Jelly Roll Recipe

Only Two Eggs Required

By Mrs. Janet McKenney Hill, Editor of the Cooking School Magazine

This Jelly Roll is fast becoming very popular on account of the way it keeps fresh. With proper handling it should keep up to a week, providing it isn't eaten up in the meantime, for it is every bit as good as it looks.

K C Jelly Roll

One egg sifted flour scant half teaspoonful salt a level teaspoonful K C Baking Powder 1 cup sugar 1 egg beaten light 1 cup sugar 1/2 cup milk 1/2 glass of jelly powdered sugar

Beat the eggs into the sugar, add the lemon rind, then the flour, sifted three times with the salt and baking powder, and, lastly, the milk. Bake in a buttered cake pan, turn out on a dam cloth, trim off the crisp edges; spread with jelly and turn over and over into a roll while still warm. Drizzle the top with powdered sugar.

Hot milk used in the jelly roll enables it to be rolled without danger of cracking. Have the milk scalding hot, also be careful to have the cake and sugar beaten together until very light and creamy. Bake in a moderate oven.

K C Jelly Roll is illustrated on page thirty-two of the new and handsomely illustrated 64-page K C Cook's Book, which may be secured free by sending the certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the Jagers Bros. Co., Chicago, Ill.

He will make a series of addresses in the southeastern part of this state next week. As a recognition of his ability, Professor Holden is receiving the highest esteem at this time in the east as the likely secretary of agriculture in the cabinet of Wilson's cabinet. As a speaker he is entertaining as well as instructive, and the farmers of the tract and all others interested in farming should avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing Professor Holden next Tuesday.

CAIN AND ABEL.

Genesis 4: 1-15.

1. And Adam knew Eve, his wife, and she conceived, and bare Cain, and said, I have gotten a man from the Lord.

2. And she again bare his brother Abel. And Abel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.

3. And in process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground as an offering unto the Lord.

4. Abel, he also brought of the firstlings of his flock and of the fat thereof. And the Lord had respect unto Abel and to his offering.

5. But unto Cain and to his offering he had not respect. And Cain was very wroth, and his countenance fell.

6. And the Lord said unto Cain, Why art thou wroth? and why is thy countenance fallen?

7. If thou doest well, shalt thou not be accepted? and if thou doest not well, shalt thou not be rejected? and unto thee shall be his desire, and thou shalt rule over him.

8. And Cain said to Abel his brother, and it came to pass, that when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel, his brother, and slew him.

9. And the Lord said unto Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? And he said, I know not; Am I my brother's keeper?

10. And he said, What hast thou done? the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground.

11. And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receive thy brother's blood from thy hand.

12. And when thou tillest the ground, it shall not henceforth yield unto thee its strength; a fugitive and a wanderer shalt thou be in the earth.

13. And Cain said unto the Lord, My punishment is greater than I can bear.

14. Behold, thou hast driven me out this day from the face of the earth, and from thy face shall I be hid; and I shall be a fugitive and a wanderer in the earth; and it shall come to pass, that every one that findeth me shall slay me.

15. And the Lord said unto him, A sign shall be set between thee and thy brother, and thou shalt be taken on him, and thou shalt be marked on Cain, lest any finding him should slay him.

16. And the Lord said, Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer. —1 John 3: 15.

Expository.

1. How long a time intervened between our last lesson and the present we do not know. It was not till after their sin that the angels descended. He was born of parents who had sinned, and he inherited their nature. It was his birthright to be a sinner. True when her first son was born Eve thought that she had now a man who would be the head of the serpent, as was said in chapter 3: 15.

2. When her second son was born, she called him Abel, that is, "breath," as though she had been disappointed in the case of Cain, and thought of this second son as uncertain. Cain dug up and planted the ground, gathered the crops and acted the part of farmer, while Abel turned his attention to cattle and sheep.

3. We are not told how Cain and Abel had become when they brought their offerings, nor who taught them to bring offerings. We are left to conclude that they had become full grown men, as that they were engaged in regular work, sowing and reaping and gathering grain, tending and tending flocks and herds. As has been said already, it is highly probable that God taught Adam and Eve to offer animals in sacrifice; and thus purified the blood of the "Lamb of God" who taketh away the sins of the world. (see John 1:29). Cain knew that such was the offering which God required, but he dared to offer something else. He may have excused himself by saying that he brought what he had, and thought God ought to be satisfied with that.

