The Republicans of the neighboring county of Blainock in a recent luncheon meeting seemed to have the right kind of an article to judge from the press reports. The audience of progressive and stand fast factions of the county committee, the formation of a Lincoln League, which will attempt to bring out policies for the consideration of the party but which is non-political as far as its own rules and aims is concerned. Twin Falls Republican can well afford to make use of some such plan in order that the last vestige of bitterness may be cleared away. It can afford to ignore the factional idea of the group. The two factions may be merged into an organization that has for its purpose real progress along political reforms. There is very little difference between a progressive and a standpater, outside of beliefs as to party manipulation. In fact both are favorable to the greater part of the so-called new reform ideas. The real contest has been over the methods of carrying such ideas out.

The action of the Public Utilities Commission in sending H. H. Miller, former employee of the Great Eastern Power Company to investigate the conduct of the company for the commission, looks very good. In the first place when employee cannot, by the fact of his association with that company help the president in their favor, and be very apt to see things from their standpoint. As a consequence the public utilities commission is obliged to request the sending of Mr. Miller as the representative of the Twin Falls Commission. As far as the expert service of an accountant is concerned the situation here does not need such a man's services, but rather a man with common sense to get in touch with the people, see their bills and make a report to the public. The company's fairness with its customers is the subject of investigation from a man whose former connection with the power company will not give prejudicial advice. The Times fully believe that the present investigation cannot be fair to the side of the company.

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHING

The average newspaper is supposed, through its columns, to lead the community in every uplift movement. The newspaper is supposed to be the voice of the editor shall always be on the side of right. The editor must be impartial and not take up either side. A good many editors pose as morally upright who would be shamelessly indifferent if it were not for the downwardly straight of the hat they wear. Yet that is just one of the items which should be applied to the editor who is constantly going after the money and the power. It is the impression that his motives and energies are worthy when as a matter of fact he is only an ordinary man of means and untalented soul. The Times hope that the editors of the Distributed Press club are getting educated to the idea of giving proper credit to the papers from which any interesting item is clipped, but they are not. They will not give credit for week fill pages of their sheets with minor deliberately stolen from competitors and who are thus placing themselves in the class of the pilferers mentioned above. Some articles make a practice of stealing; articles and make no bones of it, but the greater number are destined to realize that the creation of a newspaper and every article in it is a part of the editor's own individuality and creativity. It is far as any credit for the source is concerned. The newspaper pilferer is in derogation with his own craft and should be with his readers also.

THE NEW ANTITRUST BILLS.

When Wall Street and the financial press have cordial reception to President Wilson's anti-trust message, the anti-trust editor sounded a note of warning against the optimistic interpretation of this fact. The trust bill, as the anti-trust editor has charged against it, it has not thrown itself on the mercy of the courts, it is the Washington Star (Ind.) and the Pittsburg Dispatch (Ind.) admonished us not to imagine the fight ended. There are two, three, or a dozen trusts have professed a desire to unscramble their eggs. From across the Atlantic also the same warning reached us, the London Daily News characterizing as "too optimistic" the hope that the trust message will accomplish in curbing their own power. Now as the effect of President Wilson's "injunctive character," wears off and his anti-monopoly program is enshrined in five specific bills before congress, the smile on the face of "big business" seems to be fading into an expression of anxiety. C. Stuart Peterson, a director of the Pennsylvania railroad, declares that "a shudder ran through him" when he read the outlines of these administration measures, and he warned that the very same kind of humiliating positions which are about to be imposed on the business of the United States will drive capital away from this country. The same Philadelphia Dispatch which carries Mr. Peterson's protest quotes W. M. Husted, former attorney general, and a Democrat, as exclaiming: "What is going to happen to business if a federal commission is given the right to pry into the business of a manufacturer, manufacturer, or wholesaler?" The New York Star (Ind.) in a later editorial than the one we quoted last week after a close scrutiny of the proposed measures, exhorts business not to "ferus ruin, and needless ruin, to the business of our land" by placing them on the statute books.

