interests of Idaho, much of the time of the coming legislature will be taken up with logrolling.

In addition to the clearing of two sessions, what there remains to be done is a prolonged deadlock, there will be county division fights, the usual number of road and bridge bills, and the usual number of bills for the state institutions scattered in all directions.

In the matter of county divisions, there are to be carried over four, Oneida into three, Lapwai into three, Cassia into two, Canyon into two, and Boise into two, and Kootenai into one. This means that at least four new counties are to be created if the divisionists have their way about it.

With all the time to be taken up by logrolling, the clearing of two sessions, what there remains to be done is a prolonged deadlock, there will be county division fights, the usual number of road and bridge bills, and the usual number of bills for the state institutions scattered in all directions.

Many important matters will press themselves upon the attention of the lawmakers, but it is not to be expected that any will be secured on any of them. Progressives will urge the enactment of a large number of their ideas into law, and the conservatives will urge the opposite.

Some of the more radical reformers will advocate measures for direct legislation. Laws will be required to operate in the initiative, referendum, and recall amendment to the state constitution, adopted by the voters at the recent election. Strong efforts will be made to strike further in this direction. The present initiative is not satisfactory, as it will require a majority of all votes cast for or against the measure.

Depositors' Bank Guarantees. This same element in the legislature will work hard for a depositors' bank guarantee bill, which will be altered after the present Oklahoma law. Under this law, bankers will have more latitude in the supervision of their banks, and it is not to their interest to keep each other straight.

Under this law, when a state bank fails, the depositors will get their money back from a fund maintained by all the other banks of the state. Another matter that will be used by the reformers is the right to mine. At present, they are taxed on their net earnings and not on their physical value, as other property.

Urges Oregon Plan. Naturally, the popular election of United States Senators is a hobby of the reformers. It is a subject that can be secured by amendment to the federal constitution. They will urge the Oregon plan, which will give the people the privilege of electing their own Senators.

Under this plan a Republican legislature was compelled to elect Senator Chamberlain, a staunch Democrat, and next month a Democratic legislature over-whelmingly Republican will elect Dr. Harry Lane, another Democrat.

Public utilities commission and a tax commission are two other matters that will be urged upon the legislature by the reformers. The radicals will demand that these commissions be elected by direct vote of the people. Those of the conservative wing will demand that the governor, with the consent of the senate, appoint them.

Still another matter to be urged by the radicals is an employers' liability act, one that is free from the common law of contributory negligence, the fellow servant clause, and the assumed risk. It goes without saying that these same men will advocate a radical court practice act.

Abolish State Senate. Dow Dunning, senator from Owyhee county, who is looked upon as an extreme radical, will go further and advocate the complete abolition of the state senate. His proper initiative and referendum law, Senator Dunning argues that there is absolutely no need of a senate, and that it would be nothing but an obstruction in the way of the people's progress.

There will be a strong demand from the reformers for a primary law. The primary law in one of its essential features. This is to require every voter to declare his party affiliation before he enters the primary, both to vote. After he has done this he will be given a party ballot and no other.

NOT OVERLOOK THIS

The News Proposition is Still Open--There is Still Need of Help for the Y. M. C. A.

With every new $2.00 subscription to this newspaper received by mail or over our counter from anyone in Twin Falls county, The News will issue a receipt showing a payment of half of this amount to the Y. M. C. A. Committee, the money to be applied to the purchase of a lot for a Y. M. C. A. building subject to the plans of the Y. M. C. A. Committee. In other words The News will give to the Y. M. C. A. Committee one-half of all moneys received for new subscriptions in advance, the same offer is made.

To all present subscribers who pay up all arrears and one year's subscription in advance, the same offer is made.

MRS BOTTS FINED

Judge Shields Imposes $10 and Costs. The Case Will be Appealed.

A fine of $10 and costs was imposed on Mrs. Botts by Judge Shields last Friday, for drawing a gun on and assaulting Arthur J. Rege, a state legislator, who is reasonably safe to predict at this time that the making of bond laws will take a back seat early in the session and will fall on the back burner.

Many important matters will press themselves upon the attention of the lawmakers, but it is not to be expected that any will be secured on any of them. Progressives will urge the enactment of a large number of their ideas into law, and the conservatives will urge the opposite.

JURY STILL OUT. Looks Like a Disagreement in the Buchanan Trial.

In the case of the State vs. Buchanan, on the charge of murder, which has occupied the attention of the district court the past two days, and in which a great deal of interest has been taken by the public on account of the defendant being a well-known resident of this community, the jury trial last night at ten o'clock, and up to the time of our going to press is still out.

While the jury may be kept out for another twenty-four hours. It is the opinion generally that their deliberations will be made in a disagreement, owing to the fact of their not coming to any conclusion after being out over twenty-eight hours.

This, it is argued, will prevent voters in one party conspiring to put up a weak candidate on the opposition ticket in order to demoralize the opposition party and elect its candidate. Republicans in the last legislature insisted on this provision, but it was defeated. The sections of the constitution which vest the veto power of Governor Hawley.

Experts in criminology, including the heads of all penal and reformatory institutions in the state, are urging a law for the sterilization of all criminals, idiots and other mental and moral delinquents. Similar legislation exists in the states of California, Washington, New York and New Jersey, and it has been declared constitutional by the supreme court.

Against Wild-Getting. A measure modeled after the Kansas law which is used and legislation along this line is expected. Such a law will have a tendency to curb wild-getting. It will provide that every four applications for divorce can be placed on the market, or offered for sale, they must be passed upon by a board of corporations or other agency created by the state, the standing of the officers, the value of the property held by the company, and the character of the securities determined and made public in a divorce court.

Curb Divorce Evil. Judge Carl A. Davis, in his suggestions to the supreme court for changes in the present laws, says: "In Ada county, from January 1, 1911, until November 27, 1912, there were filed one hundred and twenty-five decrees of divorce for every 26 marriages during that time. This condition is so appalling that it is certain to make a deep impression on the lawmakers next month, and legislation to curb the divorce evil is reasonably expected.

