BIG CROPS MOVING

All Products Are Shipped from Kimberly District in Large Quantities.

Kimberly, Sept. 29.—The Fruit Growers' association has rented the old hill building, and are busy receiving and packing apples, which will be sent east in car lots. The Short Line has placed several beet cars at the dump and the beet harvest will be in full swing in a few days. The crop is very promising this year and some good yields are expected.

Otto Emanuel has gone to Oakland, California, where he will attend business college this winter.

Potatoes are going out rapidly these days. As many as twelve refrigerator cars have been loaded in a single day. It is estimated that there will be nearly two hundred cars of potatoes shipped from Kimberly this season, which means about $40,000 for the potato crop in this vicinity at present prices.

Reverend Rodgers, of Rupert, Haron, of Twin Falls, and Billington, were in Kimberly Sunday and addressed the members of the Christian church. A basket dinner was served in the hall and a pleasant time enjoyed by those present.

It is reported that Miss Emily Claborn and Mr. Clyde King were married last week at Payette. It is the case that their many friends extend hearty congratulations, as they are among our best young people.

D. F. Detweiler is receiving and shipping sheep by tons of carloads these days, he having about ten thousand on hand now, which he will feed this winter.

E. Claborn has returned from the West country, where he bought about 2,500 sheep, which he will feed on his ranch east of town this winter.

H. T. West is in the western part of the state and Oregon where he has come to buy lambs for winter feeding.

H. B. Clark, of Kansas, is here and has bought half a block from the Townselle company and will build a bunkhouse at once. His family accompanied him and they expect to build before long.

C. L. Pittman has sold his potato crop in the field for $110 per acre. This he expects the expense of digging, sacks, and loading, which is good pay for a potato crop.

Geo. Lutz has sold his apple crop on the trees at a good price, so he is the other man to do the work and make all the profit he can over the purchase price.

W. H. Turner has threshed his winter crop of about six acres. Part of it made about six bushels per acre and the balance about three bushels.

Most of the pea crop has been threshed and delivered. One of the companies operating here has failed to give their customers satisfaction on account of the heavy damage which they took out and gave the farmer the balance which ran from 8 to 15 per cent in some cases.

J. B. Hlalock, of Spokane, is here looking after his crop interests south of town.

The mill and levator are both doing a good business these days handling the grain that is coming in. The farmers are making use of the good roads and getting their crops hauled in.

Del Hardy's cow outfit pulled in Saturday, having completed the season's roundup. They are now busy putting winter quarters in shape at the Shoshone ranch.

The cowboys will give a dance at the Rock Creek hall Friday, October 3. The J. P. O's met at the home of Miss Ellen Larsen on Saturday, September 27. Owing to the press of work for the threshing season very few were present.

Henry Jones came in from Goat Springs Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hansen returned Thursday from a trip to Denver. They stopped at Salt Lake and Ogden on the way home, visiting old friends of pioneer days.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Hansen will leave Thursday for California. They will join Mr. and Mrs. John Iverson at Burley. Mr. Iverson's health requires a warmer climate, so he will remain for the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Iverson will return as soon as the Iversons are established.

FRUIT GROWERS WARNED

State Law, Prohibiting Sale of Inferior Fruit Grades, Cited by Official.

The following notice has been sent out by C. K. Macey, the new state horticulturist, to fruit growers in Idaho:

Your attention is called to the law passed by the last legislature, which prohibits the sale of wormy apples or diseased fruit of any kind, except for manufacture into by-products by licensed manufacturers. The law provides as follows:

Section 171 of the Horticultural laws: "It shall be unlawful to sell, offer to sell, or have in one's possession for sale or barter, any fruit which is or has been infected with San Jose scale, apple scab or the larva or larvae of the codling moth or the peach twig borer, and the fact that such fruit bears the marks of San Jose scale, apple scab, or is worm-eaten by the larva or the larvae of the codling moth or the peach twig borer, shall be deemed conclusive evidence that such fruit is infected with the meaning of this section; and it is hereby made the duty of thurative inspectors and the several deputy inspectors to prevent the sale of such infected fruit, and they are hereby given power to seize and destroy such infected fruit whenever they shall find that the same has been packed, sold, shipped or offered for sale or barter; provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the utilization of such infected fruit in the manufacture of canned fruit, evaporated or dried products, fruit preserves, jellies, butters, cider or other fruit by-products within the state."

