All of Your Worked Matter. It represents Good Workmanship, Good Wages, and Good Conditions.

The growth about hard times going up all over this nation is largely due to politics and the usual kick of the party on the outside which desires to get in. There is no question about the tightness of the money market, and some depression of the manufacturing industry due to the scarcity of money on which to carry on the work of the tariff, the currency law of the nation, as a nation, is extravagant. The people individually are extravagant and are continually raising the standard of living without means to justify any increase. Every year the factories of the whole country are increasing their capacity to turn out automobiles. Every year will see a larger increase in the number of machines used for something, which with fifty per cent of the population is a luxury and nothing else. This year the conservative estimates place the money expended for new cars at $500,000,000 while others show it at a much higher figure. Nearly every cent thus expended is taken directly from other lines of industries which annually it is invested by small holders in paying bonds. Added to the above figures should be added another enormous sum for running expenses and upkeep of autos, which can be said to be taken directly from the money usually expended for home improvements, better clothes and better food. Arguments about the tariff and other things will have more weight with thinking people if all conditions are taken into consideration in that argument. The American people are not given to awaiting everything which is circulated during campaign years and the party which will learn this and adapt its campaign, will come nearer to getting the public confidence and the vote.

Every few weeks this community becomes agitated over a prospective new industry which will put in a manufacturing plant, provided certain conditions with regard to its support are met by local people. In every case the industry prospers to a certain extent, but takes it for granted that its profits are of interest to the community. It usually demands and gets in most progressive cities, a fat bonus for the manufacturer's business. With such ideas firmly fixed in the minds of the manufacturer and with the people of the community, such industries start with a fair degree of success and as they build up local pride correspondingly increases. Twin Falls is no different than most cities in many other respects, excepting, however, to get new business and new people. But Twin Falls is different than many other enterprises which in her case for the industry already secured. In reaching out for the new capital and new industries the ones now in the field are forgotten and accepted again, if any local support. In this particular this city should begin to take a new view and establish a reputation for caring for its own people and industries. Part of their bounding the welfare of the home industry first. Trade and industry bureaus in communities should make a business of getting more business for the local manufacturer and in creating a demand at home for the home products. Twin Falls has the same problem, but is surely not giving it the proper amount of care and attention. A reputation for caring for its local industries will prove a greater attraction for new industries than a well filled local industry graveyard. We have in this city the reputation for doing things about right at every stage of the city's development, but a glance over the past, with a number of other projects quietly planned for the lack of nourishment during their brief life, does not lead anyone to point with pride to that record. Twin Falls needs the success of every manufacturing plant within its boundaries far more than it needs a new sucker to furnish fresh capital, and a little later a fresh grave in the defunct industry graveyard.

yard. Jan't it time to face facts and get together for the greater good of Twin Falls present industries. That create a little effervescent enthusiasm for a new one while perhaps the older one is quietly making its last kick before going under. Let's get together to support what we now have and get the ball. It will come easier to care for the new ones once the ball is firmly fixed.

TRUST BILLS AND PROSPERITY.

The idea that business would revive and the country enjoy an era of representative prosperity if the president and congress would only "leave business alone has been expressed frequently of late in the New York journals. A particularly hot fire of such criticism has been directed at the three bills embodying the Administration's anti-trust program which passed the house last week. These bills are part of the "New Freedom" that is supposed to release business from the strangling hold of trust and railroad control. But when we turn to the organs which profess to speak for the business interests of the country, we find that many of them advise Congress to straddle the bills till after election, because their effect would be more damaging than helpful. Nor is the same thought, we are told, entirely absent from the hearts of many of the Congressmen who voted for the three bills in their present form. At least the New York Sun's Washington correspondent declares unambiguously that "a majority of the Democrats who voted for the bills in the House are hopeful that the program will be adjourned in the Senate until after the November elections," because "they fear that the anti-trust program is loaded with political dynamite. Accordingly to the same correspondent, while Democratic leaders in Washington still maintain that the bills as they passed the House would help business, Republican leaders insist that they would ruin business, and Progressive leaders say that they would not affect business one way or another. This Representative Carlin (Dem.) of Virginia, is quoted as saying: "The bills if entered into law, will bring relief to the business of the country and will hasten and accentuate prosperity." On the other hand, Representative Mann, of Illinois, the Republican leader of the House, is no less emphatic in his assertion that "the Clayton bill is dangerous, and if enacted into law will prove disastrous to business generally." Representative Murdock (Prog.) of Kansas, thinks that these bills "will not solve the problem at which they are directed," but that "they will hasten the problem out of its rut and will force Congress to move on to the true solution."

