NEW SCHEME FOR REVENUE

Large Number of Luxuries Hit By Emergency Measure.

Part of House Democrats Agree On New War Revenue Bill Which Will Oversee Deficit.

WASHINGTON - Abandoning the proposed tax on freight transportation, the Democrats of the House today voted to a new revenue measure which will include the Spanish stamp tax on commercial and bank papers, the Spanish war taxes on bankers, brokers, theaters and other amusements, and a tax of two cents on gallons of gasoline, a special tax on tobacco manufacturers and dealers, and a tax on the sale of automobiles.

The committee also has resolution of draft a bill along these lines, President Wilson having approved the plan at a conference with Majority Leader Underwood and Senator Simmons last Tuesday. The committee was also given authority to revise the details of the Spanish war tax in its report.

When the caucus met the caucus, which was more generally attended than any Democratic caucus since the passage of the present revenue bill, the speaker, Mr. Underwood, announced that the subject of the bill was to be taken up at the next meeting of the committee.

When the caucus met Representative Pace, of North Carolina, opened the attack on the proposed freight tax and an increased tax of 50 cents a barrel, $2,500,000; gasoline, $1,000,000; wine at 12 cents a gallon and wheat, wine at 20 cents a gallon.

RE-ELECT-DAY CHAIRMAN

Split of Confidence and Atmosphere of Unity Permeates Meeting.

By acclamation the Republican state central committee re-elected George A. Day, state chairman, when it met Tuesday afternoon. A spirit of confidence and a marked demonstration of unity prevailed the entire session.

Not a contest marred the harmony of the meeting. In the report of the retiring secretary Treasurer indicated that the party will start the coming campaign with a better standing in Idaho than in any other year.

In accepting his re-election Mr. Day after expressing his gratitude at the confidence shown in him by the committee, expressed his confidence in the situation from every stand point.

GERMANS MAKE STADIUM MIGHTY CONFLICT RAGING ALONG ADVANTAGEOUS

Ground Now Occupied by Germans

Conflicting Claims of Victory in Prussia Still Made by Both Sides. England Landing Indian Troops in France For Its Defence.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 17, 1914.—Gen. von Hindenburg, who has been commanding the German divisions in central Prussia, has been transferred to the western front of operations against the Allies.

Germany has nearly a million men concentrated in central Prussia. Russian troops on the other side are in the city of Vienna. Rome dispatch via Vienna announces the call of Austria's reservists on mass is expected at any time.

Rome dispatch says British officials admit evacuation of France. According to New York, pilot boat captain, British cruiser Lancaster sank the North German liner Kronprinz Wilhelm at sea.

During forenoon Germans and allies ferociously fighting around. Alone with French on the defensive. Later reports from Paris say German divisions in the west.

PARIS, Sept. 16.—The rear guard on the western front of the German army is being forced back steadily before the attack of the Allies.

The Germans are fighting actively on the defensive, battling ferociously to check the advance of the Allies.

German Counter Attack. For the Allies the situation continues favorable. The Germans have delivered several counter attacks and have been repulsed.

The British first corps under Lieutenant General Sir Douglas Haig, the center of the allied line of attack north of the Aisne and the brunt of the German attack.

The British center captured 200 prisoners during the day. Many detached troops of the invaders have been killed.

doned to be taken as prisoners by the allies and numerous groups of stragglers hidden in forests have been taken into camp as prisoners, a condition which they welcome, owing to their exhausted and hungry state.

The Line of Battle. From Noyon, the line of battle, which for twelve days has not lost its close and constant contact with the Germans and has done brilliant work in driving them back.

The fact that the line of battle within a short distance of Paris passed almost unscathed at the French capital. The trains filled with prisoners of war are being sent to the railroads to provincial centers.

Force Fought on Germans. About this whole front the fighting has been forced upon the Germans principally because of the resistance offered by the fortress at Troyes.

The progress of the battle of the Aisne, realization of the effect of the German retreat across the Meuse.

The German line, consisting ordinarily of general von Klueber's army and that of General von Hindenburg, has been reinforced by practically all the rest of the German army.