4. Abel brought just what God had hidden him to bring. He brought not only the firstborn of his flock, but the best, the fattest of the flock. He did not scruple to pour out the blood in sacrifice, because he had been told that with such a sacrifice God was well pleased. Just how God showed his regard we are not told. Possibly it was by sending fire from heaven and burning up the offering, as is in the case of Elijah on Mount Carmel.

5. The offering of the dying favor bestowed upon Abel and his offering were withheld from Cain; so that Cain was made aware of the lack of the divine favor. He showed his displeasure in his countenance. He had put himself on an equality with God, virtually telling God how he should be worshipped, and declaring by his acts that what he gave was good enough, and ought to satisfy the divine requirements. He had practically said that God should take that or nothing.

6. God condescended to hold a conversation with Cain, to expostulate with him and try to show him his error, and how great was his folly. He comes to him and asks him about this thing.

7. The passage is regarded as difficult. The form of the words in the Hebrew, as in the English, is such that it is difficult to determine exactly what is meant. And yet we can see a reasonable meaning in them. It seems to be as though God had said, "If thou doest well, thy good deeds will not fail thee; but if thou doest not well, sin is a crushing lion lying at thy door ready to spring upon thee whenever thou appearest." The man who dares go in the face of God's commandment must do it at his peril.

8. So we see that Cain did not repent, did not believe God, did not turn from his evil way. Soon after, he sold an occasion to quarrel with his brother. He hated God, and he hated his brother, whom God had favored.

9. He was conscious of his own sinfulness, but dared to think that he was better than Abel. John, in his First Epistle, 3: 12, tells us why Cain slew Abel—"Because his own works were evil, and his brother's were good." We can see that the evil spirit exhibited by boys at school, and by men in business and social life, it is a terribly wicked spirit. He who is a murderer of his fellow men, but he is a hater of God also, and he would defame God, if he could. Just noted that the very first child born into the world was one of the greatest sinners who ever lived.

10. God saw it all. He knew where Abel was. But he wanted to bring out a confession on Cain's part, and thus give him opportunity to repent and turn from his wicked way.

11. He now ready to tell a positive lie. He does not flinch. He has begun and he will brave it out. He is a lying murderer. He tries to get rid of further assurance by asking God if it is duty to care for his brother, to know where his brother is. (Cain is a very bad man. How often just such things are done, nowadays.)

12. God tells Cain very distinctly that his sin is known, and that, if he repents, he may be saved. The blood of Abel was a voice calling from the ground for vengeance on the murderer. It was not to prevent Cain from committing murder in the future, but to punish him for what he had already done, that God said these things to him, and pronounced upon him the curse.

13. Not only God uttered a curse upon Cain; the earth had taken her part of the slain brother and had uttered a curse against him. As more than that, the earth had been more tender and kind than the brother had been, for she had absorbed the blood so that it could not be seen by the passerby. All this is figurative language, but it is very expressive.

14. Cain should know that when his crops failed—these things for which he might labor—it would be a token to him of the hatred of the earth of his crime. He might get some kind of crop, but he would not be able to otherwise have gathered. A murderer ought to have no resting place on earth. He has sent another human being out of it, and he must be right that the earth should refuse to give him any place.

15. Cain was now overwhelmed. He did not repent of his sin, but he complained of the penalty. Instead of being bowed down under a sense of his wrongdoing, he thought of himself as being under a burden of punishment for which God was responsible, rather than himself. He cared for nothing else, so that he might escape the full weight of his punishment. We would hardly expect a murderer to utter such a complaint. The man who can commit a murder ought to be brave and to stand up to what he has done. He should be a coward. But most murderers are cowards. They are very guilty white men who the day of retribution will be seen.

16. Everything connected with the character and conduct of Cain is adapted to make us despair of him. But it was sin that did it all.

Weekly Live Stock Letter.