If President Wilson advances with unobstructed hand to meet big business "halfway," remarks the Los Angeles Express (Prog.), it is "to accept a surrender not to effect a compromise of the public interest." The Washington correspondent of the present measures are largely tentative, and the criticism of business men will be softened and carefully considered before they are given their final form. These public hearings will be held by the house Judiciary committee and interested and foreign commerce committee, and in the Washington dispatch we read:

While another committee has made up a list of witnesses, there is Richard D. Wood by products work, the secretary of the stock and bond exchange of the United States Steel Corporation. Such lines of the Erie-Pratt-Clayton Group. Mr. Wood, of the Harvester combination, and J. P. Morgan will have an opportunity to present their views on the anti-trust bill.

Samuel Copers will be asked to appear for labor while the various agricultural associations will be invited to send representatives to confer with the commission.

For the measures are not to be handed in a particular spirit, but is inferred from the statement by New York World's Washington correspondent, that the Judiciary committee may invite three former attorney generals, George W. Wickard, William C. Kwoy, and Charles C. Thompson, to criticize the administration's anti-trust measures and to offer suggestions for their improvement. And while the house committee are holding public hearings, so also will the Senate. The hearing is a further assurance that the anti-trust bill will be sent out to the public committee to authorize the final question, with requests for concrete suggestions for amendments. This affords yet another correspondent, the bills that have been prepared as a tentative program, are to be exposed to the full glare of the floodlight so that those who are not well versed in the intricacies of the bill are not taken out before they are presented to the Senate. The hearing is a further assurance that the anti-trust bill will be sent out to the public committee to authorize the final question, with requests for concrete suggestions for amendments. and unqualified. Lewis Underwood, according to the correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, expects congress to finish with the anti-trust program and adjourn by June 1.

As drafted, remarks the New York Tribune (Prog.), the administration's anti-trust bills "allow what a difference there is between optimistic in vague phrases a 'constitution of peace' for business and training laws which will really bring back peace to the distracted business community." It expresses the hope, however, that in framing the same, a committee consisting of representatives from the two houses they may finally be banished to a far less objectionable shape. And The Sun, which praised the President's message, expresses the opinion that some of the new trust legislation, if enacted, will be declared unconstitutional, but at the same time urges the business men of the country not to rest secure in this probability.

For just as they did when the current bill was first introduced, and the world of their own making, to place before congress "the dignity and nobility" that are sought to be accomplished by some of these bills.

The five bills which congress proposes to make effective the president's recommendations are: An Interstate Trade Commission bill; an Interlocking Directorates bill; a Sherman Law Definition bill; a Trade Relations bill; and a bill empowering the Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate stock and bond issues of all interstate railroads. These are sometimes spoken of by the correspondents as the "five brothers." In addition to the famous "seven sisters," the seven anti-trust bills placed on New Jersey's statute books during Woodrow Wilson's governorship. In the New York Journal of Commerce we find the provisions of the Trade Commission bill thus summarized: By Representative John J. Mitchell, of Massachusetts, a member of the house judiciary committee.

"The Interstate Trade Commission bill calls for the establishment of a new commission supplementing the bureau of corporations and with very much enlarged powers and functions, among which may be mentioned the right to compel all corporations engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, except common carriers, to furnish to the commission information with reference to financial condition and relations to other corporations as may be desired; to give full access to books and records of such corporations; failure of which carries with it a fine of not more than $1,000 for every day of neglect to do so; the right to summon witnesses and to enforce such orders by the federal courts; the further right upon its own initiative to inquire whether such corporation is doing business in violation of any anti-trust law, and to make an annual report to congress with all information collected and any suggestion with reference to regulation of commerce which the commission believes should be enacted into law."