NEW PROBLEM POTATOES

Government Ruling Causes Some Anxiety

PURE FOOD LAW MAY HURT PRESENT SHIPPING

Net Weight of Potatoes Must be Plainly Marked on Each Sack to Comply With Law.

The potato growers and shippers are in a quandary over an entirely new act, which will require that the net weight of the potatoes on each sack be plainly marked on each sack to comply with the law.

Another question arises, as to who the buyers will purchase potatoes at the net weight of the potatoes, or at the gross weight of the potatoes.

The ruling which is said to apply to potatoes is that the net weight of the potatoes must be plainly marked on each sack.

Reference to the State's tabulation shows McCracken's vote 10,303 less than that of Haines, who had 21,500 votes.

The protest made by the Belgians against the alleged brutality of the German soldiers to the non-combatants backed up by facts show an awful condition in a supposedly neutral country and seem almost inconceivable on the part of civilized nations. President Wilson in advising the complaints and providing careful and to some extent this nation in any course and with his usual discrimination attempted to get at the full facts from both sides of the case. The many attempts made to drag this country into the fight and out of her neutral position have so far been blocked by the action of the president and he should be given credit by all citizens irrespective of party affiliations for the course pursued not only in the present trouble but in the Mexican war.

The voters of the Republican party should get together before voting for candidates on the ticket and give each one a vote. There is not a single man on the ticket that does not have a heavy weight and heavy shoulders. The voters should be careful to select the right man. It is encouraging to see the full volume of citizenship represented on the ticket and the fact that the voters are making the primary task to pick out the right man. PAYING THE FIDDLER

WE ALL realize that when there is dancing going on, whether it be the new-fangled dances or the old-fashioned polka or waltz—some one must pay the fiddler. We cannot have music without paying for it, nor can we have much of anything in this world without paying for it. If we expect any person to do something for us, we expect, naturally, to do something in exchange for such favors as we receive. If we accept favors, but evade the responsibility of making any return for them it will not be long before we discover that the upshot for favors become curtailed. Probably we become provoked, after the favors have stopped, and acknowledge our own stupidity. It is generally too late when we wake up and then it is merely the old story over again—locking the door after the horse has been stolen. Many of us in this community derive more or less of our time to the raising of produce of various kinds. We have vegetables, butter, eggs, milk, etc., to sell. We find it a convenience to sell such products in the local stores. Some of our business men buy up the small quantities, as well as the larger lot, and ship all together to the more central markets. This facility for disposing of such articles is a great convenience to us. If the local storekeepers did not buy our produce it would be difficult for us to find a market. In fact, there would be no market for small quantities except at ruinous prices. Therefore we are favored, to a very considerable extent, by the fact that our own storekeeper stands ready to buy from us. This does us under certain obligations. The local storekeepers are entitled to no consideration on our part in return. HOW MANY OF US APPRECIATE AND ACKNOWLEDGE THIS FACT? How many of us think of this when we have some cash to spend? How many of us consider that the local storekeeper is entitled to our trade and that we are morally bound to consider him as the proper repository for our orders and the recipient of our trade? It is regrettable that many of us must plead guilty to an entire forgetfulness of any feeling of obligation. Therefore, we send our orders, with the cash, to the mail order houses, to whom we owe nothing. We are annoyed by cleverly written advertisements and neatly worded descriptions of goods and merchandise so that they are carried into our living room to be true. We forget the local storekeeper and his favors; we forget that he is a benefit to the community and to every individual in the community; we forget that he is offering us an opportunity to dispose of our produce—that he has his money invested in a stock of merchandise that he has selected because he believed we would need such articles and would wish to buy them in this town. Every dollar we send away from home to the mail order houses brings us closer to the limitations of our local opportunities. Every dollar diverted from local trade adds to the restrictions of our trade facilities at home so that we are not only paying, but we are inviting, our local merchants to close up shop and go out of business; or to move to some community where their efforts will be more appreciated. By our lack of appreciation we are urging our local storekeepers to restrict their efforts to carrying only the lines of merchandise that are most profitable for them and to cut out all goods that we can buy in the city. We are actually inviting disaster. LET US AWAKEN TO A REALIZATION OF THE CONDITIONS WHICH COMPEL US TO PLACE SOME LIMITATIONS ON OUR DISREGARD FOR EXISTING CONDITIONS AND LOOK INTO THE FUTURE. We can see what the consequences may be if we fail to do our share toward supporting the establishments of our business men in town, for the handwriting is written plainly on the wall. Should we end the writing and profits for the mistakes or shall we continue. Since money will readily and openly until the time shall come when we must pay? And how shall we pay? There will be only one way to pay and that will be with much more than the profit we shall have derived from our dealings with the mail order houses. WE WILL PAY DEARLY FOR OUR AWARENESS TO A FULL SENSE OF OUR OBLIGATION AND OBTAIN SUCH AS WE CAN.

