Crisp Appealing Saratoga Chips

Made With Cottolene

Saratoga Chips made with Cottolene are never greasy, as are those made with lard. The reason for this is that Cottolene heats to about 100 degrees higher than either butter or lard, without burning, quickly forming a crisp coating which excludes the fat. Your Chips, therefore, are crisp, dry and appetizing.

TRY THIS RECIPE

Peel the potatoes and slice them into wedges. Drain well, and dry in a towel. Fry a few at a time in hot Cottolene. Salt as you take them out and lay them on a coarse brown paper for a short time.

Cottolene costs about the price of lard, and will go one-third farther than either butter or lard.

THE KOELSCH MARRIAGE BILL.

There is nothing funny about any measure which has for its object the protection of the Motherhood of the State. Every step in the path of progress is beset with obstructions of one kind or another and as a rule the initial effort along any new line is faulty and open to correction, but any plan which gives promise of in any manner safeguarding the public health should not be taken lightly.

The Koelsch bill proposes to prohibit marriage between those parties physically unfit for the marriage relation. In other words to correct the figures which show that sixty per cent of all operations performed upon married women are necessary by reason of the contraction of sexual diseases from unfit husbands. Such a measure would cut down the number of unhealthy children born under such circumstances, and would therefore tend to materially raise the standard of the race within the state.

It has been pointed out that such an examination would practically prove a bar to marriage. That the state has no right to subject young girls and clean living youth; that such a law should apply only to those against whom suspicion may exist and pass over all others.

There can be no such law. Either such examination must be general and apply equally to all classes or it is not a law at all.

As to the embarrassments incident to the operation of such a law, the family physician can surely be trusted to meet the situation. Possibly this may become quite a factor in opposition to the passage of the measure, but what of the unborn marriages now being contracted almost daily, and the unhealthy offspring brought into the world to add to the general evil and perpetuate the ravages of disgraceful disease among mankind?

Is there any sane man or woman in Idaho who would not be willing to put up with the comparatively trifling inconvenience of an examination such as is proposed, if the horrible percentage of stricken humanity could be cut down, and a generation or two hence, practically eliminated?

Incidentally, if there are any such, their education along the lines of sex hygiene should be commenced at once.

THE SLOT MACHINE QUESTION.

So far as known there is one drug store in Twin Falls whose proprietor has seen fit to voluntarily remove the slot machine which for years graced the lobby of his place of business.

The fact is of interest by comparison. A large element of men see nothing wrong about the slot machine. In a strictly legal sense it is not a gambling device within the meaning of the law and in fact it appeals to the shopkeeper only as a means of promoting trade in precisely the same sense as does the elaborate soda-water fountain and the dozen other devices devised to coax the stray nickel where the ordinary cut and dried methods of selling goods fail.

But think for a moment of the decline in popularity of the slot machine during the past ten years. Where formerly there were hundreds there are now dozens in operation. Whole communities have reneged against the practice and demanded its abatement, and even the dozens which are left do not receive even the pro rata of patronage accorded the hundreds a few years ago. Here is the last city to bar the slot machine. In not a saloon, cigar stand, or drug store in the entire city is one to be found. Are Boise and all the other communities wrong?

The occasional nickel dropped into the slot machine by the casual customer is not in itself a grave evil, but it is a noticeable fact that the men best able to afford to patronize the machines rarely if ever do so. Every grown man has a right to do what he will with his nickel, but it were better if the machines could be so handled that every young boy playing his first nickel would lose rather than win.

The successful cultivation of the gambling spirit does not require elaborate stage settings. The click of the roulette ball is not an essential feature. Rarely does a man make his first bet in a gambling establishment. "The something for nothing" idea keeps gambling up, and in a small way there is no better educating medium than the modern slot machine.

It would be hard to find a single instance of gambling depravity which could be traced directly to the slot machine, but the tendency is in the same direction and the gamblers should not despise its humble help.

Incidentally, does it make for a better quality of goods in those stores which employ it?

THE REAL VALUES.