This bill also provides that the person who is commissioner of corporations at the time of its enactment shall become a member of the commission and the duration thereof for the term of seven years. The present commissioner of corporations is Joseph R. Davis, of Wisconsin. The Interlocking Directorates bill provides to quote Representative Mitchell's summary report that "after two years from its passage no person who is engaged as an individual or as a member of a partnership or as a director, an officer or officer of a corporation in the business of manufacturing or other railway cars, or locomotives, railway rolling stock, or other articles of iron, steel, coal, or the construction of a railway train remains shall become a director or other official employee of any railway or other multiple service corporation conducting an interstate business. The same provision is also in substance incorporated in the bill with reference to the book business. There is a penalty, a fine of $500 for every day of the continuance of the violation of the law." Literary Digest.

Our Ready-to-Wear Department a Real Fashion Center

WE'VE been showing Spring Suits for some weeks past. Our visitors surely must have liked them. Judging from their enthusiastic comments. Whole chapters might be written of the new styles—and it would be fascinating reading about the wing collars, the slanting ruffles on the skirts, the pleated tunics, the masses of silk materials, arranged so cleverly—the fetching little coats! But to see is better. As for style tendencies—well some favor the Gypsy coat, some a balero, some a blouse, some the Japanese lines—but all agree that coats are to be shorter than ever. Materials are crepe as a rule, and a wide range of other materials are shown—and colors include pistachio green, tango, hague blue, black and white effects, and always the staple navy; also mahogany and novelty effects.

Prices range $13.50 to $37.50

A Word About The New Coats

In jaunty length, as becomes the spring of materials that are especially bright and fresh—Crepe weaves, plain and checked pongee, black and white checked cloths, waffle cloths, and the shades are pistachio green, tan, tango, emerald, coral, blue, copenhagen, navy and bright reds. Some are belted styles, others plain backs. Charming in effect and beautiful in style. You'll find this the most complete showing in Twin Falls, as every wanted shade is here, and the styles are becoming to all.

Coats Range 7.50 to 27.50

Spring Dresses in Becoming Styles Prices Range $12.50 to $30.00

MORE and more dresses coming in, each one a beauty in itself. The new chiffon effects is a popular material. It is a fabric of the lightest and softest quality. Other materials are crepe, plaid, Ghudh cloths, crepe de chine, rajahs, messaline, charmeuse, crepe de chine and foulards; principally in the draped and tango effects. Others in the straight Japanese lines, some elaborately trimmed, others simplicity in itself, a group of dresses that are charming in every detail and forfills the newest fashion note. To see them is to admire them. They are in exclusive styles, but if is a good idea to make your selections early.

New Silks in a Multitude of Materials and Colors

No other store approaches the I. D. S. when it comes to magnitude of stocks and variety of materials. The coloring and figured effects are beautiful; words can do justice to the beauty of the fabrics we are showing—soft, heavy crepe in futuristic designs, clinging crepe de chine, charmeuse, crepe meteur, crepe cascade, and crepe chine, messaline, poplins in plain and drapal and dense figures, and soft lustrous Japanese silks, in fact any popular material that you might name and in every shade.

Priced from 85c to $4.00 Yard

Spring Clothes for Men an Authentic Showing

Men and Young Men's Spring Suits from the well-known Adler-Rochester line, garments that are highly tailored and have a style distinction, their own. They are made on correct lines and fit perfectly. The new shades are tan, browns, blues, grey, greens and fancy mixtures. We are showing a great line of Norfolk suits in all colors and different style effects and our display of suits at $15 is unequalled. We have styles and sizes to fit all men.

Priced from $12.50 to $30.00

New Spring Shirts Spring Suits for Boys New Neckwear New Spring Hats

SYNOPSIS.
Book I.
CHAPTER I.—Rudolph Van Veektin, a young man of letters, is astonished to see a young girl, not a housewife, and a stranger from the Pashanish coast. This is the first time in the history of the world that a woman has been seen in the presence of the Pashanish.