We wish to dance, but let us change the tune—or the fiddler. community, and has always held every position of honor and trust that he could hold. He is an excellent person and don't think you have his superior in your county or in your neighborhood. Mr. Helms has made good here and as a husband and tax-payer of our country, I hope that your people will consider efficiency and ability above their party affiliations and elect him by a nice vote, for he can do the best and do it right. Yours very truly, A. M. THELMAN.

INCOME TAX RESULTS

Results of the first year's operation of the individual income tax show a wide gap between expectation and fulfillment. On the smaller classes of incomes, the tax comes rather early estimates than on the larger. In fact, the degree to which estimates have been falsified by facts increases as income goes higher. On incomes under $20,000 the yield was $12,725,000, as against an estimate of a little more than $13,000,000. Income between $20,000 and $50,000 yielded $25,371,574, estimated $24,000,000. Income between $50,000 and $100,000 yielded $29,909,999, estimated $31,000,000. Income between $100,000 and $250,000 yielded $23,242,815, estimated $23,000,000. The Federal revenue bureau estimates a total of $72,269,274 for what it calls income tax for 1913-14, estimated June 29, but that includes under this head the corporation income tax of $16,894,077, corporation income tax of $12,556,692 and individual income tax of $42,822,504. After due allowance for the fact that the report is for only ten months, the results have still fallen far short of expectations.

The disappointment is apparently the grave error in estimating the tax on individual income particularly as it is levied on incomes between $100,000 and $250,000. It is not surprising, therefore, exempt from personal tax by levying a flat tax of 1 per cent on corporate profits, unless has exempted nearly all of the very individual incomes which it sought to reach with the graduated income tax. It is to follow out the principle underlying every income tax it will need to find some means of applying the graduated tax to corporate incomes. Naturally the financial center, says of the Oregonian, are raising the cry of meaning for the Commission "that a new revolution in Ecuador or Santo Domingo would have had, and in consequence it calmly handed down an award based on conditions which had already become obsolete." We read further that "the decision of August 1 was made by deaf, dumb, and blind men, locked up, in a bomb-proof, and that "the Commission should be glad of an opportunity to blot its memory from the record." More transit to the Newark (N. J.) News, which believes it is "self-sufficient" that the rate case should be reopened "on account of conditions in trade caused by the war." If the roads can make a reasonable case, it adds, they are entitled to prompt relief. Per contra, if the predicted American industrial expansion comes because of the war, they may expect to face a readjustment equally correspondent." The decision of August 1st will be remembered to the rate increase, with qualifications, to those operating west of Pittsburg and Buffalo to Chicago; but not to those east of Pittsburg and Buffalo to the westward. The Wall Street Journal thinks that "it would be to the Commission's disadvantage to harm to reopen the case and to modify the decision to the extent of granting it, once, by way of a small general increase in rates, the relief that the Commission itself concedes they have needed for several years and obviously must need now more than ever. If it should later develop that, by reason of both the rate increase and the adoption of the other remedies suggested by the Commission, the railroads were obtaining too much, the Commission has always the power to reduce rates, with or without formal complaint from shippers." That the railroads themselves have no intention of applying for a rehearing of the freight rate case is the statement of The Wall Street Journal. It finds confirmation of its belief in the fact that all the eastern trunk lines, following the Pennsylvania's example, are to file new tariffs for increased passenger rates. This is done to follow out the instructions of the Commission that each class of traffic should bear its share of the general operating expense. At the same time this demand for the blunder of the Interstate Commerce Commission in deferring the Eastern freight rate case, the New York Globe remarks rather archly, becomes "more or less applicable to that body, and this journal considers as "cheering" the report from Washington, that the ruling is to be recalled and reversed. The great event of war's outbreak in Europe continues "the Globe, had no more

GO SLOW IN DIGGING SPUDS

Will Be No Material Increase in Price Crop Over Last Season.

