BORAH WINS ON FIRST BALLOT

HOUSE AND SENATE RETURN SOLID REPUBLICAN VOTE

Albani and Brady... Run Neck and Neck in Race for Short Term

Little Change

(Special to The News)

Boise, January 15.—Senator Borah scored a remarkable triumph in the legislature on Tuesday. He was elected to succeed himself in the United States for the full term of six years, by the vote of every Republican in the legislature, with the exception of two—Nihart of Twin Falls and Rosebery, of Elmore, both of whom are sick.

Borah's senator was in his seat when the hour of noon arrived. Senator John W. Hart, who placed Senator Borah in nomination, six years ago, performed a like service on this occasion, speaking in the highest terms of the brilliant record of the power and the influence of the Idaho senator.

There were many cheering speeches and on the roll call every Republican in the chamber, 21 in all, voted for Borah. In the house, Representatives of the same party as the senator in nomination, and on the Farmers Attending Movable School Entertained at Lunch in Commercial Club Rooms.

The farmers who are attending the sessions of the movable school yesterday held in the club rooms. About 15 residents of various sections of the county sat down with the members of the club to an excellent table prepared by the ladies of the Twentieth Century club. Tables were arranged in all the rooms of the club to accommodate the large crowd.

Following the luncheon, addresses were made by Hon. H. Parsons, state horticultural inspector, and W. H. Olin, of the state university and secretary of the movable school. Mr. Parsons complimented the farmers of the Southern Idaho Producers' association, explaining its purpose and pointing out the advantages of its farm-to-market plan. He would result from its operations, and urged that the matter be given thoughtful consideration. Mr. Olin complimented the residents of this city and tract on the remarkable growth that has taken place during the last few years and predicted a prosperous development in the next few years. Professor Elliott presided during the speaking hour.

H. Seaver and E. J. Ostrander rendered much assistance to the club ladies in the dinner arrangements.

OFFICES ARE MOVED.

The offices of the Ferguson Fruit and Land company have been removed from the former Hotel building to the second floor of the new Booth building on Shoshone street. The offices of the Hooker-Wilburt company, associated with the fertilizer and fertilizer interests, have moved into the rooms vacated by the Ferguson Fruit and Land company.

STATE GAME WARDEN DECLARES COLORADO MAN OFF ON FISH THEORY

Frank M. Kendall, deputy state game warden, takes exception to the statement of S. B. Land, fish culturist of Colorado, that he, Kendall, claimed that suckers in Idaho streams catch the trout eggs and that "sleeps about the same as a natural trout food is absolutely at their disposal."

should be removed from the streams. I am not a fish man and do not speak on matters with which I am not fully informed. I will say this, however, that Mr. Land's theory does not fit the case in Idaho. If I were to dump a lot of suckers in the trout streams, I should expect to find them in the streams. It would not last long. Sportmen all over Idaho are absolutely opposed to any such step. I would like to ask Mr. Land, or any other man who has a theory, if he would advocate the policy of the state fish and game department—putting carp and suckers in trout streams, where we have no suckers? I wonder where we have no suckers? I have been placed in a false position throughout the state.

MOVABLE SCHOOL IS ATTRACTING MANY

SESSIONS AT HIGH SCHOOL ARE BEING WELL ATTENDED.

Farmers Receiving Able Instruction From Best Teachers in State—Sessions to Continue Through Saturday—Two Days Remain.

The movable school of agriculture, under the direction of the extension department of the state university, opened its sessions in the high school auditorium last Monday morning, and will continue until Saturday afternoon. A large number of the farmers of the state are availing themselves of the opportunity of receiving instruction from the leading agricultural and horticultural teachers and experts in the state, and the school has proven a decided success.

An interesting and beneficial feature of the school is the special table discussion following the various lectures. Many attending the school have expressed themselves that more benefit is being derived from this school than from any other extension school in this city. All sessions are being largely attended.

Monday Morning.

