The death of the drunken man by falling from the cliff and the lack of relatives or friends to mark his passing, is indeed pitiable in the extreme. But the record of the willings leading to his death presents a very strong temperance lesson to all men. For several months drink had claimed a mastery over a man endowed with much ability, great intellect and still greater personality. Drink stole away his reason and finally claimed the last toll which it claims from all its victims. Instead of an honored estate surrounded by his friends, the lot of an outcast and a death among unsympathetic strangers was his merely for the temporary pleasure of the flowing bowl. Not the drinking man in a thousand can claim that the few "blissful" of moderate self-respect, none deny the friendship and esteem of associates.

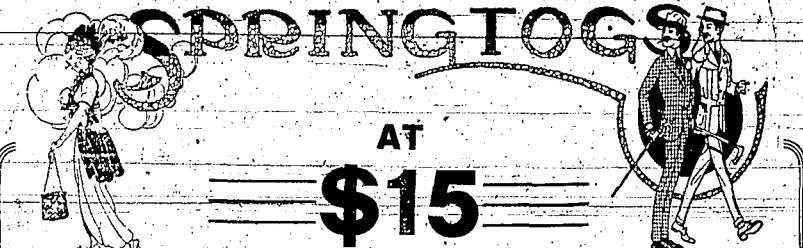

Most of the opponents of the repeal of the Panama toll exemption clause as nearly as can be traced through the verbal mazes of debate, base their argument upon two broad lines, one political and the other industrial. At once in the distance as for little has been said in the past for the ethical right of the high plane of ethical right as argument in industrial might or political expediency. As far as the right of this nation to make tolls or to exempt them, its powerful influence can alone be the answer. The States are great enough to say to the world: We will do this because it pleases us to do so. It can because of might do a wrong and not suffer chastisement for it. Because of a political platform another group claim that President Wilson is not keeping his word to the nation if he forces a change in the toll exemption law. His colleagues, many of them re-inforced by the Republican opponents, have laid down this as a reason for their opposition on the grounds that a promise is a promise and should be kept. Many of those opponents have helped in the past to frame national platforms of which not one single promise was fulfilled. President Wilson possibly did in the campaign subscribe to a platform of which he was not the sole author. By reason of his laudable perception of the difficulties in keeping part of that promise he is doing what may be regarded as a personal reputation to be sacrificed rather than take a position which will result in great harm and dishonor to this nation. Which is the higher claim—political or national? Definitely the national claim must force a man to uphold the honor of the nation.

LAND-REFORM PROSPECTS IN MEXICO.

If justice could once more be brought about in Mexico, it would seem that the long-needed measures of land reform might follow. For nearly every border or party professes a belief in its necessity and a willingness to bring it about. If General Villa has his way every man in the Republic who wishes it shall be given a little piece of land for his own; the great hacienda man is to be ousted or absorbed; notes the Baltimore Sun. The land has divided up the territory over which he rules into small farms for the people. Mr. Emeterio de la Garza, who wants strictly ruled by a impartial judge, goes on to declare that a crucial condition is that Mexico must solve the agrarian problem. President Huerta announces that as soon as he can he will issue a decree which will grant acres of Government land to about that number of persons and to institute certain other land reforms.

In short, every one seems to admit that the land question is largely responsible for the disorders. The fundamental trouble, declares the New York Journal of Commerce, is the condition of abject dependence and poverty to which the vast majority of the population is reduced by the concentration of landownership in a few vast estates, imperfectly cultivated for the improvement of the owners and the impoverishment of the workers. The acquisition of the great haciendas and their dilapidated distribution into small holdings, without absolute confiscation, is a difficult problem for a country in the condition of Mexico but there are considerable advantages which with a certain beneficent guidance with a view to some plan of extending, transfers of possession lands, the latter comprising one-fourth of the area of the country," but "expected no direct action." Afterward, Huerta promised reforms and they established them. Now Huerta has taken up the cry for national economic betterment and is public the project with all his characteristic energy and enthusiasm. As soon as the military successes he expects give him the opportunity, Huerta, according to the Tribune correspondent, will draft up the program of government land.

"The states that would be affected are in the north, and the principal ones are Chihuahua, Sonora, Sinaloa, Coahuila, and Durango. Land in these five states totals now about 41 million acres. Huerta would have to condemn the land and fix the government purchase price by a commission and then place the land at auction. It is on this feature that the Congress is split.