For some time there has been a rumor to the effect that the potato crop for this season would not reach the record of last season, and Salt Lake papers have given much currency to this rumor. The report was referred to S. J. Donaldson, president of the Idaho Producers association, and he states that while there will be some increase in the crop over last year, that it will not be heavy material. He advises, however, that the farmers not dig the crops until the tubers are thoroughly matured, as it will have a disastrous effect on the market. In regard to the situation this season, Mr. Donaldson said to the Tribune: "During the past growing season there has been varied and some of them extravagant estimates of potatoes to ship to us for this state this season. This office has never before higher than one thousand cars increase over last year, and for the past six weeks, has not been expecting any increase in tonnage over that shipped last year. "There is a slight increase of acreage, especially in the Twin Falls country and in the Mindoka project, also in the western part of the state, but the frosts of June 20th and 21st did considerable damage in some parts of the state. "In few places is the yield better than last season, and in many not so good considering the acreage. "The government experts, while here found considerable damage, especially north of Poastello, caused from rust, blight and other diseases. Many fields north of here, while showing fine growth, have not yielded more than 50 per cent of a normal crop, and in many places it is hard to determine just the cause for this shortage. "In the Mountainhome, Wendell and Jerome districts, canals, breaks occurred. A fine time which has very materially injured the quality of the crops. "About Welser the late frost entirely ruined some of the fields. "Considerable frost damage was also sustained around Morthwaugh. Perhaps the greatest injury to Idaho potato growers is the fact that quite a number of growers are shipping young stock, which has cut down the reputation and price of Idaho potatoes very materially. "It has been observed that a great many cars were shipped, which were so immature that they will arrive in bad condition and prejudice the inland consumer and southern buyers against the quality of Idaho potatoes. "This association is endeavoring to keep the growers from digging until the stock is entirely matured. "The market is strong. This week at St. C. O. here, but would be just as strong at $1.00 were it not for the weight of those who ship young stock. In fact, this condition has affected Oklahoma and Texas, our principal markets, to such an extent that most of our shipments are being diverted elsewhere. "Our only competition so far is from Idaho potatoes. "The crop supply has been very good and no trouble is anticipated in meeting the crop at Poastello Tribune.

constitution submitting this question to the electors.

Section 1, article 1, of the constitution of the state of Idaho be so amended as to provide that the terms of office of all officers of the executive department shall be four years from the first day of January next after their election. Section 7, article 5 of the constitution is proposed to be amended regarding the state superintendent of public instruction so a member of the land board. The board is now composed of the governor, secretary of state, auditor, treasurer, commissioner and the state superintendent. The question to be submitted to the voters is: "Shall section 7, article 9, of the constitution of the state of Idaho, be amended as to remove the superintendent of public instruction from membership of the state board of land commissioners. Section 6, article 5 of the constitution, is proposed for amendment to increase the membership of the supreme bench. This amendment is self-executing and immediately after canvassing the returns and certifying of the result of the election upon this amendment the governor is empowered to appoint two justices of the "supreme court to hold office until the general election of 1916 and until their successors are elected and qualified. The question to be submitted is: "Shall section 6, article 5, of the constitution of the state of Idaho, be amended so as to increase the supreme court to five justices in place of three. "That there will be considered, opposition to the amendment to increase the term of elective officials from two to four years and the membership of the supreme court from three to five justices is generally expressed.

PREPARATION FOR ENSILAGE

Best Time to Cut and Prepare the Winter Feed.

