

PARLAMA REPEAL PASSES SENATE

Vote Stood 50 to 35 in Favor of The Measure

THIRTEEN REPUBLICANS VOTED WITH THE DEMOCRATS.

Eleven Democrats Joined With 23 Republicans Against the Simpson Bill

WASHINGTON—Hopes of Panama toll exemption for American coal shipping passed again Sunday night by a vote of 60 to 35.

Whom Senator Vandamm set down Senator Cook took the floor and also entered a protest against the change of Senator Vandamm that those who voted for the repeal bill were guilty of treachery to the Democratic party.

Who knows, added the Georgia Senator, "but what the shipping interests are for $100,000 in order to defeat this bill."

As he spoke he rose and started to leave the Senator, who was only a few feet away.

"Don't you say that to me," Senator West shouted, shaking his head and fixing his eyes.

"You're making an insinuation that somebody else has been influenced," Senator Vandamm said.

"I did not say in writing or otherwise," he started to explain.

"No, I am not going to ask down," continued Mr. West, "and Senator Vandamm said that he had no objection to anything I said."

The passage of the bill, after a bill of 40 days, has been reported for a second reading Thursday.

YOUNG MATRON DEAD

Mrs. Oliver Harold Succumbs to Serious Operation

The death of Mrs. Pearl Harstad, wife of Dr. Oliver Harstad of this city Sunday night, cast gloom over a large circle of friends in this city, who had hoped for her recovery from a serious operation a short time ago.

She was 34 years of age when death came and had been a resident of this city for two years. Her mother, Mrs. Orin Harstad, and a sister, Mrs. Mary McGee, of Ingham, Mont., were present during the closing days, while another sister living in Missouri arrived Sunday late to bid her farewell.

She was buried in her immediate family and was just able to get out after an illness of several days, to hurry to the hospital Saturday night at her wife's death.

The funeral services, conducted by the Rev. John C. Brown, were held at the family residence on Sixth avenue east, Monday afternoon and were attended by the Masonic order of the city.

Interment was made in the cemetery on the east side of the city.

The editor of the Kimberly Call says that the Evans sale advertised in the Times was a "hoax." The Times is sure he must be mistaken; it must have been a real "snow" storm.

Considerable comment on the part of the press of the state and a storm of protest, comes from the faculty where the affected state school is situated over a report of the State Education Commission advising drastic changes in the courses given at the Pocatello Academy known as the Academy of Idaho and that at the Albion State Normal.

Mr. Sloan, head of the commission, has been making extensive investigations of the manner in which the state educational funds are being spent. He now comes out with a published report advocating changes in the name of the Academy to a Junior College which would provide a university course for the first two years and fit its graduates to enter Junior year at the State University. He further advocates the abandonment of the Albion Normal because of its distance from the railroad and other handicaps and a joining with the Pocatello Institute at a vast saving in the cost to the state.

Mr. Sloan's recommendation, while a blow at local pride, is surely a blow at the community here. The new school should not expect state money to be expended unless the benefits are worth the cost. Albion Normal, while attended by a number of students from this section and having many admirable men on its list of educators, has not arrived at a good normal school standard and because of its location does not receive support in keeping with the expense. It will of course be a sorry blow to the people of Albion, who take much pride in the Normal School. But they should take a broad view of the subject together with the rest of the people of the state who have a whole to pay for the cost of maintaining our educational institutions. Mr. Sloan's blow is to a general educational plan or reorganization, for and should be carefully read by every friend of education among the Times' readers.

PROPOSALS FOR REORGANIZATION.

I. The Problem.
The great problems in our situation are these:

1. Clearly the first duty is to provide for students now attending the Academy and the Albion Normal School. Although these are relatively few in number compared with the many who need help, yet they have a special claim and any proposed plan for reorganization must guard their welfare and progress.

2. To provide more abundant high school opportunities for the great number of boys and girls who are now deprived of them "in whole" or "in part."
3. To train more teachers for the rural and city schools.

4. To relieve so far as possible the hardship suffered by South Idaho students who wish to go to college and at present must either make the long journey to the University or enter some other institution, usually outside of the state.

We have seen that the two state schools in the South, while intended to meet the second and third of these needs, are not doing so efficiently and cannot do so, owing to the circumstances under which they operate. The fourth problem is not met at all.