There was a conspicuously most look about his steady grey eyes, Van Veektin also noted, which presently disclosed a habit of narrowing and revealing a web of fine wrinkles at their corners. This strange change of face to his muscles, Van Veektin soon learned to recognize, possessed the peculiarity of indicating one of two moods—concentration upon the matter in hand or else a smiling humor that made one feel as though Van Veektin felt that his visitor would be a chair of speech, but that whatever he might say would be well worth listening to.

"Mr. Rudolph Van Veektin" now received the name of the man who could not have carried a yard beyond the person to whom it was addressed. Van Veektin nodded and motioned to a chair. "My name," he acknowledged. "And my first name is Rudolph. I am a detective. I might have expected it, but I didn't."

Instantly the steady eyes contracted and wrinkled at the corners, and the young man all at once discovered that his attention was expiring and that he could make no sympathy with his visitor.

"I don't know," he said, looking at the steady eyes. "I am a detective. I might have expected it, but I didn't."

"I am a detective," he said, looking at the steady eyes. "I might have expected it, but I didn't."

APOLLO CLUB MANAGEMENT

SOCIETY NOTES

Society items from the columns will be gladly received by The Times.

Mrs. Harry Allen will entertain the Ladies' Epiphany Guild on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 12. A full attendance is desired. The usual ten-cent tea will be served. Members and friends cordially invited.

Mrs. J. C. Gates was hostess to the Saturday Bridge club at her home on Sixth avenue last Friday evening. The event, which was a party dinner, was given in honor of Miss Wadsworth, whose marriage is to take place in the person of the Miss Lulu Shanks. The party was carried out in the decorations, red hearts and emblems being used in artistic effect. A good time was had by all present. The Miss Lulu Shanks showed the girls upon the guest of honor, which added much to the pleasure of the scene.

INDOOR-BASEBALL

Two good games at the Gym. Last week.

The indoor baseball game at the Thursday evening, though poorly attended, was the star of the week. The first game the home side won, 10 to 5, and in the second game the visiting team won, 9 to 5.

The Tuesday-Thursday game of Johnson, while the benches got a little hot and few hits were yielded. The Alumni secured two hits off Johnson, while the Bengals got first blood and led on the score during the first half of the game. They were able to hold out, however, and the home side won, 10 to 5.

In the Tuesday-Thursday game both teams hit the ball hard and while the scoring was heavy there were many fast and clever plays. Both teams were crippled from the absence of players but the final score indicates how closely the contest was fought.

Wednesday night of this week, Feb. 11, across the main course. Faculty vs. Alumni at 7:30 and Bengals vs. Alumni at 8:30. Two big games for one institution.

HEALTH AND HYGIENE

Issued by the Idaho State Board of Health.

When it comes to cancer of the breast you have a greater advantage than women have in cancer of the stomach. Cancer of the breast is one hundred times as frequent in women as in men.

The figures furnished by the leading surgeons showed that three-fourths of the tumors of the breast were cancerous, that is to say, recurring again on a surgical breast, the chance that a given tumor would be a cancer was three to one. It is estimated that this estimate was far too high, and that the average of breast cancer is one to the other 200.

The figures for the cases operated on were reported only by the surgeons, but the non-operative tumors are not reported on. The cases not operated on did not enter into the calculations. To start in, then, when a woman finds a hard nodule in her breast and she has made certain that it does not belong there, the chance is at least two to one that it is not cancer.

Being at the cancer age will not make much difference, since the cancer age is also the fibrosis age. It is not, however, the retention of fat age. A fat is which also has been found that also can be guided in retraction of the fibrous tissue. This is a very good sign when it is present, but from the practical standpoint it does not help much. Retraction of the nipple shows a cancer with the fibrosis has run on some time. Operation should always be done before a cancer advances far enough to retract the nipple.

Pain is a system that is emphasized. When violent pain is present, the patient is probably suffering from a cancer, but many cases of cancer are not accompanied by pain.