It is the duty of the fruit inspector to enforce this law, and any violation of it renders the offender liable to a penalty of $500.00. This law was enacted in the interest of the fruit grower and you are asked to co-operate with the inspector in its enforcement.

French Intends—Extradition Treaties—Shall Cover White Slave Crime

Washington, D. C., Sept. 30.—The attention of Representative Burton of New York has been called to the notable case of a little girl of thirteen years who has apparently been made a victim of the white slave traffic and in which the party or parties responsible for the crime have taken the unfortunate girl into Canada.

The act itself is apparently clearly within the provisions of the "white slave law," and were the parties responsible for the crime within the United States they would be amenable to the law, assuming that the facts are as alleged.

The crime itself is extraditable as an offense against the laws of the state, but if the offense were also extraditable under the Mann Act, the federal government would have an additional interest in the prosecution.

Mr. French has taken up the matter with the State Department and the department is making inquiries through its representatives in foreign countries to determine the extent of the violation of the law, but as the laws on this subject are of such recent enactment, the extradition treaties do not recognize crime committed under them, and for extradition the officers of the several states must rely upon violation of state laws.

Mr. French believes that the scope of the extradition treaties should be broadened, and has introduced a resolution directing the secretary of state to undertake negotiations at once with all foreign countries looking to the making of this crime extraditable, and it is believed that our own government as well as foreign countries cannot fail to recognize the wisdom of this course when their attention has been called to it.

Free Delivery for Payette and St. Anthony.

Congressman Smith has recommended that city free delivery be established at Payette and St. Anthony, and the first assistant postmaster general has assured him that the matter will be taken up for immediate consideration. An inspector will be directed to visit these cities and ascertain whether or not the condition of the streets meets the requirements of the department, and report on the number of carriers that will be needed. When the free delivery system is established, an examination will be held through the civil service commission to select the carriers.

SATURDAY IS CIRCUS DAY

A. G. Barnes Company Will Present High-Class Shows in This City October 4.

Saturday, October 4, will be circus day in Twin Falls. Two big rounds of genuine fun and entertainment will be offered the public by the A. G. Barnes Big Spring wild animal circus.

The Barnes show takes rank as "the show that's different" and really it is different from any other circus, decidedly different, and bears the distinction of being the only all-animal actor circus in the world.

Instead of human acrobats, riders, jugglers, tumblers, etc., being used in giving the entertainment, trained animals of almost every description and species are introduced.

Among the animals introduced, Lion, tiger, leopard, elephant, monkey, seal, sea lion, dogs, goats, horses, wild pig, and a multitude of other animals, all educated to do some stunt, are cast to appear on the Barnes show program.

One can not imagine more thrilling spectacles than the ilk wild animal acts presented by the men and women trainers of the show. They make one "dither" because of their extreme daring.

A profusion of acts that are instructive and a quiet, dignified character are also shown. A full company of military horses and ponies prance into the rings and do an inspiring mane of drills and matches. Then there's the dog, the comedy elephant, bears and mules. They provide some of the spots on the program. "Whisper" the dog will have a "goat" heavy laugh. Thirty of his laughs are provoked by the dozen clowns.

There are over 100 animal actors with the Barnes circus. It is the largest trained menagerie in the world. A glittering street parade leaves the show grounds for the town district at 10:30.

Turning Dull Months Into Record-Breakers

There's no excuse under the blue dome of heaven for a wide-awake resourceful merchant or manufacturer having a dull month—not as long as the columns of a newspaper with its thousands of readers who need hats and shoes and coats and frocks and home-and-lets-and-food—are at your disposal.

Dull months are a "habit" and a "state of mind" more than anything else. They don't belong in the scheme of modern business economics.

There's always a way to get more business. There's always a way to stimulate sales. There's always a way to bring the buyers to your store or to orders to your desk. If you'll tell the public what you're up to in the right way, and keep at it, you can turn the dulllest month in the year into a RECORD-BREAKER.

Go to the great buying public through The News Display Columns. Go to them through The News Classified Ads.

Go to them through The News, the paper that has built up the largest circulation of any paper ever published in its territory.

