Automobiles and Good Roads

ROAD-CONGRESS COMING WEST.

The American Road Congress, which was held this year at Detroit, and will probably be held next year at Atlanta, will come west in 1915. It is that time the Idaho State Highway commission will have some roads built that will be object lessons for the Eastern brethren.

OWYHEE IN A. A. FOLD.

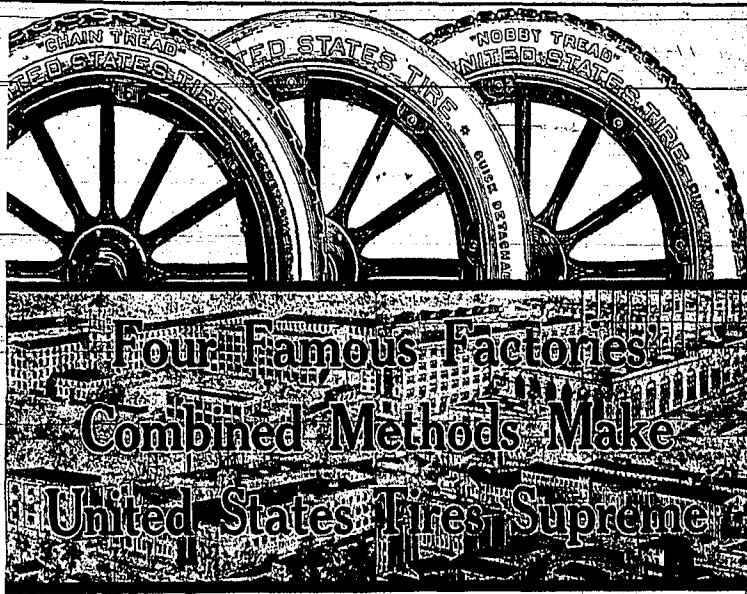

The Owyhee hotel in Boise has been added to the list of official American Automobile Association hotels. This fact should be noted by motorists when visiting Boise. Placing a hotel on its official list does not mean that members of the A. A. A. will get reduced rates or anything of that sort, but it is a guarantee that motorists will get just treatment and first-class accommodations. As a rule motorists are looking for the best, not the cheapest.

No part of an automobile is more abused than the tires. Where one man drives carefully thinking of them a hundred drive heedlessly without consideration for the damage to both the tubes and sheet which is sure to result," said Sales Manager J. D. Anderson of the United States Tire company the other day. "When a car slides the great contributor to its economical and efficient operation, it is remarkable how seldom one is found who will give the tires a real chance to make the maximum mileage. The care of tires does not take much time nor call for arduous labor. Under inflation, most of the grease left on the runways, running in car tracks, speeding around corners, braking with needless severity, driving with chains (particularly broken or badly worn chains), and permitting the car to remain unjacked when in doubt storage, allows the wheels to remain in contact—these are the ordinary causes of tire trouble."

John D. Rockefeller last week joined the ranks of the good roads boosters. In company with Fred H. Caley, secretary of the Cleveland Automobile club, he made a tour of inspection of the highways in the vicinity of Cleveland that have been improved but neglected. The oil king suggested a system of repair and maintenance and offered his financial aid.

GOOD ROADS PREVENT DISEASE.

Few persons, on first thought, would see any possible connection between good roads and good health. Yet the State Board of Health of Kansas says that good roads can and will prevent disease. How?—By the removal of weeds and trash. Weeds tend to prevent the prompt evaporation of moisture and promote retention of ground water. This makes ideal breeding places for mosquitoes, flies and other insects, which are known as disease carriers, not to mention chinch bugs, hoppers and other insects which are crop destroyers. Furthermore, an undergrowth of weeds invites the dumping of garbage and manure by careless contractors, of which fact careless and thoughtless people are prone to take advantage. By increasing the facility of insect breeding and providing these insect carriers with proper material for disease transmission. Good roads also prevent disease by providing good drainage. Many farms have no means of drainage except by ditches along roadways. Open ditches, clear of brush and weeds, with proper surface and proper fall, afford these farms the opportunity of ridding themselves of many a stagnant pool. The removal of weeds, proper grading, surface hardening and oiling, insure prompt drainage of all pools, ditches and surface water, removing the possibility of insect breeders for none can multiply without moisture. Road oiling in itself is destructive of insect larvae, especially mosquitoes—a well known fact. Dry roads offer pedestrians, and notably children who are compelled to walk to and from school, dry shoes and feet. Winter colds are due to specific germs, yet it is a well-known fact that cold, wet feet and chilled limbs lower the resistance of individuals and make them more favorable subjects for infections of the respiratory passages, including pneumonia and influenza. Good roads prevent disease by setting an example to adjoining farm premises. Good barns, especially those which are bordered by them. The comparison of a well-graded, clean highway with an unkept and trashy barnyard adjoining is sufficient to stimulate every landowner to a clean-up. Frede compels him to offer to passers-by a neat-appearing and attractive house and barnyard. Results are only too obvious. Good roads are active disease preventing agencies, aside from their national and commercial value.—Exchange.