One rather important difficulty in the way of carrying out such a program would seem to be the fact that most of this land is now occupied by the Cominternists. But the Mexican Telegraph thinks that if Huerta should succeed in making even a small beginning, he will acquire a basis on which to make promises of extensive agrarian reform, and he doubt he will thus attract himself with the masses in Mexico. Carranza has made some promises, but legislation and a beginning of the reform will only help to bring to head of actual performance, and this seems likely to give him a decided advantage.

Our authority who recognizes the need of land reform in Mexico sees little hope of its accomplishment. Mr. H. E. Cassinoff, in his address in the city of his back on the explanation of the fact that the recent revolution has established itself so readily in northern states. "It is in the north that most of the big private estates exist, while in southern Mexico, to a large extent, the land has been divided among small owners." His pessimistic conclusions regarding the prospect of land reform follow.

"As a matter of fact, a division of land would not solve the Mexican problem. Northern Mexico is a big agribelt, and, consequently, it is, whether, however, become remarkably fertile wherever irrigation is introduced. Under present conditions it would be impossible for farmers to live on this land unless the government, first of all, introduced an irrigation program. It would then be necessary to provide the water and the means of distribution and the means of subsistence until they become self-supporting. Furthermore, owing to their illiteracy, ignorance, and utter lack of scientific training, the present race of Indian peasants could not possibly be made successful farmers. Thus far it has been only the few big agribelt owners who really afford to be successful. It is true that in 1908 President Diaz's government spent a large amount of money for irrigation work. While this money was available in the north, the well-to-do hacendados it failed in its object of promoting small ownership. The solution of this problem is one that would tax the resources of even a millionaire, and it remains to be seen whether it will be a success or a failure equal to the task."—Laboratory Digest.

BIG-BOB-CAT-BAGGED

A Long Shot by Henry Mapes Brings Good Results at Hitchfield.

Henry Mapes brings an interesting story from the Big Wood river, where he and some of the family were wintering Sunday. They were out along shore of the rough country northwest of town, when he spied a big bob cat under a log on the rocks. The children wanted him to "shoot it." He had only a 22-calibre, Winchester special rifle, which though known to be a fine weapon and a strong shooter, is not guaranteed for any such game of any such distance. But he took careful aim, and fired one shot and the bobcat struck the big cat square in the head, killing it instantly as if it had been a cannon ball. The distance, which they stopped off accurately, was 475 yards, and the cat weighed 60 pounds and measured 3 feet 7 1/2 inches from tip to tip. It was a big enough animal to have killed a horse if it had chosen to do so, and a man without weapons would have little more chance with it than with a runaway locomotive. The skin was in especially fine one.—Hitchfield Recorder.

FILER NEWS.

(FROM THE FILER JOURNAL)

Mrs. Wm. Dance spent part of Tuesday with Twin Falls friends.

F. F. Allen, who has been quite sick, is much better. He was able to be down town Tuesday forenoon.

Davis' firm has purchased the acre-tract on North avenue which are at the north end of Yakima avenue, from F. F. Carter.

Quite a number of people from Twin Falls attended down Tuesday evening to attend the concert given by local talent. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Ripley, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown.

The promenade given by the Juniors last Friday evening in the opera house was the sweetest affair ever held in the village. The decorations were certainly worthy of special mention, and every appointment from punch to music.

M. G. Telford and Tom Sanders left Wednesday morning for Hogerson where they will load up with lumber for the improvement of the house and entry of B. W. Telford in the Shoshone House country.

Hudson Bros., from Seattle, contractors, arrived in Filer. They have rented the old house in Dooley's row and are ready to figure with our people on any building they may desire.

The town board should provide a dumping ground for the residents of the town, where all the refuse could be put out of the way and out of sight. Old tin cans and articles that come from raffles and scrapings do not usually make very artistic decorations for any party, and they are a nuisance to the town to secure some out of the way place for a public dump.

John McCarroll has returned from California.

Miss Case of Dulh, spent Sunday with Filer friends.

J. G. Chittley and family spent Sunday in Twin Falls.

Mrs. Reeves and children spent Saturday in Twin Falls.

Orie Lee, son of Mr. Bobt. Miller, is confined to his home with typhoid fever.

James Brown left Tuesday for a visit to Rapid City, S. D., and other points east.