Rumh's City Stock Yards, January 18-1913. Cattle received here this week 42,000, last week 38,000, same week last year 39,000. Fed calves above the middle class sold a little higher than last week, but not so steady. The lower half of the steer offerings sold steady to firm this week because of a good demand from buyers for feeding purposes to go on feed. Butcher kinds have held steady to strong this week, except a little weakness on hollers, which was largely with the heavy class that has disappeared. Stock grades continue in great demand, feeders are scarce. The market on these classes is a little higher for the week. The general market is closing the week today with signs of strength, though the small supply of hogs does not test it in all branches. Supply and demand is evenly balanced, and any falling off in the run would be immediately followed today. Market conditions are such that cattle will be short for a number of weeks, and there may be short periods of unwarmed liquidation and consequent price depression. The market for hogs sold this week at $7.65, $7.50 and $7.25, prices unequalled before. Meal fed prices from the South sold at $4.25 to $4.50, but they were not much different from last week.

Hogs received here this week 59,000, last week 53,000, same week last year 50,000. Monday was the high spot this week, and today is the high spot, 10-cents above yesterday, top $7.45, bulk $7.20 to $7.40. The recent heavy supply of hogs has been a new low on the job, preventing a rise and dollar-hogs as justly as for. But it will be difficult to maintain present prices under and substantial increase in supplies.

Sheep received here this week 45,000, last week 35,000, same week last year 30,000. Monday was the high spot this week, and today is the high spot, 10-cents above yesterday, top $7.45, bulk $7.20 to $7.40. But it will be difficult to maintain present prices under and substantial increase in supplies.

On Friday night. There was a large crowd and an enjoyable time is reported. The local firemen, at their regular monthly business meeting, perfected the new fire alarm system, which was adopted on the 15th of January. After the business "spread" was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Johnson entertained last night a number of friends at dinner Sunday. Six cars of hogs were shipped from here on Thursday morning, to Portland market. Ralph Vance, of Twin Falls, spent Sunday in Boise with friends. A new survey to be made by the California electric railway company, the proposed route going due west from Boise through Deep Creek and then south. Miss Martha Snyder, one of the Springfield teachers, spent the week end at her home in Twin Falls.

HANSEN.

Hansen, January 20-J. A. Fulton returned from Nevada, Oregon, where he went on business. Attorney C. M. Booth, of Twin Falls, returned from his trip to Portland, Oregon, where he went on business. Mrs. Mark White entertained the Methodist Ladies Aid on Thursday. Mrs. J. R. Cairnes was hostess at the home of Mrs. W. H. Fulton. The announcement has been received here of the marriage of Miss Maudie Becker, a former teacher in the high school, to Mr. N. Fulton, of Charles City, Iowa. Mrs. R. H. Hays entertained the "600" club on Thursday evening. Misses Ruth Greenleaf and Miriam Smith visited in Twin Falls Friday. The high school, seventh and eighth grades have moved into the new $65,000 school building which is just completed. The Tuesday Club met with Mrs. Tom Fritcher. Twenty-one members were present. Mrs. C. E. Boyer gave a paper on "The Property Rights Law." Mrs. Ulmermark as well as Mrs. Claude Bagg had interesting papers. Fritcher led in parliamentary drill. A. V. ## 2 Week in Society

Beautifully Appointed Luncheon.
Mrs. C. W. Welton entertained the members of her bridge club at a beautifully appointed luncheon last Thursday, at her home on Second avenue. The delicious repast was followed by bridge. Mrs. Craven winning the prize for the club members. Mrs. Phillips, having high score among the guests of the club; also received a prize, and Mrs. Morris of Shelton, Nebraska, was presented with a bouquet of carnations. The luncheon was served at a long table, which had for its centerpiece a basket filled with gorgeous deep red carnations and ferns, the red shaded candles further carrying out the color scheme. The polished oaken top was covered with doilies and centerpiece of Venetian lace. Place cards were arranged for Mrs. Aiken, Mrs. Boyd, Mrs. Craven, Mrs. McCollum, Mrs. Robbins, Mrs. Read, Mrs. Felling, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Porter, Miss Boyd and Miss McDermott.

Pleasant Dinner Party.
Mrs. H. W. Clouchak, entertained the members of her bridge club at dinner last evening, followed by a card party. The table was decorated with a red and white, the centerpiece being a basket filled with carnations. Mrs. Aiken and Mrs. McCollum received prizes for high score. Present were Mrs. and Mrs. Felling, Mrs. and Mrs. McCollum, Mrs. and Mrs. Swelley, Mrs. and Mrs. Aiken, Mrs. and Mrs. Welton, and Mrs. and Mrs. Allen.