At the opening session, on Monday morning, Professor C. C. Vinson, of the agricultural department of the state university, discussed the subject of planning and planting of orchards. Best adapted fruits, cultivation, site, selection of trees, and systems of planting were thoroughly taken up and the results of continued experiments and observations were laid out in plain language, with a good natural drainage, according to Professor Vinson, are the first essentials in the planting of orchards.

Professor C. H. Hoard, of the agricultural department of the Twin Falls high school, followed Professor Vinson in discussing the subject of sheep farming. He stated that the soil of southern Idaho is ideally adapted for the growing of small fruits. This class of fruit on the whole thrives better in a soil more or less

TWIN FALLS MEN TAKE ACTION

STRONG OPPOSITION TO PROPOSED DIVISION OF LINCOLN COUNTY DEVELOPS AS RESULT OF VISIT OF NORTH SIDE LAND OWNERS.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED ASKING CO-OPERATION OF DELEGATES

Present Plan to Make Three Counties Out of One Declared to Be Inimical to Best Interests of North Side Settlers of Jerome and Wendell—Justice of Proposition Alleged by Representative Business Men—Many South Siders Sign Petition.

THE RESOLUTION.

WHEREAS, At a meeting held in our Commercial Club rooms, we had laid before us by a committee of citizens from the Lincoln County North Side Tract, their reasons for protesting in a body against the division of Lincoln County as now proposed by the State Legislature, and WHEREAS, It appears to us from facts and figures submitted that an unjust burden might be laid upon these people as a result of such a division, in which, so far, they seem to have had no voice, and WHEREAS, We as citizens and taxpayers of Twin Falls County have many interests in common with these settlers in Lincoln County, in the guarding of our mutual interests, both personal and civic, therefore

BE IT RESOLVED: That we, your constituents of Twin Falls County, urge upon you as our representatives in the Legislature of our State, to give these 150 protesting citizens of said North Side tract and adjoining Carey Act tracts, a fair and impartial hearing, to the end that they be allowed to present their case in full.

At a well-attended meeting of Twin Falls citizens held at the Commercial Club Monday evening the matter of the proposed division of Lincoln county was taken up and discussed, and a resolution passed making it the sense of the meeting that the legislative delegation from Twin Falls county make a thorough investigation of the desire of the voters of Lincoln county regarding division in that county before final action is taken on the bill providing for the cut.

The opposition to the measure was represented by E. G. Reed, William Wagner, W. A. Heiss, R. H. Trull, and

BUHL WILL BE ON LINE TO BOISE

LATEST PLANS PROVIDE JUNCTION POINT NEAR BERGER.

One Branch to Cross River to West, While the Other Continues on Through Twin Falls to Idaho Falls.

That both the towns of Buhl and Twin Falls will be important points on the proposed new railroad, is clear from the recommendations of engineers now engaged in preliminary work in connection with the building of the Twin Falls, Oakland & San Francisco railroad.

According to plans so far developed, as given out by Dr. T. O. Boyd, president of the company, yesterday a junction point on the new line will be established somewhere in the vicinity of the town of Berger, from which point the line will continue on to Buhl and thence across the river and on to Boise, the other branch continuing to Twin Falls, east through the town of Milner, and others in this county, to Idaho Falls, where it is expected a connection will be made with the Northwestern, now engaged in making surveys towards the latter point.

Investigations so far made indicate that this program is entirely feasible and the entire railroad proposition is meeting with hearty support locally in Twin Falls, but among the farmers and residents of other towns in the county.

Word received yesterday from Geo. D. Allen, an official of the new road, who has been in Boise for the past few days, is to the effect that the Boise Commercial Club is greatly interested in the road and is actively willing to lend its assistance to the cause. A member of the club will be named at a later date who will come to Twin Falls to take part in the campaign of education which is being planned for this section. Mr. Allen said Tuesday night for Idaho Falls, with excellent arrangements for giving the hearty support of the club of that city, and obtaining the services of a representative to assist in the movement at Twin Falls.