The following proposal is based upon the most careful and exhaustive consideration of the facts and conditions and of the educational principles involved. No infallibility or final correctness is assumed for it. If adopted, it would grow and change to fit conditions and circumstances. It is put forward for the consideration of the board, and, if they approve, of the people and legislature.

II. Changes in Present Organization.

1. We should recognize the fact that the Albion Normal School cannot be made successful and efficient, owing to the drawbacks of the situation, and cease to attempt to operate it. There is no reason why the plant cannot be utilized for other state purposes. All movable equipment can be utilized either locally or elsewhere. Those now attending the school can be provided for amply by the plan outlined below.

2. The immediate fact in the Academy situation is the presence in Pocatello of two separate groups of secondary students, a little over two hundred in each group, one group in the Academy and the other in the high school. These two groups have in general the same educational needs, and are doing largely the same work. There will be no true efficiency until these two groups are combined under one unified administration. They will then make up a splendid body of 400 or 500 students, the material for one of the finest secondary schools in the Northwest.

We cannot throw the Pocatello High School on the state; neither the state nor the city of Pocatello would tolerate that. Even the present situation goes too far in that direction, a 78 Pocatello secondary students are being educated at the cost of the state. The other alternative is co-operation—let the state join forces with the local school, in both secondary work and such higher work as the situation demands. The Academy plant can be utilized in this way for more fully and efficiently than at present. The cost of maintenance can be greatly reduced, and a splendid institution can be built up, worthy of the state and the city. This is proposed as part of the plan outlined below.

3. The two schools would continue substantially as at present until July, 1915, when the reorganization would be begun; the most careful plans would be made to effect the changes with the least possible friction and loss.

4. Students now in attendance at Albion and the Academy would be provided for in the new co-operative system, the Junior College at Pocatello particularly would be planned to meet their needs.

5. This would render the present annual income of the two institutions, over $114,000, available for the far-reaching plan proposed below. This will cover all the state's expenditures incurred in the plan outlined below, including co-operative payments and all other items.

III. Plan for Reorganization on Co-operative Basis.

1. Co-operative high schools.
First, to provide for pupils in whose home districts there are no adequate high school facilities; enter into co-operative relations with the strongest and most accessible high schools throughout the state, requiring the school to meet certain standards in the course of study, equipment, and teaching staff, and to receive free of tuition outside pupils up to a certain maximum number. In return the state to pay an annual sum, based upon the quality and character of the work done, and the number of outside students enrolled.

The state would supervise and administer the work of co-operative schools and check up on the amount and quality of service being rendered. Each school receiving state funds would be required particularly to provide vocational training adapted to the locality. In many cases the first line would be agricultural; the state payment might be made contingent on the beginning of the introduction of a course course in agriculture by the school. This would be a well trained and efficient teacher. This would advance agricultural education at once beyond what could attain by any other means. This feature of the plan alone might well be worth more to the state than the whole cost involved.

A large number of schools throughout the state would provide special courses for teachers, especially for the rural schools. With such courses in operation it would soon be possible to exclude untrained persons entirely from the schools and greatly raise the competency of the teaching force of the state. This would be a very useful feature of the plan. The cost of the high school training course would take the place of those who are not teaching without any training.

It might prove desirable to recognize certain strong schools in various parts of the state as special state high schools, on account of their high efficiency. Any one who is familiar with the schools of the state will at once think of certain schools which are far in advance in practical instruction, and are already having a large area beyond their district boundaries. This would in no way hinder co-operation with other schools as outlined above.

Such recognition would be based on provision for full courses in several important lines, such as agriculture, home economics, teaching, business, mechanical work, etc.

2. Junior Colleges.
Second, to provide some college facilities for regions remote from the University, enter into co-operative relation with the nearest best equipped and most centrally located high schools. With a moderate amount of aid from the state fund, these schools would extend their work to include two years of college; that is, they would become Junior Colleges. In return for the state aid they would receive eligible students from any part of the state

The Junior Colleges would do work in such lines as these:

1. Continue the vocational work of the high school for many who would not go far away for further schooling—in agriculture, home economics, business training, mechanic arts, etc., always adapting the work to the special conditions and taking advantage of the industrial and commercial activities of the region.
2. Agricultural training of the most practical and valuable kind could be given; the work could be linked up with the actual agricultural and horticultural industry of the locality.
3. Train teachers, giving courses similar to those given by the advanced department of the normal school.