Major Reed R. Reed, of Wendall, was a prominent visitor in the city the fore part of the week. Major Reed has been promoted and has accepted the office of state immigration commissioner made by Governor-elect Haines.

The R. N. of A. will have their election on Thursday, December 12, 1912, at 2:30 p. m. at the Eagles' Hall.

Y. M. C. A. FUND IS MOUNTING STEADILY

SOLICITORS URGED TO TURN IN STATEMENTS OF COLLECTIONS.

Interest Grows in Propulsion Looking to Purchase of Lot on Which to Erect Building in This City.

All Y. M. C. A. solicitors are requested to communicate at once with C. H. Chapin, in order that an accurate record may be made of all moneys subscribed to this cause. At the present time many buttons are in the hands of workers upon which it is impossible to stick up with-out the aid of all those who have given so freely of their services.

Interest grows apace in the movement by the local business men's committee looking to the raising of funds for the purchase of a lot for Y. M. C. A. building purposes. To date there has been a splendid response to the efforts of the high school students and others who have given of their time in this cause.

But there is still need of plenty of work if a sufficient sum is to be raised. Plans for the proposed hall to be given in the interests of the movement have not materially altered, although the date will be fixed and active work commenced in the near future.

Lack of space precludes the publishing of a full list of solicitors and contributors at this time, but this will be done later.

The President's Message in Brief

Subject, "Foreign Relations"

Theme.—"We have emerged from a period of great gloom and darkness, and we are now entering upon a new era in our international life, and creating a new and world-wide conditions which will bring about a new era of peace and good will for hundreds of years to come. We must not wait for events to overtake us unawares. With continuity of purpose we must deal with the problems of our external relations by a diplomacy modern, resourceful, magnanimous, and fittingly expressive of the high ideals of a great nation."

Some telling sentences:

Unity of Action.—"In its foreign affairs the United States should present a united front. The intellectual, financial, and industrial interests of the country and the public; the wage-earner, the farmer and citizen of whatever occupation must cooperate in a spirit of high patriotism to promote that national solidarity which is necessary to the intellectual efficiency and to the attainment of national ideals."

Protection to Americans.—"A great deal of our attention should be given to the protection of our citizens of interests wherever they may have been denied and a stronger emphasis of the need of mutuality in commercial and other relations have only served to strengthen our friendships with foreign countries by placing those friendships upon a firm foundation of reciprocity as well as aspirations."

Work Made Effective.—"At the beginning of the present administration the department of state was an archaic and inadequate machine lacking most of the attributes of the foreign office of any great modern power. The work was highly specialized. The result is that where previously this government from time to time would enter into its foreign relations through another policy, now American interests in every quarter of the globe are being cultivated with equal activity."

Dollars for Bullets.—"The diplomacy of the present administration has sought to respond to modern ideas of commercial intercourse. This policy has been characterized as substituting dollars for bullets. How great have been the results of this diplomacy, coupled with the maximum provision of the tariff law, will be seen by a consideration of the successful increase in the export trade of the United States."

Monroe Doctrine.—"In Central America the aim has been to help such countries as Nicaragua and Honduras to help themselves. The national policy of the United States is twofold. First, it is obvious that the Monroe Doctrine is more vital in the neighborhood of the Panama canal and the some of the Caribbean than anywhere else. There, too, the maintenance of that doctrine falls most heavily upon the United States. The second advantage to the United States in one affecting equally all the southern and Central America and the Caribbean possesses great natural wealth. They need only a measure of stability and the means of financial regeneration, and upon an era of peace and prosperity, bringing profit and happiness to themselves and at the same time creating conditions sure to lead to a flourishing interchange of trade with this country."

Mexico Policy.—"There have constantly recurred questions of extreme delicacy. On several occasions very difficult situations have arisen on our frontier. Throughout this trying period the policy of the United States has been one of patient non-intervention, steadfast recognition of the established authority in the neighboring nation, and the exertion of every effort to care for American interests. There were in Mexico at the beginning of the revolution some 30,000 or 40,000 American citizens engaged in enterprises contributing greatly to the prosperity of that country. It is not only the important trade between the two countries. The investment of American capital in Mexico has been estimated at $1,000,000,000. The responsibility of endeavoring to safeguard those interests and the dangers inseparable from complicity to so turbulent a situation have been great, but I am happy to have been able to adhere to the policy above outlined. The United States has been soon justified by the complete success of the Mexican people in regaining the blessings of peace and good will."

Agricultural Credits.—"No evidence of prosperity among well-established farmers should blind us to the fact that lack of credit is preventing the development of the nation's agricultural resources and an adequate increase of the land under cultivation; that agricultural production is falling behind the increase in population; and that, in fact, although these well-established farmers are maintained in increasing prosperity because of the natural increase in population, we are not developing the industry of agriculture. The problem had been successfully solved in the old world and it was evident that the farmers of this country might profit by a study of the results of the investigation through the department of state, an investigation to be made by the diplomatic officers in Europe, and I have since the results of the investigation before the governors of the various states with the hope that they will be used to advantage in their forthcoming meeting."

Foreign Trade Increases.—"The fiscal year 1912 shows that the rate of advance has been maintained, the total foreign export trade to this country increased approximately of $2,200,000,000, as compared with a fraction over $2,000,000,000 the previous year. It is like significant that manufactured and partly manufactured articles continue to be the chief commodities forming the volume of our exported goods. The demands of our own people for consumption requiring that an increasing proportion of our abundant agricultural products be put at hand."

Most Favored Nation.—"The department of state has for the first time in the history of this country obtained substantial most-favored-nation treatment from all the countries of the world. Flat tariffs are out of date. Duties no longer equal real tariff treatment. All other nations in respect of the treatment from them received. It is very necessary that the American government should be equipped with weapons of negotiation adapted to modern economic conditions."