As an indication of just where the real values of the country lie, here are some figures from Bulletin Number Two, issued by the Rumley Products Company, of La Porte, Indiana, which are of more than passing interest.

Those who hold to the view that an agricultural section such as this can attain to a live measure of development without the aid of live stock should carefully consider the fact that the twenty-five million horses in the country require for their upkeep the products of one-fifth of all the farm-land in the country. This amounts, according to the Bulletin, to one hundred and twenty million tons of fodder of all kinds, including grain, which fodder has a market value of two billion dollars.

Figure this as against the total annual operating expenses of all the railroads in the country of one billion, nine hundred million dollars, and a fair idea of the importance of the horse industry will have been gained. In other words, it costs less by a million dollars a year to operate the railroads of the country than it does to feed the horses.

The total amount of capital invested in the cotton, wool, clothing, and leather manufacturing industries of the country amounts to several hundred thousand dollars less than the value of the annual consumption of horse fodder.

THAT ECONOMY PROGRAM.

The News would call attention to an article by its Boise correspondent in another column of this issue, in which a remarkably clear analysis is made of the present legislative situation as compared to the anti-legislative program.

The watchword of economy preached from gods to groundlings, took root over the State with a vengeance. State officials from the Governor down endorsed it heartily, State Senators and Representatives from every county in Idaho pledged themselves for economy. The people of Idaho accorded a full measure of support.

All this was before the opening of the Legislative session. Just how this program has been carried out does not require a very astute mind to figure out.

Apparently the watchword of economy as practiced by each member of the Twelfth session consists in cutting off at the pockets every proposed expenditure in every county in Idaho except that from which each particular member hails.

The situation is a peculiar one, but the general effect, as far as the much vaunted promises of economy are concerned, is not apt to enhance the standing of the party two years from now.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL.

The Twelfth session of the Idaho Legislature will in all likelihood pass a Public Utilities Commission bill. Should it do so, but two states in the Union will be without such a body. These are Utah and Wyoming, both Harbinger states.

There is danger only in the multitude of measures submitted for consideration, but a certain element at least in the law making body may probably be depended upon for final action.

With the proper men composing the commission, the public service corporations should welcome its creation just as much as will the public.

AN ENVIABLE RECORD.

Probably no man who has had such a short career in the United States Senate has made a more favorable impression or gained a greater number of friends than has Kirkland Irving Perky, of Idaho. In the distribution of Federal patronage in Idaho, The News predicts that Senator Perky will play an important part. But apart from this his ability and wide range of knowledge of public questions has won him a permanent place in the memories of his fellow Senators.

The merchant who does not advertise as a rule has nothing to offer which would warrant the expense.

WIN PRIZE ON CORN

L. A. and W. L. Snyder Take Second Place In Agricultural Contest.

L. A. Snyder and son, W. L. Snyder, who reside one mile east of this city have been notified by the Gen. State Fair, an agricultural paper published at Caldwell, Idaho, that they have been awarded second prize in the corn growing contest conducted by that publication. The corn was grown on the Snyder farm and averaged 24 bushels per acre. One and one half acres were devoted to the crop.

The contest was conducted during the past season, the winner being T. A. Allen, a well known gardener of the Boise valley. Mr. Allen's yield was only 20 bushels more than that of the Snyders.

W. L. Snyder states that the corn grown in the contest was the "Cassia County" variety, and that, while it does not contain the amount of protein found in the varieties of dent corn grown in the great corn districts of the country, it is considered the best feed corn for this part of the west where sufficient protein for feed is secured in the alfalfa hay. The land on which the Snyder crop was grown was previously not at all fertile.

First Spotted Chances.

It is stated by Mr. Snyder that a number of farmers of this district grew corn for the contest, but that the early frost last fall prevented its maturing to be entered for consideration in the contest. He will continue to grow this variety of corn and endeavor to bring it to as high a standard as possible.