Pull every string. Use every resource. Develop every possible angle. And your old logy ideas of dull months will vanish like the morning mist. In this wonderful age there's NOTHING impossible to the man who works and thinks and ADVERTISES.

GOOD telephone service depends largely upon mutual courtesy.

The telephone is more useful to those who talk as if face to face, for civility removes difficulties and facilitates the promptest possible connections.

As in other intercourse, it often happens that two or more people wish to talk with the same person at the same time. Without courtesy confusion is inevitable, and the confusion is greater when the people cannot see each other.

The operators must be patient and polite under all circumstances, but they will do better work if they meet patience and politeness on the part of telephone users.

The Bell Telephone Service enters intimately into the social and business life of each individual. The best results come through the practice of mutual courtesy.

Back Home

WITH this issue the Weekly News, purchased two months ago by the promoters of the Daily Press, and taken over by them July 26, returns, not by choice, but by necessity, to its former owners and managers.

It is no doubt a feeling of general regret, a regret certainly shared by the News, that the first daily newspaper launched in Twin Falls was unable to make good. The failure of any enterprise, especially one that exerts as wide an influence as a newspaper, disturbs business relations, to say nothing of individual losses, and is to be lamented.

Even if necessary it would be difficult to censure the causes that brought about the downfall of the new enterprise, and if generally understood would not doubt reveal that the responsibility did not rest with the publishers. It requires a generous public recognition to support a newspaper, weekly or daily, that will satisfy present-day requirements.

In taking back its plant, sold in good faith, The News Company does not assume the obligations of the defunct Daily Press, except so far as they were contracted since July 26, the date when the name was changed to the Daily News. If all those who dropped the weekly to subscribe for the daily, after that date, will come to the office, their subscriptions will be satisfactorily adjusted. On the other hand, all those who subscribed for the Daily Press previous to July 26 can not expect to find redress from the present management for the discontinuance of this publication.

In as much as it is requiring time and labor to gather up and replace the machinery in its old home, the patience of friends and subscribers will be appreciated. Dropping the mantle of charity over the persons and circumstances that render this explanation necessary, the former managers resume, for the time being, the labors laid down two months ago. As formerly, The News will make its weekly visit to the many homes of its contributors, laden with the news that will be the content of the building of the home, city, and country.

City Planning

"The way to begin any city you plan is down in the primitive heart of the tribe. The man is the city; as he is, it grows. As he will it conquers, as he knows it knows. As he wants and breathes it blossoms after. To the goal of its purpose, the rest of its start."

ACCORDING to this poet-nobly but a real man can make real city. A true city government is the reflex of a true man—it is not a machine, as many would believe, with wheels within wheels to grind out schemes, grafts and jobs of various kinds to suit favorites. No, according to the poet quoted, it is a wisely thing, with many qualities. The demagogue, the noisy, fussy man, or the man who drinks and swears and gads around, can not make a city. Now it so happens that Twin Falls city is still in the early making, and has, as few cities have, the equipment for making true men and women. This equipment lies in good churches, schools, library, press, and commercial integrity. Here is another verse:

"The way to make sure of right progress is here, To start where the man starts, so moved in a sphere Of right thought and action the city he sees In his vision shall rise like a monster that frees Its soul from the scum and the venom of things And mounts the blue skies on invincible wings."

Flowers Came Too Late

NEW YORK papers seem to be very proud that they can herald the fact that from 75,000 to 100,000 people passed before the coffin of their late mayor, Mr. Gaynor, to do him honor in death. Whole pages of eulogy appeared in the columns of the daily press, ministers told of his virtues, and civic orators were profuse in their remembrances of the dead. And all this was well; but only a few days before his summary and unexpected taking off many of these same papers devoted columns to abusing and vilifying him, all for political effect. Mayor Gaynor was no saint, neither was he a sinner above all others that dwell in our national metropolis. He had his faults, but no doubt his virtues outnumbered them. Had many of the kind things said over his dead body been said while he lived to hear them said, in the storm and struggle of life, much would have been added to his happiness. Too true—funeral flowers and eulogies often come too late to be of practical value.

The Wilson Girls Again

WHAT a splendid set of girls the president's daughters are! They need to do nothing but shine in society if they wanted to. The whole world is ready to pay them court. But no; they stay in the little town up in the country, and take part in the simple events of the neighborhood. The other day there was an outdoor dramatic incident to raise funds for the Merder Bird Club, and two of the girls were in it. One sang the song, "The Hermit Thrush," and the other took the part of Ornis, the spirit of the birds.