Business Secured.—"In the two years that have elapsed since the successful negotiation of our treaty with Japan, which at that time seemed to present so many practical difficulties, our export trade to that country has increased at the rate of over $1,000,000,000."

Opium Traffic.—"It was unfortunate that this government, having taken the initiative in the international action in this respect in the important international opium convention, failed to do its share in the great work by assisting to pass the necessary legislation to force the deplorable narcotic evil in the United States, as well as to redeem international pledges upon which it entered by virtue of the above-mentioned convention."

Need Greater Effort.—"If this government is really to preserve to the benefit of American people that free opportunity in foreign markets which will soon be indispensable to our prosperity, even greater efforts must be made. Other nations are not content with the American merchant, manufacturer, and exporter will find many a field in which American trade should be more vigorously prosecuted. Prompted through the more energetic efforts of other governments and other commercial nations."

"There are many ways in which through hearty co-operation, the legislative and executive branches of this government can do much. The effort and singleness of purpose. America cannot take its proper place in the world unless it is the center of commercial activity and enterprise unless we have a merchant marine. We need legislation enabling the members of our industrial, manufacturing, and exporting interests of this country in other parts of the world to be so prominent that they may enter the foreign field with a clear perception of the exact conditions to be met with and the officers with a clear idea of what American industrial and manufacturing interests require."

FORGIVENESS.

Matt. 18: 21-35.

1. Then came Peter to him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times?

2. Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, till seven times; but until seventy times seven.

3. Therefore is the kingdom of heaven likened unto a certain king, which would take account of his servants.

4. And when he had begun to reckon, one was brought unto him, which owed him ten thousand talents.

5. That forasmuch as he had not to pay, his lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife, and children, and all that he had, and payment to be made.

6. The servant therefore fell down, and worshipped him, saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

7. Then the lord of that servant was moved with compassion, and loosed him, and forgave him the debt.

8. And the same servant went out, and found one of his fellow servants, which owed him an hundred pence; and he laid hands on him, and took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that thou owest.

9. And his fellow servant fell down, and worshipped him, and said, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all.

10. And he would not; but went and cast him into prison, till he should pay the debt.

11. So when his fellow servants saw what was done, they were very sorry; and came and told unto their lord all that was done.

12. Then his lord, after that he had called him, said unto him, O thou wicked servant, I forgive thee that all debt; because thou didst me.

13. Shouldst not thou also have had compassion on thy fellow servant, even as I had pity on thee?

14. And his lord was wroth, and delivered him to the tormentors, till he should pay all that was due him.

15. So likewise shall my heavenly Father do likewise unto you, if ye from your hearts forgive not every one his brother his trespasses.

Golden Text.—"Ye who kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you."—Eph. 4:32.

Introductory.

Our lesson succeeds that of last week, which taught a lesson of humility. A great deal had been said about forgiveness. Jesus taught it, and his disciples were instructed to teach it. To forgive a sin, or an offense, is to accept the confession and appeal of the transgressor as though the offense had not been committed; to so far forget it that no doubt, or suspicion, or testing, of the forgiver, is indulged in. God says that he forgives the sin which he forgives; it may not always be possible for us to entirely forget; but we can forgive and become so reconciled to the offender, that we love him no less and trust him as fully as before. Peter understood this, but he did not conceive the application of the law of forgiveness. If we really forgive a transgressor, we do not allow ourselves to think of the offense any more; consequently, we are just as ready to forgive the second time as the first.

Expository.

1. Peter was a thoughtful, as well as an impulsive, man. He had the full confidence in his Master, though it is probable that he was several years older than Jesus was. He knew that many persons saw his bad behavior and are careless about correcting it. It was quite natural to ask this question: "We must remember that it is concerning a brother, not everybody. The brother may be of the same earthly parents, or of the same heavenly Father—a fellow Christian. Not every man is a Christian's brother. Seven being the sacred number, Peter thought that seven might exhaust the obligation to forgive."

2. But Jesus corrected the error. Practically, there should be no limit to the forgiveness, whether as to the character of the offense, or its frequency. "Seventy times seven" is saying, never fail to forgive. It should be noticed, however, that there is something for the offender to do. In Luke 17: 4, it is said, if the offender turns and, confessing his wrong, says that he is sorry for it, repents of it, then the forgiveness. It is nowhere said that the unrepentant is to be forgiven. God does not forgive the unrepentant.

3. And Jesus illustrates by a parable. A certain man—a man of arbitrary power, who can do what seems to him good, and execute his decree—such a man calls his servants, his subjects, to an accounting.

4. He found that one of his subjects owed him ten thousand talents. A talent of gold was equal to $25,125 of our money; so a servant's thousand talents were equivalent to $251,250,000, a larger sum than any man could hope to pay.

5. The man confessed the debt, and sought opportunity to pay it. The king saw that it was impossible, and that the only way to recover anything was to sell the debtor, with his wife and children, into slavery. So he commanded the sale.

6. But the poor man fell on his feet, and begged, and brought him for mercy. All he could do was to give time to make payment.

7. The king was compassionate and forgave the debt, which could never be paid, a thing which the debtor had not thought possible. He went away happy.

8. But he went out and found a fellow servant of the same king, and demanded payment of a small sum, only $125,125, demanded of him immediately.

9. He begged, and brought him for mercy. All he could do was to give time to make payment.

10. The king was compassionate and forgave the debt, which could never be paid, a thing which the debtor had not thought possible. He went away happy.

11. But he went out and found a fellow servant of the same king, and demanded payment of a small sum, only $125,125, demanded of him immediately.

Week in Society

Series of Delightful "500" Parties.
Mrs. C. F. Baker was invited to a large number of her friends on Thursday afternoon of last week, when tables were arranged for about forty "500" players. The large rooms of the Baker home were most attractively decorated with a pretty arrangement of red and white carnations, and the red and white color scheme was also effectively carried out in the menu.

At the conclusion of the game, handsome prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ed. Cooper and Mrs. Closs for first and second score. The hostess was assisted during the afternoon by Mrs. C. E. Booth and her little daughter, Miss Marjorie Baker.