The absolute faith placed in United States Tires by the Automobile Owners of the West is shown on every road everywhere by the Enormous Number of these "Mightier Than the Road" Tires in daily use.

Year in and year out under every condition that a tire can be subjected to, United States Tires have "stood up" and "delivered."

They are produced through the co-operative efforts of four of the largest and most modern tire factories in the world.

Such an aggregate of strong points has been built into these famous tires that they have had to "make good."

Their real mileage wear is demonstrated day in and day out on the Western roads.

Their toughness and durability is proved daily under every conceivable condition.

The grinding and grueling wear and tear that they "stand up" to has alone established for United States Tires their well-earned title of "Mightier Than the Road."

All over the world United States Tires are giving day in and day out satisfaction.

Were the verdict of the West alone to decide the merits of these famous tires, the answer is self-evident when one sees the actual numbers in use on the Western roads.

The overwhelming number of automobile manufacturers who have selected United States Tires as the standard equipment of their 1914 cars prove unquestionably that United States Tires are today the accepted standard for real tire service.

for the introduction of cattle upon the farms. As it is now, the farmers are producing raw products which yield but little, whereas they should be producing more finished products.

There is an abundance of rich land in the west which can be irrigated, and we could properly expect within the next few years $100,000,000 in the development of small irrigated farms.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

"The season is at hand in which it has been our long respected custom as a people to turn in praise and thanksgiving to Almighty God for his manifold mercies and blessings to us as a nation. The year just passed has been marked by manifestations of His goodness to our own borders and with the nations of the world, but that peace has been brightened by underlying evidences of genuine friendship of mutual sympathy and understanding, and of practical cooperation of many rivaling nations, both foreign and of practice."

"The nation not only has been prosperous, but has proved its capacity for self-defense, and the rapid movement of affairs and the great work of the nation, the practical completion of a great work at the isthmus of Panama which not only exemplifies the nation's abundant resources to accomplish what it will and the distinguished skill and capacity of its citizens, but also promises the beginning of a new age, of new contracts, new neighborhoods, new sympathies, new bonds and new achievements of co-operation and peace."

"Righteousness exalts a nation, and peace on earth, good will toward men, are the sure foundations upon which can be built the lasting achievements of the human spirit. The year has brought us the satisfaction of work well done and fresh visions of our duty which will make us more thoughtful and more conscientious, and in the several homes and places of worship to render thanks to Almighty God."

"In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington this 23rd day of October, in the year of our Lord 1918, and of the Independence of the United States the 53rd."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON, OCT. 23
BALAK AND BALAAM
Num. 22; 23; 24; 10-19.

22: 2. And Balak the son of Zipporah saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites.

3. And Moab was sore afraid of the people, because they were many; and Moab was distressed because of the children of Israel.

4. And Moab said unto the elders of Midian, Now shall this company lick up as the ox licketh up the grass of the field. And Balak the son of Zipporah was king of the Moabitites at that time.

5. He sent messengers therefore unto Balaam the son of Beor to Pithor, which is by the river of the land of the children of his people, to call him, saying, Behold, there is a people come out of Egypt; they cover the face of the earth, and they abide over against me:

6. Come now therefore, I pray thee, curse me this people; for they are too mighty for me: peradventure I shall prevail, that they may smite them, and that I may drive them out of the land; for I wot that he whom thou bleamest is blessed, and he whom thou cursest is cursed.

7. 10. And Balaam's anger was kindled against Balaam, and he smote his hands together; and Balaam said unto Balakim, I called thee to curse mine enemies, and, behold, thou hast altogether blessed them these three times.

12. Therefore now thee thou to this place: I thought to promote thee unto honor, but lo, the Lord hath kept thee back from honor.

13. And Balaam said unto Balak, I will not go: forasmuch as the Lord hath said, I cannot go beyond the commandment of the Lord, to do either good or bad of mine own mind; but what the Lord saith, that will I speak.