4. Give scientific, literary and practical courses such as are included in the first two years of the University, so that all who wished might enter the third year of the University with full credit.
5. Besides thus benefiting the students it would extend its advantage to the community in general, opening the way for other people to attend special classes, study subjects in which they were interested, and hear lectures and addresses given by members of the faculty. Thus the college would become a great need to the community at large. The college would have on its staff experts in the various arts and sciences whose services would be linked up with that of the University, to the great advantage of all concerned.

The application of this plan to Pocatello has already been referred to. The Pocatello-Junior-College would be the natural center for the great southeastern section of the state, containing more than one-third of the total population. From this section more than 100 young people went this year to other states to attend college.

The next center would naturally be Boise for the Southwest section. The Boise High School is already widely known for its progressive work, especially in vocational education. It enrolled this year 369 students including 105 non-locals from outside the district. The addition of Junior college work would be easy, economical and progressive. From the Southwest region over 200 students went to college this year at the State University or in other states.
These two centers would probably be sufficient for the present; as the state developed, the system could be adapted and extended to fit the needs. The Junior College would be known as Junior Colleges of the University of Idaho, and the students would pass freely from the Junior Colleges to the University.

PROPOSITION ACCEPTED

Board of Directors Formally Accepts Proposition of Nonholders.

After closing of conference and discussion relative to the annual contract as presented by the board of directors, the board of directors of the Canal Water Association held a meeting last Tuesday afternoon and accepted the proposition as the best that could be obtained, and recommended its adoption.

While it is not all that the board desired, that was due to the people on the water, it contains some concessions which the first offer, and will likely meet with the approval of at least a majority of the settlers on the tract.

It is said to the credit of the members of the board they have labored long and hard in the hopes of bringing about a settlement that would be satisfactory to all, and they feel that the present agreement is the best that could possibly be obtained, and which would be not hindering upon any individual.

It is thought that the terms of the proposition will be for toward inducing the settlers on the tract into signing the new contract.

Mr. Shephard appeared before the board at its meeting yesterday and on occasion to carefully explain the various propositions upon which there was more or less discussion, after which the board in executive session prepared the following resolution which was adopted:

"Whereas, after a long struggle with the Water Co., the new management has submitted to us a new contract and;

"Whereas, although the proposed contract terms were not as favorable as we desired, we are convinced that we are unable to secure further concessions, and;

"Whereas, we believe, the material interests of the entire tract will be advanced by the prolonged continuation of what we believe to be our just rights, therefore, be it

Resolved, that in the interests of equity, peace and the prosperity of the tract, we believe our best interests will be converted by abandoning the present contract, and by entering into a new contract, on the best and most favorable terms obtainable, on the conditions and under the existing conditions.

It is further resolved, that we hereby authorize the board to sign any and every contract in the name of the property of the tract, and we are glad indeed to see the board finally settled as now that we are satisfied with the extension, which will have admitted us the knowledge of the success of the tract, the development can go on with renewed vigor, and with the plans for the improvement of the tract as outlined by the management, we look for a most prosperous growth of the North Idaho Canal from this time on Lincoln County Times.

HALL IN CHARGE

Experienced Project Manager Retained by Nonholders.

G. M. Hall, of Rocky Ford, Colo., arrived Saturday to have supervision over the operation of the canal system on the Salmon tract, and to study all matters relating to the difficulties which at present are involving the project in litigation, with a view of finding a remedy if possible.

Mr. Hall comes excellently recommended, not only as a man of long experience in the operation and management of projects, but as a man who has an enviable reputation in his own community for honesty and fairness in his business relations. Mr. Hall is the potato authority, who also comes from Colorado, he was mentioned in his native state as well as in the one he is now operating in Colorado, and states that Mr. Hall is well and favorably known throughout the state, and that the nonholders could not have secured a more capable man in the state of Colorado at large.

It is Mr. Hall's intention to reside permanently at Hollister. He will dispose of his home in Rocky Ford, where he has lived for twenty-five years, and will bring his wife and family with him to the new location. Just what position Mr. Hall takes in the management of the company's affairs has not yet been determined. Mr. Hall is well connected with the organization, with its headquarters at Twin Falls. It has been intimated, however, that a radical change will be made in the management of the company within the near future, that the general office of the Canal company will be transferred from Miller to Hollister as the head office of the North Side Canal company are now being moved from Miller to Jerome. Mr. Hall, it is thought, may fill some position at the new office of the canal company, consolidating a few of the present high salaried positions into one, thereby reducing the expense of the canal company.