Brilliant Reception.

The pretty Buckley bungalow on Ninth avenue East, was the scene of a brilliant reception on Monday afternoon, when Mrs. Buckley received about seventy-five ladies. The decorations, consisting of the approaching Yuletide were most effective. The long windows in the living room were latticed with green and red crepe paper and were massed in the archways, and clusters of carnations and ferns were arranged on the piano and book cases. Red and white decorations prevailed on the sun porch, where tea was served. A tripod of red and white stilet cards from which was suspended a red and white basket filled with bonbons, made a most attractive centerpiece for the tea table. Here Mrs. White and Mrs. Hunt poured for the first hour, and Mrs. Perrine and Mrs. Chamberlain presided during the second hour. Misses Helen McManly and Marian Anderson, dressed in white with touches of red, assisted in serving.

Enjoyable "500" Party.

Mrs. and Mrs. F. M. Buckley entertained at "500" on Monday evening, when a most effective and enjoyable party was given for the reception in the afternoon, the color scheme being further carried out in the refreshments which were served by Misses Vesta Thomas, Grace Barger, and Laura Oldroyd, who wore pretty evening frocks of dark red. A novel feature of the evening, which was fully appreciated, was the awarding of favors at the end of each game, rather than the customary prize at the close of the evening. At the close of the first game, Mr. C. E. Booth received the favor for the gentleman's highest score, and at the end of the second game, Mrs. Robinson received the ladies' prize for high score. Mr. McCullom received the favor for the lowest score at the close of the fourth, and Mrs. Sweoley the favor for low score at the close of the fourth. Miss Vesta Thomas rendered several musical selections in her usual clever manner. Tables were arranged for about sixty players.

Delightful Luncheon.

The perfectly appointed luncheon given by Mrs. H. Seaver at her home last Friday was a rather unique affair, in that all the ladies present, with the exception of the hostess, wore grandmothers, the usual custom being reversed and the daughters left at home. Mrs. F. H. Smith assisted her daughter in serving the four elaborate courses at one long and two small tables. The centerpiece of the long table was an old piece of blue and white china which belonged to the grandmother's dishes. In this was placed an old candle mold holding white carnations, the wife being surrounded with a wreath of smilax, and making a most effective decoration for the table. The two smaller tables were covered with cloths that were spun and woven by Mrs. Seaver's grandmothers. The following ladies enjoyed the delightful afternoon: Medocades Nixon, Bullis, Bross, Packard, Holmes, Smith, Deak, Kunkley, Ring, Phillo, Sweoley, Crater, Bradley, Norton, Scott, Pike, Booth, and Deady.

Brunk-Ball Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Flossie Brunk to Mr. Harry A. Ball was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Brunk, on Wednesday at high noon. Rev. C. E. Evans performed the ceremony, during which Miss Margaret Wilson softly sang "Oh Promise Me." Miss Vesta Thomas played Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the bride entered the room on the arm of her father. She was attended by Miss Leah Williams, who acted as maid of honor, and Margaret Helen Trustbald, as ring bearer. The groom was attended by Mr. Ernest F. Stettler.

massaline, and carried a shower bouquet of carnations. The rooms of the Brunk home were very prettily decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums and white carnations. A dinner was served immediately after the ceremony, in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Brunk gave a reception for Mr. and Mrs. Ball, who were assisted in receiving by Miss Vivan Anderson. Mr. and Mrs. Ball, who are popular members of the younger set, were the recipients of many handsome gifts.

Informal Musical.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Grant entertained a number of young people very informally last Wednesday evening at their home on Elm Lakes Boulevard. The enjoyable affair took the form of a musical. Mrs. Longley, Miss Kelt, Miss Combs, and Mr. O. Reed rendered delightful solos. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing, and at midnight Mrs. Longley, Mr. Jenkins, and Mr. Grant assisted the hostess in serving a delicious supper.

THE SNAKE RIVER BRIDGE.

The proposed construction of certain lands on the north and south sides of the Snake River, in the vicinity of Shoshone Falls, asked for in the district court by the Twin Falls Railway company, is a matter which should be approached with considerable caution.

That Twin Falls County and all southern Idaho is vitally interested in the construction of a bridge across the Snake between Lincoln and Twin Falls county, is admittedly true, but it is also true that the bridge to be built should be one which will be of the greatest good to the greatest number. In other words, what is wanted is a combination railroad and wagon bridge, constructed under conditions whereby no one company has any monopoly of bridge privileges and which no other railroads entering this section could make use of under certain stipulated conditions—an open bridge.

There is of course no reason to suppose that should the condemnation be ordered, no wagon bridge will be built, or that no other company may operate trains over the structure. But there has been no assurance to the contrary and the matter is of such grave importance to the people of this county that it is well worth looking into.

What is wanted is a public wagon and railroad bridge over the Snake River which shall serve the people of the two counties in a manner to add to the development of this section of Idaho. This the people should have.

An open bridge proposition would be received with hearty support by the people generally, and there is no reason to suppose that this would not prove entirely acceptable to the Twin Falls Railway company, if the matter were brought to their attention. It is not unlikely that state aid could be secured for such a proposition.

THE CHRISTMAS PRESENT SPIRIT.

Let none confound the Christmas present spirit with the Christmas spirit. They are two entirely different things.

The Christmas present spirit can best be described as a sort of halucination which overtakes otherwise sane men and women on the occasion of the greatest of all annual holidays and impels them into a mild competition as to which shall be most successful in giving to friends and acquaintances presents of various kinds, just a little better than those which they receive. Again bear in mind that this has nothing in common with the Christmas spirit of tradition.

The Christmas spirit proper is one of the noblest sentiments of the Christian race. Originating with the birth of the Child of Bethlehem, the story, pure and undefiled, has come down through the ages, symbolic of the Christian life, the highest example of the master type. The annual celebration of the greatest event in the history of the world should fittingly be an occasion for joy and thanksgiving, peace and good will.