H. W. Hochbaum. The question of the proper time to cut corn for silage is now before the dairymen and stockmen. Most farmers cut corn for silage when still in green. Under ordinary conditions the best time to cut corn for silage is when the ears are well dentured, and when the kernels are firm and solid, but not dry and hard, and when the husks are getting brown, even though the lower leaves are commencing to wither. This sort of silage does not have the feeding value that is made from more mature corn. Ten acres of corn cut at the right time will have the feeding value of 12 acres cut when too green. On the other hand, corn may be cut when it is too dry to make the best silage, especially when the proportion of the stalk has been delayed. Corn cut at the proper time need not be matted when put in the silo. However, when circumstances have delayed the cutting of the crop, water may be added to make up for what has been lost by the corn standing too long before being cut. This water should be added to the silage when it is first put in the silo. This water should not be added after the silage has been cut, or to let it drain into the silo. This is the most important step in the work of filling the silo, and, if neglected, trouble is sure to arise. Through packing makes possible the most economical use of the silo. If silage is cut for thorough packing, air will enter and decompose the silage. The farmer who has had experience in filling silos, always treats corn silage in this way. If only two men are kept in the silo while the cutter is going to park, the silage, sometimes, especially in the larger silos, three or four men are employed to distribute and park the cut corn.

LAST TRAIN TO PARK

Season Will Close on the Twentieth of the Month.

The last Yellowstone park train for this season will leave Poastello on the night of September 26th, and will return on the morning of the 27th. This train will bring the remainder of the tourists out of the park, as well as the help at the hotels, though a small number will remain to close up the property for the coming winter. The last stage out of the park will leave Poastello on the night of the 26th, and will require a week to cross through the mountains. The last excursion will come out on the 24th. Park travel this year has not been up to normal and railroad officials state that, while it started off in good shape, for various reasons it diminished during the past month. The work train will continue to make the park until snow falls on the 27th. The fishing and hunting in the inland park section can still be accommodated on the west-Poastello Tribune.

AMENDMENTS TO CONSTITUTION

It is Probable That all Three of Them Will Fall to Carry. Secretary of State Clifford is preparing to verify down to the shoulders of the state the three constitutional amendments that are to be voted upon at the next general election. The amendments are important, and at least one is claimed will receive serious opposition. Clifford stated these amendments provide for extending the terms of elective officials from two to four years, to increase the supreme court membership from three to five members and to remove the state superintendent of public instruction as a member of the state land board. The elective state officials are: governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney general, superintendent of public instruction and inspectors of mines. The constitutional amendment proposed and to be voted upon seeks to amend section 1 of article 4 of the

MALINES FIGHT IS DESCRIBED BY EYE WITNESS

American Correspondent Tells of the Horrors of That Fierce Battle in Belgium.

HUNDRED THOUSAND ENGAGED

Bloody Struggle for Possession of Railway Embankment, Germans
 Finally Winning by Force of Numbers—Retreat of the Belgians to Antwerp.

Chicago.—The Tribune prints the following cablegram from E. Alexander Powell, dated Antwerp, Aug. 21:

The belated legions of the Kaiser, driven out of Malines on Tuesday, were reinforced yesterday and before their overwhelming onset the Belgians suddenly gave way and retreated with chaos on shoulders.

Retreat of the Belgians Described.
 The retreat from Malines was a horrible forgotten sight. For 50 miles every road was littered with clattering cavalry, plodding infantry and rumbling guns, their caissons covered with green boughs to mask their position.

Geriatrics with giant box stoves, choppers in green coats, carabinieri in leather hats, machine guns drawn by dogs; ambulances with red cross flags; and cars, cars, cars—all the dear old familiar American makes among them—contributed to the mighty Malines river flowing Antwerpward.

Malines has a population of 50,000, and 40,000 fled when they heard the Germans were returning. Sightings along the road were pathetic beyond description. Children and aged, rich and poor, lame and blind, with their few poor belongings on their backs or piled in pushcarts, clogged roads and impeded the soldier.

These people were abandoning all they had to die to pillage and destruction. They were completely terrorized by the Germans. Not the Belgian army but it is victorious in retreat.

Belgians Take Offensive.
 On Tuesday the Belgians, believing the German communications to be poorly guarded and the German garrison in Brussels too weak to assist them, finally sallied from the shelter of the Antwerp defenses, and took an offensive like a torrier striking a bulldog.

They drove the Germans from Malines, but the Germans brought up a fresh army corps and yesterday morning the Belgians found themselves in a perilous position. The battle hinged on the possession of the embankment and was fought along a ten-mile front.