As a reward for the place they secured in the contest, Mr. Snyder and son will receive an up-to-date article of farm machinery. The contest was conducted in Idaho and parts of Washington, Oregon, Utah and Montana.

ONE ON SOUTHERN IDAHO.

Those of us who are convinced that Southern Idaho land grows the best alfalfa to be found in the country will learn with a shock that the World's Championship award at the National Corn Exposition of 1912 did not go to Idaho. Instead, the upper Wisconsin country gathered it in.

There may be a larger percentage of protein in the Idaho variety or the color of the bloom may be less trying to tired eyes. Possibly there are other points of superior merit about our alfalfa, which the Wisconsin people do not know anything about, but the fact remains, Wisconsin got the money.

THE POTATO BREAKFAST.

Those who were fortunate enough to attend the Third Annual Potato Breakfast held in Twin Falls this week will not soon forget the event. The general atmosphere of good fellowship which obtained during the evening served to bring closer together the men of the Twin Falls country, and the result is bound to make for the better good of individual and community.

An even larger dining hall will be necessary on the occasion of the next "breakfast," if the attendance at this year's can be accepted as an indication.

THE WRONG KIND OF STAKES.

Interest in railroad construction out of Rogerson was considerably heightened by reason of the news on the streets this week that a railroad of stakes had passed through Twin Falls for use in surveying operations of the Short Line engineers.

It is always a pity to kill a good story, but an investigation by The News disclosed the fact that the "stakes" might properly have been described as pickets and are intended for use by the good people of the Rogerson country in igniting in their corral and back yards.

IT'S UP TO CALIFORNIA.

As the result of a recent reduction of approximately forty per cent in freight rates from Oregon and Washington points into Southern Idaho, manufactured goods from the Northwest can now come into this section in competition with the world, and under a tariff schedule which cuts the last remaining ground from under the feet of California manufacturers.

California's market in Idaho would seem now to depend entirely upon the building of the proposed new connection to the south.

THE TWIN FALLS POSTOFFICE.

The news of the passage by the House of the omnibus public building bill, together with the clause providing for an appropriation of eighty-five thousand dollars for a postoffice building at Twin Falls, should prove welcome indeed. As such things go, there is little doubt but what the bill will go through the Senate in its present form and be duly signed by the President. In this event the cash will be available at an early date.

There are times when it is necessary to call a spade a spade in order to bring home the point. A spade will be called a spade in the columns of The News just exactly as often as this is necessary, within the judgment of the publishers.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL ARGUMENTS

PRESENTED BY SENATOR ROBINSON

NEED OF SUCH AN INSTITUTION
IN TWIN FALLS COUNTY SET FORTH IN A RECENT INTERVIEW.

In discussing the bill for the proposed establishment of an agricultural school at Twin Falls, Senator C. A. Robinson recently gave out the following interview:

"We believe that it is sound policy to advocate the establishment of the agricultural school of the state in the agricultural section of the state; where, by reason of the interests of the community, it may receive that moral as well as financial support that is essential to the maximum of growth and efficiency; where it may become primarily and really an agricultural school and not a mere artery of commerce for some remote institution.

The southern portion of the state contains the greatest interests in agricultural and kindred lines; in the southern portion are to be found not only the great agricultural areas of Idaho, but the diversified methods as well.

Claim Location Ideal.

"We feel that Twin Falls is the ideal location, for many reasons—among them the fact that the land near there is comparatively new; that we have the irrigation systems covering millions of acres; dry farming following the various methods; as far as elevation that would make the result of experiments obtained there applicable and of benefit to nearly every section of the state.

"We have demonstrated our ability to grow all the various small grains, grasses and grain seeds and every kind of fruit adapted to the climate of the state or any portion of it. We are a growing section and every year more land is being reclaimed by dry farming and irrigation methods, and in spite of the fact of our millions of acres, of which Twin Falls is the very center, the work in this respect is just begun. The railroad is building from Nysan, Oregon, to Buhl, Idaho, and this work is being completed very well. But a few days ago articles of incorporation were filed for a line that will connect Twin Falls with the Western and Southern Pacific railroads to Wells, Nevada, giving us an outlet to the south and more direct communication with the Pacific coast. A network of interurban lines reaching in various directions from Twin Falls is an assured fact, and work of truck traffic is proceeding at this time.