Perhaps some outward manifestation of this spirit should fittingly express itself, but many a poor man knows to his sorrow that the Christmas present habit is an expensive one to live up to. Many a child of poverty, asking but little of a gift-giving world, has been robbed of the right to enjoy its little because of the ostentatious generosity of the better-off. To deny a child his bread the spirit of envy and discontent has taken the place of peace and happiness, and many a good mother has wept through the silent watches of a Christmas eve because her little ones could not have as much and as freely as could the children of others, no more deserving.

There is still another angle from which to view the Christmas present spirit. What of the man who, in moderate circumstances, and who would seem to be considered otherwise, yet who prudently lays by such money as he can and often practices a rigid economy in order that he and his family may some day be enabled to reap the reward of their industry in the shape of a few quiet years in the afternoon of life? Does the Christmas present spirit bring peace and good will to such as these?

Does an unnecessary and useless expenditure ever bring happiness? Can it render its recipient or its giver any real service? And, on a large scale, do those who practice this habit enjoy most the giving or the receiving?

The question is as broad as the land and is seemingly worth a little quiet thought. Certain it is that without the elements of selfishness and hypocrisy the practice could not long endure.

THE MAN FOR THE JOB.

The people of Idaho should be deeply interested in the possibility of the portfolio of the Department of the Interior going to Governor Hawley. It is a question if a better selection could be made in the length and breadth of the country.

For years past it has been apparent that a western man was badly needed at the head of this department. Granting this and the choice should logically fall upon Hawley.

There is no man in Idaho better posted on western land conditions, and few with sounder, clearer views on the subject of conservation generally. Governor Hawley has few illusions, or if he has he succeeds remarkably well in concealing them. Under his direction the Department of the Interior would be of real benefit to the West and the East alike. Hawley would be, at all times, the head of the department, a situation conspicuously lacking for some time past.

The views of Governor Blease of South Carolina on the subject of the Constitution appear to be slightly at variance with the general acceptance of that document. Where the Constitution pronounces against the practice of lynch law, Governor Blease says "to hell with the Constitution."

For the honor of American state executives, be it said that no other governor present at the conference of governors where this extraordinary sentiment was announced, agreed with the Governor of South Carolina. A number of ladies among the spectators left the hall. Governor Hawley of Idaho took occasion to voice his exception to the sentiment.

The spirit of reverence toward the American heritage from the founders of the Republic has seldom received a ruder shock. Governor Blease's plea was not for the enforcement of law and order; it was primarily against such enforcement. It was an endorsement of mob rule and therefore a blow at law enforcement. It is unfortunate, yet true, that a great many Southern people will agree, with the sentiment of Governor Blease. These men will take the position that crimes against women can be punished successfully in no other way. That the fear of the law is not sufficient of a deterrent force and that the fear of mob violence is.

There is just one grain of sound reason in the whole remarkable outburst, but it is one which America would do well to heed. There are too many delays in the application of the statutes in these and many other kinds of cases to hold the respect of the body politic as it should be held. There are too many technical loopholes for criminal defense, too much red tape in the administration of justice, too many instances of immunity for the rich and punishment for the small offender.

Let there be law administration which commands the respect of all the people, and those who now favor lynching will be the first to rush to the defense of the Constitution.

But were there five times as many lynchings in America annually, there would still be no excuse for the sentiment of Governor Blease.

A GREAT OPPORTUNITY.

(Spokane Spokesman-Review.)

The Idaho legislature, at its next session, will have no more important duty and no more splendid opportunity of public welfare, than that of stamping out gambling.

This vice is a curse to every community that it festens its foul clutches upon.

It is the mother of thefts and embezzlements. It is the foe of thrift, industry, and foresight. It is the dread of employers of young men, especially of firms, corporations, and banks, whose trusted servants have the handling of large amounts of money.

The gambling done at Alan in connection with the races there annually is a bane to northern Idaho and eastern Washington. Spokane suffers from its hurtful effects on certain classes of its inhabitants. The whole inland Empire has a general concern with the gambling perpetrated at Alan, Idaho and Washington are specially concerned. Washington has pretty well stamped out gambling within its bounds.

Almost every state in the Union has forbidden pool-selling at races.

Progressive Idaho is one of the few commonwealths that lag behind in this reform and progress. The lawmakers of the Gem State should wipe this blot from the good name of Idaho.

Amen to every word of it.

FOR IMMIGRATION COMMISSIONER.

The appointment of Major Fred R. Reed, of Lincoln county, to the post of Immigration Commissioner, at the hands of Governor-elect Haines, should be well received over the state. It is a question if a better man could have been secured for this most important position.

FAMOUS SINGER HERE.

Apello Club Presents E. C. Rowdon and Miss Ethel Terry.

The Apello Club presents Mr. E. C. Rowdon, baritone-soloist, and Miss Ethel Terry, pianist, in concert at the high school auditorium, Friday evening, December 13. Tickets, 50c, 75c, and $1.00 at Shoshone Valley Drug store.

The Apello Club will receive half the proceeds of this concert, the same to be used to defray the running expenses of the club for the season.

Mr. Rowdon and Miss Terry come here with the very highest credentials. They are artists of their line, and Twin Falls is fortunate in having an opportunity to hear them.

Mr. Rowdon is a chorus leader of rare ability, and it is possible he will consider producing Handel's "Messiah" with the talent here.

From the Treasurer State, Helena, Montana.

Miss Terry, who is touring the country with Mr. Rowdon, is an English girl of extraordinary attainments as a pianist. Her playing is harmonious of that same intellectuality which I have found pulsing in the work of so many physically efficient musicians. She has the wide gray eyes, the broad low brow, the large sympathetic mouth that signify mental rather than emotional domination, and her music to the ear for her like it is a grasp of the intellectual over the emotional appeal. She is a cousin of the great Ellen Terry, given of that same nervous, precocious earnestness, in which the great Ellen approached her art; a sincerity almost reverential.—Advertisement.