Carl Pleitnick and wife of Los Angeles, Calif., arrived in Filer last Monday for an extended stay.

A. J. Ripley and wife, of Twin Falls, parents of E. H. Ripley, are guests at the home this week.

Rev. Barbeatz has just returned from American Falls where he has been conducting revival services.

E. H. Dunlop has taken the agency for the Case auto and is spending his spare time demonstrating the new 1914 model.

The Misses are making big preparations for their annual banquet which will be held on the 27th of this month. Dr. Sittel's wife from Twin Falls visited here last Sunday. Also a nephew of the doctor, a dentist from Twin Falls, was a Filer visitor.

John Kneier is expected to arrive in Filer today and it is expected that he will start the erection of his electric factory just as soon as he gets here.

Mrs. Schidman of Filer, chairman of the Civil Service Reform committee, gave a splendid talk on the proposed Civil Service Reform bill, which was instructive as well as very interesting. —Banner-Record, Report.

Dr. Carney is the proud possessor of two very terrier type dogs of bulldogs. The sire of these pups was owned in Denver for three years, and was never whipped. He is now owned in Filer. The doctor will let Guy Shuczer have one of the pups, as Guy recently lost a much prized terrier.

The lecture by M. J. Sweezy last Sunday evening in the new St. L. church was a treat enjoyed by all that the church could comfortably accommodate. He took for his subject, "The Church in Politics," and handled it diplomatically and satisfactorily to all who heard him.

To All Who Desire to Ship Potatoes on Commission

A number of our farmers are of the opinion that better results can be obtained by shipping to Eastern markets through afirst-class distribution service. If you include yourself among these growers, we want to make you the following proposition:

We are most excellently equipped to give you the finest kind of service along this line. We are most centrally located in the natural market for Idaho potatoes. You will find that we have one of the best equipped and most efficient selling organizations to be found anywhere. You will find that we are favorably known in every Eastern market. And if you patronize us ultimately, you will find that it will pay you to take advantage of Boyle's offer to market your potatoes for you.

Having dealt with you and your friends for so many years, you know who we are, what we can do and how we can serve and protect you.

Also having specialized in potatoes, we are familiar with every phase of the spud business. We have outlets that our competitors do not have. We have learned how, where and when to get the best potatoes for ourselves and how, where and when to sell them at at the greatest profit.

All of this knowledge and experience and ability is at your service. Let's get busy for you. We give every car personal attention—and that means "personal" attention. We take care of any claims for loss due to negligence of the railroad company. We guarantee you prompt returns. We see that you secure the very highest market on every car you allow us to handle.

Deal with us and be certain that there will be no pooling but that every car will be sold honestly and fairly on its own merits. Remember, too, that this proposition does not cost you anything for membership. We take care of everything. All you do is to give us your orders. Rates furnished immediately upon request for same.

Call and see us. Meet our District Manager. Let us get started doing business together for our mutual profit.

Competition or Regulation---Which?

This should interest those who have favored competition in this community:

It must be conceded as self-evident that competition results in duplicated local investment and division of revenue of each concern.

This being the case, where will the customer profit under competitive conditions when the rates of all utility concerns are subject to uniform state regulation and based upon a fair income upon the capital invested?

"What will it profit a consumer if he gains the competition of the whole world if he thereby loses his own right to reasonable rates?"

Can you convince yourself that lower rates will ensue under modern commission regulation in communities where competition is rife?

We are not quitters—we are willing to be game in a fair fight. It is obviously unfair, however, to every interest concerned to tie the hands of the capital invested in your community by commission regulation and then force it to battle for its very existence under competitive conditions.