Belgians With Artillery Duel.
 The battle began at dawn with an artillery duel across the embankment. By noon the embankment was terrific. The Germans got the range and a hail of shrapnel hurtled about the Belgian batteries, which limbered up and retired at a trot in perfect order.

I could see dark blue masses of Belgian infantry falling back, cool as in a winter's campaign. Through a mist of take two battalions of carabinieri did not receive the order to retire and were in imminent danger of destruction.

To reach them a messenger would have had to traverse a rail of open road swept by shrieking shrapnel. A colonel summoned a gendarme and gave him the orders and he set spurs to his horse and "tore" down "the road" in a heroic figure in towering bearskin.

Blitz Beasts the Troops.
 It was a ride into the jaws of death. He saved his troops, but as they fell back the German snipers got the range and dropped shell upon shell into the running column. Road and field were dotted with corpses to Belgian blue.

Several times the Germans attempted to carry the embankment with bayonets; but the Belgians met them with blasts of lead which shattered the gray columns like autumn leaves.

At noon the Belgians and Germans were in places only 50 yards apart, and the rattle of musketry sounded like a boy drawing a stick along the palings of a picket fence.

Zeppelin Hovers Overhead.
 During the height of the battle a Zeppelin slowly circled over the field like a great vulture awaiting a feast. By four o'clock all the Belgian troops were withdrawn except a thin screen to cover the retreat.

I was anxious to witness the German advance and remained on the railway embankment on the outskirts of Sompet after all the Belgians had withdrawn except a picket of ten men. I had my car waiting with the motor running.

The Germans pressed their advance with a furious fire. The air was filled with whining shrapnel; farmhouses collapsed amid puffs of brown smoke. The sky was speckled in a dozen places.

Suddenly an soldier crouching beside me cried, "Les Allemands." From a screen of woods along the embankment burst a long line of gray figures hoarsely cheering. At the same moment I heard a splutter of shots in the distance. I saw a puff of smoke in the air and my chauffer screamed "Hurry for your life, monsieur, the tanks are upon us."

I think I broke the world's record for speed in getting to my car. As we shot down the road which leads to the Antwerp, at 60 miles an hour, the vehicles centered into the village, the sun striking on their lance tips. Carpeted With German Corpses.

 The railway embankment from which I viewed the battle was fairly carpeted with corpses of German infantrymen killed the day before. I saw peasants throw 12 into one grave. I saw evidence of German atrocities myself, for at a hamlet near Sompet I helped bury an aged farmer and his son, inflexible peasants, executed by Germans because a Belgian soldier shot a Uhlan in front of their farm house. The corpses were utterly bare.

The famous cathedral in Malines was struck nine times. Its ancient tower, 335 feet high, made it a special mark. A portion of the great clock, the largest in Belgium, was smashed, and five shells fell through the roof, straining the chancel with debris so woefully was no longer possible. The tower-hall was badly damaged.

In the square in which the cathedral stands every window pane was smashed by the concussion of shells. Two shells burst on the glass roof of the railway station. Scores of houses are roofless. Whenever shells burst the glass of windows in houses surrounding has been shaken into fragments. The streets are strewn with ground and splintered glass.

The death toll is not high, however. Soon after the bombardment a Belgian man and his wife were killed in their bed, by a shell which struck the roof.

SLAIN FOR THEIR TREACHERY

French Explanation of the Wiping Out of an Entire Company of German Infantry.

Paris.—Among the prisoners who have just died in a hospital at Troyes, department of Aube, says the Petit Troyen, was a lieutenant of the One Hundred and Thirty-third German Infantry, whose company had sustained severe losses at the hands of French troops and had been ordered to surrender.

When the French soldiers approached to disarm the Germans, the latter separated to let through their ranks machine guns which had been hidden behind and which poured a murderous fire into the ranks of the advancing Frenchmen.

Exasperated by this treachery, says the paper, the French troops charged furiously with fixed bayonets and exterminated the German soldier.

Daily Thought.

"Patience, and have faith and thy prayer will be answered."

Longfellow.

As Poor Richard Says.

A penny saved is two pence clear, a pin a day is a great year. Save and have.