For twenty-four years Mr. Hall was the superintendent and secretary of the Rocky Ford, Mich. Irr. Co., a former cooperative enterprise that has since declined many ups and downs and has turned out successfully. The Herald is informed that when the project was promoted, the stock, which represented water for ten acres of land, was sold, with difficulty, at one hundred dollars per share, and that the same stock now is selling for $750. Last December Mr. Hall resigned to accept a similar position with the Iron Rock Irrigation district, which position he leaves to come to Idaho. -Hollister Herald.

DEMOS AND PROGRESSIVES JOIN

Two Parties Hope to Defeat Smoot for Senate.

SALT LAKE—With the avowed intent to defeat Senator Reed Smoot for reelection, the Democratic and Progressive state conventions, held separately here Thursday combined on a state ticket nominating James H. Lyle, Mayor of Salt Lake, Democrat, for the senate. Frank B. Stephens, of Salt Lake, Democrat, for supreme court justice; James H. Hays, of Salt Lake, Progressive, and Lewis Larson, of Mant, Progressive, for the representatives. Both conventions nominated James H. Hays, of Ogden, superintendent of the state industrial school, as a non-partisan candidate for superior judge of public instruction. The platforms adopted are similar in demanding stringent election laws, a public utilities commission, reform of taxation system, non-partisan judiciary and education system, women's participation law, national equal suffrage, municipal ownership of public utilities, state employment bureau and referendum on the suffrage question. The Democrats endorse the acts of the national administration, including its execution policy.

The Progressives adopted unanimously a resolution declaring Mr. Utah only a resolution commending the Salt Lake Commercial club traffic bureau and its referendum on the suffrage question. The Utah Pacific special dividend of a face value of $50,000,000 pending in the form of Utah State Oil and Gas, and the Utah Pacific, preventing the proposed distribution if possible.—Statesman.

NEZ PERCE WET

County Heads Reelers Declass After an Official Decision.

The local option vote as officially canvassed Monday at Lewiston by the county commissioners gives the wet a majority in Nez Perce county of 22 votes. Depr Creek, Hatwal, the four Lewiston precincts, Rimrock, Tammany and Wahia are the precincts giving the wets a majority, while Arrow, Hedrock, Chesley, Outdese, Gifford, Leland, Lapwal, Lenore, Melrose, Myrtle, Lewiston Orchards, Peck, Spalding, Snow and Webb precincts voted a majority to the dries.

The total vote counted in the 22 precincts was 4,758, the wets receiving 2,700 and the dries 2,058. In rechecking the ballots cast at Lapwal and No. 1 precinct in Lewiston, a number of mutilated ballots were thrown out. Dry leaders made the statement that the election would be contested, while the wets say they will welcome a contest, as they are confident should the election be taken into court a majority of 150 votes in their favor will be disclosed, owing to alleged illegal votes of Indians in several precincts and other irregularities.—Sampa Leader.

BURNS AT NIGHT

Mysterious Fire Completely Destroys Building at Hollister.

The building owned by the Hollister Realty company, situated in the center of the business district, was completely destroyed Thursday night. The cause of the fire is unknown, but it is thought that it started in the rear of the building, which part was occupied by the office of the company. The fire was discovered about midnight, and a strong wind blowing from the northwest threatened the row of buildings in the next block. A fireman from the next block, but a fireman fortunately began to fall when he damaged the roof of the building to prevent their catching fire from the flying brands which were scattered by the wind.

The Hollister Realty company, in which C. R. Bethler and O. P. Durrell are interested, carried some insurance on the building.—Hollister Herald.

Jenkins and Company---Birthday Celebration

We have a right to crow, for many were the croakings of local prophets, when this store was run on a cash basis.

"Success is impossible, the people want credit and expect to pay more for goods." This and other remarks which have since been proven wrong, were told us. Jenkins is far sighted and enterprising, knew that low prices was the public need. Today we have three stores---Twin Falls, Burley and Buhl. We thank you for generous support accorded us, and on this our Fourth Birthday offer some exceptional values---It will profit you to attend this celebration.