A COMMUNICATION

Twin Falls, Ida., April 9th, 1914. Editor Twin Falls Times: In your issue of April 7, you have a little taken from the Spokane Review, in regard to the mail order business. From time to time in the past, you have had editorial articles on the subject, which have been read with much interest, no doubt, by your many intelligent readers. There is no doubt always two sides to a story. In a Mrs. Farmer, would like to make a few remarks on the other side. It is true that the mail order business pays no taxes, and the highest branch of big concerns. But farmers pay big taxes, and highest interest and maintenance, and we need the money to pay these things, so if we can buy our necessities in the grocery stores, at a saving of fifty per cent, we must do it. Needs must, when the (you know who) drive. "Self preservation is the first law of nature," you know. I have in mind a Mrs. Farmer, who intended to be paid for a sprit or die in the attempt. I had you have heard of the case that is paved with good intentions? Well, she had saved up a bit of egg (at 12c) and butter (at 15c) and some money. This money was not from any merchant's till, don't you think it? They pay their price in trade-in-the-bills, "rent money"? But not to discuss. This Mrs. Farmer took her little roll, went from place to place, and priced every thing in the line of her wondrous purchases, and she found that she had an order to Montgomery Ward & Co. paid the freight, and was ten dollars off in the pocketbook, but the rest of public mind was lost in the shuffle. Some three years ago when the "new improved mail" order—house of mail order business was made in Twin Falls, your valued paper came out with startling headlines "Up To You Mr. Farmer" and some time after one or more of our noble spirited merchants sent advertising out of town and again your valued paper had startling headlines "Up To You Mr. Merchant." It makes much difference whose pig corn is being stepped upon? There seems to be no way under the present competitive profit system, where every man has his hand at the throat of every other man, to adjust these matters, but one would hope that some day we might have a year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and fourteen, the twentieth century of progress. It is up to you Mr. Editor: Will you please write Mrs. Farmer—let it up to you Mr. Farmer. MRS. FARMER.

INTERURBAN LINE IN COURT

Promoters of Hagerman Valley Railway are in court. Jerome, Ida., Mar. 4, 1914. On April 3rd an action was commenced in the District Court of Gooding County, Idaho, by A. S. Clark vs. The Hagerman Valley & Western Railway Company and the Idaho Pacific Railway Co. The complaint was filed a Lis Pendens was also filed against the lands upon which the grade was built. Mr. Clark claims that the grade was attempted to be transferred to a director of the first named company in the second named company and that the directors of the second named company did not hold a legal meeting, also that Mr. H. A. Strong who pretends to be a director but is not a director or vice-president and signed the transfer as Vice-president but Mr. Clark claims that he is, Mr. Clark claims to be a director of the Idaho Pacific Railway Co. and therefore this company knew of the claim against that Western Railway Co. which let the contract to him to build the railway and then became Mr. Clark's engineer close to build the line from Hagerman to Wendell. The directors of the company let the Court to cancel the contract because a majority of these directors say that a large amount of stock in the Edison or Lincoln Township, 3 miles west of Wendell. Without waiting for the decision of the court, these outside directors commenced to build the grade after letting a second contract to themselves. These outside directors—Mr. Clark claims that notes and proceeds of same to the extent of $20,000 were taken out of the Hagerman State Bank and deposited in the bank of the grade. These notes, etc. were left with the bank to be held by it in trust for the purpose of building a line of railway from Hagerman to Wendell. O. S. Clark, Jr., Major Calhoun, C. E. & M. E. of Wendell, should determine. This company's outside directors reported in favor of Wendell and against Edison in Dec. 1910 and this brought about all the trouble. Mr. Clark claims that the company needed to pay for the surveys and other expenses which he states a law due him to the extent of over $10,000.00. He is in the line of the country. Involvement. Mr. Clark requests the court to declare a trust in said grade, to be in the line of the country. It is claimed that it would be necessary to procure the ratification of the shareholders when attempting to transfer all the assets of the company to the second named company. It is for the express purpose of avoiding paying the debts of the company. It is claimed that on December 1, 1912, the directors of the company let a decision in which he refused to cancel the contract let to Mr. Clark and the second named company, the Hagerman Valley & Western Railway Co. Since this time the directors have refused to comply with this decision and Mr. Clark now takes this action. It is said that prominent capitalists have recently been on the ground with Mr. Clark, between Hagerman and Wendell, and that they are in the line and these men are expected to return soon. Mr. Clark claims that before the aforesaid court decision was handed down and while the same was pending, he received a call from the government at Washington was proposed to revitalize the currency and banking laws of the country. Mr. Clark claims that he was finally settled all financial difficulties took a walking attitude and new construction could be carried on. This new act which is considered, the whole, as a very good one, came into effect on April 1st and it looks as though business would soon assume normal conditions, especially the interstate commerce commission grants the very reasonable request of the eastern railways for an increase in freight rates to the extent of 5 per cent. Many companies are suffering from lack of transportation but during the past few years there has been such a general decline in the railways that financial aid has been withdrawn and many railroads cannot get enough money to repair their lines that it is not for the public to travel upon them. Some years ago some of the railway companies desired to be attached to the money, the monthly was unreasonable that transportation has reached a chaotic condition throughout the country, when the people realize that they cannot get along without the railway then new construction, etc., will be resumed, but not until then. Many of the railways are looking money every day, wages, etc. have gone up. The law forces the railways to continue operating and so the people are suffering as a manufacturer can. Then the law says to the railways "you can only charge the public so much for the service you furnish" that is, then the people have lost realized that they have been making a loss all through the whole commercial part of the country and something the death knell to their own property. Many realize this now and are trying to persuade the commissions in the country to give a "square deal" to the railway companies.