REED-ACCEPTS POSITION

Southern Idaho Register Will be Immigration Commissioner Under New Administration.

His acceptance of the appointment as commissioner of immigration, labor, and statistics, has been sent by Major Fred R. Reed to Governor-elect Haines. He will succeed the present incumbent, Samuel J. Rich, when the new administration takes office early in January.

For the past 34 years, Major Reed has been closely identified with the development of Idaho. He has been given the title of "Prince of Boosters," and has been one of the most ardent promoters of the interests of large areas in the southern part of this state. The Major, before coming to Idaho, was connected with the Pennsylvania railroad at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

Well Known in Twin Falls.

Although maintaining an office in Wendell, Major Reed is one of the best known men in Twin Falls, south side country. He has been actively engaged in the Salmon River project, and withal has been one of the busy men in southern Idaho.

In making the appointment, Governor-elect Haines is quoted in the Statesman as follows:

"In selecting Major Fred R. Reed of Wendell, for appointment as commissioner of immigration, labor, and statistics, I have had in mind the selection of the one man in the state of Idaho who is best fitted by nature, ability, and training to satisfactorily perform the duties of this important office.

Right Man for the Job.

"It is my opinion that if any man in the state of Idaho can justify the continuance of this office, that man is Major Reed. He will assume the duties of this office with the distinct understanding that he is to conduct the same along strictly business lines and that he is not expected to do any good or bad for his constituents, or have great confidence, however, in his ability, energy, judgment, and discretion, and expect to see him hereafter to the people of Idaho that he can interest $1000 of outside capital and 100 people from other states in the development and settlement of Idaho to over $1.00 and every person so interested by the management of this office as it has been conducted in the past.

Idaho needs capital and it needs settlers. The question to be determined is whether or not the maintenance of this office is an aid in securing them."

DENTON IN CHICAGO

Dan Denton in Chicago now is having loads of fun. He has the people coming "To buy land on the run. The farmers there say "It is true Your lands are now so high, With just the water on them! Well, I'll come and try This is the way Dan talks it. On a forty acre lot, You raise more stuff than we do— I think you got it. Our springs and backward every year, And crops go in so late. The summers are real scorchers To us here in our state. Alfalfa, do you tell me, Goes six ton there or more? That stock they much prefer. It costs us half the price. I'll sell my farm in this corn state, To Idaho I'll go; I'll take a bunch of milk cows, They watch the pure milk flow, I'll sell my butter fat and then To pigs feed my skin milk; To corn in my state, I'll buy more land, This game is fine as silk, I'll have a pick neck working there On city acres, true. I'll raise more stuff for money Than here I ever do; On a quarter section farming, To us the way Dan talks it. This is the way Dan talks it. "Believing all most true, They're coming on an early train, To us in the grand state. With all their loved belongings, With cows and boys aplenty To us in this grand state. In Twin Falls County, Idaho, Before it gets too late— Dan tells tale of our orchards, He has had apples, too, Potatoes then he shows them, Of finest texture true, He has the farmers coming To buy volcanic soil, So hurry to our office, And list that farm of toil, For buyers they are coming, A thousand or more strong, To buy a piece of farming land, For their beloved Dan song. TWIN FALLS EXHIBIT DRAWS AT BIG SHOW

IDAHO IS CENTER OF ATTRACTION
AMONG DISPLAYS.

D. M. Denton, Writer to The News, Telling of the Successes at Chicago—Great Impression Made Upon Visitors.

D. M. Denton, who has had charge of the Twin Falls and southern Idaho exhibit at the Chicago Land Show, has written to The News telling of his success with which that display has met. His letter, under date of December 4, is as follows: "Twin Falls, Idaho Gentlemen: I am glad to advise you that we reached Chicago on the afternoon of November 20th. Our exhibit was found in a small car, after some hours' search. We brought it to the Land Show during the night of November 21st, and on the 22nd we displayed one of the best, if not the best, general exhibit in the Show.

We were very fortunate in getting two booths in a fine location, across the aisle, from Michigan and adjoining the Yakima and South Carolina booths.

Michigan's first exhibit of apples were taken down, for the reason that the stock was inferior and the attention of the general public was not attracted.

We are proud of the fact that our apple exhibit, in general display, is far superior to our neighbors' (the Yakima).

We are showing from eight thousand to twenty thousand each day with results of perhaps five hundred to a thousand actual farmers who are much interested from the fact that they fed our hay during the winter of 1911 and spring of 1912, which is one of the most convincing points that our country is as safe as banking.

Special Idaho Day. We were to have last Sunday as Idaho Day, but in the confusion they got us mixed with Texas, so that it was Texas and Idaho Day combined, but Idaho was only in the neighborhood of a carload of Idaho potatoes, and we were serving Idaho baked potatoes in all of the first class bill-of-fare-entirely. If we could reach, but we have arranged for the coming Sunday, September 8, to be set aside solely and to be known as Idaho Day, and we are going to have a final impression which we trust will be good.

We received home congratulations from our friends from Idaho who have been making our booth their headquarters, also from Mr. Perrin, and one of the principal officers of the schools, who has assisted us a great deal in telling of the one country where there is a chance for all investors.

Hoping that the boosting spirit of the great Twin Falls tract is as heavy as ever, I am,

Very truly yours,
D. M. DENTON.

POSTOFFICE ABOUT READY

New Building is Nearing Completion. "Moose Lodge" Will Move In Soon.

Finishing touches are now being put on the new postoffice building, and both floors will be ready for occupancy before the end of the month. The upper rooms, which will be the home of the Moose Lodge, will be ready next week, but it is probable the lodge will not move to the new quarters before the holidays, pending the arrival of special new furniture. The officials are planning a grand opening of the new lodge rooms when all equipment has been placed.

Postmaster Greenbow, stated yesterday that he expects to have his office in the new building before the close of the holidays, as the lower rooms will be ready by that time. It is expected that the work of handling the increasing amount of mail here will be greatly facilitated in the new quarters, owing to the extra amount of room that will be available.