Division of the Pie.

"The southern portion of the state is demanding recognition in the way of an agricultural institution and we believe that the legislature will recognize it as a righteous demand. In the north we have an agricultural department of the university located at Moscow, and nine miles from there, at Pullman, Washington, is the Washington agricultural school, while in all the northern portion of the state where the agricultural wealth and interest lies, we have no institution of the kind.

"Educational institutions are presumed to be for the benefit of those desiring their advantages and not for the purpose of maintaining state pride and state lines, where educational advantages are concerned, should be fairly drawn.

"We do not underestimate the strength of those who are opposing every plan that will tend to establish institutions free from the domination of the university and of those who, in reference to the state educational institutions, but we believe that the personal and the temper of the present legislature is such as to recent interference of this nature and to pass judgment on measures of whole need with their merit. Upon the merit of our bill providing for the agricultural school at Twin Falls we are content to rest our case. Confident that it is unfair to have two agricultural schools convenient to the students of the north and yet none accessible to those boys and girls of the great agricultural portion of the state."

TALKS TO POTATO GROWERS.

Mr. Sweet, of Carbondale, Colorado, spoke to the potato growers in the Commercial club rooms yesterday afternoon on the subject of potato production. The speaker, who is a recognized authority on potatoes, is urging the planting of whole seed as a good assurance against disease and in producing one good, strong stalk. His talk proved one of interest and instruction to the potato growers who were collected on short notice to hear him.

Eastern Attitude on New Republicanism

Impression Among Leaders Appears to Favor Amalgamation of Progressive and Stand-Pat Wings

(Special to The News)

Washington, D. C., February 18.—The feeling is quite general in the East that an amalgamation of the Republicans and Progressives will soon be consummated, as is evidenced by the frequent statements that are being made by leaders of both factions.

Ormsby McHugh, of New York, who, previous to the Chicago Republican convention, was one of the most active intermediaries between Colonel Roosevelt and the party which desired the standard last fall, was back into line again, to insure the continuation for 10 years more of the policies of that party.

they will see to it that henceforth they vote the Republican ticket."

Lincoln a Republican.

President Taft declared at a banquet given at Philadelphia in honor of Abraham Lincoln by the Union League Club, that if Abraham Lincoln were alive today he would be found in line with the Republican party, and said that he hoped to see that element of the party which desired the standard last fall swing back into line again, to insure the continuation for 10 years more of the policies of that party.

Roosevelt, Says No Hope

Colonel Roosevelt, however, at the Lincoln Day dinner of the National Progressive Club, at New York, said that he was not in favor of any fusion in the Progressive campaign last fall. He was in attendance, declared unqualifiedly against the amalgamation of the Republican and Progressive parties, as recently proposed by one of the leaders in the Progressive campaign last fall. The Colonel stated that he believed that the Progressives will not unite with either old party. He said: "We believe that in each of these parties, however, there are hundreds of thousands of good, honest men and women, who are progressives. The only place for them is in our party. We will welcome them in, and we will treat them on an equality with ourselves, paying not the slightest heed to whether they are former Republicans, and now they declare that

DECLARES CLIMATE IS HIGHLY BENEFICIAL

REPORT OF LOCAL PHYSICIAN ON GENERAL HEALTH CONDITIONS

Steps Are to Be Taken to Protect

All Cases of Pollution of the Water Supply Over the County.

Dr. C. R. Scott, chairman of the public health committee of the division of the Commercial-Club, recently reported on inquiries made by him regarding any diseases that may be aggravated or benefited by the climate of Idaho.

All diseases recovered from physicians of the state, spoke for the healthful climate conditions of southern Idaho, and that all diseases of the lungs and throat especially are benefited by this climate.