Delightful Kensington.
On Friday afternoon Mrs. C. W. Welton and her mother, Mrs. Porter, entertained about twenty ladies at a delightful Kensington. The tea table was set with scalloped linens, the Venetian centerpiece forming a handsome background for the large basket of deep red carnations and the shaded candles. Mrs. T. O. Boyd and Mrs. P. J. Costello presided at the tea table, and Miss Lydia Boyd also assisted the hostesses in the dining room. Miss Elsie Rogers, rendered several delightful instrumental solos during the afternoon.

Two Informal Dinner Parties.
Mr. and Mrs. Willet-Hansen entertained informally at dinner last Wednesday evening, and again on Monday evening, complimentary to Mr. Edward Hens of Chicago, who has been visiting here during the past week. A pretty arrangement of ferns centered the table for both occasions.

Miss Eleanor Deiss delightfully entertained a few of her friends Saturday afternoon at her home on Blue Lake boulevard. Five hundred was Those present were Misses Bess Warner, Gladys Dwight, Emily Wall, Edna Beauchamp, Dorothy Adams, Charlotte Wyker, Pauline Ford, Loretta Sundae, Mabel Banks, and Mary Douglas.

Informal Bridge Party.
On Tuesday evening, Mrs. McCollum and Mrs. Aiken entertained a dozen guests informally at bridge, at the home of the latter, the affair being in the nature of a neighborhood party. CLUBS

Mrs. H. W. Clouchak, the Second Vice President, presided at the meeting of the Twentieth Century Club, which was held in the auditorium of the high school Tuesday afternoon. After a short business session, Mrs. Spangler took charge of the program for the afternoon, which proved very enjoyable. The afternoon's entertainment was patterned after a club magazine, and while every "page" was good, the children's page, and the original poem by Mrs. Robbins, called forth the greatest applause. The frontispiece, "Idyll," was a pretty poem by Mrs. Ken. This was followed by the collection of Mrs. Spangler. Mrs. Cies Robbins' original poem entitled "As the Days Go By" was decidedly clever and well rendered, and the author was forced to respond to an encore. Mrs. Nixon read a very interesting paper entitled "Our Club," and Mrs. Winter read a paper, "How I Run My Farm," which was prepared by Mrs. Nelson Palmer, and which contained many excellent suggestions. Mrs. Dixon, the editor of the "Query Column," was not at the meeting, and her paper was cleverly given by Mrs. J. H. Barker. The musical page, under the direction of Mrs. Regan, was also very good. The songs were sung on a large sheet, with the centers of the notes cut out, the spaces being filled with the blackened faces of 8 members of the musical department, who sang "Old Black Joe." They also responded to an encore.

The first number on the children's page was given by little Ernest Mullins, Eugene Nims, and Edwin Higgins, who came in dressed as "Olden little dandies" and sang "Mama's in the Cold, Cold Ground." Their sweet little voices blended exceedingly well, and their acting was equal to that of many professionals. These were the pupils of Miss Joleen Combs, to whom belongs the credit for their splendid training. The next number was given by four little members of Miss Kalle's class—Mary Dow, Audrey Baker, Malcher-Priebe, and Lyle Thompson, who danced very prettily. The last number was a brownie song and dance, very well given by Misses Bess Warner, Nellie Howe, Doris Porterfield, Georgia Stewart, Helen Friedman, Zola Heine, and Mildred Conway.

Twentieth Century Club Notes.
Despite the inclement weather, nineteen members of the Parliamentary Department assembled at the regular meeting held at the Presbyterian church, Saturday afternoon, January 19.

Mrs. Moore had charge of the meeting and Mrs. Deane resumed her old post as secretary.

Mrs. Moore appointed Mrs. Harriett Monroe to take the chair and preside over the meeting.

Many subjects of civic interest were creditably dealt with.

Parliamentary work was then begun. Mrs. Moore resuming leadership explaining and demonstrating many important points.

The program for the work of the afternoon was given into the hands of the Program Committee, Mesdames Hall, Stettler, Cox, and Adams, who handled the work of mass meeting, permanent meeting, and committee of the whole very creditably.

This department is preparing a large program for their Club Day on the afternoon of March 4, assisted by the faculty of the Conservatory of Music.