14. And now, behold, I go unto my people; come therefore, and I will advertise thee what this people shall do to thy people in the latter days.

15. And he took up his parable, and said, Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man whose eyes are open hath said,

16. He hath said, which heard the words of God, and knew the knowledge of the most High, which saw the vision of the highgate, falling into a trance, but having his eyes open:

17. I shall see him, but not nigh; there shall come a star out of Jacob, and a scepter shall rise out of Israel, and shall smite the corners of Moab, and destroy all the children of Amora.

18. And Edom shall be a possession for his enemies; and Israel shall do valiantly.

19. Out of Jacob shall come he that shall have dominion, and shall destroy him that remaineth of the city.

Golden Text—"A double minded man is unstable in all his ways"—James 1: 8.

Introductory.

The last two or three seasons have covered a considerable number of years, and the people have now reached the country on the east of the Jordan, and we know not the plains of Moab. They are nearing the end of their wanderings. Their herds have increased and are scattered over the plain, feeding as will. They are sought to make a pretty direct journey by way of Edom, the country inhabited by the descendants of Esau; but were not allowed to do reach, their mode a detour, but had reached the point at which they were aiming, they are about ready to turn back, that comes between the last season and this. All ought to be very familiar with this history, for it is often referred to in literature and in the pulpit.

Balak was the king of Moab, and Balaam was a diviner and a soothsayer. He was a cross between a worshiper of Jehovah and a heathen. He had learned something about the word in Moses' law Friday evening, but under a divine influence. He made a good hit, he was praised, and sometimes he professed that Jehovah had directed him. He was accustomed to receive money for his prophecies, but he was now under a sort of spell. He feared to prophesy, or a blessing, unless assured that it was from Jehovah. He was a time server, and yet he feared the God of Israel.

Expository.

2. Balak had been told of what had been done by and for Israel during the years of the encampment in the wilderness. He saw that his own country was threatened, and yet he feared to make war upon the intruders. He saw that they were stronger than he.

3. He and his people were greatly afraid of this Jehovah-blessed people. They knew that it was vain for any other god to undertake to cope with those whom Jehovah led.

4. Midian was another country adjoining Moab, and both of them together were too weak to resist Israel. Balak proposed that they act together, his people and the Midianites.

5. Balaam was a Midianite, but was not just then living among his own people; or rather, he was living in a remote section of his people, near the river Euphrates to the eastward, at a place called Pithor. The messengers were to tell Balaam about the people who had invaded the country of Moab.

6. He wanted Balaam to come and utter a curse upon the people whom he feared. He would have Balaam obtain for him the assistance of some god who might help him to prevent the passage of Israel through his country. He had great confidence in Balaam. He had heard of his valiantness, of prophesying, and had confidence in him, at least so far that he now wanted his help.

Chapter 22: 10. Balak was greatly disappointed. All had gone to nothing. Even worse, when Balaam had opened his mouth to curse, the Lord had filled it with blessings. He could not speak who he wanted to. Balak was so angry that he clapped his hands in anger, threatening Balaam. He was utterly disgusted with the prophet.

11. He had purposed to bestow great honor upon Balaam; but now he is obliged to confess that the Jehovah, whom Balaam recognized as his master for the time, had been an enemy for the prophet as well as of himself.

12. Balaam was unhappy. He knew that he had been under the influence of a higher power, and had spoken words which he had hoped to avoid. He had to have to speak.

13. He had said that he could not speak what God did not put in his mouth. All the time he had been under the influence of one who was not on the side of Balak.

14. He would do as Balak said, get away as soon as practicable, but he would say one word before he went. Jehovah was using him still and must have a prophecy to utter and must say it.

15. His parable was his prophecy. It extends to and includes the 13th verse. It is very striking and impressive. The whole narrative is of a very exalted and remarkable piece of writing. It is worthy of careful reading and study.

STATE LEAGUE OF COMMERCIAL CLUBS

CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT BOISE IN NOVEMBER

President Beach Writes All Commercial Clubs of State Urging Them to be Represented at the Meeting.

The members of the Twin Falls Commercial club will be interested in a communication received by Secretary McMillan from R. G. Beach, president of the Idaho State League of Commercial Clubs. While Mr. Beach makes his home at Lewiston, he has large business interests in Twin Falls and is well known to a large number of the people of the tract. Mr. Beach will be in Twin Falls November 3, going from here to the league meeting at Boise November 9 and 10. In his letter to Secretary McMillan he gives a brief history of the league, starting in 1911.