How many society girls would take time from their empty lives to take part in a simple event to give pleasure to a neighborhood and raise a little money for a noble cause? Some do, we know, but generally the froth of the world infects their purposes and their thoughts, and they do very little that is unselfish. But look at those Wilson girls. The loveliness, the beauty, the simplicity of their lives are what made Woodrow Wilson a great president. Some people think it is politics. It is nothing of the kind. It is his girls.

Back to the Farm

In his speech at Omaha, Mr. Sleight, the former Socialist congressman from Wisconsin, said:

"When Socialists are in control of the government we will assume ownership of all the farming land in the country. That will be accomplished by confiscation, purchase, or taxation."

More important than the getting is what they will do with the farms? Who will do the digging, the weeding, the plowing, and other hard work, unless he gets more for it than the man who sits in the comfortable office, putting down figures and smoking cigarettes? The distribution of the product is an easier problem than the distribution of the work. The man who digs will not be satisfied unless he gets more corn than the man who writes of it. The same human nature will be lying around waiting for the soft snips before as well as after.

Free Sugar.

PLACING sugar on the free list may not be a blessing, after all. Maybe we are using too much sugar. We are going daff on sweets. Cakes, candies, fruits, custards, drinks, all need sugar. Maybe much of the sickness, especially of an intestinal character, is due to the use of sugar. Physicians have advised against using sugar in coffee, and people have been benefited by following the advice.

If free sugar is going to increase the distempers of the country, it will be bad legislation. The use of sugar has greatly increased in the past decade. It increases just as the pleasures of the people do, and that is not altogether hopeful. We eat more sugar than any nation on the globe. That is not what makes us any better. It may have had a different effect.

Test of School Work

DON'T forget that in education good English and good attitude go together. They not only figure large in the education of the intellect, but they go far to the making of a character. Concise expression is an evidence of clear thinking. A boy's education is not getting along well if his articulation is mussy and his ideas expressed slughly. It would be a good rule to go by that if a pupil really knows a thing he can tell it. And in making a test of his knowledge it increases his thinking. Both character and knowledge gain by good English and clear thinking.

KILL THE TREES.

Editor Twin Falls News:—A movement has been started by some of the property owners on Bho-shone street north and east of Main avenue to have the trees removed from that street as far out as Third avenue. A request to this effect was made to the city council and the removal was ordered.

Six of the trees had already been killed when a committee of those who believe that the trees should not be removed at the present time, secured a stay of execution until a meeting of the council was held and a hearing given to those interested in the preservation and conservation of the beauty and value of our streets. After hearing protests from individuals and representatives from some of the organized bodies of the city, the council decided to be governed in their action regarding the trees by the wishes of a majority of the owners of property adjacent to the street in question. Thus the people who own the trees and the trees have nothing to say as to their use or preservation.

The unnecessary destruction of trees, that it has taken years to grow, that have been the joy and pride of some of the older residents, who planted and nourished, them through the hardships of early pioneer life, and that are still valuable not only as beautifying the street but from an educational and salutary standpoint as well, and this for the sake of a few paltry dollars to repair the sidewalk around them, is beyond the understanding of those who believe that the value of civic beauty is as tangible as real estate or other property.

Beauty of environment is an asset of permanent value, and the surrounding property cannot be devalued without affecting materially the property in the entire neighborhood. It ought not to be possible for an individual so to dispose his property as to deprecate the value of his neighborhood.

It ought not to be possible for any owner to say as courts have said and over again, and that an owner has a right to erect such buildings or structures on his property as he pleases. Such the eighteenth century conception of individual liberty is entirely out of accord with our modern ideas of social welfare. It is the people and THEIR good that are to be considered, not the individual and HIS good. That the public in general recognizes the value of better streets, parks, playgrounds, and other civic improvements, is evidenced by the fact that modern cities, both large and small, have done so. In fact, the people of this country, by their spending millions of dollars for these purposes. Some states (Pennsylvania in particular) already have passed laws making city planning mandatory and placing the subdivisions and laying out of all streets within three miles of the city limits under the control of the planning commission, thus showing that the people of these states at least believe in the value of civic beauty.