Mr. Allen is expected to return to Twin Falls the latter part of the week.

LIVELY OPPOSITION AT STATE CAPITAL

PROPOSED DIVISION OF LINCOLN COUNTY ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Strong Efforts Being Made to Checkmate the Plans of Those Favoring Three Way Cut.

(Special to The News.)

Boise, January 15.—There is a lively and determined opposition to the proposed division of Lincoln county, and it is making itself felt here, to the consternation and annoyance of those who favor the proposition. It appears to have very pronounced and logical cause, which is commanding the respect and attention and will receive the consideration of the legislature. The representatives of the opposition from Lincoln county have been assured by leading members of the legislature that they will be accorded a full hearing and that no snap judgment will be taken.

The objectors to the proposed division, as so far as affects the north side tract is concerned, take their position mainly for the same reasons that the people of the south side tract would oppose a proposed division of Twin Falls county, that would partition the assessable wealth and voting strength of that tract among three new counties which would have to have the wealth to reach the constitutional requirements and the voters in their other business. These conditions are obvious to any South side booster upon a moment's reflection.

PARTNERSHIP DISSOLVED.

Last week the partnership existing between J. J. Buntion and W. J. Buttolph, and known as the Buttolph-Monroe Shoe store, was dissolved. Mr. Buttolph will continue the business in its present location under the name of The Buttolph Shoe store. Mr. Monroe has not yet decided what his future plans are, but expects to remain in Twin Falls. That the business on joyed by the old firm will be continued under the proprietorship of Mr. Buttolph is assured.

MAN'S FIRST SIN.

Gen. 3: 1-12, 22-24.

1. Now the serpent was more subtle than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made. And he said unto the woman, Yea, hath God said, You shall not eat of every tree of the garden?

2. And the woman said unto the serpent, We may eat of the fruit of the trees of the garden:

3. But of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God hath said, You shall not eat of it, neither shall you touch it, lest you die:

4. And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die:

5. For God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil.

6. And when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, and she also gave unto her husband with her:

7. And the eyes of them both were opened, and they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together, and made themselves aprons.

8. And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day; and Adam hid himself from the presence of the Lord God amongst the trees of the garden.

9. And the Lord God called unto Adam, and said unto him, Where art thou?

10. And he said, I heard thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself.

11. And he said, Who told thee that thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded that thou shouldst not eat?

12. And the man said, The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat.

13. And the Lord God said, Behold, the man is become as one of us, to know good and evil; and he hath hid himself from the face of the Lord God, and he is seen.

14. Therefore the Lord God sent him forth from the Garden of Eden, to till the ground from whence he was taken:

15. So he drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the Garden of Eden cherubim, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.

Golden Text—'Whosoever commiteth sin is the servant of sin.'—John 8:34.

This chapter was written by a master of the human heart. He had been deeply impressed by the story of the endless fall of man, the pain of the woman, the death which lies at the end for all, and here he seeks to explain the cause of this tragedy. The story abounds in primitive conceptions; in its garden with the wondrous trees, its God who walks up and down the garden in the cool of the day, its speaking serpent, its strange cherubim figures, and its mysterious flaming sword which kept the gates of paradise, we feel that we are on a sort of enchanted ground; but behind these conceptions which belong rather to the realm of religious poetry and primitive imagination than to history, lies the profound moral and religious ideas. Man, according to the story, was in Paradise; nothing is more certain than that he is not there now. How came he to be cast out? The answer is that the cause of the expulsion was his own sin; and in its delineation of the nature, origin, and progress of sin in the human heart, in its psychological analysis of religious power, this ancient narrative has never been surpassed.