"The state league was organized a little over a year ago at Boise, but only five clubs joined—Moscow, Lewiston, Boise, Pocatello and Homedale. The funds received were but $68.75. W. H. Childs exhibited splendid public spirit when he donated his services as secretary for the year and has been efficient and painstaking. Even with this small nucleus we felt the weight of cooperation and it was the result which was largely instrumental in getting our exhibition appropriation and which has given to us Major Reed as executive commissioner, and the state is today receiving the benefit of his experience and ability as immediate commissioner, although no money was appropriated for the office.

"Probably the largest work of the league last year was its activity in assisting to raise the quarantine on our alfalfa by California, which was a great saving to Idaho, but to be successful the coming year we must have larger co-operation and take up the larger business questions pertaining to the welfare of Idaho.

Plays No Part in Politics.
"The state league is absolutely non-political and apart from politics. It is to combine the active and practical business men of the state into a stable organization which may at all times point the way to practical action on state legislation. It is not to maintain a bureau at Boise during the sessions of the legislature to examine proposed bills, and when inexperienced members propose bills which would be a hardship on the business interests or drive capital away or prevent capital from coming into the state, the bureau would outline the matter to each club or commercial body in the state for its consideration, and that they need to mobilize their senators and representatives, thus showing them the interest and will of their constituents, which is what every representative of the people most desires, and in this way the business man of the state will be his welfare.

Help Makers of Law.
"If we can have the active assistance of the press, which I consider the greatest power for public good the state has, we can do a lot of good for the people of the state thinking on state matters. If our constitution is to be amended, we can conduct a campaign of education in order that the people may vote intelligently on so important a matter. We can show the next legislature the fruits of our work, which would be to the best interests of our state to be repealed or amended. These laws will be brought up and passed at the next convention, November 9 and 10. Also at this convention, we will like each delegate to have his idea to be made known to his section of the state at large well defined, as it is our desire to bring out the things most needed in Idaho in advance of the convention, that they may be discussed over the state, so that when the men are sent to Boise to represent us they will be fully informed of the facts and advance knowledge of the bills to be acted on. No legislation on earth can come together in two months that requires intelligent consideration to so many different bills. I am told there were 700 bills introduced in the last legislature. We have too much legislation for us.

Things Now in Sight.
"As a state body we can assist and help up all our better activities looking toward the completion of a north and south railroad, also an interstate trunk wagon or automobile road. We can aid in all good road movements. We can aid in arousing interest in Idaho exhibits at the great Panama-Pacific exposition, but mind there is no limit to the good we can do if we work unselfishly, for the interests of the great state which has come to us for us.

"We earnestly request that your commercial clubs be represented at Boise November 9 and 10, and also at the meeting for the coming year. Let us get all of Idaho united and working toward a common end."

FARMERS TELL OF YIELDS

Secretary McMillan Secures Affidavits to Convince Doubting Thomases.

Reports of heavy crop yields, given by reliable farmers, should not be questioned—at least not on the part of Twin Falls farmers. And when the farmer declares under oath that he has secured a certain yield, that statistic all reasonable doubts as to the yield.

Secretary McMillan, of the Commercial club, is gathering data in the line of crop yields on the Twin Falls tract and is asking a large number of successful farmers to furnish affidavits with their crop report. No hesitancy is shown by these farmers in making oath to the productiveness of their farms, or the increase of their bank account. The substance of some of these affidavits is as follows:

Joseph H. Schwabe raised 490 bushels of peas from 10 acres; an average of 49 bushels per acre.

Ward J. Blankenship raised 301 bushels of corn from seven acres; an average of 43 bushels per acre.

E. F. Forman harvested 400 bushels of alfalfa from 40 acres, an average of 10 bushels per acre, and the market price was $9 per bushel. His average expense was rent, $10; irrigation, $150; cutting, $200; and threshing, $125. Total average expense, $385; total crop expense, $1040; profit, net—$250.

W. W. McClain, from 12.4 acres raised 3747 sacks of potatoes, averaging 303 pounds. The total crop value was $3330, or $267 per acre. On expense per acre is reported: rent, $5; plowing, $4; repairing, $3; seed, $3; planting, $150; cultivating, $3; irrigation, $1; hauling, $2.75; making total average expense $275.25, and a net profit per acre of $132.75.