CHICAGO PHYSICIAN IS STRONG FOR IDAHO

WRITES GLOWING ACCOUNT OF POSSIBILITIES.

Declares All Classes Are Interested to Some Extent in "Back to the Farm" Movement.

After visiting the Twin Falls exhibit, which is now on display at the Chicago Land show, Dr. J. M. Denton, physician of that city, has written his impressions of the exhibit and tells of the influence that it is having upon the Chicago farmers who are paying the exhibit a visit. The letter is as follows:

Chicago, Ill., November 29, 1912.
Editor News: I have been asked by Mr. D. M. Denton to describe to you, to the best of my ability, the Twin Falls exhibit in the Chicago Land show, and to give the impression for which the average city man would be apt to derive from such a display of the products of the farm. First of all let me say that city people can be divided into two classes, viz: those who at some period of their lives have had some knowledge and have a first hand knowledge of agriculture, and those who have no knowledge except from hearsay and from the newspaper. At the present time all city people are more or less influenced over the "back to the land" movement. Scarcely a week goes by without some article appearing in the papers and spending his declining years under "his own vine and fig tree."

After Easy Times. A great many men belong to class number two. I think that farm life means sitting under a shade tree and watching the crops grow. Such people often leave the city for the year, and it is needless to say, one year at a time. They are usually sufficient for themselves. Class number one, composed of men of more or less experience and knowledge of farm life, and usually disappointed over their prospects in the city, are quite likely to succeed. Now the point I wish to make is this: There is something about the Twin Falls exhibit this year that appeals to both classes. For class number one there is the pump wheat and barley, the alfalfa, the fruits of all varieties, potatoes of great size and perfect flavor, and right here let me say, the exhibit "hooey" looks just like corn. It can not convey to the mind of the eastern man, the splendid appearance of stock of all kinds fed upon the alfalfa which can only be raised in an irrigated country, as the juices are not washed away by rains during the process of curing. It seems to me that the photograph of animals taken during the winter months on the alfalfa farms in comparison with others on farms where timothy or clover are fed, would be very instructive.

Monthly Payments Appeal. For class number two, the exhibit is of special interest. One can learn how small monthly payments will buy a fine apple orchard which will be planted, cultivated, and cared for for a period of years by the selling agents. Such inducements have seldom been offered to Chicago people. Perhaps it may interest many of your readers to know that 400 acres were sold mostly to Chicago people last year at Twin Falls. As to the above plan, and that the trees were planted and cultivated in the best possible manner, by the horticulturist, Charles F. Schaefer, for class number two, the apple orchard proposition offers the best possible payment. It does not require the hard work of general farming. Experienced men care for the trees during the critical period. And should life upon an apple ranch become burdensome to the owner, which it is not liable to do, a small per cent of the profits will pay for his care by competent orchard men.

Exhibit Biggest So Far. Having attended every session of the land show for several years, let me say that in my judgment, the present Twin Falls exhibit surpasses all previous ones. For the eastern man and especially to the New Englander, the wheat and flour, with the honey stacked in boxes, how suggestive of home life with the mother on the alfalfa and clover! Does it not make your mouth water? And then to cap the climax, such apples as the giant Humboldt and the side by side with northwest Greenings. Deep red Jonathans, all with a coloring never seen on a non-irrigated apple. I attended an illustrated lecture by Miss Clifford on Twin Falls. The hall was packed. While the lecturer was describing a method of irrigating the crops and showed the pictures illustrating step by step, the division of the water from one canal to another until finally it runs through fields, gardens, and orchards, and as she showed pictures of wonderful crops of grain, alfalfa, clover, small fruits, berries, and apple trees heavily loaded with their burden of ripe fruit, you could have heard a pin drop in any part of the room, such was the interest shown by the audience. The Twin Falls exhibit occupies a position in the building where it is easily seen. I have noticed several of the exhibits in the building, but none pleased them the most, and without a suggestion from me they have been happily answered, "the Twin Falls Exhibit."

HONOR DEPARTING OFFICER

Major and Mrs. Van Hook Are Recipients of Remembrances From Men of Company D.

One of the best social affairs of the season was the "Military Ball" at the Cottleton Hall Thursday night, given by the officers and men of Company D, 1st Cavalry, in honor of Major and Mrs. Van Hook.

In point of artistic and elaborate decorations, the affair was entirely unique. The hall presented an appearance that has probably never been equalled in this city for artistic light effects, and effective, artistic decorations. The main floor predominated with "corners" of color from "corner to corner, shaded lights, and a huge American flag draped in the center of the hall, the balcony being covered with elaborate designs in the national colors.

During the intermission Major Van Hook was presented with a splendid pair of binoculars by the officers and men of the company, and Mrs. Van Hook received a handsome shopping bag. The presentation speech was made by C. M. Booth.

The dance was well attended. Friedman orchestra furnished the music. Lieutenant Kregel, who supervised the decorations of the hall, was the recipient of many compliments on the results of his labors. Major Van Hook and Mrs. Van Hook will leave for the Philippines in the steamer "The Old Man and Jim," connected with the island commandery.

EVENING WITH RILEY

Mr. and Mrs. Giggins Entertain in Honor of Judge Flenner, of Boise.

As the guest of honor, Judge Flenner, of Boise, met with a large number of friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Siggins, on the Boulevard, last Thursday evening. The gathering was entertained by Judge Flenner in his "Riley" interpretations, and by orchestra music. A social time was enjoyed preceding and following the evening's program. Judge Flenner was at his best "with Riley" on this evening. Perhaps his rendition of "The Old Man and Jim," with violin accompaniment by Miss Alfonsa, was his best endeavor of the evening. He varied his selections with poems of humor and pathos, and gave the history of the writing of several of the selections by his favorite author. A number of excellent musical selections were rendered by the Misses Alfonsa, assisted by the Christian church and high school orchestras. On behalf of the host and hostess, and their friends, C. E. Evans expressed appreciation to Judge Flenner and the musicians. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Doan's Kidney Pills were highly recommended to me and I began using them. One box rid me of every bit of kidney trouble in five days. DANE-KELLY MATCH

Fast Ten Round Bout Pitted for Cottleton Hall Next Monday Night.