It is said that Mr. Clark holds the highest office, up to the contract, etc. between Hagerman and Bull.

predicted, would be effected by Republicans and Progressives united as the Republican party and embracing a platform of Progressive doctrine. In all dealing with the records of the Democratic administration, Senator Cummins asserted it was unnecessary to speak of congress.
 The president has for the time being obliterated that ancient and once powerful part of the government. Therefore when I speak of the Democratic administration I mean Woodrow Wilson. The overthrow of representative government does not seem to have excited any alarm, but the day will come when the country will regret better than it does how vital it is to preserve independence of legislative authority.
 The president insisted that tariff law. The Republican tariff of 1909 was too high. We ought to have reduced it, but we did not, and are now suffering the consequences of our folly. The fact that our tariff was much too high furnished no defense for the extraordinary amount of ignorance and the difference which this administration has fastened upon the country. It acknowledges an economic principle, but its crowning injustice is to "tamper, deliberate discrimination."
 The Panama-toll exemption repeal probably will pass the senate, according to Senator Cummins.
 "There are two entirely distinct and independent questions involved in this controversy," he said. "The first concerns a domestic policy, and with it no foreign nation has a right to interfere, and we would be a grave injury to our country if we permitted even the suggestion of interference."
 "It is impossible for me to understand the president's position in this matter," he said. "The first concern is a domestic policy, and with it no foreign nation has a right to interfere, and we would be a grave injury to our country if we permitted even the suggestion of interference."

policy, but after a most careful study of the arguments for and against the exemption of tolls, and hearing the details of the situation, I feel that we are not bound by the terms of the treaty against executing our own vessels from tolls and that the best interests of our constituents and the country at large require my voting against the repeal of the present law. The people of the western country have been looking forward with keen anticipation to the completion of the Panama canal, believing that water competition with the transcontinental railroads would make it possible to market their products with less expense and thus bring greater profit to the producers.
 "A careful consideration of the treaty provisions and their provisions are not being vetoed by my insistence that constant vessels shall pass through the canal free of tolls; and in view of the fact that we constructed the canal with our own money at an expenditure of $400,000,000, upon land absolutely in our control, for the benefit of our own people, I can find no good reason for not maintaining the absolute control thereof. While I have the greatest respect for the opinions of President Wilson and Senator Root and Lodge, regarding the provisions of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, I cannot overlook the fact that just intelligent and capable buyers and patriots, such as former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft, former Secretary of State Knox, former Secretary of State Olney, under the Cleveland administration, former Senators Foraker of Ohio, Towne of Minnesota and Turner of Washington, and the great leaders in the present congress, Speaker Clark, Mr. Underwood and Mr. Alden, take the opposite view. I fail to see where the vessels of the British government will be benefited by the charging of tolls to our coastwise ves-

ADDS TO CONSTRUCTION

Secretary Lane Issues Orders Relating Bluffdoka Settlers.
 Secretary Lane has just issued the order adding to and incorporating in the building charges, the entire rental charges which have heretofore been paid against lands under the second and third sections of the act of March 3, 1901. Credit for the amount of such charges has been paid, except amounts due for excess water furnished in 1912. Credit for the amount of such charges heretofore supplied will be allowed on the building charges against each tract. Excess water is to be separately charged against land on which it was used, and shall be collected separately.
 The minimum rental charge for water for the season 1914 has been fixed at $1.25 per acre of irrigable land, whether or not the water is used. The greatest amount of water which will be furnished for the charge of $1.25, during the months of June, July and August is 175 acre feet per acre of land under cultivation. Excess water will be charged for at the rate of 20 cents per acre foot. Water charges for 1914 will fall due on December 1, and no water will be furnished to any farm until all charges against the unit have been paid. Bureau Bulletin.