The foregoing records were taken at random from the affidavits and are representative of the reports that are being received at large.

Defenses Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one cure guaranteed, and that is by constitutional remedies. The perfect blood, in initial condition of the mucous lining of the ear, is the cause of the trouble. When the tissue is inflamed, the ear is entirely closed, and the hearing is lost. The hearing can be taken out and the hearing restored. The hearing is restored by the use of the hearing, which is restored forever, since it is not a disease, but a condition, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the ear. We will give you a full and complete course of the hearing, which is restored forever. Mail 10 cents for a trial. Send for brochure, free.

Amusements

COTILLION OPENING.
A play with genuine "meat" actors on a real stage was the feature offered Monday night at the official opening of Cotillion Hall for the theatrical season. The audience of December 13 has been good and loyal patrons to the "movies" and will continue to fill those houses nightly, but a little change is related now and then. It is our net to make the show-top great, the management of the Cotillion is started in the talking pictures, which were good and were appreciated by the crowds in attendance. Then, on Monday night, a real comedy, with real live actors, they were not "ham" actors, either, put on Eugene Walters' "The Wolf," in a manner most pleasing to the audience. It was the house. If Managers Myers & Grove keep up the high standard they have set for themselves by the way of handling their affairs, they will have the thanks of the theater-going public and well-filled houses as a reward. The attraction for tonight, "The Harve," is said to be a strong play with capable actors to present it.

COTILLION HALL

The Harve.
A magnificent production with electrical effects "The Harve," exactly as played one solid year in New York, produced by the Paul Glimore Associated Players, will be seen at Cotillion hall, Thursday, October 30. "The Harve" which ran all season at the Bijou in New York, proving one of the best plays that have swept to which the American audience have been accustomed. It does not make horses the principle of a twisted passion, but shows the harve wrought by illicit love. The theme of the play is a merciless arraignment of the modern method of thought which has been preached to American readers by authors of erotic novels and by morbid-minded dramatists whose plays, written from the European point of view, have been exploited on the American stage.

Wednesday and Thursday, November 5 and 6, the Reynolds & Hovers, ten people, with Mr. E. Forrest Taylor and Miss Ada Daniels, present two exceptional plays at Cotillion hall.
This is without question the strongest supporting company that Mr. Taylor and Miss Daniels have ever been here with. Every detail both in the staging and action of their plays is taken care of with great care.
Wednesday, November 15, a great political story of the present day will be presented.
The Game.
Do you know the present political condition most of the larger cities? The respectable man of business affairs who gets special contracts? The politician who stands in the way of the "ring," but is given a good untried position to stop "battering." The plus man of affairs, whose hands are clean, but whose heart and mind plot the many frauds and schemes that loot the taxpayer?—and this same party is in all communities and generally referred to as "honorable," as and so.

The Deep Purple.

Thursday, November 6, The Deep Purple is the offering. In this play Mr. Taylor does the best work of his career. At Salt Lake in the big stock company the creator of the leading female role, Miss Dwyer, stated that Mr. Taylor's playing was it anything better than that of the man who created the part in the original production of the play.
"It is a masterpiece pure and undiluted," said one New York critic after the first performance. "What a melodrama! He was asked: 'Does it fit a glorified dime novel written with splendid distinction, with charming grace, with red-violet—but still—of the same intense quality—but it is all presented with such delicacy, such literary charm, one almost forgets the plot and characters of the underworld.'"

Mr. Paul Armstrong has given to the world a literary gem. True the characters are gems in the rough, but they are characters of everyday life. "The Deep Purple" will fascinate you and you will be reluctant to leave your seat at the final fall of the curtain.

THE ISIS.

A circus in November is an innovation that has been made possible for Twin Falls residents by the invention of the motion picture camera and the alertness of the manager of the Isis theater.
The great Hagenbeck-Wallace shows combined, founded by that wonderful wild animal trainer, Carl Hagenbeck, will be shown a 14 moving pictures at the Isis on Monday and Tuesday, November 3 and 4. The entire work of this mammoth circus organization, from the arrival of the first advertising car to the loading of the last wagon on the train at night, are vividly shown. Especial praise has been heaped on the pictures of the big show proper for unusual brilliancy and clearness, due to the fact that the canvas was removed for the special performance of the pictures taken in the open air.
The "Hagenbeck-Wallace Spectacular" as the pictures are called, have met with great success all over the country, playing for nearly four consecutive months in the Whitney theater in Chicago at prices of thirty-five and fifty cents.