George Kelly, of Salt Lake, and the Battling Dane, will meet in a ten round boxing match in Cottleton hall next Monday evening, December 16. The mill promises to be a fast one from the start to finish. Both boxers are now in training in this city and are in fine fettle for the go.

Kelly comes to Idaho with a fine record, although he has never before been seen in a match in this state. He has met some of the best boxers in the ring, and the Herald-Herald can mention that he is perhaps the only glove artist in the west who would care to meet the Dane. It further predicts that he will give the Dane all his figures on before the first round.

While Kelly comes with an excellent record, having defeated his last two opponents with a knockout, the Dane still wears his broad smile of confidence, and fully expects to maintain his record.—His recent defeat by the Montana Kid has given the Dane a victory over a stock boss among the local followers of the game. On the other hand, Kelly is confident of beating the Dane. At any rate, the boxing fans will no doubt see one of the best mill's ever staged in Twin Falls. A good boxing preliminary is being arranged. Both boxers are now in daily practice under the La Clede, and the public is invited to watch them work. The Dane trains from 2:30 to 3:30, and Kelly from 3:30 to 4:30.

It is the endeavor of the management of the game in Twin Falls to work it up to a high standard of good, clean sport.

Cottolene

The little tots are always fond of pastry, but if made from lard it's bound to be greasy and indigestible, and isn't good for their little stomachs; if made from butter, it's too expensive—at present butter prices.

is far better than lard because it is a vegetable product, never makes food greasy, never causes indigestion. It is the equal of butter at about one-third the price. So why be extravagant?

Feed the "kiddies" their fill of pastry—if made from Cottolene it won't harm them.

Cottolene is both economical and healthful.

BUT FEW CHANGES IN OFFICIAL COUNT

WILSON AND HAINES, BOTH, GAIN ON FIRST RETURNS.

Vote a Surprise in Many Parts of the State—Total Vote About 106,000.—Big Plurality and Majorities Secured.

As a last word of the recent election, the official count of the vote throughout the state shows little change from that as announced in the various counties at the time of the election. President-elect Wilson gained five votes in the official count, giving him a plurality over President Taft in this state of 1,111. Governor-elect John M. Haines gained 32 over the vote first announced, carrying the state over Governor James W. Hawley by a plurality of 7,142.

The Progressive vote was a surprise in many sections of the state, being more in some, and less in others, than had been predicted. The Socialists polled about one-ninth of the vote of the state. The Prohibition vote was less than at the previous election.

The result of the election as regards the other state offices are practically the same as announced at the completion of the county canvass. Burton L. French leads the Republican ticket having a plurality of 23,311 over Perry W. Mitchell, the high Democratic candidate for congress. Addison T. Smith won over Mitchell for congress by a plurality of 12,742. Miss Shephard, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, defeated Miss Harper, her Democratic opponent, by the majority of 14,408. For majority was the highest among the state offices, and Robert Bell, Republican candidate for state militia inspector, carried off having a plurality of 12,743 over Lambert, his Democratic opponent.

Judge Stewart defeated Arthur M. Bowen, Democrat, for justice of the supreme court by a majority of 6,747. Herman H. Taylor, for lieutenant governor, defeated Parker, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, won by 9,768; Huston, Republican candidate for state auditor, won by 9,137; Allen, Republican candidate for state treasurer, won by 8,814; and Peterson, Republican candidate for attorney general, won by 8,723.

Prohibition vote, which will amount to about 1,200 in the state. This is a larger vote than was anticipated, owing to the weather conditions on election day.	President	32,810

IMPORT FINE STOCK

Boone Brothers' Bjing Record Guernsey Bull From Wisconsin—Carries Best of Pedigree.

A. C. Boone and E. C. Boone, who reside west of this city, have recently secured from Wisconsin breeders of Guernsey bull calf of unusual pedigree, as a beginning of high class full-blooded stock on the farm. The bull, Day of the Houli, Guernsey, was born September 17, 1912. It was sired by Marcius Greenwood of Pinesburg, A. R., the world's record Guernsey bull of his race. His dam, Day of the Houli's, imported, has a record of 26 quarts of milk, feeding 7-3. The first two daughters of the sire have recorded at two years in 11,742.2 pounds of milk; and 534.74 pounds butter fat, and 11,619.3 pounds of milk, and 510.65 pounds butter fat, respectively.

EASY TO SQUELCH

Mrs. Susan Wheeler, the new mayor of Layton, Wyo., was squelching an anti-franchise argument, says the Washington Star.

"But, indeed," she ended, "these sort of arguments are easy to squelch. They are all on a par. They have about as much real truth in them as the argument of the old fellow who to prove man's superiority, said: 'Man's baldness is another proof. Man goes bald because his brain is alive working.' Whereas woman—she don't never go bald."

He took out a plug of tobacco, waved it scornfully in the air, bit off a large chew, and said: "Also, girls, by following up the same line of argument, we see that the reason why woman can't raise whiskers is because her jaw is silly working!"

Fit His Case Exactly.

"When father was sick about six years ago I read an advertisement of Chamberlain's Tablets in the paper that fit his case exactly," writes Miss Margaret Campbell of Ft. Smith, Ark. "He purchased a box of them and he has not been sick since. My sister had stomach troubles and was cured by them." For sale by all dealers.

CARD OF THANKS

"We wish to thank the friends who did so much for our dear husband and father during his sickness and death. The regret that we could not be the one to care for him at this time, is made void by knowing our efforts could not have been better done."

We greatly appreciate the sympathy and sentiment shown to all the funeral arrangements, as befitting a pioneer settler and good friend.
