President Wilson's appointment of C. G. Bohannon as governor of the Panama Canal zone is a happy choice and a step towards the nation's service.

The Times believes that the lesson of 1912 cannot have made a very deep impression on the party leaders in this country, or there would be a greater effort to keep every Republican no matter what his individual brand may be, but whose can run faster than an elephant.

OPPOSITE NEWS OF THE HOUR

This country is now in the midst of a financial and industrial panic, with lease to come, if we are to accept the dark view of Representative Mann and other Republican leaders. But from the other side of the house come assurances no less authoritative that the period of industrial depression is finally behind us and that we are rapidly emerging into a period of prosperity.

The Times is not a party paper, but its publication in the hands of the Democrats would do better to occupy themselves with larger than "with" questions of peace, and in the declaration of another that "a million at work a year ago were now idle." Leader Underwood replies:

"What I have to say to the birds of Illinois who preach disaster, hoping to bring their party back into power is this:

"The industrial depression we have been passing through has lasted 40-more than a year. It began before Woodrow Wilson was elected. Before the coming election next fall there will be an industrial awakening that will put to shame the pale-presiding-brokers-who-ery-blaster in order to bring about depression."

Then, treating them to ammunition from their own camp, he cites the recent statement of John W. Wannamaker, leading Republican and a leading business man, who in a New Year's speech before the Union League Club, Philadelphia, said:

"The man who says nothing but gloom and disaster, is not a true American. The breeders of public ought to be deported."

"I have no fear of any serious settlement of business or of any long disturbance of property."

"And to Mr. Underwood's use of statistics, especially in the iron and steel industry, Mr. Underwood replied:

"I represent a great iron and steel district, myself. Practically everything made in my district has been on the free list. We have not received any special protection from our committee, but the mills, furnaces, and factories have been running since the holidays. I have seen a pile of papers that the country had put open to work in the 'shifts'."

"It is interesting to note that on the same day that Mr. Underwood and the other Republicans were busy with the news dispatches from various districts reporting destruction of articles in mills and factories, thus a Chicago Herald of January 13 states that more than 2,000 men went back to work today in the mills of the Illinois Steel Company at South Chicago, and a Pittsburgh correspondent on the same date reported the re-employment of 10,000 men."

"Turning next to the alarming picture painted by Representative Humphrey, of the state of Washington, we learn that an annual pay-roll of $256,000,000 has been wiped out since President Wilson entered the White House."

"The steel-workers are losing $22,000,000 per month. An annual payroll of $76,000,000 has been wiped out a sum equal to $2,000,000 a day that the American workmen were receiving a few months ago has been taken from them and paid to the foreigner or paid at all."

"Is it any wonder, with this sum daily taken from labor, that there is general utterance of serenity?"

to his state 227 shingle and lumber mills had closed their doors, throwing some 15,000 men out of work. Now a correspondent from Charleston, Washington, himself a Republican, writes that "the closing down of a large number of the shingle and lumber mills of our state is an annual occurrence at this time of year, and the policies of the present national administration have nothing to do with it." - Literary Digest.

THE EXPRESS-AWAKENING

Instead of being driven out of business by the parcel post, as some predicted, or being ruined by the Interstate Commerce Commission's lowering of rates, the express companies seem determined to give the government some real competition and are using the new law to attract new business. So the parcel post, as the New York Press points out, brings good things to the public from the express companies, while at the same time successful express competition is bound to put the post office department on its best behavior. The companies, as the Waterbury (S. D.) Post-Opinion sees it, are simply "not thinking down to competitive instead of monopolistic methods." And this means that the U. S. business in the offer of lower rates and better service. It means a new attitude toward the public on the part of the express companies. The Justice in the current Wells Fargo Messenger, talking of the discharge of the "couragous" clerk who used to "stick his jaw out straight and tell the tickers good and plain we don't need 'that freight'" rather illustrates the situation as the press phrases it. The companies now "need the freight" as the Dakota daily observes:

"A man with a parcel to ship no longer is treated as a servant who presents himself to an express agent. He is recognized as a customer and given courteous consideration. Fully aware to do this in days gone by was one of the principal factors in setting the public mind on edge against the express companies."