TO YOU!

From the wishes of an old friend of yours, I send you this thought: Man works in order that he may have the necessities and as many of the luxuries of life as possible. Generally speaking, he works hard for his money. But he is by nature inconsistent. Only the exceptional man or woman is a thoughtful careful buyer.

"A dollar saved is a dollar earned," and there is certainly no easier method known at this time. Why some people will continue to throw away hard earned money in this manner is hard to understand. A little fore-thought, a little planning, careful perusal of the little booklet which we entrust to you; under consideration, the writing of a short letter or a still shorter phone call and you've earned one dollar or five, depending on the size of your order. Have you ever earned money more easily?

Take the little booklet and sit down to your table. Compare the prices quoted therein with what you have been paying your local dealer. See the difference? Ten to thirty per cent saved for other use, isn't there? There never was anything gained by putting a good thing off, so make out your order and send it in TONIGHT. We'll give you the best service you ever received in your life and the difference in your Grocery bills will make you glad we wrote you. "Do It Now" means a big saving to you.

It is unnecessary to add that all goods are guaranteed. ABSOLUTELY. Satisfied you must be before we will consider this transaction closed.

Sincerely,

Kinney Wholesale Grocery Co.

Models 25 and 37 have one hundred fifty dollars more value at one hundred dollars less price. Model 26 is four hundred dollars better car at three hundred fifty dollars less price.

the problem out of its rut and will force Congress to move on to the true solution."

The three measures in which the House has sought to give effect to the Administration's anti-trust program are: the Clayton Trade Commission bill, which creates a commission with broad investigatory powers over all corporations engaged in interstate trade; the Rayburn Railway Capitalization bill, which empowers the Interstate Commerce Commission to supervise the issuance of stocks and bonds by interstate railways; and the Clayton Omnibus bill, designed to supplement and strengthen the Sherman Antitrust Law. Although all these bills have their merits, the one which arouses the most opposition, especially in the Washington, D. C. circles, is the Washington, Herald (Herald) anti-trust bill, which is endorsed by the conservative business men of the country. The Syracuse Post-Standard (Prog) also thinks that, with certain amendments which the Senate is expected to add, this bill "will be a helpful measure to all legitimate business."

And Senator Francis Newlands (Dem.) of Nevada, says in his defense, according to the Washington correspondent of the conservative New York Times:

"The fear that has been expressed that this bill will inaugurate a wholesale liquidation of the 25,000 corporations of the country is groundless. Power to investigate is given with reference to such corporations as the Commission may designate. This power is substantially the same as is now possessed by the Bureau of Corporations, and certainly the powers of that bureau have not been exercised in such a way as to annoy the honest business of the country. Reports are required only from such corporations or classes of corporations as the Commission may designate. The range of this requirement will be comparatively narrow."

A directly opposite opinion of this bill, however, is expressed by Senator Henry P. Lippitt (Rep.) of Rhode Island, who is quoted in the same paper as saying:

"The Trade Commission is not designed to aid business in any way, and has no constructive powers at all. It is merely an investigatory and punitive national detective agency, with a power to conduct Paul Pry investigations into business, large and small, of such a character that if not actually violating the fourth amendment to the Constitution protecting people against unreasonable searches and seizure of private papers, comes as near to it as possible."

To discover the one really person

It puts 999 innocent ones under intolerable suspicion and to unjustifiable trouble and expense. It has been estimated that, in addition to the cost of the Commission itself, it will cost the 100,000 business concerns it affects $20,000,000 annually to respond to its demands, which in the end must be paid by the consumer of their products, and all this merely to accomplish a result that is now the duty of the Attorney-General.

"Under a partisan and ambitious Administration it can be made the most despotic party agency any country has ever had."

"No present, important conditions call for or justify the creation of such a body. All that is necessary to run the Government can readily be done through existing agencies with much less expense and friction." Literary Digest.

TALKS ON THRIFT.

No. 18—Thrift Instruction.

"The youth who is perpetually borrowing will come to be known as one who never saves, and he will never save, can never hope to be rich."—Dr. George C. Loring.

It seems strange that Abraham Lincoln's advice to "keep economy, one of the first and highest virtues" is, after half a century, only beginning to be followed by educators.