Enlargement of the glands under the arm, axilla, and yet of an impractical value. A diagnosis that is not made until the glands enlarge will not be made at all.

A hard tumor appearing in the breast at the cancer age should be watched for a month or two. At the end of this time, if it is found to be growing, it should be removed and the mass examined microscopically. If the microscope shows the growth of the tumor, the woman should herself look up on her way to cancer. If it shows the growth to be cancer, let the woman be removed and everything removed that is under suspicion, whether by reason of the appearance or by reason of the microscope, as in the matter of pyrocin and the zones of danger. Dr. Evans.

One sign of cancer of the breast is that the tumor is fixed and will not move around. This is a pretty sure sign, but not of practical value. When the tumor is fixed to the chest wall, so that it cannot be pushed about, operation time will not be made at all. The mobility of the skin, but this sign also is of little value. A benign fibroid attached to the skin gives the same sign.

ROCK CREEK NEWS

For Beautifying Your Hair

The Ladies in this Town are Simply Going Wild over Harmony Hair Beautifier. And no wonder, because to make the hair lustrous, soft and silky we believe there's nothing else—and we sell about all the various hair preparations made—that anywhere near comes up to Harmony Hair Beautifier.

Ask any one of the many women in this town who use it—she'll tell you she "loves" it. Just look at her hair, and you'll come to us and get some yourself.

HARMONY HAIR BEAUTIFIER

Is just what its name implies—Just to make the hair glossy, lustrous, more beautiful—Just to make it easier to dress, and more natural to fall easily and gracefully into every hair and fall of the hair.

It leaves a delightful fresh and cool effect, and a lingering, delicate perfume. Will not change or darken the color. Contains no oil, therefore doesn't leave the hair sticky or stringy. Simply sprinkle a little on your hair each time before brushing it. But first, make sure that your hair and scalp are clean, by using

Harmony Shampoo

A liquid shampoo to keep the hair clean, soft, smooth and beautiful. It gives an instantaneous, rich, foaming lather, penetrating to every part of the hair and scalp. It is washed off just as quickly, the entire operation taking only a few moments. It leaves no film or stiffness—just a refreshing sense of cool, sweet cleanliness. Just a dainty, pleasant and clean fragrance.

Both in odd-shaped ornamental bottles, with sprinkler tops. Harmony Shampoo, 50c. Both are guaranteed to please you, or your money back.

These Stago Beauties Endorse Them

There is no class of women who know better how to discriminate in the use of things to make their hair beautiful than actresses. Among the many celebrated stage beauties who use and enthusiastically praise both Harmony Hair Beautifier and Harmony Shampoo are: ETHEL BARRYMORE, Star in "The Sign of the Cross," New York; ELSIE FERGUSON, Star in "A Strange Woman," Lyceum, New York; LOUISE DRESSER, Star in "Dinah and Parlanter," G. THE REASON WHY

We Are Willing to Sell These Goods at an Actual Loss:

The policy of this store after several years' experience in selling Men's Clothing exclusively, is never to carry any garment from one season to the next, if possible.

This season we bought more high grade clothing than ever before; the backward season and trade conditions left many of them on our hands, so in order to show nothing but spring suits next month we are making this extremely low price.

This Means Any Suit or Overcoat in Stock

These garments are made by Schloss Bros. of Baltimore, one of the oldest and best-known manufacturers of Men's Clothing on the market. Every garment is hand tailored throughout, and nothing but all wool fabrics are used. Every feature to be found in Men's Clothes made to sell from $22.50 to $30 you will find in these clothes.

Never before to our knowledge, has clothing of this class been sold so cheap. Many of these suits are medium weights, suitable for spring wear.

We are also making a price of $10 on clothing worth from $15 to $20, a suit of these would make a fine garment to fill in and save your good clothes.