That fact is one of the reasons why the New York Commercial Press has increased traffic which will be attracted to the express companies by the lower rates that are to come into effect on February 1 next. These rates, explains the New York Times, mean an average reduction of about 15 per cent the country over. Under the parcel post is still much cheaper, for small packages, over a short haul. - On larger shipments the rates by express are in numerous instances under those collected by the post office.

Express experts believe, according to The Commercial, that a large number of shipments will be attracted especially of goods weighing fifty pounds or less, which have hitherto been moved by freight. For the new express rates will cut under some of the long-haul freight charges, and even where the express rates are higher than the freight rates, promptness in delivery and greater ease and certainty in tracing individual parcels will attract much of this business. The express companies are able to handle collect parcels to better advantage than the government postal service or the railroad freight service. While the establishment of the parcel post system has undoubtedly cut down the credits of the express companies, it promises to lead to great and, in some cases unforeseen, expansion of traffic of this character which will be of benefit to the people at large, and it is to be hoped, will be reasonably profitable to the express companies themselves.

City dwellers are no less familiar with the express advertisements in the papers and the placards in windows and on delivery wagons proclaiming the advantages to the public in the superior service and low rates. In an editorial in the Wells Fargo Messenger (New York) we find again that "the talk has been going on for some time about the possibility of bringing the traffic flowing through the channels of the express." Well-Fargo companies—and all the big companies are pursuing the same policy—are further reminded not to "forget our other talking points." And these are to quote a typical advertisement: "The express, with its wagons, gives a free collection service; a receipt for each package and free insurance up to fifty dollars and a free fire alarm blanket. It carries your packages in passenger-floats and sometimes in special trains that are faster than passenger trains, and if those packages are small or at all fragile it will carry them in its strong iron-bound safety trucks." - Literary Digest.

MANY BILLS INTRODUCED

More Than 15,000 Bills Introduced in Both Houses of Congress.

(Special Correspondence.)

Brady Leads Paretello Federal Bldg. Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—Paretello is to be constructed of Idaho sandstone at a cost of $5,575,000. The time-table is through the case was bonded, the treasury department having closed all matters connected with it on account of the... In excess of the appropriation... However, after Senator Brady's recent visit to Idaho, where he had taken up the matter with various contractors to see if it was not possible to get a bid within the limits of the appropriation, and where he secured the views of several of them to submit bids providing for the use of local materials, he immediately upon his return to Washington presented on the treasury department to reopen the case.

As a result of his persistent efforts, the senator has been notified that the contract has been awarded the firm of Palmberg & Mathison of Astoria, Ore., who submitted a bid within the limit of the appropriation, specifying the use of Idaho sand stone in the construction of this building.

The work is to be completed July 5, 1916.

More Than 15,000 Bills. For History Congress.

The almost impossible task that would be to the congress should it attempt to act upon all the bills that come before it is shown by the record in the clerical offices of the two houses since last April.

In the house the number of bills introduced has already reached 17,328, while in the senate less than one-fourth as large in membership, bills number 5,214. With the exception of a few measures that have been passed all these bills are technically new before congress.

Their number will be augmented by thousands, it is expected, before the current session ends next summer, and another session of the sixty-third congress, beginning next December, will add many more to the total.

The thousands of measures that pour in at each session have greatly increased the work of committees during the last two years, a great proportion of the bills do not rest further than the committee room. The number of bills awaiting action seldom exceeds 500, including special bills of a local character.

The large number introduced thus far in the current session is particularly because but little legislation of a general character was taken up between the first assembling of congress April 7, and the beginning of the regular session December 1.

Monthly Instead of Quarterly Payment of Pensions.

Congressman Smith of Idaho, is making enactment of legislation providing for the payment of pensions monthly instead of quarterly to the survivors of the Union Army and the able bodied war veterans.

Mr. Smith contends that the additional expense required to issue monthly checks instead of quarterly is fully warranted in the interests of the government fifty years ago, who are, in many instances, being denied their pension for support, or there are but few of them now able to earn their livelihood.