In Massachusetts, New York and Minnesota there are laws which make it optional but not compulsory to teach thrift in the public schools. The school savings banks are making some headway in various parts of the country, but take it by and large, it is a lamentable fact that little is being done in the public schools of the country to give the children a grounding in the essentials of thrift.

Such is being said about agricultural and other vocational education, about manual training and domestic science in the public schools, but there is no well defined plan for adding thrift training to the school curriculum.

If it is worth while to teach the farmer to erect more than the soil, it is not worth while to show him how to administer to better advantage his newly created wealth?

A school superintendent in a large city when asked what was being done in the public schools under his supervision to systematically inculcate the thrift idea, replied, "Absolutely nothing." A member of the school board in the same city asked whether he did not think thrift training should have a prominent part in our educational system, replied, "But as a matter for the home."

"And yet if we look about us, we see the heads of homes themselves setting appalling examples of riotous extravagance.

Children of schools study mathematics; why not give them practical examples of the wonders of compound interest to work out?

They have "Emerson Days," and "Stevenson Days," and all kinds of days which are observed by realistic selections from the various authors whose work they commendate; why not have a "Thrift Day" once in a while?

The majority of the public schools being turned out of the various countries are actually lacking in knowledge of finance, even that rudimentary part of it dealing with the importance of regular saving. It would shorten the road to success for most of them if "Thrift" were taken from its obscurity and made a vital theme in our educational system, as has already been done in some European countries."

WORK BEING HELD UP

Supreme Court Decision Annulled by Power Interests

Until the state supreme court hands down its decision in the case now pending, the Idaho Power & Light company versus the public utility commission, upholding the authority of the commission to determine whether competition is justifiable between electric plants in the same field, or denying that authority, three large electric companies in Idaho will pause in their work of extending their lines, and the commission will give its attention to other problems. Next month that opinion will doubtless have been written, and the commission will then have to pass upon several applications by the companies for permission to enter competition in the same field.

Because of the case now in the supreme court, hearings on the applications of these companies have been postponed until the latter part of July. They have already asked for certificates of convenience and necessity, which means complete permission of the commission to compete with established companies.

The Clear Lake Power & Improvement company is now seeking to enter the field and Twin Falls holds hearings on its application will be held at these points at the same time as those of the other company. The Clear Lake company is not a party to any former litigation, and has not heretofore sought to enter that field. A third company, desiring to enter at Pocatello in as a competitor, will present its claims to the commission at Pocatello on July 31, at 10 a. m. This company has disputed the right of the commission to govern rates and competition, and is largely interested in the pending supreme court case—Capital News.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC WINS SUIT

Rich Oil Lands Title Confirmed to Railroad in California

WASHINGTON—Title to transcontinental railroad lands to be owned by the Southern Pacific for $1,000,000 worth of petroleum land, as against other private claimants—was upheld Monday by the supreme court in a two-act suit brought by Edmund Burke of California against the Southern Pacific. The railroad company, which had been sued by the plaintiff, for the court, stated that although the government's right to attach the railroad's title for fraud or error had expired in 1907 or 1908, it was made plain, however, that the rights of the government were not involved in the case before the court, and that the plaintiff's action was barred by the statute of limitations of the "seventy suit" brought by the government against the Southern Pacific to reclaim the lands after the decision stated they would continue to preclude the suit.

Since the government began to grant lands to transcontinental railroads in 1862, every patent issued to the roads has contained a reservation or exception, by the effect that lands in the patent should not pass to the railroad. Such a reservation was contained in the patents issued to the Southern Pacific for California lands in 1862. The plaintiff had been granted such lands with a reservation of oil wells. Burke claimed the land did not pass to the railroad and sought to enter its mineral lands. The court held that the land office officials could not perform their duty unless upon them by contract of not parting mineral lands. It solely by the reservation or exception. It held the officials were bound to determine whether the lands were mineral lands. The plaintiff's action was barred by fraud or error.

Judge Vandewater stated that the plaintiff's action was barred by the statute of limitations of the "seventy suit" brought by the government against the Southern Pacific to reclaim the lands after the decision stated they would continue to preclude the suit.

The government issued a patent to the Southern Pacific in all of its contracts in 1862. Each patent contained an affidavit that the lands were not mineral. Therefore, it is held, the plaintiff has the right to make the title to the lands. Each patent contained an affidavit that the lands were not mineral. Therefore, it is held, the plaintiff has the right to make the title to the lands.