BIG LUMBER FIRMS MERGE

(Continued from Page 1.) Identified with southern Idaho, and confirms the belief that Idaho people in co-operation with friendly outside capital can be expected to assume prominent places in the building up of the state.

The resources of the new organization, representing approximately one-half million dollars and including the interests of active and prospective business of other sections among them, include Mr. H. J. Curtis and Mr. E. J. Curdie and associates of Chicago, Mr. C. A. Day of Chicago, Ill., and Golden, Utah, and associates, Judge Andrew Hewitt and Mr. George Merrill of Salt Lake City, Utah, afford assurance of the financial ability of the enlarged organization to properly handle the business and assist the people to whom they cater.

In connection with the announcement of these important changes, Mr. Hilliard states that federal and independent and clear-cut policies are to be put in operation by the company, which states that these policies will be characterized by a marked effort to maintain a large asset in the good will and the confidence of the people whom within the company has its investment and expects to conduct its operations for many years to come.

The retirement of Mr. Hilliard from participation in the affairs of the new State Lumber Company is a matter of regret to his associates, and Mr. E. Merrill, one of the directors of the company, is quoted as expressing the large measure of confidence and good will entrusted by the company for the past several years as general manager. Mr. Hilliard has no plans to visit in the middle west some weeks after March 2nd and will be expected to announce his plans to retire from the company. Mr. Hilliard will continue to be an active business connection, his personal experience and established qualifications in the lumber trade present many opportunities, none of which Mr. Hilliard feels disposed to relinquish at the present time.

The change announced by Mr. Hilliard will involve several promotions and new assignments for some of the men identified with the new organization. Mr. Hilliard will continue to be an active business connection, his personal experience and established qualifications in the lumber trade present many opportunities, none of which Mr. Hilliard feels disposed to relinquish at the present time.

TWIN FALLS VS. POCATELLO

Friday, February 10, The Day for Twin Falls High School.

Next Friday night, Feb. 10th, the Twin Falls high school undertakes a triangular debate with the high schools of Boise and Pocatello. The debate will be on the subject of "The state of Idaho is a basket case." This means three big contests at the local high school the same evening and the program runs like this: Boise high school vs. Twin Falls high school, Twin Falls vs. Pocatello, Pocatello vs. Boise. The debate will start at 7:15 p. m. Hoyle, Pocatello and boys vs. Twin Falls girls will be in basketball for southern Idaho championships in high school at 8:00 p. m.

The debate will be a very interesting and important one. The subject for debate is "Resolved: That all federal government should require American citizenship for the Panama canal toll." The Twin Falls team have been working since last fall on this debate and under the coaching of Miss Peck they are ready and well prepared for the foreign students who are expected to attend the school here. The debate will be held at the school here on Friday night.

The basketball games will be for the championship between the boys and the girls. The boys' team have defeated all comers so far. The Heburn girls are well conditioned and it is known that they will be a strong team. The debate will be held at the school here on Friday night.

TWO BASKET-BALL GAMES

Win Double Games From Wendell by Twin Falls.

Twin Falls high school scored a double victory over Wendell last Friday night when they won two basketball games in a handy fashion. The first game was a sure victory for the locals from the start, but the boys came so close all the way through that the crowd was kept on its feet until time was called.

The Wendell girls outplayed the Twin Falls girls considerably but they were completely outclassed in team work, speed and general basketball ability. So closely did the Twin Falls guards cover the opponent forwards that they only secured one free shot during the game. So completely did the Twin Falls centers outclass her opponent that she had few opportunities of touching the ball. The local forwards did the rest and the final score of 23 to 14 shows how well their work was done. The boys game was more evenly fought. Twin Falls scored first, but did not hold the lead long. The boys' game was close all the way through. The final score was 23 to 14.

The Wendell team proved the best basketball team that has played on the local floor this season. Several times the game was held up on this account which slightly marred them for the spectators. Prin. Harry of Bull, was referee and his work was up to the usual high standard.