Cremery Trust in Hands of Attorney Representing Attorney L. French has received a copy of resolutions adopted by the Idaho State Fairmen's Association, which resolutions providing that a trust estate is now operating for the purpose of destroying the independent creameries of Idaho, and sending the entire butter output of the northwest, contrary to the provisions of the interstate-commerce laws, and he has taken up the matter with the attorney general to see if the present laws are not sufficiently ample to correct the situation.

Idahoans at National Capital. Former Agent, Gov. Ezra A. Russell of Idaho, is one of the Idaho visitors at the national capital, having extended his trip east from Indiana where he has been spending a few weeks with relatives. Dr. W. P. Smith of Boise, and Mrs. J. J. Smith of Pocatello, are also visiting Washington.

Attorney General Peterson, State Commissioner of Agriculture, and had a conference with the president last week regarding Idaho affairs, having been introduced by Congressman... Colonel Goethals' selection was called to him at Panama. Secretary Gargison and he was confident there would be no question about his appointment. The change in this will mean a loss of $5,000 a year to the head of the zone, as the government's property will be sold and he no longer receive $15,000 as chairman of the commission.

Washington.—President Wilson's penmanship government for the Panama canal zone, naming Colonel Goethals as the first civil governor. Panama.—News of the signing by Colonel Wilson of an executive order establishing a permanent government for the canal zone, with Colonel Goethals as governor, reached here today. The news brought with it reports of the arrival of the ship that carried the governor to Panama.

WILSON RESISTS NO-TOLL

His View on Canal Inland Toward Conditions of England.

Washington, Jan. 27.—That President Wilson is opposed to the extension of American coastwise shipping from Panama canal tolls was fully asserted at the cabinet today by those who know what took place at the conference last night between the president and cabinet members regarding relations with England.

Senators who talked with the president and today that Mr. Wilson fully explained his position on the tolls question—that his view is inclined toward the extension of Great Britain and that he would make public his attitude in the near future. Several cabinet members expressed surprise that the president's positive attitude had not urged some action at the extra session of Congress.

When the president may recommend that Congress be reconvened was not disclosed in today's reports of the White House conference, but it was pointed out that one way would be to reconvene the session for the purpose of the act, and another, the passage of the Adams-on-revolution to suspend for two years the operation of the canal clause and thus demonstrate whether the canal could be self-sustaining without tolls from American ships.

It was said that the president was not opposed to toll collections on each, but that he was strongly in opposition to the extension of the tolls which would not agree with the provisions of the Panama canal treaty.

The embargo on arms for Mexico also was discussed at the night's conference. Some senators favored it on the ground that it would hasten the solution of the problem.

It was the general opinion of senators after their talk with the president on the Panama canal treaty, which offers in Japan were friendly to the United States, but were being pressed by radicals.

The dispute between the United States and Great Britain turns on the construction of article three of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, which provides:

"The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of equality, so that there shall be no discrimination against any such nation or its citizens or subjects in respect of the conditions of charges of tonnage or otherwise, such conditions and charges of tonnage should be just and equitable."

The British contention has been that this clause of parity equality was to be taken literally, but the Panama canal act, which provides equality of tonnage, but not equality of charges, is contrary to the language of the treaty.

Mr. Knox, while expressing of state under the tariff administration, pointed to Sir Edward Grey, that the attitude of the present administration has not been generally known up to the time of the president's conference with senators last night, when according to the view they outlined, Mr. Wilson supports the view of equality of treatment under the treaty.—Salt Lake Telegram.

TALKS ON THRIFT

No. 31.—SAVINGS CLUBS.

The best way to accumulate money is to regularly save and bank a fixed portion of your income, no matter how small the amount. Andrew Carnegie has been an ardent proponent of this plan, and he has been the head of the executive committee of this fund, which started with the idea of pointing out wholesome, economical boarding places for summer outings. The next step was to take care of the savings of the girls throughout the year, so that the outing could be had without any interruption of the pay envelope and the needed needed vacation. This work has proved so that it now teaches the girls to save in other directions.