Why not conserve the trees that we have as long as we can? It is only a question of time when they will be gone here to be replaced by the debris of business buildings, but in the meantime they not only pay for themselves by increasing property values, but in developing appreciation of one of nature's most precious gifts.

BURTON E. MORSE.

THE MILITARY LOBBY.

Making use of our somewhat high relations with Mexico as an argument, a preparedness-for-war lobby is at work in Washington. Through personal appeals to congressmen and the activities of clever press agents, the effort is being made to persuade congress at its next session to provide even more liberally than usual for army and navy expenditures. It is significant to note in this connection that the lobby is reinforced by the agents of the interests which produce the materials for a great military establishment.

The promoters of this propaganda are said to rely largely for success upon the enactment of the income tax law. Since this measure is based upon the theory that the wealthy and the well-to-do must pay more than their justly proportional share of taxes, the arm-pit manufacturers and the army and navy socialists—those who hope and believe that a masses of poor people, who are against extravagant war expenditures, will make no vigorous and effective protest against the selfish and senseless program, since they will think they won't have to pay the bill. The cost of the army and navy now approaches $100,000,000 a year and it will go higher if the clever lobbyists can create and maintain the impression that the excess will be a charge only upon the rich. This is illustrated again in taxation. If the average man were made to feel that every dollar spent on the army and navy represented so much more burden upon his slender purse, the armored-clad corps, the polished brigade, would not have easy sailing—Ohio State Journal.

SURELY COMING TOGETHER.

The following article from the Cleveland Leader is an indication of the sure coming together of the Republicans and Progressives. The Leader was one of the foremost and most fearless advocates of the Progressive party and its words will have great weight. It says:

"Here and there some leader of the Progressive party declares that there will be no union between that organization and the Republicans. Now and then some more or less eminent Republican says that the Progressives do not want and that there can be no getting together of the two political armies which are alike in their opposition to the Democratic party and its doctrine.

But these leaders, or near-leaders, have no power to decide this question. It is not for them to determine whether or not union shall come. That is for the people to say, and millions of men who rank in the two great parties who ought to stand and fight on the same side are not in doubt as to what ought to be done."

They have decreed that the Progressives and the Republicans shall get together. They have wearied of the accidental control of the government by the Democratic minority in the United States. They want no more stapping of the policies of the national government by an executive who does not represent the people or embody the principles of the greater part of the American people.

These millions of voters care little what short-sighted leaders of either party may do or say. They simply go ahead to their goal of union, sweeping aside all opposition. If party managers do not like it, others will be put in their places. In this matter the servants cannot dictate to those who employ them. The few cannot rule the many.

EDUCATION'S CHIEF FOE.

The public schools of the nation are now open for a year of instruction, and more than eighteen million boys and girls are enrolled. We are justly proud of this great showing. America spends more than four hundred million dollars a year for the purpose of education in its schools, which is more than all the nations of Europe put together spend for public instruction. In addition to this great sum we spend more millions every year in private and parochial schools, colleges, universities, technical institutions, and other means of education.

Manly with a grain of sense he says the expenditure of these vast sums for the benefit of the people is education is the best investment money in this way that we now see. We have compulsory education laws in many of our states, and statutes which require young boys and girls from four to sixteen years of age to attend school. But we have shown a lamentable lack of good common sense in that which we do not permit ourselves to do. We have established a system of maintenance of an institution which destroys the work of the schools. The liquor business is antagonistic to learning and education. It is not the friend of anything that is good. The saloon tears down what the school is trying to build up.

Some day we will quit building millions to destroy the expensive and profitable product which we are turning out of our schools—the New Republic.

As old Cyrus Simmons used to say: "My son, there are three keys to success. Lose them, and you'll find the world's doors locked in your face. You can get far and you won't last long without discretion, honesty and steadfastness. I've watched men rise and fall for sixty years, and I never saw a traitor prosper—a bolder stick—nor a half-measure man endure. Keep faith, keep your mouth shut, keep at it—and you'll always be sure of your bed and board."

"Everybody has to sell something to exist—time, labor, ideas, money, goods or whatnot. When you put a price on your word, or divulge confidential matters, or even just talk done, you're a marked and marked-down proposition.