Dr. Scott reported that investigations had been made of the climate where the state had been moved to after the ditching, from which the city receives its water supply, and in a few instances where the water supply had been found unclean, and that steps would be taken for the protection of the negligent parties.

The committee on prevention of disease, and the school children will be given the prevention and in the first means to be used in case of fire. Business houses will be asked to provide themselves with fire extinguishers.

Propose New Boulevard.

Barton S. Moore, chairman of the bureau, presented the idea of extending Shoshone street direct northeast to the park at Shoshone Falls. While such an idea may not be carried out without some difficulty, it was the sense of the meeting that, inasmuch as the Blue Lakes boulevard and Adams street are now laid out, the growth of the city, a large boulevard to the falls would be feasible.

The plan to the hall was a direct boulevard to the falls would be feasible in the future, and the advantages of a direct boulevard to the falls would be feasible in the future, and the advantages of a direct boulevard to the falls would be feasible in the future.

Council to Co-Operate.

Plans for "clean up day" will be arranged jointly with the city council. The schools will be asked to assist in the clean up process. It is planned to do all the work in a half day and have the city remove the debris in wagons. A committee will close the work of the day.

A program is being arranged for the opening of the new Commercial club rooms in the near future, the date for which will soon be announced. Reports of the various committees of the bureau, and representatives of the Twentieth Century club will speak of the work done and the organization along city lines. City parks and playgrounds will be discussed at this meeting. A musical program will also be rendered.

LUMBER MEN MEET

Among the out-of-town guests at the potato break were the managers of the various branches of the Outlander Lumber Company throughout this part of the state. They were the personal guests of E. R. Anderson, the president of the company.

Officials in the local office were also Mr. Anderson's guests at the breakfast. The guests of the day were W. H. O'Brien, Jerome; C. D. Dingler, Wendell; W. L. Raking, Gooding; H. C. Dickerson, Hagerman; W. F. Klingling, Blaine; and E. C. Clendinning, Hollister.

These representatives were in the city for the annual meeting of the managers to review the progress in the policy and details of the work for the coming year, and that the local officials might get acquainted with the conditions in the various localities where branch yards are maintained. Local officials present at the meeting were:

J. O. Anderson, vice president and general manager; O. V. Keneth, vice president and assistant general manager; D. C. Watson, secretary and treasurer; H. D. Maclear, auditor; and H. C. Dickerson, assistant manager of the local yards.

It was decided at Monday's meeting to hold the annual meeting each year at the time of the potato break. In order that the out of town representatives might attend the banquet.

FREE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

Secretary Green, of the Commercial Club, announces that inquiries for positions of every kind, such as stenographers, bookkeepers, clerks, ranch hands, managers, laborers, etc., are continually being made of him by seekers of employment and for help-to states that if all persons, seeking employment or desiring help, will notify him and state the line of work he can probably satisfy their wants in a short time. There will be no charge for this service to either party.

With the early opening of the spring work there will be many positions to be filled in and additions to the staff and the early placing of "wants" with the secretary of the club would easily be taken care of.

POSTOFFICE ASSURED.

"Appropriation of $35,000 for proposed public building at Twin Falls has been incorporated in the enabling public building act, which has been reported to the House. Bill will doubtless pass both houses and be signed by the President before the adjournment of the session."

ABRAHAM AND LOT.

Gen. 12: 1-12

1. And Abraham went up out of Egypt, he and his wife, and all that he had, and Lot with him, into the south.

2. And Abraham was going in cattle, in silver, and in gold, into the south, when he came to Bethel, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Bethel and Hai.

3. Upon the place of the altar, which he had made at the first, there the Abrahams called on the name of the Lord.

4. And Lot also, which went with Abraham, had flocks and herds, and tents.

5. And the land was not able to bear them, that they might dwell together, for their substance was great, so that they could not dwell together.

6. And there was a strife between the herdmen of Abraham's cattle and the herdmen of Lot's cattle; and the Canaanites and the Perizzites dwelled then in the land.