Similar co-operative effort is made, being members of the Society for the Prevention of Unpleasant Outings, "Spunk," as they are popularly called. The idea back of this organization is that there is too much senseless giving at Christmas time, especially by those who can least afford it, and that this waste can be prevented by the plan made and the above of Christmas giving.

But, if you are not so situated that you can join a savings club of any kind, do not give up the idea of saving. Do it on your own account. Think it really a simple thing, but it means a great deal. Just stop wanting, stop indulging in things you cannot afford, have an object for which to work, save some of your daily earnings in the savings bank, until accumulating little by little, you have enough to invest, then consult some good banker or other business man, and put it into real estate, bonds, or some other safe security, so that by-and-by an income for old age may be secured, and dread of want, in case of sickness or accident, be banished from your mind forever.

There are several "houses" in the "Christmas Savings Club." If you join "Class C," you pay 5 cents the first week, 10 cents the second week, 15 cents the third week, 20 cents the fourth week, and so on for fifty weeks. Then two weeks before Christmas the Santa Claus bank of your choice mails you for $63.75, usually with 10 percent interest. Or if you still are fairly impatient after Christmas you may place this class by paying $2.50 the first week, and reducing the payment to 20 cents each week. Then there are 10 cent and one cent classes, which return $25.00 and $12.50, respectively, to the member just before Christmas.

Over eight hundred banks conduct Christmas Savings Clubs in 1912, and the clubs were scattered through many States. The Union Trust Company, of Harrisburg, Pa., distributed $250,000 to club members at Christmas time.

The working people of England are front-runners of savings clubs, all sorts of pensions, etc., created in England then to save money that they may have it to spend during the few busy seasons of the year. There are clubs of all kinds, ranging from the club club, to which the workmen contribute, to the little clubs run for the purpose of letting school children have a shining's worth of sweets for a Christmas treat. There is hardly a workaday of any importance in London without its workmen's savings societies, which there are many dividing clubs carried on, at public houses, and the deposits amount in the aggregate to a very large sum. The withdrawals begin in the early days of December, and it is not uncommon for the banks to pay out $1,460 to $2,463 to a single club.

Working girls in this country have found the Vacation Savings Fund very helpful. Mrs. Alice Morgan, chairman of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is at the head of the executive committee of this fund, which started with the idea of pointing out wholesome, economical boarding places for summer outings. The next step was to take care of the savings of the girls throughout the year, so that the outing could be had without any interruption of the pay envelope and the needed needed vacation. This work has proved so that it now teaches the girls to save in other directions.

JURY HEARS SULZER'S STORY

Tells of Threats Alleged to Have Been Made by Murphy.

A grand jury investigation was begun today into the story told under oath by Charles P. Murphy, who testified that he was willing to testify and could well testify to the fact that Sulzer would quit his office in the event of a conviction.

Sulzer reported before the grand jury the story of his alleged dealings with the Tinianum chief and it was made known by District Attorney Whittman that this part of the investigation to the alleged attempt of James B. Gaffney, Sulzer's business and political associate, to exact a political contribution of $100,000 from James C. Stewart, a state highway contractor, would be made the subject of a two-fold inquiry.

The district attorney also said that United States Senator O'Gorman, who Sulzer testified told him that Gaffney was Murphy's chief "hanger on" and that he would do just what he has done, perjure himself, said Murphy.

The district attorney also said that United States Senator O'Gorman, who Sulzer testified told him that Gaffney was Murphy's chief "hanger on" and that he would do just what he has done, perjure himself, said Murphy.

ENGINEER REPORTS ON GRADE

Engineer Smith Gives Low Cost to Falls Grade.

While in Topeka last week President Steeley of the Commercial club, had an interview with Engineer Smith of the state highway commission, about the proposed bridge and grade at Shoshone, Mr. Smith stated that the eight percent grade on the Twin Falls bridge could be put in shape for about five hundred dollars, which with the cost of the bridge would bring the total down to the estimated amount. The proposed new grade will run parallel with the present first street with the 400 and will then follow largely the old trail down to the hotel.