It is easy to see how the serpent came to be the cause of the fall. He is strictly an animal—a beast which crawls upon its belly (verse 14); but in his spirit it is evil, hostile to God and man; and with its glittering eye, its sinuous coils, its stealthy motion, its horrible fascination, it is a peculiarly fitting symbol of temptation, especially because its appearance to the woman as more susceptible than the man, and insinuating doubts about the character of God, "Thou God art after her and her husband in a beautiful garden; but he had restricted them in the use of its fruit, and this restriction created somewhat of a tragedy, of jealousy. To eat of the mysterious tree would raise them to the level of God himself, and the jealous God could not allow that. The subtle serpent stimulated the woman's curiosity. She looked wistfully at the tree till, fascinated by its beauty, its mystery, its promise and potency, she yielded and fell.

There is not a more profound and summary analysis anywhere of temptation in its various phases than that contained in verse 6. The tree was (1) good for food; (2) a delight to the eyes; (3) desirable to make one wise; here its temptation, making the desire of a sensuous impulse, an aesthetic enjoyment, an intellectual ambition. Before the temptation the woman fell, but the man was immediately involved in her fall—another fine touch; so holds the key to his destiny. "No wonder" the sin committed then the loud voice of God and conscience is heard; and it throes the culprit's attempt to escape it. But from it there is no escape. In one or two striking pictures the ugly fact of their deliberate disobedience is laid bare, and they stand self-condemned before the God who had made them. Here the picture is drawn with marvellous fidelity to the facts of human nature. The man is at once cowardly and insolent. First he hides, then he throws the blame upon the woman and even upon God himself; for "it was you woman," he says, "that gave me the picture is drawn with marvellous fidelity to the facts of human nature. The man is at once cowardly and insolent. First he hides, then he throws the blame upon the woman and even upon God himself; for "it was you woman," he says, "that gave me the sulted, but he can not be deceived; and when he notes for disobedience are sorrow and death. So in solemn words, which have the rhythm of poetry, the judge pronounced sentence: death for the serpent, pain and sorrow for the woman; bitter toil for the man, and death at the last for both; and, while they live, perpetual exclusion from the beautiful garden of Paradise whose gates are to be henceforth guarded by mighty angelic hosts, and a whirling sword of fire, which will effectually keep the sinners from the tree of life, that tree of which if they had consented to eat, they would have lived forever.

A spirit of the intensest moral earnestness pervades the story. It does not describe the first sin, but rather the essence and effects of sin. Sin is disobedience to conscience and to the laws of God; it is that which has darkened the eyes and brought into pain, misery, and death. The teaching of the story is well summed up by Professor A. B. Gordon, of Montreal, in his "History of Genesis" (1901, p. 102): "The subtle temptation, the thought of the pleasantness of the forbidden good, the chiding of the spirit against the limitations God has seen fit to impose, the secret pleasure found in doing the wrong, the drawing of another into partnership in the thing, the sudden quickening of consciousness, the feeling of shame and guilt, the trouble of conscience, the self-justification in God's eyes, the desire to be 'hid away from his face, and the childish attempt to pass over the blame to another.—All this is a transcript from real experience."

STEADFAST CONFIDENCE

The Following Statement Should Form Conclusive Proof of Merit to Every Twin Falls Reader:

Could stronger proof of the merit of my remedy be desired than the statements of grateful sufferers who say their confidence has been undiminished by lapse of time? These are the kind of statements that are appearing constantly in your local papers for Doan's Kidney Pills. They are twice-told and confirmed with new enthusiasm. Can any reader doubt the following? It is from a resident of this locality.

Robert Coates, retired farmer, Shoshone, Idaho, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint and backaches. When I stooped I had sharp, shooting pains through the small of my back and I could hardly move without misery. The secretions from my kidneys were irregular in passage, especially at night. I couldn't sleep well and I was very nervous. I also had headaches and dizzy spells and I noticed sediment in the kidney secretions. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me and I have been well and vigorous since. I think just as highly of Doan's Kidney Pills as when I first recommended them in 1907." For sale by all dealers.