7. And Abraham said unto Lot, let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen; for we are brethren.

8. Is not the whole land before thee? separate thyself, I pray thee from me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left.

9. And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, that it was well watered every where, before the Lord destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, even as the garden of the Lord, like the land of Egypt, as thou comest unto Zoar.

10. Then Lot chose him all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed east: and he separated himself from the place of the altar.

11. And he dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom.

12. And it came to pass, that when the Golden Text—"The blessing of the Lord, it maketh rich, and he addeth no sorrow with it."—Prov. 10: 22.

Introductory.

Abraham was a man of great faith. He trusted God as no other ever did. And yet he made a serious mistake. When he came upon the land of Canaan, instead of staying in the land, and sharing with its inhabitants, who evidently lived through the famine, he went to Egypt, where he sold his wife into bad company and barely escaped a great calamity.

Expository.

1. Evidently Lot had accompanied his uncle into Egypt. And now the great master of men returns, bringing with him all that he took away.

2. He had returned to the land of Canaan, where he had been so many years. His God had blessed him, and made all his ways prosperous.

3. He had returned to the place from which he had come, and he had found that he had not lost anything. He had not lost his God, his family, or his wealth.

4. He had returned to the place from which he had come, and he had found that he had not lost anything. He had not lost his God, his family, or his wealth.

5. He had returned to the place from which he had come, and he had found that he had not lost anything. He had not lost his God, his family, or his wealth.

6. He had returned to the place from which he had come, and he had found that he had not lost anything. He had not lost his God, his family, or his wealth.

7. He had returned to the place from which he had come, and he had found that he had not lost anything. He had not lost his God, his family, or his wealth.

8. He had returned to the place from which he had come, and he had found that he had not lost anything. He had not lost his God, his family, or his wealth.

9. He had returned to the place from which he had come, and he had found that he had not lost anything. He had not lost his God, his family, or his wealth.

among the people of the land, had very little to do with them—simply enough to keep their good will.

13. The richness of their soil, the ease with which they procured the means of subsistence, enabled them to spend the time in pleasure and in evil practices. They thus became idolaters, too rich to be allowed to remain even until the iniquities of their neighbors were full.

14. When Lot was gone from him and Abraham was to be no more influenced by his presence, then it was possible to put him in full assurance that the land was his. It was possible for Abraham to stand on some high elevation, such as Mispah, and overlook the whole country. It might almost be said from Dan to Beersheba—at least from Shechem to Hebron, from the Mediterranean Sea to the high hills on the west of the Jordan, and from some point, or by climbing his outlook a little, he might have looked over the Jordan to Hebo and Bashan.

15. By this time Abraham had been twenty years in the land long enough to have gained a fairly correct conception of what was referred to in the promise.

16. The promise was not that the seed of Abraham should be as numerous as the grains of dust, but that it should be as impossible to number the multitude as it would be to number the grains of sand on the sea beach.

17. Abraham was to be simply seen in one place and look around him, though he might gain a fair conception of it in that way; but he was to be so far from the land that he could not see it, and he was to be so far from the land that he could not see it, and he was to be so far from the land that he could not see it.

18. Then Abraham removed to the southward, to the vicinity of Hebron, where were some of the best pasture lands of all the country—more fairly arid-land than anywhere north of it. He had now reached the plain of Jordan, the valley of the Euphrates. In Hebron Abraham built an altar and established the worship of Jehovah.

Californians Wagon Seriously Alarmed—A short time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and was a great deal of annoyance. I would have coughing and spitting and my lungs were sore and inflamed. I began to feel very much distressed. A friend recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saying she had used it for years. I bought a bottle and it relieved my cough the first night, and in a week I was rid of the cold and sore throat. I feel very much better now. Write Miss Maria Greder, Sawtooth, Minn. # Comparative Digestibility of Food

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (black) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

Bread made with Royal Cream of Tartar Powder: 100 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with phosphate powder: 68 3/4 Per Cent. Digested

Bread made with alum powder: 67 1/2 Per Cent. Digested

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.