"Talent is like an unbroken colt—useless until it stays in the traces. "I'd rather drive a safe, willing draft horse than trust to a tricky thoroughbred."—Herbert Kaufman in Chicago Tribune.

What do we plant when we plant the tree? We plant the ship which will cross the sea; We plant the masts to carry the sails, We plant the plank to withstand the gales. The keel, the keelson, and beam and knee; We plant the ship when we plant the tree.

What do we plant when we plant the tree? We plant the houses for you and me; We plant the rafters, the shingles, the floors. We plant the studding, the laths, the doors. The beams and siding, all parts that do; We plant the house when we plant the tree.

What do we plant when we plant the trap? A thousand things that we daily see; We plant the spire that out-towers the spire. We plant the staff for our country's flag. We plant the shade; from the hot sun free. We plant all these when we plant the tree. —Henry Abbey.

"This thing of adding the East to something." Dr. H. W. Clouck of Twin Falls was among the visitors to the fair, and was impressed with the excellence of the exhibits. He made a note that he determined to give a friend who was skeptical of some of the doctor's statements as to Idaho products. So he bought two boxes of potatoes from W. B. Starr and boxes of apples from W. B. Starr and expressed the six boxes to Chicago. The express cost $1.50, but what of that? The Clouck has the best of the argument.—Kinberly Call.

Lincoln county has become noted for holding successful fairs and the one now being held at Jerome is held by those in attendance to be the best one ever held in that county. More than twice the number of entries were made in all classes this year as compared with previous fairs, the showing in live stock being particularly strong.

Lincoln county started a fair at Hagerman four years ago. The plan of passing the fair from one town to another until all the towns in the county were reached has proven a wonderful success. Each succeeding fair has the hearty support and cooperation of every town in the territory formerly embraced in old Lincoln county. The farmers are being gradually and systematically educated up to the benefits derived from a county fair.

The remarkable feature of the fair this year is the splendid fruit and products from the soil that three or four years ago produced nothing but sagebrush and an occasional spear of grass.

The incoming trains were jammed to the platforms with fair visitors, and special trains were run on the Short Line. The surrounding country for 25 miles or more was literally crissed of its population.

At Hollister.

At Hollister today, too late for publication, is being held a monster "Picnic Day" celebration. All sorts of entertaining stunts are scheduled to come off on the streets of the town. It is the fourth anniversary of the starting of Hollister.

Feeling of Caution Regarding Future Transactions Less Evident Than Formerly, Says Dun*

New York, Sept. 27.—Dun's Review today says:

"Satisfactory progress along conservative lines in the purchase of articles from the leading mercantile centers. Improvement is not wholly confined to these better sections and branches of trade. In the aggregate, however, the volume of current transactions continues large, and though hesitancy is still shown in entering upon future commitments, the feeling of caution is less manifest than heretofore.

"Unusually low temperatures in some parts of the country have led to further claims of crop damage, but distribution of merchandise at retail movement is gradually expanding. Well-maintained activity is apparent in all departments of the dry goods markets.

"Features this week numbered 251 in the United States against 251 last year, and 58 in Canada, compared with 24 a year ago."

"That tobacco can be successfully raised in Kootenai county has been proved by W. H. Owens, a market gardener living near Post Falls. Mr. Owens was the first man to attempt the raising of tobacco in that region, and last year took the first prize at the Kootenai county fair. This year he will have a still larger display, and intends to increase his acreage in 1914.

CROP SHOWS PRESENCE OR LACK OF CARE

Horizontal Inspector Brannan Points Out Orchards Where Results Show Good Care—Tells Causes of Poor Orchards and Crops.

In the Twin Falls country, where man has made his absolute control of the growth of crops and the quality of the product, it is all up to the man. And nowhere is this fact more definitely defined than in the apple orchards on the tract.

A representative of The News in company with C. W. Brannan, district horticultural inspector, visited several of the orchards east of town on Tuesday. Each orchard told in its own way the story of the man in charge. The absence of apples stood as a mute report of ignorant pruning methods—broken trees filled with apples of varying sizes presented a picture of an owner who did not thin the crop. And wormy apples, not their own reward, for the man who pruned to kill the chance of the insect—tree mangle—instead of sprouting to kill the worms.

Where "Knocking" Paid S. K. Nesbitt may not have, the best orchard on the tract, but it is ahead of any one visited in the trip Tuesday. It performed a thorough job of spraying and it is not believed there is a wormy apple in the forty acres. He knocked off apples by the thousand each in the season. His tree reached great care in thinning, doing the work systematically, leaving well distributed the number that he estimated a tree could properly mature. The result is broken trees are a rare thing in the Nesbitt orchard. His apples are almost all of a size and classes, extra fancy and fancy, and. He has in his trees to the acre and apple experts estimate that his yield will run close to five boxes to the tree straight through the orchard.

Only Two Per Cent Culls A. P. Dunlap is suthering his crop and stacking the boxed fruit under the sheltering shade of the peach trees. He has several broken trees all of them being of the "crotch" limb character. A closer thinning would have given him a more uniform size throughout the orchard. He has used less water than the average and has more color developed in his apples than some of the growers. He has a low percentage of culls. In one lot of 105 boxes, two were returned as culls, and in another lot of 65 boxes two were sent the elder route.

Keeping Up Fertility Joel Hammond and sons have clover growing in their orchard and in this way they are taking to the soil fertility that will be needed by the trees five or ten years from now. His apples were slow in coloring. He borrowed a grass cutter and walked into the clover. The warm sun on the ground—and the frosty—night started the coloring process, and now the Jonathans in his orchard are exceptionally dark. Hammond noticed a dozen or more of his trees bonding to the ground a month ago, and believing that it had allowed, the apples to remain on the limbs he would be ruined trees; he got a broom-handle and began knocking. When he was through he had removed half the apples and the trees stretched up. They matured their crop in fine shape. From the three rows on the south of the orchard Mr. Hammond gathered 77 boxes of apples last year. This year he picked 65 boxes from the same three rows.

More Thinning Needed. Another orchard where coloring has been developed to a pronounced degree is that recently purchased by A. Putsler. The trees have as a rule too many apples on them and the rule is not uniform. The quality is all there and the color beyond question. The owner would have made more money in dollars and cents if he had knocked off a lot of the apples two months ago.

At the association packing plant the apples tell a good joke on one rancher. He didn't spray properly. Half of his apples are being returned as wormy stuff. Next year the chances are that he will get into the game and spray his worms, and not to outwit the inspector.

A Pruner In one orchard east of town, C. W. Brannan a year back found a summer placer minor pruning trees. He posed as a professional tree pruner. He explained on the quiet to several that pruning trees was a "cinch." Anybody could do it, and all one had to do was to get a certain style of pruning and run to it. He was slashing off the limbs that bear the fruit. C. W. Brannan dropped along when Mr. Miner was half through and took the matter up with the owner of the orchard. And you can tell to a tree where the placer minor gut pruning. The trees he butchered have no apples. A big crop is being gathered from the trees where the right kind of pruning was practiced. The soil is here, the sunshine is ever present, the moisture conditions are controlled by the grower, spring keeps out the worms and other things in apple growing. Apple manufacturing is probably the correct term. On the quality of apples manufactured in the Twin Falls country depends the success of the industry. And the quality in turn all depends on the men who operate the factories.

WHO'S GOT THE BOTTLES

Good Quantity of Jerome Beverage Lost in Unusual Manner on Way Home

Was the cache merely lost or was it stolen? A problem of this character is worrying a certain local firm and several alleged silent partners, says the sheriff's office.

The men went to Jerome and laid in a report, says, four dozen bottles of beer and two cases of whiskey, the officers. Everything went well, though down the grade the truck driver who was driving the truck, and the man who looked after the cache. It was after returning to the bridge that the trouble began.

One of the trees picked in front of the buggy and grazed a wheel. A little further along another tree butted in and, mindful of his load, the driver stopped until the procession got by. He soon had his hand on the wheel and then an unusually large and violent tree yanked off a wheel and the team ran away, scattering bottles for several rods. The unfortunate driver wanted to leave the stuff at the fruit ranch, but there was a general desire to get the fruit picked and the man in charge ordered the ship out of the canyon instanter.

The driver came to town and a friend went out and gathered up the remains. Fearing the shipment was too well advertised, the said friend hauled it back across the river and hid it in the rocks north of the canyon. Several apples were located the next day and identified as the place where the bottles were hidden. So far, according to all reports, no trace of the lost beverage has been found. Another solution has been offered in the phrase "double crossed."
